THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 1, 1903. NO. 1

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

KEPT SANTA CLAUS BUSY

Had to Visit a Host of Christmas Festivals of Local Sunday-Schools.

THE CANTATAS GIVEN

Music and Recitations Were the Principal Features of the Entertainments—Gifts for the Young Folks—Jolly Old Christmas Saint Was Right on Hand.

Santa Claus made a lot of visits in Plainfield last Tuesday. Although the sleighing wasn't observable to the naked eye, his famous team went spinning all over the city and borough and reports of his appearance come from all quarters. Many of the local Sunday-schools held their Christmas festivals and the jolly old saint appeared at them all and left behind no end of gifts for old and young. With the weather clear and mild, the attendance was unusually large.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

At the First M. E. church the Christmas entertainment last Tuesday consisted of a programme, "The Christ Child in Art, Story and Song," arranged and compiled by Mari Rueff Hofer. While the story of the Saviour's birth and early life was read by James R. Joy, a chorus choir composed of twenty-five children sang carols, appropriate to pictures displayed upon a screen.

The chorus was trained and in charge of Miss Helen Shupp while the stereopticon was manipulated by Carlos E. Vail. Following the rendition the usual distribution of toys and games to the pupils was made.

The primary department had its festival in the afternoon, the programme being limited to carol singing and the distribution of gifts by Harold Fenno attired as Santa Claus.

THE FRIENDS.

The First-day school at the Friends meeting house enjoyed its Christmas festival last Tuesday, when the children presented a programme of recitations. Superintendent Edward Hutchinson was in charge and he opened the programme with Scripture reading.

Recitations were given as follows: "Tim's Christmas Dreams," Clifford Vail; "The Christmas Day Song," school; "Santa Claus Coming Down the Chimney," Miss Mildred Poole; "The Turkey," Halbert C. Hutchinson; "Santa Claus' Mistake," Miss Edith Ogden; "Christmas," Theo. Vail; "Christmas Night," Miss Bessie Vail; "The Girls That are Wanted," Miss Anna Lewis; "What the Toys Said," Roy Vail; "Christmas in Them Times," Harry Adams; "A Song Way up North," Russell Vail; "A Christmas Thought," Weston Gavett; "The Doll's Mission," Miss Ruth Stryker; "The Christian and His Echo," school.

The programme closed with a few remarks by W. D. Williams, after which all adjourned to the upper room, where ice cream and cake were served. Afterward the members of the school received gifts.

FIRST BAPTIST (INTER.)

Under the direction of Miss Edith Cairns, superintendent, the intermediate department of the First Baptist church Sunday-school held a Christmastide reception Tuesday afternoon for the parents and friends.

The programme opened with the singing of a Christmas carol, followed with a violin solo by Cory Adams. A recitation by Miss Minnie Devlin preceded a piano solo by Miss Marguerite Lee, after which Miss Beulah Van Winkle gave a recitation. A piano and violin duet by Miss Fanny Devlin and Willie Hyle was an enjoyable number. Following recitations by Miss Helen Pearce and Miss Marian Hall and a piano solo by Miss Fanny Devlin the reception to the parents and friends was held. During this social hour, ice cream and cake were served to all present.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

One of the most elaborate Christmas entertainments given this year was that of last Tuesday at the First Presbyterian church. A cantata, entitled "Flower Queen," was rendered. This cantata was composed and arranged by Martin A. Korff, assisted by Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the church, and it received the hearty approval of all. A large platform was erected for the occasion. Assisting in the rendition was an orchestra under the direction of Mr. Korff. The music throughout was catchy and very appropriate. It was the story of the choice of the queen of the flowers by Santa Claus and the trouble he had doing it.

The complete cast for the cantata is as follows:

Santa Claus, Harry Williams; Mrs. Santa Claus, Miss Elizabeth Bittenbender; Lily, Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross; poor girl, Miss Helen George; sunflowers, the Misses Freda Gray, Leah Hammond, Mary Woolston, Emma Line; poppies, the Misses Jessie Hill, Ida Englehardt, Bertha Englehardt, Bertha Townley; chrysanthemums, the Misses Bertha Hill, Katherine Finger, Ethel Boice, Edna Martin; daisies, the Misses Clara Karner, Katherine Miller, Carrie Williams, Bertha Miller; roses, the Misses Sara Woolston, Grace Cranston, Emma Korff, Mary Cain; violets, the Misses Henrietta Englehardt, Hattie Bailey, Edith Schenck, Grace Williams; morning glories, the Misses Winnie Hammond, Marion Englehardt, Leontine Hautsman, Eva Kelley; buttercups, the Misses Bertha Hedden, Mabel Townley, Bernice Mc Clintock; gardeners, Harry Messersmith, Wesley Messersmith, Fred. Lounsbury, Lester Bedford, Edgar George, Jesse Lounsbury, Howard George; gnomes, Willie Geise, Newell Karner, Preston Dunning, Bryon McClintock, David Wagoner, Fred Gray, Stanley Karner, Willett Gano, Leo Leck, Charles Line, Wilbur Dunning, Fred McClintock, Richard Day, Alfred Korff, Alva Dunham, Arthur Dunning; chorus, the Misses Ella Lounsbury, Katherine Lounsbury, Katherine Bittenbender, Beatrice Miner, Mildred Ulrich, Belle Williams. All were in costumes appropriate to the various parts.

The various committees having charge of the affair was divided as follows: Finance—Edgar Williams, chairman. Miss Jennie Abbott, Miss Letitia Remson, Mrs. Russell Bond, Miss Orissie Maig, John S. Johnston; costume—Mrs. Preston Shotwell, chairman; Mrs. M. A. Korff, Miss Julia Williams, Miss VanFleet, Mrs. Edward Burroughs, Miss Helen Burroughs, Miss Ada Abbott, Mrs. Dunning, Mrs. Edgar Williams; decoration — F. O. Dunning, chairman; Charles Hummer, Fred Bettman, A. V. Searing, Jr., Warren Townley, Mr. Allen, Edward Burroughs, Isaac B. Hill; general—Mrs. Harry Williams, Harry Williams, Martin A. Korff, Le-Roy H. Gates, Miss Charlotte Conger and Miss Charlotte Dey.

Following the entertainment the Sunday-school adjourned to the chapel where gifts were distributed by the committee. It is likely that the cantata will be repeated within a short time.

During the intermission between part first and second, Edgar Williams presented Mr. Korff with a bouquet of flowers as an evidence of appreciation for his earnest effort.

The primary department of the First Presbyterian church Sunday-school held its Christmas festival in the Sunday school room yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Edgar Williams and other teachers in this department were in charge of the affair.

The first part of the programme consisted of recitations by the Misses Marion Wean, Margaret Ewart, Bessie Karner and Beta T. Bedford. The second part was entitled "Santa Claus' Workshop," and here Santa Claus and his wife, in the persons of Edward Petrie and Miss Flora Petrie, repaired the various dolls sent to them by their owners. Each doll was received with a request for some sort of repairs. Those who represented the dolls were as follows:

Miss Gertrude Abbott, talking doll; Miss Martha Kline, walking doll; Le-Roy Gates, jumping jack; Miss Lucia Wood, Dinah; Paul Hutchinson, Indian; Miss Margaret Abbott, rag doll; Alva Dunham, drummer boy; Miss Grace Townley, paper doll; Miss Marielle Dunham, baby doll. These various dolls caused no end of fun for the children over 60 years old.

After this part of the entertainment Santa Claus distributed gifts among the children.

HOPE CHAPEL.

A cantata, "A Christmas for Santa Claus" was the feature of the Christmas entertainment at Hope chapel, last Tuesday. In addition, recitations were given by the members of the primary department and one by Thomas Cunde, while carols were given by the entire school.

In the cantata, Santa Claus' role was assumed by Edward Young while other characters were interpreted by Harry Stewart, Howard Firstbrook, Mary Alice Duncan, Clinton Firstbrook, Barbara Schlick, Howard Sweeney, Mary Radford, Violet Procuher and Elsie Bimmer. Miss Marie Newman drilled the children for the piece and Miss Grace Hazen supervised the preparation of costumes.

Following the cantata, candy and oranges was distributed to the entire school numbering 600 while dolls and chatterboxes were given the primary department.

The Christmas committee consisted of I. W. Travell, Miss Marie Newman, Miss Grace Hazen, Miss Helen Hall, Edward and John Young, Matthew Sweeney and Noble C. King.

PARK AVE. BAPTIST.

The Christmas entertainment at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last Tuesday consisted of a cantata entitled "Johnnie Doubter." This fellow doubted the existence of Santa Claus, and all the other characters did their best to prove to him that there is a Santa.

Thirty-three teachers and scholars, costumed according to the characters they impersonated, took part as follows:

Santa Claus, Henry L. Hall; Old Mother Goose, Miss Elma Runyon; Old Mother Hubbard, Mrs. Chas. Steiner; Old Woman who lived in the Shoe, Mrs. W. S. Lowry; Little Red Ridinghood, Miss Anna Clark; Little Bo-Peep, Miss Marjorie Brown; Little Boy Blue, Chas. VanWinkle; Little Jack Horner, Joseph M. Hawkins; Little Miss Muffet, Miss G. Elinore Stutsman; Jack and Jill, Percy Hand and Miss Bessie Giles; Mr. Millionaire, G. E. Hall; Bootblack, Martin Stutsman; Little Nobody, Miss Lillian Cuming; Newsboy, Augustus Nash; Fairy, Miss Mabel Stutsman; Teacher, Miss Cora Brokaw; Johnnie Doubter, Herbert Brokaw; Uncle Sam, Will Doane; John Bull, George F. Watts; Germany, Ferd Dorman; Scotland, Chas. F. Dayton; France, Mr. Townley; Ireland, Chas. Thompson; Italy, Harry Thompson; Negro, Raymond Guinne; Chinaman, Aaron D. Thompson, Jr.

Miss Lillian Richardson accompanied the cantata throughout on the piano, and a chorus of young folks sang the choruses, as follows:

Misses Florence Smalley, Mildred Odam, Autumn DeLaney, Lillian Cuming, Artine Brown, Susie Whitney, Ethel VanWinkle, Anna Clark, Marjorie Brown, G. Elinore Stutsman, Sadie Hand, Mabel Stutsman, Rose White.

After the entertainment candy was distributed among the school and toys were given to the members of the cradle roll. Superintendent George E. Hall presented to the pastor, Rev. J. W. Richardson, a substantial check, a gift from the Sunday-school.

The committee in charge of the cantata consisted of Mrs. Nelson Runyon, Miss Adelia Runyon, George E. Hall, Joseph M. Hawkins, Mrs. W. S. Lowry, Miss Florence G. Hawkins. Miss Elsie Giles and Miss Lillian Richardson drilled the children's choruses.

HOLY CROSS CHURCH.

Santa Claus paid a flying visit to Holy Cross church last Tuesday on the occasion of the Christmas festival.

At 7:45, there was a children's service, Rev. Father Montgomery Downey officiated. Rev. William Bryce Morrow addressed the school briefly on "The Spirit of Christmas." At the close of the service, the children marched to the Sunday-school room where the tree was.

Set up in front was a large chimney, near which stood a beautifully decorated Christmas tree. Soon sleighbells were heard, and Santa Claus himself, known this morning as William A. Westphal, appeared at the top of the chimney. The good old Saint climbed down, greeted the children and began the distribution of gifts. Each child received a present and a box of candy.

TRINITY REFORMED.

Santa Claus visited in person the Trinity Reformed Sunday-school last Tuesday. The exercises opened in the afternoon when the primary and infant departments held their festival. A punch and judy show given by Wm. H. Olmsted was the main attraction which interested the younger children but the Misses Randall recited as did Edson Day, Ralph Martin and Russell Hoagland. Presents were distributed by the teachers who were Miss Anna Randall, Miss Harriet Randall, Mrs. H. E. Gayle, Miss Mary Brokaw, Miss A. VanCleef, Miss Bessie Leighton, Miss Jennie Pessinger and Miss Minnie Wyman.

The evening exercises began at 8 o'clock and after a few carols Miss Eva Benton, elocutionist, recited very cleverly. She was encored several times. The Misses Harriett, Anna and Bessie Randall rendered a selection accompanied on the piano by Miss Lillian A. Force. Ralph Martin recited and five little children from the infant department sang one of their little songs. Those who took part in the song were: Rosmond

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 5.)

JEPPE SORENSEN HAS BECOME A BENEDICT

Wedded Miss Henrietta Johnson at a Charming Home Wedding Last Tuesday.

AT THE BRIDE'S HOME

CEREMONY WAS PERFORMED BY REV. L. R. HOWARD, OF HOPE CHAPEL.

Those Who Made Up Bridal Party—The Gowns of Bride and Her Attendant—They Will Reside in Plainfield.

Beneath a pretty bower of greens and southern smilax, a holiday wedding took place at the home of Mrs. H. P. Johnson, of East Third street, last Tuesday at 8 o'clock. The contracting parties were the daughter, Miss Henrietta Wagner Johnson, and Jeppe Sorensen, both of this city. Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, was the officiating clergyman, and the ceremony was witnessed by 200 friends.

Miss Johnson was attired in a gown of cream mulle over silk. Miss Christine Sorensen, a sister of the groom, the bridesmaid, was gowned in pale blue silk and carried tea roses. The bride's costume was completed by a tulle veil caught up with narcissus. She held a bouquet of bride roses.

Morris Sorensen, the groom's brother, was best man. The ushers were Chris Sorensen, Jr., of New York; Max and Ingfred Madson, and Berg Johnson, of Perth Amboy. The Lohengrin wedding march was played by Charles Suhr, pianist. The bride was given away by her uncle, Alexander Johnson, of Easton, Pa.

Following the ceremony a collation was served. Then came dancing, Suhr's Imperial orchestra being present. Mr. and Mrs. Sorensen departed on a short wedding trip, destination unknown. On returning they will reside in this city where the groom is proprietor of a meat market.

The young people were well remembered. Besides silverware, furniture and bric-a-brac, the bride received two silver pieces from the employes of the Watchung Silk Company and a complete silver service from the groom's father, which was presented to him at his wedding, forty years ago. The bridemaid received from the bride a pin and the groom's gift to the best man was a gold watch chain.

HOLIDAY CHURCH WEDDING

MARRIAGE OF MISS MARGARET REVILLES AND JOHN HICKEY.

Ceremony Performed at St. Mary's Church Last Tuesday in Presence of Many Friends.

A very pretty wedding as celebrated at St. Mary's church, last Tuesday, when Miss Margaret Revills, of West Third street, and John Hickey, of South Second street, were married by Rev. Father Egan at 7 o'clock. The church was filled with friends of the popular couple.

The bride was gowned in white albatross, trimmed with white lace, and carried white roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss B. Veronica Revilles, who wore a gown of blue albatross, trimmed with white lace. She carried pink roses. The best man was John Howard, of Brooklyn. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Patrick Revilles.

After the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride, where a large number of people gathered. The couple will reside in East Sixth street. The groom is foreman at the Campbell Press Works. A large collection of handsome presents were received by the couple.

Five Hours' Grace.

James K. Arnold, chairman of borough street committee, has issued a notice to the effect that all sidewalks must be cleared of snow within five hours after the cessation of the storm and if they are not cleared in that time the borough will have the work done and the expense will be charged up to the property owner.

New Year at Library.

The usual holiday hours will be observed at the Public Library on New Year's day. The reading room will be open from 2 until 6. The circulating department will be closed.

—In your New Year's resolutions decide to use only White Label canned goods. Neaman Brothers claim you will be on the right side.

DIDN'T FORGET COUNCILMEN

WARREN ENGINE COMPANY HAD ITS CHRISTMAS GOOD TIME.

Guests Gathered in Upper Rooms Where Gifts Were Ready for All Present.

Warren Engine Company entertained 100 members and friends last Tuesday at its New Year's entertainment. The rooms on the second floor were decorated with greens, flowers and the National colors.

Representatives of the Borough Council were present and received souvenirs which were handed around by John H. Carney. Some of these were neatly arranged on calendars which contained a little "roast" for each member. On Mayor N. B. Smalley's calendar was a horse which was said to have just been brought from the Arkansas plains.

Refreshments were served by the committee which comprised William Debele, chairman, Chief J. J. Stahl and J. N. Higgins. John Carney in some of his really funny stories brought down the house and the "Dutch-Irish" quartette also favored with selections. Those in the quartette were, William Doud, Frank Kesselering, L. B. Bodine, A. De-Camp, Frank Dents, and James De Camp. Musical selections were rendered by Joseph Newman and William Still.

CAMP BOWSER PLAYS HOST

ITS MEMBERS GAVE A DANCE AT THE CASINO TUESDAY NIGHT.

Subscription Affair Proved Very Delightful—The Committee and the Members.

The Camp Bowser boys conducted a subscription dance last Tuesday at the Casino. There were about 100 present and the dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. The music was furnished by Pound, of New York. The hall was decorated with greens, flags of Camp Bowser and college insignias. The committee which had charge of the arrangements, was William J. Schoonmaker, Edward W. Overton and Harold Dollner.

The patronesses were Mrs. George E. Hall, Mrs. Lucius H. Biglow, Jr., Mrs. Alfred W. Day, Mrs. J. Stockton Schoonmaker, Mrs. David W. Pond, Mrs. George Langdon Howard, Mrs. D. DeWitt Brokaw, Mrs. Edwin Overton, Mrs. Charles F. Horne.

The members of Camp Bowser Club are: Ralph R. Schoonmaker, William J. Schoonmaker, David S. Pond, E. Clinton Hall, Harold Dollner, Edward W. Overton, Lucius H. Biglow, 3rd., F. Roland Horne, DeWitt P. Brokaw and Langdon W. Howard.

The Poultry Show in New York.

The New York Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association will make Madison Square Garden, New York, worth visiting with their annual show, commencing Tuesday morning, January 6, and closing Saturday night, January 10. Secretary Crawford, who has for so many years successfully managed the show, reports that the fourteenth one will exceed in number and value of exhibits any yet recorded to the credit of the association. Since the addition of cars to the show, that department has been notable. The Atlantic Cat Club are the sponsors for it this year. Handsome cups, the famous prize winners, imported and native, will be entered, over two hundred cats in the cages located in the concert hall. A canary and caged bird section will also be an attraction. The show opens at 9 o'clock in the morning and closes at 10:30 at night.

In Justice Mattison's Court.

Three cases in contract were brought by John P. Powers against Levi Berg, John Mowrey and M. S. Kellinger, before Justice William E. Mattison and were returnable yesterday afternoon. Two of these, Berg and Mowrey, settled the case out of court but the third one, that of Kellinger, a judgment was found against him, with costs.

Funeral of Italian.

The funeral of Dominico Di Leonardo, the Italian who was found in a dying condition in the stables of Bartles' quarry, Monday morning, took place yesterday at St. Joseph's church when the services were conducted by Rev. Father Miller. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Case Quarantined.

A card has been placed in front of the home of Charles Conover, on Elm place, on account of a case of diphtheria confined within the house. Ernest, the eight-year-old son of Mr. Conover, is down with the disease.

FIREMEN CALLED OUT TWICE YESTERDAY

Both Alarms Were for Small Blazes, and Neither Loss Was of Moment.

ACTIVE END FOR YEAR

SMALL CLUBHOUSE ON WASHINGTON STREET CAUGHT FIRE.

Cartridges Were Stored There But Didn't Catch Fire—Other Fire at Home of Bennett Brittin—Oil and a Match.

Two alarms received within a half hour of each other, yesterday made a rather strenuous ending for the local firemen's year.

The first was received from box No. 15 and was for a blaze in a small frame structure at East Second and Washington streets, used by boys in the neighborhood for a clubhouse. One of them lighted a fire in the stove, and then went home for breakfast. The heat spread to the boards and but for the prompt arrival of the chemical engine the club would have been homeless. In the place were a large number of cartridges. Chief Doane ordered their removal and warned the boys not to store any more.

Shortly after the apparatus was housed, No. 49 sounded for a blaze in the store of Bennett Brittin at Clinton avenue and Front street. A can of oil had dripped over the floor and in passing over to shut off the supply Mr Brittin stepped upon a match, igniting it.

With the aid of a trolley car crew and Ned Gaston, Mr. Brittin, who is an old fireman, extinguished the flames before the apparatus arrived. The damage will not exceed $50, covered by insurance.

SOCIETY AT EUCHRE.

Given at Home of H. R. Munger, of Washington Avenue, Last Tuesday—Pretty Decorations.

A large euchre party was held last Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Munger, of Washington avenue, by H. C. Munger and Miss Jessie Munger, when ninety assembled. There were prizes awarded to E. H. Ladd, Jr., and Mr. Morris for the men and Miss Julia Webber and Mrs. Lewis G. Timpson for the women.

The decorations at the home were very pretty. Large vases of pink roses adorned each table and in the dining room and parlors the Christmas effect was carried out with greens. During the evening Miss Laura Graves rendered several selections, accompanied by Miss Benedict, both of New York.

Those who assisted Miss Munger in receiving were: Mrs. James DeGraff, Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs. E. W. Hedges, Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman and Walter M. McGee. Mrs. McGee and Mrs. Joy presided at the refreshment table.

FREEDOM'S ELECTION.

Officers Chosen to Command Local Knights of the Golden Eagle for Next Term.

The election of officers of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, was held last Tuesday. The following were chosen. Past chief, H. D. Carver; noble chief, F. S. Bowman; vice noble chief, C. A. Vail; sir herald, H. J. Martin; high priest, C. M. Lockey; venerable hermit, L. A. Hummer; master of records, A. R. Vail; clerk of exchequer, R. U. Kinney; keeper of exchequer, W. F. Randolph; trustee, eighteen months, William Allen, and representative to Grand Castle, A. C. Hoagland.

The installation of these officers will take place Tuesday evening, January 6, when District Deputy Powelson and staff, of Golden Crown Castle, of Somerville, will be present. A smoker was held last Tuesday after the election of officers.

PLUNGED INTO WATER.

Small Boy Broke Through Ice Under Elm Place Bridge.

While playing "tickely-bender" on the treacherous ice beneath the Elm place bridge, Tuesday afternoon, James Fenton, of East Third street, plunged through where the water is ten feet deep. He was completely immersed several times before his companions, led by George Henry, of West Third street, managed to haul him ashore. Beyond the drenching and a cold which followed, he was unharmed.

HEAVY SENTENCE FOR MRS. SCOTT

Mrs. James Scott Was Found Guilty of Attacking Geo. O. Stevens in His Coal Office.

TRIED IN CITY COURT

Defence Was That Mr. Stevens Used Profane Language and Led Attack—His Witnesses Said No—Question Whether Hat Pin Was Used—Heavy Sentence.

From out a mass of contradictory evidence, City Judge Runyon gleaned enough, yesterday, to convince him that Mrs. James Scott was guilty of disturbing the morals and good order of the community in attacking George O. Stevens in his coal office, Monday afternoon. He accordingly inflicted the heaviest sentence in his jurisdiction, $100 and fifty-nine days in jail.

The trial took place at police headquarters, Francis J. Blatz appeared for the prosecution and Assemblyman William Newcorn for the defendant. Witnesses sworn for the complainant were Mr. Stevens, C. H. Rugg, Charles Manning and Chief Kiely. Mrs. Scott had two witnesses, Leander and Robert Brown, her nephews, but their testimony at critical points was widely varied.

The defendant alleged Mr. Stevens used much profanity to her and led in the attacking. This he denied and was corroborated by his witnesses, but whether Mrs. Scott used a hat pin in the assault was not made clear. Before she was placed on the stand, Counsellor Newcorn asked for a dis*missal of the complaint on the ground* that it was not within the city court's jurisdiction. The motion was denied.

In passing sentence, City Judge Runyon declared that he believed the plaintiff's side, while the testimony of the defendant in the main he regarded as untrue and further there was nothing in the case to suggest clemency. It is understood that Assemblyman Newcorn will institute certiorari proceedings.

PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE.

Given by Rev. Father Miller to Members of Choir and Friends.

Rev. Father Miller, rector of St. Joseph's church, gave a progressive euchre party at his home last Tuesday to the choir of the church and a few friends. In all there were twenty-four guests present. The prize for the women was won by Miss Justina Smith, while James Daley won the men's prize. James Harley was awarded the booby prize. After the play there were vocal selections by the church quartette, Miss Justina Smith, soprano; Miss Harries Hilton, contralto; A. E. LaPorte, tenor; Jas. B. Bailey, bass. During the social hour refreshments were served.

Prisoner Escaped.

Scotch Plains, December 31—By bending and twisting the lock which secured his cell Frank Wrister, the man arrested for stealing railroad brasses, Monday, escaped from the township jail yesterday morning. He got away unnoticed while the warden, Special Officer Pangborn, was getting his breakfast.

Progressive Hearts.

"Progressive hearts" will be the attraction at the Park Club, this evening, this being one of the series of social events planned for the winter. Each person attending will bring an article valued at twenty-five cent to be distributed as prizes. Every player will also receive a prize.

Visited Central Park.

A party of fifteen members of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. took a trip to New York, Tuesday, with their secretary, Kenneth Bobbie, where they visited the places of interest in Central Park. It was a treat to many of the boys and every minute of the time was enjoyed.

Gifts of Cash.

During the Christmas festival at the First M. E. church, last Tuesday, the pastor, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, was presented with a purse containing $250. Substantial checks were also given Miss Gertrude Sharp, the Sunday-school pianist, and sexton, Isaac Kennedy.

New Year Service.

A New Year service will be held at Bethel chapel New Year's morning at 6 o'clock. The week of prayer will begin next Sunday.

THE ISLE OF PINES.

It May Become a Possession of the United States.

Rich in Natural Resources and Unexcelled in Scenic Beauty—An Ideal Winter Resort for Invalids.

[Special Correspondence.]

ACCORDING to President Roosevelt's proclamation the new constitutional government of Cuba will be inaugurated May 20. Immediately thereafter the subject of treaties with the island government will be taken up and, among other things, the determination of the status of the Isle of Pines. It will be remembered that this island was omitted from the constitutional boundaries of Cuba, fixed by the army bill of March 2, 1901, the title to it being left to future adjustment by treaty. In well-informed circles it is taken for granted that the United States will formally annex the island, which is of immense strategic value, besides being one of the most beautiful strips of country in the world.

The division of insular affairs at Washington has just prepared an interesting pamphlet on the island, from which it appears that it lies in a deep bight off the southern coast of western Cuba, about 35 miles from the nearest point of the mainland. It is 65 miles S. S. W. of Batabano, the Cuban end of the steamer line, and is in communication with the United States via Batabano (65 miles water), and Havana (25 miles rail) to Miami, Fla., 228 miles (total distance, water and rail); 350 miles to Tampa, Fla.; 810 miles to New Orleans, La., and 733 miles to Pensacola, Fla.

Owing to the numerous keys which surround the island on the Caribbean sea side, its defense can be accomplished at very little expense by means of mines.

The Isle of Pines is 966 square miles in area, or very nealy the size of the state of Rhode Island. It has a population of 3,769.

In its physical features it is very picturesque.

In general the surface is a plateau of 50 to 160 feet above the sea level, broken by ridges, the most remarkable summits being the Sierra de la Canada, 1,600 feet; Daguilla, 1,500 (from the summit of which may be had a view of the entire island); Sierra de los Caballos, 1,074 feet; Mount Casas, composed of beautiful marbles of various colors, and Mount Cristales of various height, its sides being covered with green-rock crystals.

SCENE ON A COFFEE PLANTATION IN ISLE OF PINES.

The southern part, comprising about one-third of the entire area, is an impassable cienaga or salt bayou and lagoon, interspersed by islets and rocky ledges and occupied by fishermen.

The island has a number of rivers of excellent water, the most important of which are the Nuevas, five to ten feet deep, and navigable four or five miles; the Sierra de Casas, near the mouth of which is situated Nueva Gerona, and accessible by vessels drawing five feet.

MAP OF ISLE OF PINES.

The Isle of Pines is connected with a labyrinth of reefs and islets, of which the best known are the Jardines, so named from "enclosed islets strewn like "gardens" amid blue waters, and from which fresh water bubbles up from the deep, flowing probably in subterranean galleries from the mainland.

The mineral springs, for which the island has a world-wide reputation, are remarkable especially in pulmonary, rheumatic and throat affections.

A chemical analysis shows the waters to be impregnated with oxygen and carbonic acid gases, chloride of sodium, sulphate of lime, carbonate of lime, iron, magnesia, chloride of calcium, nitrate of lime, silex and exsractic organic matetr. Temperature of water, 82 degrees Fahrenheit.

The climate is described as "delicious, the air pure and balmy and, notwithstanding the island being surrounded by water, is considered dry, the winds coming from the sea and passing over the pine forests are gentle and invigorating." The year is divided into two seasons. The wet (Invierno) or summer, June until October. The hottest hours from ten to 12 a. m. About 2:30 p. m. the breeze (la virazon) blowing in from the sea moderates the temperature.

The dry season (seca), or winter, extends from October to June, with occasional visitations from November to February of los nortes. The annual rainfall ranges from 50 to 55 inches, or less than on the gulf coast of the states. The average rainy days is ten in the month, and the average humidity for the year, 75 per cent.

The mean annual temperature is 75 degrees. The prevailing winds are the northeast trades, which blow but little variation throughout the year, rendering the nights cool both in winter and summer.

The range of temperature between summer and winter rarely exceeds a mean of 11 degrees.

Hurricanes are less frequent than in Cuba.

The inhabitants of the Island are Spanish and colored, and exhibit in their intercourse with strangers a dignified and kindly spirit. The language is Spanish.

The island has two towns and one port. Neuva Gerona (New Gerona), the capital and second town in size, is on the left bank of the Sierra de las Casas river, two miles above its mouth on the north coast. It is advantageously situated on a picturesque plateau, between the Caballos and Casas mountains at the base of the latter, about 30 feet above the sea. It is well drained, and, exposed to the constant breezes from the sea, free from malarial influence. Its water comes from a magnesian spring, said to be very beneficial in cases of stomach trouble, and baths have been built into which water from the same spring is conducted. Population, 1,000. In approaching this town proceed to Santa Fe, about the center of the island, 15 miles in a southeasterly direction, over an American-built road. It is also an American post office.

Santa Fe is situated on the left bank of the river of the same name, 15 miles south-southeast of Nueva Gerona, and has an American post office. The port of the town, Jucaro, is about seven miles distant. Santa Fe is a place of 1,050 inhabitants, and has thermal baths and medicinal springs of magnesia and iron, favorably known and patronized from Havana in the summer.

Jucaro, the port of Santa Fe, at a distance of seven miles, is connected by a fine road. A steamer touches here once a week. The means of communication with Santa Fe is by the volante or ox cart. There is also a telephone to Santa Fe projected.

In addition to these three important centers are 26 villages and haciendas scattered throughout the island. Of the land lying north of the Cienaga, the swamp and low ground with mangroves is estimated at 25 per cent.; the savannas or meadows covered with these mangroves and scrub palmetto at 25 per cent.; land of doubtful agricultural value, 10 per cent.; rich land, 10 per cent.; mountains and steep hills, 5 per cent.; pine lands unsuitable for agriculture, 25 per cent.

As an example of the variety of product, a finca or farm of less than 33 acres actual cultivation produces coffee, sugar, chocolate (cocoa), cocoanuts, plantains, bananas, boniatos (sweet potatoes), rice, beans, lettuce, tobacco, honey, fowls, pigs and cattle.

Of the staple, tobacco, the island exported in 1899 about 5,000 bales (of 100 pounds each), selling in Havana at the highest market rates. The cultivation of sugar in 1900 was confined to a single estate. It is also reported that the island is adapted to the growth of rubber.

The minerals are marble, kaolin, gold, iron and salt. The quality of the marble is reported to be available for the finest statuary, the color being the purest white.

At the close of 1899 there were 4,184 head of cattle, 1,231 horses, 144 mules and 3,396 hogs and goats.

The island was discovered by Columbus in 1494, who named it "La Evangelista." In the administration of Cuba it became a dependency of Havana, of which province it is a municipality (district). It constitutes an ayuntamiento or municipal district of the judicial district of Bejucal, province of Habana, instituted in 1880, with its seat at Nueva Gerona, which was organized in July, 1899, under American military control.

Among the various American enterprises may be mentioned a new hotel, an ice plant, a dentist's office, a grocery establishment, blacksmith shop, turpentine plant, orange growing and truck gardening for United States markets. Prospectors interested in other occupations are also looking over the ground.

Two Round Towers.

Scotland boasts of two round towers, said to be strugglers from the great typical group found in Ireland. The one is attached to the handsome and recently restored Cathedral of Brechin, and the other stands in the center of Abernethy, near the entrance gate to the churchyard. The Brechin tower, 85 feet in height, has four courses, and rising over 100 feet, is the most perfect of the two. It dates from Kennith's reign, 971-95, and has a most graceful appearance. Pennant in his history speaks of having, in 1772, found a hamlet built within its walls. These were afterwards removed, and now hang in a neighboring steeple. The origin of these towers is now somewhat doubtful, but archaeologists are generally agreed that they were built in connection with churches "for defense and faithfulness of watch" during the Norseman's raids. They were afterwards used as belfries, the Brechin tower having done duty as such for generations. The tower is now one of the sights of the ancient town, and is regarded as a memorial of its early connection with Ireland. —Scottish-American.

A Medieval Nemaphone.

A curiosity of great antiquity is still to be seen within St. Andrew's church, at Willoughton, near Gainsborough, says a Sunday magazine. This is a quaint speaking trumpet, with an obscure early history dating back to the times of the Knights Templar. In shape it resembles a French horn, and is more than five feet long, having a bell at the end of the graduated tube. It was formerly six feet in length, but is now telescoped at the joints where the metal has apparently decayed. Tradition declares it was formerly sounded from the tower to summon aid in case of fire, as when blown at a height the weird, deep notes the trumpet produced could be heard at a great distance away in bygone days. It is believed that this curious instrument has often been used to call together the villagers, the dispensing with the usual bell, and to give additional power and strength to the choir, being probably used by the chief singer, as the trumpet intensifies vocal sound to a marked degree.—St. James Gazette.

How the Pope Gets the News.

A New York priest, recently returned from Rome, tells how Pope Leo XIII. learns of the events of the world every day without reading a newspaper. He reads a journal published in the vatican, or has a secretary read it to him. This journal consists of brief abstracts of everything interesting which the papers published in Germany, England, France, America, and other lands have recorded. A large staff of secretaries, each one an adept linguist, prepares the vatican's news sheet. One man translates and abstracts German articles, another works over the French papers, still another the English and American. The resulting publication in Italian is intended not only for his holiness, but for all the hundreds of vatican attaches. Such news as would not be of interest to vatican circles is overlooked in the resume.—N. Y. Times.

Stubborn Mathematics.

Once upon a time a woman entered a shoe store and asked the clerk in attendance for a pair of No. 4 shoes.

The clerk, who was wise in his business, looked at her foot and at once brought to her a pair of No. 6 shoes.

"These are the size," he said, as he fitted the shoes to her feet.

"Yes," she answered, smiling with satisfaction, and a sale was made without any difficulty.

Moral—Six into four won't go.—N. Y. Herald.

Helpful Husband.

Cicero Moke—I came to tole yo', ma'am dat Lucy Brown, who done trabe you yisiddy, ain' gwine lib out on no mo', kase she married me today.

Mrs. Hauskep—Indeed! Well?

"Well, I t'ought mebbe yo' might let her do yo' washin.' I'm drummin' up trade for her dis mornin."—Philadelphia Press.

Cable to Honolulu.

Honolulu is getting nearer to the world. The last news she received was by the partially laid cable and the remainder of the way by steamer. It won't be long before the citizen can sit at his breakfast table and read in his morning paper what New York had for dinner that same day.

Legacies to the Pope.

The pope has been happy in legacies. It has been reckoned that during his pontificate a sum of more than £1,000,000 has been bequeathed to him in various ways, $600,000 having come to him in one year, and one recent bequest having for no less than $200,000.—Indianapolis News.

The King's Coachman.

King Edward's coachman never knows where he is to drive until his majesty is actually seated in the carriage. This is a continuance of the rule which came into force when Queen Victoria ascended the throne. —N. Y. Sun.

First American Strike.

Three hundred shoemakers who struck for higher wages in Philadelphia in 1796 were the first workingmen to combine in such a body in this country. The first railroad strike occurred in 1877.—Indianapolis News.

One Case.

Foster—Do you believe advertising pays?

Felton (in disgust)—Naw! Didn't I find a pocketbook the other day and advertised for the owner—and found him. Pay? Not much!—Puck.

THE FASHION WORLD.

A Stylish Scotch Tweed Street Gown. New Skating Suits.

If there is any combination prettier than several shades of brown brought together in one material or gown, I have yet to find it. Today there was just finished a dress for one of our very smart young ladies. It is a street gown and is perfection in every way that makes a dress famous. The material of which it is made is rough Scotch tweed. The skirt is cut in seven gores, and they are all sewed in slot seams and stitched with extra coarse black silk. The tweed is a mixture of shades of brown, with the lightest almost white. Each breadth is scalloped, and a narrow circular flounce is set at the bottom. This is stitched on with three rows of the black stitches, which make a refined yet effective trimming.

TWEED STREET GOWN.

The jacket has the Norfolk shape and has a short basque at the hips, stitched also. Slot plaits are laid in the waist on each side so that the double breasted front can be lapped over. This is fastened by horn buttons, eight of them. The collar is flat and faced with dark brown velvet. The sleeves are stitched on the cuffs, and they and the middle of the back are trimmed by a couple of buttons. A vest to be worn with a suit like this should be of cream white, canary or very pale blue.

A hat was furnished which is an ideal one, especially when one remembers that there is a rich Alaska sable box to add its softness. This hat is made of dark brown fur and is in tricorne shape and trimmed only by drapery of heavy venetian point, held on the top by a fancy gilt ornament. Fur certainly is very becoming to most faces.

There are very stylish and desirable dresses made with the Norfolk blouse jacket and also the Russian blouse jacket. The materials most in vogue for those are the black, black and white and gray nub cloth, which, with its little knots of wool, is quite new and very striking and warm looking. It requires but little trimming and is really handsome. But the blouse shaped jackets look very well in this as well as tweeds.

Among the other new things I saw some skating suits, and these are also considered quite suitable for any really cold weather gown. The best color is Russian green, and the richest trimming is sable of fur. One suit of this kind had the upper part of the skirt of the gown and the lower of dress. Both parts were of fine French broadcloth. Where they were joined there was a narrow band of beaver fur, and there was another around the bottom. The blouse waist was of the green, with drab facings, and all edges were bordered with the fur. It made a beautiful dress. There was a toque made of the same combination and a small muff.

Some ultra fashionable ladies have been seen walking on Broadway wearing a white gown all covered with rich lace, a large cape or loose and highly ornamented Monte Carlo coat, also of white broadcloth, and an immense white or seal brown boa. The hat, too, is made to match in that it is of fluffy white beaver felt, trimmed generally with some fine brown fur. Mink and Alaska sable are the prettiest of all the furs for this purpose, except sable, and that is almost out of the question on account of the price.

Many of the new dress skirts are gathered at the waist and are considerably shorter and less sweeping at the bottom, and another curious thing in this connection is the basha, which is set upon only many of the waists to house gowns. Where there is no bertha there is a wide collar, and this often droops quite below the shoulders.

Among the novelties are hats made of glove kid. The crowns or brim or both are made of this, and feathers alone are used as decoration.

They have been so far shown in white, but the other colors would be quite as pretty and as odd. Some of the hats are being trimmed with extra long streamers of lace, in some cases reaching below the waist line. All kinds of hats have streamers of some description. None is prettier than veiling.

Boleros are quite as popular as they ever were, but now none has a collar, and in place of that they are lavishly trimmed with the fancy castle braids, with the bretelles or the drop buttons like a fringe. Many of the skirts are cut so that there are two flounces or parts, one above the other like a double skirt. These worn with the bolero give the suit quite a Spanish air.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

What the New Woman Is Doing

LATELY I had occasion to view the shown of Christmas goods in some of the great department stores. Never before have these wares been more beautiful, artistic and costly. A sum that would have served Martha Washington to dress on for a year was spent for a single article. There was the most dainty and exquisite ermine jacket ever a sweet girl put upon her fair body, and its price was $250. An ermine muff alone was valued at $75. An exquisite carriage wrap from Worth cost $340. An imported pale blue silk muslin dinner gown with "angel" sleeves was marked $408. Beautiful? Where they did not border on the grotesque, as some of the articles did in the effort to make them as expensive as possible, those garments were beautiful as a dream of fairyland. I looked at them and later at my desk read the morning paper. On the front page was an item telling how a dressmaker unexpectedly discharged from the employ of one of our many millioned families had killed herself by swallowing paris green. Next I read an item in which the director of charities in a great American city reported that the average wage of working women in that city below the actual cost of living. My sisters, put all these statements together and read the awful tragedy now enacting day by day throughout our so called civilization. Over the gorgeous garments worn by millionaire women hovers many a time the curse of the starving, ruined woman who worked on it. Brother, sister, think on these things. Know this: In the true Christ civilization the laborer will live as comfortably as the capitalist. The surplus wealth created by both will go to the giving of pleasure and improvement to both. This must happen. Let us hope the revolution that brings it will come quietly and peaceably.

⁂

Some women's minds are like their rooms, stuffed with cheap ornamentation.

⁂

The chief objection to a young wife having an old husband is that he will never let her call her soul her own. He usually will not let her out of his sight long enough to have any conversation with her old chums. He must hear it all. If she expresses an opinion counter to his prejudices, he makes sarcastic remarks, and the poor wife has to refuge in silence for fear of "exciting" him.

⁂

Very old people, men or women, have no opinions. They have only set prejudices which they themselves mistake for opinions.

⁂

This is the way of men and women in steam and furnace heated offices in winter: The women turn on the heat and open the windows to let in air; the men shut off the heat and close the windows.

⁂

"Fussers are generally short lived," says Eleanor Kirk.

⁂

To see a great big man coddle himself like an old male granny is a pitiable spectacle.

⁂

The champion woman shot of New Jersey is Lillian Brewer, eleven years old. She has inherited the nerve and unerring eye of her father, Captain John Brewer, who was a famous wing shot. Lillian herself has sometimes broken eight out of ten glass target balls. In hunting she never shoots at any game when it is standing still, but gives it a chance for its life.

⁂

Women are tender hearted, oh, yes, but did you ever see one of the "burst bosom" ladies use on their carriage horses to make the animals champ their bits and toss their heads? How would you like to wear next your skin a small pad made of horsehair cloth with the points ends sticking out all over it? You would toss your head, would you not? Well, carriage horses are often forced to wear that kind of pad, only worse, next the tender skin around their mouths just inside the guiding rein. The bur for a horse is made of very stiff bristles, not seldom even of screws or nails. This cruelty is so atrocious that one is sorry for the people who permit it—sorry on account of the sure punishment that will overtake them because of it. In this world there is exact justice, and those who dodge it are only heaping it up to break in a bolt upon them in future.

⁂

On the east side of New York city, commonly considered the slum quarter, there are 200 clubs of working girls, and the object of every one of them is something useful and improving. How is that for women's clubs? But these east side clubs do not belong to the federation.

⁂

A Brooklyn parson preached a sermon against the awful evil of the wearing of openwork hose by the ladies of his congregation. From that day the indignant women began to boycott him, quietly, but effectually. His congregation fell off to nothing, and he was forced to resign. The women decided that the real evil was in the minister's mind, not in the stockings.

⁂

Mrs. Emma A. Summers of Los Angeles is an oil dealer and handles nearly half a million barrels of petroleum a year. She was formerly a music teacher, but saved a little money and invested it in oil. That was how she began.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

CHRISTMAS RECIPES.

Dishes Which Are Characteristic of the Greatest Holiday in the Year.

Plum Pudding.—One cup and a half of milk, one of molasses and of suet and four of flour; three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one of cloves, one of salt; raisins, currants and citron ad lib. Boil or steam two hours at least.

Cranberry Sauce.—Wash and stand the berries, and to every pound of fruit

THE BLAZING PUDDING BALL.

add three-quarters of a pound of granulated sugar and a half pint of water. Stew over a moderate fire. Cover but do not stir the fruit. After it comes to a boil, let it stew from five to seven minutes, and then remove from the fire. The sauce is to be kept for some time, put it up in self sealing jars before it cools.

Roast Goose.—Stuff the goose with a potato dressing made in the following manner: Six potatoes, boiled, pared and mashed fine and light; one tablespoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of pepper, one spoonful of sage, two tablespoonfuls of onion juice and two of butter. Truss and dredge well with salt, pepper and flour. Roast before the fire (if weighing eight pounds) one hour and a half; in the oven one hour and a quarter. Make gravy the same as for turkey. No butter is required for goose, it is so fat. Serve with apple sauce.

Old Fashioned Mincemeat.—One pound of lean beef (allow for four ounces loss in boiling), two pounds best Valencia raisins, two pounds currants, four pounds tart apples, two pounds best kidney suet, two pounds moist sugar, one-half pound candied orange peel, one-half pound candied lemon peel, one-half pound citron, one brimming pint of California sherry, one half pint of brandy, one teaspoonful each of powdered cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg and one teaspoonful of powdered sugar and one level teaspoonful of sifted salt.

THE CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS

Teach Them That Christ's Birthday Is Not Merely a Selfish Feast.

Is it to be all a question of gain? Is the child to grow up with the idea that Christmas means a well filled stocking, a well filled Christmas tree and often, alas, an overfilled small stomach? I am afraid that is the idea most children have of Christ's birthday. Tell the myth of Santa Claus to your children or not, just as you please, but try to instill into their young hearts a little of the true Christmas spirit. Urge them to think of the poor.

You hesitate to fill the child's mind with the sorrows of this world? Yes, but those sorrows will have to come before the little ones noticed sooner or later, and why not begin right?

They have a very pretty custom in France. The children of a well to do family will have as protege a child of their own age, or perhaps several children, belonging to a deserving poor family. Long, long before winter sets in the more fortunate little ones begin to put away sums of money which they have earned by denying themselves goodies or for meritorious conduct. The week before Christmas the toy bank containing this is opened, and the lump sum, saved cent by cent at the cost of so much sacrifice, is devoted to buying oranges, nuts, candies and toys for the other children who otherwise would have no Christmas cheer. The elders on their part purchase warm clothes and necessaries. Then the children go to the home in the tenement, accompanied by their mother or nurse, and give their presents with their own hands.

SAVED CENT BY CENT.

In such a manner the true spirit of Christmastide is taught to them, and they grow up like their fathers and mothers, generous, pitiful and tender toward the poor.

HELEN CLIFTON.

As people become old their prejudices stiffen along with their joints.

A Christmas Declaration of Independence

"I'M going to turn over a new leaf this year, so I am, and it's not a New Year's leaf either, but a Christmas leaf, here and now," said pretty Mrs. Perkins to herself the 1st of December. "This giving of Christmas presents has come to be such a load that I can't carry it any longer, and I won't. I shall cut off from the list of those to whom I have been giving yearly Christmas presents all except the ones whom I wish to make happy out of sheer love and good will, and I will not give to these any further than I can easily afford."

Pretty Polly Perkins' reflection in the mirror nodded and smiled back at her like a second person giving encouragement, and she went on talking to it.

"Christmas giving has been degraded into a mere favor buying, present swapping, charity bestowing, fatiguing, rivalrous, extravagant show bazaar, and we dread the very thought of its approach. I'm going to throw the whole thing over. This year I will not strain myself to give extravagant presents even to those I love.

"And the first one I cut off will be my own husband. I love him, of course I do," she said emphatically, "but I have no money of my own, not a cent. When I make him a present, I have to either have the bill sent to him six months afterward or skimp the price off the housekeeping or have the store bills charged up to him in larger than they are to squeeze out money to buy him something handsome, when he really has all he needs now. No; John M. Perkins, Esq., we strike you off first. Then there are those four Jones cousins. They give me a bookmark or a darned up pair of slipper tops or a horrid little water color painting and expect me in return to send them each —Sarah Ann, Jemima, Maud Mary and Jane—something worth at least $5; that makes $20. I herewith declare my independence. I will never do it again, and I don't care what they think.

"Then there's Mrs. Bunkum, whose husband was my husband's old school-mate. Of course we are friends, intimate friends, but I know that every year Mrs. Bunkum goes beyond her means to send me an expensive gift—silver, lace or fur or china or something—just to show me how much better off Bunkum is than my husband. I've been fool enough to nearly beggar the Perkins housekeeping fund at a time only to show Mrs. Bunkum how much richer my husband is than hers. I'll never do it again. I'll send her a Christmas card, not too expensive.

THOSE WHO EXPECT SOMETHING.

"Then there's the whole breed of smirking creatures with the spirit of a menial who expect something in a really blackmailing way. This year I turn them every one down. I declare my independence of them too. There's that Tom, the caretaker at the White Glove club rooms. All the rest of the year he is so lazy and grumpy he won't even bring urgent messages to the ladies, but as the 25th of December approaches he pushes himself into your presence in every trivial pretense, rubbing his hands, grinning from ear to ear, bobbing his head fairly down to the ground and saying, 'I wish you a very merry Christmas, ma'am,' so that always I've felt fairly forced to give him some money. This year I won't. I turn down the whole crew of waiters, maids, people too lazy and thriftless to earn a good living and the vulgar, greedy ones who are always trying to get something for nothing.

"What's left? There are the children, bless them! They are the only ones who cannot pay you back, except in affection, for your gifts, the ones who are honestly selfish and have a right to be. I must be generous to them. Then I will give what I can really afford—not a cent more—in charity. Now who's left? There's dear Susie Snow, who is wearing her coat the fourth winter so that her sister Nell can have the last year in normal school. I'll give her a present to make the old coat look nice. And that's all, except a few Christmas card greetings."

Mrs. Perkins did exactly what she proposed to do and had the happiest, most comfortable Christmas she had enjoyed since she was a girl.

KATE SHARP.

RICH IN PETROLEUM.

The Wells of Southern California Are Fair Producers.

Only Drawback Is the Speculative Fever Which They Cause and Which Impoverishes Many Small Investors.

[Special Los Angeles (Cal.) Letter.]

IT WAS remarked recently that there is hardly a poor working woman in Los Angeles who has not lost more or less money by investing in oil wells. While facts are exaggerated in this statement, it remains true that the petroleum craze, in its seasons, more thoroughly than any other enterprise in southern California, drains the pockets of large numbers of citizens who can ill afford to lose their small savings. It is undoubtedly true that the poor people of this state are wretchedly, sordidly poor; and the remembrance of better days and a hope of adding to a depleted income causes many to listen with over-willing ears to smooth stories concerning the oily product. There are still unwary individuals who seem not to be content unless they are risking burning their fingers, but the petroleum industry is now reduced to a very safe working basis. A radical though gradual change has been taking place during the last six months in methods of conducting this business. Instead of the eagerness formerly displayed to secure the oil in tanks, care is now being directed toward arranging for better transportation to such market as existed and increasing that market. For, although there was an increase of 50 per cent. in the oil product of California last year over that of 1900, the decline of 37.7 cents per barrel, resulted in a loss of about $2,960,000. This has caused a decline in the amount of development being made. In 1901, there were 122 rigs and 533 wells drilling, while in June there were 113 rigs and 529 wells drilling. This is a greater reduction than at first appears, for of the 80 wells drilling in the Kern river field 55 were suspended, leaving 24 in operation. In the McKittrick-Sunset fields, of the 167 drilling 118 were suspended.

OIL WELLS IN THE WATER AT SUMMERLAND, CAL.

The same state of affairs exists more or less in other portions of the state. However, the increase, in June, to 1,030 barrels per day, from 625 in May, in the Carreaga and Fullerton fields has kept up the general average. There is talk of extending railroad lines in different directions in order to tap the oil lands now nearly inaccessible to market.

California is justified in being proud of her newly-acquired fuel wealth. Coal and wood have always been scarce and high and the discovery of an abundant supply of petroleum has rendered the heating and cooking problem easy of solution. It was estimated that the yield in 1900 was about 4,000,000 barrels an din 1901 nearly twice that amount. Twelve oil refineries in the state are using at a rate of over 1,500,000 barrels of petroleum per year, the total amount of distillates being over 170,000 barrels, and the refining business is in its infancy. It has been practically proven that the supply is well-nigh inexhaustible, and manufacturers will no longer hesitate to make needed changes in their furnaces.

WHITE OIL GUSHER, NEWHALL.

Until comparatively recent times, petroleum has been almost exclusively used for illuminating purposes, and the public has been slow in learning its value as a lubricant and fuel. Oil at one dollar per barrel is equivalent in cost to coal at $4.50 per ton. Coal in California is worth from $7.50 per ton, up. A large quantity of the output is not susceptible to refining in any portion of it, a ing extent, and this fact has given a wide spread impression that it is all too heavy. This is a mistake as there are all grades of oil in the state. In fact, near Newhall, are the white wells where perfectly clear kerosene, ready for illuminating purposes, has been found. This territory is, so far, supposed to be limited, being confined to a portion of Placerita canyon.

The first well was drilled at a large expense owing to the quality of the rock formation, but after months of hard labor the operators were rewarded by a fine floor; in fact, for a short time, the well was a gusher, throwing a stream 100 feet into the air. A 400-barrel tank was filled in 24 hours. They tried boring deeper, but the pipe deflected and the flow was "smothered." It is thought that the removal of the pipe and redrilling in a straight line will bring oil in paying quantities again. It is fitted through with casing in some way until it is distilled, and is worth from four to five dollars per barrel on the field. The smell of natural gas meets one at every turn in Placerita canyon, and in some portions of the state there are paying, flowing gas wells. It is probable that the Los Angeles fields have produced more oil than others in the state, although the greater portion of the product has been of low grade, and most of the wells must be pumped at considerable expense. One skeptic who believed that there were no flowing wells in the city was invited to look at a gusher when the cap was removed, with the result that a new suit of clothing was ruined. In oil more than in any other industry one must look for the unexpected to happen. Most of the wells produce in large quantities at first, but a woman who lives in the midst of some wells, near Westlake Park, stated recently that some of the wells at the rear of her residence formerly furnished 65 barrels daily each. Now it is necessary to pump 65 wells to obtain that amount of petroleum.

In 1863 a well costing $65,000 was drilled on Hoover street, but the business was not pushed.

The California product differs from that found in the east in that it contains, as a rule, asphalt instead of paraffin. Since the earliest times the Indians used it for various purposes, and the Catholic fathers employed asphalt in roofing the missions.

During the time of the early oil excitement in Pennsylvania there was a great deal of wildcat speculation in this state, large sums of money being sunk. Oil is found in different strata representing different ages of the world. The productive strata are of sandstone or sand underlying bodies of shale. The most productive wells are about 1,000 feet deep, or even deeper. Their "life" varies. At Summerland some run down only 125 feet. And this point is one of the most picturesque of all the oil fields. The town is a settlement of spiritists and is situated on a narrow strip of land between the ocean and the mountains, the latter approaching very near the shore line at this place. Nearly the whole territory out into the sea is covered with wells. These ocean wells are most interesting to visitors. Some run to a depth of 350 feet, but 200 feet is a fair average. Wharves run out into the water and are surmounted by derricks.

These wells pay pretty well, for although the quality is not especially good or the output great, the cost of drilling is small and a well may be pumped for ten dollars per month. It may be loaded directly into vessels from the wells or be shipped on the trains while run through this field. A bituminous belt extends along the entire Pacific coast from point to point in Mexico to Alaska. In transmitting solid asphaltum from the mountain mines of Santa Barbara to the coast refinery, naphtha is used as a solvent. After reaching its destination the naphtha is pumped back through the pipe to the mine and is ready for another journey with another load of asphaltum. Oils in the state vary from eight to over 30 specific gravity. The cost of wells varies with depth and formation of the ground. The cheapest are at Summerland, where $300 will put down a well 150 feet deep and furnish the equipment. There are wells costing up to $35,000. In Los Angeles the cost varies from $20 to $5,000, the rise in iron work having increased the price, particularly of casing. Oil was first found in paying quantities in Ventura county. It has been produced and refined there for 25 years. Oil bearing sand is found when drilling with shale. If the latter be soft there is little annoyance from water. If hard shale, the water is not easily shut off. A well in Tar creek is over 600 feet deep. It at first produced 300 barrels per day, now about 30 barrels. But the product of the white wells near Newhall is most valuable of all.

EDWARD SULLARY.

HELD BY A TURTLE.

Frightened Negro Cut Release Only When His Trousers Gave Way to the Strain.

A negro whose name could not be ascertained, had a narrow escape from painful injury during the unloading of the steamer Kitty Knight, of the Light street wharf of the Susquehanna River line, the other afternoon, says the Baltimore Herald, but gained quite a lot of valuable experience concerning the handling of snapping turtles.

It was while the wharf was crowded with commission men and agents and the excitement attendant upon the unloading of several score of cattle was at its height that the bystanders were startled by the loud and continuous screaming of some one in their rear. Turning they beheld a big, swarthy negro vainly endeavoring to climb over the side of his wagon, which was backed up against the wharf, and in the bottom of which his foot and leg seemed to be caught. Suddenly there was a rip and a tear, a portion of the man's trouser leg gave way and he dropped to the ground.

LEG SEEMED TO BE CAUGHT.

By this time the crowd had gathered nearer the wagon, in which they beheld, lying on his back, frantically waving his webbed feet and angrily shooting out his head at intervals, an immense snapping turtle. In the reptile's mouth there was a square piece of cloth which matched in color the pantaloons the negro wore. The trouble was explained at a glance.

The negro, in loading his wagon, had gone too near the turtle, which, angry over treatment it had received, grabbed the first thing within its reach upon which to wreak its vengeance. The jaws came together with a snap, missing the negro, but catching the clothing.

The threatening look in the little eyes frightened the man, who turned as he felt something grab his berther garments, and he shrieked and attempted to get away, the cloth could not stand the tug of war and gave way.

THE CULPRIT'S NAME.

Indignant Philadelphia Jurist Tells of a Smoker Who Added Insult to Injury.

It is told of a member of the local judiciary known to be bitterly opposed to the use of tobacco in any form that he was compelled, when last abroad, to submit to the smoking of a self-possessed young man who entered the same first-class compartment on a train London-bound. The judge repeatedly protested; but the stranger coolly proceeded to smoke, and aggravated the offense by lighting cigar after cigar. The judge threatened to report the matter to the authorities when he reached London, and gave the stranger his card, thinking the name thereon might carry weight. But the card, after a glance, was carelessly thrust into the smoker's pocket. The stranger alighted before London was reached; and the judge, in a rage, rushed out on the platform, summoned the station master, and bade him go after the smoker and get his name. The station master, no less indignant than the American anti-tobacconist that the rules of the road had been violated, asked the stranger for his card, and then, returning to the train, handed it to the judge, whose rage developed until it was on the verge of apoplexy when he read thereon his own name and address, the card being the same he had forced on his serene companion.

RECEIVED HIS OWN CARD.

New Sin Found in Maine.

Temperance women in Maine have declared that it is sinful to ride in an automobile propelled by steam generated by alcohol.

RESTORED TO ARMY.

Justice Is Not Only Blind, But Often Very Slow.

Officers Who, for Any Reason, Have Been Dropped from the Service Rarely Ever Secure Reinstatement.

[Special Washington Letter.]

"SENATOR HOAR is not only a statesman, but a loveable man of the plain people," said a former army officer to-day. The senator is now almost 76 years of age, and of course is not as strong physically as he once was, although mentally is he a tower of strength.

"I called on him at the senate one morning recently, to tell him that my bill for restoration in the army was hung up in the house of representatives. He told me that after lunch he would personally look into the case. Although he had many matters of greater importance on his mind, when the time came the old gentleman took me by the arm and walked that long distance from the senate to the house. That body was in session, and I remained out in the corridor while he went inside. He saw members of the committee on military affairs, and then left the case in charge of a representative from Massachusetts, who is to look after it.

LIEUT. F. S. DAVIDSON.

"Now, if I had been a politician, I might not have been surprised at a senator doing so much for me. But I am not a politician, and I have not voted in Massachusetts for many years. The senator knew me as a citizen of Massachusetts who had served in the civil war and afterwards in the regular army. He knew that I had been unjustly turned out of the army, and he determined to help me get justice. He had the bill passed by the senate two months ago, and now it must be passed by the house. I am sure that it will do it right away, and the senator has taken a personal interest in it. My Uncle Tom and he were classmates at Harvard; hence he knows the family, and has turned aside from the duties of statesmanship long enough to give me a helping hand. Out of many years' experience I can say that there are few senators who would do so much for one who can do nothing in return, except express heartfelt thanks."

Lieut. Francis S. Davidson, who thus tells of the kindness of the venerable statesman from Massachusetts, was a cadet at West Point from July 1, 1862, to January 31, 1865, when he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Fifth Massachusetts cavalry, and served with that regiment until October 31, 1865, when he was honorably mustered out with the regiment. On March 7, 1867, he was commissioned second lieutenant of the Ninth United States cavalry and promoted to first lieutenant, July 31, 1867. He served with his regiment on the Texas frontier against hostile Indians until July, 1875, when he was ordered with his company on a scout and to make a temporary camp at a water hole called "El Lonz ranch."

Lieut. Davidson is not the first good soldier who has suffered from envies and jealousies; and it was in 1873 that his persecutions began. The writer had personally known him for almost 30 years, and hence is familiar with his story. When he left Fort Brown, Tex., to go on that scout, the officer who inspected his company preferred charges against him as to the condition of his company and wagons. Of these charges he was acquitted. But that did not end the matter. It is well known to those familiar with the old army that when conspirators begin to seek court-martials they usually succeed in some manner. Charges were later preferred against Lieut. Davidson for "breach of arrest, and gaming in the presence of enlisted men." He had not been placed in close arrest during the trial before the court which acquitted him, but was simply ordered to remain with his company under arrest. He did not leave the ranch of El Lonz, nor did he leave his company. The assertion as to gaming was that he had thrown a $20 bill on a table that a Mexican had in front of one of the huts at that ranch, where some of the soldiers played monte. The judge advocate general, in May, 1878, reported:

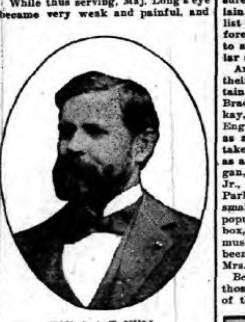
"The new evidence submitted may be deemed to cast a doubt upon the guilt of the accused. In view of this doubt this bureau is now inclined to the opinion that the sentence of the accused was probably too severe. He has suffered under this sentence two and a half years, and his reappointment to the army would not be prejudicial to the interests of military justice."

Lieut. Davidson had never broken his technical arrest and he had never done any gambling. He did take out of his value a $20 bill which belonged to a soldier of his company; a part of a sum of money the lieutenant was safe-keeping for him; and the soldier gambled it away. On this slender thread his enemies went to wearing a conspiracy against him, and the case ultimately discharged from the army. During the past 27 years he has been seeking justice before congress. He did not know Senator Hoar, and had no friend in congress to take a personal interest in him. He has now, and he will have the satisfaction of having his record cleared of those unfair charges.

Another old soldier was met by the narrator, and he, too, was in good spirits, for the congress has passed the bill placing him on the retired list as a captain. Maj. James W. Long is well known in the northwest, particularly in Michigan, where he served for many years. Before the committee on military affairs Maj. Long appeared and told his story as follows:

"I was appointed by President Lincoln as second lieutenant, Second infantry, August 5, 1861. Was with my regiment constantly on duty until June 27, 1862, when at the battle of Gaines Mill I was wounded in the foot, wrist and face, and thoroughly disabled for the time. While at home at Buffalo before the bandages were taken from my face I was put on recruiting service, and returned to my regiment as soon as was detailed as assistant commissary of musters under command of Gen. Heintzelman. My right eye was put out at Gaines Mill and my remaining eye began to trouble me. Surgeon Basil Norris, well known in Washington, insisted that I should be discharged for disability. But I was born in the army and raised in it, and would not give up. I was promoted to be captain, joined my regiment on the Rappahannock, then went to New York to suppress draft riots, and again back to the field. Although suffering facial neuralgia all the time, I participated in the battles of the Wilderness and Spottsylvania. I was then ordered to Annapolis for treatment of my left eye, and while there remained on active duty in military command of the officers' hospital. I continued on various field duties until May 7, 1869, when I was ordered on duty as Indian agent, being included in a general order providing for numerous officers who were left out of their regimental organizations by consolidation of infantry regiments provided for by act of congress. The order contained these words: 'Should vacancies occur entitling them to promotion in the regular army during their term of service on such Indian duty, they shall receive promotion the same as though on ordinary detached military duty.'

While thus serving, Maj. Long's eye became very weak and painful, and



HON. J. A. T. HULL.
(Chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs.)

he finally applied for retirement because of incapacity. To his surprise, the examining board refused him retirement, although he had lost one eye in battle and the other one was palpably disabled. He applied for relief from duty as Indian agent, and the necessary order was issued; but it was sent to the Indian office and did not reach him for more than six months. Not knowing that this order had been issued; being assured of being legislated out of the army, with many others, on December 31, 1870; preferring resignation to being legislated out, Maj. Long resigned. During the past 32 years he has been trying to have the wrong righted, by act of congress. It is done at last. He is restored to the army as captain and placed on the retired list. He will receive $100 per month during the remainder of his life. This will gradually dispose of his embarrassments, and support his family in comparative comfort.

Congressman Hull, of Iowa, chairman of the house committee on military affairs, said: "I am very glad that Maj. Long has finally succeeded in getting his bill through both houses of congress. We have had many cases before the committee, only a small proportion of which ever become laws. Each case is carefully scrutinized, and you may be sure that only the truly meritorious cases receive favorable reports from our committee."

Maj. Long and Lieut Davidson are made happy by having lived long enough to acquire rights which should never have been taken from them. Justice is not only blind, but sometimes dreadfully slow.

SMITH D. FRY.

A Pointer.

Better eat stale bread than be ilbred.—Chicago Daily News.

In the Public Eye Abroad

Commercial, Industrial and Political Conditions in Foreign Lands.

The American legation in London is the center around which is congregating a colony of wealthy Americans who make London their home for a portion of each year for the privilege of associating with English court society. Every year sees an increase in size and social importance of this colony.

Whereas a decade ago it was insignificant in point of numbers, it has now become so large and has secured so strong a foothold on the banks of the Thames that it is at present looked upon in the light of a considerable factor in the London season, towards the success and brilliancy of which it contributes in no small measure.

A few years ago the New Yorkers who were to be found at the Ascot races, or who participated in any way in the London social season, were comparatively few, and could not be said to have been accorded a standing of first rank is the festivities of the nobility. But at the last Ascot meeting there were dozens and dozens of prominent Americans to be seen in the boxes, and they mingled with all the freedom of long acquaintance with the best blood of England. In fact, in the so-called "royal inclosure" were to be found more people from the United States than from any other nation save England. As the tickets for this inclosure are issued by the lord chamberlain of the king's household, and the list is passed by his majesty before the tickets are issued, it is easy to see that the Americans are popular at the English court.

AMBASSADOR CHOATE'S HOME IN LONDON.

Among those who have houses of their own in London and who entertain a great deal are Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin, Mrs. John W. Mackay, William Waldorf Astor, whom English people persist in regarding as an American, although he has taken out letters of naturalization as a British citizen; J. Pierpont Morgan, his son John Pierpont Morgan, Jr., who has a charming house in Park lane; Mrs. Ronalds, whose small residence in Cadogan place is popularly known, as the "musical box," by reason of the number of musical entertainments which have been given there; Mrs. S. Newhouse, Mrs. Blow and J. J. Van Alen.

Besides these are the houses of all those American women who in spite of their having married Englishmen remain American at heart and in feeling and from whose drawing-rooms so many of their compatriots have been launched into London society. Prominent among the number are Mrs. George Cornwallis West, whose first husband was Lord Randolph Churchill; the duchess of Manchester, the one American woman who enjoys to the greatest degree the friendship of Queen Alexandra; Lady Egerton Gray, who was Miss Cayler, of New York; Mrs. Arthur Paget, who was Miss Minnie Stevens, daughter of Mrs. Paran Stevens; Mrs. Cavendish Bentinck, who has a beautiful house on Richmond terrace, Whitehall; the duchess of Marlborough, Lady Marcus Beresford and the countess of Craven.

LONDON HOME OF J. PIERPONT MORGAN, JR.

Finally there are all those Americans who take up their residence for the season at the various hotels, or who take furnished houses for a few weeks, and who, though changing their London residence each year, have become as well known figures in London society as at home.

Chilean Nitrate Association.

Practically all of the nitrate supply of the world comes from Chili. This immense industry is under the control of a unique commercial organization known as the Nitrate association, which in March, 1901, was formed for the purpose of limiting the output, maintaining prices and disposing of the product through one general agency.

The association has recently issued a report, from which it appears that the exports in 1901 amounted to 2,738,522 tons, leaving stocks of 627,493 tons. There were also some 1,909,448 tons afloat.

The association takes a gloomy view of the future of the nitrate industry, alleging that the erection of new works will bring about an increased production, and may, through a readjustment of quotas, result in a dissolution of the association.

In November of last year, 32 lots of nitrate properties were offered for sale at auction by the government, 28 of which found purchasers. There were realized from the sale $993,598. Out of this sale there have sprung up a number of new works, and 18 are to be added to the 77 now in the combination. The government is preparing to place upon the market another lot of 21 nitrate properties, which will probably result in the building of other works. With these the productive power will be greatly increased, and fears are entertained by the association that its present prosperity will be of short duration. On the other hand, the new companies claim that producers are reaping enormous profits from the business.

R. E. MANSFIELD.

The Sowing of Sugar Beets in Europe.

The late international sugar conference at Brussels reached an agreement to abolish sugar bounties, and the question of first importance for the moment in Germany is how soon and to what extent the proposed plan will be adopted by the reichstag. Though the bundesrath, under the law of 1896, can abolish the sugar bounties, the consent of the reichstag must be had before the reduction of the tariff. It is confidently hoped that the Brussels convention will be approved all round, and that a healthy readjustment of beet-sugar production to the market at home and abroad will ensue. The new legislation will not go into effect until September, 1903; but in view of that event and of the future increased cost of production, it was expected that there would be a large reduction in sowings already this year. Unusual interest centered on this question, and the reports gathered by the factories in the various sugar-beet countries were published a few days ago, showing the following results compared with previous years:

Country.	1900-3. Acres.	1901-2. Acres.	1900-1901. Acres.
Germany	1,196,464.5	1,178,352.9	1,095,709.2
Austria	751,196	696,231.7	629,151.4
France	351,050	405,904.4	346,391.2
Russia	1,483,000	1,467,447.5	1,365,479.9
Belgium	129,460.4	126,400.2	170,128.4
Holland	74,062.4	120,376.6	111,205.1
Sweden	58,781.2	76,243	71,271.1
Denmark	35,784.7	37,205	35,000
Other countries	196,300	210,005	181,261.6
Total	4,322,651.4	4,546,365	4,546,670.3

There is a decrease in acreage in Germany, Austria, France, Belgium and Holland, and a rise in all else in Russia. The average shortage in this year's sowings is given at about 17 per cent., which is less than had been generally expected. It is reasonable to believe that the yield will improve year by year, through careful and scientific farming, and therefore we may look forward to another large crop this year. But even if there should be only a fair average, the 17 per cent. decrease in sowings would not bring about such a diminution in the production of sugar as to relieve the present glutted market, especially if the United States and the cane-growing countries should increase their production. In other words, it is to be expected that the visible supply of sugar in the world on August 31 (the end of the European season), 1903, will continue to show an enormously overstocked market.

HENRY W. DIEDERICH.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

... Proprietor

REPEAL MEEKER ACT.

After waging a vigorous campaign in behalf of good government previous to the last election, the Citizen's Union, of East Orange, is now devoting its energies to secure the repeal of the Meeker election law and the passage of a new and better primary law. This campaign is not being confined to Newark and the Oranges alone but the support of the people all over the State is looked for.

A wonderfully clear demonstration of the need of the repeal of the Meeker election law was seen in Essex county last November. And it was not confined to Essex county alone. While the city government of Plainfield lost nothing by it, yet it was very evident that the interest in the Congressional and county fights so overshadowed the municipal election that there were comparatively few who knew anything about the real local issues. As there wasn't really anything at issue as far as the city ticket was concerned here in Plainfield and the ticket that won an unusually satisfactory one, it didn't make much difference this year. Such apathy on the part of the local voters would make possible happenings in the future that are far from desirable and to be carefully guarded against.

It is therefore to be hoped that the Citizen's Union will be successful in its fight against the measure. If the trend of public opinion can be gauged by the editorial comments of the newspapers all over the State, the Union had the support of a vast majority.

In its fight to secure a new and better primary law, the East Orange organization deserves the heartiest support of every citizen in New Jersey. When the people of Plainfield remember the happenings at certain Republican primaries which were held in Union county last fall, they should be thankful, indeed, to see any legislation enacted that will prevent a repetition of such a state of affairs.

Petitions have been prepared by the Citizen's Union and copies of them may be found at The Daily Press office. If there are any desirous of placing themselves on record regarding these two subjects, the opportunity now presents itself.

THAT OLD PROBLEM.

And still the Common Council is not satisfied with the service of the local trolley company. At the request of that municipal body, the company submitted its old schedule by which all the cars met at the Watchung avenue transfer station every fifteen minutes and adopted the present one. By the present arrangement, two cars meet every five minutes and the passengers from one car are compelled to wait either five or ten minutes for another.

This change was an experiment made by the company to relieve the crowded condition of Watchung avenue. With six cars gathered there every fifteen minutes, the thoroughfare became more of a waiting room than a public street. The passage of vehicles at that time was a dangerous undertaking and a fractious horse could carry death or injury to many. The Common Council asked the trolley company to take some means of relieving those conditions and the present schedule was the result.

It is now pretty generally understood that the new schedule is not a bowling success as far as the public is concerned. The street is blockaded more or less every five minutes instead of being completely blocked every fifteen minutes while the passengers from one line to another are compelled to wait under any circumstances where before there was a fair chance of making direct connections. The public has not taken kindly to the change and so the Council has requested the company to return to the old way.

Long ago, The Daily Press pointed out that the only satisfactory way of solving this troublesome problem was for the trolley company to establish a regular waiting station on private property in that neighborhood and run a loop around it so that the cars could gather off the public thoroughfare and deposit their passengers on a covered platform instead of in the middle of a muddy street. Such arrangement would give back Watchung avenue to the use of the public and, with a proper station, would greatly improve the tempers of the passengers who waited for one car or another.

If the trolley company returns to the old way, there will be the same objection as before. To please the people the company must try some new arrangement. Several were proposed before the present system was adopted and there were objections to *each one. The schedule may be ar*ranged and rearranged but a permanent solution of the problem will not be reached until the company establishes a transfer station where its cars can wait on private property and not block up the public thoroughfares.

A LEADER NEEDED.

Major Carl Lentz has been re-elected chairman of the Republican county committee over in Essex after he was turned down for sheriff at the polls by the voters of his party last November. There wasn't a vote against him and he was given quite a flattering reception. Nevertheless, it cannot be doubted that his re-election to the place is not popular with the rank and file. The Republicans have a powerful "machine" in Essex county. It was strong enough to give him the chairmanship although it couldn't make him sheriff.

Just what the effect of this action will be it is impossible to say. It is not likely, however, to improve the harmonious conditions there. It looks very much as if it meant to line the "machine" up against the independent element which was the means of Major Lentz's defeat for sheriff. There is one thing about it, however, what the independents did before they can do again and it looks as if the "machine" was likely to find anything but a smooth path if it tries to dictate too much in county affairs.

This is only another instance of the need of the New Jersey Republicans to find a leader. Only when some man, whose personality is strong enough to influence the squabbling factions, comes to the fore can the Republicans hope to end their present troubles in Essex, Union and Somerset. The Republicans are in power now but factional differences in both Essex and Somerset cost them county offices that could have been captured with better management. When a natural leader arises, he will find plenty to do in order to bring his party back to its real strength. It was the wonderful ability of General Sewell along these same lines that gave him his powerful influence in the affairs of the State. It was his guiding hand that kept the Republicans of the State together and played a prominent part in bringing that party into its present strength. Another Sewell is needed today.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

Although the Common Council for 1903 will hold its first meeting Thursday, no message from the pen of Mayor Jenkins need not be expected until the first of next week. The meeting on New Year's night is simply held to conform with the law and the bulk of the business which ordinarily comes before the Council at the first meeting in the month will be transacted on the Monday evening following.

There is reason to believe that Mayor Jenkins' message this year will not specially interest us as the two subjects which he is likely to refer. There is his proposition of public parks and a public lake and the installation of a police alarm system, a patrol wagon and a new police headquarters. As far as the first is concerned, it is quite likely that Mayor Jenkins will make some recommendations along the lines laid down in his speech at the Board of Trade banquet. Just how he will treat the second *subject is not known. It is realized, how*ever, that the rest of the administration favors the improvement of the police department along those lines so that it is reasonable to believe that the Mayor takes the same view of the needs of the city in that direction.

New Jersey has now the first automobile speedway in America. It is located at Lakewood and is entirely on private property. This is as it should be. If there are those who desire to speed these horseless vehicles faster than the law allows, they should have some place of their own where the life and limb of the general public is not endangered. So many owners of motor cars use the public thoroughfares for their own amusement and countless accidents are the result. It isn't that people object to the speeding of automobiles in the proper place but the general sentiment is against the conversion of the public highways into race tracks.

A great many business men advertised extensively for the holiday trade who do not advertise in the newspapers at other times, relates the Philadelphia Record. Yet it is especially at other times that they would like to stimulate trade. By continuing to use the newspaper columns for smaller advertisements they could retain the benefit of their recent spreading. To stop now for a year or for a month is to lose the prestige they have gained.

Decidedly this has been an old-fashioned winter. Already the snow has covered the ground for more days than is the case in the usual Jersey winter. A little while ago, we heard that the Gulf Stream had changed its course and was accountable for the mild winters of the last few years. That stream must have strayed again if this vigorous kind of winter weather is to be accounted for.

We want You to know Us

not only as makers of the NEW ROCHESTER,

THE STANDARD LAMP OF THE WORLD,

but also as headquarters for all lamp information. We will clean, fully supply it gratis, whether purchasing to Rochester goods or not. Our service is not entirely philanthropic. We want you to use the ROCHESTER. Sometimes we LAMP you don't want you to consider, as so many do, that any combustible lamp is a Rochester. Insist that it is a Rochester, or don't have it. And every lamp that has not that name stamped on it is not a Rochester. Our name is on the burner of the best lamps we make or others it as such he is trying to defraud you. Beware of him.

Whatever you want to know about lamps, Whenever you want to know it, ask

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,

38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

HOWELL DIVISION'S TURN A RAILROAD MAN'S CAREER

CELEBRATED ITS THIRTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY MONDAY EVENING.

Several Prominent Sons of Temperance Were Present at the Entertainment.

In honor of its thirty-fifth anniversary, Howell Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance, gave an entertainment to its friends last Monday. The attendance was extremely large and the affair was thoroughly enjoyed.

The programme in detail was as follows: Prayer, Past Grand Worthy Patriarch James Perrine, of Brooklyn; chorus song, Misses Edgar and Mills; address of welcome, William H. Ayers; piano selections, and songs, Misses Hattie, Madeline and Lydia Edgar; recitations, Miss Adele T. VonOhl, duets, Arthur Dawe and Lorena Schultz; address, Grand Worthy Patriarch James Perrine; solo, Arthur Stokey; duet, Olive Mills and Lizzie Schultz, monologue, Harry Williams; remarks, Deputy Most Worthy Patriarch of the United States and Canada Compton, of Metuchen; remarks, John Goodwin, of the Rescue Mission; closing prayer, Rev. B. W. Hand.

The committee in charge consisted of William B. Ayers, Michael Armstrong, John Manley, S. B. Scribner, Mrs. Edgar, Mrs. Andrew Cox, Mrs. John Manley, Mrs. Henry Angleman and Miss Mabel Thompson.

OWN PRINTING PLANTS.

Pennsylvania Railroad is Planning to Do All Its Own Printing.

Plans are being considered by the officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad, whereby all of the company's printing will be done in plants owned by the company. It is said that two plants will be erected, one in Philadelphia and the other in Pittsburg.

Another announcement recently made by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is that it will pay its employes who served with the National Guard during the coal strike full sal*aries for the time they were away* from duty.

Funeral of Mrs. Newman.

The funeral of Mrs. Anna J. Newman, who passed away at the home of her brother-in law, J. J. Stahl, of Grandview avenue, was held Saturday afternoon from his residence and the interment was in the North Plainfield cemetery. Rev. J. O. McKelvey officiated at the services. The following were the pall bearers: W. B. Bennett, A. F. Brokaw, L. B. Bodine, D. Bodine, G. H. Fairchild and S. Hempstead.

Talked on India.

The illustrated talk on India given at the First Baptist church, Sunday evening, was one of the best on that subject. Rev. Dr. C. L. Rhoades, who gave the lecture, is exceptionally well informed on the subject and not only his talk, but the views were of deep interest. The lantern was operated by Charles E. Vail, of Orchard place.

Can Interest All.

Dr. MacArthur, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, New York city, says: "It is quite certain that Henry T. Bryant can interest any audience, old or young." Mr. Bryant, the ventriloquist and humorist, will appear with other talent in the entertainment of the Y. M. C. A. Star Course on New Year's night.

Invitations for Wedding.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Parkinson Scott, daughter of Mrs. Julian Scott, to Dexter O. Tiffany. The wedding is to take place in the Church of the Incarnation, New York, Saturday, January 10, at 4 o'clock.

Series of Teas.

Mrs. Charles J. Fisk has issued invitations to a series of teas to be given at her New York home Tuesday afternoons in January. A number of Plainfield society folks have been invited.

The Entertainers.

Harry Bryant, the ventriloquist, will entertain with Miss Janet Lester and Charles H. Simerson in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course on New Year's night.

To Take Account of Stock.

The employes at Woodhull & Martin's store are now making preparations for the annual taking account of stock.

HOW SUPERINTENDENT KERWIN HAS WORKED HIS WAY UP.

From Water Boy on Section Gang, He Has Risen to Superintendency on Jersey Central.

Few men who have risen in the railroad business, says the Railroad Employe, had a less promising beginning, and no man ever attained success more worthily than has E. E. Kerwin, the new superintendent of the Central and L. and S. divisions of the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Mr. Kerwin was born in Turners, N. Y., on December 18, 1861, where his boyhood days were spent. His parents were poor and were unable to give him the advantage of more than a limited education, and at the age of ten years, on August 1, 1871, young Kerwin started out to earn his own living as a water boy to a section gang on the Erie Railroad at Turners, *and he continued in the track depart*ment in this capacity and that of section hand until March, 1883, when he entered the telegraph office as Central Valley, N. Y., as a student. He was not long in mastering "Morse," and on June 1 of the same year he was appointed agent for the Erie at Mountainville, N. Y., where he remained until November, when he resigned and accepted a position as operator with C. W. Bradley, then superintendent of the old New York, West Shore and Buffalo, being the first operator in the employ of that company at Weehawken.

Mr. Kerwin continued in the employ of the West Shore as agent and operator at different points until March, 1885, when he went west and accepted a position with the Union Pacific, as operator at Rock Creek, Wy., where he remained until December of that year, when he accepted service with the Omaha road at Sioux City, Iowa, as yard clerk, which place he resigned in February, 1886, to accept a position as operator and agent with the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul on their Council Bluff division, where he remained until April, 1889, when he shifted himself with the Chicago and Great Western as an operator in the dispatcher's office at Des Moines, Iowa.

Mr. Kerwin left the employ of the Great Western in 1890 to take a position with the Iowa Central as telegraph train dispatcher at Marshalltown, where he remained until May, 1893, when he was promoted to chief train dispatcher of the Eastern and Illinois divisions, with headquarters at Mattoon, Ill., and in November, 1895, he was advanced to the position of trainmaster of the same division, and in July, 1897, on which date the train dispatchers and trainmasters' officers were consolidated, Mr. Kerwin was appointed trainmaster of the Iowa Central system, with headquarters at Oskaloosa, Ia., resigning that position on June 8 of the present year to take service with the New Jersey Central as trainmaster of the L. and S. division, with headquarters at Manch Chunk. He was appointed superintendent of the Central and L. and S. divisions on October 15 last.

Mr. Kerwin is one of the most thoroughly practical railroad managers in the country; his training has been such as to give him an intelligent and comprehensive knowledge of every detail of the railroad business, a fact which has been practically demonstrated since his connection with the New Jersey Central. With the employes he is held in the highest respect, and the men in all branches of the service realize that they are working under the direction of an official who is a railroad man; who has earned the position he occupies through ability and not influence, and that when matters come before him which relate to their welfare that they will be acted upon intelligently, and with a full and comprehensive knowledge of existing conditions.

The story of Mr. Kerwin's life, his early struggle with adversity, his determination to succeed, and his ultimate success tells the story which every young man in America should read with interest and profit.

Will Tear Down House.

Alex. Kane, who recently purchased the house at Watchung and Kensington Avenues, will have the structure torn down. The work of demolition will begin within a few days.

GRABBED THE WRONG CORD

IT WASN'T LONG BEFORE PASSENGER AND CONDUCTOR CAME TO BLOWS.

A Little Mistake on a Fourth Street Car Made Lots of Excitement and No End of Talk.

Because a local business man mistook the fare register cord in a trolley car for the bell rope, a conductor on the local line has been suspended that followed. It all happened a few nights ago on a Fourth street car.

All was going quietly enough until a sleepy passenger was carried by Liberty street where he had wanted to leave the car. The conductor, it is said, offered to transfer him back again on the next car but the idea didn't seem to please the passenger. While the question was being argued pro and con with considerable vehemence, the business man undertook to come to the rescue of his fellow passenger. He grabbed the first cord that came handy and had rang up several fares before the mistake was discovered. It is said that he broke the cord.

According to the story now current, the conductor turned his attention to the business man and after some high words, challenged him to "have it out." The challenge was accepted and the occupants of the car adjourned to the street while traffic on that end of the line was temporarily suspended. The passengers formed a ring and a brisk rough-and-tumble fight ensued.

Rumor has it that there were some lively times but neither man appears to have suffered very severely. At any rate, the case was reported to the trolley officials and the conductor is not working now while an investigation is to be made.

FOR MEDICAL STAFF.

Dr. Zeglio Named to Fill Place of Dr. Probasco on Hospital Staff.

There were seven members of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital present at the regular meeting last evening, and there was not much business of great importance considered. Dr. Zeglio was appointed to take the place of Dr. J. B. Probasco on the hospital staff, and Drs. J. Hervey Buchanan, Marcus L. Ohlwein, Charles Jones and Wm. Van Horn were appointed assistants to the regular hospital staff to be called whenever needed. The other business transacted was of a routine nature.

All but Dr. VanHorn were appointed as assistants to the medical staff, while he was appointed assistant in the eye and ear department. The number of patients treated in the hospital for the month ending December 23, was sixty-five, and there were twenty remaining on that date. There were sixty-three dispensary patients and 317 visits in dispensary patients. This was a record month.

Church Anniversary.

There will be interesting exercises at the Monroe Avenue church next Sunday, when that church will celebrate its sixth anniversary. The pastor, Rev. John MacMurray, will give a historical sketch in the morning and in the evening the first pastor of the church, Rev. H. B. Munson, of Hempstead, L. I., will preach the anniversary sermon.

West Into Sausage Machine.

George Schneider, a butcher employed in a market at Stirling, is minus four fingers as the result of too close acquaintance with a sausage cutting machine, last Friday. He was manipulating the contrivance at the time when the digits were caught and badly mangled. He went to Roosevelt Hospital, New York, where all four were amputated.

Officers for Relief Union.

Officers have been elected by the Woman's Veteran Relief Union as follows: President, Mrs. W. A. Alexander; senior vice president, Mrs. Sarah Mattox; junior vice president, Mrs. Albert G. Perry; treasurer, Mrs. John B. Naylor; chaplain, Mrs. Johnson.

Dr. Humphreys'

specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

No.	CURES.	DOSES.
1—	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.	.25
2—	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...	.25
3—	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4—	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults...	.25
5—	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis...	.25
6—	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache...	.25
7—	Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo...	.25
8—	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
9—	Suppressed or Painful Periods...	.25
10—	Whites, Too Profuse Periods...	.25
11—	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness...	.25
12—	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions...	.25
13—	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains...	.25
14—	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague...	.25
15—	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
16—	Whooping-Cough...	.25
17—	Kidney Diseases...	.25
18—	Nervous Debility...	1.00
19—	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed...	.25
20—	Grip, Hay Fever...	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or Mailed Free.
Humphreys' Homeopathic Medicine Co., cor. John and Ann Sts., New York

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER NOV. 30, 1902,

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

For Pittsburg, Harrisburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis, Vestibule Parlor Cars, for Pittsburg and Cincinnati, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

6.37 a. m.—Western Express, daily, with Parlor Car, Buffet Sleeping Car and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

7.23 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg and Chicago, daily for Knoxville via Shenandoah Valley Route, for Cleveland, except Saturday.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1.05, 6.38, 9.07, 9.45 a. m., 1.27, 4.02, 7.23 p. m. On Fifteen Minute Service, 7.26, 8.11 a. m., 1.51, 5.27, and 10.07 p. m.

For Newark and New York—3.39, 5.21, 6.48, 6.12, 6.25, 7.26, 8.05, 8.56, 7.17, 7.40, 7.47, 7.54, 8.05, 8.30, 8.50, 9.07, 9.45, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00 a. m., 12.00 noon, 12.17, 12.40 p. m., 12.52, 1.05, 1.27, 2.25, 3.25, 3.45, 4.02, 4.30, 4.45, 5.05, 5.27, 5.45, 6.05, 6.25, 6.44, 7.23, 7.50, 8.35, 9.41, 4.55, 5.26, 6.05, 6.56, 8.00, 9.07, 10.07, 11.05 p. m., 12.01, 2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m. Sundays, 3.06, 3.51, 6.48, 6.12, 6.25, 7.26, 8.05, 8.56, 9.07, 9.45, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00 a. m., 12.00 noon, 12.17, 12.40, 1.05, 1.27, 2.25, 3.25, 3.45, 4.02, 4.30, 4.45, 5.05, 5.27, 5.45, 6.05, 6.25, 6.44, 7.23, 7.50, 8.35, 9.41, 4.55, 5.26, 6.05, 6.56, 8.00, 9.07, 10.07, 11.05 p. m., 12.01, 2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m. Sundays—

EXERCISES AT MANY CHURCHES

Sunday Was Observed as Christmas Sunday by Many of the Local Churches.

WAS PLENTY OF MUSIC

Carols, Recitations and Addresses Went to Make Up the Various Programmes — Decorations of Greens Prevailed Throughout —Those Who Took Part.

Christmas services were held in many of the local churches Sunday. Carols, recitations and addresses made up the programmes. A delightful day, clear and cold, brought out large congregations for the services.

FIRST BAPTIST.

One of the best Christmas services held at the First Batpist church was that of Sunday morning, when the Sunday-school united in a special service. The church was decorated with greens, with an illuminated star over the organ. The music was under the direction of Howard Case, organist, and assisting were Dr. Leonard Waldo, Miss Waldo and Fullerton Waldo, who rendered selections on the violin, viola and violoncello. The prelude was by the trio as was also the offertory.

In the rendition of the anthems the solo parts were taken by Miss Luella C. Harris, soprano; Mrs. F. M. Ward, contralto; William Holmes, bass; and George Smith, tenor. The musical numbers as previously published were given in their entirety.

During the service, Rev. Dr. Charles L. Rhoades, of New York, gave a short discourse.

The choir was composed of the following persons: Sopranos, Miss Luella C. Harris, Mrs. Giddis, Miss Dunham, Miss Elsie Giles, Miss Tallamy, Miss Smith; altos, Mrs. F. M. Ward, Miss Jessie Haynes, Miss Nan. Randolph, Miss Bertha Needham, Miss Bonney, Miss Mae Batchelor; tenors, C. W. McCutchen, George Smith, Willard M. Miner, Mr. Douglass; basses, William Holmes, George Taylor, F. S. Cutter, Stacy Raynolds.

The offering received was for the Muhlenberg Hospital and there was a liberal response. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes took part in the service by offering prayer.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

The Christmas services at the First Presbyterian church, morning and evening, Sunday, attracted large congregations. The church was decorated with greens, while suspended over the pulpit was a star of greens, at each point of which was an incandescent light. The musical part of the services was in charge of Clifford A. Brainerd, organist. In the morning the regular quartette, composed of Elmer D. Cutting, E. Maxwell Honeyman, Sydney R. Titsworth and Howard T. Lewis, sang two anthems, while Dr. Nice, assisting, rendered the offertory solo on the violin and Mr. Cutting, tenor, sang "In Old Judea."

The musical service in the evening was more elaborate. The choir was assisted by Miss Etta Raybert and Miss Elsie Giles, soprano; Mrs. Charlotte M. Rose and Miss Jessie Haynes, contraltos. Miss Rayvert sang the offertory number, and Dr. Nice rendered another violin selection. The male quartette gave two anthems, while there was also a selection on the organ and violin.

Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor, preached a post Christmas sermon in the morning, saying that it is now a time for new thoughts, inspiration and greater efforts. In the evening Mr. Herring gave a short talk appropriate to the occasion.

GRACE M. E.

Christmas services were held in the Grace M. E. church Sunday morning, afternoon and evening. In the morning the services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Edwin L. Earp, and special Christmas music was rendered by the choir which comprises Miss Carrie Tingley, Miss Agnes Tingley, Mrs. Anna Meet, Mrs. Charles Greer and Miss May Steiner; Dyckman Winkler, Mr. Quipp and John Steiner, director.

In the afternoon the Sunday-school exercises were held when the following children took part: Elva Lippincott, Clara Bodenheimer, Mabel Winans, Myra Lippincott, Lillian Yetts, Emma Kyno, all of whom gave appropriate recitations. Vocal solos were rendered by Miss Agnes Tingley, Miss Margaret Darby and Miss Myra Lippincott. "Twinkle," a recitation was recited by the Misses Mildred Hardin, Clara Bodenheimer, Emma Kyno, Edna Beeching, Edna Steward, Mabel Winans, and Brokaw and Blanche Stout. A motion song was executed by the Misses Edna Steward, Myra Lippincott, Lillian Titus, Beatrice Pope, Hazel Hyatt, Margaret Darby, Elva Force, Belle Tunison, Edna Beeching and Elva Lippincott.

A number of little boys of the Sunday-school cleverly executed a drill. They were Arthur Steward, Alexander Lewis and Alfred Lowrey. The music during the afternoon was under the direction of Miss Mary Steiner, pianist, and Dyckman Winkler, violinist. The committee of the arrangements comprised Miss Mary Steiner, Miss Della Veedi and Miss Belle Langer. Special music was rendered at the evening service of the church last evening and the pastor preached a sermon on "Christmas Givin."

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST.

The Christmas services at the Seventh-Day Baptist church Saturday morning consisted of special anthems by the choir and an appropriate sermon by the pator, Rev. George B. Shaw. The music was under the direction of Miss Jessie Utter, organist, while Miss Mabel Maxson presided at the piano. Those who composed the choir are as follows: Mrs. David E. Titsworth, Miss Nan. Randolph, Miss Cornelia Miller, Mrs. George L. Homan, Mrs. J. E. Kimball, Mrs. W. C. Hubbard and David E. Titsworth, Louis T. Rogers, Mr. Wright, Paul Whitford and Charles Titsworth. The church was appropriately decorated with greens.

TRINITY REFORMED.

Special Chrismas services at Trinity Reformed church were held Sunday morning and evening. The musical parts of the services were given under the efficient direction of Arthur L. Titsworth, organist, by an augmented choir. The decorations were unusually rich and were arranged by H. C. Van Emburgh and a committee. Ropings of greens were suspended from the upper part of the church and were draped to various points. In the centre was suspended a large bell of greens in which was hung an electric light. Wreaths of greens on either side of the church were tied with red crepe paper.

The musical service, as previously published, was rendered in the morning, and the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, preached an interesting discourse from the subject, "The Day Spring from on High," Luke 1, 78-79.

In the evening there was a special programme in which the Sunday-school took part. The programme was opened with an overture by the orchestra composed of violins, Mrs. George W. Sasme and Kenneth Stuart; piano, Miss Lillian A. Force; 'cello, Dr. Berg; flute, Elmer Wheeler; organ, Arthur L. Titsworth. This orchestra also accompanied the school in its musical number in "The Children's King," a service for Christmas. The superintendent, F. E. Smith, was in charge.

In this service there were recitations by Harold Schenck, Russell Hoagland, Margaret Vandeventer, Elsie Debele, Elsie Bodine, Anna Edith Richards, Helen Woolley, Elsie Vail, Mildred Bremer, Harold Storr, Tier, Ethel Vail, Laura Bodine, Myra Donavan, Rosamond Rogers, Nettie Robinson, Grace Stevenson, Ella Case, Jeanette Neal, Edna Debele, Anna Bess, Bertha Hoagland, Edson Day, Helen Hoagland, Mr. Cole, Edna Oliver, Helen Roberts, Ralph Martin.

A feature of the evening service was the address by Rev. Walter T. Griffin, U. S. Consul to Lamoges, France. His subject was "And Not Miss." Remarks were also made by the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, and Superintendent F. E. Smith. The members of the primary department were in charge of the superintendent, Mrs. J. M. Tier, to whom much credit is due for the excellent training of the children in their parts.

SWEDISH PILGRIM.

Last Sunday the Swedish Lutheran Pilgrim church on West Sixth street held its Christmas entertainment and celebration. A Christmas tree was arranged in one corner of the room and each child received a present of candy and fruit.

Special music by a string orchestra was a feature of the evening. Those in the orchestra were J. Tinglof, violin; Miss Christine Oleson, Miss Hulda Petersen, Miss Hanna Sward, Miss Judith Jansen, guitars; and Rev. O. G. Norseen, organist. Presents were distributed by the pastor during the services and J. Tinglof recited a short poem on Christmas tide, which was followed by a short address by the pastor, Rev. O. G. Norseen.

Those who took part in the exercises were the Misses Agnes Nord, Ruth Enander, Henrietta Mandy, Gertrude Mandy, Hanna Brandt, Esther Brandt, Anna and Lillian Straudsberg. The arrangements for the festival were in charge of the pastor, assisted by the members of the Ladies' Aid Society.

FIRST M. E.

The pupils of the First M. E. Sunday school held their Yuletide exercises, Sunday afternoon, in Vincent chapel. Superintendent J. R. Joy was in charge.

In addition to the rendition of carols by the entire school, the programme as furnished by the primary and intermediate departments was as follows: Recitations by Alice Joy, Douglas Stewart, Benson Hartley; "The Christmas Story From the Bible" by Frederick Fenno, Dorothy Lynn, Ethel Keiderling, Ellis Ruckman, Roger Stuart, Charles Montague, Mabelle Cook, Marguerite Hops and Arthur Slade. Harry Gee lead in Scripture reading and Dr. Bryant in prayer. Superintendent Joy also gave a blackboard talk.

Additional interest was lent the exercises by selections from an orchestra composed of Miss Gertrude Shupp, piano; Robert Davis, cornet; Kenneth Shupp, trombone; Miss Helen Shupp and Wilson Derby, violins; and Alvah Davis, flute.

In the church, last evening, a special musical service was given by the choir assisted by the Choral Society, in charge of Charles L. Lewis. A large congregation was present.

MONROE AVENUE M. E.

In point of success, the Christmas exercises at the Monroe Avenue church, Sunday afternoon, exceeded those of any former year. The attendance was exceptionally large, that of the infant class numbering 109, the highest on record. Decorations of the usual order, yet originally placed, were quite noticeable.

The entertainment for the most part was furnished by the pupils of the junior department and consisted of recitations by Rita Voorhees, Clara Brown, Grace Squier and Theodore Martin; songs by Edith Schwartz, William and Grace Squier, Herbert Rittenhouse, Elsie Bryan, Camilla Schuckmann and Edith Sears, from the infant classes. From the older department Marion Praed and Daisy Gilbert recited and Harry Lade sang. At the close Walter M. McGee delivered a talk on Christmas and its meaning. The infant department was in charge of the Misses Kline, Haff and Wensel.

MARCONNIER CHAPEL.

A pleasing programme was rendered Sunday afternoon at Marconnier chapel. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, opened the exercises with prayer and made an address on Christmas and its significance. An address was also made by A. P. Talp, of the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick. The exercises were in charge of the superintendent, H. W. Marshall.

The children who took part were; Willie Schenck, Fred Stover, Richard Campbell, Mary Morrison, Jennie Robertson, Lottie Campbell, Ida Schoenmaker, Kathryn Terry, May Pyatt, Annie Nelson, Lillian Stalks, Florence Stalks and Nettie Stover. A vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. W. E. VanCourt and Benjamin LaVere, rendered several very pleasing cornet solos.

PARK AVE. BAPTIST.

Impressive services were held at the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school Sunday afternoon. The regular lesson was omitted and Superintendent George E. Hall reviewed the workings of the past year. The session closed with an impressive talk by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Richardson, who also conducted a short service of prayer. During the service Miss Elsie Giles sang "Saved by Grace."

MT. OLIVE BAPTIST.

Christmastide was appropriately observed at the Mt. Olive Baptist church, Sunday morning and evening. In the morning the pastor, Rev. E. E. Jackson, preached a Christmas sermon and there was special music by the choir. An elaborate evening service was held. There were recitations by Willie Jones, Frank Brown, May Bennie Brown, Miss Bertha Hill and Miss Lulu Stout. The music at this service was rendered by a chorus of forty voices from the primary department. The annual Christmas sermon was preached after this service by Mr. Jackson, his subject being "One Year Nearer." The choir was filled to its utmost capacity. The collections for the day amounted to a sum which will liquidate the indebtedness within $33.

CRESCENT AVE. CHURCH.

As is the annual custom, the Sunday-schools of the Crescent Avenue church, Hope, Warren and Bethel chapels assembled together in the church for the Christmas exercises Sunday afternoon. Carol singing was the feature of the service and in addition Rev. Dr. Freeman delivered an address. A solo was contributed by Miss Grace Carroll, of the church choir. The decorations consisted of a large arch of greens back of the pulpit and a suspended star illuminated with electricity.

In the evening, a Christmas service, "The First Christmas," was given. It was conducted by the composer, C. Whitney Coombs, of New York. The music was very pleasing and the words selected with excellent taste, but repetition of both words and music made the service very long.

The regular choir was assisted by a large chorus in the rendition, comprising twenty in all, while Herbert Hemingway Joy presided at the organ. The solo parts were taken by Miss Martha M. Henry, Miss Grace J. Carroll, Charles E. Anderson and Arthur H. Chamberlain.

ST. MARY'S R. C. CHURCH.

The children of the Sunday-school of the St. Mary's R. C. church held their Christmas exercises Sunday afternoon in the Parochial School hall. The exercises were of song and recitation and those who took part were: Katherine Harding, Julia Connolly, John Kyle, Harvey Homan, Adelle Ohl, and Nellis Callahan. The arrangements were under the supervision of Sister Mary Estel. Rev. Father Egan made a short address and later gave out presents of candy and fruit to the children.

EAST THIRD ST. CHAPEL.

While there were no special Christmas services at the East Third Street chapel, Sunday, there were two helpful services, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening. In the afternoon, Rev. George Bowers made an address, the Sunday school sang a few Christmas carols and Miss Maude Bowers sang a solo. In the evening James A. Parker conducted the regular Gospel service, speaking very appropriately on the subject of "The Good Feast." Both services were well attended.

FIRST AUTO SPEEDWAY.

Lakewood's Exclusive Course Has Been Completed on Private Property.

Lakewood, Dec. 20.—The first automobile speedway in America has been completed. It is a course exclusively for motor vehicles. It lies about a mile north of the village and stretches for about a mile and a quarter through the pine woods. It is eighty feet wide.

The road was first projected and began last year, and it is said that members of the Gould family agreed to pay half the expenses of building it. First a bed of gravel was laid for a foundation and drainage, and this was topped by a dressing of loam.

Not even saddle horses are allowed on the road, and the only automobiles who are permitted to use it are those holding tickets of membership in the association that built the course. It is absolutely private property, but it is thought likely courtesies will be extended to members of the automobile clubs who aspire to making records.

SWORD FOR CAPTAIN.

Non-Commissioned Officers of Company K Presented Their Commander, Capt. Martin With a Sword.

Company K held a drill last evening in its new armory on East Second street when the entire enlistment was present. After the drill, First Sergeant Charles Peterson stepped forward and in a short speech, in which he told of the great esteem in which Captain William B. Martin is held by the members of the company, presented him with a very handsomely decorated sword on behalf of the non-commissioned officers of the company.

Captain Martin was taken by surprise and it was some seconds before he was able to find words in which to convey his gratitude to the company for the gift.

Interesting Wedding.

Many older residents of the town will be interested in the marriage of Miss Katharine Hays Drake, daughter of Simeon J. Drake, of New York, to Henry Grienor which will take place at the Collegiate church, Fifth avenue, New York, January 7. A small reception will follow at the home of the bride's father, 548 Madison avenue. Miss Drake is a granddaughter of the late Rev. Simeon J. Drake, for many years pastor of the First Baptist church, of this place.

Bank's New Year Gift.

The officials of the City National Bank have sent out to their customers a very appropriate New Year's gift in the shape of a foot ruler. It is made of celluloid and very handy to carry in one's pocket. On either side there are a few pertinent facts concerning this sound financial institution. Accompanying the gift is a neat booklet containing interesting facts and figures about the bank.

New Fast Freight.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad has added a new fast freight from New York to Buffalo, chiefly to accommodate the American Sugar Refining Company, which ships a trainload of sugar from its Jersey City refinery daily over the Lehigh Valley, aggregating 4,000 barrels per day.

Takes Mr. Bell's Place.

T. B. Koons, of Sandford avenue, who was recently made freight traffic manager of the New Jersey Central, takes the place vacated by Traffic Manager Bell, who left the road a year ago.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

KEPT SANTA CLAUS BUSY

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

Rogers, Edith Richards, Helen Woolley, Ethel Vail and Elsie Tier. Recitations were given by Susan Day, Ralph Martin, Bertha Hoagland, Helen Smith and Edna Cole. Eight little children from the primary department sang a Christmas carol. They were Rosmond Rogers, Elsie Tier, Helen Roberts, Ethel Vail, Helen Woolley, Edna Oliver and Edith Richards. They were accompanied on the piano by Miss Nettie Kriesling. The children of the infant department were drilled under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Tier, superintendent, assisted by Miss Berkaw and Mrs. Gayle.

In the midst of the festivities Santa Claus appeared in the person of J. C. Martin. Among the first presents which he extracted from his great pack of presents were two pictures, very handsome ones. One was addressed to Mrs. J. M. Tier, superintendent of the primary department, and the other was addressed to Miss Lillian A. Force, the pianist. Deeper down in his pack the old red faced fellow went and brought up four nice umbrellas which he said were for H. J. Martin, J. C. VanEmburgh, E. H. Bird and F. E. Smith, the superintendent of the school.

The teachers who had charge of the children on the platform were Mrs. J. M. Tier, Mrs. E. M. Randall and the Misses Abbie VanCleef, Bessie Leighton, Minnie Wyman, Harriet Randall, Lucie Coriell, Minnie Nisbwitz, Anna Randall and Miss Pessenger.

The committee which had the arrangements in charge consisted of H. J. Martin, F. E. Smith, Robert M. Clark, Jr., Edgar Sheppard, Charles M. Doliver, Miss Lillian A. Force, Miss Sadie Searing, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck. Nearly 700 boxes of candy were distributed to members of different departments.

MT. OLIVE BAPTIST.

Christmastide was appropriately celebrated at the Mt. Olive Baptist church last Tuesday. Superintendent M. C. Dobbins was in charge and both he and N. H. Saxton made short addresses. During the evening a library of 150 volumes of the best books was presented to the school by Santa Claus.

The programme consisted of a number of songs and recitations by the following persons: Miss Madeline Fisher, Miss Mamie Mitchell, Miss Florence Jones, Miss Carrie Somerset, Willie Jones, Miss Anna Saunder, Joseph Jones, Miss Ethel Gordon, Miss Viola Jones, Miss Alberta Gordon, Miss Lizzie Yetman, Miss Anna Fisher, Miss Bessie Kingslow, Miss Bertha Hunt and a duet by Miss Agnes Alet and Miss Caroline Rugle. After the entertainment useful gifts were given to the pupils.

MARCONNIER CHAPEL.

The Christmas festival at Marconnier chapel was held last Tuesday. Charles S. Thompson, of Elizabeth, gave his clever exhibition of sleight-of-hand work, and G. W. V. Moy gave some of James Whitcomb Reilly's best selections. Everitt Reighton entertained with German dialect stories and there were recitations by Stanley Esmons, Miss Ivs. Morrison and Howard Malick, after which Superintendent H. W. Marshall distributed gifts to the children. There was a large attendance.

ALL SOULS CHURCH.

An informal programme marked the Christmas festival at All Souls' church, last Tuesday. A feature of the affair was a "Christmas Pie," which occupied the centre of a large table. Contained in the pie were presents for everyone. Attached to the presents were strings which were given to each one seated at the table. The gifts were a surprise to all. During the evening the school sang Christmas carols and played games.

WARREN CHAPEL.

The Christmas festival was held last Tuesday at Warren chapel. J. William Macey, of New York, was present and provided amusement. Miss Grace Carroll, of the Crescent Avenue church choir, rendered several selections.

During the afternoon the members of the infant and primary departments of the school held their festival when the presents were given to them. All the children received remembrances in the form of games, candy and fruit. Those who had the arrangements for the afternoon and evening entertainments were Rev. J. O. McKelvey, Joseph Gavett and L. N. Lovell.

BETHEL CHAPEL.

Members of the Bethel chapel Sunday-school assembled at the chapel last Tuesday to take part in their exercises. Christmas carols were a feature. After the singing of the carols the pastor, Rev. F. D. Tildon, made a short address of welcome. Among those who participated in the programme were: Charles E. VanHorne, Miss Stella Hill, Miss Lizzie Kinley, Miss Eula Low; and a chorus comprising the following voices: Miss Lizzie Kinley, Mrs. Charles Erley, Miss Stella Hill, Miss Reeves and Charles E. VanHorne. City Treasurer William F. Arnold was present at the exercises and entertained with phographic selections.

The affair was arranged by Rev. F. D. Tildon, the pastor, Abram Brown, B. Sutton, W. A. Smith, C. E. VanHorne, Sampson P. Robinson, E. T. James, Miss Euphemens Darcey, Miss Buola Lane, Miss Lizzie Kinley and Miss Anna Gannaway. The arrangements were under the supervision of S. A. Ginna, superintendent of the school; and his assistant, A. W. Duxbury.

WIFE ILL; THE HOUSE AFIRE

DANIEL VANWINKLE FOUND A DANGEROUS SITUATION AT HIS HOME.

But Fire Was Extinguished Before Much Damage Was Done and Danger Averted.

With his wife ill in bed on the floor above and the lower part of the house deserted, Daniel VanWinkle returned to his home on New street Monday noon, to find that the kitchen was ablaze and the parlors and sitting room filled with smoke. Fortunately the fire was discovered before it had gained great headway and after fifteen minutes hard work he was able to subdue the flames, before much damage had been done.

The fire started from some clothes which were hung on a line in the kitchen and directly over the range. The overheated stove soon set the linen on fire and it was fast communicating to the woodwork when it was discovered. Some children who were playing nearby saw the fire in the kitchen but were unable to make anyone hear their cries of alarm until Mr. VanWinkle was seen approaching.

Had the fire gained much further headway it would have shut off all escape from the stairs leading from the upper story.

Wedding at Watchung.

The wedding of Daniel Flanney and Miss May Wyckoff, both of Watchung took place at Watchung, Saturday afternoon, when Rev. George Bowers officiated. The best man was James Gunn and the bridesmaid was Miss Susan Whitenoy. The wedding was a very quiet one, only the immediate family and a few friends being present. The newly-married couple will make their home at Watchung.

Didn't Meet Christmas Day.

There was no meeting of Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 292, improved Order Red Men, Thursday evening, and there was no election of officers. The election will be held Thursday evening of next week.

Borrowed Locomotives.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has borrowed from the Duluth and Iron Range Railroad 100 locomotives, and six from the Pittsburg, Western and Lake Erie, the terms of the lease to be for the winter months.

Valuable Papers in It.

Christmas Eve Mr. VanHorn, of West Front street, lost his pocketbook, containing about $22. There were also valuable papers in the book, of no use to any one but the owner.

Election of Silk Company.

The stockholders of the Watchung Silk Company will meet Monday noon, January 12, for the purpose of electing seven directors.

Married Christmas Day.

Frank Ayres, of this city, and Miss Bertha Conger, of Mountain avenue, were united in marriage at the office of Justice Clark at Scotch Plains, Christmas day.

DIED.

MITCHELL—On Thursday, Dec. 25, 1902, Mabel W., daughter of Diantha and the late Robert Mitchell, aged 27 years.

NEWMAN—On Thursday, December 25, 1902, Annie J., widow of Wm. F. Newman, aged 41 years.

CLEAVER—On Thursday, December 25, 1902, Ann H., widow of Thomas Cleaver, in her 76th year.

SMITH—On Dec. 24, at West Baden, Ind., Murray H., eldest son of Wm. E. and Catherine J. Smith, in his 32d year.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages there should be cleanliness.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.

Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion, free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE.

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. BOCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, come to travel appointed agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure permanent, profitable position. Liberal terms and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,
22 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange
Money to loan on Approved Security

SERVICES HELD CHRISTMAS DAY

The Local Episcopal and Roman Catholic Churches Held Special Services Thursday.

MANY IN ATTENDANCE

All Were Bright With the Yuletide Decorations, While the Real Christmas Weather Attracted Many to the Appropriate Services of the Day.

Christmas Day was observed by exercises at the local Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches Thursday. All the sanctuaries were bright with their yuletide decorations and the real Christmas weather brought out a goodly congregation at each.

At St. Mary's R. C. church, the first mass was sung at 6 o'clock in the morning. It was a solemn high mass. Special music was rendered by the choir under the leadership of the choirmaster, Mathew Cashin. Another mass was sung at 7:30 and at 8 o'clock the church was filled again with worshipers. The 8 o'clock service was set aside for the children and the little folk filled the church and joined heartily in the Christmas carols. A second solemn high mass was sung at 10:30 o'clock. This was the main service of the day. During the service the choir rendered special music and Rev. Father Egan preached an inspiring sermon appropriate to the day.

Christmas services were held Thursday at St. Stephen's Episcopal church in Netherwood when the church was filled with worshipers at all the three services. The early morning service was held at 7:30 when special music was rendered by the regular choir of the church. The other services were held at 9 o'clock and at 10 o'clock. At the latter the choir rendered special Christmas anthems and Gilbert's service in G. The children's carol service was held at the church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the church.

Christmas was appropriately observed Thursday morning at Holy Cross church in North Plainfield. The church was beautifully decorated with holly and greens and a feature of the decorations was an elaborate rood screen across the front of the chancel. The framework of this screen was completely covered with roping of princess pine and surmounting it was a handsome cross of greens, beautifully decorated. The body of the church was tastefully decorated with roping and holly.

Rev. W. Montgomery Downey officiated at the service which was of a choral nature. Miss Daisy M. Zerbe was at the organ. The order of service, as followed by the full vested choir, was as follows:

Processional, "O Come All Ye Faithful;" Venite, Robinson; Te Deum, Buck; Jubilate, Cooke; hymn, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing;" Kyrie, Cruickshank; hymn, "O Little Town of Bethlehem;" offertory, "Shout the Glad Tidings," Hawley; Sursum Corda, Cruickshank, Benedictus; sanctus; Agnis Dei; Gloria in Exselsis; Nunc Dimittis, Gregorian; recessional, "Angels From the Realms of Glory."

The usual special Christmas services were held at Grace Episcopal church Thursday morning, in charge of the rector, Rev. E. V. Stevenson. At 7 and 8 o'clock there was Holy Communion, while at 10:30 o'clock there was morning prayer, Holy Communion and sermon. There was a large attendance at the services and all entered most heartily into the spirit of the occasion. The church was very prettily decorated about the chancel and altar.

There was special music by the choir, in charge of Mrs. William A. Freeman, organist. There were pleasing solos by Miss Cornelia Miller, Frederick J. Pope and Arthur Freeman. Altogether the music was a most enjoyable feature of the services. Mr. Stevenson's sermon was appropriate to Christmastide and was listened to attentively by all.

Well attended services were held in the German Lutherian church both morning and evening Thursday. Rev. Mr. Duensing preached a very helpful sermon in the morning. At the evening service the Christmas exercises followed a short devotional service. A prettily decorated Christmas tree was placed in one corner of the room and the children sang Christmas carols. Rev. Mr. Duensing made a short address.

A Morris chair was presented to the pastor by the Sunday-school. All the children were presented with fruit and candy. Some of the teachers received presents of books.

Rev. Geo. Bowers, of Warrenville, conducted the Christmas services at the German Reformed church yesterday when he preached to the children. Special music was rendered and some of the children recited. Each child was presented with some candy and fruit.

Christmas masses were sung at St. Joseph's church in the borough Thursday morning at 5:30, 8:30 and at 10:30. At the early morning mass the children of the Sunday-school rendered several Christmas carols. There were about sixty voices in the choir. A solemn high mass was sung at the 10:30 service when the choir of the church rendered Mosart's Twelfth Mass and Navello's Adeste Fidelis. Solos were rendered by William Smith, tenor; Miss Hilton, soprano; Alfred LaPorte, second tenor; and James Baily, bass; and several organ selections were rendered by Mrs. Alfred LaPorte on the organ. Rev. Father Miller preached a sermon. The decorations were of greens and flowers.

UNION LODGE'S CHRISTMAS

FRATERNAL ORGANIZATION GAVE BALL AT SAENGERBUND HALL.

District Grand Master and Staff With Other Odd Fellows Were In Attendance.

Saengerbund Hall was the scene last Thursday of the second Christmas entertainment of Union Lodge, No. 4036, G. U. O. of O. F., and many colored people from this and from out of town were present as guests of the local lodge. The Sisters' Friendship Band, Household of Ruth, served the refreshments at a late hour when about 100 partook of the repast.

The entertainment was in the form of a dance. The floor manager was N. G. R Hopkins and his assistant was Ernest Austin. William H. Jones was the master of ceremonies. District Grand Master Ralph Hilton, of Newark, and his staff were present. Representatives from the lodges in Newark, Princeton, Montclair, Jersey City, East Orange, Paterson, New Brunswick, and Elizabeth were also in attendance.

The committee of arrangements comprised Edward Urquhart, chairman, Thomas J. Banks, treasurer; Armstead Jackson, V. J. Robert Stevenson, George M. Anderson, Henry L. Ashby, Thomas Washington. Music was furnished by a Newark orchestra of eight pieces. The hall was decorated in colors and bunting for the occasion.

CLUB MEMBERS SECEDE.

Vice-President of N. P. A. C. Withdraws With Twenty Members.

Through a disagreement over the letting of contracts, a split has occurred in the ranks of the North Plainfield A. C., one of the borough's leading athletic organizations. Vice President Edward Koechlin has departed, taking with him twenty of the twenty-five members and he states he will re-organize the club. H. C. Broes, the hitherto president, although possessing the minority of followers will continue on the original lines planned before the secession.

CHAIR FOR SUPERINTENDENT.

Employes of Safe Works Made Him a Present Wednesday.

Evidence of the esteem in which Superintendent W. C. Peck, of the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works, is held by its many employes was demonstrated Wednesday afternoon, when he was made the recipient of a handsome Christmas gift. Just before closing time he was summoned to a room at the rear of the plant and all the workmen had gathered and was presented with a reclining chair. A neat presentation speech was made by James M. Derby.

Fanwood Library Incorporated.

The Fanwood Free Public Library has filed articles of incorporation with the county clerk. F. D. Warren is named as president and Mary E. Loomis, secretary and treasurer, and they are also named as trustees for five and four years respectively. The other trustees are Ethel U. Gibbs, three years; Harry E. Knight, two years; Alice M. Kyte, one year; Alfred McKown and F. W. Westcott.

Turkey or Cash.

The employes of the Crescent Embossing Works were made happy at Christmastide through the beneficence of their employer, F. C. Lounsbury. All employes who wanted a turkey received one and those who did not were presented with $3. A majority of the employes chose turkeys and this expressed their hearty appreciation of the generosity of Mr. Lounsbury.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

TROUBLE IN AFRICA.

Conquest of Somaliland by England Means Cruel War.

Mad Mullah Who, on October 6, Defeated Col. Swayne's Troops with Great Loss to British Must Be Conquered.

However regrettable the reverse suffered by Col. Swayne in his operations against the Somali Mahdists may be, it will have served a useful purpose, says the London Graphic, if it directs public attention to the importance of turning to account the British possessions on the Great Eastern Horn of Africa. Of the existence of these possessions the public knows little; of their great strategical importance and commercial promise they know less. For this ignorance the present deplorable situation is primarily responsible. It is impossible for the imperial government to undertake costly expeditions or to establish an elaborate administrative machinery in countries which do not interest the tax-payer. The coast of Somaliland, with the important ports of Zeyla, Bulhar and Berbera, became British some 18 years ago, as a consequence of the collapse of Egyptian dominion in the Soudan. For some years it was administered as a sub-dependency of Aden, which, owing to its strategical position on the road to India, has always been a transmarine dependency of the Indian empire. In 1898, however, it was transferred to the imperial government, and was taken in charge by the foreign office. No public explanations have been given of this transfer, but to those who have watched the development of the international rivalry in the Red sea and the straits of Bab-el-Mandeb, the motives by which the foreign office was actuated cannot be very obscure. With the French established at Jibutil and the Germans and Russians casting about for coaling stations in the same neighborhood, and with the sudden growth of the military power of Abyssinia in the dominating background, the imperial government probably thought that Somaliland, which holds the principal gate to Abyssinia, the while it divides with Aden *the command of the carre*four of the Red sea, should not remain a subsidiary concern of a colonial administration. Unfortunately, the prevision of the imperial government did not go beyond taking the protectorate under its immediate wing. Although an immense region has been marked off as British, in virtue of treaties with Abyssinia and Italy, nothing was done to occupy the country outside the coast towns. The result was that the Arab sheiks, left to themselves, were free to plot against the suzerain, and early in 1899 these plots came to a head in the agitation of the Mullah Mohammed Abdullah, who proclaimed himself mahdi, and called upon the faithful to rise and drive the Giaour into the sea. The disaffection spread, and an immense area. Simultaneously with the movement of the Mullah in the south of the Somaliland protectorate, the sheiks in the northern provinces of British East Africa became rebellious. Consequently, in 1900 the expeditions had to be organized, one against the Ogaden sheiks and sultans in Jubuland, and the other against the Mullah. The Ogaden was effectually pacified and the Mullah was several times defeated and forced to take refuge in Italian territory. Thereupon the British retired once more to the coast, hoping that the Mullah would profit by his lesson. Last January, however, he broke out again, and another expedition had to be organized. This is the expedition which came to grief the other day at Ergo. It is very clear from all this that the policy of shelving responsibility on the direct administration of the protectorate is a failure, and that henceforth it will be necessary to hold the country with a strong hand. Happily the enterprise is one which will repay its cost. The markets in the interior are of considerable value, and if once tranquillity is assured the trade of the ports will be enormously increased. Apart from this it is to be remembered that the whole of the coast must be rendered altogether unpalatable so long as the interior is held by a hostile people bent on rendering England's position untenable, or, at any rate, a subject of anxiety.

MAP OF SOMALILAND.
(Showing Line of March of the Ill-Fated British Troops.)

Freak in Potato World.

Daniel Gilman, of Manchester, N. H., recently found a potato which had lain in his cellar for a year. The potato had sprouted and grown and burst open. On the inside were three small potatoes growing. The old potato had withered somewhat and the little ones had burst the large one open in their growth.

Ostrich Earns His Keep.

During the life of an average ostrich the yield of feathers amounts to $1,000.

THEATRICAL.

"At Home" for the season, is the way the advertisements for "The Silver Slipper," John C. Fisher's musical production, which is now in the third month of a phenomenally successful engagement at the Broadway Theatre, New York, now read. This mammoth, glittering and gorgeous production replete as it is with the catchy, tuneful melodies of Leslie Stuart, and the lavish richness of the costumes and the scenic effects cannot fail to round out the season and already preparations are being made to celebrate the one hundredth performance. The engagement at the Broadway of "The Silver Slipper" has been noted for the size and fashion of the audiences and even the holiday season has not affected them to any great extent. "The Champagne Dance" is still the hit of the play and the musical numbers that never fail to impress or to please are Miss Edna Wallace-Hopper's, "Four and Twenty Little Men" song; the "Ping-pong" duet of Miss Hopper and Cyril Scott; the topical song, "I'd Be Satisfied for Life" of Sam Bernard and the solo and duetts of Mai de Villiers, the French prima donna and Stanley Hawkins the tenor who succeeded Mackenzie Gordon.

The second month of Mrs. Fiske's engagement in "Mary of Magdala" at the Manhattan Theatre, New York, has opened with no decrease in the size of the audiences that fill that theatre nightly. Mrs. Fiske is experiencing the most successful season, pecuniarily, of her career, just as she has won, artistically, her greatest triumph. Some one has described Mrs. Fiske's portrayal of the Magdalen as "an exquisite poem," and surely no simile could be more appropriate. The character, under Mrs. Fiske's masterly treatment, is developed with harmony, evenness and artistic finish that is true and beautiful as a masterpiece of metre. Her superb work has admirable seconding from Tyrone Power, whose Judas is a striking example of character portraiture; from Henry Woodruff, who gives an attractive portrayal of a young Roman; from Ida Hamilton, who shows rare sympathy and talent in a small role; and from Rose Eytinge, M. J. Jordan, James Young, Scott Craven, Max Figman, Frank McCormack and others of the large cast.

FELL FROM LADDER.

John DeNise Had Leg Broken by a Fall From New Building Where He Was Working.

John DeNice, a well-known mason in this city, was severely injured at noon Friday while climbing down a ladder on the new store of the Woodbull & Martin on East Front street. In descending the ladder the steps turned with him and he was hurled to the ground many feet below. He was taken to Henderson & Daly's grocery where Dr. Pittis was called and found that the man had broken his left leg.

CURE FOR SEASICKNESS.

S. D. Drake's Christmas Present to the World.

On Christmas Day Silas D. Drake, of Lincoln, gave to the world a cure for seasickness, a genuine benefit to those who fear travelling by water. He says that in crossing the Atlantic, the second day out he beagn to feel the first symptoms of seasickness. He went to the outer rail of the vessel and leaned over. When the ship began to dip on the side he was on, he tried to push the vessel down lower, and when it came up, he gently tried to lift it higher. This he continued for an hour and found he could walk the deck comfortably. During the rest of the voyage he had no further trouble, and other passengers had a similar experience. Mr. Drake intends to have these directions printed and posted on every important steamer.

Calendar Exhibit.

The third annual national calendar exhibit will be given by the Young Men's Christian Association, of Richmond, Virginia, January 1-15 inclusive. Local concerns are urged to send calendars, to be submitted to the public gaze in the Capital City of the Old Dominion. They should be sent so as to reach Richmond by the 1st. All received by January 10 will be placed in position. They should be sent by mail, or prepaid express, addressed to the Central Young Men's Christian Association, Main and Sixth streets, Richmond, Va. This annual exhibit attracts large crowds. Last year calendars were received from all over the United States, and from foreign lands. Several cage original calendars were sent.

The crowned heads of every nation, The rich men, poor men and misers
All join in paying tribute to DeWitt's Little Early Risers.

H. Williams, San Antonio, Tex., writes: Little Early Riser Pills are the best I ever used in my family. I unhesitatingly recommend them to everybody. They cure Constipation, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Torpid Liver, Jaundice, malaria and all other liver troubles. L. W. Randolph.

POINT LOMA SCHOOL.

To Be Investigated by Commissioner of Immigration.

Serious Charges Made Against Mrs. Katherine C. Tingley, "Lotos Mother" and Chief of the "Universal Brotherhood."

The recent investigation in New York touching the admission of 11 Cuban children that were on their way to Point Loma, Cal., to become "lotos buds" in the Raja Yoga school, brought out a great mass of testimony as to that institution, its managers and management. The children were refused admission, but an appeal has been taken. News has come that the appeal will not be decided until Mr. Sargent, commissioner general of immigration, who is now in California, shall have made a personal investigation of the school.

The opposition to the admission of the Cuban children was powerfully backed by the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, which had the assistance of a similar organization in San Francisco. A few evenings ago this society decided to try to wipe out of existence the school at Point Loma, and for that purpose has given the president, Judge Vernon M. Davis, and the counsel, Mr. Eldridge T. Gerry, unlimited powers to act for the purpose of breaking up the school and the Universal Brotherhood which is back of it.

The Universal Brotherhood and the Raja Yoga school have been before the public for several years. Most of their notoriety has been due to the efforts of John J. Bohn to obtain possession of his two children that were in the school. The institution is under the control of Mrs. Katharine C. Tingley, who is the founder of one of the new cults in which theosophy, sun worship, and some old Egyptian superstitions seem curiously blended. Mrs. Tingley is the Lotos Mother, and the children are lotos buds. The school is only one feature of the Point Loma settlement, where there are extensive buildings and grounds and where a number of adults are kept in close seclusion, engaged in the celebration of mysterious rites or any other employment to which they may be assigned by the management, which appears to be quite despotic. Mr. Bohn, whose wife was also in the settlement, succeeded in getting back his children, but not until he got a decision in his favor from the supreme court of California. The stories which they have told since they were released have contributed essentially to stimulate inquiry into the methods employed at Point Loma.

KATHARINE C. TINGLEY.
(Head of the "Universal Brotherhood" at Point Loma, Cal.)

Dr. Mary E. Green, of Charlotte, Mich., is the mother of Mrs. John J. Bohn. She says that her daughter is either crazed or hypnotized by Mrs. Tingley and took her two little boys there. The father was refused admittance, and so went into court to get his children. Meantime Mrs. Tingley struck back and struck hard. Under her direction, as Mrs. Green alleges, Mrs. Bohn brought three suits for divorce against her husband, naming her own mother as co-respondent. These were in Chicago courts, and were dismissed, but another has been brought in California. The suit that the care of the children was adjudged to Mr. Bohn appears to indicate that this charge against him and Mrs. Green was not supported.

These statements are ex parte, says the Los Angeles Courier-Journal, but the Point Loma school has been before the public for a good while, and it is certainly highly desirable that a full investigation should be made of the charges before more children are sent to California. The suit that the care of the children was adjudged to Mr. Bohn appears to indicate that this charge against him and Mrs. Green was not supported.

He Hated to Tell It.

At a recent school examination by the school board, an officious member intimated that he would give a certain class a lesson on "wool," relates a writer in the Scottish American. After lecturing to the children for a considerable time without any appearance of attention from the class, he stopped short and began questioning one dull-looking boy. "Well, my boy," said he, taking hold of the boy's jacket, "what is this jacket made of?" The boy, hanging down his head, remained silent. "Come, come, my boy," the member coaxingly said: "Don't you know what your jacket is made of?" With eyes still on the floor, the boy answered: "It was made oot o' ma faither's auld breeks."

Russians Are Night Owls.

Late hours are the rule in St. Petersburg. In the quarter devoted to hotels and theaters the streets are crowded with pedestrians far into the morning. Some of the theaters do not begin their performances until midnight.

AFTER STREET RAILWAY NOW

Common Council Requests Trolley Company to Return to Old Schedule.

MR. CORIELL RESIGNED

Couldn't Legally be Councilman and Sheriff at Same Time—Councilman E. I. Toltes Elected President of the Council for Remainder of the Year.

Because it was not legal for B. Frank Coriell to hold the office of sheriff and be a member of the Common Council, it was necessary for the Council to elect a new president at its adjourned meeting held last Friday. Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, at Mr. Coriell's request, gave an opinion that by reason of the fact that he is now sheriff he ceases to be a Councilman. Mr. Coriell communicated this fact to the Council and expressed his sincere appreciation for past favors. As a matter of courtesy to the retiring president, Mr. Buckle moved to accept the resignation, and at the same time he also expressed the sentiment of the Council when he *moved that a vote of thanks be ex*tended to Mr. Coriell for his faithful and untiring service.

Mr. Mellick, as chairman of the finance committee, called the meeting to order and after the reading of the communication from Mr. Coriell, entertained a motion whereby Mr. Tolles was elected president of the Council for the rest of this year. Mr. Wean was made clerk pro tem for the evening's session. Mr. Coriell and Mr. vanHerwerden were the only ones absent.

In the regular order of business, the bonds of Constables John Gjettlesen and Amos Moffett were received and they took the usual course of procedure. The resignation of Patrolman Charles B. Gamo was received and accepted.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company notified the Council that three new hydrants have been located as ordered. Two of these are on West Front street near Rock avenue, and the other is on Moffett avenue. A communication was received from the State Highway Association, of New Jersey, with offices at Paterson, setting forth the objects of the association, that of organizing all of the street commissioners of the State for the improvement of roads, and asking Plainfield to join the association. The letter was placed on the table.

R. B. Reilly, of New York, in a communication asked the Council to cancel a tax of fifteen shares of bank stock held by him, claiming that the assessment was in error. The request was granted. A petition from H. L. Moody, asking that a duplicate assessment on property owned by him and located on Leland avenue, near Cushing road, was laid on the table for next year's Council.

A similar petition was received from G. Peabody Wetmore, of New York, who claims that there was an error in the assessment on property owned by him on St. Mary's avenue, the wrong property being assessed. The property was sold under the Martin Act, and he requested a re-adjustment and the tax which he paid applied to his property. The purchaser was Edward L. Mack, and the latter signified his willingness to surrender his certificate of sale, provided the city return to him the amount, $56.94, which he had paid the city. On Mr. Mellick's motion the requests were granted to take effect upon the surrender of the certificate of the sale.

Another communication was received from D. S. Alpaugh, of Sycamore avenue, regarding the widening of that avenue. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Street Commissioner Gavett reported that during the past six months there were forty sewer permits granted. In all eighty were granted during the year. Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported the granting of ten building permits. The annual report of City Judge Wm. N. Runyon showed that in all 608 cases were brought before him. Of this number 190 were fines, one thirty-four sentence was suspended, and twenty-one committed. There was received by him $640.88 and $117.89 expended. The sum of $523.96 was turned over to the city treasurer.

At this time Mr. Mellick offered a number of resolutions, the first of which was one which provides for the borrowing of $4,000 for one month to meet one note of $3,500 and a portion of another note of $1,500, due this month. The second resolution provides for the borrowing of $600 on account of sewer improvements, and the third resolution provides for the cancelling of certain duplicate tax assessments and the correction of the errors. A fourth resolution adjusted the tax matter in the case of Councilman Clarence L. Murphy and McKay, Davis & Company, whereby a certain property was sold under the Martin Act, and the Council agreed to correct the matter upon the delivery of the certificate of sale by Mr. Murphy. Still another resolution by Mr. Mellick provides for the auditing of the books of the city judge and city clerk, as well as those of the collector and treasurer at no increase in money above that stipulated in a recent resolution. This auditing is to cover a period of three years, beginning in 1900.

Mr. Lee offered two resolutions, which were adopted, the first of which provides for the transferring of $30 from the sewer maintenance appropriation to the street maintenance appropriation. The second called for an appropriation not to exceed $30 to provide new signs for East Seventh street, and to repair all damaged signs and replace those destroyed.

On motion of Mr. Daniel three new lights were ordered. One on Hobart avenue, a second one on Crescent avenue, between First place and East Seventh street and a third on Watchung avenue, between East Ninth and East Seventh streets. These were granted by request. Mr. Daniel reported on a petition of E. Elmer Gullck for a light on Moffett avenue and at his request it was laid over till next year.

Mr. Lee offered an important resolution, providing for the examination of the territory not now covered by sanitary sewers and where gravity will not permit the installation of such sewers. According to the resolution the street committee is to make the investigation and report the probable cost and the best plan for sewering that specific area not now provided for.

At the request of Mr. Mellick, who conducted the correspondence, Mr. Daniel read a letter from Vice President and General Manager W. G. Besler, of the New Jersey Central, in reference to a request from Mr. Mellick that additional lights be placed along the company's property on Fourth street near the driveways to the eastbound station. Mr. Besler stated that the company would install the necessary lights if the city would assist in the matter. Accordingly Mr. Daniel offered a resolution changing the location of some of the lights now in use as mentioned and providing for an additional light. The request for the lights was made on behalf of persons who drive up to the station in the evening from Fourth street.

After Mr. Mellick moved that when Council adjourn it be to meet Wednesday evening, December 31, he made a brief report concerning the engaging of an expert to audit the city's books. He stated that after careful consideration, the finance committee had engaged Mr. Collins as an expert to audit the books. He had been highly recommended by persons of finance and he believed that the work would be done satisfactorily. Mr. Collins has agreed to audit the books for three years for $900 and the committee considered this a very low price. He will thoroughly examine the books of the collector, treasurer, judge and clerk and make a detailed report to the Council.

Mr. Lee offered a resolution to the effect that the city clerk notify the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company that the Council would like to have the com*pany re-arrange its schedules of oper*ating trolley cars in this city by returning to the old schedule, that is, of having all the cars arrive at the station on Watchung avenue every fifteen minutes.

This resolution resulted in a discussion of the subject and it was the general opinion that the present schedule is not satisfactory. A strong effort will be made to secure a change.

The last business transacted by the Council was a suggestion by Mr. Lee that the owners of the Smalley building be notified twenty-four hours in advance when a meeting is to be held. The reason for this was that the rooms last evening were so cold that it was uncomfortable. Everyone was obliged to keep his overcoat on. The lack of heat was due to the fact that the owners of the building claimed that they did not know of the proposed meeting.

Found a Pearl.

While opening oysters at his oyster depot Christmas morning William Debele found inside an oyster a valuable present in the shape of a large and beautiful pearl. The stone is of rich whiteness and those who say they know think that Mr. Debele has found a jewel of considerable value on account of its size.

A Blow in the Back.

An overcoat is a necessary nuisance and the tendency to take it off on warmish days in late autumn and winter is as strong as it is unwise. A treacherous wind hits you in the back and the next morning you have lumbago. Rub well and often with Perry Davis' Painkiller and you will be astonished to find how quickly all soreness is banished. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

HIGH PRAISE FOR RETIRING PRESIDENT

Resolutions Passed by Trustees of Atlantic Trust Co., Regarding Mr. Randolph.

ON HIS RETIREMENT

ALSO HIS LETTER OF RESIGNATION TO THE TRUSTEES.

Fine Record Made by Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, of This City, as President of the Atlantic Trust Company, of New York.

Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, who retired, Dec. 23, as the head of the Atlantic Trust Company, of New York, presented his resignation as follows:

To the Board of Trustees of the Atlantic Trust Company.

Gentlemen: I offer my resignation as President of the Atlantic Trust Company and as a member of your Board, to take effect—if convenient to you—at the end of the month. For about eight years I have served you with singleness of purpose and with uniformity of results. The statements of the company's, constantly augmenting business and net earnings, as they appear on your books and in the reports made to the banking department—and especially the profit-estimates of recent date—abundantly attest the company's growth and success. Within the past five years the value of its stock has doubled. This year, 1902 is the best it has known, and the half-year just closing is the best half year in its history. Already, profits from trust and money business arranged for up to this date and now in sight for 1903, indicate that next year's gains will be still better. The company's immunity from losses in administration and in its large transactions during the eight years of my service is unique.

Whilst these facts are pleasant for review, it is to me, if possible, still more agreeable to recall the continued confidence and friendship shown me by the members of our board. You have given me a free hand as your leader. You have adopted my suggestions and supported my plans for the company's upbuilding; and, following the good results of all this, you have repeatedly expressed in your resolutions and minutes your kind satisfaction, approbation and esteem in terms yielding me great pleasure and encouragement. For all your kindness I thank you, and I shall bear into my retirement many delightful recollections of friendly relations with my colleagues in the Atlantic Trust Company's Board. Very respectfully yours,

L. V. F. Randolph.

As an evidence of the esteem in which he was held as an official, the trustees of the organization, in accepting his resignation passed the following preamble and resolutions:

Whereas, L. V. F. Randolph, President of Atlantic Trust Company, has tendered to the Board of Trustees his resignation, we desire to say, in this connection, that,

L. V. F. Randolph has been President of the Atlantic Trust Company for some eight years. He was called to fill that office at a time when it demanded the services of a man possessing not only more than ordinary ability, but those higher qualities of absolute integrity and unflinching courage. He had an honesty of purpose that never swerved from the right; a judgment and perception clear and seldom wrong; a will resolute, always in the path of duty; and an industry that was absolutely indefatigable. All these, and more, Mr. Randolph possessed, and no man better fitted to fulfill these exacting requirements could have been found. The results of his work, now appreciated by all, attest his worth and fitness.

At the close of his administration, the Company has a capital of one million, five hundred thousand dollars, ($1,500,000); a surplus of one million, one hundred thousand dollars ($1,100,000); a line of deposits ranging up at times to twelve million, five hundred thousand dollars ($12,500,000); and is paying dividends at the rate of eight per cent. per annum. It enjoys a high degree of credit, and possesses the full public confidence as an institution honestly and conservatively managed. These conditions are, in a large measure, the result of the eight years of persistent, intelligent and conscientious labor devoted to its service by Mr. Randolph; is therefore

Resolved, That in parting with our President, Mr. Randolph, we do so not only with great regret, but we wish to, and hereby do, extend to him our best wishes for his future happiness and prosperity, feeling sure that, notwithstanding his retirement, he will give to us from time to time, should we need it, the same wise counsel that has been of such benefit to the Company in the past; and it is

Resolved, That the resignation of L. V. F. Randolph is hereby accepted; and it is also Resolved, That this preamble and these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Atlantic Trust Company, and that a copy thereof, suitably engrossed, be presented to Mr. Randolph.

CHANGE NAME.

It Will be League of American Citizens Instead of League of American Workingmen.

The committee appointed to formulate plans for the organization of American citizens, which has been discussed of at two public meetings held recently, met this week, and decided to change the name of the organization from the League of American Workingmen to the League of American Citizens. This change was made so that there would be no possible chance for mistaken ideas. It is the purpose to have the organization composed of all American citizens, whether they be workingmen or not, and there will be no question relative to creed, race or color.

There will be another public meeting Tuesday evening, January 13, when the committee will report concerning their work and officers will be elected in furtherance of a permanent organization. A full attendance is requested at this meeting.

AT THE HOSPITAL.

Christmas Was Celebrated With Gift-Giving, Carols and a Short Christmas Service.

The annual Christmas exercises were held at Muhlenberg Hospital, Thursday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, when the room was lighted and a general good time was enjoyed by the nurses, patients, physicians, the Woman's Auxiliary and many visitors. According to the usual custom, the Grace Episcopal church choir, under the direction of the organist, Mrs. William A. Freeman, was present and sang a number of carols.

A short address was made by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace Episcopal church. He spoke in the men's ward and also the women's ward, after which he held a short Episcopal service.

After the service there was the distribution of gifts. The patients, as well as all the nurses, were remembered in a substantial manner.

FUNERAL OF MRS. STITES.

Two of Her Favorite Hymns Sung at the Services.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Elijah Stites were held Wednesday, Dec. 24, at her late residence on Chatham street. They were in charge of Revs. J. O. McKelvey and B. W. Hand. Two favorite hymns of the deceased, "Haven of Rest" and "Jesus Is Mine," were rendered during the service by Miss Clara Mears.

Those who acted as pall bearers were George R. Schlereth, Gilbert S. Martin, William Randolph, William Clauson, Abram King and Andrew Hull. Interment was made in Middlesex Hillside cemetery, Samptown.

New England Supper.

In honor of her cousin, Miss Gertrude Symons, of Rutland, Vt., Miss Mabelle Symons, of East Third street, gave a New England supper at her home, Wednesday evening. Twenty guests were present and enjoyed the unique feature which the hostess had devised for their entertainment. The affair terminated shortly before midnight.

In Justice Mattison's Court.

Three cases will be returnable in Justice W. E. Mattison's court, December 30. John P. Powers is the complainant against Levi Bird on contract; against M. Schillinger, on contract; and E. Mowrey on contract. Justice Mattison will be prepared to hear these cases at 2:30 p. m., Monday.

One Hundred Dollars a Box

is the value H. A. Tisdale, Summerton, S. C., places on DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says: "I had the piles for 20 years. I tried many doctors and medicines, but all failed except DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me." It is a combination of the healing properties of Witch Hazel with antiseptics and emollients; relieves and permanently cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, sores, cuts, bruises, eczema, salt rheum and all skin diseases. L. W. Randolph.

It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles 25 cents and 50 cents.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 4—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—How to get a fresh start.—Eph. iv, 23-32.

Life has its times of serious reckoning. There are moments specially appropriate for considering our ways and for taking heed to God's testimonies. One of these seasons especially adapted to retrospection and resolution is the beginning of a new year. The year begins anew—why should not we? If there have been mistakes in the past, if blots have been made upon pages of past record, why should not the mistakes be relegated to the past, the blots erased and a new record be opened, a new start made? This is the reasoning of thousands, with the result that at the beginning of every new year efforts are made to avoid the errors of the past and to make life to a certain extent what it ought to be.

What the results of a changed life should be may be stated with absolute certainty. We should "cease to do evil and learn to do well." We should "put off the old man and put on the new man." The liar should cease from lying and speak the truth; the thief should abandon stealing and go to work; "all bitterness and wrath and anger and clamor and evil speaking [should] be put away, with all malice," and in their stead we should "be kind one to another, tender hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake has forgiven us." Two elements are herein involved. Evil must be abandoned, but that is not all; it must be replaced by good. Vices must be superseded by virtues, bad deeds by good ones.

But how can this be done? This is the important question. How can a man get started right in a new, a changed, life? Everything depends upon the answer to this inquiry, and it can be answered in but one way. It cannot be done by human resolutions, but by divine regeneration. Regeneration not personal reformation is the necessary prerequisite to a new life. Human resolution of ttimes accomplishes much, but it cannot go to the root of the matter. Sin is a disease of the heart that manifests itself in the life. To be completely eradicated therefore the heart must be changed. The man who really wants to lead a new life must have a new heart. He must "be renewed in the spirit of his mind." This God alone can do, but He is able and willing to do it in every case where there is an anxious desire to have it done. The man that wants to give up a sinful life and to lead a righteous one need only pray, "Create in me a clean heart," and God will hear the prayer and a changed heart will be the starting point of a transformed life.

BIBLE READINGS.

Deut. xi, 26-32; Eccl. xii, 13, 14; Isa. i, 16-20; iv, 6, 7; Ps. ii, 1-10; John iii, 1-8; Rom. xii, 1, 2, 9-21; Eph. v, 15-21; Col. iv, 5, 6; Rev. xxii, 12.

A Christian Endeavor Catechism.

A good friend of the movement has prepared the following which he styles "A Christian Endeavor Catechism." It answers concisely some questions many times asked by those less familiar with the society:

When was the first society of Christian Endeavor established? Feb. 2, 1881.

Where and by whom? In Williston church, Portland, Me., by Rev. F. E. Clark.

For what purpose? For the sake of training a large number of young converts for the duties of church membership.

What is now the purpose of the society? The same as at the beginning—to train young people for the duties of the church. The society is not in some local church and in no sense outside. It exists simply to make the young people loyal and efficient members of the church of Christ. It is the church training the young.

In what denominations is it found? In about the same proportions in all the great evangelical denominations and in all their subdivisions. Wherever it has been established longest it is most fully indorsed by pastor and churches.

Secretary Eberman's Tours.

A most inspiring summary is that of Field Secretary Eberman's southern, eastern and western tours, occupying the first 208 days of this year and carrying him into Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine, District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, Louisiana, Tennessee, Kentucky, West Virginia, New York, New Jersey, Kansas, Arkansas, Indiana and Pennsylvania, a distance of 14,517 miles. He spoke at 837 meetings before audiences that aggregated 53,160 persons.

Three Missionary Pointers.

Give until you feel it and then give until you don't.—D. L. Moody.

The pocketbook is like an oyster in that it is of no practical use until opened.—Dr. John F. Cowan.

People can always be attracted by something new, especially if original.—Anon.

Quiz Box.

[Any question may be asked that pertains to any phase of Christian Endeavor work. Address Lock Box 674, Binghamton, N. Y.]

23. K., Connecticut.—Dr. Clark is not only a regular contributor to the Christian Endeavor World, but a frequent writer for the leading weekly and monthly publications of the day. He is also the author of many books, several on travel having had a particularly large sale.

24. V. F., New Hampshire.—It is impossible in the brief confines of this department to attempt to answer other than strictly Christian Endeavor questions.

LITERARY.

St. Nicholas for January starts the New Year in the happiest way. Edwin L. Sabin, Louise M. Alcott, Howard Fyle, Clara Morris, Malcolm Douglas, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Roy Benson Richardson, Virginia Woodward Cloud, Zitella Cocke, John Bennett, Clifford Howard, Sarah M. B. Piatt, Albert Bigelow Paine, and Carolyn Wells are only part of the long list of writers and artists who contribute to the current month's feast for young folks. Really, the girl or boy who does not have St. Nicholas to read is to be pitied.

Commodore Robert E. Peary tells at some length of Hunting on the Great Ice in Leslie's Monthly for January. His remarkable photographs of the living and dead Polar animals give a unique interest to the article. There are eight short stories in the magazine, among them one by Robert Barr and another Glengarry story by Ralph Connor. An article called "The Great American Barnyard" deals with the enormous poultry industry of the United States; there is a study of Joseph Chamberlain by an Irish Member of Parliament, and a sketch of the celebrated Dr. Lorenz. The mystery of Anna Katherine Green's detective story is made clear in the last installment of that serial, which appears this month.

Following the articles on the beef and steel trusts already published, The Century gives place in the January number to a paper on "The So-Called Sugar Trust," by Franklin Clarkin, which, in part, is an authentic report of the origin and workings of the Trust from the point of view of H. O. Havemeyer, the head of the American Sugar Refining Company. A paper by Dr. Albert Shaw on "The President and the Trusts" presents what seems to be an authoritative statement of Mr. Roosevelt's position—his record, and the platform on which he elects to stand.

The first of the number includes the third part of "The Yellow Van" by Richard Whiteing; a short story, "The Wife of Chino," by the late Frank Norris, author of "The Octopus;" another by John Luther Long, author of "Madame Butterfly," entitled "Sixty Jane;" a humorous story by Robert Haven Schauffler called "A Russian Climax," and the first part of "When the Consul Came to Peking," by a new writer, Abigail H. Fitch—all these stories accompanied by pictures—and last but not least, the second part of "Lovey Mary," the new story by the author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," Alice Caldwell Hegan, for which Mrs. Shinn has made attractive sketches.

Blue Island, Ill., Jan. 14, 1901.

Messrs. Ely Bros.:—I have used your Cream Balm in my family for nine years and it has become my family doctor for colds in the head. I used it freely on my children. It is a Godsend to children.

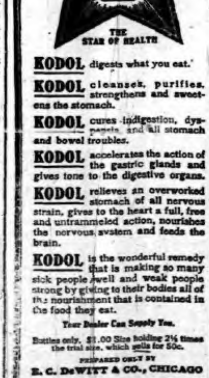
Yours respectfully, J. Kimball.

Messrs. Ely Bros.:—I suffered greatly with catarrh and tried different remedies without effect. After using one bottle of your Cream Balm I found relief and I cannot praise too highly such a remedy.

Miss Cora Williard, Albany, N. Y.

To Wed in February.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Ferdinand Marshall, of Somerset street, to Miss Etta Mezzey, of Gloversville, N. Y. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride on February 8.



KODOL digests what you eat.'

KODOL cleanses, purifies, strengthens and sweetens the stomach.

KODOL cures indigestion, dyspepsia, nausea, and all stomach and bowel troubles.

KODOL accelerates the action of the gastric glands and gives tone to the digestive organs.

KODOL relieves an overworked stomach of all nervous strain, gives to the heart a full, free and untrammeled action, nourishes the nervous system and feeds the brain.

KODOL is the wonderful remedy that is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by giving to their bodies all of the nourishment that is contained in the food they eat.

Your Druggist Can Supply You.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

PREPARED ONLY BY
E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO

L. W. RANDOLPH.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 4.—Topic: "Consecration the Morning Watch"—Text, Ps. v, 1-3; cxix, 147, 148; Matt. xiv, 23; Mark vi, 30, 31.

"I anticipated the dawning of the morning and cried, I hoped in thy words."

There is no substitute for meditation in the religions of life. It is the plowshare which mellows the soil and prepares it to yield harvest when the seed is put in. Meditation is something more than thinking. There is thought in meditation, but most thinking is very far from meditation.

No better manual and guide can be found than the devotional Psalms. Here is no speculation on the divine mysteries. The thought is not scientific, but it is meditative. It takes a truth and turns it over and over. It regards it not so much critically to dissect it and note its parts as to watch its influence on one's own life. Meditation goes over the part with the lamp of memory. It looks over all the present and notes its meaning and with imagination marks out the coming time and course. It feels as well as thinks. The pulses tingle, the heart throbs as it feels the meaning of the truth thought. The thews knit up with firm resolve, and soul and body are one in the energies of devotive life.

The great souls who have wrought with God have in all ages been made great by their hours of meditation with God. Moses stands pre-eminent among men as revealer of divine law. No less is he eminent as doer of his commission with the divine mind in solitude. His eminence is one of feeling and will as well as of ideas. Whoever manifested more clearly the flow of divine impulses through the human channels than this man of meekness, who knew in the mountain top with God than in the camp with men?

What examples of exalted intercourse with God are given us in Abraham, Elijah and John!

All of us who have walked and watched on earth none has given us such lessons as Jesus. To Him the night watches were specially precious as seasons of meditation and communion with the Father Almighty. Who shall ever tell how much of strengthening He found in these still hours for the struggles and stress of the days with men.

To neglect to reserve from our hurry and care some quiet times when we can be alone with God is to make a most serious mistake. These times are not for struggle, but for quieting the soul. Sometimes lie passive and let the divine sweetness fill the soul with perfume. Rest in God and cease exertion. Empty the soul of self and let His fullness come in. Let the cooling streams of His comfort cure the soul's fever. Wake in the morning in time to begin the day with God. Meditate.

Farsightedness.

Farsightedness is just as much a disease as is nearsightedness. It is generally a disease which comes to elderly people, and it is given the high sounding name of presbyopia. Objects which are far off can be distinctly seen, but objects close at hand are not focused for properly, and they are either overlooked or not seen correctly. Little by little as he grows old a man holds his book farther away to read until he is finally forced to get glasses to read at all. A good many Christians have spiritual "presbyopia"—farsightedness. They can see peace and joy and victory and holiness only in the faroff heavenly city. They have not eyes for such things in this world in which they are living. In this "vale of tears" they see no heavenly sights or if so only momentary, transient flashes, which soon go out in the shadows. Their eyes are always stretched to the faroff haven, and they think of their religion mainly as a lifeboat to take them thither.—American Friend.

Divine Guidance.

Guidance is needed for spiritual things, and none the less for temporal things. A good man's steps should and may be ordered of the Lord. In spiritual matters the path of life is not only clearly laid down, but along its whole course are found footprints of an Elder Brother who has left us an example that we should follow in His steps. Truth is something—or should it not be something?—toward whom we grow. It is a goal, and we have the divine promise that the Spirit will guide us unto all truth, bringing to our remembrance the things that Jesus taught us.—Episcopal Recorder.

A Personal Acceptance.

The church is an organization. It is an association held together by a similarity of motives, belief and service. God is in it. He is not in no other organization on earth. But the church as such saves no man. There must be a personal acceptance of the Christ, else salvation is a name and nothing more.—Presbyterian Journal.

Want and Waste.

An opportunity unimproved is a coin thrown into the sea.—Presbyterian Journal.

I Never Knew.

I never knew before the world
So beautiful could be
As I have found it since I learned
All care to cast on Thee;
The scales have fallen from mine eyes,
And now the light I see.

I never knew how little things
As greater ones could be
When sanctified by love from One
Who dwells and lives in me;
But now a daily round of care
May win a victory.

I never knew; and still, dear Lord,
As through a glass I see,
And perfect light can only come
When I shall dwell with Thee,
When in Thy likeness I awake
For all eternity.

—Living Church.

CHRISTMAS DANCE.

Park Club Affair Last Friday Was a Great Success and Was Well Attended.

The annual Christmas dance at the Park Club last Friday was one of the most pleasant of the season. There was a large number of the members and their friends present, both from this city and out of town. The clubhouse was decorated very attractively under the direction of Mrs. Samuel Townsend, greens being used chiefly.

While the affair was given under the direction of the entertainment committee, the members were assisted in receiving by Mrs. F. H. Ball, Mrs. Francis DeL. Hyde, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. George A. Chapman. The entertainment committee consists of Mr. and Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Saunders and C. E. Murray.

During the evening only light refreshments were served. A more elaborate menu was intended but failed owing to the resignation of the steward.

SETTLING ACCOUNTS.

There is a Balance of $1,524.94 to Meet Claims of $5,321.73 and Costs for Grocery Co.

George M. Macintyre, receiver of the insolvent Rockfellow Grocery Company, has filed in the office of the Clerk in Chancery at Trenton, a list of claims against that corporation which have been proved before the receiver, showing the amounts claimed and the amounts allowed by the receiver. The aggregate amount of claims allowed is $5,321.73.

The total receipts shown are $3,320.89, and the total disbursements, including receiver's expenses and preferred claims paid, amount to $1,995.89, leaving a balance in the receiver's hands of $1,534.94. The receiver has given notice that on Tuesday, January 13, at 10 o'clock in the morning at the State House, Trenton, motion will be made before the Chancellor for an order, allowing and confirming the said final account of the receiver, fixing his compensation, amount claimed $300, and counsel fees, amount claimed $500, and directing distribution of the balance in the receiver's hands, after payment of costs and allowances, among the creditors, and after such claims have been paid, ordering the discharge of the receiver.

JUNIORS ELECT OFFICERS.

Were Chosen at Meeting of Benevolent Council Last Friday.

At the regular meeting of Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., held last Friday the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing six months:

Junior councilor, A. D. Honeyman; councilor, Walter L. Fisher; vice councilor, Robert M. Clark; assistant recording secretary, John V. Beekman; conductor, Frasee C. Putnam; warden, Edward C. Searing; inside sentinel, Clifford J. Compton; outside sentinel, Gilbert S. Martin; trustee, eighteen months, John V. Beekman.

The installation will take place Friday evening, Jan. 2.

NEW CHIEFS.

Elected at Last Friday's Meeting of Miantonomo Tribe.

Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order Red Men, met last Friday and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Prophet, Charles McKinley; sachem, M. Kadensky; senior sagmore, Edward Crosby; junior sagmore, Charles Keller; chief of records and collector of wampum, C. L. Holstein; keeper of wampum, F. A. Weber; representative to the Great Council, Peter Sheridan; alternate, M. A. Leahy; trustee, M. A. Leahy. The deputy will install the officers at the first meeting next month, Friday, January 2, at which time the women will be invited.

After the election last evening two candidates were elected and the chief's degree was conferred.

A Christmas Party.

One of the most novel Christmas events in this city on Christmas day was a family gathering at the home of Mrs. A. J. Winkler, on Park place. A large Christmas tree was arranged in one corner of the room and while all sat about the tree Santa Claus appeared through an artificial chimney at the opposite end of the room and distributed gifts to the members of the family.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. L. W. Randolph.

SANTA WAS A DAY LATE

BUT HE GAVE PERSEVERANCE LODGE A GOOD TIME LAST FRIDAY.

Gifts for All the Members and Each One Had a Rhyme Accompanying It.

Arriving a day late did not detract the slightest from interest in Santa Claus' visit to Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., last Friday. The genial old fellow, dressed in his best plush robes and dragging a huge stocking filled with good things, was ushered into Castle Hall and distributed gifts with a lavish hand.

The presents, which were small toys, were accompanied by verses intended to interpret the "roasts" on the recipients. Much amusement was caused by the gift-making, as the doggerel was read first and then packages had to be opened in view of the gathering. Councilman Robert L. Lee received a red lantern, typifying his red light; City Judge Runyon, a huge cake, for his successful management of the lodge; Dr. Currie, a curry-comb; Dr. Luckey, a pair of pincers; and many others of a like nature. Candy and fruit was also given out in large quantities.

Following the presentations the members enjoyed a social hour while refreshments and cigars were passed. The decorations for the occasion were unusually elaborate and were greatly admired.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Samuel Robinson, chairman; Wm. N. Runyon, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and Thomas Muir.

FED FIFTY.

Y. M. C. A. Gave Christmas Dinner to Youngsters Who Couldn't Have One for Their Own.

Christmas was made a joyous occasion to a number of the poor boys of this city Thursday, when the Y. M. C. A. supplied a bountiful dinner to fifty youngsters who seldom know what a real Christmas is. The rooms were decorated with Christmas greens and the National colors. Each boy as he passed out of the hall was given a large bag of candy.

The dinner was served by the Advance Circle of King's Daughters and those who assisted were: The Misses Glen, Miss Waterbury, Miss Lutell, Philip S. Suffern, Howard A. George; Ralph Bowman, Arthur C. Denton, Walter O. Cahoone, Albert L. Schomp and Rev. O. G. Norseen, of the Swedish Evangelical church.

HEARD REPORTS.

Monthly Business Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary Board.

The monthly business meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, was held Friday in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church. The reports for the past month were received and proved to be very encouraging to the members. There was also a report concerning the Christmas exercises held at the hospital on Thursday.

Mrs. W. T. Pelletier was appointed purchaser for the month of January and the following visitors were also appointed: Mrs. W. W. Rowley, Mrs. J. Parker Mason, Mrs. George A. Chapman, Mrs. H. M. Slasson and Mrs. W. O. Kinney.

PYTHIAN OFFICERS.

They Were Chosen Last Friday for Perseverance Lodge.

In the regular order of business at Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., last Friday, officers were elected as follows: Chancellor commander, Chas. M. Ulrich; vice chancellor, Harvey L. Patterson; prelate, Jas. McGinley; master at arms, Thomas Muir; inner guard, Peter Stram; master of work, Wm. N. Runyon; trustees, David Bowden, Samuel J. Robinson, Robert L. Lee. The installation will take place in charge of District Deputy Jere VanWinkle, Friday evening.

HOLIDAY SHOOT.

Held by the Independent Gun Club on Christmas Day.

The Independent Gun Club, of this city, held its regular holiday shoot Christmas day at the rifle range on Maple avenue. Henry Haurand made the highes scores of the day by "closing the bulls eye" 8 times out of twelve shots, in rifle practice. In the gun contest Dennis Gavin made 10 breaks out of twenty shooting at clay pigeons. Haurand and Gavin stand highest in the scores in the first class, Haurand being but one point behind Gavin. There were 40 shooters at the contest and at its close a turkey dinner was served by Caterer John Lloyd.

Just as a Fire

spreads in dry grass and weeds, so does an inflammation of the throat—the result of a cold—grow down into the sensitive air-passages of the lungs. The cold, like the fire, should be promptly dealt with. When you begin to cough, use Allen's Lung Balsam. It will certainly heal the sore throat and lungs and it may save you from consumption.

MISS HARMAN MADE DEBUT IN SOCIETY

Formally Introduced at a Reception Given by Her Parents Last Saturday.

FOLLOWED BY A DANCE

CHARMING SOCIAL EVENT AT HOME OF MR. AND MRS. JOHN F. HARMAN.

The Christmas Decorations Adorned Their Home on West Eighth Street, Where the Event Was Held—Those Who Assisted.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Harman, of 505 West Eighth street, tendered a reception at their home Saturday afternoon and evening between the hours of 4 and 7 o'clock, in honor of their daughter, Miss Elsie Harman, to formally introduce her to society. The decorations were suggestive of Christmas time and comprised clusters of holly and princess pine in the hallway and living apartments. In the reception room beautiful palms and ferns were grouped with good effect with pink roses interspersed in great profusion.

Mr. and Mrs. Harman were assisted in receiving by: Mrs. D. H. Rowland, Mrs. F. H. Mead, Mr. J. S. Joy, Mrs. R. H. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. W. M. McGee, Mrs. W. B. Ogdsworth, Mrs. W. S. Tyler, Mrs. L. R. Waring, Mrs. H. W. Beebe, Mrs. J. R. Blake and Mrs. E. V. Cox, of this city; Mrs. Edward DeWitt, of Englewood, N. J., Mrs. C. D. Wadsworth and Mrs. Parker D. Handy, of New York; and Miss Wadsworth, Miss Strong, Miss Bowen, Miss Fleming, Miss McCutchen and Miss Wells, of Plainfield; Miss Lawson and Miss Frost, of New York, and Miss Tannahill, of Englewood, and Miss Detrick, of Baltimore.

After the reception a supper was served to the receiving party which was followed later by an informal dance.

There were about 250 guests present at the house and some of them were from Baltimore, New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey and other places.

FUNERAL OF N. H. SMITH.

Services Held From Parents' Home at South Plainfield Saturday.

The funeral services of Murray H. Smith were held Sunday afternoon at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith, of Brookside Farm, South Plainfield. Rev. J. A. Cubberley, pastor of the Baptist church, at that place, read the last burial rites. The interment was in Hillside cemetery at Samptown. The pall-bearers were C. W. Dorland, F. L. C. Martin, Wallace M. Brown, Douglas K. Brown, C. L. Maltby and James Cubberley.

Murray Hilton Smith died at West Baden, Ind., December 4, from Bright's disease, from which he had been a continued sufferer. He was educated in the public schools of Brooklyn, from there he entered Cornell University, class of 1892, making Phi Delta Thaeta. He was thirty-two years of age.

GIFTS FOR ALL.

At Christmas Festival of the Saengerbund Held Sunday.

A Christmas festival was held at the Saengerbund Hall Sunday afternoon and evening when the members of the organization exchanged presents. During the afternoon there was music rendered by the singing section of the Vera Verein after which the following committee distributed the presents to the children and to their elders: A. Wolff, Joseph Hanraad, Max Mothes, W. Stensenberger, Mrs. August Melcher, Mrs. John Retzel, Mrs. Rudolph Speigel and Mrs. Barry. The organization entertained guests from out of town and the festivities continued until late in the evening.

Fell From Ladder.

John Richardson, a local bill poster, received severe bruises and a sprained leg by falling from a ladder, Saturday afternoon. He was putting up bills on a high board on Cottage place when the support slipped from beneath him and he was thrown to the ground. He is now confined to his home on East Front street.

The next meeting of the Inter-City Whist Club will be held at Westfield, Wednesday evening, January 7.

Some Coffees are Glazed with a cheap coating. If glazing helps coffee why aren't the high-priced Mochas and Javas glazed also?

Lion Coffee is not glazed. It is perfectly pure and has a delicious flavor.

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of INFANTS / CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Dr. SAMUEL PITCHER. Pumpkin Seed, Alx. Senna, Rochelle Salts, Anise Seed, Peppermint, Bi Carb Soda, Worm Seed, Clarified Sugar, Wintergreen Flavor.

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. NEW YORK.

At 6 months old 35 DOSES – 35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

CHRISTMAS FOR TINY POOR

SALVATION ARMY HELD ITS CHRISTMAS TREE FESTIVAL.

A Hundred Poor Children Were Made Happy at the Army's Barracks Saturday.

A Christmas festival and junior demonstration was held Saturday evening at the headquarters of the local division of the Salvation Army in the old Y. M. C. A. rooms on East Front street, when 100 poor children were gathered together by the members of the corps and escorted to the rooms where they were presented with gifts of candy, toys, games and fruit which were donated by the merchants about the town for the purpose.

Those who had charge of the evening's entertainment were Captains Julia Coyne and Anna Saunders, assisted by Colonel Miles and Captains Ackerman and Ironsides, of the headquarters in New York. The evening's pleasure opened with Christmas carols. Solos were sung by Miss Lillian Taggard and Miss Lottie Cooper and Captains Ackerman and Ironsides rendered a vocal duet. There were two pretty Christmas trees which were gaily decorated and the gifts were strewn about the floor and on the branches. They were distributed by Colonel Miles, who made a few brief remarks.

Special music was rendered at the evening's entertainment and Sunday services appropriate to Christmas were held in the local barracks all day.

HOME FOR CLUB.

Somerset Athletic Club Prepares for Season of Activity.

The Somerset Athletic Club has opened club rooms on Somerset street, opposite Spencer's Hall. The organization has a membership of twenty and it is intended to increase the membership to thirty-five before the spring. They expect to hold a fair in the near future to raise funds with which to fit up a gymnasium. A base ball team is being discussed for next season. The officers of the club are: President, L. Fahn; vice president, H. Sheppard; secretary, J. Finney; treasurer, A. Collins.

Funeral of Mrs. Kirch.

The funeral of Mrs. Katharina Kirch, who passed away at her late residence at Mt. Bethel Thursday last, took place Saturday morning at the church in Coontown where the interment was held. Rev. Mr. Gibbs and Rev. George Bowers officiated at the services which were largely attended.

Shot at Pigeons.

A pigeon shoot was held at the farm of John Bowers at Warrenville, Christmas Day, when a number of people from this city were present and enjoyed the sport. The scores were all high and after the shoot a dinner was served by Mr. Bowers to his guests.

Christmas Dinner Party.

Miss Mae Batchelor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Batchelor, of West Seventh street, gave a progressive dinner party Saturday evening to out-of-town friends. Covers were laid for twelve.

SWEDES OBSERVE CHRISTMAS

SCANDINAVIAN SOCIETY THULE HELD ITS CHRISTMAS TREE FESTIVAL.

Affair Held at I. C. T. Hall Saturday Evening—John H. Carney Was St. Nicholas.

Yuletide cheer was plentiful in I. C. T. Hall, Saturday evening, when the Scandinavian Society Thule held its annual Christmas tree festival. There were gifts for everybody, old and young, and as 150 members were in attendance, the fun was prolonged until a late hour.

Genial John H. Carney acted as St. Nicholas in this distributing and afterward entertained with his character imitations and monologues. Piano selections were furnished by Miss Nellie Palmer, of Brooklyn; Miss Mildred Calcen and S. Lassen and vocal selections by A. Lathman. The Swedish Singing Society, of this city, composed of Carl Carlsen, J. Strasburg, Gustav Brant, G. Peterson, C. Dahleen and Charles Rydell, was in attendance and rendered several pleasing choruses. Refreshments were served shortly before midnight.

The committee in charge consisted of Thomas Calcen, Gustav Peterson, Gunnar Karnell, G. Bergwall, G. Lindmark, Miss Gerda Norberg, Miss G. Enander and Mrs. E. Wickstrom.

RECTOR'S RECEPTION.

Many Guests at Reception Given by Rev. W. Vincent Dawson.

One hundred friends from this city, New York, Newark, and Elizabeth attended the reception given by Rev. W. Vincent Dawson in the rectory of St. Stephen's church, Saturday afternoon. It was one of the pleasantest affairs yet given to or by the parish.

Mrs. Arthur Pulsford, of Elizabeth, and Mrs. Charles Seaton, of Netherwood, presided at the tables. Mrs. William Palmer Smith received. No set programme was attempted but during the afternoon informal vocal and instrumental selections were given.

To Shorten Distance.

It is announced by the officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad that they will build a new railroad some 200 miles long that will shorten the distance between Baltimore and Pittsburg at least fifty miles; and, in connection with the cut offs to be built west of Pittsburg, will bring Chicago eighty miles nearer Baltimore.

New Boiler.

A new boiler has just arrived at Pond Machine Tool Company's plant from the makers, Bigelow & Co., of New Haven, Conn. The boiler is a tremendous one and is larger than any of the others now installed at the shops. The boiler will be placed in position in a few days.

Sixth Anniversary.

The sixth anniversary of Monroe Avenue church will be celebrated Sunday. The anniversary sermon will be preached by Rev. Herbert B. Munson, the first pastor of the church.

Linden W. Bridgeman, of New York, spent yesterday in town, visiting his aunt, Mrs. J. B. Moore, of Kensington avenue.

BUNDLES IN WASHINGTON.

They May Be Taken Into the Treasury Building, But May Not Be Taken Out.

Among all the departments in Washington the most strict is the treasury. A citizen may carry anything that he likes into the treasury building, but when he undertakes to carry anything bulky out of the building he is apt to get into trouble if he does not explain with readiness, says the New York Mail and Express.

A visitor to Washington the other day carried a fairly large package into the building. Nobody said a word to him about it when he was going in, but when he started out with the package he was held up, made to open it, and to explain all about himself and his business.

The good sense of the rule is apparent. At the capitol it is against the rules to carry any sort of a bundle into the building. The fear is that somebody will carry in a bomb. The rule was never enforced rigorously until the senate took up the Sherman repeal bill. At that time the public mind became so influenced against the delay in the senate that violence was feared, and the rule was put into active operation and continued for some years.

Then it dropped out of sight until the Spanish war excitement came on, when it was again enforced, and it is still enforced rather strongly, although during the last session of congress a few cameras were allowed in the building.

QUEER CUSTOMS OF CHINESE.

In Their Country Liquids Are Sold by the Pound and Cloth by the Foot.

In China liquids are sold by weight and grain by measure. John buys soup by the pound and cloth by the foot. A Chinaman never puts his name outside of his shop, but paints inside a motto, or a list of his goods on his vertical signboard. Some reassuring remark is frequently added, such as "One word hall," "A child two feet high would not be cheated," says Modes and Fabric.

Every single article has to be bargained for, and it is usual for the customer to take his own measure and scales with him. A strong man has difficulty in carrying on his back two pounds' worth of the coppered cash which is the common currency, so it is necessary to take a servant to carry one's purse. The spece of silver is the only other form of money besides the copper tael. As it weighs about 57 grains, a banker and cold chisel are indispensable for making change.

When you engage a servant or make a bargain it is not considered binding until "the fastening penny" has been paid. Although his bad faith is notorious in some matters, yet, to do him justice, when once this coin has been paid by you the Chinaman, coolie or shopman, will generally stick to his bargain, even if the result to him be ours.

KING A TYPICAL BRITON.

Views of Edward VII. Are Those of a Majority of the People of England.

The late queen was on many sides typically British, and when she thought and acted most individually and unconsciously she was often most in sympathy with her people. So with the king, says the Saturday Review. Given some great and sudden event, we believe that the king's first thought and impulse in regard to it would be almost certainly that of the majority of his people. In the king, that is, his ministers, we find a very typical Englishman, and in many cases we do not doubt that they can judge of what public opinion is likely to be in regard to a proposed course of action by sotting the first impulse in the mind of the king. More knowledge, more explanation, further consideration of the difficulties attending other courses of action, may alter and change his mind, but the king's first view is more than likely to be the view of the nation also. It will always be a straightforward and courageous view, and one free from undue subtlety and finesse. We have of course no means of knowing what the prince of Wales thought during the crisis of the late war, but we should be indeed surprised if his view was not that of the vast majority of the British people, i. e., one of dogged optimism.

WARNS ONAMERICAN FINANCE

The London Times Says That Growing Liabilities Are a Source of Danger.

In an editorial article discussing the present economic situation in the United States the London Times says it considers that, although the commercial credit of the United States is perhaps not quite so good as it was a year ago and the actual situation not entirely free from disquieting features, yet, being favored with good harvests and a promising cotton crop, business prospects appear to be healthy for the coming year.

"For the next few months, at least, the big harvests of the United States will probably secure the business world against the collapse of credit in New York, but," the paper continues, "unless we accept the somewhat enfeebled doctrine that in some mysterious way economic laws need not be taken into account where America is concerned, the present state of things and the present fashion of finance cannot continue forever.

"Mere magnitude of resources however dazzling to the unthinking, will not save their owner from embarrassment, or worse, if he allows his liabilities to grow in excess of them."

PRIMEVAL NORTH AMERICA.

Population Spread Northward as the Ice Belt Receded, as Indicated by Signs of Progress.

The primeval people of both North and South America originated from a civilization of high degree which occupied the subequatorial belt some 10,000 years ago while the glacial sheet was still on, says Harper's Magazine. Population spread northward as the ice receded. Routes of exodus diverging from the central point of departure are plainly marked by ruins and records. The subsequent settlements in Mexico, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Utah and California indicate the successive stages of advance, as well as the persistent struggle to maintain the ancient civilization against reversion and catastrophes of nature. The varying architecture of the valleys, cliffs and mesas is an intelligible expression of the exigencies which stimulated the builders. The gradual distribution of population over the higher latitudes in after years was supplemented by accretions from Europe and northern Asia centuries before the coming of Columbus. Wars and reprisals were the natural and inevitable results of a mixed and degenerating population with different dialects. The mounds which cover the mid-continental areas, isolated and in groups, tell the story thereof. The Corean immigration of the year 544, historically cited, which led to the founding of the Mexican empire in 1325, was but an incidental contribution to the growing population of North America. So, also, were the very much earlier migrations from Central America across the Gulf of Mexico.

HER SMILE IS CRITICISED.

In Modern Englishwomen It Has Come to Be Regarded as Something Meaningless.

The smile of a modern English woman, according to a leading London paper, is fast becoming a meaningless thing and the reason for this, critics allege, is that it is used so indiscriminately that it lacks feeling. There is truth in the statement, the critics maintain, for, when one comes to think of it, almost any remark one makes to the merest acquaintance, even on a first introduction, is met by a smile. There is no mirth in it—it is only a muscular movement, made seemingly, to show polite interest. It reminds one of the Japanese woman, who must always smile, even in deepest sorrow or distress of mind, and who must never on any occasion show a depressed countenance in public, or even in the family circle should she be addressed by a relative to whom she owes respect.

The effort to imitate the vivacity of their American sisters is supposed to be at the root of the continual smile to be seen on the countenances of modern women, but a smile alone will never make a countenance pleasing, unless it expresses some lively interest or feeling. Too many sweets clog the appetite and smiles always in evidence become valueless and unmeaning. Repose is needed nowadays in nearly every direction and nowhere more than on the faces of women.

LEAP-YEAR BIRTHDAYS.

Unique Society in Berlin, Germany, to Hold a Big Celebration in 1904.

Herr Monteur, a wealthy resident of Berlin, is over 70 years old, but will celebrate his eighteenth birthday on February 29, 1904. He is president of the Berlin society of leap year children, the one organization of its kind in the world. The members have had no birthday celebration for eight years, the extra February day having been omitted in 1900 according to the rules of the reformed calendar. Therefore the society is planning a great celebration on February 29, 1904. A committee of arrangements is already at work, and something extraordinary may be expected, as on account of the society's curious origin many prominent persons have interested themselves in the matter, reports a London paper.

The month of February is 1886, by the way, was even more interesting than that which will be marked by the unique Berlin celebration. It had no full moon, and so that was the most remarkable in the world's history, for never before had such a thing occurred. January of that year had two full moons and so had March, but February had none. How extraordinary this event was may be judged from the fact that according to the computation of astronomers it will not occur again for 2,500,000 years.

HANDY BOOK OF INSULTS.

Thousands of Fight-Causing Epithets Put Into a Special Dictionary by a German.

Herr Schuch, a German author, has compiled a dictionary of 2,500 insulting expressions, carefully tabulated, indexed and classified. The work, on which Herr Schuch has spent years of labor, is called the Schimpfwerter Lexikon and is divided into five general heads—insults for men, insults for women, insults for either sex, insults for children and collective insults for syndicates, groups and corporations. Herr Schuch has thus minutely discernment of the searching German, has subdivided these classes into smaller ones, so that when one wishes to call his friend or enemy a name it needs but a short consultation with the book to find the exact epithet or phrase which will fit the case. This work would have been invaluable to Mississippi river pilots in the old days, and even now the steamster may regard it as a welcome accretion to his library.

ROUTE FOR PASSAIC SEWER

SURVEYS COMPLETED FOR GREAT TRUNK SEWER TO DRAIN VALLEY.

According to Plans It Will Empty Into New York Bay and Pass Under Newark Bay.

Herring & Co., surveyors and engineers, engaged by the Passaic Valley Sewage Commission, have about completed making surveys and collecting data for the report to be made to the Sewage Commission on the proposed sewer from Paterson to Jersey City.

The commission was appointed some time ago to decide upon a plan to sewer the numerous cities and towns on the west bank of the Passaic river, in order as much as possible to prevent the pollution of that river.

For several months Herring & Co.'s engineers have been at work on the problem, and it is understood that their report is ready to be presented to the commission, which will in turn later make a report to the Governor and State Legislature.

The preliminary work of the surveyors ended a few days ago, when they completed making soundings in the Newark Bay, and making a survey of the proposed route of the sewer through Greenville and Bayonne to the New York Bay.

The engineers will, it is understood, advise the commission to construct a trunk sewer along the west bank of the Passaic river from Paterson to Newark. According to the plans of the engineers the sewer will be extended to a point in the meadows on the Newark side of the Newark Bay, about 2,000 feet north of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. At this place it will cross Newark Bay, and will be extended east along the south bank of the Morris Canal to the New York Bay.

According to the plans, the sewer will empty into New York Bay at a point a few feet south of the Morris and Cummings property. The engineers will suggest that a sewer 15 feet in diameter be constructed.

The greatest difficulty to be contended with will be the laying of the sewer across Newark Bay. Owing to the fact that this section must be laid on the bottom of the bay, it will necessarily be some feet below the level of the other sections. To overcome this it has been planned to erect a pumping station on the west bank of the Newark Bay. Possibly other pumping stations will be necessary at intervals along the line of the sewer

DEATH ENDED IT.

Oak Tree Man Charged With Bigamy Fell Victim to Exposure in the Storm.

Robert Dickerson, aged seventy-seven, who was released from the Middlesex county jail, and who on the way home was found almost frozen to death in the snow died Saturday morning at his home near Oak Tree. Efforts were made to save his life but all in vain and death came early the following morning from exposure.

The deceased was a pensioner and there will be a contest for the pension of $12 a month. Dickerson was in jail for bigamy, he having one wife, Elizabeth Noe, at Oak Tree and a Mrs. Carman, of Newark, also claimed him as her husband. His arrest was caused by Louis Noe but the Grand Jury declined to find an indictment on two occasions.

FUNERAL OF MISS MITCHELL.

Services Were Held From Her Mother's Home Saturday.

Funeral services over the remains of Miss Mabelle Mitchell were held from the home of her mother on Grant avenue, Saturday afternoon. They were in charge of Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis and Rev. George E. Shaw, the latter of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. The choir of the same church was in attendance and sang "Crossing the Bar." A solo, "One Sweet, Solemn Thought" was rendered by Miss Nellie Smith. The body was taken to Westerley, R. I., for interment.

Ladies' Aid Officers.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. I. P. LaRue; vice president, Mrs. J. R. VanPelt; secretary, Miss Mary Brower; treasurer, Mrs. Nicholas Brouard.

Cannot Assign Wages.

In accordance with a recent order issued by the New Jersey Central any railroad employe of the company who assigns his wages to another person will be discharged. The order further states that the assignment will not be recognized by the company.

Family Reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram VanCleef, of Elm place, enjoyed pleasant festivities Thursday, when there was a family reunion. A bountiful dinner was served, after which the afternoon was spent in playing games and several selections were given by Miss Grace Higgins on the banjo.

BACHELORS OUTBOWLED THEIR MARRIED RIVALS

First of Merry Series Rolled on Park Club Bowling Alleys Saturday Evening.

WAS WON BY 175 PINS

THE BENEDICTS COULD NOT HOLD THE STEADY PACE OF THEIR OPPONENTS.

Arthur Peck Was High Man for the Single Aggregation and F. O. Ball Led the Married Bowlers—The Individual Scores.

The first bowling game between the Bachelors and Benedicts was rolled Saturday evening at the Park Club and resulted in a substantial victory for the single fellows with 175 pins to the good. The victors rolled up a score of 1,392 as against 1,317 for their opponents.

The game was a merry one from start to finish and no little enthusiasm was manifested. The fact that the single men bowled a steady game accounted for the result. The married men were somewhat erratic at times and lost considerable ground. F. O. Ball was high man for the married men with a score of 197, while Dr. Thiers was next with a score of 176. The lowest man on the team was George Hallock who rolled up a score of 80. Wallace Guilford was not much better, his tally being 82.

For the single men, Arthur Peck made high score, 178, and W. R. Faber was a close second with 168. The lowest score made on this team was a 94. This was rolled by Charles Dupee. There were a few other scores below the average, but as a rule the young fellows rolled a far superior game individually than their opponents, as is shown by the scores which follow:

BACHELORS.		BENEDICTS.
L. H. VanBuren	157	F. O. Ball	197
Chas. Dupee	94	Clifford McGee	102
Herbert Rogers	131	James DeGraff	118
Fred Overton	123	P. W. French	96
B. S. Rockwell	163	Wallace Guilford	82
Arthur Peck	178	W. H. Ball	116
W. R. Faber	168	George Hallock	80
Ralph Willis	128	J. C. Peck	107
	868	J. H. Howell	143
Lester Hallock	111	Dr. Thiers	176
	1392		1317

LITERARY.

Never did McClure's Magazine begin a new year so auspiciously as with the present January number. Wherever you open it you will read it. If you are looking for a story, just as likely as not before you know it you will find yourself half way through an "article." This will certainly be the case if you begin with the leading article, "The Shame of Minneapolis," by Lincoln Steffens. It was only a few months ago that Mr. Steffens' "Tweed Days in St. Louis," came out in McClure's, and made the whole country stop and consider, and people who thought they knew something about municipal corruption consider. Now follows Minneapolis. Ida M. Tarbell's History of Standard Oil also is writing of that same kind, and the third installment of it, which appears in January, "The Oil War of '72," is magnificent. There are five tip-top short stories. "The Impertinence of Charles Edward," by H. S. Rhodes, is an exceptionally ingenious love story, in which a serious breach of etiquette brings about an international marriage. McClure's has its work cut out to live up to the resolutions of its January number.

NO NEW SCHOOL.

Citizens of Somerville Again Vote Down Proposition to Bond Town for New School.

Somerville, Dec. 30—The citizens of Somerville are not in favor of getting into debt for the purpose of having better school facilities. This was demonstrated at an election held Saturday afternoon when the three following propositions—a new school building on the present site to cost $55,000, grounds and a new building in East Somerville to cost $8,000—were voted down by a majority of 142 votes. Nearly 900 votes were cast. The polls were open from 3 to 6 o'clock, and both sides worked like beavers.

This is the second time a vote has been taken on the question of new school buildings for Somerville.

Only Room for Participants.

The monthly meeting of the Children's Home Association will be held Thursday, January 8, as the regular time for the meeting falls on New Year's Day. The Christmas tree will be lighted tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Owing to the lack of room, the public cannot be invited.

To Bring Prizes.

The next social event at the Park Club will be "progressive hearts" on Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Each person will bring some twenty-five cent article and after the play these will be distributed as prizes.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 8, 1903. NO. 2

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

FARMERS OF SOMERSET IN ANNUAL SESSION

Somerset County Board of Agriculture Held Meeting at Somerville Saturday.

THE OFFICERS CHOSEN

ADDRESSED BY LLOYD V. C. CONOVER ON "POULTRY RAISING FOR PROFIT."

Former Assemblyman E. E. Cooper Re-Elected President—A Small Attendance, But a Very Interesting Session Was Held.

Somerville, Jan. 7—There was but a meagre attendance at the eleventh annual meeting of the Somerset County Board of Agriculture in the Court House here Saturday afternoon, but the proceedings were none the less interesting. Former Assemblyman Edward E. Cooper, of Warren township, presided and delivered his annual address.

In the course of his remarks, President Cooper declared that the farmers should be careful in buying and feeding the stock. He said that farmers who were selling wheat for 75 cents a bushel when it is worth a dollar for feeding milch cows, hogs and bees were making a grave mistake. Mr. Cooper alluded to the good standing of the board and the excellent attendance that have been noted during the year just past. He congratulated the farmers on maintaining one of the foremost agricultural organizations in the State.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Hon. Edward E. Cooper; vice president, Judge Lewis H. Schenck; secretary and treasurer, former Justice A. P. Sutphen. The directors chosen from North Plainfield were Hubert P. Phillips and Chas. F. Debele.

In choosing the representatives to the State Board (for two years) there was not a little excitement. William H. Rogers nominated Hubert P. Phillips, of North Plainfield, and Geo. R. Randolph, of Franklin township, was also named. It was the first chance the members had had to ballot in a long while and much interest was manifested. Mr. Randolph received fifteen votes and Mr. Phillips nine. There were many spectators present who were not allowed to vote.

The treasurer reported a balance of $112.41 on hand.

The address of the afternoon was made by Lloyd V. S. Conover, of Clinton, Hunterdon county, and his topic was "Poultry Raising for Profit." He is a large raiser and his ideas on the subject were very interesting. The chief plea he made to the farmers was not to keep "scrub" fowls, but choose some good variety and keep that alone, and better results would follow.

Mr. Conover told of his experience with incubators and brooders in a very nice way. At first he had but poor success, but of late years he has been at the top of the bunch, of successful broiler raisers and egg getters To make hens lay at the time when eggs are highest he declared that about the middle of August they should be locked up somewhere they could get nothing to eat and be fed either sunflower seeds or cottonseed meal. These make them shed their feathers so rapidly that in about a month's time their annual rest is over and they will begin to lay eggs and continue to do so all winter.

A vote of thanks was tendered Conover for his able address.

Little Property Left.

Great surprise has been occasioned in this vicinity by the announcement that Bret Harte, the novelist, left an estate valued at but $1,800. It was generally understood that he was worth a large amount of money as most of his books had enjoyed immense sales. The author's family lived at one time in this city on Putnam avenue.

Injured in Fall.

Rev. E. E. Jackson, pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, is quite ill at his home. Several days ago he had a fall and injured himself internally. Monday night Mr. Jackson had several hemorrhages and yesterday his condition was critical. Today he was slightly improved.

Class Resumes.

Leal's School gymnastic class at the Y. M. C. A. resumed its sessions in the Y. M. C. A., Monday, after the holiday recess. Hereafter it will meet every Monday and Friday afternoon at 3:30.

IN GOOD HEALTH.

Plainfield Almost Free From Contagious Disease as Shown at Health Board Meeting.

The January meeting of the City Board of Health was held Tuesday afternoon in the rooms on North avenue, with all the members present. Owing to the fact that several special meetings have been held recently, there was little business left to consider.

Health Inspector William Addis reported that he had made 165 visits during the past month and 1,890 during the past year. The city at present is practically free from contagious disease, there being only two or three cases reported and these are almost out of quarantine.

Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow reported that he had made forty-one dairy inspections during the past month and that he found general conditions still improving. He stated that the moral effect of the new sanitary code is excellent.

LOST PART OF LOAD.

Load of Hay Was Too Big to Pass Under Railroad Bridge.

A large load of hay was being driven beneath the Watchung avenue railroad bridge, Tuesday afternoon, when the driver saw that the bridge was too low for his load. He tried to rein in his horses but they became frightened at a passing trolley car and started to run away. Part of the load of hay became fastened in the top of the bridge and was left hanging there. The hay was somewhat wet and when some of it was blown against the trolley wire long white sparks shot out to the amusement of a number of people standing on the sidewalk. It was not long before a trolley car came along and the hay was brushed away by the passing of the trolley pole.

NO INCREASE IN PRICE.

Coal Will Not Go Any Higher in This City This Winter Say Dealers.

There is little or no likelihood that the price of coal in Plainfield will go up this winter, despite occasional stories circulated to that effect. When spoken to regarding it, H. O. Newman, representing Boice, Runyon & Company, one of the largest local retailing firms, said that the price of coal was not going up if the local dealers could prevent it. He thought that there would be plenty of coal in sight and that the winner at the prevailing price. Other dealers have expressed themselves in similar fashion.

LOCAL BIRDS THERE.

Plainfield Has Representatives at the New York Poultry Show.

The fourteenth annual exhibition of the New York Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association opened at Madison Square Garden, New York, Tuesday, and as heretofore, New Jersey is well represented. Plainfield is represented as follows: William Gray, black nun; Edward Faber, black Orpingtons; F. L. Herbert, golden-crested bearded Polish pullet. Last year Plainfield representatives secured valuable prizes and the same success is predicted for this year.

The Fowell-Pirani Concert.

Mrs. Alma Webster Powell, the noted coloratura soprano, and Signor de Pirani, the Italian composer and pianist, will give a concert in Jacob's Theatre, Elizabeth, Tuesday evening, January 20. The Newark News says: "Both Mrs. Powell and Signor de Pirani, who are making a joint concert tour of the country, were heard here recently and gave a great deal of pleasure to their audience by their individual and combined performances."

Honor for H. C. Brose.

H. C. Brose, of Vine street, one of the promoters of juvenile sports in the borough, has been elected vice-president of the Pastime Athletic Club, of Jersey City. The honor was conferred upon him at a meeting held in the clubrooms at Jersey City, Saturday evening, and Mr. Brose received notification of the honor yesterday.

Cake Sale.

A cake sale will be held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. Sloat Potter, of East Second street, when a large number of home-made cakes, pies and candies will be sold under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church.

But a Brief Stay.

Peter Zimmerman, of West Front street, lost a valuable horse, yesterday, through its contracting a spinal trouble. He had purchased the animal but a few days before.

Mr. Saltzman Expected.

Auguste Saltzman, once chief of the local fire department and high in international fire department circles, is expected to pay a visit to his old Plainfield friends shortly.

LOTS OF NEW BUILDINGS

RENEWED ACTIVITY IN BUILDING CIRCLES WITH NEW YEAR.

Applications for Permits Received at Office of Building Inspector Doane.

After the usual quietness which follows the holidays there was a large number of applications received at the office of Building Inspector T. O. Doane yesterday and the following applications were granted:

George Kirch, of 402 Liberty street, to erect a wagon shed. Carpenter, John Kirch.

Henry S. Phillips, of 182 Grove street, to erect a house on South Second street, near Grace. The house will be a dwelling. The architect will be Fred L. Lancaster; the mason, Oscar Moore; and the carpenter, James F. Stryker.

B. T. Tallamy, of West Sixth street, to erect a small building on his property on West Sixth street. He will be his own architect, mason and builder.

A large row of buildings are about to be erected on East Sixth street which will greatly build up that street when they are completed. The houses will be located at lots No. 617, 621, 622, 623, 624 and 627 East Sixth street t. The lots are owned by Daniel F. Dugan, of 426 East Sixth street. Each house will be a large dwelling and will measure 18x34x36. The architect will be A. A. Hansen; the mason, Walter Woykoff; and the carpenter, H. Nansen.

BORNE BY SCHOOLMATES.

Funeral Services of Young Harry Taynor Were Held Tuesday.

Attended by many of his schoolmates and associates, funeral services were held, Tuesday afternoon, over the remains of Harry Taynor, from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Taynor, of West Front street. They were in charge of Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel, which the young man attended.

The floral tributes were numerous and pretty, several large set pieces being contributed by his classes in the Irving School and Warren chapel. Interment was made in Evergreen cemetery.

The casket was borne to the grave by six schoolmates, Jerry Manning, Lloyd Sharp, Harry Williams, Victor Houston, Leland Manning and Elmer Bowen.

DEEDS RECORDED.

Property Transfers Recorded at County Clerk's Office.

The following property transfers have been recorded at Elizabeth:

Louis Schloss to Edward A. Laing, $79.6 feet on southeast line West Front street, 25.2 feet southeast from Andrew Love's land, $1.

Louis Schloss to L. Warren Randolph, same land, $1.

Robert A. Doney to Maude E. Baner, Somerville, 42.12 feet on centre line of Fifth street at southwest corner Sampson's lot, $4,000.

Rosa Frucht to Rhoda E. Amsdem, Passaic; 66 feet on centre line Park avenue, at Vanderbeek's corner, $1.

Same to same, 46 feet, 9 inches on south line of West Fifth street, 519 feet, 8 inches easterly from Lexington avenue, $1.

Painting Company's Officers.

Last week the following officers were elected at the headquarters of the New York Painting and Decorating Company, of Jersey City, a branch of which is located in this city: President, R. A. Simpson; vice president, W. A. Smith; secretary, James P. Northrup; treasurer, Frank Woolsey; local manager, R. W. Christie.

Fortune of Charles L. Fair.

San Francisco, Jan. 7—According to the report of the appraisers appointed by the Superior Court to place a value upon the estate of the late Charles L. Fair, Mr. Fair was worth $3,040,187 at the time he and his wife were killed in an automobile accident in Paris.

Philadelphia Wedding.

Friends of Miss Edith Hanna Rue, a frequent visitor in Plainfield, will be interested to hear of her approaching marriage to William E. Hetsell at the First Baptist Church, Philadelphia, on Wednesday, January 14.

All at Once.

At its regular meeting, Thursday evening, Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, I. O. R. M., will elect officers and raise up chiefs. The business session will be followed by a smoker.

Elected Delegate.

Protective Conclave, Improved Order Heptasophs, met last evening and elected Michael Armstrong a delegate to the annual session of the Grand Conclave.

WERE MANY VISITORS AT FREEDOM CASTLE

Knights of Golden Eagle Assembled to Witness the Installation Ceremonies.

AT THE LOCAL CASTLE

DISTRICT GRAND CHIEF F. W. POWELSON AND STAFF WERE PRESENT.

After Installation, Speeches Were Made and a Collation Served—Musical Selection Given—Visitors From Out of Town Were There.

Knights of the Golden Eagle from many places flocked to this city, last Tuesday, when Freedom Castle, No 43, installed the officers which are to conduct its affairs for the next year. The ceremonies were conducted in Eagle Hall on Park avenue. At the commencement hour, the place was filled with members of the order from this city, Somerville, New Brunswick, Annandale and Plainfield.

District Grand Chief F. W. Powelson and staff, of Golden Crown Castle, No. 53, of Somerville, was in charge of the installation and administered the obligation to the following: Past chief, R. D. Carver; noble chief, F. S. Bowman; vice chief, C. Vail; sir herald, H. J. Martin; high priest, C. M. Lockey; venerable hermit, L. M. Hummer; master of records, A. R. Vail; clerk of the exchequer, R. V. Kinney; keeper of exchequer, W. F. Randolph; first guardian, F. Voorhees; second guardian, George Allen; worthy chamberlain, David Bush; worthy bard, R. M. Clark; ensign, Robert Levers; esquire, H. V. Sutphen.

Following the work speeches were made by various visiting officials and a collation was served. Informal musical selections also assisted in the entertainment of the guests.

Freedom Commandery, No. 5, K. G. E., of N. J., will be instituted in I. O. T. Hall, Friday evening, January 9, by Assistant Adjutant General A. L. Clark and staff, of Trenton. This is the uniformed rank of the Golden Eagle order.

NEW TRIBUNES.

Appointed by the City High School Senate, for the Student Government System.

The City High School senate, the supreme body in the student government system, recently appointed a new set of tribunes to take the place of those whose term has just expired.

The duty of these tribunes is to aid in preserving order in the study hall, and two tribunes, a boy and a girl, are assigned this duty for each of the six periods of the school day.

The names of the newly-appointed tribunes are as follows:

First period—Chesterr H. Briggs, 1903; Miss Ruth Bullock, 1906.

Second period—Miss Laura Bent, 1904; Harold Feuno, 1904.

Third period—Miss Anna Randall, 1904; William VanEpps, 1904.

Fourth period—Miss Louise Klein, 1905; Albert D. Berrs, 1903.

Fifth period—Miss Ines M. Tolles, 1906; Charles F. Neagle, 1904.

Sixth period—Miss Edna Long, 1903; Robert W. Meeker, 1903.

These pupils will serve as tribunes for the next two months.

'Twas Her Fourth.

Miss Erma Gordon Dobbins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Dobbins, of Elmwood place, celebrated the fourth anniversary of her birthday Tuesday. In the evening the young celebrator entertained a few of her friends at tea. During the day she received a number of pretty and useful present as reminders of the happy event.

Blocked Traffic.

A car on the Fourth street line jumped the track near Spooner avenue, late Sunday evening, and ploughed across the street into the curb. Traffic in that section was hampered for an hour while it was being replaced.

Wedding Just Announced.

The marriage of Miss Mamie Carter, of Plainfield, to Henry Matthews, of Washington, D. C., has just been announced. Miss Carter was married to Mr. Matthews last April in New York city by Rev. F. A. McDaniels, of that city.

Engagement is Announced.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Sadie Doyle, of this city, to Henry Nelson, of Watchung avenue, but formerly of Philadelphia, has just been made. The day of the wedding has not yet been set.

FIREMEN TO PAY FOR DOGS

W. A. COTTER SAYS THEY ARE NOT EXEMPT FROM DOG TAX.

The Borough Firemen Raised the Question as to Whether They Were Exempt.

There has been considerable discussion among the firemen of the borough as to whether they were liable for dog tax. Under the law a fireman is entitled to an exemption of $500 on real or personal property and a number of firemen claim that dogs certainly come under the head of personal property, and therefore the dog belonging to a fireman should be exempt from tax. Collector Geo F. Brown took the view that the tax on dogs, being of special nature, does not come under the meaning of the exemption.

As so much excitement was provoked in the matter, Chief Stahl decided to submit the situation to William A. Cotter, counsel for the New Jersey State Firemen's Association for his opinion, as he is considered authority in all matters of interest to firemen. It was Mr. Cotter who pointed out the law whereby an exempt fireman is entitled to his exemption in any part of the State without regard to where the exemption was earned, notwithstanding several leading lawyers claimed that such a law was not on the statutes.

Mr. Cotter's opinion on dog tax is therefore worthy of note, it is as follows:

"I find no reason why a fireman can claim dog tax exemption, as it is not a tax on real or personal property as recognized by law but is special."

Yours very truly,

W. A. Cotter.

This settles the matter as Mr. Cotter's opinion is recognized as final by the firemen throughout the State and, without doubt, those who refused to pay pending this appeal will probably accept the situation and pay up with the same promptness with which they always respond to a call for duty.

BLAZING CURTAIN.

Caught From Gas Jet and Started a Blaze at Home of Dr. E. W. Hedges Yesterday Morning.

The fire department was summoned to the home of Dr. E. W. Hedges, of Watchung avenue, at 3 o'clock yesterday, for a lace curtain blaze on the second floor. A window left slightly open was responsible for the fire, a draught causing the flimsy material to swing near a lighted gas jet.

Sergeant Frederickson was passing the place at the time and seeing the flames called in Patrolman Meyers nearby. pull box 3-25 and then aroused the inmates. The blaze was entirely extinguished before the apparatus arrived. Only a trifling amount of damage was done.

TO PLAY BASKET BALL.

Plainfield Reform Club Will Apply for Membership to League.

A committee was appointed by the Plainfield Reform Club at its meeting, last night, to make application to the basket ball league to join the organization and it was also instructed to secure a basket ball paraphernalia for practice purposes. Four new members signed the pledge at the meeting and it was reported that the club was rapidly growing. Among the recent recruits were a number of young men who will make fine material for a basket ball team.

Chemical Engine in Commission.

The new compound chemical engine, which was recently accepted by the Common Council, has been formally installed in the headquarters of West End Hose, No. 3, and not No. 2 as was stated by a local paper. The machine was weighed today and tips the scales at 6,360 pounds, making it one of the heaviest pieces of apparatus in the department.

Funeral of Thos. Harkins.

Funeral services over the remains of Thomas Harkins were held from St. Mary's church, yesterday, with Rev. Father Smith presiding. Interment was afterward made in St. Mary's cemetery. The pall-bearers were James Day, John Kneeland, Edward Connors and John Kiely.

For the Plaintiff.

In the Somerset County Court, Saturday, judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff for $302 in the case of Martha L. Saydam, of Arlington, against John H. Allen, of the borough. Counsellor George H. Ball represented Mrs. Saydam.

Game of Handball.

In an interesting game of handball played at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, last evening, Koons defeated Spicer in a match game, the score being 21 to 17.

LOCAL BANKS ASKED.

Plan on Foot to Organize a State Bankers' Association, Started by Bankers of Newark.

Newark bankers are prime movers in an effort to organize a State Bankers' Association for the promotion of matters of interest to banking institutions. The bankers of New York and Brooklyn are so well organized in this respect that such an organization is considered a most excellent and helpful one for this State. Every banker in New Jersey has received a circular letter concerning the above organization and a meeting has been called for Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Fidelity Trust Company, Newark.

The local banks have received circulars concerning this meeting and setting forth its objects, that of a uniformity of action among bank officials, and of the discussion of questions affecting banking and commercial interests. The circular is signed by a dozen or more of the leading bankers of Newark and vicinity. The local banks believe the scheme a good one and no doubt will favor such an organization if it is perfected.

MASON INSTALLATION.

Officers of Jerusalem Lodge Were Installed Last Tuesday.

At a regular communication of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., last Tuesday the officers-elect were installed by Past Worshipful Master B. Frank Corlell as follows:

Worshipful master, James A. Stafford; senior warden, Frederick J. Pope; junior warden, Richard A. Osmun; treasurer, Calvin H. Rugg; secretary, Edward Nelson; chaplain, William Pike; senior deacon, George T. Caskey; junior deacon, Robert Reif; senior steward, Joseph C. Blimm; junior steward, Stephen Van-Horn; senior master of ceremonies, T. H. Stafford; junior master of ceremonies, W. C. Chamberlain; organist, G. T. Dunham; tyler, Caspar Beiserli. After the installation the member enjoyed a supper.

SURPRISED MRS. GREENE.

Friends Dropped in and Spent a Pleasant Evening.

A happy surprise party was tendered to Mrs. Frederick V. Greene, of Willow avenue, last Tuesday. The affair was arranged by her aunt, Mrs. Lunger. The evening was spent in dancing, playing games, and at midnight a bountiful supper was served. Among those present were Miss Sadie Randolph, Miss Lulu Randolph, Mrs. Lunger, Miss Stella Swain, Miss Littell, the Misses Giles and Harry Joseph, William Emmons, Harry De-Meza, William Abbott, Bert Moore, Webster Hall, Walter McNaughton and Clifford Manning.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Held at Martha Washington Council, Daughters of America.

The election of officers of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, was held last Tuesday and the following were elected for the ensuing year: Councilor, H. S. Allen; associate councilor, Mrs. Angleman; vice councilor, Mrs. Fritts; associate vice councilor, G. Thorn; conductor, Mrs. S. VanCamp; warden, Mrs. Benjamin; inside sentinal, Mrs. H. Thompson; outside sentinal, Mrs. Smith; trustee for 18 months, H. S. Allen.

CAME DOWN HILL.

Horse Wandered Alone, the Vehicle Stayed Behind and Driver Injured.

Another accident was added to the long list occurring on Dugway Hill, last night, when a spring wagon driven by Henry French, of Metuchen, came to grief on the steep incline. Going down the hill the front axle broke and French was pitched in to the roadway, receiving a sprained ankle. The horse became detached from the vehicle and was caught near Nelson's Hotel in the Notch. French was assisted home by friends.

Buried His Brother.

W. H. Knight, of Bennett avenue, has returned home from Passaic where he has just buried his brother, James, who passed away Now Year's day. Richard Knight, of Birmingham, N. J., another brother of Mr. Knight of the borough, is spending a few days in town as his guest.

To Portray Lincoln.

Benjamin Chapin will portray the traits of character and personality of Abraham Lincoln under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association on Monday evening, Jan. 19, at 8 o'clock.

Let Him Go.

Sentence was suspended on Walter Ingraham in the city court, this morning, when arraigned on a charge of drunkenness. He was arrested yesterday by Patrolman Vanderweg.

WESTFIELD LOST TWO ON ROSELLE ALLEYS

Leaders in Daily Press Bowling League Met in Series of Three Games Tuesday.

SOME GOOD BOWLING

WESTFIELD MIGHT HAVE HAD ANOTHER WITH STEADY ROLLING.

Roselle Was Very Weak in the First Game, But Made a Strong Showing in the Final Contest—Westfield Fell Down.

THE DAILY PRESS BOWLING LEAGUE.

	Won.	Lost.	Ave.
Westfield Club..	6	3	.667
Roselle Casino	2	1	.667
Cranford Casino	3	3	.500
Park Club.....	1	5	.166

It takes good bowling to defeat the Roselle Casino bowlers on their own alleys as the Westfield Club five discovered last Tuesday. Westfield won one of the series of three rolled in The Daily Press Bowling League and might have had a second if the visitors had been able to hold the pace with which they opened the game. But for the fact that one or two of each team fell away every game, the scores would have been usually high.

It was Roselle's first appearance in a league contest this winter and special interest was attached to it as it is generally conceded that the championship rests between Roselle and Westfield. Neither team was at its best as several of the veteran bowlers were absent and new players had to be utilized. Chas. Westerburg, a discovery of Captain Mulford of Roselle, proved exceptionally strong in two of the games.

In the first game, Westfield came to the front by a small majority which was steadily increased from 26 in the fifth to 68 in the windup. Roselle's men were not steady. Westfield opened the second game in record breaking form, chalking up clean frames in the third and fifth. At the end of the fifth, Westfield had within three of a 900 pace and led by 83 pins. Great rolling seemed contagious and the Roselle bowlers failed to break in the sixth and seventh frames while double-headers and even triple headers were frequent. Westfield couldn't stand the pace and wound up in weak fashion, Roselle coming to the fore by 27 pins amid much excitement.

Condit, Voehl and Worth all fell down in the third game and Roselle trotted through from start to finish. Captain Forster, of Westfield, tried to carry his team to victory but Hegeman was the only one who seconded his efforts. Howe and Miller were in great form while Mulford was rolling well.

The scores were as follows:

ROSELLE.	1st	2d	3d
Greves	121	139	146
Westerburg	176	153	127
Howe	173	188	199
Miller	141	159	204
Mulford	145	150	170
	756	800	846
WESTFIELD.	1st	2d	3d
Forster	154	140	274
Condit	174	157	131
Voehl	172	174	139
Worth	152	151	135
Hegeman	167	151	190
	869	773	794

K. of C. Banquet.

Watchung Council, No. 553, Knights of Columbus, has issued invitations for the second annual banquet to be given at the Casino, Thursday evening. It is expected that a number of prominent members of the Council from various parts of the State, as well as local men of prominence, will be present.

Must Stop Annoying Him.

Several small boys in the borough have been in the habit of annoying an aged man named Theodore Rutan, of Deer street, whenever he appears on the streets and the authorities have determined to put a stop to it. The boys names are known and unless they stop the practice they will be punished.

Nearly Lost Digit.

John Hope, of East Third street, has to carry one hand in a sling as a result of an accident while working at the Scott Press Works. His hand caught in the machinery and one digit was nearly severed.

—Small lima beans, as if they just came from the garden, are included in the White Label brand of canned goods sold by Neuman Brothers.

THE WHITE RAGE.

Some of Its Forms—Afternoon Dress For at Homes.

White is the rage just now, and some of the garments are literally works of art. White silk with all sorts of ruffles and frills of tulle, crepe lisse, chiffon and lace are put upon them, whether the garment in question is a dress or a long or short wrap. Incrustations of heavy lace are placed upon the skirts and other parts of the dresses. The lighter kinds of lace are employed as inserting above flounces or as insets. Taffeta, satin, crepe de chine and fine white broadcloth are all employed to make elegant gowns for all sorts of occasions. The cloth ones are not considered out of place for street and visiting, but white in the street in winter is too cold looking. Some of the cloth gowns have dainty, narrow borderings of fur of some kind or other. This gives the touch of comfort and is usually headed by incrustations of heavy lace. These separate motifs, as the French call them, are just the designs of lace, without the filling, and they can thus be applied anywhere. Some of them look like figures in bas-relief, so rich and thick they are.

AN AFTERNOON GOWN.

There are grenadines, albatross cloths, liberty and several other kinds of light and youthful silken fabrics which are made up into the prettiest of frocks for evening wear. And all of these are white and are to be trimmed with some kind of lace. I saw one dress for a young debutante made of white taffeta, with an overdress of white tulle, which is so very delicate and fragile a material that it will scarcely bear sewing. Still it is so filmy and misty that it can be compared to nothing but the fog as it blows in from the sea. It is too fragile for ornamentation save a few tucks along the skirt or on the flounces. This particular dress had a slip of taffeta, and the tulle skirt was made on the straight, which means that it was gathered at the belt, and there were several tucks around the bottom just above the deep flounce. The waist, a semi-decollete affair, was of the tulle, over taffeta, with heavy lace at the belt and shoulders. The sleeves were of tulle, shirred and finished at the elbows with deep ruffles of the tulle, bordered with lace. No touch of color is added to these white gowns, save where in cloth a narrow fur border is put on.

An afternoon dress for at homes is made of white china crape, and this is ornamented with incrustations of heavy lace of a deeper shade. Some of the lace has tiny white silk buttons added to the design to accentuate the pattern. They are put in clusters to simulate buds or berries. This particular gown shows a slight innovation in the arrangement of the belt, which is suspended by means of a complete negligee with a sash, belt and long ends. This is loosely fastened and is really a graceful plan. It makes a dress between a tea gown and a simple house dress suitable to wear to receive visitors in. It should always be made of soft and flexible material, as it depends mostly on its draping for its distinctive character.

Where a lady likes white and yet feels that she is rather too young or too voyante for her age or requirements she can have it fairly covered with black lace. For this purpose no lace will do but chantilly. Black net, chiffon, silk mull and the grenadine are all seen among the prettiest of the new gowns, where they have a bit of velvet here and there, where the dress requires firmness.

For party and house dresses there is absolutely no limit set on the material to be used to make dresses of, except that it must be white. Black comes next in favor, and some of the combinations are curious. One black lace dress has three skirts, and each of these is bordered with a narrow band of Siberian squirrel fur. To this gown there are two linings, one white taffeta and the other black. Many of the new gowns have rows of fringe at all the edges, and these have flounces to afford edges to set the fringe on.

The fine passementerie braids are put on many of the lace gowns, and as they are produced in all the colors of the season they can be made to match everything. Some of these passementerie braids are really beautiful, and so delicate that it seems a misnomer to call them braid.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

Compliments Of the Season

ANEW YEAR greeting to you, O friends! Through every day of 1903 may you be blessed with the sweet, cheery temper that nothing can ruffle; may you every day learn wisdom and gain power in a manner agreeable to you! If anybody can win you anything better than that, I yield the platform.

Women have much to be thankful for since the twentieth century began. Within the past few months the noble new woman movement has manifested its growing strength in the election of numerous ladies to high and responsible offices in various western states, from that of state superintendent of public instruction to county clerk. Early in 1902 the last barrier to full suffrage for women was swept away in Australia, and they are taking advantage of their new citizens' rights with intelligence and rejoicing. Probably the strongest, finest, most enlightened specimens of womanhood on this globe are to be found in Australia and New Zealand.

For the first time in its history the new art salon of Paris saw in 1902 women appointed among its prize awarding judges. For the first time in history 1902 saw a woman licensed as an apothecary in Russia. Also 1902 saw the university of Leipsic, in Germany, conferring its degree on women, a distinction our own American, Dr. M. Carey Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr college, sought in vain a few years ago. Neither in cold Norway is the new woman too frozen up to move. Municipal suffrage has been conferred on the feminine sex there.

Meantime, returning to America, in the United States 1902 has been a year of fuss and sputter among women's clubs. Those that have made solid, dignified progress are exceptions, and those exceptions are mostly confined to the clubs of country towns and small cities.

It is the time of good resolutions. To begin, let us this 1st of January make high resolve that during the year 1903 we will not fuss and sputter, come what will. The habit of eternally talking, of getting wrought up over trifles, is a perpetual power waster.

The mental and spiritual scientists have been grinding away at their particular brand of grist till it begins to be fairly well known in the community. Their favorite preachment early and late is "power from within." They are right. There is no power for you outside of yourself, not even the power of God, for that must dwell and be developed within you before it will be manifest. "The kingdom of heaven is within you."

Most women would give the best year of their lives to know how to gain power to achieve their ideals. They are beginning to understand that nobody, else, not even husband or children, can achieve these for them.

Well, can you gain power when you pour yourself out from your toes in feeble talk? No matter what the interest in life, it is to be about fashions, your ailments, children or servants or gossiping over the foibles or deficiencies of your acquaintances behind their backs, you are wasting the very life-blood of your soul in imbecilities.

Be silent and think. Thus and thus only you gain power. When a civil engineer wishes to supply a city with water from a small stream, he builds a reservoir and a dam and then lets the water fill up silently and gently. Exactly so a woman may gain mental and spiritual power. The greatest men of all the ages, from Moses to General Grant, have been "silent men." Children weary themselves out in constant infantile prattle and babyish excitement. Women do the same. The frittering away of a life in useless gabble and squabble and in fussing over fashions and clothes is ill fitting employment for the immortal soul of a woman in a land where women have greater opportunity than anywhere else.

The way to stop this feminine fuss and sputter is to stop it. Now, at the opening of the beautiful new year, is the time to begin. Let us resolve, first, that we will only talk when it is necessary. Then, when we do talk, let us not criticise any human being. Let us each say: I myself am the soul I have to work on. When I myself am absolutely perfect, then I may criticise my neighbor's doings; not till then.

Let us be strong and sweet and silent. Let us clothe ourselves with beauty from within, the beauty that never changes its fashion except to grow brighter and brighter unto the perfect day.

* * *

Miss Charlotte E. Ainslee of London, who was senior lecturer in the Cambridge Training college, has been appointed head mistress in a woman's college in Edinburgh. This is considered a great step forward in Great Britain, for hitherto ladies have not been looked on as capable of being at the head of a college. Miss Ainslee receives $2,000 salary, which is considered immense in Great Britain.

* * *

Mrs. Levi Young is dean of the University of Idaho.

* * *

The lady who acts as parliamentary reporter for La Fronde, the woman's newspaper of Paris, has permission of the municipal authorities to wear man's attire when she is on duty, and she does so. This is to enable her to occupy a reporter's seat in the chamber of deputies and elsewhere in official circles. The French seem to respect masculine attire even when there is a woman in it.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

ARTISTIC LUNCHEONS.

A Kimono Lunch a Dainty Way of Entertaining One's Friends.

For the woman whose acquaintance does not number many men the luncheon is an ideal way of paying off her social obligations.

From six to eight people are usually the limit for a luncheon, as such affairs partake rather of the intimate and informal. A most successful affair recently given by an original girl was called a kimono lunch. The guests dressed in Japanese kimonos, each in a different color. The round table was overhung by a huge Japanese umbrella, and the floral centerpiece, composed of chrysanthemums, was placed in a gorgeous Japanese vase. All the china was of course Japanese, and the tablecloth was a quaintly marked square of matting. The dishes were European out of deference to the palates of the guests, but they were served by a Japanese maid with quaint oriental bows. At each place stood a tiny Japanese doll holding the name card. Little lacquer boxes filled with oriental sweetmeats were the souvenirs, and the ices were served in scarlet tea boxes of the small, gorgeously lettered, square size which can be bought at any Japanese store.

A KIMONO LUNCH.

A violet lunch recently carried out had for its center decoration a basket of sweet grass filled to overflowing with violets, the handle being tied with wide lavender satin. For the benefit of those whose incomes are not large I will state that artificial violets were mixed in with the real ones to help fill out in places where they did not show so much. Violet candles, violet paper frills on the croquettes and violet jelly with whipped cream all helped to carry out this dainty color scheme.

Now that the yellow and white dining room is all the vogue yellow luncheons in which eggs play a prominent part are popular. With white and gold china and yellow chrysanthemums a beautiful effect can be gained. It is one of the simplest color schemes.

HELEN CLIFTON.

THE DINING ROOM.

Up to Date Room Which May Offer Suggestions to Other Homes.

The smart and pretty dining room in the illustration has its beautiful woodwork and furniture of fumed oak, which is very popular just now, and its dark tones bring out the cheerful tints of the old rose plain tapestry which covers the walls. The electric lights are in the form of gilt candelabra placed along the wall. These have pretty shades of pale yellow.

There is a fur rug in front of the cheerful open fire. The elaborate cell-

FUMED OAK WOODWORK.

ing is a pinkish yellow. The dining table adds to the comfortable appearance of the room. There are several fine family paintings on the walls. The prettily draped windows are ornamented with long jardinieres filled with plants.

H. LE LA BAUME.

The New Coats.

Coats are trimmed with coarse venetian and other extra heavy lace in natural color or ecru or cream. Rarely is mat white used on any outside garment. Coats are indiscriminately made of velour, cloth, velutina, ribbed or plain, and fine Lyons velvet. They are long enough to train, short, close to the figure, loose and baggy, bloused and in Louis XVI. and many other styles. The long ones are naturally the most dressy, but there is something for every figure and purse. But the squirrel fur coats are relegated to automobiling.

Price—Rose.

In the woman's department of the Mechanics' fair, in Boston, there was a placard with the words printed on it, "Does brick-a-brac give you enough real pleasure to pay for the time spent in dusting it?" I say I

A Few Women Are Not Cowards

COURAGE is of the spirit, not of the body. The girl who recently with a shotgun held a burglar prisoner in a barn, the fifteen-year-old Chicago messenger girl who knocked down the leader of a mob of boys who were after her and kept them at bay till a policeman came to her help, the girl who caught a runaway horse and held him when men looked on, afraid to tackle him themselves; that other girl who when attacked by a negro of twice her strength coolly ran a hatpin through his cheek and sent him off bowling with pain—these young women were built precisely like other women except in one particular—they had bone instead of a jellyish substance up their backs.

Miss Banks, the shotgun heroine, was alone in her country home. She heard some one trying to enter the house and instantly caught up a loaded shotgun and fired at the intruder. He ran like a blue streak into the barn, fearing to be shot if he took the open path. Miss Banks, equal to anything, ran after him and fired into the barn. He was afraid to stir out. By that time the shooting aroused neighbors, and they came running to her aid. She kept the fellow in the barn till he was captured. Maybe next time he will hesitate before concluding it is dead easy to rob a house with a girl alone in it.

Yet more striking as illustrating feminine clear grit is the story of the Chicago messenger girl, Jaunite Bonneau.

A GIRL CAUGHT THE RUNAWAY.

She is a daughter of the people, no coddled rich little girl who had had all the courage and real womanhood "protected" out of her. Jaunite took the place of one of the striking messenger boys who were dismissed from the District Telegraph service in Chicago. The girl had an invalid mother to support.

One day she started out to deliver the usual telegraph envelopes. A mob of boys followed her. At a signal they made a rush for her and tried to take the messages from her. The leader of the mob struck her in the face. The blow raised all the spirit in the girl. She sprang at him like a wildcat and knocked him down into a pass. There wasn't any "weak woman" in Jaunite's fist. As the boy fell his mates rushed toward her. With feminine resourcefulness she grabbed a hatpin out of her cap and jabbed around her in every direction. As the jabs struck home, naturally those that received these tokens of a girl's regard fell back in a ring around her. By that time policemen arrived and arrested the boys. Jaunite magnanimously declined to appear against her vanquished enemy, the mob leader.

"I guess I punished him enough," she said to the officer. The reader also will "guess" that she did. The woman reader will glory in her grit.

The usefulness of a hatpin in the hands of a woman of pluck was again demonstrated when, not long ago, a beautiful and cultivated young lady, Miss Hamilton, was attacked by a huge negro, who sprang upon her in a lonely place. Not once did she lose her head. The black fellow grasped her by the throat and attempted to choke her into insensibility. She waited till his face was near enough to use woman's weapon, the hatpin, to best advantage; then she gave it to him with all her might and saved herself. Perhaps this fellow, too, will think twice another time before concluding a girl is an easy prey.

But of all, though, is the story of Miss McGlinchy, who caught a runaway horse. A horse attached to a carriage bolted down a village street, hurling his driver, a woman, to the ground. A lot of men stood around, and they shrieked:

"Catch him! Catch him!" but not one of them made a move to do so. It was too dangerous.

"I can catch that horse," remarked Miss McGlinchy, and she did. She darted into the street as he dashed by, seized him by the bit and held on till he stopped. Next time there is a runaway horse in that town will the men wait for a woman to jump in and catch him?

SUSAN PEPPER.

Favorite Colors.

Among the new popular colors are green, seal brown and some gray, particularly when it is mixed with black or white, beaver, green and royal blue in plaids or some other combination.

EVENING COIFFURE.

The Low Coil Finds Comparatively Few Wearers.

There is immense variety in the coiffure, but despite the lowering of the collar the low type of hairdressing has comparatively few followers. It is seen mostly in the evening. The tucked in pompadour arrangement with a cue at the back has been too extensively patronized to be much in favor with the smart woman, and it is certainly a fashion which lacks distinction when not completed by a handsome picture hat.

There is very little novelty in decorations for the hair, and the little wreaths of small flowers or fancy still popular. The gelsha arrangement of flowers is rather heavy. A cluster of rosebuds or violets with two or three wires headed by well cut stones which quiver with every movement has many admirers, and the wisp of tulle still has its adherents.

EVENING COAT.

The coronet combs worn in front of the coil suggest the modified tiara, and the newest side and the back combs are the lately incrusted with gems.

A smart evening cloak is shown in the cut. It is made of pearl gray bengaline silk and maltese lace, with a lining of accordion plaited chiffon and lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

OUT OF DOOR GARMENTS.

Smart Carriage Wraps—Fur Lined Coats.

The fur day and evening wraps are anything if not classic, and the effect of Greek and Roman draperies is aimed at in the manipulations of velvets and furs.

Some very lovely carriage wraps are made in cloth, but cloth is no longer represented by hard and serviceable fabrics. It has a beautiful and supple finish, which renders it most becoming as well as warm and cozy. In these wraps the pale pastel shades are much in evidence.

One wrap recently seen was of pale cream cloth lined with emerald green satin. It had a big collar of green panne, decorated with black and white bobs, and showed inner frills of lace and accordion plaited green chiffon. It was cut in the form of a coat of three-quarter length, stitched and strapped.

USEFUL COAT.

Some of the cloths, which have long hairy surfaces somewhat like zibeline, are smart for wraps.

Many warm and at the same time elegant coats are lined with squirrel, but the collar need not be necessarily of the same fur.

The garment in the cut follows this idea. It is of gray cloth lined with squirrel, but having a sable collar.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Woman's Woman as Others See Her

"SHE was a genuine woman's woman," read the bachelor girl.

"Humph!" ejaculated the bachelor.

"You need not sneer," declared the married woman somewhat tartly. "There are such things as trust and real friendship among women notwithstanding all that men say to the contrary."

"Oh, yes, I've witnessed scores of such friendships," chuckled the bachelor. "Women fall on each other's neck and call each other darling after they have met twice. Then they swear lifelong friendship and fairly live in each other's house. Then they tell each other all their secrets. The next thing some man comes along, and it's all up with the lifelong friendship. Worst of all, they then go and tell each other's secrets."

"Well, the woman's woman doesn't do that sort of thing," put in the bachelor girl.

"Oh, I see," commented the bachelor, "because she is so plain that it's absolutely impossible for her to get disliked on account of the attentions of some man?"

"Not a bit of it. She is a true friend."

"Oh, I see; then she isn't married. I never heard of a woman yet who wouldn't tell all her best friend's business to her husband. If men told all their wives confided in them, society wouldn't last one week."

The married woman looked slightly uncomfortable.

"If you can be serious two minutes," remarked the bachelor girl, "I will describe for your benefit the woman's woman. First, she must be"—

"Plain," put in the incorrigible bachelor.

"By no means," retorted the bachelor girl. Then, being of an honest turn of mind, she added: "But she isn't apt to be the sort of girl who strikes men dumb at first sight. Then she must not be too brilliant, but modest in her opinion of herself and conservative in her ideas. She must hardly ever speak of herself and always be interested in the affairs of her friends, even the most trivial. She must not be able to utter a sarcasm or a harsh word against anybody. She must be simple and hospitable in her tastes. Her house should be open at all hours, and she should be patient, with stores of self control which will calm the excited nerves of others."

"THEY TELL EACH OTHER'S SECRETS."

"You are forgetting an important characteristic," put in the married woman as the other stopped for breath. "She must not be a mock or make distinctions among her friends."

"Oh, yes," continued the bachelor girl. "Then she must not act restless or stupid when there are only women around. She must be an all around good comrade and always full of fun and sunny tempered. Then, too, she must possess an absolutely reliable conscience. She will not poach on her neighbor's preserves in the matter of men, and she will never betray a confidence, no matter if the woman who confides in her afterward turns against her. She does not force the confidences of her friends, but of their own will they give them to her with the certainty that her advice will be sensible and her discretion absolutely flawless. This is the kind of woman who is the friend of both young and old and of whom all of her sex speak with the utmost respect."

"Wonderful!" ejaculated the bachelor. "The qualities you have given her are noble, dignified, strength and honor—all manly virtues. Can it be, my dear young lady, that women admire the masculine in their own sex?"

But the other two did not deign to answer him. MAUD ROBINSON.

What Clairette Is.

Among the lighter weights of white woolen material well adapted for the young there is one called clairette. This is half wool and half silk and pure or mat white, and also cream and ivory. When trimmed with lace one or the other shades of white are particularly effective and

DR. ANITA AUGSPURG.

The New Woman as a Disturber in Germany.

An amusing story comes from over the water in regard to how the woman question is agitating the official breast of the fatherland. Fraulein Anita Augspurg, LL. D., regularly doctor of laws, therefore undoubtedly sane and brainy, has constituted herself standard bearer of the German new woman army, and valiantly she marches into the fray, afoot and a-horseback. The tout ensemble she presents in the picture herewith, a little mite of a woman in knickerbockers bestriding a big white steed.

What is more, she likewise appears in the knickerbockers when she is not mounted upon the big white steed, thus declaring the right of woman not only to ride astride, but also to walk free from the skirt bondage of the ages.

As a consequence Dr. Anita Augspurg has been arrested time and again in Berlin, in Cologne, Munich, Wiesbaden and last of all in Weimar, where a to do was made that was noised throughout the press of Germany. In every place where she is arrested Dr. Augspurg takes advantage of the situation to make propaganda for her cause, which officials would undoubtedly be glad to spell "cawse" if only the German language were equal to it. As it is, they are in despair. Dr. Anita Augspurg makes more disturbance in Germany than Dr. Mary Walker ever did in the United States, and the police there do not know what to do with her. At every arrest they are laughed at, and still they feel as if they must make an example of this "fighting woman's right-er," as a Berlin newspaper editor calls her.

A GERMAN NEW WOMAN ON HORSEBACK.

At Weimar she descended from a railway train in sight of a policeman. There had been lately in the little city much robbery and thieving. The perspicacious policeman saw the small person in knickers and pounced upon her as a man in disguise, probably the robber who had been affrighting the honest citizens of Weimar. He asked her who she was and where she came from. She replied to him that his impudence passed all bounds, and she had better go on to the old station house, which he did, perhaps not altogether contrary to her desire and expectation, for the arrest raised a great row.

The officials of Weimar were put in a light so ridiculous and so distasteful to them that their head, Oberburgermeister Geheimer Regierungsrath Pabst, felt constrained to write an explanation of the affair for the newspapers. He declared her dress, voice, manner and gesture as she took off her hat and run her fingers through her hair proclaimed Dr. Anita Augspurg to be a man, and a suspicious one at that; hence the arrest. KATE SHARP.

CHINESE WOMEN.

One of Them at Last Speaks Up For Liberty.

Not long since San Francisco was treated to the spectacle of a Chinese girl orator proclaiming before a public audience of white and oriental men and a few oriental women fenced off in a gallery by themselves that the time has come when the female sex of China must be enlightened. The old order of things must give way to the new.

The girl speaker was Sieh King King. Chinese maiden who has come from her own land to receive the education of a white woman at the California university at Berkeley. She lives with her uncle there, and he approves utterly of her revolutionary ideas. Sieh King King makes some statements that are surprising. She says the Chinese men are ready now to give their women both liberty and education; that they would be glad to see their mothers and sisters on a level with the feminine sex of western nations, but the women themselves are afraid of the light. These stunted, timid creatures desire freedom above all things, but when it is offered them they are overcome, like their sex everywhere, and they run away and hide.

China itself, Sieh says, is in a dangerous situation, and nothing short of enlightenment among its women as well as men can save it. Sieh is the first woman public speaker China has known, so far as appears. In Shanghai, in the public gardens, she once spoke eloquently against the proposed scheme of Li Hung Chang to give Manchuria to Russian control. Sieh King King is only eighteen years old.

JANE DEVOE.

The Woman With Method.

The woman of method will be infinitely happier and have much more time than she who is always in a hurry, doing a little here and there, but never taking time enough to do one thing properly.

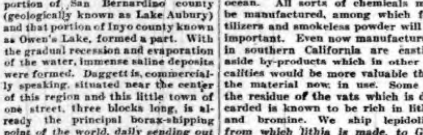
SALT IN CALIFORNIA.

Millions of Tons in Natural Saline Basins.

Borax in Its Perfect State Also Found in Great Abundance—Thriving Trade in Venomous Insects.

[Special Los Angeles Letter.]

ALTHOUGH nearly everything that grows may be cultivated in southern California its inhabitants have thus far depended largely for sustenance upon oranges and the money spent so lavishly by tourists, who are attracted by the climate and scenery. With the increase in population, however, many new industries are being developed, notable among which is the preparation for market of salt in its various forms. It is estimated that millions of tons of this product are awaiting the miner in southern California, which is a natural saline basin. Ages since, the ocean covered the territory between Salt Lake City and the Gulf of California. Of this a large portion of San Bernardino county (geologically known as Lake Auburn) and that portion of Inyo county known as Owen's Lake, formed a part. With the gradual recession and evaporation of the water, immense saline deposits were formed. Daggett is, commercially speaking, situated near the center of this region and this little town of one street, three blocks long, is already the principal borax-shipping point of the world, daily sending out over $1,000 worth of this product. Although borax had been secured by special process prior to that time, it was first found in its natural state in San Bernardino county in 1864. At that time it was worth $780 per ton, or 39 cents per pound, wholesale. Now it retails for seven cents. This great reduction in price has led to its being put to many new commercial uses. It is a necessity in welding, fluxing and the treatment of ores, but to-day is most employed in the manufacture of granite and porcelain wares, so-called, and enameled articles. San Bernardino county produced $1,613,251 worth in 1900, and in 1901 much more. In 1900 the United States imported but $29,000 worth of borax, securing the remainder from San Bernardino and Inyo counties. California furnished 20,357 tons of the 21,834 tons produced in 1899. Chili, the next largest shipper, furnished 11,951 tons.



HARVESTING SALT ON THE SALTON SEA.

Boric acid is made at Daggett by boiling the crude material in tanks with sulphur. After the sulphate of lime settles the liquid is drawn off into outdoor vats, where the heat caused rapid evaporation of the water, leaving the substance known to commerce. By this simple process results are accomplished which European manufacturers secure by means of costly equipments and complicated chemical processes. More than 60 of the dry lakes containing borax are unnamed and but few have been worked. The largest saline deposits are, naturally, in the deepest places, and quantities are found in Death valley, 427 feet below sea level. From 1873 to 1886 this valley was steadily worked, immense borax trains drawn by horses traversing a distance of 165 of the hottest and sandiest miles of desert in the world. Seven-feet wheels with eight-inch tires were required to draw the 50,000-pound loads through the deep sand. This enterprise was ended by the railroads.

BOYS GATHERING CENTIPEDES.

Owen's lake, with an area of 100 square miles and an average depth of 40 feet, is called the largest soda fountain in the world. It contains more than 22,000,000 tons of carbonate of soda, according to government experts. It is expected that salt will soon be mentioned with climate and oranges as one of the leading wealth-producers of California. In those irreclaimable portions of the desert where animal and vegetable life are but sparsely represented by reptiles and insects, and which have generally been regarded as totally worthless, one Indian seated on a plow drawn by a cable is able to place 200 tons of salt in winnows daily. At Salton, salt is harvested, not manufactured. Even the work of evaporation was performed there by nature in past ages. There they collect, when plowed up, is so pure that it is only necessary to grind and sack it. Large salt works are being constructed at Long Beach, while those at Redondo, Oceanside, San Marcos and Coronado are in full operation. Asphaltum is principally along the lines of the railways that the salt deposits are being worked, but the mineral has been found in more than 20 great districts in the desert, much of it being as transparent as window glass. In the Saragosa district, Riverside county, in a ledge a mile in length is a 16-feet center of pure salt estimated to weigh 5,575,680 tons.

In the old days salt was the handiest building material, and a house constructed from it still stands in Danby, in California about $2,000,000 worth of salt is being produced annually at this time, and it is expected that this amount will soon be doubled, as the new Salt Lake road is to be laid through the very heart of this region, among the vast areas of borax, soda and niter. It is predicted that eastern capital will locate factories here, where the products may be easily shipped to the ocean. All sorts of chemicals may be manufactured, among which fertilizers and smokeless powder will be important. Even now manufacturers in southern California are casting aside by-products which in other localities would be more valuable than the material now in use. Some of the residue of the vats which is discarded is known to be rich in lithia and bromine. We ship lepidolite, from which lithia is made, to Germany and then import the manufactured article. Why not produce it here?

A unique industry, one of the strangest in the world, is carried on by some of the small boys of Pasadena, who start out armed with a pair of pincers about 18 inches long and a deep tin can lined with bits of torn paper to a depth of eight or nine inches. The demand by tourists for centipedes mounted on cardboard always exceeds the supply and it is estimated that at least 10,000 of these particularly disagreeable-looking and dangerous insects are prepared for the market in Pasadena alone each year. Tarantulas, scorpions and many other venomous insects also fall victims to the small boys' activity and money-making proclivities, while they satisfy the abnormally developed souvenir habit of the always-present tourists. Rattlesnakes' skins are manufactured into fancy articles, and horned toads are also much sought. But it is not only the tourist who furnishes the market for the latter creatures. At the drug shops in Chinatown they are dried and, as one oriental who was lustily pounding about 20 of them assured the writer, "Me soakee him in gin, makee heap good medlecine." During March, April and May the largest crop of centipedes is harvested and dried, and of all things the Pasadena boys most enjoy is a centipede picnic in the hills among which their picturesque town is situated.

It is not unusual for one boy to catch 100 worms in a day, which he can easily sell to dealers for five cents each, thus earning five dollars. When the rocks are lifted away in the spring the centipedes are for a moment apparently too astonished to move, and this is the boys' opportunity for seizing them with pincers and thrusting them squirming and waving their myriad legs into his can, when they glide under the papers, stinging any one of their associates with which they come in contact. Scolopendra stanleyæ, full grown California centipedes, are from five to eight inches long, and average 21 and 42 segments. A brown thorn terminates each leg, and when the myriapod is angered all the thorns are simultaneously thrust into the flesh of his victim, producing lines of pain like those inflicted by a red-hot iron. However, the second pair of feet, below the jaws, resembling modified claws, are what do the most injury. These hooks are perforated and traversed by little canals leading from a poison gland. The claws come together and set under the flesh with such tenacity that the creature has often to be torn in pieces before its hold may be loosened. On hot days boys have an apt to be bitten because the insects are so active that they run up the pincers and under the sleeves of their tormentors before they can be seized. Ammonia or cooking soda will generally remove the poison and the patient usually recovers, although the pain is intense. When a catch is carried into the shops chloroform is administered, which renders them innocuous and they are treated and mounted on cards or placed in paper weights retailing at from 25 to 75 cents apiece.

EDWARD JULIAN.

LEE WAS TOO QUICK.

With Rifle in Hand He Won the Girl He Loved.

Unwilling Father and Brothers Forced to Be Witnesses—Romance Begins with Lunch and Ends in Marriage.

In Oregon there lived a young girl with three large strapping brothers and her father and mother. The brothers, it was current opinion in the locality, could whip their weight in grizzly bear. As they were called "chips off the old block," it was to be assumed that the father was of the same type.

In this family the daughter, Margaret Black, was regarded as the idol—also the slave. Margaret was to be worshiped so long as she obeyed. When she wanted to disobey then she was to be ruled. It was another case of Lorna Doone.

Margaret's obedience was not a matter of dispute until one day when she happened to walk farther than usual into the great woods around the Black home and lost her way. She walked and ran through the underbrush without finding a familiar path until she was a thoroughly frightened little girl. Then she woefully sat down facing the prospects of a night in the woods.

In this predicament she was found by a young man who carried a rifle under his arm. He was not lost. That was evident. He smiled when the girl confessed "that she was. Of course he would take her home.

"I am Roland Lee," he said. "Why, I live within ten miles of your home."

To walk ten miles and more out of the way just to see that a pretty girl found her way home was nothing—not in Oregon.

After that the disobedience of Margaret began. It would have been something wonderful the way they managed to meet in the woods if that were not as old a way as the story itself is old.

When the three large brothers and the father who claimed Margaret discovered this they found that they had not been consulted, and that was reason enough to oppose it. They found that they did not like Roland

"I AM ROLAND LEE."

Lee. They discovered an unimaginable number of reasons why he would not do, all of which were communicated to Margaret, only to be received in the usual fashion. The more they argued the more the girl decided that he would do.

Finally the family brought matters to a crisis by locking Margaret in her room.

Lee walked about the woods for some time without finding Margaret, before he learned that she was a prisoner. He also learned that he was the cause of it. Being a young man of decided convictions, upon which he was accustomed to act promptly, he followed his usual custom in this case. He went to the nearest town and secured a minister.

"I want you to marry me," he said.

"With pleasure," said the clergyman, "but where is the bride?"

"We'll have to get her. Can you stand a long drive?"

The minister said he could. Lee got his rifle and they set out for the Black home.

Lee and his clergyman walked up to the door and knocked. The eldest brother threw open the door, revealing the whole family seated at the table. Margaret had been allowed out of the room to eat dinner, and she had been sitting silently, refusing to discuss her love affairs with her jailers.

The three large brothers and the father had threatened to thrash Lee on sight if he came near the house, and when Margaret saw him appear suddenly in the doorway she jumped from her chair, expecting to see her lover set upon by the fighting brothers and put in a condition for the undertaker.

Nothing of that sort happened. Lee was too quick for them. Before one could move, he had his rifle in position where it could be used rapidly and effectively.

"I secured a license before I spoke to you," said Lee to the clergyman. "Here it is. Now, Margaret, if you are ready. The witnesses will please keep quiet and remain standing."

Margaret came out of the house and stood before the minister, hand in hand with Lee, who used his left to keep the rifle pointed in the direction of the witnesses.

When the family got back to the house and the brothers looked at each other, suggesting a chase, the eldest said:

"What's the use. I guess he's the right stuff."

THE MOHAVE INDIAN

He Is the Lowest Type to Be Found in the Southwest.

In Former Years Members of This Tribe Indulged in Cannibalistic Orgies—Short Talk with an Old Sinner.

[Special Arizona Letter.]

IT HAS long been a question with students as to whether any of the Indians now living in United States territory were ever cannibals in historic times. There is such a natural horror in the human breast at the idea of one man eating the flesh of another for food that there seems to be a general reluctance to even believe that the Indians of our country were ever guilty of so loathsome and terrible a practice. Far be it from me to attempt to change this laudable spirit of pride, and few would dare to charge me with ever doing a thing to belittle the Indians of America. I have sung their praises too often to be thus misjudged. But facts are facts, and, besides being stubborn things, they should be known if one would rightly judge and understand. I know of but few instances where it has ever been charged that North American Indians were cannibals, and it is not always certain that those so charged were guilty. It was long believed, and is yet by many, that the Seris, who inhabit the Tiburon island, in the Gulf of California, were cannibals, but Dr. W. T. McGee, the acting director of the United States bureau of ethnology, who visited them in 1894, thus disposes of the charge. After reciting his various talks with them on the subject, he summarizes their responses as follows:

OLD MOHAVE CANNIBAL.

1. They are not cannibals.

2. They do not eat any portion or portions of the body of an enemy slain in war.

3. They do not eat human flesh in a sacrificial way, and,

4. They specifically denied having eaten the flesh of the two Americans whom they confessed to having killed the year before.

To all these statements Dr. McGee says he is inclined to give his credence.

But if individual confession goes for anything, the photograph here presented of a Mohave Indian is that of a cannibal. This old fellow openly boasts at the dances of his people of his feasts of human flesh. He lives on the Mohave Indian reservation on the Colorado river, between CLAD IN RABBIT SKIN.

Needles and Yuma, where a large number of this tribe resides. They are without doubt the most degraded of all Indians of the southwest, holding ideas that are repulsive to every moral sense of the white man. For instance, they believe that God is dead, and that His ghost or spirit is the devil, and that this devil lives in the Needles mountains near where the Santa Fe bridge crosses the Colorado river from Arizona into California. There never was such a devil as these Mohaves have pictured, for this "Old Nick" is both male and female, and he sits in judgment on every spirit of the dead Mohaves and determines what share of Heaven they shall have.

Their looseness of morals is past belief, so that one is quite prepared to believe the old man's horrible stories of his murders and cannibalism. To look at him as he tells his story is quite enough. His eyes roll in a kind of ecstatic frenzy and he licks his lips as if enjoying his feast in remembrance. He fairly seems to glory in his debasement.

Listen to him as he tells his revolting story, while I try to picture his appearance, of medium height, well boned and muscular, he is evidently a strong athletic fellow, though now old enough to have many gray hairs. Different from most Indians he has a slight beard and mustache, both of which are partially white. His face is a coarse, cruel, tigerish look, and his eyes positively gleam green when he is excited and talking over his past experiences. To add to the terror of his looks he fastens a quill or piece of stick through the septum of his nose, and then with rhythmic swing of head and body corresponding to a rule rhythm in his speech he tells his tale.

It is of the long ago, before any white man had established himself in the Mohave country. There was no reservation, and the "big father" as Washington did not know of their existence, nor did they know anything about him. There had been a few white men up the river. One came in a big boat that belched out fire and smoke. (This was undoubtedly Lieut. Ives' steamer, which went up the river in 1857-8). Mexicans and whites lived at Ehrenberg, and La Paz, and mined for gold and silver, but that was further down the river. Every now and again some man more eager for the glittering rock and the stuff he burned out of it, would strike out, sometimes alone, and sometimes with two or three companions would roam off into the hilly country, and the desert near to the land of the Mohaves. Somehow their presence would invariably be betrayed. It might be their trail would be seen by some one out hunting, or in the mountains for seeds and grasses; or it might be the smoke of their camp fires revealed their presence. Once it was known they were there the Mohaves would have a council at the camp fire and certain young warriors would be sent to see whether the white man or men could be surprised and slain or captured. Then in detail the old man would describe how, under the cover of night, he and his comrades would steal upon the solitary wretches, as they sat around their camp fire, cooking their meager meal, or perhaps they would wait until sleep had wrapped his garment of oblivion around them. Then, as stealthily as the cat creeps upon the unsuspecting mouse, these red devils would secretly crawl upon their hapless victims, and either stun them with one or two fierce blows of a stone axe, or transfix them with flint or agate tipped arrows.

A RELIC OF THE PAST.

After showing how the poor murdered wretches were scalped, he would then describe the building of a fire, and the dismemberment of the white man. His breath was sucked from his dead lips in order that the white man's endurance might be communicated to his Indian slayer; his scalp was removed in order to hang it in the proper place in the captor's house, and so that he could be decorated with it in the war dances; if the white man had shown any spirit of defense or especial courage, his heart was first taken out and the blood drank and some of the flesh eaten raw. This was to give to the eater the courage of the man he had slain. The strange thing about that belief is that when a man so taken in the courage of his slain foe it is added to the courage he already possessed. Then the choice bits would be torn from the body or cut with flint knives and thrown upon the burning coals, there to roast while the Indians danced and sang around the fire. Then half cooked often they would wolf the meat in the horrible feast, while the blood flowed over hands and chin.

When I asked the old wretch which he liked the better, human flesh or beef, he showed his teeth and exclaimed: "Ma beef!" When I queried how long it was since he had eaten any he drew a line in the sand and signified the length of his life from birth to now. Then cutting the line about in half he signified that it was about that time had he touched human flesh.

To civilize such degraded specimens of humanity is hard, and I never think of that old man but my heart goes out to the men and women who are engaged in trying to elevate the Mohaves. Happily, the major part of the tribe are not to be classed in the same category as the old cannibal, but they are all pretty hard subjects upon which to work.

Some of the younger members are quite bright. The older ones, however, still stick tenaciously to old customs as can be seen by looking at the second photograph, where the rabbit skin blanket is still worn by the aged Indian, who is shivering with ague at the time the photo was taken.

G. WHARTON JAMES.

CHARGES ARE DENIED

Schools in the Philippine Islands Are Non-Sectarian.

Catholics Not Discriminated Against and Proselyting Is Forbidden—Father McKinnon's Educational Proposition.

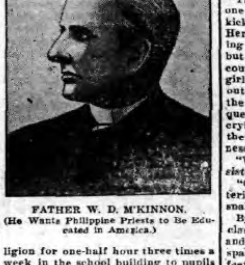
The bureau of insular affairs of the war department has made public the report of Frank H. Bowen, acting general superintendent of public instruction for the Philippine Islands, upon the charges made in the United States against the school system of the islands alleging that it was used as a proselyting agency against Catholics and generally used to the prejudice of Catholicism.

These charges were forwarded to Manila and the reply was made to Acting Gov. Wright.

The report of Superintendent Bowen is a general and specific denial of the charges. He says that of 20 persons who have been division superintendents only one has ever been a clergyman. Three division superintendents were appointed from a list submitted by leaders of the Roman Catholic church in the United States.

In this connection the report says: "The question of the religious belief of applicants and appointees was never considered until late in 1901. At that time a special list of applications, gathered by the authorities of the Roman Catholic church in the United States, was sent to the civil governor of these islands and transmitted to the general superintendents. From these special lists three division superintendents and 22 teachers were appointed. In reporting these appointments to the civil governor the general superintendent stated: 'I have had much difficulty in finding people in this lot of applications who are possessed of the educational preparation and teaching experience which is required of other appointees in this department. Those who have not been selected seem to be wholly unsuitable.'"

The only departure from strict nonsectarianism in the conduct of the schools was a provision of the Philippine commission, which made it lawful for a priest or minister of any established church in the pueblo where a public school is situated to teach religion for one-half hour three times a week in the school building to pupils whose parents have expressed a wish for such construction.



FATHER W. D. M'KINNON.
(He Wants Philippine Priests to Be Educated in America.)

Concerning proselyting, the report says:

"Not only is no proselyting allowed or attempted in any of the public schools, but inquiry of the leaders of the four principal Protestant denominations here brings out the fact that so far as I can learn by these leaders there is not a native Protestant Sunday school teacher in the entire archipelago."

The statement that not one-third of the Protestant teachers ever taught a day before going to the Philippines and that the Catholic teachers are sent on to the distant provinces is emphatically denied.

Father McKinnon, a priest officially connected with the public school system in Manila, who went to that place as chaplain of the First California regiment at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, has urged the authorities of the Philippines church to send 400 of the younger native priests to America for a couple of years' training in seminaries in the United States. Father McKinnon says he discussed this plan with the late President McKinley, who approved it, as it was believed that in this way Filipino clergymen would become imbued with the broad spirit of American priesthood. It is believed possible that money for carrying out this project could be raised in America. It is estimated that the yearly expense of each priest would be about $150 a year. The natives are favorable to the plan. The fact that the native priests speak a different language from those in America does not, Father McKinnon says, because all Catholic clergymen have a common knowledge of Latin, and besides a number of priests in the United States speak Spanish.

Monarch of the Forest.

A few weeks ago there was discovered east of Fresno, Cal., in the Sierras, the largest tree of the world. At the time it was said that it measured 150 feet in circumference. John Muir, the naturalist, has visited the tree and reports that it measures at the base only 109 feet, and at four feet above the ground is only 97 feet in circumference. It is, however, larger than "Gen. Sherman" and "Gen. Grant," which heretofore were the recognized monarchs of the forest.

TOOK BATH WITH EELS.

Harrowing Experience of an Indiana Girl When Visiting with Friends in Chicago.

The Chicago Inter Ocean tells this strange tale of a family on Delaware place with a palate for eels. As often as twice a week the head of the family carries home from the fish market two or three of the slippery, snakelike wrigglers.

In the front rooms of the apartment where lives this family are two young women from Indiana, who during their sojourn in the city, are boarding with the family of eel eaters.

One night last week the man of the house took home three eels. After stumbling about the darkened house in a futile search for a bucket, he hit upon another plan. He tipped to the bathroom and turned the eels loose in the bathtub.

STOLE OUT OF HER ROOM.

As soon as the house was quiet the younger of the two sisters, dressed for her dreams, stole out of her room with a heavy crash towel thrown across her arm and proceeded to the bathroom. The room was dark and she could find no matches. Not caring to search for a match, she decided to bathe in the dark, and accordingly turned on the hot and cold water. When the tub was well filled the young woman stepped in. The hot water had put life into the slippery eels, and when the young woman got both feet into the tub the creatures slid about her ankles and across her feet.

That was all she remembered. With one hysterical scream she began kicking furiously and crying for help. Her elder sister, fearing she was being murdered, ran to the bathroom, but found the door locked. After a couple of moments had elapsed the girl imprisoned in the bathroom fell out of the tub and managed to unlock the door. Not hearing the anxious questions her frightened sister was crying to her, she fairly flew down the hallway, clad only in the darkness.

"What in the world is the matter, sister?" asked the elder one.

"Oh, horrors!" shuddered the hysterical girl, "the bathtub is full of snakes!"

By this time the head of the family, clad in pajamas, was tottering up and down the hallway choking in a spasm of laughter. He stamped his feet, hit his head against the wall, and at last controlled himself sufficiently to light the gas in the bathroom and call his wife to take a look at the room. The floor was flooded with water, and two of the eels were wriggling upon the floor.

EVERYBODY LAUGHED.

Why an Unfortunate English Conjurer Made a Sudden Bolt for the Dressing Room.

At a public entertainment in London recently a conjurer had an experience which was highly comical.

HEN WAS AN OLD ROOSTER.

He exhibited an egg from a previously empty bag, he announced that he would follow up this trick by bringing from the bag the hen that laid the egg.

This little arrangement he had left to his confederate to carry out.

He proceeded to drop the bird from the bag, but what was his surprise on finding that the alleged hen was an old rooster, which strutted about the stage with ruffled feathers and offended dignity, and set up as vigorous a crowing as if it had just awakened from its nocturnal slumbers.

The whole audience shrieked with laughter, and the unfortunate conjurer made a bolt for the dressing-room, though quite disastrous from a professional point of view.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

[illegible] Proprietor

THE NEW YEAR.

Old Father Time has just started us on a new year. It began Thursday and bears the official title of 1903. This new acquaintance of ours comprises the latter part of the 127th and beginning of the 128th year of American independence, and will correspond to the 6,616 of the Julian period and the 5663-5664 of Jewish era, the Jewish New Year beginning at sunset September 21, 1903.

A survey of the calendar for this year brings to light some interesting facts. During the year there will be four eclipses—two of the sun and two of the moon, as follows: An annular eclipse of the sun March 28-29, invisible here; a partial eclipse of the moon April 13, visible only in part of North America, and occurring as follows: Moon enters penumbra 4:26 p. m., moon enters shadow 5:35 p. m., middle of eclipse 7:18 p. m., moon leaves shadow 8:52 p. m., moon leaves penumbra 10 p. m. A total eclipse of the sun September 21, invisible here. A partial eclipse of the moon October 6-7, invisible here.

The principal church days will be as follows: Ash Wednesday, beginning of Lent, February 25; Palm Sunday, April 5; Good Friday, April 10; Easter Sunday, April 12; Ascension Day, May 21; All Saints Day, November 1; Advent Sunday, November 29. The holidays come as follows: New Year's Day, Thursday, January 1; Lincoln's birthday, Thursday, February 12; St. Valentine's Day Saturday, February 14; Washington's birthday, Sunday, February 22; St. Patrick's Day, Tuesday, March 17; Decoration Day, Saturday, May 30; Independence Day, Saturday, July 4; Labor Day, Monday, September 7; Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 26; Christmas, Friday, December 25.

The longest day will be Sunday, June 21, 15 hours and three minutes, and the shortest Sunday, December 20, nine hours, 16 minutes.

The year will mark the centenary of the Louisiana purchase, soon to be celebrated by the Louisiana purchase exposition in St. Louis, of the admission of Ohio into the union and our war with the Barbary states.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

Every member of the Common Council for 1902 must find unusual satisfaction in the showing made in the city's affairs at the close of the year 1902. Never has the municipal machinery been in such satisfactory condition; none of the appropriations were exceeded; there is no floating indebtedness save a note for $4,000 which is more than covered by taxes that will be collected; and there is a cash balance on hand amounting to $44,434.04, as against $17,657.38 last year.

Despite the fact that the members of the Common Council are all of one political party, the danger of becoming extravagant has been passed successfully even without the assistance of any minority opposition. As a matter of fact, politics cut very little figure in Councilmanic matters in Plainfield these days. There are practical business men in the Council and they have been trying to administer the city's affairs on exactly the same lines as business enterprises are conducted. And if one can judge from the reports that were presented at the last meeting of the 1902 Council, that is the way the city has been managed during the past year.

Of course, there are none of us infallible. Councilmen will make mistakes just the same as other mortals. But by working together one may discover another's error. The record made by last year's Common Council was an enviable one. All but two of the same men will continue as members for another year at least. While the two men who have retired were valuable members, their places have been filled by two energetic citizens who will without doubt materially assist their colleagues. There is reason to believe, therefore, that the year which has just begun will be another prosperous one for the city of Plainfield and that its inhabitants will reap additional advantages without any material increase in the tax rate.

It Will Surprise You—Try It.

It is the medicine above all others for catarrh and is worth its weight in gold. Ely's Cream Balm does all that is claimed for it.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.

My son was afflicted with catarrh. He used Ely's Cream Balm and the disagreeable catarrh all left him.—J. C. Olmstead, Arcola, Ill.

The Balm does not irritate or cause sneezing. Sold by druggists at 50 cts. or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., New York.

Two by Letter.

At the communion service in the Crescent Avenue church, Sunday, two new members were received by letter.

GRADUATION EXERCISES AT SUNDAY-SCHOOL

Primary Class Into Junior Department—Infant Class to the Primary Grade.

AT TRINITY REFORMED

INTERESTING EXERCISES WERE HELD SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

Graduating Classes Gave An Idea of What They Had Learned and Diplomas Were Presented to the Graduates by the Pastor.

Graduation exercises were held Sunday afternoon after the regular session of the Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school when the members of the primary department were graduated into the junior department and the members of the infant department were promoted into the primary class with appropriate exercises. In order to secure accommodations for the class which graduated from the primary room a new department had to be organized and Mrs. John Scofield will hereafter be the superintendent of that class. There were many present at the exercises.

After a few remarks by superintendent of the school, F. E. Smith, the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph D., spoke a few words to the children congratulating them on the completion of a year's study in the lessons of the Bible.

The graduates of the primary department recited the creed, the Lord's Prayer, all the books of the Bible and some of the passages of Scripture. The distribution of diplomas then followed and each name was called out by the pastor as follows: Florence Wilson, Edna M. Cole, Helen Smith, Emily Templin, Helen Nischwitz, Gertrude Enander, Marion Morris, Julia Diltz, Bertha Hoagland, Cora Gano, Willie Bush, Arthur Thorn, Earle Huff, Clarence Zimmer, Raymond Scribner, George Lee, Roland Reighton and George Cole.

After the diplomas had been distributed Mrs. J. M. Tier, the superintendent of the primary department, made a few farewell remarks to her departing class after which Mrs. John Scofield welcomed them into the junior department with a few well chosen remarks. Then the class repaired to its new quarters at the rear of the main school.

The class promoted from the infant department to the primary grade was presented and after a short exhibition of the year's work the pastor distributed the promotion certificates. These are the graduates: Christina Carroll, Albertina Brown, Clara Lee, Ethel Campbell, Ida Saums, Gladys Mead, Adelaide Cole, Helen Leighton, Nellie Meeker, Ada Smith, Charles Lindsley, Walter Fisher, Ralph Runyon, Raymond Roth, Benjamin Cooley, Ernest Higgins and Walter Zimmer. As the new class entered its place in the primary room it was welcomed by the superintendent, Mrs. Tier. The doxology was sung by the new primary class and the graduation exercises came to a close.

Miss Mary Berkaw, who has been the assistant in the infant department during the past year, will assist Mrs. Scofield in the junior department while Miss J. H. Possinger, assisted by Miss Addie VanCleef, will teach the infant class. Mrs. J. M. Tier and Miss Minnie Wyman will continue as teachers of the primary department.

Secretary E. H. Bird read the report for the day and said that there were officers and assistants present, 9; teachers, 4C; Bible class, 106; main school, 170; junior department, 11; primary department, 116; and twenty-five visitors. The collection for the day amounted to $19.29.

An interesting feature of the day's exercises was an announcement made by the pastor that the members of the primary department had raised $1.86, which they had consecrated to the Arabian Mission. The account of how the money was raised was interesting. A year ago Miss Possinger gave ten pennies to as many of her girls in the primary class with the instruction to each to make as good use of her "talent" as she could. Yesterday Florence Wilson, Edna Cole, Helen M. Smith, Emily Templin, Helen Nischwitz, Gertrude Enander, Marion Norris, Julia Diltz, Bertha Hoagland and Cora Gano handed in $1.86 which they had made in various ways out of the penny given them a year ago.

Another Chance.

Delinquent taxpayers will have a few more days of grace in which to make their appearance at the borough collector's office, as he has committed the time to January 15. After that date the bills will positively be placed in the hands of the special marshal for collection.

Miss Alice Morgan, of Albert street, has gone back to Mt. Holyoke College after a holiday vacation spent in Plainfield.

The Lamp of Steady Habits

The lamp that doesn't flare up or smoke, or cause you to use bad language; the lamp that looks good when you get it and stays good; the lamp that you never willingly part with, once you have its; that's

The New Rochester.

Other lamps may be offered you as "just as good" —But they may be, some times, but for all around goodness, there's only one. To make sure the lamp offered you is genuine, look for the name on it; every New Rochester is stamped.

We make all stoves too, just as good as the lamps; in fact, anything in oil or gas fixtures.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,

38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

THE FRIDAY NIGHT CLUB

SOCIETY HAS PLANNED A NEW ORGANIZATION.

Will Meet Informally at Casino Friday Nights to Bowl and Play Other Games.

A new social organization has been formed in this city for the purpose of bringing Plainfielders into closer fellowship for the winter months. The organization will have as its name "The Friday Nights Club" and will meet every other Friday evening at the Casino where the members will enjoy such games as ping pong, baddington, bowling, cards, billiards, pool, and other pastimes. The membership, which will be by invitation only, will be limited to 100 and will be confined to Plainfield residents.

The first meeting will be held at the Casino Friday evening, January 9. Tournaments will be arranged among the members in ping pong, billiards, baddington, cards and pool for prizes. There is no regular organization but the following are the organization committee: Mrs. Daniel Ginna, Miss Huntington, Miss Enith Gilbert, Miss Mande VanBoskerck, Thomas R. VanBoskerck, Evarts Tracy, and G. Herbert Taylor, treasurer.

The meetings will be continued until the last week in May when, if it is desired by the members of the club, the meetings will be continued later. The meetings will be informal and it is believed that the scheme will take well in this city where there is no place for gatherings of that kind.

HEARD OF INDIA.

A Returned Missionary Addressed Young Women of Trinity Church.

At a meeting of the Young Woman's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, held Friday afternoon, the members listened to an excellent address given by Mrs. G. C. Wyckoff, a returned India missionary. Two reports were also read from the recent anniversary of the Board of Domestic Missions held in New York.

The president, Mrs. Harry C. Potter, appointed the nominating committee for the ensuing year as follows: Mrs. William C. Starrs, Mrs. George W. Saums, Mrs. David J. Klymer, Miss Mabelle Wilson and Miss Abbie VanCleef.

Ready To Dig Cellar.

"The Cellar Gang" of the borough, which agreed to dig the basement for the new fire house when it was once begun, is waiting anxiously for the first stakes to be driven for the fire house. Recorder Doud, who is the chairman of the committee, says that his men will live up to their agreements as soon as the appropriation is secured with which to start the erection of the house.

Bears His Photo.

Physicial Director C. E. Heywood, of the Y. M. C. A., is the recipient of a novel New Year's card from Germany. The card is from George C. M. Smith a former gymnasium leader who is now studying music at Wiemar, Germany. It is a private mailing card and on the back of it is an excellent photo of Mr. Smith.

Horseman Located Here.

Hugh McIlwain has recently has recently had a large shipment of horses arrive in this city and he will have his headquarters in this city during the winter at least. Mr. McIlwain has large stables in Kentucky where he raises fine saddle horses, and it is this variety of horses that he has sent to this city.

Cemetery Deal Off.

The options on the property at Oak Tree which was to have been used for a cemetery expired January 1, and the deal is now off. Out-of-town capitalists were planning to buy this land and locate a cemetery in Oak Tree near the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Gift of a Robe.

Rev. E. E. Jackson, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, has received a gift of a robe from the members of his church, and he will hereafter wear a gown in the pulpit.

Working Fast.

Excellent progress is being made on Woodhull & Martin's new building on East Front street. Within a short time the work of putting on the roof will be commenced.

THEATRICAL.

Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, this week is the scene of an elaborate revival of the only authorized version of the spectacular drama "Around the World in Eighty Days," a dramatization by Felix Da-Fontaine of Jules Verne's most famous novel. A splendid show entertains the patrons of Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre. The strong bill will have for its headliners Al Leech and the Three Rosebuds, in Joseph Hart's farce, "Examination Day at School," and Provost, in "Fun in a Turkish Bath." The patrons of Proctor's fifty-eighth Street are this week witnessing a spectacular production of Scott Marble's "Heart of the Klondike." Up in Harlem, at Proctor's One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street House an extraordinary revival is being given of Franklyn Fyle's great war drama, "Cumberland '61." Over in Newark a great treat has been arranged for the patrons of Proctor's in the presentation of Newark's most popular favorite, Mrs. Una Abel-Drinker, in a new vaudeville sketch entitled "The Open Gate."

The Whitney Opera Company, in the new spectacular military opera, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," is drawing immense audiences to the New York Theatre, New York. This piece is an innovation in amusement enterprises and a great novelty. It tells a most interesting story of the Civil War in lyrics and bright melody and may, perhaps, be most fittingly described as a "Shenandoah" or "Held By The Enemy" presented as an opera. The book is by Stanislaus Stange and the music by Julian Edwards, the author of "Dolly Varden." The music is the best score that Julian Edwards has ever written. While original in the main, the composer has very deftly interwoven into his own efforts all the martial music in popular during the time of the Civil War, together with darky melodies and the battle songs of the blue and the gray. From the standpoint of scenery and costumes, the production is very quaint and beautiful, the dresses correctly representing those worn during the war period from 1861 to 1865, including the now somewhat ludicrous massive hoop skirts which were prevalent in those days.

FOR RETIRING PRESIDENT.

Clerks of Atlantic Trust Company Presented Him With a Gift.

The young men in the office of the Atlantic Trust Company gave to the retiring president, L. V. F. Randolph, of this city, a touching evidence of their regard a night or two ago. One of their number came to Plainfield bearing a magnificent set of Shakespeare, one of the most recent and elegant of English editions. Accompanying the books was an engrossed card bearing the signatures of the donors. To Mr. Randolph the gift was one of the most pleasing of any of those that have come from Mr. Randolph's trust company associates.

CAUGHT BETWEEN TRAINS.

Half Dozen People Had Narrow Escape at Grant Avenue Station.

A half dozen people had a narrow escape Saturday evening from being killed at the Grant Avenue station. They were getting off the 5:30 o'clock train from New York, and because of an eastbound coal train they were obliged to stand on the tracks until it passed. In the meantime a Royal Blue eastbound train came along at a high rate of speed. The people saw the fast train just in time, and they escaped being struck by laying flat on the ground between the express and the train which they left. It was a hair's breadth escape and everyone of the six people were thoroughly frightened. It is said that the matter will be investigated.

Sent to Skillman.

Mrs. Elizabeth McKee, who has on several occasions caused excitement on the streets, has undergone an examination and it was found that she was suffering from epileptic fits, and she has been sent to the institution at Skillman for treatment.

Lockers Are Ready.

The twenty-six new combination lockers, which have been recently placed in the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A., by William Bohl, are now ready for use.

CHRISTMAS TIME FOR MISS CURRY'S TOTS

How the Holiday Season Has Been Spent at Little Missionary Day Nursery.

MANY WERE MADE GLAD

CHRISTMAS EXERCISES HELD AT THE SEVENTH STREET M. E. CHURCH.

How Miss Curry's Charge Is Growing, and in What Directions—Distribution of Gifts at the Yuletide Season.

The holiday week was a very busy one for Miss Curry, of the Little Missionary Day Nursery, 23 St. Marks place, New York, with over two hundred children to provide with Christmas dolls, candy and clothes, together with the distribution where they would do the most good, of a miscellaneous lot of things sent in for that purpose. Besides, Miss Curry has had her hands full training the children for their Christmas entertainment. The work has grown so fast that the nursery was not large enough to accommodate all who desired to hear and see the children.

Rev. J. B. Henry, of the Seventh Street M. E. church, kindly offered Miss Curry his church, which was filled with the friends of the children and of the work. It was remarked how well the children sang and recited. At the close of the entertainment, L. B. Rolston, president of the nursery, spoke of its growth and great work, starting as it were from a grain of mustard seed, sown by God's faithful servant, Miss Curry, six years ago, when she had but twenty children.

The nursery work is extending with its kindergarten department now needing more room, its cooking school for mothers and young girls to improve themselves in that part of housekeeping, its Tuesday night mother's meeting which is well attended, and its Friday night men's meeting, where all classes and denominations meet to hear the Gospel preached. Mr. Rolston stated that he hardly knew what to say about such a grand work, only that God is behind it with His blessing. The training of the children speaks of thoroughness and patience on the part of Miss Curry.

With a merry Christmas to all Santa Claus made his appearance and made himself solid with the children by seeing that all had presents. Everyone was pleased with the evening's entertainment. The tree was transferred to the nursery and loaded down with nice things for thirty-five additional children, who otherwise would not have had anything. One family of five had nothing in the house. Another poor mother, with a baby fourteen days old, was without fire or food. And all were of this extremely poor class. It would have done one's heart good to see how happy they all were, forgetting everything while the good time lasted. Miss Curry seems to have the faculty of making the most unfortunate happy. Many have been made comfortable by her thoughtfulness. The Little Missionary Day Nursery is a beacon light on the eastside for the poor unfortunate young and old.

C. Ames Brooks, of West Seventh street, is back at Princeton University after spending the holidays at home.

THIS REMEDY IS SURE TO GIVE SATISFACTION.

Ely's Cream Balm

Gives relief at once.

It cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly. It is absorbed. Heals and protects the membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Full size 50c. at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size 10c by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York

Dr. Humphreys'

Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

No.	CURES.	PRICES.
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic.	.25
3	Teething Colic, Crying, Wakefulness.	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.	.25
5	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis.	.25
6	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache.	.25
7	Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo.	.25
8	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach.	.25
9	Suppressed or Painful Periods.	.25
10	Whites, Too Profuse Periods.	.25
11	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.	.25
12	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions.	.25
13	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains.	.25
14	Malaria, Chills, Fevers and Ague.	.50
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping-Cough.	.25
27	Kidney Disease.	.25
28	Nervous Debility.	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed.	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever.	.25

Sold by Druggists, or sent free on receipt of price. Humphreys' Manual of Diseases at your Druggist or Mailed Free.

Humphreys' Homeopathic Medicine Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER NOV. 25, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—

7 23 a. m.—Fast line daily, with Pullman Vestibule Buffet Cars, for Pittsburg, Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

7 47 p. m.—Western Express daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

8 37 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, and Chicago, daily for Knoxville, via Shenandoah Valley Route, for Cleveland, except Saturday.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1 05, 3 30, 7 00, 10 05 a. m., 12 05 noon. On Sunday at 1 05, 3 30, 7 00, 10 05 a. m., and 12 05 noon.

For Newark and New York—2 08, 3 31, 5 08, 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 7 45, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 noon, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 01 night. Sunday—2 08, 3 31, 5 08, 6 15, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 noon, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 01 night.

For Philadelphia—1 05, 5 55, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 10 02, 11 00 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 2 02, 3 02, 4 02, 5 02, 6 02, 7 02, 7 46, 8 47, 10 02 p. m. Sunday—2 02, 4 02, 5 02, 6 02, 7 02, 8 02, 9 02, 10 02, 11 00 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 4 02, 5 02, 6 02, 7 02, 8 02, 9 02, 10 02 p. m.

For Atlantic City (via Delaware River Bridge Route)—1 05 a. m., 2 00 p. m. weekdays.

For Cape May—1 05 a. m. and 1 37 p. m. weekdays. 1 00 a. m. Sundays.

For Bay Head—5 55, 8 30 a. m., 12 02, 4 02 p. m. weekdays. 5 55, 8 30 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 4 02, 5 02, 7 02 p. m. Sundays.

For Long Branch—5 55, 8 30, 9 30 a. m., 12 02, 4 02, 5 02, 7 02, 7 46, 8 47, 10 02 p. m. weekdays. 5 55, 8 30, 9 30 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 4 02, 5 02, 7 02, 8 02, 9 02, 10 02 p. m. Sundays.

For Asbury Park—5 55, 8 30, 9 30 a. m., 12 02, 4 02, 5 02, 7 02, 7 46, 8 47, 10 02 p. m. weekdays. 5 55, 8 30, 9 30 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 4 02, 5 02, 7 02, 8 02, 9 02, 10 02 p. m. Sundays.

For Ocean Grove—5 55, 8 30, 9 30 a. m., 12 02, 4 02, 5 02, 7 02, 7 46, 8 47, 10 02 p. m. weekdays. 5 55, 8 30, 9 30 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 4 02, 5 02, 7 02, 8 02, 9 02, 10 02 p. m. Sundays.

For Atlantic City via Delaware River Bridge Route—1 05, 5 55, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 10 02, 11 00 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 2 02, 3 02, 4 02, 5 02, 6 02, 7 02, 7 46, 8 47, 10 02 p. m. Sunday—2 02, 4 02, 5 02, 6 02, 7 02, 8 02, 9 02, 10 02, 11 00 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 4 02, 5 02, 6 02, 7 02, 8 02, 9 02, 10 02 p. m.

For Somerville—8 30, 7 15, 8 22, 9 36, 11 03 a. m., 1 03, 2 06, 3 22, 4 24, 5 43, 6 51, 8 30, 9 39, 11 03 p. m. Sunday—8 45, 9 36, 11 03 a. m., 1 03, 2 06, 3 22, 4 24, 5 43, 6 51, 8 30, 9 39, 11 03 p. m. Sunday—4 45 a. m., 12 38 night. Sunday—4 45 a. m., 12 38 night.

For Bound Brook—5 55, 8 30, 9 30 a. m., 12 02, 4 02, 5 02, 7 02, 7 46, 8 47, 10 02 p. m. weekdays. 5 55, 8 30, 9 30 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 4 02, 5 02, 7 02, 8 02, 9 02, 10 02 p. m. Sundays.

For Plainfield—5 55, 7 46, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 01 night. Sunday—2 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 01 night.

For Dunellen—5 55, 7 46, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 01 night. Sunday—2 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 01 night.

For Fanwood—5 55, 7 46, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 01 night. Sunday—2 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 01 night.

For Scotch Plains—5 55, 7 46, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 01 night. Sunday—2 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 01 night.

For Westfield

WAR VETERAN PASSED AWAY

Major-General Eli Long Died at Presbyterian Hospital Monday Morning.

WAS AN OLD RESIDENT

Was Distinguished Officer in Civil War—Was Wounded Many Times—Promoted From Lieutenant to General—Leaves Five Children —His Army Record.

The death of Major General Eli Long, which occurred on Monday at the Presbyterian Hospital, New York, deprived Plainfield of one of its best known and most highly respected citizens. Few indeed, who lived in this city who did not know General Long and many will be grieved to learn of his sudden demise which was brought about through an operation performed Saturday afternoon for a complication of heart and kidney trouble. It was hoped that the operation would be successful and, in fact, the patient seemed to rally Sunday morning but towards night he gradually sank and peacefully expired on Monday. He has lived in this city since the Civil War and at the time of his death resided on Grove street.

General Long was a distinguished officer in the Civil War, having won his laurels through hard fighting and meritorious conduct on several occasions. He is survived by five children who are: Dr. Eli Long, Jr., of New York; Percy C. Long, Miss Laura Long, Miss Margaret Long and Mrs. George Worth, all of this city.

General Long was a graduate of the Military Academy near Frankfort, Kentucky, and after he graduated he was appointed second lieutenant of the First U. S. Cavalry, on the recommendation of Hon. James Gutherje, of Kentucky. In 1857, he received commendatory recognition from his superior officers for the gallant part he played in the Cheyenne expedition. He was stationed at Fort Lyon at the outbreak of the Rebellion in 1861 and distinguished himself by capturing a large company which was headed for Missouri. He was subsequently promoted to first lieutenant and captain. He was under General Buell at Louisville; and was one of the escort to General Rosecrans at Stone River. He was wounded in December, 1863, and on recommendation of General Rosecrans, he was promoted to colonel of the Fourth Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, General Sherman warmly endorsing him.

He was engaged in the battle of Chickamauga where he was seriously wounded in a close engagement at Mc Minneville and again at Farmington where, while making a charge, at the head of his company his charger was shot from under him.

In another engagement, he routed General Wheeler at Calhoun and defeated General Roddy at Moulton, Alabama. He was again wounded at this battle and received a severe wound in the head which caused a concussion of the brain. For a time it was thought he was fatally wounded but blessed with a sturdy constitution he rallied and was brevetted major general of volunteers and colonel of the United States Army in March, 1865. In the same year he was made colonel of the Second Division of the C. D. M. and in the latter part of the year he was in the division which captured General Forrest and 4,000 of his men.

While at Farmington he was in command and it was his orders carried out which resulted in the tearing up of over thirty miles of the Knoxville and Chickamauga Railroad, while General Sherman was at Farmington. At the battle of Chickamauga his company lost 134 officers. During the engagement at Chickamauga his brigade won the title of the "fighting brigade" and all during the war they carried that name with them.

General Long like General Grant was an inveterate smoker but unlike General Grant he smoked a pipe instead of cigars. In all the engagements of which he fought he had one particular pipe which was stuck between his teeth whether it contained any tobacco or not.

As a resident of this city he lived a quiet life. Except for one term as borough recorder, he never occupied any political position but he had a lively interest in the welfare of the town. For a time, after the close of the war, General Long made his headquarters in Washington, but after being retired from the active list he came to this city where he made his home with his family.

A son has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Best, of Park avenue.

MAYOR'S IDEAS FOR NEW YEAR

Full Text of His Annual Message Presented to Common Council Monday Night.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS

Water Company's Contract, Telephone Signal Service for Police, New High School, Public Parks, Extension of Sewers Are the Topics He Touches Upon.

The following is the complete text of the annual message of Mayor Olin L. Jenkins, presented to the Common Council at Monday evening's meeting:

MAYOR'S OFFICE.
Plainfield, N. J.
January 2, 1903.

To the Honorable Common Council of the City of Plainfield, N. J.:

Gentlemen: From the financial point of view, you enter upon the discharge of your duties more highly favored than any of your predecessors. Never before in the history of this city was there found at the beginning of the fiscal year so large a balance in the general fund. That balance is $31,244.43 and there are no outstanding obligations against it. The police department has been conducted with such economy as to save nearly $1,000 from its appropriation. In the street department, the last of the first series of $12,000 street improvement bonds has been paid off, as well as $3,000 of the last issue, leaving outstanding only $2,000 of these bonds, none of which has yet matured. The expenditures and liabilities in all departments were kept within the limit of appropriations, as indeed is strictly necessary under the law, and all payments were made from taxes and assessments for prior years and the early collections of taxes for 1902, without borrowing a dollar (except in the fire department) in anticipation of the collection of such taxes. Instead of having to pay interest charges for money borrowed, with the single exception stated, the city has received interest from its deposits in bank. This highly creditable condition of the city's finances is attributable in part to the continued enforcement of the Martin Act and, in part, to the collection of franchise taxes on public-service corporations, but also in large measure to the wise and economical administration of the city government by the Council of 1902.

Taxes.

The proceedings taken under the Martin Act to enforce payment of delinquent real estate taxes, have proved most effective, both with respect to taxes long past due and adjustable by the Commissioners and the taxes assessed since the Commissioners made their report. The proceedings under the act referred to, are complicated and require the exercise of the greatest care on the part of the several city officers charged with the performance of those duties. So far, the result shows how well the city has been served in this matter. There should be no relaxation of effort to punctiliously observe every requirement of the statute in future proceedings under the act.

The collection of delinquent personal property taxes has not proceeded satisfactorily. Some of these taxes, doubtless, are uncollectible, owing to the removal of the delinquents from the city, or other like causes; but the fact remains that large amounts are due to the city for personal property taxes from delinquents who still reside in the city, and whose personal property may be seized and sold, or, if any are without property subject to seizure, such persons may be taken into custody until they find means to pay to the city their just obligations. I respectfully suggest that this matter be referred to some appropriate committee to confer with the Corporation Counsel and the Tax Collector with a view of securing the prompt and rigorous enforcement of the law applicable to the situation.

School Taxes, School Bonds, Etc.

The determination of the amount to be assessed for school taxes, exclusive of the State school taxes, is now placed within the jurisdiction of the Board of School Estimate, composed of the Mayor, two members of the Common Council and two members of the Board of Education, subject to the limitation that the amount shall not exceed three-fourths of one per centum of the taxable valuation of real and personal property in the city without the concurrence of the Common Council.

By reason of the recent action of the Board of Education and the Board of School Estimate, taken under the new school law, it is now, if the constitutionality of the school law be conceded, incumbent on the Common Council to appropriate the sum of $125,000 for the purchase of land and the erection thereon, of a new High School building, and to borrow the money and secure its payment by the issue of bonds payable not more than thirty years from the date thereof. The proceeds of the sale of such bonds are required to be deposited with the custodian of school moneys, viz.: the City Treasurer, and to be paid out only on the warrants, or orders, of the Board of Education.

How best to arrange for the issue, date of maturity and collection of interest and principal, are questions requiring mature consideration. Heretofore all school bonds issued in this city have been issued by the Board of Education. Of such bonds, there are now outstanding $40,000, $4,000 of which mature each year, and in addition to such bonds, there is outstanding a bond and mortgage of $21,000 on which $1,000 is payable each year. It will be seen, therefore, that $5,000 of the present bonded indebtedness of the Board of Education will be payable each year from the present down to and including the year 1911, and thereafter, $1,000 each year down to and including the year 1922. I suggest, therefore, that in order to equalize as nearly as may be the annual assessment of taxes on account of school bonds, some such plan as the following be adopted; that is to say, that the new bonds be all of the denomination of $1,000, and be made to mature as follows: On September 1, 1912, three bonds; on the first days of March from 1913 to 1916 both inclusive, five bonds, and that the remaining bonds necessary to be issued to raise the balance of the $125,000 shall be made payable in such manner that an equal number, as nearly as may be, shall mature on the first days of March of each and every year from 1917 to 1933, both inclusive. It is also suggested that in order to save interest on the deferred issue, not more than $60,000 of the proposed new bonds be issued and sold during the early part of the present year, and that the remaining bonds necessary to be sold to realize the total amount required to be raised, be not issued or sold until one year later than the date of the first issue. The plan suggested would make all the bonds payable within the thirty year limit prescribed by the statute. It is believed that the amount to be realized from the proceeds of the sale of the $60,000 of bonds would furnish all the money actually needed to purchase the lands and make the necessary payments to fall due on account of the building during the present year.

Water Supply Contract.

By reference to the correspondence between the Plainfield Water Supply Company and the city, on file with the City Clerk and the action taken thereon by the last Common Council, it will be observed that the city has the option at any time between the present and the first day of April next, to renew the present contract with the Plainfield Water Supply Company for the period of nine years from the second day of May next. This matter had the serious consideration of the last Common Council and is one requiring prompt attention from the present Common Council, to the end that if it shall be deemed wise and best to exercise the option referred to, notice of such election may be promptly given, and if the contrary conclusion is reached, negotiations should promptly ensue looking to the protection of the city at the expiration of the present contract on the first day of May next. The last communication from the Plainfield Water Supply Company set forth that unless the city should give notice to the company on or before the first day of April, 1903, of its intention to avail itself of the existing contract, the same should be considered as renewed for nine years. It recommended that the city take some affirmative action rather than allow the city's rights to depend upon the failure to give any notice.

Police Department.

Recent investigations made by the police department have made it clear to my mind that the time has arrived for the introduction in this city of an up-to-date police telephone signal service. Twelve or fifteen signal boxes should be established at appropriate places throughout the city having telephone communication with police headquarters. Each box should have three or more signal buttons: one for police officers, one for citizens and one for fire alarm. Automatic devices in connection with such a system would record at police headquarters all signals there received. The use of the system would practically dispense with most of the duties of roundsmen. The record so made would be the best possible test of the manner in which the city is patrolled by policemen, and it would establish the records of the several members of the force in an impartial manner. The inauguration and use of such a system practically doubles the effectiveness of the work of police officers. Violators of the law knowing that any police officer or any citizen having a key could summon aid, likely to arrive in a few minutes time, it would often operate to prevent infractions of the law. The efficiency of the fire department and its signal service would be greatly enhanced. After the system has once been installed, the expense of maintenance is very small. The need of this great public improvement being so manifest, and the city being now in funds which can be spared for that purpose without injury to any other department, I heartily commend for your favorable consideration the project of the speedy introduction of such a system in this city. From a rough estimate of the probable expense of the installation of such a system, it is believed that $5,000 would suffice.

In this connection, and before the wires shall be laid, it is important to consider whether the best interests of the city do not require better quarters and appointments for the city court and city jail and police headquarters than those now in use.

City Parks.

If Plainfield has one conspicuous defect it is that it possesses only one public park. The rapid development of the different sections of the city make it manifest that if the city is to acquire land for park purposes without requiring purchase and removal of buildings, it is time that action be taken. The need of public parks for the health and well-being of our inhabitants, not to speak of the utility of such parks as tending to increase property values and attract new residents, are so obvious as to need no mention. Action in the premises has been too long deferred already. Legislation ample to enable the city to proceed promptly and effectively will be found in Public Laws of 1902, and other legislation likewise available will be found in the General Statutes.

Sewerage.

The system of sewerage now in use in this city was established after the best consideration which previous Common Councils, aided by the advice of a large committee of our foremost citizens, and the assistance of sanitary engineers of the highest standing, were able to give. Under the painstaking and intelligent supervision of our City Engineer, it is doing excellent service. There are portions of the city, however, not yet connected with the city's sewerage system, and the duty of the city with respect to supplying those sections with adequate facilities for connecting with the sewerage system is one of the pressing questions that will come up for consideration by your honorable body. While it is true that those sections of the city to which the present system does not extend have not been assessed for any special benefits to help pay for the cost of establishing the system, and taxable valuations of property in such sections have not been raised so as to represent property having sewer connection, it is equally true that all the property in the city contributes towards the expense of maintenance and also contributes towards the payment of the sewer bonds, principal and interest. In those portions of the city in which numerous buildings have already been erected, or are in process of construction, some means should be found to give the property owners the benefit of the sewerage disposal works and the use of the mains acquired mainly at the general expense. It is a large question and many difficulties will need be surmounted but, for that very reason, the matter is entitled to early consideration at your hands.

Street Improvements.

The very full report submitted by the street committee and on file with the city clerk, renders it unnecessary to call attention at this time to that department of city work. It has been in excellent hands and the method of construction, maintenance and repair which would be difficult to improve upon. I still adhere to the views already communicated to the Common Council that recourse to the method of making permanent street improvements by the issue of bonds, however temporary in character, and subsequently raising the money to pay the bonds by assessments made by Commissioners appointed by the county court, ought not to be resorted to except in those rare instances in which the ordinary method pursued in this city is found wholly impracticable.

Other Departments.

The departments of fire, health, alms, city court, library and other branches of our local government, have been managed with rare vigilance and skill. The reports of the heads of the several governmental agencies on file will give all needed information of their present status, and the recommendations found therein will furnish the basis for any desired improvements.

The record made up for the year 1901 was one of which the city was justly proud. That the city has been able not only to keep up to the high standard established, but to attain even a higher degree of efficiency, and to leave the city in a better situation financially, and in all other respects than that heretofore attained, is indeed the subject for profound gratification on the part of all of our citizens. If the joint efforts of the legislative and executive departments of the present administration shall suffice to make up a record of equal excellence for the present year, it is believed that the result is assured.

Your obedient servant,
Olin L. Jenkins,
Mayor.

MAYOR NAMES NEW OFFICIALS

Appointments for the Year Made by Mayor and Confirmed by the Council.

THE B. OF H.'S REPORT

Dr. C. S. Lufborrow Was Appointed City Physician—Craig A. Marsh Reappointed Corporation Counsel—Health Board Presented An Illustrated Report.

The attention of the Common Council was occupied with a number of important matters at its adjourned meeting held last Monday. All of the members, except Mr. VanDerwerden, who is out of town, were present. President Buckle was prompt in calling the meeting and the business was transacted expeditiously.

During the first part of the session several communications were received. One was from Charles J. Fisk, president of the Board of Health, in which he stated that the amount needed for the use of the board during the coming year, exclusive of that needed in case of small-pox, was $3,750, and he asked the Council to appropriate that sum.

Mrs. Sarah R. Runyon, per H. S. Newman, asked the Council to return $18 70 which sum was paid twice for taxes assessed in 1901. The matter was referred, as was also a petition from D. S. Alpaugh and others asking for an electric light between Fifth and Sixth streets on Sycamore street. At this time the Mayor's annual message was read, after which on Mr. Lee's motion the clerk was instructed to furnish each member with a copy of it. The message appears in full in another part of The Constitutionalist.

Following the reading of the message the Mayor made a number of appointments, all of which were confirmed. As members of the Board of Health, Charles J. Fisk and Dr. B. VanD. Hedges to succeed themselves and Charles H. Dunham to succeed Herman A. Weber, whose term expired. The term is for two years. Albert H. *Atterbury was appointed as a commis*sioner of appeal for three years, to succeed himself, and Craig A. Marsh was re-appointed corporation counsel for one year. Leonard Waldo was appointed a director of the Public Library and Reading Room to fill out the unexpired term of the late E. C. Perkins, and Dr. Charles B. Lufborrow was appointed city physician for a term of three years, to succeed Dr. J. H. Carman.

Moses Quass, who has been a special policeman, was appointed a regular man and the following special policemen were appointed: William Harding, Steven R. Hope, Charles Hartis, Henry Pugh, Jesse Scull, Joseph Morrison, George Dean, Daniel F. Stewart, William Downs, J. H. Con*roy, Edward Martin, Alexander D.* Ayers, Charles Geise, Fred Winn, Jacob Wagner, Jacob Kriney, William J. Monsell, C. J. McCarthy, Frank R. Vanderhoff, Thomas Marcum, Thomas Clarkson, William Addis, Sr., Frank Kelson, Isaac Kennedy, Edward Maynard, W. J. Eakins, Edgar Brokaw, Lewis Peterson, Edwin Dobbs, Jeremiah Cash, James Babbitt, James Bulmer, Robert McCormick, Thomas Lloyd, William Forrestel, Thomas O'Gorman, Samuel J. Robinson, Isaac Houston, David Bush.

The fourteenth annual report of the Board of Health was presented and after the reading of a portion of it, Mr. Lee moved that it be placed on file. The report is one of the most complete and comprehensive ever presented. It is arranged in a neat and intelligent manner and includes a full report of the health officer, Leon R. Thorlow, together with a number of pictures showing the isolation hospital, various appliances used in the treatment of contagious diseases and a number of dairies, as well as the labratory in the Board of Health rooms. The report will be subsequently published in The Daily Press.

Mr. Lee reported that while visiting fire headquarters early last evening he learned that the horse used for No. 2 hose wagon is lame and he considered it necessary to lay the animal off for the present. The horse has reached an advanced age and recent runs have been a severe strain on it. He is the mate to the horse killed a few years ago at the corner of Watchung avenue and Fifth street.

In view of the fact, Mr. Lee offered a resolution that the fire and building committee be authorized to purchase a horse for the fire department at a cost not to exceed $250, provided the committee find it necessary after examining the condition of the horse now found to be lame. After the meeting the committee visited headquarters and considered the matter. The chances are another horse will be secured and the old horse allowed to rest.

Mr. Tolles introduced an ordinance providing for the installation of a separate sewer or drain for surface drainage in West End avenue, the same to be paid for by taxation, the same as in other cases of a similar nature. The ordinance was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised.

Mr. Daniel brought up the question of electing two members of the Council to the Board of School Estimate to take the place of those whose terms expired the first of January. He understood that the matter had to be attended to during the month of January and for that reason spoke of it last evening's session. It was finally decided to lay the matter over until Monday evening, January 19, to which date the Council adjourned.

BUT THREE LEFT.

Sad Ending of E. G. Taylor's Trip to This City to Purchase a Crate of Chickens for His Farm.

Elmore G. Taylor, a farmer, who resides between New Brunswick and New Market, came to this city Friday afternoon and took home with him a large coop full of chickens which he bought at a down town market.

Everything went well until he reached a place about three miles outside of the city limits when he ran over an obstruction on the road which jounced the crate of chickens out of the wagon into the road. The box was broken open and the chickens scattered in all directions.

The farmer, who is an aged man, vainly endeavored to capture the hens but they fled in all directions and he finally had to give up the chase and remain content with only three chicks out of his coopful of twelve.

You Cannot Change

the course of a storm by tearing down the signals that give warning of its approach. Neither can you cure a cold by temporarily stopping a cough with opium-laden "medicines." Allen's Lung Balsam in which there is no opium, cures sore throats and sore lungs because it allays the inflammation and rids you of the mucus that stops up the air passages.

DEATH OF MRS. MARTIN.

Passed Away After a Long Illness, Leaving Four Children.

The death of Mrs. Adeline P., wife of James B. Martin, occurred at her home on Manson place, on Monday. She had been ill for many months with a complication of troubles and the end was not unexpected.

Mrs. Martin was in her fiftieth year and was a lifelong resident of this city. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Edward Steckle, of Brooklyn, and Miss Annie Martin, of this city, and two sons, D. Brittain and John, both of whom reside at home.

Funeral services were held from her late residence, yesterday afternoon at 2:30.

Move Wire Gone.

The Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company sustained another heavy loss of trolley wire, Saturday night. Thieves operated between Picton and Rahway and stripped 1,200 feet of the power strand from the poles. There is no clue to the perpetrators and the company officials are almost at their wit's ends as to how to stop further depredations.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

DIED

HIBBITTS—In this city, January 2, 1903, Flavia Hibbitts.

TAYNOR—In this city, Sunday, January 4, 1903, Harry H., son of Samuel G. and Lillie E. Taynor, aged 12 years and 10 days.

MARTIN—At Plainfield, N. J., on Monday, Jan. 5, 1903, Adeline P., wife of James B. Martin, aged 50 years.

HANES—In this city, January 5, 1903, Thomas Hanes.

CAVALIER—At Cranford, N. J., January 5, 1903, after a short illness, Joseph Cavalier, in his 64th year.

DRYDEN—At Bogota, N. J., Jan. 5, 1903, Meredith Dryden, infant son of Ethel G. and Meredith Dryden.

KULDOSHES—At Dunellen, N. J., January 4, 1903, Peter Kuldoshes, aged 56 years, 7 months and 17 days.

LONG—Suddenly, in New York, Monday, January 5, 1903, General Eli Long.

WANTS AND OFFERS

WANTED—Several apprentice boys to learn the machinists or molders trade at Scott Press Works. Apply at hours 12 and 6 at office. 1 8 4 c

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS.
Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenue.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE.
Between Front and Second streets
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with Interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel; appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position. Liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
25 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange
Money to loan on Approved security

OLD COUNCIL ENDS ITS LABORS, AND NEW COUNCIL ORGANIZES

City's Affairs for 1902 Wound Up and Municipal Year of 1903 Was Formally Begun.

OLD COUNCIL MEETING

THE REPORTS FOR THE YEAR WERE RECEIVED AND YEAR'S WORK WAS SUMMED UP.

Some Very Interesting Reports Were Presented at Last Meeting of 1902 Council Wednesday Night, Showing the City in Better Condition Than Ever Before—Summary of the Various Reports.

The Common Council for 1902 is no more. The last meeting of that body was held Wednesday evening, when the business for the year was closed up, and the various reports were presented. In the absence of R. I. Tolles, who went away to spend New Year's, Councilman Murphy served in his place. Mr. vanHerwerden was also away from the meeting.

The report of City Treasurer W. F. Arnold was presented and in accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Mellick the report will be published in The Daily Press and another official newspaper of the city, and 200 copies will be printed in pamphlet form. Following this, the report of the finance committee, of which Mr. Mellick was the chairman, was presented as follows:

"On behalf of the finance committee, I beg to call attention of the very comprehensive report of the treasurer of the city of Plainfield for the year 1902, which states in detail all the receipts and expenditures for the year, and from this report will be seen that at the commencement of the year 1902 the city carried forward a cash balance of $17,657.58. All of the departments have kept within their appropriations, the police department successfully expending $1,000 less than provided for in the yearly budget. The total receipts of the city for the year, from all sources, amounted to $868,067.18; total expenditures amounted to $843,663.18; therefore it will be seen that the cash balance carried forward into 1903 amounts to $44,434.04, in all funds.

"It has been unnecessary to borrow during the past year any money in anticipation of taxes for general purposes of the city, this is a pleasant fact to comment upon, as it is the first time in the history of the city that this has been accomplished. With the exception of the bill for the purchase of the new combination hose wagon, which has not as yet been reported upon, the only outstanding indebtedness of the fire fund is the sum of $4,000 which has been borrowed in anticipation of taxes, and as an asset against this amount the uncollected taxes will more than cover the same.

"The bonded indebtedness of the city at the close of the year amounts to $153,400. This sum is represented by an issue of bonds and obligations for the construction of city sewers.

"The citizens of Plainfield can be proud of the financial condition of their city, and when taking into consideration the many advantages it offers as a place of residence, its superb streets, its healthful and plenteous water supply, its complete and sanitary sewerage system, its well organized fire and police departments, all with such a small bonded indebtedness, is indeed a most satisfactory condition with which to enter the new year.

"The city is fortunate that it is still to have in its service such capable men as the city treasurer and collector and to these gentlemen I desire to express my appreciation for the efficient manner in which they are caring for the city finances.

"Geo. P. Mellick, chairman, finance committee."

The report of Chief of Police P. S. Kiely was of special interest. It showed that during the past year there were 660 arrests, of which number 520 were males, 70 females, 70 white and 122 colored. Divided into nationalities they were as follows: American, 313; Irish, 68; German, 53; Italian, 41; Russian, 30; English, 29; Swedish, 10; Assyrian, 5; Scotch, 6; Polish, 4; Cuban, 4; Danish, 2; Hungarian, 3; French, 1, total, 568. For disorderly conduct there were 211 arrests, and 147 for drunkenness, while eighty-nine were arrested for being drunk and disorderly. The expenditures in the department amounted to $15,864.57, and $640.85 were collected

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.)

NEW COUNCIL MEETING

THE COUNCIL SELECTED J. F. BUCKLE AS ITS PRESIDENT FOR THE NEW YEAR 1903.

President Buckle Then Named His Committees, and After a Little Necessary Business Was Transacted, the Council of 1903 Then Adjourned to Meet Last Monday Evening.

Various reasons made it a little difficult for the Common Council of 1903 to hold its first session, Thursday, which it is compelled to do according to law. Mr. Garrigues, one of the members, was in Philadelphia, Mr. vanHerwerden and Mr. Tolles were out of town, while Mr. Randolph and Mr. Murphy were also among the absentees. Mr. Pray telephoned early that owing to a bad cold he would not attend, unless it was absolutely necessary. It was necessary and a carriage was sent for him. The members present were J. F. Buckle, E. E. Pray, Leslie M. Daniel, W. L. Gloak, Robert L. Lee and W. S. Tyler.

It was 8:30 o'clock, when City Clerk J. T. MacMurray called the meeting to order. The first business was that of electing a president of the Council for the coming year. J. F. Buckle was the unanimous choice, being nominated by Mr. Lee. Councilmen Daniel and Tyler escorted the new presiding officer to the chair.

James T. MacMurray, whose term as city clerk, expired with the old Council, was re-elected for a term of three years, and Jacob Dunham, colored, was elected janitor for the year at a salary of $200.

The committees for the year were then announced as follows by President Buckle:

Finance—Leslie M. Daniel, chairman; Clarence L. Murphy, E. E. Pray, R. I. Tolles, W. L. Gloak; streets and sewers—R. I. Tolles, chairman, E. E. Pray, Jan. vanHerwerden, W. A. Garrigues, Frank Randolph; fire and building—Robert L. Lee, chairman; Jan. vanHerwerden, William S. Tyler, Leslie M. Daniel, W. A. Garrigues; police—Frank Randolph, chairman; W. L. Gloak, William S. Tyler; lights and trees—Clarence L. Murphy, chairman; Jan van Herwerden, E. E. Pray; alms—W. L. Gloak, chairman; E. E. Pray, W. A. Garrigues; license—William S. Tyler, chairman; Clarence L. Murphy, W. A. Garrigues; auditing—E. E. Pray, chairman; William S. Tyler, Robert L. Lee.

Mr. Lee motioned to adopt the rules of order of 1902 as the rules for the coming year prevailed, and he gave notice that at the next meeting he would move to have the rules adopted as the by-laws of the Council.

Several petitions left by the old Council were referred to the proper committees and will be reported upon later. One new communication, from W. G. Besler, vice president and general manager of the New Jersey Central, acknowledging a letter informing him of the recent action regarding the re-arrangement of electric lights on East Fourth street near the eastside of the railroad station, was read. Mr. Besler expressed his pleasure upon the prompt action of the Council and the evidence of kindly feeling in the matter. The company will at once erect additional lights at the place mentioned, and the Council will re-arrange several lights in the same vicinity.

Mr. Daniel offered a resolution designating The Daily Press and another daily paper as the official papers of the city. This resolution was adopted, as was also another by the same member which provides for the placing of $2,000 to the street and sewer committee's disposal until the annual appropriations are made later on. Still another resolution by Mr. Daniel empowered the clerk to secure the necessary supply of committee and roll cards for the year. Mr. Daniel then moved that when Council adjourn it be to meet Monday evening, January 5, at 8 o'clock. Council then adjourned.

Family Gathered.

A pleasant reunion was held at the home of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Nelson, of Somerset place, New Year's Day. There were present their sons, Charles and George Nelson and their families and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Wm. B. Coddington, of Martinsville.

HEROISM IN WOMEN.

Students of Nervous System Say It Is Due to Impulse.

Failure to Consider Results Drives Them to Spectacular Deeds—They Act First and Think Soberly Afterward.

Students of the nervous systems of men and women frequently have called heroism—as it is generally accepted—simply a pathological indication of hysteria. The basis for this is in the fact that so often a person who has no idea of the art of swimming will plunge into water far beyond his depth in the effort to rescue some one already struggling beyond his powers. The point made is that in such cases true heroism is not involved; that hysterical impulse only prompts the person to the deed. All of which, says the Chicago Tribune, points to the fact that it is much easier to become a heroine than it is to become a hero.

For instance, little Mamie Miltimore, living on the Dugdale road, near Waukegan, is a full fledged heroine because she chased a burglar more than a mile through the ravines and woods of that section, and only gave it up when, in a burst of speed, he raced up a long hill and outdistanced her hopelessly.

The child, 13 years old, saw a man breaking into the house of William Butler. A woman neighbor had her attention attracted also, and started after the fellow. He ran, soon leaving the woman behind, but the child, more fleet of foot, continued the chase, keeping up with him for more than a mile. Several times she was so close to the fellow that he threatened her, but she did not give up, until finally he started up an unusually steep hill, and ran so fast that she could no longer keep him in sight. The child, however, had a distinct idea of what she was trying to do. She explained that she meant only to keep him in sight, hoping that they finally would come upon some one who would be able to stop the man.

IT WAS A DARING RESCUE.

When Miss Helen Robinson, of Dubuque, Ia., rescued her friend, Virginia Day, from drowning at Trout Park, Lake Geneva, she was deserving of a medal. She, with a number of school friends, had gone to the park for a picnic, and as a diversion they had been wading in the water. When one more daring than the others got a heavy board and instead of wading, floated out some distance from the shore, only to be drawn back by her companions.

Miss Day got on the board after awhile, and, in floating out, got beyond her depth, got scared, and, jumping off, dropped into seven feet of water. Shrieking and strangling, she attracted the attention of her comrades, but only Miss Robinson of the party could swim. She, recognizing just how handicapped a person is in trying to rescue a panic stricken woman in the water, nevertheless went in and brought the strangling girl ashore. It was a daring rescue, and Dubuque has been disposed to make a heroine of the young woman.

Rebecca Davis, of St. Paul, is only 15 years old, but in her rescue of a woman neighbor a few days ago she showed the presence of a man far more than the ordinary man's pluck. Mrs. Eva Brooks lived just below the Davises in a flat building in Third street, and the other evening a shriek from the Brooks flat brought Rebecca Davis hurrying down the steps to discover the trouble. The woman had been filling a gasoline tank, and while she was at work at it her little boy unwittingly struck a match. Instantly the woman was enveloped in flames, and when the girl reached Mrs. Brooks the woman was frantic.

At once the girl began to tear off the woman's clothing, but the victim ran out of doors, rolling over and over on the pavement in her efforts to extinguish the blaze. The child, fearing that the wind would only fan the flames worse, dragged the woman inside, and, seizing a rug from the floor, smothered the fire. Mrs. Brooks was badly burned about the face, neck and arms, while Rebecca Davis suffered keenly from burns on her arms and hands. Forgetful of her own burns, however, the child went to the schoolhouse, taking eggs from it, and breaking them over Mrs. Brooks' scorched body. So intelligently did she act that Mrs. Brooks will get well, while for herself the girl is not scarred at all. All the commendations the woman has received have not turned her head.

ROAD BUILDING IN JERSEY

THE STATE AHEAD OF ALL OTHERS IN THAT RESPECT.

Newark News Comments on Annual Report of State Road Commissioner.

Should the National Government conclude to accept the advice of State Road Commissioner Budd, given in his annual report to Governor Murphy, and expend a goodly portion of its surplus in aiding the States to build good roads, says the Newark News in the editorial column, it could come to New Jersey to gain experience and investigate results. In the matter of good road building New Jersey is the peer of any of the commonwealths, and is far in advance of nearly all of them. There are over one hundred miles of improved highways in the State, and of these 796 were constructed with State aid. The demand for stone roads is constantly on the increase, for the people know a good thing when they see it, and Commissioner Budd recommends that the appropriation by the State, which was increased $100,000 last year, be augmented by $50,000 next year, making the amount $300,000.

Already New Jersey has expended in building stone roads over a million and a quarter of dollars. Every country but one—Hunterdon—has taken advantage of the good roads law, and the fact that these counties are clamoring for the privilege of drawing more heavily on the State treasury, though in order to do so large expenditures by the local authorities are necessitated, proves that the people believe the money has been wisely invested. Commissioner Budd calls attention to the fact that it is now possible to travel from Jersey City to Atlantic City on good roads, showing the system of connected highways which it has been the plan of the department to improve. There are other lines of improved highway leading nearly across the State, and it is the ambition of the commissioner to fill in the gaps as rapidly as possible. The great progress that has been made has appealed to the business instincts of both the urban and the rural dweller, and has therefore made the carrying out of the plan more easy of accomplishment.

Commissioner Budd is not the only good roads man who is urging federal aid in road building, nor is he the first to make the suggestion. But coming from a man who has had a wide experience in that form of public enterprise and one who has been at the head of a successful system, his advice is worthy of serious consideration. Other nations have built good roads, which have been a source of profit and profit. In following their example the United States would not be trying an experiment with the fear that it might prove to be a failure. In this matter the federal government would make no mistake in helping those States willing to help themselves.

BOYS COMPETED.

Gymnastic Contests Were Chief Features of New Year' Eve Entertainment at Boys' Club.

Superintendent Olaf Saugstad, of the Boys' Club, arranged a very pleasing programme for Wednesday evening. Early in the evening a gymnastic exhibition was given.

On the horse were Clarence Pope, Thoma Kelley, Bert Hansen and Jacob Selick. Clarence Pope won the first prize of a pair of cuff buttons. Bert Hansen, Alexander Boyd and Clarence Pope competed on the parallel bars. Boyd won the prize of a scarf pin. On the rings, Bert Hansen, Clarence Pope, Thomas Kelley and Alexander Boyd competed. Boyd won the prize of a pair of cuff buttons. In the high jump, Boyd was defeated by Kelley and was awarded a pair of cuff buttons. McCauley, Boyd and Kelley competed in the broad jump and the latter was awarded the prize of a scarf pin.

A large grate fire was built on the hearth and around this the members sat and watched the old year out when refreshments were served.

Mayor's Gift.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital desires to express its gratification at the receipt of a very cordial letter from Mayor C. L. Jenkins, wishing the hospital a happy New Year and enclosing a check for $100, being one-third of his salary as Mayor for 1902.

One Hundred Dollars a Box

is the value H. A. Tisdale, Summerton, S. C., places on DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says: "I had the piles for 30 years. I tried many doctors and medicines, but all failed except DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me." It is a combination of the healing properties of Witch Hazel with antiseptics and emollients; relieves and permanently cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, sores, cuts, bruises, eczema, salt rheum and all skin diseases. L. W. Randolph.

THE FADING GLACIERS.

Curious Notes by a Swiss Scientist Who Has Been Making Observations Among the Alps.

A well-known Swiss naturalist, H. M. Correvon, writes from Arolla, Canton Valais, to the Paris Messenger.

"The glaciers seem to be fading into the recesses of their former selves, real skeletons encircled by their white or limpid moraines. They are diminishing everywhere.

"I remember in July, 1886, Prof. F. A. Forel, the famous expert in geology, took us to a glorious ice grotto which he had discovered 20 minutes' walk away from the hotel at Arolla. We were able to walk there without difficulty as in an ice corridor. Now not only has the grotto disappeared, but it takes an hour and a quarter to reach the glacier from the hotel.

"During the first days of October 25 years ago I traversed with two guides the glacier of Bersel from Zermatt to Arolla; it then reached deep down into the valley, nearly touching the glacier of Arolla. To-day we mounted up 600 meters with the Pass of Bersel without any difficulty.

"M. Anseoug, who has stayed at Arolla every summer since 1860, believes firmly that the glaciers which separate this territory from Italy will disappear as the years go by, and that the cattle of the Valasian peasants will be sent to market to Aosta (Italy) across the passes which are now covered with ice.

"The one curious advantage in this diminution of the glaciers is that the moraines of Arolla are now producing veritable forests, the seeds of which must have been blown up by the wind from the valley.

ARGENTINE CATTLE.

May Be Largely Purchased by Great Britain to Restock the Pastures of South Africa.

It may be said that Great Britain will naturally favor her own colonies in making such purchases of cattle to restock the South African pasture lands, and, other things being equal, this would be natural, says the Buenos Ayres Herald. But Canadian and New Zealand beef brings a better price in the British market than Argentine, and this because in those colonies more attention has been given to the breeding of cattle for beef, and in consequence both Canada and New Zealand, and the United States as a probable bidder, are not likely to offer their stock as cheaply as will the Argentine estanciero, and this difference in price is likely to secure for this country a generous slice, at least, of the business. Where else in the world can the requisite number of cattle be found at such prices as can be made here? We believe it safe to state that Argentina stands alone and in a commanding position in this respect; at least, we have good reason for the hope that is in us that in this direction lies a prompt, large and profitable business for us. Great Britain will become a buyer of hundreds of thousands of cattle for the South African plains in making purchases of such magnitude. That Argentine cattle at Argentine prices and Argentine proximity to the ports of discharge will be favorably looked upon seems to be reasonable, hence our belief and that of the market in general that the signing of peace means an especial good of great magnitude to this country.

JUROR HAD RED HAIR.

And Resented Remark of Fresh Lawyer by Refusing to Come to an Agreement.

It behooves a lawyer to be careful of what he says while arguing before a jury. John C. Kinnear, a practitioner in New York, realizes this fact thoroughly, says the Albany Argus, and all because of a remark he made not long ago in the Yorkville municipal court. He appeared on behalf of another lawyer who was suing a corporation for $500 for services alleged to have been performed by the widow, and in the course of a remarkable speech made out quite a strong case for the plaintiff, whose counsel made a telling speech. He reviewed the facts in clever fashion, and toward the close of his remarks said that the corporation would have paid better for the fact that a "red-headed lobster of a junior partner had objected, and thus precipitated legal proceedings. The court rebuked Mr. Kinnear for using such language and the lawyer apologized. But he had done the mischief. All the jurymen but one tittered, and he had red hair. The judge delivered his charge strongly in favor of the plaintiff and the jury retired. Everybody expected a verdict in a few minutes, but in a couple of hours word reached the court that there was no prospect of an agreement. With one exception the jury was agreed on a verdict for plaintiff. The exception was the red-headed man, who said: "Perhaps the lawyer thinks it's smart to call people red headed lobsters. I don't." The court finally discharged the jury and Lawyer Kinnear is still digesting the lesson.

Uncle Sam's New Seal.

The state department is to indulge itself with a new great seal of the United States, as the old one is so worn that it will not make a clean-cut impression on the documents it is used on. Congress appropriated $1,200 to have a new seal cut; but the old design, of course, will be followed faithfully. Only three seals have been formed since the formation of the government, they having been made in 1782, 1841 and 1885, respectively.

Hair Show in Paris.

An original exhibition is being conducted in Paris, at which hair that formerly thatched the pates of distinguished people is being sold.

LITERARY.

The January number of Scribner's Magazine, which marks the beginning of its thirty-third volume, contains two of the notable features of the coming year. It is seldom that the opportunity is offered to present the brilliant letters of a woman who has filled the highest social and official positions at the Courts of Europe. The letters of Madame Waddington, wife of the eminent French Ambassador, M. William Waddington, begin in this number with entertaining and witty accounts of the English court in the Eighties. The new serial by John Fox, Jr., who has already won a distinguished place by his Kentucky mountain stories, is entitled "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come." There are two special Christmas features for the current holiday season. "Giuseppe's Christmas" is a story of child life in Italy at the present time by Mary H. Peixotto, illustrated in color by E. C. Peixotto. "Christmas Shopping" is two full-page drawings by Henry Hutt. Under the title of "The Old Roots to Orleans—The Mississippi" Willis Gibson describes the varied life on the Mississippi river as it is today from St. Paul to New Orleans. There is a variety of short stories, including a tale of exquisite humor by Nelson Lloyd, illustrated by A. B. Frost, entitled "The Best Gun in the Valley;" a dramatic story of Revolutionary times by George Hibbard, illustrated by Pyle; a tale of sentiment by Alice Dane Mailler, and "A Death in the Desert" by a new writer of fiction who in this story shows herself to be clever in style and deep in feeling. Her name is Willa Sibert Cather.

The feature of the January "Everybody's" is a new "Arabian Nights" story found recently by Dr. Seybold, of the University of Tubingen, among the Arabic manuscripts of the late Consul Wetzstein of Damascus. Mrs. Bessie VanVorst describes her experience in factories in Chicago, being the last article of the series of "The Woman that Toils." Juliet Wilbor Tompkins contributes a most interesting study of "The Personality of Helen Gould." In "Tragedies of Steamboat Histories," G. W. Ogden tells some dramatic stories of life on the Mississippi. "Mrs. Daxsledick's at Home," the third of the "Unemployed Rich," series, describes the typical New York society woman on the search for sensational entertainment. There is a vivid account of the personality of Andrew Jackson and the scene at Calhoun's supper party at "The Indian Queen" in Washington, in "Great Days in Great Careers," by Alfred Henry Lewis. David Graham Phillips describes "How Roosevelt became President." There are a number of good vital short stories of real interest.

FOUR GENERATIONS.

Gathered at Family Reunion at the Home of Mrs. M. A. Dunavan.

A family gathering was held at the home of Mrs. Margaret A. Dunavan, of East Second street, Thursday, when her children, grandchildren and great grandchildren were present to the number of thirty-six. Letters of regret were read from the three sons who were unable to attend. Before taking their places at the table to partake of a good old-fashioned dinner the doxology was sung. After dinner the names of all were written on a paper napkin to be framed as a souvenir of the occasion.

SAW POLITICIANS.

Elizabeth's Senator and Congressman Were Hosts at New Year's Receptions.

New Year's Day receptions were held Thursday by Congressman Charles N. Fowler, Senator John Kean and Former Assemblyman Squiers at Elizabeth, and prominent persons from all parts of Union county journeyed to the county seat to meet the three distinguished officials. The receptions were held at the homes of those giving them and those who called were treated royally.

Among those from Plainfield who attended the receptions were the following: City Clerk J. T. MacMurray, Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, Councilmen J. F. Buckle and Frank Randolph, Dr. T. S. Davis, Mayor C. L. Jenkins, Postmaster E. H. Bird, former Assemblyman Edward A. Murray, E. Cadwell, S. P. T. Wilbur, Edward T. VanWinkle, George J. Tobin, Andrew McCardell, John Traynor, Fred Lynn, Morris Owens, Thomas Haana, Thomas Noonan, Collector F. H. Smith, Ernest A. Millard, William Millard, David C. Smalley, Assessor H. C. VanEmburgh, Jas. Stewart and W. L. Hetfield, Jr.

Will Pay Half the Cost.

By way of a New Year's gift, a member of the Park Club has offered to defray half the cost of the proposed addition to the clubhouse, providing the members raise the remainder. Already a number of pledges have been made toward that end.

Silk Mill Directors.

There will be election of directors at the Watchung Silk Mill on Monday, January 12.

SHERIFF GAVE DINNER TO FORMER ASSOCIATES

New Year's Eve Event Given by the Former President of the Common Council.

AT HOTEL KENSINGTON

DINNER FOLLOWED LAST MEETING OF THE COUNCIL FOR 1902.

City Officials Gathered at the Board and Said Pleasant Words of Mr. Coriell and of the City—Mayor Jenkins Talks of Parks.

A pleasant and appropriate event in the closing hours of the old year was the dinner given Wednesday evening at the Hotel Kensington by Former Councilman and President B. Frank Coriell, now sheriff of Union county, to his former colleagues and a few other city officials. The dinner was given after the final meeting of the old Council. "Mine Host" Staats served an excellent menu.

The host pointed out that twenty years ago next Monday he was elected to the Council for the first time. He expressed his high regard for the courtesy and kindness shown him by all. Later Mr. Mellick, who retires from the Council, offered a pleasant toast to the host in which all joined.

Mayor C. L. Jenkins, after saying a few words complimentary to the host, referred to his plans for beautifying the city with parks and lakes and mentioned sites near Randolph and Park avenue as suitable ones. He believed the time had come for such improvements. He referred to the city water as being the purest obtained and the health of the city par excellence.

Other remarks were made by Councilmen Clarence L. Murphy, Robert L. Lee, and W. F. Arnold, the latter taking the opportunity to say that financially Plainfield's showing this year is the best in the history. Chief of Police Kiely said that he hoped for greater things the coming year in the police department. He urged an increase in salary for his men and improvements to lessen crime. Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, spoke a few words about his department, saying it is second to none in the city. George B. Wean, city stenographer, as well as Councilman J. F. Buckle, Assessors C. H. Hand and H. C. Runyon, and William S. Tyler, the new Councilman from the Third ward, added a few happy remarks.

In reconciliation, short remarks were made by Jacob A. Force, Councilmen Daniel and W. L. Gloak, Dr. Pocock, and Sergeant Frederickson. Each one of the speakers paid a deserving tribute of praise to Mr. Coriell, and while all expressed regrets that he leaves the Council, they all joined in wishing him abundant success in his new position.

Those present at the dinner were Mayor O. L. Jenkins, Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, Former Councilman George P. Mellick, Councilmen James F. Buckle, Robert L. Lee, Clarence L. Murphy, William L. Gloak, E. E. Pray, Leslie M. Daniel, Clarence L. Murphy, W. S. Tyler, Chief of Police P. S. Kiely, Chief of Fire Department T. O. Doane, Second Assistant Chief J. W. Murray, City Treasurer W. F. Arnold, George B. Wean, Police Sergeant Chris. Frederickson, Assessors Charles H. Hand and Harry C. Runyon, A. L. Force, M. F. Elderton and Walter O. Dobbins

DINNER-DANCE.

Given by Miss Margaret McCutchen to Her College Friends.

A charming dinner-dance was given New Year's Eve by Miss Margaret McCutchen, of Rockview avenue, for a number of her college friends from Smith College, who have been guests at her home during the holiday season. A majority of the young women were from college, while there were a few outsiders, making a company of twenty-eight in all. The dinner was given at Miss McCutchen's home, after which the party adjoined to the Park Club for a dance.

Need More Room.

The Willing Workers of Trinity Reformed church have outgrown their present quarters in the basement of the church, and they will move into more commodious rooms shortly.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chesaning, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. L. W. Randolph.

SOCIETY RANG IN NEW YEAR

An Impressive Way in Which New Year Was Greeted at Masque Ball at Casino.

WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

A Motley Collection of Characters Gathered for the New Year's Eve Dance Arranged by Members of the Cotillion Club—Some of the Fine Costumes—The Guests.

When Old Father Time reversed his hour glass Wednesday night and as October year was begun, a blaze of light flooded the Casino as a huge bell was struck and the last hour of the old year was slowly tolled off, while the members of the Cotillion Club and their 180 guests sang "Auld Lang Syne" as a welcome to the new year.

In brilliancy this New Year's masquerade ball has never been surpassed by any affair of its kind in this city. The large hall was very tastefully decorated in a novel manner. The general color effects were of green and red. Behind all of the side lights were large bows of red and in front of the lights were small false faces which gave a somewhat grotesque appearance to the hall. From the light in the center of the ceiling a half dozen festoons were draped to the four corners of the hall and to the sides of the stage. Hung pendant from the festoons in the center was a large red bell.

At 11:35, the grand march began and was led by E. T. Barrows, attired as a cavalier, and Miss Florence Waring, as a knight. The march was directed by L. G. Timpson, attired as an Austrian hussar. After going through several evolutions, the music ceased and those enmasque removed their disguises. At 11:55 there was heard the martial roll of the "Assembly call" and the lights were suddenly dimmed. Exactly at midnight the great bell began to toll off the hours as the light again burst forth, and New Year greetings were exchanged until a waltz was struck up and the dancing resumed.

An intermission followed when an elaborate repast was served on small tables which were carried into the ball room by maids in watting. Each table was decorated in green and red.

Some of the most attractive costumes worn at the dance were: L. G. Timpson, Austrian hussar; Mrs. L. G. Timpson, snow; L. E. Waring, sailor; F. W. Yates, brownie; E. T. Barrows, cavalier. These were the committee, to whom much credit is due for the success of the affair.

Others whose costumes were exceptionally attractive were: M. S. Ackerman, Venetian pirrot; Mrs. Ackerman, directone folly; Miss Georgiana Smith, folly; Miss Smalley, pirrot; Mrs. Katherine Thayer, red ridinghood; Miss Reinhart, Topsey; Miss Craikshank, empire court lady; Mrs. Patterson, Japanese maid; Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, Chinese court lady; Miss Davis, folly; Miss Lucy Otterson, colonial dame; Miss Florence Waring, knight; A. D. Shepard, Jr., gentleman burlesque; Burritt Sheppard, burlesque; R. M. Shepard, Venetian; Evarts Tracy, Roman senator; G. Herbert Taylor, hussar; Craig A. Marsh, English officer.

Among those on the floor in costume, were: Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Rowland, Dr. Norman H. Probasco, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ginna, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. Evarts Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Guilford, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Drayton, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Burke, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. R. Henry Depew, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rushmore, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Mellick, Mr. and Mrs. F. DeL. Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Drayton, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Nourse, Mr. and Mrs. Shellabarger, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. P. V. R. VanWyck, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Ladd, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Mack, Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Ryee, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Taylor, Mrs. E. V. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Detmold, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Borden, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Day, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Timpson, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. VanBuren, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Raymond, Mr. and Mrs. James McGraff, Mr. and Mrs. George Ring, Francis A. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Atterbury, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Waring, Mrs. J. W. Reinhart, and Mrs. J. H. Howell.

The Misses Florence Waring, Cock, Marsh, Schuyler, Shallabarger, Helen Martin, Elsie Martin, Marjorie Fleming, Goddard, Burt, Foster, Johnson, Shepard, Howell, Helen Bushnell, Agnes McCready, Marjory G. Gates, Strong, Smalley, Smith, Craikshank, Helen Davis, Waldo, Anna Davis, Ida Stewart and Lucy Otterson.

F. N. Yates, A. Willis West, Charles Dupee, George Dupee, Dr. F. C. Ard, H. Reeve Stockton, A. D. Shepard, B. Shepard, Harry L. McGee, Arthur A. Freeman, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, F. L. Schoonmaker, L. H. VanBuren, A. Manger, Frank Talmadge, C. Manger, Mr. League, Harold Hall, Owen Fleming, F. W. Goddard, Harry Bushnell, G. H. Taylor, Earle Stockton, Daniel Runkle, H. C. Pierce, J. E. Erickson, A. R. Fisk, C. W. Fisk, Raymond A. McGee, W. R. Cook, R. T. Barrows, R. M. Shepard, and J. P. Welles Taylor.

Out of town guests were: Dr. and Mrs. Alex. Lyle, of New York; Miss Weber, of Baltimore; T. L. McCready, of New York; Miss Agnes McCready, of New York; William L. Detmold, of New York; Harold Sherill, of Philadelphia; Miss Young and Mr. League, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Charles Walbridge, of Trenton; Miss Saunders, of Boston; Miss Fowlke, of Philadelphia; W. S. Hatch, of New York; Walter Smith, of Philadelphia; Hastings Arnold, of Garden City, L. I.; George Veitor, of New York, and Louis Schrieber, of Jersey City.

DANCED OUT.

Merry Departure for 1902 at Masquerade Ball of T. A. B. Society Wednesday Night.

The old year was danced out and the new in by a merry crowd of dancers in T. A. B. hall, Wednesday evening. Is was the occasion of the organization's masquerade ball and one of the largest attendances on record was noted. The costumes were numerous and the variety was almost inexhaustable. In honor of the occasion, the hall was lavishly decorated with streamers and bunting. Music was furnished by Professor O'Reilly's orchestra.

In charge of the affair were the following: Floor managers, Michael O'Keefe, Thomas Carty, Thomas O'Keefe, and Clinton Shannon; door men, Clement Powell and David Doyle; refreshments, Thomas Mack, Richard Birmingham, Patrick Melvin and Edward Lynch; decorating, Clarence Waldron. The grand march was exceptionally intricate in figures and was led be Michael O'Keefe and Miss Theresa Lynch.

OLD WEST ENDER.

Fintin Hibbitts Passed Away After a Short Illness—Once a Prominent Contractor.

The death of Fintin Hibbits, one of the best known residents of the West End, occurred at his home on West Third street, on Friday. He had been complaining since Christmas day but until a short time ago his illness was not considered serious.

Mr. Hibbits was born in Ireland in 1841 and came to this city when but twenty year old. He followed the trade of mason and at one time was a prominent contractor. He leaves a wife and one son by a former marriage, John Hibbits, of Brooklyn.

HAPPY CHILDREN.

When Christmas Tree Was Lighted at Children's Home Wednesday Afternoon.

The Children's Home was the scene of a merry time Wednesday afternoon when the Christmas tree was lighted to the delight of the fourteen boys and eleven girls now at the Home. The festivities were marked by the usual pleasant features, such as the distribution of useful presents, also toys, games, oranges, candy, etc.

Mrs. Kimball, president of the Children's Home Association, assisted by the matron, Miss Hendrickson, was in charge of the affair, and assisting were Mrs. Frank Rowley, Mrs. Stephen Cahoone, Mrs. Leonard and Miss Serrell.

I. C. T. RECEPTION.

Members of the Club and Their Friends Danced Old Year Out.

With none but pleasant thoughts of the year to come, 100 young people danced the old year out at the first annual New Year's reception of the I. C. T. Club. It was one of the most successful affairs the popular club has yet conducted. Suhr's full orchestra was in attendance and furnished music.

The committee in charge consisted of H. S. Humes, chairman; G. B. Coss, Joseph W. Robinson, W. C. Randolph and C. S. Peterson.

RANG OLD BELL.

At Watch-Night Gathering of Exempt Firemen's Association.

Forty members of the Exempt Firemen's Association saw the old year out in the rooms, Wednesday night. With various games and impromptu speeches the time was passed until midnight when refreshments were served. The affair was arranged and was in charge of President L. E. Barkalew. A feature of the affair was the ringing of the midnight hour on the old fire bell which did service on old Gazelle engine house.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 11—Comment by Rev. S. R. Doyle.

Topic.—Bringing others to Christ.—John i, 40-42; iv, 6-30; Mark v, 18, 20.

The supreme mission of the Christian in this life is to bring others to Christ. Like Andrew, having found the Messiah ourselves we should go to others, tell them this fact and invite them to come to Him. Christ's mission was to seek and to save and to save the lost was His chief business in life, and as His disciples and followers it should be ours.

The principal factors in bringing others to Christ are personal work and individual effort. The church services and the preaching of the gospel are not by any means to be underrated in their importance, yet it must be acknowledged that most people are led to Christ by hand to hand, face to face work. This method is eminently Scriptural. Andrew led Peter to Christ. Philip led Nathaniel. Christ addressed the multitudes, yet He also had the time to speak to one man, Nicodemus, and to one woman, the woman of Samaria. Peter and John brought the lame man at the temple gate to the Master, and Philip was led off to the Spirit to have the revival at Samaria that he might preach the gospel to the Ethiopian and bring him to Christ. Surely there is one person in our homes or among our acquaintances that we can bring to Christ this winter.

To bring one person to Christ may seem an insignificant thing, yet eternity alone can reveal the results of such a work. Andrew could not see Peter's cost and 3,000 souls saved under Peter's preaching in one day, when he brought him to Jesus. That may have seemed a little thing to him, but how important it was in the light of future events! It may have seemed a little thing for a Christian workman to have invited a Boston shoe clerk to Sunday school, yet how transcendently important it was in view of Dwight L. Moody's subsequent career! No soul seeking service is a little thing. If but the one soul is saved, it would repay a lifetime of work, for has not Christ declared that our soul is worth more than all this world?

To be successful in bringing others to Christ we must be consistent in our own lives as Christians. If your religion has not made you better, it will be useless to recommend it to somebody else. Peter had confidence in Andrew's word and life, else he never would have followed him to Christ. Get sin out of your own life before you attempt to show others the way to Christ. If still living in sin, we have not traveled the way of salvation ourselves, and how can we guide others along a way we have not ourselves trod? It would be a case of blind leading the blind and both would fall into the ditch. Keep right with God yourself first of all if you desire to be successful soul winners.

In bringing others to Christ we not only bless them, and perhaps countless others through them, but we bless ourselves. "Whosoever shall do and teach [God's commandments] the same shall be called least in the kingdom of heaven." "They that turn many to righteousness shall shine as the stars forever and ever."

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. vii, 1; Num. x, 29; Ps. ii, 10-12; Dan. xii, 3; Luke iii, 16-24; xv, 1-10; John iii, 1-16; Acts i, 8; viii, 26-40; Rev. xxii, 17.

Missionary Unbelief.

Every missionary committee would do well to watch the remark by Dr. Herrick Johnson to its society:

The Christian that does not believe in foreign missions does not believe in the great commission. Repeat it and see.

The Christian that does not believe in foreign missions does not believe in the Apostles' Creed. Repeat it and see.

The Christian that does not believe in foreign missions does not believe in the Lord's Prayer. Repeat it and see.

The Christian that does not believe in foreign missions does not believe in the Doxology in long metre. Repeat it and see.

The Christian that does not believe in foreign missions in this generation believes that 300 more millions of the heathen world ought to die before we tell them of Jesus Christ. How long is this belief to go on? How many more millions must die before the church of God is ready? "If thou canst believe, all things are possible to Him that believeth."

The Fire We Need.

Rev. Dr. Edwin Forrest Hallenbeck, president of the New York State union, in addressing its recent convention to order said:

"Our dependence is upon God. If we have come praying that God might stir your hearts, and if we continue thus to pray through these days, I feel here fire will be kindled here that will go back with us to our fields and burn till souls are born into the kingdom of God. "We believe that God wants us to carry away from this convention coals of fire that will burn their way into weary hearts."

Quiz Box.

[Any question may be asked that pertains to any phase of Christian Endeavor. Address Quiz Box 674, Binghamton, N. Y.]

23. W. C. N., Fort Meade, S. D.:—There are a large number of strictly Christian Endeavor papers published in the United States. The Christian Endeavor World, with headquarters at Boston, stands at the head of the list. This paper is the international organ of the movement.

24. O. H. O., Kentucky.—The honorable honorary list was designed for those who, having passed on to take up the larger activities of the church, had little time for the duties of Endeavor committee service.

TO HOLD BACK HIS SALARY

Borough Council Took That Action Because Assessor Failed to Do As Requested.

UNTIL HE EXPLAINS

Short Session of Borough Fathers Last Friday—Plans Were Made for Special Election on Engine House Bond Issue—Held up Assessor's Pay.

Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed was instructed to draw up a petition for a special election, to increase the appropriation for the new fire house at a short meeting of the Borough Council, which was held last Friday at the Council Chambers on Somerset street.

The report of the treasurer showed that there was $11,751.81 on hand, and his report in a summary is as follows: Interest and sidewalks, $16,437.59; Board of Health, $698.51; special school tax, $9,660.12; Recorder's fines, $45; interest First National Bank, $18.62; balance on hand, Dec. 1, $3,-202.16; total, $39,063.17. Disbursements, $17,900.81; leaving on hand $11,751.81. The county tax amounted to $5,888.94; and the State tax amounted to $1,679.28.

The Borough Counsel was authorized to draw up a petition for a special election to increase the bond issue for the new fire engine house and to have the election in conjunction with the election in March. A recess was taken of about half an hour to discuss this matter during which all the councilmen took part.

A motion was offered authorizing the borough collector to enforce the law for the collection of all personal and poll tax and after January 10 all the delinquent tax bills will be payable to special Marshal Francis Whiteley, who has been deputized to collect all unpaid tax bills.

Considerable time was taken up at the meeting in discussing a resolution offered by Councilman Arnold to hold back one quarterly payment the salary of Assessor French for not complying with the request of the Council to make an exact copy of the collector's book for the clerk. This will be done until the Assessor has an opportunity of explaining why he has not done the work. There was considerable discussion following the offering of this resolution but it was finally adopted.

After ordering the payment of a very small number of bills the meeting adjourned for a month.

CELEBRATED QUIETLY.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Demarest Observed Anniversary of Marriage.

Fifty-five years ago New Year's Eve at 8 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Demarest, of the borough, were married. They celebrated the event this year in a pleasant but quiet manner. During the day and early part of the evening they received a number of friends at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Newton P. Drake, 165 Somerset street, and also received the hearty congratulations of all. The celebrators were also the recipients of a number of beautiful flowers. Later in the evening they went to Trinity Reformed church and attended the watch-night service, held under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society.

DISTRICT DEPUTY THERE.

Visited Perseverance Lodge and Installed the Officers-Elect.

District Deputy Jere VanWinkle and staff visited Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, last Friday, and installed the recently elected officers. The members afterward enjoyed cigars on the new presiding officer, Chancellor Commander Charles M. Ulrich, who succeeds William N. Runyon.

In the regular order of business, the first rank was conferred upon two candidates and an invitation was accepted to pay a fraternal visit to Lodge of the Castle, No. 82, of Somerville, Wednesday evening, January 21.

TO RELIEF ASSOCIATION.

Mayor Jenkins Sends a Check for One-Third of His Salary to It.

Mayor O. L. Jenkins sent on New Year's Day the very generous gift of a check for $100, one third of his salary as mayor, with his wishes for a prosperous and happy New Year, to the Plainfield Relief Association, to be used in the work of relieving the poor of Plainfied. A gift like this brings courage and joy to the hearts of the women working in this association, as they are always hampered in doing all they desire because of lack of sufficient funds.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 11, "The Open Channel of Prayer"—Text, Math. vi, 6-8; vii, 7-11; John xiv, 13-14.

Prayer ardent opens heaven, lets down a stream
Of glory on the consecrated hour
Of man in audience with the Deity.

Prayer is something more than telling God the things we want. It is much more than asking for things we need. It is not merely to make us feel kindly toward us and persuade Him into willingness to give us what we ask for.

There are much asking and begging which have little or nothing of true prayer in them. There is much in prayer besides petitioning, much more than importunity.

Real prayer is heart union and communion with God. Its expression in words is necessary not to inform God nor because He commands or needs it, but we need it to express our thought and feeling, our desires and determinations, in words that they may have definite shape and become full formed and fixed. Without this they remain unclear and forceless. What we think we will strongly we have a supernatural impulse to speak out in words. So if we are conscious of having any relation to God we have a desire to talk with Him. We must speak to Him and in some manner have response from Him. We must call. He will answer.

To know God and have the sense of His care for us, His loving regard and interest in our well being, is worth much more to us than giving things we need for comfort. So prayer is of more value to us for heart union with Him and spiritual comfort than for getting good things granted us. In distress the sense of His presence is more helpful than any promise of deliverance. His companionship in suffering is better than deliverance from suffering. Religion like this becomes a reality of God with us at all times. We can never be separated from Him if we do not close ourselves off from His Spirit by our own act.

But prayer power is under law as truly and fully as any other force in the universe.

Sincerity of soul is the first essential for its working. No imitation of tone or position of body, no simulation of fervor, no outward acting, can bring the results of real prayer. Bowed heads and bent knees, tremulous voice and unbending words, may not even think we are praying. God looks deeper, at what is in the soul. The deep, sincere heart hunger is first necessary before the bread of heaven can be had for nourishment.

In all this the soul is as active in receiving as God is in giving. Prayer is no lying passive with open hands for blessings to be dropped into them. It is alert use of all powers of asking, seeking, knocking and doing.

As the end of all praying we are to find fellowship with men. Its beginning is not to be seen and praised by them, but its outcome is that as we wish them to be toward us that we are to be toward them.

Meekness.

Self sufficiency must be eradicated before meekness can have its perfect work. We have a beautiful word in grance; we are reminded of it when we take a walk in the woods in the early spring and breathe in the aroma that comes from the dainty flowers, the violet, anemone and hypatica, that are almost hidden in the leaves under our feet. One must look down to find these first gifts of God to the spring. They are meek and lowly, but living the life He has given, because He wills it. Meekness is a remedy that adapts itself to the circumstance. If mingled with love, it aids in developing a Christian life.—Episcopal Recorder.

Meditation.

Meditation is done in silence. By it we renounce our narrow individuality and expatiate into that which is infinite. Only in the sacredness of inward silence does the soul truly meet the secret hidden in it. The strength of reason which afterward shapes life and mixes itself with action is the fruit of those sacred solitary moments. There is a divine depth in silence. We meet God alone.—F. W. Robertson.

Our Father's Word.

A little girl, says the Sunday School Times was looking through a kaleidoscope and came upon an arrangement that she thought was the same she had seen awhile before. "No," said her comrade, "it can't be, though it does look so, for my papa says it's never twice the same." Her father's word was better than her own eyesight. So should our Father's word be to us.

Causes of Joy.

Enjoy the blessings of this day if God sends them, and the evils of it bear patiently and sweetly, for this day is only ours. We are dead to yesterday, and we are not yet born to the morrow. But if we look abroad and bring into one day's thoughts the evil of many, certain and uncertain, what will be and what will never be, our load will be as intolerable as it is unreasonable.—Jeremy Taylor.

A Confession of Character.

People seem not to see that their opinion of the world is also a confession of character. We can only see what we are, and if we misbehave we suspect others.—Emerson.

Rejoicing In Another's Good.

There is no greater sign of a man's holiness than the procuring and rejoicing in another's good.—George Herbert.

A Blessed Keeping.

There's one thought wholly cheers,
E'en lightens dearest loss—
Our loved are in the arms of Him
Whose love first gave to us.
—Philadelphia [illegible]

WHAT MR. MELLICK SAID

HIS WORDS OF THANKS AND CONGRATULATION TO RETIRING COUNCIL.

At the Final Meeting of 1902 Common Council Held Wednesday Afternoon.

As one of the two retiring members of the Common Council for 1903, George P. Mellick took occasion New Year's Eve at the final meeting of that body to make a few pleasant remarks which were thoroughly appreciated by the other members of the Council.

"It would be quite impossible," said Mr. Mellick, "to permit this evening to pass without saying a few words in regard to the gratification that I have found in being a member of this Common Council for the past four years and my association with the gentlemen who have been members of this Council during my term of office. I am of the opinion that it is a pleasure and a duty of citizens to do something for their city and not to only reap the benefits of the work of others.

"I am frank to say that I felt much honored when I was asked four years ago to become a candidate for election, and was exceedingly gratified when I was elected; and I can encourage with a great deal of earnestness, citizens that I may come in contact with from time to time who are about to undertake works of this kind. I can take pleasure in saying that, if they are as fortunate as I have been in the association of the same class of men as I have worked with during the past four years the work will not be difficult, on the contrary it will be a pleasure for them to labor for the city's interests.

"In the very humble way in which I have tried to do my duty as a public servant, I have found my way made extremely easy by reason of the courtesy, the good-fellowship, and friendship that has existed among the members of this Council; I have found it a benefit to me, so great that I am frank to say I feel something of sadness when I remember that this is the last time I will meet in this room with you. It has been a benefit in a business way; as it has given me an insight into the affairs of a municipality of which I was ignorant and it is decidedly educational for any man to ally himself with the management of a city of the size of Plainfield and to have the experience I have gained in the good work, for the city's interest. It's helpful in broadening character to come in contact with such men as have been in the Plainfield Common Council in recent years, and I consider Plainfield so fortunate in the changes that are now managing its affairs that every taxpayer can be and will be proud of the city in which they live, and the sincere, honest, straight-forward manner in which all the affairs of the city are conscientously treated.

"I thank the ex-president of this Common Council, Mr. Coriell, for his courtesy to me, and I thank each one of you gentlemen, and all the city officers, for the very gratifying companionship that I have had with you, and I wish for this city great prosperity and to you all a very happy New Year."

—Rev. C. E. Herring, of Watchung avenue, took part in a watch-night service held in one of the large Methodist churches in New York.

KODOL
Digests What You Eat.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which falls of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interference with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Kodol
Digests What You Eat

Mrs. Loring Nichols of Penn Yan, N.Y., writes: After suffering from weak heart disease me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders, and gives the heart a full, free and unhampered action.

Bottles only $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

PREPARED BY E. C. DeWITT & Co. Chicago

L. W. RANDOLPH.

NEW YEAR'S DAY AT THE CITY Y. M. C. A.

"Open House" and Gymnasatic Exhibitions Were Features of the Holiday There.

IT WAS A BUSY DAY

CONCLUDED WITH STAR COURSE ENTERTAINMENT IN EVENING.

New Year Was Ushered in With Log Fire Social—Boys' Department In Possession During Morning, Senior In Afternoon.

New Year's was ushered in at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening with a "log fire" social when many members of the association spent the evening in story telling and in playing games. The social was in charge of J. W. Gavett, chairman of the social work committee. All day yesterday an "open house" was observed at the Young Men's Christian Association. In the morning the boys' department held its exhibition. Secretary Robbie led the free hand drill and Physical Director Heywood led the boys in a dumbell exercise. The following were the leaders on the different apparatus: Low bar, Jerry Manning; buck, Martin Dewey; horse, Edward Tempiin, parallel bars, George Bently; rings, George Clark. A maze run was led by Secretary Robbie.

A basket ball game was played between the Westfield and the local teams, the former winning by a score of 18 to 1. The lineups:

Westfield.		Plainfield.
Dewey	rf	Manning
Ellman	lf	Bentley
Clark	c	Stutsman
Nash	rg	Fisher
Douglass	lg	Meneke, Freeman

In the afternoon the senior department gave a gymnastic exhibition. A practice basket ball game was played between the Y. M. C. A. and the Plainfield High School in which the former won.

The following were the leaders on the exhibition: Low bar, Raymond Smith; horse, Herbers Brokaw; parallel bars, Arthur Denton; high bar, Walter Cashmore; rings, Edward Neal and Walter McNaughton. In a high diving contest Neal and McNaughtone tied at 5 feet, 4 inches.

*At night the Star Course entertain*ment was held in the Association Hall which was crowded. The committee, which comprised Henry M. Maxon, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, and Curtis Thorp, provided three very superior entertainers for the performance in the selection of Miss Jennie Lester, whistler; Charles H. Simmerson, humorist; and Harry T. Bryant, ventriloquist. During the entertainment the performers were accompanied upon the piano by Dr. J. H. Buchanan.

WELCOMED WITH NEW BELL

NEW YEAR'S GREETING AT MONROE AVENUE M. E. CHURCH.

Watch-Night Service Was Held at the Above Church Wednesday Evening.

At the watchnight service in the Monroe Avenue church, added interest was centered in the ringing for the first time of the new bell recently secured through the efforts of the Young Men's class. At midnight twelve strokes were tolled upon it by members of the organization among them being N. Mansfield Smith, Clarence Brouard, Harry Pound and Walter Manning who were especially active in the movement.

The service began at 10:30 and for an hour the time was passed in listening to reminiscent addresses given by Rev. Drs. Bryan and W. C. Nelson. A social period was enjoyed until 11:30 when the meeting was resumed with Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass in charge.

In the intermission refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Mrs. I. P. LaRue and Mrs. Walter M. McGee.

MRS. SCOTT OUT.

City Judge Runyon Remitted Imprisonment After Consultation and Fine Was Paid.

Mrs. James Scott, the colored woman sentenced to pay $100 and serve fifty nine days in jail for an assault upon George O. Stevens, Wednesday morning, was released the same afternoon through the punishment being lessened. Following a consultation between her attorney, William Newcorn, City Judge Runyon and the complainant, Mr. Stevens, the jail part was remitted on Mrs. Scott paying the $100.

Assemblyman Newcorn had taken steps to have the case carried to a higher court but all proceedings were dropped with the payment of the fine.

BROKE INTO THE STATION

Jesse R. Smith Was Captured There by Patrolman Quass at Point of a Revolver.

HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Smith Says That He Went Inside to Get Warm—Policeman Found Broken Glass on Platform—Smith Had Bunch of Keys—Police Say Burglary.

What is believed was an attempt to rob the Netherwood station of the New Jersey Central, early Saturday morning, was nipped in the bud by the timely arrival of Patrolman Quass. The supposed would-be burglar was ordered from the place at the point of the policeman's revolver and taken into custody. At police headquarters he described himself as Jesse R. Smith, thirty years old, of Baltimore, with no particular occupation. He was arraigned before Justice Hoff on a charge of breaking and entering preferred by Detective Dougherty, of the railroad force, and held without bail.

Smith gained entrance to the place by breaking a large window in the back part of the station and crawling through. He had been in but a short time when Quass reached the scene. In walking about the platform, he stepped on the pieces of broken glass. Drawing his electric tube light, he flashed the rays inside the building and located the fellow crouching behind a radiator. The sudden illumination blinded the intruder and before he could recover, the quick-witted policeman had drawn his revolver and ordered him to come out. He refused at first but a warning that no trifling would be tolerated induced him to emerge. Quass kept him covered with the weapon until he could place the handcuffs upon him.

At the station house Smith was searched but the only thing found on his person was a large bunch of keys, most of them being the kind that sneak thieves use. It is believed by the police that his purpose was to unfasten the door of the ticket office and so gain access to the money drawers.

When arraigned that morning he offered as excuse that he entered the place to get warm. The fellow is six feet in height and has been working as a helper in the Pedrick-Ayer shops. He was also employed at one time as porter in a local hotel.

Quass has been commended for his action in catching the man, especially as he is comparatively new on the force. It was his first time on duty in the Netherwood section.

GIFT FROM MAYOR.

Children's Home Association Desires to Thank Donors for Gifts.

Mrs. Kimball, president of the Children's Home Association, desires to thank all the friends whose generous gifts made the Christmas tree at the Home the perfect success it was immediately voted. A toy or a game and a pair of warm mittens or stockings were given to each of the little ones. One little girl gave half the money in her box to buy a doll for a little orphan girl. New Year's morning there came a delightful surprise to the president—a check of $100 was received from the Mayor for the Home.

The Standard of The Sun.

Although imitated by newspapers throughout the length and breadth of the land, no daily publication has attained the standard for news giving enjoyed by the New York Sun. Its concise method of publishing the gist of the country's happenings and the high literary aspect of its discussions make it a national educator. The editorial column embraces an inexhaustive field of subjects and its news items are called by an individual staff of correspondents. It is declared with truth, that "thinking men and women read the New York Sun."

Whist Club Meeting.

Miss Ernestine C. Smith, of Madison avenue, will entertain the Fortnightly Whist Club at her home, Wednesday evening, January 14.

A Generation Ago coffee could only be bought in bulk. The 20th century way is the way—sealed packages, always clean, fresh and retaining its rich flavor.

LION COFFEE

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

OLD COUNCIL ENDS LABORS

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5.)

in fines.

By way of recommendations, the chief asked for new call cells and suggested that the room over the present police headquarters be leased and fitted up for court rooms and private offices. The chief also referred to the necessity of installing the Gamewell police patrol system. He stated that there are seventy-four miles of open streets in the city and with this system it would give Plainfield a police force equal to thirty men. He thanked the Mayor and Council for past favors and hoped for further consideration at their hands.

The report of Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, was also of much interest. Mr. Lee offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing for the printing of 250 copies of it in pamphlet form. The report shows that there are 301 hydrants in the city, three new ones being installed during the past year. The department has 5,700 feet of hose. There was eighty-seven alarms during the year, an increase of eighteen over the previous year. These were divided into forty box alarms, twenty-seven telephone and twenty stills. The insurance and losses for the years are as follows:

Losses on buildings, $79,764; insurance on buildings, $387,590; loss on contents, $58,040.93; insurance on contents, $295,131.25; total amount of insurance, $682,721.25; total amount collected, $137,804.93; value property, real estate, $551,450; personal, $398,-225. The fires and their causes were as follows:

Chimney and defective flues, 19; locomotive sparks, 8; children and matches, 7; unknown, 7, lamps, 5; kerosene stoves, 5; bonfires, 3; debris, 2; grass, 2; baker's oven, 2; electric wires, 2; oil and rags, 2; cigars, 2; heater, 2; railroad ties, 2; lineman, 2; stoves and ranges, 2; kerosene motor, 1; steam pipe, 1; tramps, 1; pan grease, 1; out of city, 1; lantern, 1; gas jet, 1; gas explosion, 1; gas escape, 1; gasoline, 1; fireworks, 1; total 87.

The small extinguishers put out twenty-seven fires, the chemical extinguished seven, while the chemical and hydrants were used in putting out eight fires. The steam engine and hydrant were used in one fire and the hydrant alone put out eight fires. In the way of recommendations, Chief Doane asks for a new fire house in the east end of the city to properly protect that rapidly growing section. He also wants a combination hose wagon and chemical engine together with a team of horses. A request is made for another one thousand feet of hose and also a new team of horses for one of the hose wagons, where one horse is now used. He also recommends the installation of more hydrants in the business part of the city and in the outside districts. He recommended highly the installation of the red lights near fire boxes. Another important request is that for an increase in pay for the regular men in the department and he wants another regular paid man appointed this year.

Mr. Randolph, chairman of the alms committee, submitted a report. At the beginning of last year there was a balance of $530.66. The expenditures for the year amounted to $4,536.63, and there is now a balance of $428.32. Much credit is given the Plainfield Relief Association for aid and assistance given during the year.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that during the year 215 building permits were granted. This is sixty-four more than last year. The value represented is $500,000, an increase of $130,500 over the preceding year, not including alterations. Mr. Doane called attention to the ordinance drafted to regulate electric wiring and asked that something be done with it. Mr. Lee presented the report of the street and sewer committee. It will be found in full in another part of the paper.

In conclusion Mr. Daniel reported back the petition of Mayor O. L. Jenkins and others for the widening of Watchung avenue, and requested that it be referred to the next Council. This concluded the actual business, but before closing, Mr. Mellick, one of the retiring members, took occasion to say a few pleasant words.

Mr. Buckle responded in a happy vein and said that when he leaves the Council he wants to leave as Mr. Mellick does, with the unanimous and hearty approval of an excellent record.

Following these few pleasant words, the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted and the Council adjourned sine die.

GOING TO WORK.

Lasher Pray Color Company Organized Last Friday and Will Erect a Factory at Once.

The Lasher Pray Color Company was organized last Friday at the home of Councilman E. E. Pray, of West Seventh street, under the laws of New Jersey. The cash capital paid in is $30,000, and the incorporators are J. Wesley Johnson, Milton Knapp, Herbert G. Johnson and E. E. Pray, all of Plainfield. After the organization the following officers were chosen: President, E. E. Pray; vice president, Milton Knapp; secretary, Herbert G. Johnson; treasurer, J. Wesley Johnson.

Work will be commenced immediately on the new factory which will be located on the northside of the railroad near the property formerly known as the Eight Row. Men are now engaged in grading the grounds and digging a foundation and cutting in a switch to connect with the railroad. As previously stated this company will manufacture various colors for inks, etc.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

TWO NATIONS CLAIM AN ACRE.

That Much Ground in South America is in Dispute Between Brazil and Bolivia.

There is a region in northern Bolivia known on the maps as Acre—although it comprises many acres of fertile lands which has been disputed territory between Bolivia and Brazil for nearly 50 years. The little country has come into public notice recently because Bolivia leased a part of the Acre region to an Anglo-American syndicate. Brazil objects to this business arrangement, and has threatened to break off diplomatic relations unless the contract is rescinded.

Except that the country is rich in rubber, little is known about it. It occupies a triangular space between the boundaries of Brazil and Bolivia and Peru and Bolivia, with the Beni river as the base. The position of the sides of the triangle as interpreted by the two countries is the cause of the dispute. A traveler recently returned from Acre says of the natives that they are in many respects like the Bolivians, but that that there are among them tribes of a lower class than can be found elsewhere in that part of the world. Some of them are said to be cannibals, and all are shy and averse to the invasion of their country by the whites. They are experts in the art of using darts, spears and javelins, and delight in practicing with these from the bush on intruders, whom they usually attack from behind.

They wear no clothes, but have elaborate headdresses made of feathers and beads, and the younger ones wear strings of coins and metal disks around their necks and wrists. There are no horses or mules in Acre, and the llama is used as the beast of burden.

CRUSHED BY MONOPOLY.

Pawnbrokerage in France Is Entirely in the Hands of the Government.

A recent French trial shows how monopoly works even in the pawnbroking business. The police authorities brought suit in the eleventh correctional court of Paris against a group of persons who acted as agents for various moneylenders and pawnbrokers established in London. The action was in the interests of the Mont de Piete de Paris, the French Pawnbroking association, which is a monopoly and under government supervision, says the New York Post. Persons desirous of pledging their jewels and other valuables found that they could obtain much better terms for loans from well-known London firms than in the state supervised establishments in France, and, to meet the situation, a number of agencies were created in Paris, which undertook the business of pledging the articles in England. Only one such agency was left in active competition, and their plea that it was an infringement of their monopoly was upheld by the court. The defendants were six in number. Two were sentenced to three months' imprisonment and 10,000 francs fine, two to five days and the other four to fines of 30,000 francs each. Another defendant, who did not appear, was sentenced by default to two years' imprisonment and 30,000 francs fine. The Mont de Piete was awarded the franc damages which it claimed as civil parties to the case. The fines thus inflicted amount to about $36,000. It is understood that some of the defendants are Englishmen.

WORRY AND INDIGESTION.

Through Close Alliance of Nerves, Mental Depression Quickly Affects the Stomach.

Worry is a cause and source of much unhappiness, says a medical authority. It seams the face with lines and furrows and has a most depressing effect upon the whole nervous organism, the stomach, which at such times, becomes a most unwilling and laggard servant. Indeed, it is safe to say that unless encouraged by a cheerful temper and bright air, at least, hopeful thoughts, the stomach will play truant, or sulk, or do no good work. The physiological explanation of this is the close alliance of the great sympathetic nerves, which are worse than the telegraph for carrying bad news; the work and anxiety which depress the brain cause simultaneously a semi-paralysis of the nerve of the stomach; gastric juices will not flow — and, presto, there is indigestion. One sign of mental health is a sunny temper and a self-control that enables us to hear with equanimity the petty trials and jars of life, especially those arising from contact with scolding, irascible, irritable persons. Serenity of mind comes not easily and hard to others. It cannot be acquired.

Marconi's Sense of Humor.

Mr. Marconi, unlike many of his scientific brethren, has a sense of humor, says the London Express. He said that wireless telegraphy was as old as the world. When first an aboriginal Indian lit a fire on an aboriginal hill to signal to another aboriginal Indian some miles away then the principle of wireless telegraphy was initiated. In a recent lecture Mr. Marconi, referring to the fact that he can send messages so much more easily by night than by day, said that he hoped no one but those interested in cable companies would chase his labors among the works of darkness.

William Getting Strenuous.

Emperor William says no man can afford to put in more than 45 minutes at his dinner, and the Chicago Record-Herald asks: Does William eat at a cafeteria?

BURTON'S SHAVE.

BY H. S. CASWELL.

When Jimmie Tolliver first made his appearance on Wall street as a messenger in the office of Burton, Brooks & Burton he felt that to a very large extent he had become a part and parcel (and no unimportant portion) of that vast financial institution commonly known as "the street."

He looked upon the subtreasury, guarded night and day by the statue of Washington, with an air of proprietorship, and uptown he lorded it over all the boys in his block. His pride was not without foundation, for a youngster who obtains a position in Wall street must be well recommended, and such situations are more difficult to obtain than work in other lines.

Jimmie ran errands just like Fred Henderson, but he had to run faster and get back more promptly, for a delay of ten seconds might mean the loss of as many thousands, and surely this is enough responsibility for a 16-year-old.

It was his duty to run to the other offices with stocks and memoranda, and at times he handled large sums in negotiable securities.

He was a bright, self-reliant youngster, of the quickness and good nature that only made him many friends, but won him early promotion, as before long he was put in charge of the other messengers. Then his duty fell on him of escorting the junior partner to the safety deposit vaults.

Only in the largest offices do the brokers keep their stocks over night. Instead, at the close of each day's business all the papers and securities are deposited in a strong box and taken to the safety deposit vaults by the cashier or some member of the firm, to be brought back the next morning.

There is small danger of robbery, for the police are plentiful; but the responsible messenger is always escorted by some one in case of accident; and Jimmie, who was a strapping lad for his age, went along to "see that Mr. Burton didn't drop dead," as he explained it.

He and Henry Burton, a son of the senior partner, and only recently admitted to the firm, were great friends. Burton was a genial young fellow and the possessor of most of Jimmie's secrets, including his longing for an automobile and his ambition to become telephone clerk for the firm.

Burton had promised to use his influence toward the furtherance of this latter ambition, but the telephone clerk, who sat at the door of the exchange and carries the orders to the floor operator, is usually an older man, and Burton had to counsel patience.

They were discussing the age question as they made their way back from the vaults of the safety deposit company along the narrow, crowded street.

"I'll be a young fellow as you to-morrow," Burton said, laughingly. "I'm going to have my mustache cut off in the morning, and when I get down to the office I guess I'll look as big a kid as you, Jimmie."

"Huh!" retorted Jimmie, as he eyed the junior partner's well-covered upper lip critically. "Only what I had. I'd get that job at the telephone. Anyhow, I hope you don't look any more like that than you do now. They say that when they see your back they can't tell you apart. I can, though."

Gorham was Jimmie's pet aversion. He was a questionable speculator, who, because he had a large account, was made welcome at the office. Jimmie had never participated in this welcome when the senior partner cursed him for not getting out of his way.

Burton laughed. "I guess you won't be bothered by Gorham much longer, Jimmie," he said. "He's pretty close to the wall, and unless he makes good certain losses within two days he will not be permitted to trade."

"He can't get out any too quick for me," Jimmie answered, as he went up the steps into the office, and then he forgot the subject in an effort to arbitrate between two of the messengers, who had taken advantage of his absence to settle a difference in the hallway.

But it came back to him the next morning as he sat at his desk reading in the Commercial that a report was afloat that a certain operator might be discredited because of his failure to pay up his losses. He threw down the paper as the senior Burton came in, and sprang to the gate to admit him behind the railing.

"Hasn't Mr. Burton come in?" he demanded, in less than a quick glance at his son's empty seat.

Jimmie shook his head.

"Well, if he isn't here in ten minutes get the cashier to go over to the safe deposit vaults with me. I want C. & K. scrip at once. My boy should have been here early. He knew that there was more negotiable paper in that box than usual, and I want it all. I'm afraid

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 15, 1903. NO. 3

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison

MILLION FOR HIS INVENTION

J. W. Taggart Tells of Offer of Pennsylvania Railroad for His Rotary Engine.

HIS OTHER INVENTION

Secured Patents for a Gas Engine That Can be Reversed—A Press Reporter Visits the Netherwood Home of the Inventor and Sees His Models.

What Thomas A. Edison says he has just succeeded in accomplishing for the electrically propelled automobile, a local inventor has, he claims, accomplished for the steam and gasoline driven auto. What hundreds of inventors have been working on for almost as many years a Plainfielder has at last arrived at and at present he has a machine which will revolutionize steam and gasoline propulsion for automobiles, steam engines, steam boats, railroads, and, in fact, anything that can be driven by steam, gasoline, water power or compressed air. At his home in Netherwood, James W. Taggart, millwright, machinist, engineer, inventor and genius, has an engine, an insignificant looking piece of mechanism, for which, only a few weeks ago, the inventor claims, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company offered him $1,000,000.

A Daily Press reporter visited the home of this remarkable man a few afternoons ago and the working principles of these wonderful machines were demonstrated by the inventor. The house is a handsome residence when viewed from the outside but as the visitor approaches the house up the winding driveway from the street he at once realizes that he is approaching the abode of an inventor. On the lawn is a merry-go-round for the children, mounted on ball bearing gearing and driven by a belt attached to a small engine. This is for the children to play on in the summer time. On the front porch of the house, in pronounced contrast to the finished appearance of the outside architecture of the dwelling, is a huge gas engine, a machine invented by the inmate.

A pull at the door bell brings to the door a smiling person who greets one warmly by the hand and invites him inside. The visitor is led into a well kept hall and from thence into what would properly be the dining room but in reality is Mr. Taggart's machine shop. There on the floor is a queer little pile of steel and iron on which the inventor has spent $75,000 to perfect. That pile of iron, ("a pile of iron" because it is like anything but a steam engine) is the wonderful machine, or one of them as he really has two wonderful inventions in the room.

The inventor, first carefully explaining that he has his invention covered by patents, then informs the visitor that he has perfected a rotary engine that will develop power at only five pounds of steam pressure to the square inch and at twenty-five pounds of pressure a speed of 7,000 revolutions per minute can be attained and thirty horse power can be secured. What is more the entire machine when running can be rested on a man's shoulder with the greatest ease and even when running at that great speed will not suffer the least jolting. This is the machine for which the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has just made its offer.

The secret of the machine is even now jealously guarded by the inventor and H. A. Wise Woods, president of the Campbell Press Company, with whom the inventor is associated. The fundamental principle is the revolving cylinders and the absence of any sliding pistons or eccentrics. It is worked on the general plan of the turbine excepting that this engine, when running at a speed of 7,000 revolutions a minute, can instantly be reversed without a single jolt or jar. This engine is capable of being made small enough to operate a baby carriage or can be made large enough to propell the largest ship afloat. At the smallest steam pressure, power is obtained as well as at the highest. This is not the case with the ordinary turbine.

The inventor claims to have also solved another problem which will revolutionize machinery. This is a reversible gas engine, which he also has covered by patents. Common as gas

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 5.)

NO RISE.

Ice Dealers Declare That Price of Ice Remains Where it Was and Will Probably Stay There.

Recently there was a report in circulation that the local ice dealers had increased the price of ice to fifty cents a hundred. Inquiry concerning the story revealed the fact that the dealers disclaim the truth of the statement. They say that there has been no increase and that there is not likely to be. Unless there should be a short crop the price for ice is destined to stay where it is.

The cold snap of the past few days has made the heart of the ice dealer glad for the prospects of getting a good supply are now very bright. On some of the ponds cutting will commence today and if the weather should vary suddenly grow warmer, there will be no trouble in getting the supply in the various houses.

KNOCKED DOWN; RUN OVER

EDSON, YOUNG SON OF F. T. WOODHULL, INJURED BY PASSING WAGON.

Ran in Front of Wagon While in Play and Knocked Down—No Bones Were Broken.

Edson Woodhull, the eight-year-old son of F. T. Woodhull, of the firm of Woodhull & Marsin, met with a serious accident Tuesday afternoon in front of the Whittier school.

The boy was playing about when he suddenly darted into the street directly in the path of an approaching wagon. The step of the wagon struck the boy in the face, knocking him down. As the driver started to turn out the rear wheels passed over the lad's back near the shoulder blades.

At the home of the boy at 926 West Front street, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges made an examination and found that no bones were broken although the muscles are severely strained and it will be several days before he will be able to be out again. The worst injuries are on the face. One eye is closed and is badly swollen where the step struck him.

Mr. Woodhull does not hold the driver responsible for the accident as he says it was not in any way his fault.

WRECKED BUILDING.

Gas Explosion at Bound Brook Injured Mrs. Alward, Besides Demolishing Building Nearby.

Bound Brook, Jan. 14—A terrific explosion shook this place this morning when a large cistern used for acetylene refuse from an experiment station exploded from accumulated gases and wrecked the tank and building, besides injuring a woman who was a block away from the explosion.

The explosion occurred without an warning whatever just after a fresh charge of the gaseous refuse had been emptied into the pool. A deep hole was made in the ground. Mrs. Alward, mother of Mrs. J. P. Taylor, whose husband is the president of the Taylor Iron and Steel Works, was thrown down and was rendered hysterical. She is in a critical condition.

TO IMPROVE IT.

Property Near Hospital to be Built Up at Once.

A West End real estate deal has just been consummated whereby a well known land owner has come into possession of an important piece of property in the vicinity of Muhlenberg Hospital. It is his intention to immediately improve the purchase by erecting a large number of houses upon it. Final arrangements for the buildings will be completed within a short time.

Rescue Mission for Dunellen.

William Richards, of East Third street, who has heretofore been engaged in evangelistic work, has under consideration the plan of establishing a rescue mission at Dunellen. He has been promised the use of the W. C. T. U. rooms at that place, and within a short time he will probably inaugurate a series of meetings.

Turned Ankle.

Mrs. Sharkey, of 203 East Front street, turned her ankle Tuesday morning in front of Powers' drug store and was unable to resume her way home until the member was dressed in the pharmacy. Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan bandaged the injury.

Still Working.

Despite the cold weather of the past few days, the men employed in the rebuilding of the Babcock building have continued their work. The building now begins to show evidence of the amount of work accomplished.

MEN'S CLUB PLAYED THE PART OF HOST

"Ladies' Night" Held by the Men's Club of Congregational Church Last Tuesday.

MANY WERE PRESENT

"THE STUDY OF BIRDS WITH THE CAMERA," SUBJECT OF TALK.

Very Interesting Talk by Frank M. Chapman, Assistant Curator at New York Museum of Natural History—It Was Illustrated.

The members of the Men's Club, of the Congregational church, gave an entertainment and reception last Tuesday in honor of the women of the congregation, in the church when there were no less than 200 people present. The affair was the second one of its kind given by the club and was a great success.

The entertainment was held in the church proper, and was opened by a short address of welcome by Alexander Millar, chairman of the committee on arrangements, on behalf of the members of the club. Mrs. F. M. Ward rendered a pleasing contralto solo.

Frank M. Chapman, assistant curator of the ornithological department of the Museum of Natural History, of New York, was present and entertained for an hour with an interesting talk on "The Study of Birds With the Camera." His talk was illustrated by stereopticon views which showed the birds in their nests and in flight in the woods.

Mrs. Ward again rendered several selections after which the committee served refreshments of cake and ice cream and the rest of the evening was spent in social intercourse.

Those who were in charge of the programme and who provided the entertainment were: Alexander Millar, Stacy Reynolds, M. C. VanArsdale and Charles E. Steiner, assisted by the women of the congregation who furnished the cake.

The Men's Club of the Congregational church is an organization which has as its chief object interesting men, who are not in the habit of attending church regularly, in the church of which the club is an adjunct. The club is over two years old. The entertainment last night was the second one of its kind held since the club was organized and was a gratifying success to those who had the arrangements under their supervision.

ANOTHER CALL.

Rev. J. W. Richardson Called to Former Charge at Stamford—To Announce Decision Sunday.

Rev. J. W. Richardson, who has been pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church ten years and two months, last evening received by letter a formal call to return to the pastorate of the Stamford, (Conn.,) Baptist church, where he was pastor for nearly five years. This call comes with the prospects of an advance in the near future.

Mr. Richardson has not yet decided whether he will accept the call or not, but his decision in the matter will be made Sunday morning at the regular church service. This is not the first attempt made by the Baptist church of Stamford to secure the return of Mr. Richardson, and now that the call has been made so unanimous, it would not be unlikely if it should be accepted.

First Opera Rehearsal.

"The Pirates of Penzance," a comic opera, is being arranged for production in Music Hall in March by William Holmes, of West Front street. He is making arrangements to secure some of the best singers in this city to take part in the production. He is desirous of securing a chorus of seventy voices and ten soloists. The first rehearsal will be held Wednesday, January 21, at Reform Hall.

Received Death Benefits.

Ida M. Western, of Cranford, formerly of this city, widow of the late Henry M. Western, who was a member of Protective Conclave, No. 685, I. O. O. H., received from the Supreme Conclave, yesterday, a check for $2,000, in payment for her husband's death benefit.

Children of Mary to Meet.

The meeting of the Children of Mary, which was to have been held at St. Mary's church last Sunday, but which was postponed on account of the storm, will be held this coming Sunday at the usual hour.

WANT STATE TO PAY HALF

Somerset County Freeholders Have An Idea Regarding Aid in Road Building.

PLEA FOR GOOD ROADS

Freeholders Agree to Macadamize a Road Near Mountain, If Bound Brook Will Do Its Share—Petitions for Other Roads Were Received—Other Business.

Somerville, Jan. 14—Great work was done by the Somerset County Board of Freeholders at its regular monthly meeting in the Court House, yesterday, and the shades of night were falling fast ere adjournment was taken.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the session to lovers of good roads and those who wish to help the county in its good work at macadamizing will be the resolution, introduced by Member E. V. Cruser, of Skillman, and unanimously adopted. It was as follows:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the members of this board that the members of the Senate and Legislature from this county be instructed to use their influence and vote to so amend the State Aid Road act that the State pay 50 per cent., the township wherein located 10 per cent., the property owners fronting 5 per cent. and the county the balance of the cost of all roads hereafter constructed.

"Resolved, That the clerk of the board be instructed to forward a copy of these resolutions to the Senate and member of Assembly of this county."

Former Prosecutor Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville, offered in behalf of the citizens who had petitioned for macadamizing Mountain avenue in Bound Brook, from the corporation line to the foot of Watchung mountain, and urge that this road be built during the present road year. He was eloquent in his plea respecting the benefit this would be to the people of that section and the citizens of the county in general.

Charles J. Gummersbach and other prominent citizens made brief remarks, respecting the improvement of this thoroughfare. The Freeholders by this time were quite worked up. Director Logan left the chair and Mr. Codington took his place.

Then the "watch-dog of the county's treasury" moved that the engineer be instructed to survey the road applied for and advertised for bids for same, providing the Borough Council of Bound Brook will build to the end of the borough line. This motion was carried, unanimously, and it was decided to call for bids to be opened at the Court House on February 17, at 11 o'clock.

A petition for a stone road from Somerville to the Hunterdon county line was ordered placed on file, as the board had had quite enough to do with ordering roads built for one day.

A resolution was introduced to the effect that the county will hereafter refuse to pay any bills to justices, constables or the sheriff for the arrest, commitment or board of tramps.

Other business of a minor nature was transacted, after which the board adjourned to meet at the Leupp bridge in Franklin township, Saturday at 11 o'clock.

Rescuer Now Ill.

C. O. Smith, the milkman who saved the little girl, Esther Wolff, of Somerset street, from a ferocious dog, on Monday, is confined to his home by rheumatism of the heart, partly caused by his fierce encounter with the animal, when he tried to beat it off as it attacked him.

To Open Law Office.

Charles M. Dolliver, a recent graduate in law, will open an office, February 1, in the Vanderbeek building, corner of North and Park avenues. Mr. Dolliver has been associated with Codington & Swackhamer for some time past and his friends predict for him a successful career in the practice of law.

Looking at Another Hotel.

John D. Bailey, manager of the Park Avenue Hotel, went to Baltimore today to look at Mount Holley Inn, a hotel, which he expects to take charge of April 1. Mr. Bailey has been in Plainfield for some time and his friends will regret to learn of his departure from the city.

UNION COUNTY RETAIL DRUGGISTS MEET HERE

Quarterly Session of County Association Was Held in Plainfield Tuesday.

THE ROUTINE BUSINESS

FOLLOWING THE BUSINESS SESSION A BANQUET WAS HELD.

Three Local Druggists Elected to Membership—One Resigned—The Speeches Made at the Banquet at the Hotel Rosell.

Retail druggists from all parts of the county gathered in this city, last Tuesday, when the quarterly meeting of the Union County Retail Druggists Association was held in Y. M. C. A. Hall. The attendance was large but only matters of routine business were transacted.

The membership was increased by the admission of P. B. Hodge, B. J. Schreiner and D. S. Miller, of this city. The resignation of G. W. V. Moy was accepted as he is no longer in the business. A vote on special dues was the only other matter acted upon.

Following the session the association adjourned at 6 o'clock to the Hotel Rosell where a banquet was served. At its termination the members repaired to the parlors where various matters of interest to the craft were discussed for several hours.

Addresses were as follows: "The Special Alcohol Tax," Henry J. Schmidt, of Elizabeth; "General Good Accomplished by Association," G. J. Horning, of Elizabeth; "Advisability of Continuing as Members of the National Association," T. S. Armstrong, of this city; "Pure Food and Drug Laws," E. S. F. Randolph, of this city.

Those of the association who were present at the banquet were T. S. Armstrong, G. W. V. Moy, J. P. Powers, E. S. F. Randolph, L. W. Randolph, D. S. Miller, B. J. Schreiner, P. B. Hodge, A. D. Mallinson, of this city; G. H. Horning, M. D. Decker, W. R. Rickart, Henry J. Schmidt and Henry Schmidt, of Elizabeth, and J. G. Smith, of Rahway.

TRUST CO. OFFICERS.

Elected at Annual Meeting of Plainfield Trust Company Held Tuesday Afternoon.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Trust Company for the election of directors was held Tuesday afternoon between 3 and 5 o'clock at the company's banking house on East Front street. All of the old directors were re-elected and there was one addition to the number, J. Donald Morrow, of New York. The directors will meet this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock to elect officers for the ensuing year.

The directors chosen Tuesday are as follows: Ernest R. Ackerman, Charles J. Fisk, Frederick Geller, Augustus V. Heely, Edwin S. Hooley, Francis deL. Hyde, James W. Jackson, Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Charles W. McCutchen, Henry A. McGee, Walter M. McGee, George P. Mellick, Henry G. Rankle, Orville T. Waring and J. Donald Morrow.

TWO CONCERTS.

Subscribers Must be Heard From at Once to Insure Their Success.

Walter T. Serrell, of this city, manager for the New York Philharmonic Club, announces a series of two concerts to be given at the Casino on the evenings of February 19 and April 14. Mr. Serrell has issued these announcements to Plainfield people and it is essential that replies should be received by not later than Saturday evening to insure the success of the concerts. Due notice will be given when tickets will be ready for delivery. The sale of tickets will be limited to the seating capacity of the Casino. The club will be assisted by Miss Marie Rappold, soprano; Miss Shanna Cumming, soprano, and Emil Fischer, baritone.

More Tracks.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad let contracts last week for several additional sidings and some miles of main line to complete double tracking and some third tracks for freight service. These extensive works will be distributed at various points along the system.

—Now is the time to buy Florida Canadian River oranges or grape fruit. Neuman Brothers are selling them at special prices for large lots.

ATHLETIC MEET.

Local Y. M. C. A. Athletes Plan to Enter a Dual and An Inter-Association Meet.

An athletic and gymnastic contest is being arranged by the local Y. M. C. A. gymnastic classes against the Jersey City Y. M. C. A. and the contest will come off some time in March. The matter has been brought before the leader's class of the local association and the members are unanimous in favor of the contest.

It has also been decided to enter the Inter-Association athletic and gymnastic meet which is being arranged in which the Y. M. C. A.s of the following cities will take part: Summit, Passaic, Jersey City, New Brunswick, Orange and Plainfield.

Already the leaders have started training the members of the various classes for the meet and great interest has already been manifested in it.

BARTENDER THREW HIM OUT

THE QUESTION WAS WHETHER UNDUE FORCE WAS USED.

Recorder Doud Decided There Was and Fined Bartender Casey $15.

Recorder Doud heard, last Tuesday, the cases of John Casey, bartender, and Albert Rochette, a Dunellen brick manufacturer, charged with disturbing the peace and disorderly conduct Monday evening at Burns' Crescent Hotel, on Somerset street.

Rochette, when called upon to state his case, said that he was guilty and was fined $5 which he paid and departed. Casey pleaded not guilty and was defended by Lawyer Robert M. Clark.

The defence claimed that Rochette was drunk and disorderly and that when ordered to leave the saloon he refused to go and force had to be used to eject him. George Stewart, who was called as a witness, testified that undue force was used to put the man out and that he saw Rochette sail out of the front door of the saloon like a bombshell with Casey's foot as the projector.

The judge held that undue force was used and imposed a fine of $15 on Casey. Lawyer Clark protested and claimed that a bartender had a right to eject a man from his place of business and if necessary, to use force. He said that the fine would be paid under protest and that the case would be appealed on certiorari.

During the course of the trial Casey received a severe reprimand from the Judge.

ALL TO ANSWER.

Plainfield Lodge is Arranging for a "Roll Call" Night.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., is making arrangement for a "roll call" night to take place within two weeks. Before the end of that time every member of the organization will be asked to make a supreme effort to be in the lodge hall on the night designated and answer to his name when called.

Plainfield Lodge has members all over the union and those who cannot attend will be requested to send a letter to be read. The idea is not a new one but this organization intends making it an annual affair. Local officials will also attend and the evening's entertainment will conclude with a collation.

ONLY NEGOTIATING.

Deal Between Mr. Barnaby and Mr. McCutchen Not Yet Consumated.

F. A. Barnaby made the statement this morning that while there had been negotiations under way looking toward the exchange of his Plainfield avenue property for the old Senator Keyes farm near South Branch, owned by Robert H. M Cutchen, the deal had not yet been consumated and that Mr. McCutchen was not yet owner of the handsome residence and surrounding grounds of Mr. Barnaby as was stated in yesterday's Daily Press.

What Hubbard Says.

Elbert Hubbard, editor of The Philistine and author of "A Message From Garcia," says: "I want to tell you of the great delight and great profit we all received from the 'Lincoln' of Mr. Benjamin Chapin. It was masterly. His performance will never disappoint. It is strong, vivid, splendid and full of soul." Reserved seats at Hodge's pharmacy.

More Cars for Reading.

The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company has ordered 500 steel frame box cars and 500 all-steel hopper coal cars to be built and delivered at the earliest possible date.

LEGISLATURE IN SESSION

Both Houses of State Legislature Convened Tuesday For the Winter Term.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE

Was Sent to Both Houses—Union County Well Cared for in Appointment of Committees—Governor Sent Several Appointments to Senate for Confirmation.

Trenton, Jan. 14—With the usual semi-holiday accompaniments of visitors and a profusion of floral tributes, the 127th session of the State Legislature began at 3 o'clock, yesterday afternoon. Almost immediately after the organization adjournment was taken until Monday night.

Seven new Senators and one re-elected, the latter Joseph Cross, of Union, were sworn in. The Republican caucus slate was adopted without change in both houses in the election of officers, John G. Horner, of Burlington, being made speaker of the House and Elijah C. Hutchinson, of Mercer, president of the Senate. Both made brief speeches of acceptance.

In his address, Senator Hutchinson warned his colleagues against the tendency to establish new State institutions or projects involving large expenditures, explaining that in future years the present income may not be so large and it would mean a State tax. A continuance of the past conservative policy, he said, would mean doubling the treasury balance.

After the reading of the Governor's message in the Senate, a communication was received from him which contained the nomination of Francis J. Swayze, the present Circuit Court Judge, of Essex, to succeed Justice Gilbert Collins on the Supreme Court bench. The resignation of Justice Collins is to take effect on February 1. The other nomination sent by the Governor was that of Frederick Adams, of Essex county, to succeed Judge Swayze. Robert Waterbary, of Union, was appointed Senate journal clerk.

Senator Joseph Cross, of Union, was appointed to preside over the deliberations of the joint appropriations committee and to act as chairman of the municipal corporations and public grounds and buildings committees. He is also a member of the committees on public health, and the sinking fund. Senator Childs, of Somerset, who was elected last fall, was made a member of the committees on public health and appropriations.

The opening of the House was lengthy and more spectacular. Edmund G. Stalter, of Passaic, as master in chancery, administered the oath to the members. In the election of officers, George J. Coe, of Plainfield, was made journal clerk.

In the House committees, Assemblyman Newcorn, of Union, was made a member of those on bill revision and chairman of revision of laws and industrial school for girls, boroughs and borough commissions. The other Union county members were placed as follows: Coyne, education, elections, Federal relations and soldiers' home; Hall, public health, unfinished business and public grounds. Assemblyman Swackhamer, of Somerset, will be on the committees of boroughs and borough commissions and printing.

Photo of Former Member.

The members of the Plainfield Social Club were agreeably surprised yesterday by receiving from Photographer F. C. Langhorne a large sized portrait of the late General Eli Long, suitably framed. The general was a member of the club and the gift is greatly appreciated.

Storm Prevented Service.

There was no evening service at St. Mary's church Sunday night on account of the storm. In the morning the attendance was very large and an interesting and very helpful sermon was preached by Rev. Father Egan.

Coasting on Sycamore Avenue.

The young folk in the west end of town have been enjoying the excellent "bobbing" on Sycamore avenue during the past few days of cold weather, and all day long the hill is dotted with sleds and young folk.

Appointed Medical Examiner.

Dr. Arthur H. Dundon has been appointed medical examiner for the Metropolitan Insurance Company in this city and in the borough.

THE WOMAN IN BLACK.

Weird Apparition Startles the Superstitious Residents of a Philadelphia Suburb.

Willkie Collins' famous "Woman in White," who has thrilled thousands of readers by her strange adventures, has a fair rival near Willow Grove, Philadelphia. The stranger who has terrorized scores of pleasure-seekers in Montgomery county is described as a stately woman of prepossessing appearance, who dresses in deep black. Overlook avenue, near Willow Grove, is the thoroughfare selected by the supposed mysterious shade for her phantasmagorical perambulations.

The mysterious female wears a long black cloak, falling to her feet, and the hood of this garment is always drawn close about her head. Her dress, according to eye witnesses, is like that worn by the stately dame of generations long since gone. The cloak and hood are of decided colonial cut and pattern.

DRAY RAISED HIS CAP.

On Friday night, according to witnesses, the beautiful phantom appeared on Overlook avenue, meandering slowly and apparently in deep contemplation. On one side of the thoroughfare is a thickly wooded tract of land belonging to W. W. Frazer, and on the other side a blacksmith shop. George Dray and Clayton Hawks, who work in the smithy, allege that they have seen the woman many times before. When she passed the black-smith's shop Dray stepped up to her and politely raising his cap, said: "Madam, you must enjoy walking the road late at night." The alleged shade vouchsafed no reply, but scurried into the darkness.

Determined to fathom the mystery. Dray fearlessly pursued the woman. In relating his experience he stated that he pursued the figure for half a mile, when it mysteriously disappeared in Frazer's woods. With cold beads of perspiration on his brow Dray returned to the smithy and related his experience to Hawks. Calvin Beck, a resident of Overlook avenue, says he saw the woman a few nights before. Frank Fresse, another resident, also encountered the beautiful shade. He says that he discerned the faint outlines of the figure on his lawn. Frease alleges that she remained in one position for nearly three-quarters of an hour, gazing pensively into the sky.

HE COULDN'T BREATHE.

Rope Choked Him and Consequently Pat Declined to Finish a Job of Suicide.

Pat had come over to America with the expectation of finding money lying around loose, only waiting for some one to pick it up. Of course, says the

New York Sun, this was long ago. Pat had soon become disillusioned and was always glad to get hold of odd jobs which would net him a little something to help him keep body and soul together. Finally, becoming tired of the struggle, he decided to end it all, and was industriously tying a rope around his waist when his landlord happened in on him. After watching him curiously for a few minutes, he asked:

"What's up, Pat? What are you trying to do?"

"Trojin' to choke meself, av course," was Pat's answer.

"Choke yourself? You can't do it that way. You'll have to put the rope around your neck."

"Sure an' I thried that, but I couldn't breathe."

Lubricated the Infant.

The other day, says the Liberty (Mo.) Advance, Paul Hunt saw his mother oiling her machine. He asked her why she did it. She told him she oiled the machine to keep it from screaking. Soon afterward he found the baby crying and Paul thought it oiled its eyes, nose, mouth, ears, etc. She asked him why he did it and he replied: "I keep it from screaking."

SIX NOBLE VOLUMES.

Contain the Diplomatic Correspondence of the Revolution.

New Light Thrown on Various Episodes Which Contributed to Shape the History of the United States.

[Special Washington Letter.]

FACTS partially stated cannot be fully understood. The four Gospels are required in order to gain an understanding of the life of the Christ, because each synoptist tells only his side of the story, or the story as seen from his standpoint. Facts of history can only be understood when reasons are given for the actions of the prominent actors on the world's stage.

The history of the revolutionary war which gives us only the movements of the armies is an incomplete history. That is a perfect narrative which tells us why Washington, Gates and other generals moved as they did move, and which tells us all about the resources upon which the armies and civilian officials depended for their maintenance.

A full century elapsed before the congress authorized the publication of the diplomatic correspondence of the revolution, without an understanding of which no complete history could have been written concerning that period. In 1833 the publication was authorized, and it is in six volumes. These volumes are to be found in the congressional library, the department of state, and in a few of the libraries in the great cities of the land; but very few earnest students of history have access to them. The congress ought to have them printed by the hundreds of thousands, and send them broadcast to the people, instead of sending their own political speeches, which are of infinitely less consequence.

The report of the committee on printing, which has been loaned to the writer, says: "A knowledge of the revolutionary diplomatic correspondence is essential to the understanding of our revolutionary history, and of the treaties executed during and at the close of the revolution which form in large measure the basis of our internat[illegible] This correspondence [illegible]ent of the [illegible] to su[illegible] perse[illegible] Brog[illegible] Wash[illegible] have [illegible] put [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible]rchased [illegible] opposition as a claim against Great Britain, and a set-off against British claims for indemnity to loyalists; the extent to which the fisheries were controlled by [illegible] to the [illegible] [illegible] more important, how general was the understanding between the negotiators that the treaty of 1782-'83 was not a treaty by concession by Great Britain, but of partition, under which the United States retained all the territorial rights previously possessed by them in North America when part of the British empire.

"It also shows the intrigues against Washington, and sets forth the unique majesty of Washington, which compelled those who intrigued against him when they came into his presence and saw him in the solitude of his grandeur, if not to become, as was the case with De Kalb, loyal adherents, at least to sullenly acquiesce in the supremacy which they were forced to concede.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN.

"It further shows George III.'s character for [illegible] and [illegible]lation, and gives [illegible] [illegible]r of [illegible]k in which he says of Arnold: 'He seems to mix [illegible]y with that polluted [illegible] to contend [illegible] with tar.'"

Careful perusal of these interesting and valuable volumes makes it very clear that our diplomacy was in great measure financial economy. We required funds which would inspire France with confidence in our cause and Great Britain with dread. By the use of arguments drawn from finance and war, our diplomatists sustained themselves in their discussions with neutral powers. Franklin, at Paris, was a sort of subsecretary of the treasury, negotiating loans, and not merely our diplomatic agent.

For example, under date of November 29, 1778, Silas Deane wrote to the committee on secret correspondence: "Let me by every letter urge on you the sending of a quantity of tobacco, rice, flour and wheat. Twenty thousand hogsheads of tobacco are this instant wanted in France, besides the demand in other [illegible] And in another letter he [illegible]

WON FAME OVER NIGHT.

How Pietro Mascagni, the Famous Italian Composer, Rose from Obscurity to Dizzy Heights.

Pietro Mascagni, the famous Italian composer, is to make a tour of this country. His engagement opens at the Metropolitan opera house, New York, on October 5, in "Cavalleria Rusticana." He will bring over with him an orchestra and company of principals selected from among the finest musicians in Italy.

The tour of Mascagni in America has revived interest in the somewhat romantic career of the young composer, whose "Cavalleria Rusticana" served the double purpose of relieving his hunger and gaining him fame in a night.

CHARLES E. LITTLEFIELD.
(Administration Champion in the Contest with Trusts.)

At the beginning of 1890 he was unknown and struggling; six months later his fame had spread over the civilized world. In light of his career it is an interesting and significant incident that the composer was so little known in Rome. He was refused admittance into the Teatro Costanzi, where "Cavalleria Rusticana" was being rehearsed for its first public performance. This opera had won the Sonzogna competition and was being prepared for presentation under Sig. Mascheroni. Mascagni, who for weeks had been experiencing the bitterness of great poverty, went to the Costanzi to see his work in preparation. He had never seen it on the stage—in fact, had never heard a note sung, except by his own badly trained voice, and he was full of nervous expectancy as he approached the theater. But the doorkeeper looked askance at his frayed garments and thought of calling an officer when the figure before him claimed to be the composer of the opera being rehearsed within. The indignant and disappointed musician paced up and down the sidewalk half an hour, when Sig. Mascheroni happened to come to the door, recognized the ragged young man and led him within. The evenings later, May 17, 1890, Mascagni, in immaculate garments, was bowing his acknowledgments before the most enthusiastic audience ever assembled within the historic Costanzi.

PEACE TO BE RESTORED.

Gen. Booth, Chief of Salvation Army, to Seek Reconciliation with His Son Ballington.

A former officer of the Salvation Army at New York has said that Herbert Booth, who recently left the army, was now in America, having arrived a few weeks ago, and it was probable that Gen. Booth would arrive within a few weeks to make an effort to bring about a reconciliation between himself and his children, six of whom are out of the Salvation Army. Gen. Ballington Booth, of the Volunteers of America, has refused to discuss the matter in any form.

BALLINGTON BOOTH.
(Founder and Chief of the "Volunteers of America.")

The trouble between the members of the Booth family began five years ago. Ballington Booth was then commander of the army in the United States and it was a command from his father that he surrender the work here and go to Canada that brought about the separation. The son refused and resigned. Ballington Booth then organized a rival organization—the Volunteers of America.

Talk of reconciliation has been heard since June. It was then announced that Gen. Booth and his son would meet in September and that a love feast would follow.

Ballington Booth's friends claimed that Gen. Booth issued orders of importance to the workers in the United States without consulting the officers in this country. Ballington Booth resented this and the order for his transfer was the climax.

SPEAKING ABOUT LOGS.

Rockaway Oysterman Proves Himself King of All Liars Along Atlantic Coast.

"I have met a great many liars in my time," said Pilot Josh Lane to a New York correspondent the other day, "but John Lundy, a Rockaway oysterman, is far and away king of them all. It doesn't make any difference what you tell John in the way of a fairy tale, he will always go you one better. You may depend upon him, for he never fails.

"Two or three weeks ago I met John in a saloon in Long Island city. We got to talking about fogs, and I tried to impress him with the thickness of the fogs in London. I told him how people, standing on a street corner in London, could not see the lighted lamp on the post beside them; how people, after leaving their own doorstep, could not find their way back home, until the fog had lifted, and a dozen other stories all greatly embellished. But it was no use—I could not even faze him. This was the return I got:

LUNDY TELLING HIS STORY.

"Sonny, fogs may be pretty thick in that town, but they ain't half so bad as I've seen right here on Long Island. I remember once, 'bout ten years ago, when I was shinglin' the upright part of my house, a fog rolled in from the east fit to put a man's eyes out. I didn't take much notice of it at first, but kept on nailin' down shingles, an', by and by, it lighted up some, and what do you think I'd been doin', sonny? I was a half mile away from the house, and the shingles was lyin' on the field all the way back. That blamed fog was so thick I'd been nailin' shingles on it and didn't know it. And that ain't the worst fog I've seen, neither."

PAINTED HER GREEN.

Chicago Man Hailed to Court by Sister-in-Law Whose Face He Had Decorated.

Surrounded by a number of friends and her face anointed with paint, Mrs. Anna Brandt, 76 Liberty street, appeared in Justice Dooley's court at the Maxwell street police station, Chicago. She told the court that her brother-in-law, Nathan Brandt, had painted her face because he believed she would be more handsome.

"Don't the paint look to be green?" inquired the astonished magistrate, as he adjusted his glasses. "Why, to be sure, it's a familiar sign," continued his honor, looking sternly at Brandt, who sought refuge behind Attorney Gilhorn.

"Yes, your honor, after he had painted my face he stood a few feet from me and after having a good laugh, he said I ought to have been Irish instead of Jewish," said Mrs. Brandt, as she tried to wipe some of the spots of paint which she had left on her face in order to prove her assertions when she appeared in court. The complainant's story was corroborated by a number of witnesses. Brandt, when called to testify in his own behalf, did not deny having smeared the woman's face with the paint, but he said it was an accident. The case was continued.

PAINTED HER PACE GREEN.

Goat Dined on Banknotes.

A peasant woman whose little farm is near Brussels, Belgium, threw her jacket on the grass and went about her agricultural duties. Her pet goat found in the pocket of the garment a roll of banknotes amounting to about 1,200 francs, and ate them. The animal was killed, and the chewed paper, recovered from the stomach, was submitted to the bank, which paid out the amount after making a chemical analysis.

Obesity Called a Disease.

Obesity is regarded by Dr. Gabriel Leven, a French physician, as a nervous disorder. It is not a disease, but a symptom arising from various conditions, with some disturbances of nutrition—usually a kind of dyspepsia—at the foundation. Treatment is directed to the dyspepsia.

ONE OF THE ANCIENT ARTS

As with Everything Else, American Has Captured the Cooperage Business of the World.

Cooperage is one of the ancient arts born, doubtless, of the necessity of having proper vessels for preserving wines. The London coopers were incorporated into a guild in 1501. As usual, America has captured the cooperage business of the world. The National Barrel and Cooperage company declares that 250,000,000 barrels are used annually. I could mention one company alone that turns out 40,000 a day, or 12,500,000 a year. Its product includes casks, kegs, all sorts of barrels, butter tubs, pails, churns, etc. Our boundless forests give us the advantage in cooperage. We supply nearly all the rest of the world with barrels, casks and staves, our annual product being valued at more than $40,000,000. For casks to hold liquids oak is used, while for sugar and flour and other dry substances nothing has been found to equal elm. The manufacturers have bought up millions of acres of forests to guard against a scarcity of barrel material. They are vandals, like the rest of the timber users. Sufficient unto the day is the forest thereof. If they can make $1,000,000 in a lifetime by utterly devastating 10,000,000,000 acres of primeval woodland, why, they will make the $1,000,000.

BIRTH OF LONDON BRIDGE.

Story of Its Opening by William IV. and Queen Adelaide 71 Years Ago.

On August 1, 1831, William IV. and Queen Adelaide formally opened with much ceremony the famous London bridge, so that the structure now is a little over 71 years old. Their majesties went in grand procession from Buckingham palace to Somerset house, and thence by barge to the bridge. The awnings of the royal barge were removed, that a full view of the royal pair could be had along the whole line. At London bridge a grand pavilion had been set up close to the site of Old Fishmongers' hall. It was constructed of standards captured in a hundred fights, enveloped in crimson and decorated with massive shields. Then the king stepped ashore he said to two members of the London bridge committee: "Mr. Jones and Mr. Routh, I am very glad to see you on London bridge. It is certainly a most beautiful structure and the approach to it the grandest and the most delightful in every respect that I ever had the pleasure to witness." This, of course, says the London News, was before anyone thought of building an annex to Westminster abbey.

HOW HE SAVED HIS LUNG.

Young Bostonian Who Was Cured of Consumption on a Farm in Ireland.

A young Bostonian, reared in the lap of luxury, had lost a lung and physicians informed the father that if he was not sent on an ocean cruise or to the far west he would die of consumption. Accordingly the father put him aboard ship, with $1,000 in cash, and placed him off in Samaria, being advised that the dry country between the River Jordan and the Mediterranean was good for consumptives. When he reached Queenstown the boy made the acquaintance of a hard-headed, sensible chap, who told him that Samaria was sure death; that the only way to save his lungs was to go to Wicklow county, near Tinahely, and set to work on a farm. The advice was taken and for nine months the scion of Back Bay aristocracy did chores for a man who owned a castle. At the end of that period he was as lusty as a bull moose, with a pair of lungs like a blacksmith's bellows. The former gave him $20 and an honorable discharge. He returned to Boston with his $1,400 and his health. He now lives in New York, a modern Hercules.

LAST OF THE DELAWARES.

Passing of the Greatest Tribe of America's Aborigines in the Death of Klankia.

Klankia, descendant of a long line of distinguished Indian chiefs, died a few days ago in a little hut in a secluded spot near the shores of Raritan river, about two miles from Flemington, N. J., and with his passage disappeared the last of the once great and proud tribe of the Delawares. Arthur Tenbroeck, of New York city, who has spent many summers in the neighborhood of Flemington, and who made the acquaintance of the aged chief of an extinct tribe about three years ago, imparted the information and says that his wishes—that he should be laid away under the shadow of an ancient elm, where once his forefathers sat in solemn council—were carried out. Mr. Tenbroeck says that Klankia informed him some time before his death that he was 96 years old. "It was generally supposed," said Mr. Tenbroeck, in discussing the death of the last of the Delawares, "that old Indian Anne, who died in Mount Holly in 1894, was the last of the famous tribe, but she was not known then that her brother Klankia was still alive."

Aluminum for Paper.

It is stated that experiments with aluminum as a substitute for paper are now under way in France. It is now possible to roll aluminum into sheets four-thousandths of an inch in thickness, in which form it weighs less than paper. By the adoption of suitable machinery these sheets can be made even thinner and can be used for book and writing paper. The metal will not oxidize, is practically fire and water proof, and is indestructible by worms.

CROWN PRINCESS MARIE.

Young Matron Who May One Day Be the Queen of Roumania Is Popular in London.

It isn't every European country with a queen so genuinely popular as "Carmen Sylva," which is lucky enough to possess as promising a successor to her as Roumania does in its crown princess.

Prince Ferdinand's handsome wife, who was Princess Marie of Edinburgh, came to London with her husband to represent Roumania at the coronation, and her beauty, cleverness and general "style" have confirmed the belief of those who prophesied when the princess was a young girl in England that she would one day be a prominent figure among European royal women. She has reigned as one of the belles of the season.

CROWN PRINCESS OF ROUMANIA.
(She May One Day Succeed the Famous "Carmen Sylva.")

When the princess and her husband arrived famous old Chesterfield house, which Lord Burton loaned to the king for the coronation season, was placed by his majesty at their disposal.

The crown princess and her greatest rival have been in London at the same time and they must have met often, for both of late have frequently been the guests of Queen Alexandra. The other lady in this case is the beautiful Helene Vacaresco, the queen of Roumania's lady in waiting, whose enslavement of Crown Prince Ferdinand made such a to-do in King Charles' domain several years ago.

Dress is a great weakness with the crown princess of Roumania. At the reception recently given by the marchioness of Lansdowne to the Indian princes Princess Marie was the most noticed of the women. When she was married the crown princess' trousseau was the most sumptuous ever provided for an English princess.

Besides being the niece of King Edward, Princess Marie of Roumania is by the same relationship to the czar of Russia, her mother, the duchess of Edinburgh, having been one of the Russian royal princesses.

The crown prince and princess have an annual income of $150,000.

This is by no means a regal sum, but it is spent lavishly.

ALTON BROOKS PARKER.

Distinguished New York Jurist Who Is Coming to the Front as Presidential Candidate.

Judge Alton Brooks Parker, whom some of the leading democrats of New York are quietly pushing to the front as a candidate for the presidential nomination in 1904, is the chief judge of the New York court of appeals and one of the most eminent and influential jurists in the entire east. Judge Parker is in the very fullness of his mature manhood. He has just passed the age of 50, has served in the supreme court of the state and has taken just sufficient interest in practical politics to put him into touch with the various strata of his party. A native of Cortland, Judge Parker has lived altogether in the state, although he is well known in the city. He has been chief judge of the court of appeals since 1898.

JUDGE ALTON B. PARKER.
(Mentioned as a Presidential Possibility by New York Democrats.)

The Czar's Elaborate Kitchen.

The czar's kitchen in St. Petersburg is the finest in the world. Its walls are of black marble, and are lavishly ornamented. Some of the kitchen pots and pans are of solid gold, and originally belonged to the Empress Catharine.

Pillar of Cloud and Fire.

The "burning mountain" of Monte, in Aveyron, France, which is often mistaken for an active volcano because a pillar of cloud arises from it by day and a pillar of fire by night, is in reality a coal mine which has been burning for several years.

DRESS TRIMMINGS.

Tassels and Braid Pendants Revived.

Tassels and braids and gold and silver trimmings abound on day frocks as well as on evening wraps. They are a pretty finish and have a smartness all their own. These dainty trimmings will remain in vogue many a day, for they are of great value in the construction of a smart garment.

Moleskin coats seem to have entered on another year of popularity. Some of the less expensive furs are being trimmed with white and pale colored cloths adorned with embroidery.

Hats have never been prettier. Some women experience the greatest difficulty in procuring a hat to suit them, which, as a rule, means that they will not pay enough for their millinery. It is better to have one good hat than three bad ones and cheaper in the long run.

EVENING DECORATION.

Nothing so makes or mars the appearance of a costume as the hat. The small turban toque is the smartest thing brought out for many a day, as is the French sailor with its upturned brim and its jaunty bow of velvet on the hair behind. White is very destirable, especially for a dark haired person.

A long spray of orchids suitable for an evening gown is shown in the cut.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR DRESSY OCCASIONS.

Useful Net Gowns—The Capacious Theater Bag.

Blouses, high or low or with a dressy amount of transparency, are made in all the popular nets, and, as every modish woman possesses one or two separate slips, the evening toilet only requires a little care in its selection to be a great deal more effective than when made by the average dressmaker.

The new fur tippets are charming to wear at the theater in the evening over a pale colored gown. However, they are cumbrous over a smart evening cloak and totally inadequate without one. The best thing is a three-quarter paletot, very wide and loose and with openings at the side.

BRIDE'S DRESS OF WHITE CREPE DE CHINE.

The domino of rich material has expebilities as an evening wrap, and one of pale yellow merveilleux, with very slight alteration, has been so transformed that it is greatly admired. The hood of lace is now fastened by jet ornaments, and the girdle of jet now forms the fastening at the back.

The cut shows a bride's dress.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

PRETTY FABRICS.

Panne For Evening Gowns—Pompadour Taffetas.

Panne is a beautiful fabric, but its wearing properties are not great, though for evening wear they are good enough.

Some extremely pretty frocks for girls are made in flowered crepe de chines, and these are also very wonderful novelties in the way of nets and gauze.

Pompadour taffetas—that is to say, plain taffeta grounds with floral de signs thereon—are most attractive. They make charming ball frocks and in the end are a far more economical investment than tulle or net.

FLORAL GARNITURE.

Some of today's finest confections in the world of dress no words could do justice to. As for furs, one needs to spend a small fortune on them, but if it is impossible to do this some compensation is offered us in the new squirrel and musquash coats, which are obtainable cheap and are so smart when worn with discretion.

A smart floral garniture is shown in the cut. It is of mingled red and pink poppies.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

VISITING TOILETS.

Cloth In Pale Shades Popular—Incrustations of Lace.

Pretty afternoon visiting toilets are made in very fine faced cloths in pale shades. There is again a revival of the pastel tones which look charming for house frocks and for formal occasions during the winter. They may not be economical, but they are elegant, particularly when trimmed with guipure and incrustations of fur, for these are to be tailor made frocks the afternoon toilets are full of detail and elaborations.

PALE BLUE WAIST.

Incrustations of guipure, embroidery and fur are a distinct feature of the season's dress, especially for evening wear, and very often the lace is jewelled.

Emerald green, cerise and a lovely shade of rose pink are popular, but those women who look best in pale grays, faint mauves and pastel blues are wise to remain faithful to these tints. Fashion changes so quickly that it is foolish to invest in a color which does not suit one simply because it is the mode.

There are certain combinations of which we never tire—for instance, white velvet or thick cream oriental satin trimmed with sable and old lace. Satin fur and lace form a combination which is never out of style.

The cut shows a French waist made of pale blue silk and Russian lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR THEATER WEAR.

Warm Wraps—The Latest Opera Cloaks—Soft Skirts.

Although the loose paletot and kimono shapes are more modish in wraps, yet all the fashionable houses are showing charming little capes and coats in the new sibeline cloth, in satin brocade and in panne, and these are liberally adorned with pliss chiffon, bebe ruching and incrustations of lace.

Some of the latest opera wraps are made with loose sleeves, similar to the Inverness cloak, but cut in more circular fashion and fuller at the bottom edge. Since the advent of transparent yokes and the partial departure of the long sleeve the theater cloak has become of immense importance, as it is often retained during an entire evening in the stalls, as some of the theaters are very drafty on the ground floor.

LACE GOWN.

The gown in the illustration is of fine lace trimmed with narrow velvet ribbon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

EVENING GOWNS.

Combinations of Pale Colors Are Fashionable.

Watteau effects are produced on evening gowns by the skillful blending of pale colors, and this combination is particularly effective on gowns of white lace, where a pink slip with trimmings of soft pink and blue ribbons and delicate mauve flowers is a charming example.

Accordion plaited chiffon, mousseline de soie and crape are much used on dinner and evening gowns. The long lines frills fall from a fairly tight sleeve and spread out over the elbow, suggesting the orthodox skirts of the old time opera dance. They are very quaint and pretty.

DAINTY EVENING DRESS.

A great many dance gowns have pliss flounces, and some skirts are plaited throughout and have bands of insertion laid in circular rows to fasten down the plaits. All lace gowns are interlined with chiffon or fine net to give a soft, misty effect.

For chiffon or reception toilets much velvet is worn, and this fabric is extremely adaptable for the present fashion in skirts.

The gown here shown is of yellow lace over pink silk, veiled with chiffon of the same shade.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

TAILOR MADE STYLES.

Smart Fabrics and Color Combinations.

The fabrics which tailors are using are charming, and artistic art has reached perfection. It is wonderful what an amount of detail and finish is put into every seam and tuck. A bright shade of emerald green sibeline is being used for certain smart tailor mades. Black, too, lined with green and worn with an all green hat, makes a charming costume.

Many of the tailors are making simple tailored coats, open in front to show a waistcoat of white and gold or some other beautiful embroidery. Some of the new short walking skirts for country and morning wear in town are very charming. They must clear the ground and are often kilted to within four inches of the waist, where they are put into a shaped piece. Again, many of the quite plain skirts are strapped or braided.

GRAY TAILOR MADE.

Some of the tailor bodices still show the little tails, but these never became really popular, for they are not becoming. It is generally a mistake to take away from the length of the skirt.

The illustration shows a gray tailor made.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

CHIC TOUCHES.

Russian Embroidery—Several Furs on One Garment.

The little touches of Russian embroidery used on cloth gowns make them very bright and attractive. Those intermixed with deep coppery tinsel are very effective.

Plaited coats, reaching nearly to the bem of the gown, are charming for carriage wear, and the facings used on these models are handsome and elaborate.

Two or more furs are used on one garment, and this even on opera wraps. A large sack coat of brocaded satin in a yellowish shade had a large tippet of ermine fur bordered with pliss chiffon and flat revers of dark sable. A walking jacket of sack shape had a cross over collar partly of Persian lamb, with a scalloped border of ermine forming the other half.

GOWN OF POINT D'ESPRIT.

String and stone colored laces are used on the beaver and leather tints of cloth, and the lace is generally inclosed in shaped strappings of the cloth or used as a border, with straps on either side.

A pretty gown of point d'esprit is shown in the sketch.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

"SO FRIGHTENED!"

The Symptoms Which Women Are Prone to Fear the Coward.

Perhaps it is not necessary to recall to my women readers that thunderstorms, some of them severe ones, were rife in almost all parts of the land during the summer. Bolts from heaven shot forth in the eyes of men and women alike. Men mostly did not mind them. Women confessed with some pride that they were "frightened almost to death."

These thunderstorms were terribly beautiful. Great chasms of midnight blackness opened in the heavens, showing a crack of the light supernal, then closed again with that awesome, majestic roar which only God's own clouds and seas and winds can make. It is the music of the universe very near to one; that is all. That music and the gigantic electric telegraphing of the skies fill one with a sense of the glory and power of God as nothing else can. The soul that senses this can only stand and gaze and worship during such a storm.

"SO FRIGHTENED!"

But half the women on the earth are chronic cowards. They may think themselves devoutly pious and religious, but no woman is a real Christian who is afraid of the Almighty's most glorious works by land or by sea.

"Wasn't that an awful thunderstorm last night? I never was so scared to death in my life!" said one.

"Yes; I was frightened out of my seven senses too. It was daylight, but I pulled down all the blinds and lit the gas. I thought that would save me. What did you do?"

"Oh, Lizzie and I were together in our house all alone. We wanted to run into Mrs. Smiths, where there's always some one at home, but it was raining just awful, and we couldn't. So we closed the shutters and windows, pulled down the blinds and locked the door and went into the closet and held each other's hand till it was over."

"Well, I don't think you were frightened as bad as mommah and I were, anyhow," said a third woman complacently, as though the superlative degree of her terror entitled her to more consideration than the others. She called her maternal relative "mommah," though she herself was forty years old and weighed 170.

"Mommah and I were in her room and she was telling me how to mana e Tom when the thunder began to cra k and the lightning to flash like I don't know what. We were so frightened that we ran and jumped into mommah's feather bed, she on one side, I on the other, and we covered up our heads and lay there just shaking till it was over. We were so frightened!"

Mommah is lean; her daughter is fat. What a picture the two must have made! The lady continued:

"The storm was so dreadful that a washout stopped the trains at the junction, and poppah couldn't get home, and there mommah and I had to stay all night without any man in the house, and we were just scared to death all night. We went up to the third story room and nailed down the windows and put a chair under the doorknob and kept a bright light burning, and we neither of us slept a wink."

The woman was not so handsome that any bold, bad man would have carried her off for her beauty; neither was she so rich that she was worth robbing along any line of plunder whatsoever. She could lift her own husband—he was a smallish man—and swing him around under her arm, yet she was, she so frightened! She had simply been brought up to think idiotic timidity was sweet and womanly; that was all. When she was a little girl, if she and her mates saw a friendly dog or peaceful cow at the roadside or if two or three mischievous boys guyed them, it was their wont to shriek "Yeep, yeep, yeep!" and run like chickens, thus inviting the very pursuit they were afraid of. Little girls cry "Yeep, yeep, yeep!" and run on such occasions partly for the sensation of it, partly perhaps because they really are a little frightened, though not half so much as they pretend. If they were jeered and sneered out of their fears, as boys are, they would not be such cowards.

It is time to stop this systematic training of the feminine sex in cowardice. A woman is not generally so strong and brave naturally as a man. What then? For that very reason she should have an education that will make her body as strong and active, her soul as fearless and self reliant, as is possible.

JENNIE WADE.

FADS OF FASHION.

The Newest Coats—Red Hats Popular.

The woman who possesses good furs, good lace and good feathers can never be out of style.

A few red hats are seen, and they are likely to prove more popular. The newest coats are in sack form, and walking toilets are made with the short skirt and the coat so abbreviated in length that it is often a sack bolero. The most of these coats stop at the hip line, but many only just reach over the edge of the waistband and in this form are most becoming to a short figure.

GIRL'S EVENING COAT.

All garments are big, wide and loose. The straight front corset has made a very small waist impossible, and the stout figure no longer has the tied in waist with excessive rotundity above and below.

The only tight portions of our present attire are the tops of the sleeves and the waist and hips of our skirts. All else may be full and loose, and even the straight seam at the back of coats is disappearing, as it now runs straight to about the middle of the back and then slopes out violently.

The picture shows a suitable evening wrap for a young girl.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WHAT IS WORN.

A Great Deal of Brown Seen on the Street.

A good deal of brown and a little blue are worn, but the greater demand is for the mixtures of black and white, which give the effect of gray from its palest to its deepest tints. Sibelines with loose tufts of black or white wool are shown in brown, black and slate. Black and white or gray effects appear in the newest tweeds.

DRESS FOR A GIRL BRIDESMAID.

Quite the latest revival is corduroy velvet, and this never becomes so popular that it can be termed common. A beaver colored corduroy with skunk fur and some touches of turquoise blue is uncommon and stylish. So is a deep Lincoln green, made in the Russian style, with buttons and belt of oxidized silver.

The snowflake tweeds are admirable in black and white. Even on these fabrics we find the Russian galloon. Red sibeline usually has black tufts of a large size. The silk passementerie or gimp worn by a former generation has again come to the front, and even the tassels with pendent bulls and fringes have been reproduced.

A dainty little dress for a small bridesmaid is here shown.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

HER ROOSTER HAT.

"Humph!" growled Mr. Jobson, impatiently tossing away his paper one evening a couple of months ago, "these Audubon society people make me weary! What's the good of a tropical bird if you can't make some use of it? Of what other use are they except to be sewed onto women's hats, hey?"

"Well," replied Mrs. Jobson, "I suppose on sentimental grounds they—"

"Yes, that's what it all is—just sentiment, maudlin sentiment," interrupted Mr. Jobson. "Now, look a-here! Isn't it a waste lot easier for a richly plumaged tropical bird to experience a quick and humane death from a few properly placed bird-shot fired from the gun of an expert huntsman, than to suffer the flattering and hopeless torture of being devoured by a relentless snake of the jungle? Isn't it a heap better that a gorgeously feathered bird of the tropics should be saved to adorn a woman's hat rather than flap down in a tropical swamp or morass somewhere or other and die without ever being any use to anybody? Look at the millions and billions of magnificently decked tropical birds that have their feathers pulled out every year in the jungles by predatory and crafty monkeys. Is there any good in that sort of thing, I'd like to know, and d'ye suppose it's any fun for a handsome bird to be clawed all to pieces by a mischievous anthropoid?"

"N-no," said Mrs. Jobson, "but the ground taken by the Audubon society—"

"Oh, yes; I know what ground they take," cut in Mr. Jobson, "and I know what 'ud happen, too, if people like the Audubon society folks could have their way about everything. We couldn't have any meat, for one thing. They'd try to make vegetarians of the lot of us by claiming that it is cruel and outrageous to slaughter any sort of animals—better let 'em die in their tracks and be buried with headstones over each of 'em. We'd never know the taste of an oyster or a clam—the silly Billies 'ud demand that the mollusks be let alone and given a chance to think it all over until they croaked of their own volition. From that it 'ud be an easy step to the assertion that no trees ought to be cut down for lumber, since trees have life, haven't they? So've carrots and turnips and cabbages and onions life, haven't they? And I suppose that after awhile they'd get us down to a banana diet. I notice that some o' these Audubon society women wear sealskin coats, all right, and yet seals are handled more brutally than any other kind of beast or bird whose pelts or feathers are required by human beings—they're simply clubbed to death. There are too durned many of these unwritten sumptuary laws as it is. And if a woman wants to wear a great auk of the Andes on her hat, why, let her wear it—that's all I've got to say."

"Ah," put in Mrs. Jobson, "don't you remember that when I wore that aigrette in my hair to the theater last winter you complained so strenuously about it, and said I ought to be ashamed to wear feathers that are pulled from a live heron?"

"Never made such an idiotic remark as that in my life," said Mr. Jobson, in his usual it's-all-off tone. "But, by the way, has been a source of secret grief with me for some years past that you don't use more feathers and birds and get a hat that's, like other women. These top-pieces of yours that you spraddle over with a lot o' musty-looking autumn leaves and impossible grapes and poppies and truck like that don't make any kind of a hit with me at all. You've just dreamt that I ever made any kick about birds or feathers. Just you get whatever you want in the bird or feather line, and let the Audubon society like it or lump it. If you feel like pasting a Lake Michigan whitefish or a half dozen on the tail end of the right over your bonnet you go ahead, and if anybody interferes with you tell 'em to mind their own business."

All of which Mrs. Jobson had in mind the other day when, as customary in such cases made and provided, she invited four of her closest friends to accompany her down town to help her pick out a hat. While Mrs. Jobson isn't a member of the Audubon society, she is in sympathy with the aims of that admirable organization, and she ignored—not, it must be confessed, without exercising considerable self-sacrifice—all of the hats in the millinery shops bearing ornate birds and birds' wings on their crowns or sides. But when she tried on one of the new-fangled hats of the autumn, with a full-sized bantam rooster perched on one side of it, and coincided that it "became" her, she had no scruples.

Mr. Jobson was just going up the front steps with his latchkey in his hand, when Mrs. Jobson entered the gate and called cheerily to him. When he turned and looked at her he pretended that he had to clutch at the railing of the front steps to keep from falling down, and he glared fixedly at her hat for fully ninety seconds before he was able to say a word. Then he gasped:

"Wh-wh-where did you get that buzzard?"

Holding down her discomfiture as best she could, Mrs. Jobson smiled and replied:

"It's the very latest thing, and—"

"Latest, eh?" broke in Mr. Jobson. "You bet it's late. It's pretty late in the day for any woman by the name of Jobson to go hiking through the streets of Washington with the whole carcass of a bird of prey stuck up on the top of the head. And a carrion bird at that! Lemme tell you something. In nearly every state in the union that I know anything about there's a heavy fine for killing buzzards, because they're natural-born garbage eradicators, and for all I know there's such a law in the District of Columbia."

"Why, Mr. Jobson," said Mrs. Jobson, "it's the very latest idea in millinery, straight from Paris, to have one of these—er—roosters on one's hat, and it's only a little while ago that you reproved me for not wearing more feathers on my—"

"Feathers, madam!" snorted Mr. Jobson. "To my certain knowledge I haven't employed the word 'feathers' for exactly 24 years and nine months. I don't interfere with your private affairs or with your raiment or toggery, Mrs. Jobson, but if you think for one blessed instant of being seen on the public street with me while wearing that infernal, moth-eaten buzzard or nightmarish rooster you've got another guess coming. I've spent several million more thinks a-coming, Mrs. Jobson, and I don't mind telling you so right now from the go-off!"

However, Mr. and Mrs. Jobson were observed strolling and gazing into the shop windows the other afternoon, and Mrs. Jobson was not only wearing her rooster hat, but Mr. Jobson was adding goggle eyes at it and outspokenly admiring it and comparing it in terms of laudation with other hats of a similar sort in the milliners' windows.—Washington Star.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Por... Ed... ...prietor

SCHOOL DECORATION.

Some of our forefathers had rather peculiar notions regarding the schools of the land which, from the modern point of view, were decidedly wrong. Among other things, they appear to have believed in keeping the walls of the school room as bare and plain as possible save for the necessary adjuncts including the blackboard and a map or chart. The idea of appealing to the artistic tastes of the children by presenting to their view good pictures or other artistic decorations seems to have been much frowned upon. It is encouraging to note, however, that those ideas have gone and that the educational authorities now see the wisdom of making the school room a place pleasing to the eye instead of a close resemblance to a prison.

Along this line, it is interesting to note that the city schools are soon to be improved by the addition of a number of photographs of famous works of art. While it is not to be expected that the schools could afford originals or even accurate copies in oils, the carbon photographs are very satisfactory and will do much toward improving the appearance of the school room. There are already a number of photographs and pictures on the walls of the schools and each additional one received is simply advancing a good cause.

It is also pleasant to learn that the Senior class of the City High School is about to devote a portion of the proceeds of its recent play to purchasing works of art for the High School building. While the precedent for this was set by several previous classes, it is none the less creditable that the Seniors should devise this means of bestowing a permanent token of their regard for the institution which they are soon to leave.

"The cessation of advertising killed the bicycle business," is the way the Philadelphia Record quotes Colonel A. A. Pope, "and the way to revive it is to resume that same important matter. You can see how I feel in the matter when I tell you that I spent $500,000 in one year in that sort of publicity, and that it is my idea for the future to advertise." The Bicycle Trust stopped advertising because it had stopped competition, and it supposed it did not need publicity. It saved a great deal of money—and went into the hands of a receiver. Colonel Pope knows the bicycle business better than any one else does, and he says there must be a return to advertising. When the bicycle manufacturers ceased to advertise the public abandoned cycling and turned to other amusements.

Congressman Brownlow, of Tennessee, has a plan for the establishment of a bureau of public roads in the Department of Agriculture which will carry out with a national scope the work that is now being done by the State Commissioner of Roads and his assistants in New Jersey. The idea is that the National government should assist in the good road building so as to make it general throughout the country instead of being confined to a few States more progressive than the others. With this idea in view, the sum of $20,000,000 is appropriated for the purpose in a bill which Congressman Brownlow has introduced. It is to be divided according to the ratio of population.

TWENTY-THREE CAKES.

Disposed of at Cake Sale of Young Women of Trinity Church.

A successful cake sale was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. S. Potter, of East Second street, under the auspices of the emergency committee of the Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church. In all twenty-three cakes were sold bringing a profit of between $11 and $12. The money will be placed in the emergency fund to be used for a special appeal from the Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed church for the work in Arabia.

The committee in charge of the sale consisted of Miss Lillian A. Force, chairman; Mrs. Zeiss, Mrs. Alfred Baker, Miss Cora Laire, Miss Alice Pugh and Miss Grace Howland, while Mrs. H. S. Potter, as president of the band, gave assistance by opening her house for the sale and helping in other ways.

Better Sidewalks.

Steps have been taken by one property owner on John street to have a better system of sidewalks. At present the thoroughfare is facetiously referred to as "Mud Lane" and is almost impassable in wet weather. In a short time the progressive citizen will lay a flag walk in front of his ground with the hope that all others will follow suit.

OFFICERS WERE ELECTED

AT ANNUAL MEETING OF UNION BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION.

Reports Show the Organization to be Particularly Sound Financially.

At the annual meeting of the Union Building and Loan Association, held last Monday, the following officers were elected to serve for one year: President, Dr. M. B. Long; vice president, E. M. Laing; secretary, J. V. E. Vanderhoef; treasurer, M. C. Vandradale; directors, C. H. Dunham, Allen B. Laing, Samuel J. Robinson, Dr. O. L. Jenkins and R. A. Meeker.

The committees appointed were as follows: Auditing and finance, C. H. Dunham and R. A. Meeker; salaries and bonds, Clarence Goss, S. J. Robinson and E. M. Laing; appraisers and loans, E. M. Laing, W. H. Broksw, J. C. Manning and Dr. O. L. Jenkins. There were also five applications for loans received and indications point to many more within a short time.

¶ Reports read showed the association to be in a flourishing condition and, although an infant organization, is exceptionally sound financially. Last year's results were very encouraging and during the next twelve months it is the purpose of the officers to double returns.

NEW YORK WEDDING.

Miss Elizabeth P. Scott Became the Wife of Dexter O. Tiffany, of This City.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Parkinson Scott, daughter of Mrs. Mary B. Scott and the late Col. Julian Scott, to Dexter Oliver Tiffany, of this city, was celebrated Saturday afternoon at the Church of the Incarnation, New York, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. Rev. Henry Townsend Scudder performed the ceremony. The bride was unattended, but the groom was attended by George P. Mellick, as best man. The ushers were A. W. Daxbury, A. H. Atterbury and Dr. W. H. Murray, of this city, and Acotia Nichols, of New York.

An informal reception was held afterward at the home of the bride's mother. Following a wedding trip, the couple will take up their residence in New York. Among those who witnessed the marriage were a number of people from this city.

WEDDING IN BUFFALO.

Son of Rev. W. S. Hubbell, of Central Avenue, Married Miss Sickles.

Announcement is made of the marriage of DeWitt Hubbell, son of Rev. William S. Hubbell, of Central avenue, and Miss Harriett Sickles, of Buffalo. The wedding was celebrated at Buffalo, the home of the bride, Saturday, December 27, and it was a charming affair. Mr. and Mrs. Hubbell have taken up their residence in New York, where they are housekeeping. Mr. Hubbell has an excellent position in the First National Bank, of New York.

Shake Off Wintry Blasts.

The months of January and February are the most disagreeable to the northerner and delightful are they for the Florida tourist. The trip to Jacksonville is through a section as historic as it is picturesque and the service to that point via the Royal Blue line is the best. The New Jersey Central is going to run an excursion to Jacksonville on Tuesday, January 27. Train leaves New York, foot of Liberty street, at 8:30 a. m., arrive Washington at 2:10 p. m., same day; leave Washington at 9:50 p. m., January 28, and arrive Jacksonville at 7:40 p. m., January 29. The round trip rate from New York and vicinity is $50, and includes also sleeping car berths, meals en-route, transfer and hotel accommodations in Washington. The arrangements are such that the care and worry of the journey are in the hands of the railroad company, and the tourist has the entire time for enjoyment. The New Jersey Central has issued "A Little Yellow Book" on this Florida trip; if you want it send a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York. Its free for the asking. 1 10 5 eod o 2

Locomotive on Trial.

The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad has on trial on the main line, over the New York division, a locomotive equipped with a patent firebox, designed to consume its own smoke from the soft coal fuel. The engine was built in the company's own shops at Reading, Pa., and if it proves successful, it is the intention of the road to equip every locomotive with the invention.

Plainfielder There.

Among the guests at the Knickerbocker subscription dance given at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, Friday night, for the benefit of the education fund for children with musical talent, was Mrs. William J. Roome, of Willow avenue, in company with the Misses Hall, of Henry D. Brewster. Her costume was white panne velvet with pearls.

Since the First . . .

ROCHESTER LAMP was made there have been many "like" it, but no good one. It showed upon the face that they were not. Many imitations have been offered in all parts of the country, but experience proves that there is only one lamp that is really better, and we make that, too.

THE NEW ROCHESTER

Is to-day admitted by all that is really worth having in a lamp, both as to quality and style. Don't forget, every genuine ROCHESTER has our name on the burner. Don't buy a lamp unless it has it. We can fill every lamp want. No matter whether you want a new lamp or other goods, or all you require of us is a postal, write to THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO., and we do it. Let us send you literature on the subject.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO., 55 Park Place, and 55 Barclay St., NEW YORK.

LIFE AND CUSTOMS IN JAPAN

WERE TOLD OF BY J. DUNBAR WRIGHT IN A DELIGHTFUL LECTURE.

Given in Casino Under Auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital.

Japan, the "land of the Cherry Blossoms" was pictured and talked of in a delightful manner to a large audience at the Casino, Saturday night. Under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary Board, of Muhlenberg Hospital, J. Dunbar Wright gave the lecture, the pictures being reproductions of those he secured himself while travelling through the Orient. The proceeds of the affair will be for the benefit of the city's sick institution.

A close observer and with an eye for the beautiful Mr. Wright secured plenty of material for his talk while on a pleasure trip and the result was seen in every part of the recital. Most of the illustrations were of the Japanese themselves and the cherry blossom groves. The every day life of the natives, both in city and county, was depicted, those of the children being especially characteristic. Much of the lecturer's material was secured in Yokohoma and Nagasaki and his bearers were given a keen insight of the routine and appearance of the far away cities. In his speech Mr. Wright is very entertaining and unlike many of those of the professional platform he never allowed interest in his subject to lag. Altogether the lecture was highly successful and thoroughly enjoyed.

SAW MANSFIELD.

Members of Local Shakespeare Club Attended "Julius Cæsar" and Were Entertained at Dinner.

The members of the Shakespeare Club of this city went in a body, Saturday afternoon, to see Mansfield in "Julius Cæsar." At the close of the performance they adjourned to the Hotel Navarre, where they were entertained at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Kimball, formerly of Plainfield but now residing in New York. Covers were laid for thirty in the private dining hall, the decorations of the table being red and green. After partaking of an elaborate meal, the Shakesperians bade farewell to their generous host and hostess, and turned their faces homeward, with unanimous expressions of delight.

The members of the club present on this occasion were Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Goddard, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, Mrs. John Gray Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fleming, F. O. Herring, Mrs. John Harman, Miss Julia Scribner, Henry Humphrey, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel St. J. McCutchen, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Conklin, Mr. and Mrs. Deane Vanvliet, Miss Mellick and Mrs. H. A. Schuyler.

FOUND DAUGHTER.

Man, Who Came to Plainfield Looking for Her, Found Her at Last in Boston and Takes Home.

Walter Wardell, of Brooklyn, who came to this city last Thursday in search of his daughter who, it was said, had accompanied an actress from this city, as told exclusively in Friday afternoon's Daily Press, is a happy father. A telegram arrived at his home at Brooklyn announcing that a young girl, answering the description furnished by the police of Brooklyn to the Boston authorities, had been found roaming about the streets of that city in a dazed condition. She was taken to her home in Brooklyn.

The girl had been missing since Tuesday and her father had followed theatrical companies from place to place for three days trying to get a clew to the whereabouts of his daughter. She can give no coherent account of her self on account of her condition.

Musical Treat.

The music-lovers of Elizabeth and vicinity are much interested in the musical treat to be given at Jacob's Theatre, Elizabeth, Tuesday evening, January 20, by Alma Webster-Powell, the well-known prima donna soprano and Signor Eugenio de Pirani, composer and pianist. A very select programme will be given. The prices will be popular.

LITERARY.

The reviews of the last quarter's progress which constitute the main section of the January-March number of the Forum cover, as usual, the leading departments of public activity, especially in the United States. The most prominent place is given to Henry Litchfield West's review of "American Politics," including, of course, the Congressional elections, and this paper is closely followed by a similar account of "Foreign Affairs" from the pen of A. Maurice Low. "Applied Science," in its various phases, is treated by Henry Harrison Suplee. The present issue is completed by articles on "Waterways: an Economic Necessity," by Prof. Lewis M. Haupt, and on "The Passing of the American Indian," by Thomas F. Millard.

Field Marshal Viscount Wolseley, K. P., begins a very interesting series of four articles on "The Young Napoleon" in the January Cosmopolitan. Field Marshal Wolseley is today probably the ablest living military writer, and his work will be received with a wide welcome, not only from those interested in Napoleon's career but from all those who are interested in military affairs. Three other features in the January Cosmopolitan will attract attention. The first is a sketch of Russell Sage and his methods and the immense resources controlled by him. The second, a very able paper on Daniel Gray Reid and the men who have recently played so large a part in financial affairs in connection with the Rock Island Railroad. The third is by Representative Walter P. Brownlow, of Tennessee, on the movement to build one hundred million dollars' worth of good roads each year, one-third to be paid by the Government.

The January Magazine Number of the Outlook contains some six or eight illustrated articles besides full-page portraits, poems, a story and the usual very full editorial treatment of current history and literature. Hon. John D. Long contributes the third in his series of articles on "The New American Navy," called "The Organization and Education of the Navy" and the article is illustrated with an original drawing by Henry Reuterdahl and portraits. James Barnes, the author of several naval histories and stories, tells a strange chapter of United States history under the title, "The Tragedy of the Lost Commission," with quaint illustrations; "The Italian Immigrant in America" is a subject treated with special knowledge and wide human interest by W. E. Davenport, while the types of the Italians are shown by really fine photographs; a winter article, with strikingly beautiful pictures is contributed by Oscar von Eugeln.

SAW CHINATOWN.

Local Officials Piloted Through Its Mazes by Gee Wah.

New York's Chinatown district underwent an invasion of Plainfielders, yesterday afternoon and evening. In charge of Gee Wah, the Poo-Bah of the local Celestials, and Charlie Wing, proprietor of a Somerset street washery, twelve prominent officials and citizens saw all that was to be seen in Mott, Doyer and Pell streets.

A pleasing feature of the inspection was a fourteen course dinner at the restaurant of Sam Yen, on Doyer street. The Plainfielders had their first try at chop sticks, bird's nest soup and the many other deliacacies that make life worth living to the Chinaman. The tour ended in the evening with a service in a Joss house.

Blamed for Train Wreck.

According to a correspondent in the Washington Star, Roy Young, of this city, has been held responsible for the train wreck at Whitehouse siding which cost the New Jersey Central thousands of dollars and resulted in the death of two men. Young was a train dispatcher at Jersey City and is alleged to have issued conflicting orders. He has since been discharged and has moved to Bloomsbury.

In Honor of Guest.

"Old Glory" was displayed last Sunday at the home of Mr and Mrs. Guinn, of Carleton avenue, in honor of their guest, P. S. Allison, of Bristol, Eng., who stopped in Plainfield while en route for Philadelphia. The interior of the house was decorated with both the American flag and the English Standard and Jack.

DOG ATTACKS LITTLE GIRL

Huge Mastiff Beaten Off by Milkman After Attacking Little Esther Wolff.

HER INJURIES SERIOUS

Chas. O. Smith Was Driving Along Grove Street Saturday Afternoon When He Heard Child's Screams —Faced Dog With Whip and Finally Drove It Away.

Charles O. Smith, a milkman, saved a child from being horribly mangled by a large mastiff dog Saturday afternoon on Grove street. Before he was able to get the child from the enraged animal part of her scalp was torn off and she was terribly scratched and bruised about the chest and body where the animal had torn he clothing and lacerated her flesh.

Smith was driving along Grove street after he had finished his day's work when at the corner of Craig place he heard a child scream and call "Mamma" as though in pain, and at the same time he heard the angry growls of a dog. He turned out of his way and on passing around a corner he saw a great mastiff dog tearing at the child's clothing and making vicious grabs for her head, the hair of which had already been pulled out in large quantities.

He immediately jumped out of the wagon and ran towards the animal with his whip and instead of running away the dog stood over the child and showed its teeth at the approaching dairyman. Smith rushed up to the dog and lashed it with the whip until the whip broke. Then the dog turned on him but was finally beaten off with the but end of the whip. The child was placed in the wagon, cut and bleeding from the wounds on her head and body, and was taken to her home on Somerset street. She was able to tell the milkman that her name was Esther Wolff and lived at 85 Somerset street.

The child's mother went into hysterics when her child was brought into the house bleeding and it was some minutes before she was made to understand what was the matter as she thought Smith had run over her with his wagon.

The child's father, August A. Wolff, is a tailor and has a shop at 85 Somerset street. When seen Monday a. m. he said to a reporter, who called, that his child was very badly injured about the head and body. Asked if there were any indications of blood poisoning he answered that he did not know, but that his chil l was suffering greatly from the injuries received and that he thought that she was injured internally.

Smith until recently lived on Somerset street but now resides on West Fourth street. He is a member of Warren Engine Engine Company and yesterday was the recipient of congratulations at the hands of his friends for his bravery.

Friends of Mr. Wolf started an investigation Saturday afternoon to find out who was the dog but so far they have not been successful. According to Smith, the dog is a valuable one as he remembers seeing a large handsome collar about its neck.

In Memory of Its President.

On account of the death of President *Simpson, of the Woolsey Paint Com*pany, of Jersey City, the store of the New York Painting and Decorating Company on Park avenue, was closed Saturday and the place was appropriately draped in mourning.

Prof. Griggs' Lectures.

The dates for Prof. Griggs' lectures on "Faust," in Vincent chapel, are as follows: February 19 and 26, and March 5, 12, 19 and 26. They will be given at 3:45 o'clock in the afternoon under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church.

Dr. Humphreys'

Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

NO.	CURES.	PRICE.
1	Fevers, Congestion, Inflammations	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
4	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic	.25
5	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
6	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
7	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
8	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
9	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
10	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
11	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
12	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
13	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
14	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
15	Whooping-Cough	.25
16	Kidney Diseases	.25
17	Nervous Debility	1.00
18	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
19	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or sent Free.

Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER JAN. 12, 1903.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—For New York, 4:12, 5:00, 5:46, 6:08, 6:28, 6:46, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 a. m., 12:00 noon, 12:15, 12:30, 12:45, 1:00, 1:15, 1:30, 1:45, 2:00, 2:15, 2:30, 2:45, 3:00, 3:15, 3:30, 3:45, 4:00, 4:15, 4:30, 4:45, 5:00, 5:15, 5:30, 5:45, 6:00, 6:15, 6:30, 6:45, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 p. m., 12:00 night. Sundays—4:12, 5:00, 5:46, 6:08, 6:28, 6:46, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 a. m., 12:00 noon, 12:15, 12:30, 12:45, 1:00, 1:15, 1:30, 1:45, 2:00, 2:15, 2:30, 2:45, 3:00, 3:15, 3:30, 3:45, 4:00, 4:15, 4:30, 4:45, 5:00, 5:15, 5:30, 5:45, 6:00, 6:15, 6:30, 6:45, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 p. m., 12:00 night.

For Newark, 4:12, 5:00, 5:46, 6:08, 6:28, 6:46, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 a. m., 12:00 noon, 12:15, 12:30, 12:45, 1:00, 1:15, 1:30, 1:45, 2:00, 2:15, 2:30, 2:45, 3:00, 3:15, 3:30, 3:45, 4:00, 4:15, 4:30, 4:45, 5:00, 5:15, 5:30, 5:45, 6:00, 6:15, 6:30, 6:45, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 p. m., 12:00 night. Sundays—4:12, 5:00, 5:46, 6:08, 6:28, 6:46, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 a. m., 12:00 noon, 12:15, 12:30, 12:45, 1:00, 1:15, 1:30, 1:45, 2:00, 2:15, 2:30, 2:45, 3:00, 3:15, 3:30, 3:45, 4:00, 4:15, 4:30, 4:45, 5:00, 5:15, 5:30, 5:45, 6:00, 6:15, 6:30, 6:45, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 p. m., 12:00 night.

For Elizabeth, 4:12, 5:00, 5:46, 6:08, 6:28, 6:46, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 a. m., 12:00 noon, 12:15, 12:30, 12:45, 1:00, 1:15, 1:30, 1:45, 2:00, 2:15, 2:30, 2:45, 3:00, 3:15, 3:30, 3:45, 4:00, 4:15, 4:30, 4:45, 5:00, 5:15, 5:30, 5:45, 6:00, 6:15, 6:30, 6:45, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 p. m., 12:00 night. Sundays—4:12, 5:00, 5:46, 6:08, 6:28, 6:46, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 a. m., 12:00 noon, 12:15, 12:30, 12:45, 1:00, 1:15, 1:30, 1:45, 2:00, 2:15, 2:30, 2:45, 3:00, 3:15, 3:30, 3:45, 4:00, 4:15, 4:30, 4:45, 5:00, 5:15, 5:30, 5:45, 6:00, 6:15, 6:30, 6:45, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 p. m., 12:00 night.

For Rahway—1:00, 6:15, 7:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:45, 10:15, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 a. m., 12:00 noon, 12:15, 12:30, 12:45, 1:00, 1:15, 1:30, 1:45, 2:00, 2:15, 2:30, 2:45, 3:00, 3:15, 3:30, 3:45, 4:00, 4:15, 4:30, 4:45, 5:00, 5:15, 5:30, 5:45, 6:00, 6:15, 6:30, 6:45, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 p. m., 12:00 night. Sundays—1:00, 6:15, 7:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:45, 10:15, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 a. m., 12:00 noon, 12:15, 12:30, 12:45, 1:00, 1:15, 1:30, 1:45, 2:00, 2:15, 2:30, 2:45, 3:00, 3:15, 3:30, 3:45, 4:00, 4:15, 4:30, 4:45, 5:00, 5:15, 5:30, 5:45, 6:00, 6:15, 6:30, 6:45, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 p. m., 12:00 night.

For Perth Amboy—6:44, 9:45, 11:07 a. m., 12:56, 2:26, 3:56, 5:26, 6:50, 7:52, 9:26, 10:56, 12:26 night. Sundays—9:45, 11:07 a. m., 12:56, 2:26, 3:56, 5:26, 6:50, 7:52, 9:26, 10:56, 12:26 night.

For East Millstone—7:32 a. m., 12:45, 3:07 and 5:26 p. m. week-days.

For Trenton—1:00, 6:15, 7:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:45, 10:15, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 a. m., 12:00 noon, 12:15, 12:30, 12:45, 1:00, 1:15, 1:30, 1:45, 2:00, 2:15, 2:30, 2:45, 3:00, 3:15, 3:30, 3:45, 4:00, 4:15, 4:30, 4:45, 5:00, 5:15, 5:30, 5:45, 6:00, 6:15, 6:30, 6:45, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 p. m., 12:00 night. Sundays—1:00, 6:15, 7:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:45, 10:15, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 a. m., 12:00 noon, 12:15, 12:30, 12:45, 1:00, 1:15, 1:30, 1:45, 2:00, 2:15, 2:30, 2:45, 3:00, 3:15, 3:30, 3:45, 4:00, 4:15, 4:30, 4:45, 5:00, 5:15, 5:30, 5:45, 6:00, 6:15, 6:30, 6:45, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 p. m., 12:00 night.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, via Junction—6:26, 11:03 a. m., 2:32 and 6:37 p. m. 6:37 a. m. and 6:37 p. m. Sunday.

For Flemington—11:03 a. m. and 6:37 p. m.

For Freehold and Jamesburg, via Monmouth Junction—6:44, 9:45, 11:07 a. m., 12:56 and 5:26 p. m. week-days. Sundays—9:07 a. m.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Sea Girt—7:00 and 10:00 a. m. and 12:56 p. m. week-days. Sundays—9:07 a. m.

Leave for Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Sea Girt, via Bay Head Junction—9:48 a. m., 12:56, and 6:43 p. m., 12:07 night week-days. Sundays—10:30 a. m., 6:43 p. m. Stop at Interlaken for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Barnegat, 12:07 night. Through trains connect at Jersey City with boats of Pennsylvania Annex, foot of Cortlandt street, and 23d street from Fulton Street, avoiding double ferriage and journey across New York City.

Leave for Long Branch, Elberon, Ocean View, Twenty-third Street Station—7:20, 7:28, 8:20, 9:20, 10:20, 11:20 a. m., 12:10, 1:20, 2:20, 3:20, 4:20, 5:20, 6:20, 7:20, 8:20, 9:20, 10:20, 11:20 night. Sundays—10:7:55, 8:55, 9:55, 10:55, 11:55 a. m., 12:55, 1:55, 2:55, 3:55, 4:55, 5:55, 6:55, 7:55, 8:55, 9:55, 10:55, 11:55 night. Sundays—10:7:55, 8:55, 9:55, 10:55 a. m., 12:55 night.

For Bordentown, Trenton and the South—6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 1:30, 2:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 1:30, 2:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m.

For Philadelphia and Boston—6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 1:30, 2:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 1:30, 2:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m.

For Somerville—7:32, 7:15, 9:21, 9:30 a. m., 12:02 noon, 1:45, 3:44, 4:51, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 9:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:21, 9:30 a. m., 12:02 noon, 1:45, 3:44, 4:51, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 9:30, 11:30 p. m.

For Flemington—7:32, 11:00 a. m., 2:32, 5:30, 6:30 p. m. week-days. Sundays—9:21, 11:00 a. m., 5:30, 6:30 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—6:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 1:30, 2:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 1:30, 2:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m.

For Manchester, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—6:30, 9:54 a. m., 2:32, 4:30 p. m. Sundays—9:54 a. m., 4:30 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—8:00, 9:54 a. m., 4:30 p. m. Sundays—8:45 a. m., 2:32 p. m.

For Long Branch—9:07 a. m. week-days. Sundays—11:55 a. m., 5:44, 6:07, 6:30 p. m. Sundays—11:55 a. m., 5:44, 6:07, 6:30 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—2:32, 6:15 a. m. Sundays—8:45 a. m.

For Atlantic City—6:44 a. m., 2:26 p. m. week-days. Sundays—9:07 a. m., 5:44 p. m.

For Cape May—1:07 p. m. week-days.

For Rahway—1:00, 6:15, 7:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:45, 10:15, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 a. m., 12:00 noon, 12:15, 12:30, 12:45, 1:00, 1:15, 1:30, 1:45, 2:00, 2:15, 2:30, 2:45, 3:00, 3:15, 3:30, 3:45, 4:00, 4:15, 4:30, 4:45, 5:00, 5:15, 5:30, 5:45, 6:00, 6:15, 6:30, 6:45, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 p. m., 12:00 night. Sundays—1:00, 6:15, 7:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:45, 10:15, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 a. m., 12:00 noon, 12:15, 12:30, 12:45, 1:00, 1:15, 1:30, 1:45, 2:00, 2:15, 2:30, 2:45, 3:00, 3:15, 3:30, 3:45, 4:00, 4:15, 4:30, 4:45, 5:00, 5:15, 5:30, 5:45, 6:00, 6:15, 6:30, 6:45, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45 p. m., 12:00 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—2:14, 11:14 a. m., 1:20, 7:11, 4:10 (Parlor cars only, Royal Limited), 4:26, 7:30 p. m., 12 night. Sundays—2:14, 11:14 a. m., 1:20, 4:10 (Parlor cars only), 4:26, 7:30 p. m., 12 night.

Express cars at Round Brook.

W. G. HESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Man'gr.
C. M. BURT, Gen. Pas. Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect November 16, 1902.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Leave for Jersey City, Plainfield 10:23 a. m.

Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

Leave South Plainfield 4:40 p. m.

Daily, Solid Vestibule train for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations, except Rochester.

For time of local trains see pocket timetables. Telephone No. 113-B

MOLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.

CHARLES S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.

26 Cortlandt Street, New York.
FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent,
258 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office Hours—7 a. m. to 7 p. m.
On Saturday's close half hour later.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:00, 8:30, 10:30 a. m., 12:30, 5:00, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 12:00, 2:30, 5:00, 7:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLES and RARITON.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:30 and 7:00 p. m.
Close—10:00 a. m., 2:30 and 5:30 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Close—1:00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Rarton
Close 12:55 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:30, 7:00 p. m.
Close—7:30 a. m., 12:00, 2:30 and 5:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7:00, 8:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30 and 5:00 p. m.
Close—7:30 a. m., 12:00, 2:30 and 5:30 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South close 6:00 and 8:30 p. m.

Through fast mail for East close 1:00 and 6:00 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE & GALLA. (Mt. Bethel.)

Arrive—1:30 p. m. Close—8:30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 8:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

News and Opinions

OF

National Importance

THE SUN

ALONE

CONTAINS BOTH.

Daily, by mail, $6.00 a year

Daily and Sunday, by mail $8.00 a year

The Sunday Sun

Is the greatest Sunday Newspaper in the world.

Address TH

CANINE BIT SMALL BOY

Took Possession of Hallway in Stillman Building and Attacked All Comers.

FINALLY MADE ESCAPE

Chester Denton Went to Drive the Animal Out, When It Attacked Him and Bit Him Through His Shoe—Dog Was Discovered by Mrs. Howard Martin.

A good-sized canine entered one of the hallways in the Stillman building late Monday afternoon and took possession of the first flight of stairs to the exclusion of people living in that part of the building. He was discovered when Mrs. Howard Martin, who occupies a suite of rooms in the building, attempted to go to her rooms.

Mrs. Martin returned to Mrs. Denton's store and asked Chester Denton if he would drive the dog out of the hall. He volunteered his services, but afterwards was sorry for it. When he got close to the animal he spoke gently to it. The animal made a dash for the boy and in three attempts succeeded in putting one large tooth through the lad's shoe to the foot, where blood was drawn.

After it bit the boy, the canine ran out of the building. The boy then returned to his mother's store, explained the circumstances and Dr. Jenkins was summoned to cauterize the wound. The dog was a strange one and no one seems to know its owner. It is said that a similar dog has been making life miserable for other people on West Front street. It is supposed to have been the same dog which attacked the little girl on Grove street, Saturday.

ODD FELLOWS INSTALLED

THE DISTRICT DEPUTY AND STAFF AT PLAINFIELD LODGE.

Those Who Were Put in Office Last Monday—Collation Closed Evening.

District Deputy Grand Master John Becker and staff installed the following officers of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., last Monday: Past grand, A. L. Jimerson; noble grand, Wilbur Pennington; vice grand, C. W. Kranse; recording secretary, Elias Bird; treasurer, James Clarkson; right scene supporter noble grand, Fred Becker; left scene supporter noble grand, August Schmeyer; right scene supporter vice grand, Peter Doeringer; left scene supporter vice grand, Herman Hansen; warden, Eden L. Boice; conductor, J. Kettenring; inside guard, Michael Coulter; outside guard, Michael Kohler; trustees, Henry Nischwitz, D. R. Weaver and John Morton.

The deputy's staff was composed of Grand Warden Henry Nischwitz, Grand Guardian Fred Becker, Grand Secretary Joseph Shepperd, Grand Financial Secretary Edward Bowman, Grand Treasurer John Carney and Grand Guardian John Bowman.

The ceremonies were witnessed by Queen City Lodge, No. 226, which visited Plainfield's hall in a body. The evening closed with the serving of a collation.

DRUM CORPS ELECTION.

Officers Chosen for the Independent Fife and Drum Corps Monday Evening.

An election of officers was held at the rooms of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps last Monday when the following members were chosen as officers for the ensuing year: President, Frank W. March; secretary, F. L. Manchester; financial secretary, J. H. Adams; treasurer, J. V. Beekman; drum sergeant, Marion H. Brotaw; drum corporal, Donald Bechtel; fife sergeant, Frank Carver; fife corporal, Raymond Carver; sergeant-at-arms, Charles Pawson; drum major, F. L. Manchester.

After the election of officers a session of practice was held. A communication was read at the meeting from the clothiers in New York, where the new uniforms are being made, in which it was stated that the new uniforms would be delivered this week. The matter of holding a dance was discussed at the meeting and most of the members are in favor of holding something of the kind after the uniforms arrive.

First Vacations.

Miss Mullen, Miss Thompson and W. D. Williams, of Woodhull & Martin's store, are the first among the clerks to have the week's vacation, with pay, a gift of their employers.

SOCIETY FOLK AT A TEA

VEN IN HONOR OF MRS. J. GILMORE DRAYTON, OF THIS CITY.

Charming Affair Was Given by Mrs. R. Henry Depew at Her Home Last Saturday.

A tea in honor of Mrs. J. Gilmore Drayton was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. Henry Depew, at the corner of Hillside and Evergreen avenues, when there were between seventy-five and a hundred people were present, including a large number from out of town. The tea was served between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock.

The rooms in which the tea was held were very tastefully decorated and presented a very attractive appearance. In the dining room the color effect was pink. Roses and carnations were arranged about the room in great profusion. In the living room the predominating color was red and was secured by a tasty arrangement of American beauty roses and red carnations while in the hall the decorations were of yellow onquils which gave to the whole a rather novel effect.

Assisting Mrs. Depew and Mrs. Drayton, in receiving were: Mrs. E. Hammond, of Geneva, N. Y.; Mrs. Alexander Myle, of New York; Mrs. William Bedford, of Yonkers; Miss Beulah Ewing, of Philadelphia; and Mrs. Frank S. Martin, Mrs. A. D. Drayton, Mrs. Evarts Tracy, Mrs. John B. Drayton, Mrs. Stuart Patterson, Mrs. A. W. Kneinecke and Miss Drayton.

Those who assisted in the dining room were: Mrs. T. D. Wilson, Miss Rodman, Miss Lucy Otterson, Miss Josephine Lapsley, Miss Elsie Martin, Miss Marjorie Fleming and Miss Helen Martin.

NEW LIFE FOR WOODMEN

INTEREST IN THAT FRATERNAL ORDER TO BE RENEWED.

Trouble Between District Deputy and Robin Hood Camp Was Amicably Settled.

Steps have been taken by the Supreme Lodge of the Woodmen of the World to revive interest in the order in this city. Robin Hood Camp, No. 8, which was organized here about one year ago and discontinued meetings four months afterward, has been asked to continue its sessions, and will probably do so in a short time.

The new supreme deputy, J. V. Barnes, of Brooklyn, was in this city and had a conference with the officers of the camp and the troubles which led to the cessation of interest were amicably settled. It is said they were caused by a disagreement between the local organization and the former deputy, J. V. Barnes, of Massachusetts. Deputy Garvin will visit Plainfield again within a few days and all arrangements will be completed for the revival of meetings. They will undoubtedly be held in the Coward building.

The present officers of the camp are: Counsellor commander, William Newcorn; clerk, Fred J. Huff; physician, Dr. A. H. Dundon.

TO MAINTAIN COT.

Pond Tool Beneficial Association Considering Plans to Have Cot at Hospital—Officers Elected.

At a regular meeting of the Pond Tool Beneficial Association, held Saturday evening, the following officers were elected to serve one year: President, J. Fred Wharton; vice president, John King; secretary, Samuel J. Robinson; treasurer, George H. Batchelor; trustee for eighteen months, Patrick Nugent.

Responding to a communication from W. C. Kinney, of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, Edward Harding was appointed chairman of a committee of seven to devise means to contribute to the support of the institution. It is possible the society will maintain one or more cots.

LOCAL BANKERS THERE.

W. F. Arnold Elected a Trustee of New Jersey Bankers' Association.

The New Jersey Bankers' Association was organized in Newark Saturday under most favorable auspices. The objects of the association were stated in The Daily Press last week, being to bring the banking men of the State into more close touch with one another. Plainfield was represented among the eighty representatives from the various institutions by W. F. Arnold, cashier of the City National Bank, and J. Herbert Case, secretary of the Plainfield Trust Company. Mr. Arnold was elected a member of the executive committee for a term of two years. Edward C. Stokes, of Millville, was elected president of the association.

New Freight Pier.

The New Jersey Central is to build a new freight pier in Jersey City. It will be equipped with every modern convenience.

BENEDICTS WIN FINAL MATCH WITH BACHELORS

Secured the Last Game by the Narrow Margin of Four Pins.

ON PARK CLUB ALLEYS

A MEMBER OF THE BACHELORS TEAM MADE A RECORD SCORE.

The Game Was Exciting Throughout—The Usual Social Period Was Held and Refreshments Were Served at the Close.

The Benedicts, in the third and deciding bowling match against the Bachelors on the Park Club alleys, proved their claim to supremacy by winning the match. The game was rolled Saturday evening and the married men won by a margin of four pins. A week ago the same team was victorious by a margin of eight pins, and although the lead was cut in half, the final score shows that the winners rolled a strong game throughout. Though the married men claim victory, the single fellows take satisfaction in knowing that one of their number, Morris J. Dumont, made a record for the alleys as "cocked hat." His score was 45 and so far as is known this has not been equaled before on the Park alleys.

F. O. Ball distinguished himself by making a score of 33, while Dr. Thiers sustained his reputation by rolling a score of 31. In only three instances did the Benedicts roll below 20, and this was true of their opponents. There was plenty of cheering throughout, and the closeness of the scores made the tournament very exciting. This gives the married men two of the three games rolled and they naturally feel proud over their victories.

After the game the usual time followed and refreshments were served. Mrs. Irene S. Murray and Mrs. George D. Hallock presided at the table and they were assisted by others of the club.

The scores made in the "cocked hat" tournament were as follows:

BENEDICTS.		BACHELORS.
F. O. Ball.....	33	Morris Dumont . .	45
W. Guilford.....	17	Morgan Townsend .	23
C. W. McGee	19	A. L. C. Marsh . . .	15
F. R. Hall.....	22	Ralph Willis	15
C. L. Nichols	28	Wm. Barlow	20
G. D. Hallock	24	E. Daniel	20
J. P. Northrop . . .	17	Frank Rogers . . .	28
A. W. Kenworthy . .	20	Wm. DeLong, Jr. . .	13
J. C. Peck	25	E. C. Murray	20
Dr. Thiers	31	W. R. Faber	26
	277		253

THE CLERGYMEN AT DINNER

PLAINFIELD MINISTERS' ASSOCIATION ENTERTAINED BY REV. MR. HUBBELL.

Although Host Was Unavoidably Absent, a Pleasant Afternoon Was Spent.

Although the members of the Plainfield Ministers' Association were entertained at dinner by Rev. William R. Hubbell, of Central avenue, last Monday, the host was unable to be present. He was detained in New York and, as his request, Rev. Charles L. Goodrich very kindly acted as host in his place. The members met first in the parlors of the Seventh-Day Baptist church where a highly interesting paper on "The Influence of Greek Philosophy on Christian Ethics, was presented by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis. This was followed with an informal discussion of the paper, which was finally terminated when the time for dinner arrived.

The members adjourned to Trusell Court, where a dinner was served and a social time enjoyed. Those present at the dinner were Rev. E. M. Rodman, Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, Rev. Edwin L. Earp, Rev. Lawrence R. Howard, Rev. John McMurray, Rev. George B. Shaw and Rev. O. G. Noreen. Several others, including Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes and Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, were at the meeting but were unable to attend the dinner.

Moving House.

Contractors have commenced the moving of the house on the old Bryant property at Fifth and Division streets, now owned by James Totten. It will be located on a new foundation on Division street. The corner property will be cleared for two houses which will be erected by John McNally for Totten.

The Democratic Club will hold its first annual dance in the Casino, Thursday evening, February 12.

When Your Joints Are Stiff and your muscles sore from cold or rheumatism, when you slip and sprain a joint, strain your side or bruise yourself, Painkiller will take out the soreness and fix you right in a jiffy. Always have it with you, and use it freely. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Price 25c. and 50c.

BOWLERS ARE PAIRED FOR PARK'S TOURNEY

Individual Ten-Pin Tournament to Start at Park Club Saturday Evening.

PLANNED ON NEW LINES

THIRTY-TWO MEMBERS OF THAT CLUB WILL CONTEST FOR TROPHY.

Will be Played by Rounds on Lines Similar to Tennis and Golf Tournaments—Play of Finals Will be Made a Social Event.

Owing to the illness of Allan B. Laing, chairman of the committee on bowling of the Park Club, there has been some delay in starting the annual individual bowling tournaments at that club but plans are now underway which will see the start in the handicap ten-pin tournament Saturday night and the "cocked-hat" a little later. President Charles L. Nichols has appointed F. O. Ball chairman of a special committee to take charge of the tournaments and Mr. Ball and his assistants have lost no time in making their arrangements.

A decided innovation is to be made this year in the method of conducting the ten-pin tournament. As usual, it will be handicap. Instead of the round-robin schedule in which each player meets every other player, it will be conducted by rounds on the same principle as tennis or golf tournaments, each round disposing of half the contestants and the winners pairing off together for the next round. Each match will be decided by the best two out of three games.

Thirty-two entries have been received and handicaps allotted. Play will begin Saturday night and many of the members are devoting more than the usual time to bowling in preparation for the event. In order that the tournament may go off promptly, a time limit has been fixed for each round. All games not played within that limit will be forfeited to the player who is ready. The dates have been fixed as follows: First round, February 7; second round, February 21; third round, March 7; semi-finals, March 14. The finals must be played off some evening between March 14 and 28, at least four days notice being given to the bowling committee. The intention is to make the finals an informal social event at the clubhouse. A trophy will be presented to the winner.

Handicaps and pairings for the first round were announced Saturday night as follows: Edmund Rushmore, 0, and Harry Curtis, 20; J. I. Taylor, 25, and B. S. Rockwell, 5; H. D. Hibbard, 0, and Morgan T. Townsend, 0; William A. Townsend, 0, and William B. Faber, 0; R. T. Willis, 0, and Laurens H. VanBoren, 0; Arthur Peck, 0, and A. L. C. Marsh, 10; C. Everett Murray, 20, and Frank S. Curtis, 25; Theo. Maxwell, 20, and John Valiant, Jr., 25; William Barlow, 10, and Charles B. Morse, 25; A. W. Kenworthy, 40, and Edward Overton, 10; Dr. Charles R. Thiers, 0, and William A. DeLong, Jr., 20; E. M. Daniel, 10, and F. O. Ball, 0; J. C. Peck, 20, and J. P. Northrop, 15; J. Barlow, 30, and H. Ball, 10; Chief-Clerk W. McGee, 10, and Frank Rogers, 10; Herbert S. Rogers, 10, and Morris J. Dumont, 0.

Winners of the first and second matches, third and fourth and so on will meet in the second round and the winners then will meet under the same arrangement in the next round and so continuing until the contest is narrowed down to two and then the tournament finally ws. The same handicaps will prevail throughout the tournament.

Comic Opera by Local Talent.

William Holmes, of West Front street, has in prospect the production of Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera, "The Pirates of Penzance," which he proposes to give in Music Hall during April. It will be given on a much larger scale than "Patience," and the cast will be larger.

Council Meeting.

There will be an adjourned meeting of the Common Council Monday evening, January 19, to consider among other things the election of two members of the Board of School Estimate.

Endeavor Social.

Under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, a social will be held in the Sunday-school room Tuesday evening, February 2.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

THREE BIG TRANSFERS OF LOCAL PROPERTY

Schepflin Building and White Building on Front Street Change Hands.

BARNABY HOUSE SOLD

MORRIS ABRAMS PURCHASED SCHEPFLIN BUILDING FOR $25,000.

Name of Purchaser of White Building, Occupied by Hill & Shupp, is Withheld for the Present—Barnaby Estate Traded.

During the past few days several very important real estate deals have been effected in this city, the largest deal probably being the sale of the business property on West Front street owned by Edward White, and occupied by Hill & Shupp. The property was sold to a Plainfield business man as an investment through the real estate office of Elston M. French. The name of the purchaser is withheld for the present at his request. Mr. French says positively, however, that Mr. Schloss is not the purchaser. There will be no change in the tenancy of the property.

Another important deal is the purchase of the Schepflin building on West Front street by Morris Abrams. The purchase price was $25,000, which is $13,000 less than the mortgage. Mr. Abrams will not make any changes in the building for the present.

The third deal is the exchange of the property owned, and occupied by F. A. Barnaby on Plainfield avenue, for a farm at South Branch, owned by Mr. McCutchen, who spends his winters in Plainfield. Mr. Barnaby will take up his residence in New York.

THEATRICAL.

The Whitney Opera Company is in its fifth week in the new comic military opera, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" at the New York Theatre, New York. This is one of the big musical hits of the year and is playing to packed houses. The company is a most admirable one and the best, in many respects, seen in comic opera in New York in years. While the story possesses a most interesting military dash, its main interests are humorous with a very attractive sentimental vein in three splendidly developed love stories. These parts are sung by Homer Lind, Lucille Saunders, William G. Stewart, Maurice Darcey, Maude Lambert and Zetti Kennedy, most talented artists. Julian Edwards' score is admirable and presents several numbers which have made notably great popular hits. All lovers of genuine comic opera find a most enjoyable evening's entertainment in witnessing its presentation and in listening to its remarkably attractive and musically melodies.

ENTERTAINED HER CLASS.

Mrs. D. W. Taylor Was Hostess at a Pleasant Gathering.

Mrs. D. W. Taylor, of West Seventh street, entertained her Sunday-school class of Hope chapel at her home, Saturday evening. The members derived hearty enjoyment from playing games and listening to piano and vocal solos given by Mrs. L. R. Howard. The affair terminated with the serving of refreshments at a late hour. Those who were present were the Misses Anna Thain, Belle Slorah, Laura Bangliter, Annie Harr, Mary March, Nellie Bittell, Beatrice Raymond and Mrs. John Turner.

PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE.

Twenty-Eight Members Spent an Enjoyable Evening.

Twenty-eight members of the St. Stephen Card Club held a progressive euchre at the rectory of the church, Saturday evening. The playing was brisk and spirited. The women's prizes were won by Miss Clara Davison and Mrs. W. Corieli and the men's by Walter Platt and William Beal. Following the playing, refreshments were served and a social period was enjoyed.

Suit Against City.

The case of L. M. Dunavan, the fireman, against the city of Plainfield, is set down for the February term of court. The plaintiff's lawyer, Robert M. Clark, has all of his papers ready to proceed with the case.

Operated the Stereopticon.

Charles E. Vail, of the Park avenue jeweler, assisted by his son, operated the lantern for the lecture on Japan at the Casino, Saturday evening, and their work added much to the pleasure of the affair.

Bert Heinrich Improving.

The last word received was to the effect that Bert. Heinrich is now with his mother in Arizona and that he seems to be improved in health. Percy Sandford, who was with Mr. Heinrich, is expected home this month.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.
My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys and is a pleasant laxative. This drink is made from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called "Lane's Tea" or
LANE'S FAMILY MEDICINE
All druggists or by mail 25 cts. and 50 cts. Buy it to-day. Lane's Family Medicine moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy you must have a passage of the bowels each day. Address, A. B. Lane, 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

A MILLION FOR HIS INVENTION

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

engines are there have never been any *made that could be reversed and there*fore their market value has been limited. By a simple though ingenious method the inventor reverses all the general laws governing the building of gas engines and has cast aside all precedent and has simply reversed the engine and makes the cylinder work the same as the piston usually does. In other words he takes the piston and makes it stationary and works the cylinder back and forth over the piston. Reinforced by an ingenious method of controlling the gas, compression, explosion and exhaust, he secures power at every revolution of the machine.

L. A. Riker, of the Locomobile Company of America, has arranged with the inventor to look at this machine this week with a view to testing its adaptability for automobile purposes. He will visit the residence of the inventor where he will see the engine in operation.

In speaking of his rotary engine, Mr. Taggart said that he had received a letter from Prof. Thurston, of Cornell University, the recognized steam expert in the world, in which he said that the tests which he saw of the machine, while it was in operation for a week at the Cogswell Printing Press Works where it operated the entire factory, and again at Philadelphia, where it was on exhibition, that in his opinion the machine is the only solution yet arrived at for the successful operation of a reversible rotary engine and that its possibilities are unlimited. Mr. Taggart shows the signature of Prof. Thurston and the letter to show that it is genuine.

Thirteen million dollars were given by the English Government for the turbine engine now used in the Great Britain navy. The turbines, or rotary engines are not even reversible and with the machine that Mr. Taggart has invented greater possibilities are open to its usage both on water and on land and the financial remuneration which Mr. Taggart expects to reap from his six years of study on the subject and from the result*ing machine is even greater than that.*

—The celebrated Dr. Handy prunes are guaranteed to be the best in the market. They are included in Neuman Brothers' large evaporated fruit display.

MARRIED.

TIFFANY—SCOTT—On Saturday, Jan. 10, 1903, at the Church of the Incarnation, New York, by the Rev. Henry Townsend Scudder, Elsworth Parkinson, daughter of Mrs. Mary B. Scott and the late Col. Julian Scott, to Dexter Oliver Tiffany, of this city.

DIED

SCOTT—In this city, Thursday, Jan. 8, 1903, at his late residence, 507 West Third street, Frank Scott.

KOHL—At Mt. Bethel, N. J., on Saturday, January 10, 1903, Louise L., widow of Francis Kohl, aged 56 years, 3 months and 21 days.

ROCKWELL—On Saturday, January 10, 1903, Sarah Robbins, daughter of the late Darwin F. and Lucilia Rockwell.

WANTS AND OFFERS

WANTED—Several apprentice boys to learn the machinists or moulders trade at Scott Press Works. Apply at hours 12 and 6 at office. 1840

Nasal CATARRH
In all its stages there should be cleanliness.
Ely's Cream Balm
cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.
Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS.
Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenue.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE.
Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKWELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, come to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed per year, extra commissions and expenses paid each week. Old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position. Liberal inducement to future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once,
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODDINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security

CITY HEALTH BOARD'S WORK

Summary of Annual Report of Plainfield Board of Health and Health Officer.

SOME IMPORTANT FACTS

Greatest Needs of City Are Said to be Thorough Sanitary Survey of City and Municipal Control of Collection and Disposal of Garbage—About Milk Supply.

The fourteenth annual report of the Board of Health, presented to the Common Council last Monday evening, Jan. 5, is one of the most complete yet given. The preliminary part of it contains a resume of the board's work for the year and is followed with a more detailed report by the health officer, Leon R. Thurlow. In this report it is stated that the two greatest needs of the city at present are a thorough sanitary survey of the city and a municipal control of the collection and disposal of the garbage.

The vital statistics show that the death rate last year, 16.06, was the lowest since 1899, when it was 15.25. The rate is per thousand population. Last year there were 257 deaths ranging in age from under one month to over 60 years. There were 311 births during the year, and of this number 271 were white and 40 colored; 154 were male and 157 female. The birth rate per thousand of the population of 16,000 is 19.44, and exceeds the death rate for the year by 3.38 per thousand. There were recorded during the year 134 marriages, of which 115 were white and 19 colored. This represents a rate of 8.30 per thousand. There were 192 cases of communicable disease and 57 deaths reported. Of these deaths 39 were due to tuberculosis, diphtheria, 6; scarlet fever, 6; typhoid fever, 3; small-pox, 4. The cases of tuberculosis were not reported.

That part of the report which treats of the visitation of small-pox in this city last year is familiar to everyone. Fourteen cases were reported during the year from four distinct sources. The method of the Board in the treatment of the disease met with remarkable success and this is shown by the fact that there have been no secondary cases. In all 1,650 persons vaccinated, 10.3 per cent. of the population, of which over 50 per cent. had never been vaccinated.

In detail about the small-pox cases Mr. Thurlow says:

"The method of the Board in the handling of the small pox cases has met with remarkable success. There have been no secondary cases which we feel was due to thorough isolation of the patients, the vaccination of all persons exposed, and the thorough disinfection of the infected houses and clothing.

"Free vaccination was offered to all citizens of Plainfield who could not afford to have their family physicians attend to them; the factories, department stores, and schools were all visited and free vaccination offered. This action on the part of the Board of Health called forth some criticism but later events more than justified this procedure. About 1,650 persons were vaccinated, 10.3 per cent. of the entire population of Plainfield, of which over 50 per cent. had never been vaccinated. An example of the value of vaccination is shown in the following instance.

"A case of small-pox broke out in a crowded boarding house in Plainfield. For the first three days no physician was in attendance and the seven or eight boarders, and one a child of three years who had never been vaccinated, were more or less in the sick man's room.

"As soon as the trouble was discovered, the patient was removed to our hospital, the house and all clothing thoroughly disinfected and all suspects vaccinated with one exception. Both boarder while at work, hearing the case to be one of small-pox, immediately left the city to avoid vaccination, and we were unable to locate his whereabouts.

"Not a single case of small-pox developed among the suspects in Plainfield from this exposure, but two weeks later we received information that this man who had escaped, was sick with small-pox in Allentown, Pa. This is only one of the many illustrations of the value of vaccination."

The milk supply of the city has come in for much consideration during the year by the Board and Mr. Thurlow has the following to say regarding it:

"At the present time the milk supplied in Plainfield comes from eighty-eight different dairies which lie in all directions about Plainfield, from within the city limits to a distance of thirty miles. There are about 6,000 quarts sold in the city by sixty-one retailers, forty-one of whom deliver by means of a wagon, seven deliver from house to house and sell only a few quarts, and there are thirteen stores that retail.

"At the beginning of the year a thorough systematic inspection of all dairies supplying milk in Plainfield was established. In making these inspections especial attention is paid to cleanliness of the stables, yards, cattle, and dairymen, and in the manner of handling and cooling the milk. It is important in order to produce pure milk that the cattle should be housed under clean, light, well ventilated conditions and should be fed only on good wholesome food, and that the milk should be properly cooled and stored.

"In connection with the above inspections, the milk from the different dairies is analyzed both chemically and bacteriologically. The samples are taken promiscuously and each milk is analyzed as often as possible. The purpose of the Board in making this constant supervision of the milk supply is to have the citizens of Plainfield furnished with a pure clean milk. When one considers that chemically pure milk contains all of its normal constituents such as fat, sugar, proteids, and mineral salts, and is free from any chemical preservative, and that bacteriologically pure milk contains less than 10,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter (a cubic centimeter is about 20 drops) and is absolutely free from disease germs, he will realize the Board's undertaking.

"During the past year 177 samples of milk have been analyzed. The majority of these were found to be of good quality, but some were watered, others skimmed, and one contained bacteria to the number of 2,160,000 per cubic centimeter. A record of the inspections of the dairies and the analyses of the milks is kept and is open at all times to the public in the office of the Board of Health.

"The average citizen is far too careless of this very important food product. He does not realize that milk is the most important food of children and invalids and that if improperly produced may be very harmful. Besides protecting themselves, the citizens of Plainfield would greatly aid the Board of Health if they would refuse to buy milk unless they know the conditions under which it is produced. If they cannot visit the farms they can see at the office of the Board, records of inspections and analyses.

"On the other hand they must not be too ready to blame the milkman for the carelessness of servants. As soon as possible after milk is left at the house it should be put in a cool place and properly cared for. The milk bottle should not be used for any other purpose but should be washed and returned when empty. People have complained to the milkman when the bottles they return are positively filthy.

"Bottled milk is by far the cleanest and there is less chance of its being contaminated by improper handling. The Board is urging the milkmen to use bottles and it would also urge the public to buy only bottled milk."

On the subject of water, the report states that the city supply has always been found to be most excellent, and the ice supply is also reported to be excellent and permits were granted for the sale of ice from the various ponds and hygeia ice plant.

In conclusion, Mr. Thurlow speaks of the new sanitary code as being one of the most important features of the year's work, and the Board is now able through the code to greatly improve the health and cleanliness of the city. As previously stated this report is illustrated by Mr. Thurlow, showing several dairies, the isolation hospital, equipment used in treating patients ill with contagious diseases, etc.

Little 'Phone Company.

The Lebanon Telephone Company, of Lebanon, Hunterdon county, has just been incorporated with a capital of $5,000. The company, it is said, will begin immediately the construction of a telegraph and telephone line connecting Warren, Hunterdon, Somerset and Morris counties.

Bishop to Visit Here.

Bishop Scarborough will visit St. Stephens' church, Netherwood, Sunday, January 25, and administer the rites of confirmation.

At Homes.

Mrs. W. B. Wadsworth and Miss Wadsworth, of West Eighth street, have issued cards for Thursday afternoons until April.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. L. W. Randolph.

GRAND ARMY HONORS.

Eastern Veterans Think They Should Go to Gen. Stewart, of Pennsylvania, This Year.

Pennsylvania's candidate, Adjt. Gen. Thomas J. Stewart, is considered a certainty for commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. The encampment will meet in Washington in October, and in the meantime the friends of Gen. Stewart will make an active canvass for delegates, of whom there are 1,500.

Gen. Stewart is the only aspirant for grand army honors who has been indorsed by the state encampment. In addition to that support the general has received hundreds of letters and voluntary pledges from grand army leaders and delegates. His candidacy last year was defeated by Gen. Sieverts absence from Cleveland because of illness. Eli Torrance, who was elected commander in chief, is Gen. Stewart's friend, and the same forces, it is expected, will be back of the Pennsylvanian this year.

GEN. THOMAS J. STEWART.
(Eastern Candidate for Commander in Chief of G. A. R.)

Since the organization of the grand army Gen. Stewart has been prominently identified with it. He was commander of Zook post, No. 11, of Norristown, in which town he lives. He was assistant inspector general in 1880 and assistant adjutant general to Commander in Chief Robert B. Beath in 1883, and also to Commander in Chief J. P. S. Gobin in 1897, James L. Sexton and W. C. Johnson in 1898, and Albert D. Shaw in 1899. He was Pennsylvania department commander in 1897.

During the civil war Gen. Stewart served with the One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Pennsylvania volunteers, enlisting when 16 years of age. In civil life he served as a member of the house of representatives in 1885. He was elected secretary of internal affairs in 1886, and was reelected in 1890. He was appointed adjutant general by Gov. Hastings in 1895, which post he has filled since.

QUEEN OF SOCIETY.

Beautiful Duchess of Devonshire Reigns Supreme in Great Britain's Social Sphere.

The duchess of Devonshire, who is one of the royal guests at Windsor for Ascot, is now recognized as the queen of society after royalty. If there had been any doubt of it before her supremacy received the royal cachet in the Derby week, when she was permitted to entertain the queen to dinner while the king entertained the jockey club. Her supremacy, however, was really recognized by society some time ago when she took the lead in "getting up" the present form "ladies in society" of a diamond tiara to the then princess of Wales on the occasion of her silver wedding. The duchess is very keen on politics, a skillful at bridge and devoted to music.

DUCHESS OF DEVONSHIRE.
(Recognized by Everybody as England's Social Leader.)

The duke of Devonshire, who, it is intimated in dispatches from London, will succeed Lord Salisbury as prime minister of England, has had a remarkable career. His wife is one of the most brilliant women in Great Britain, and long has been acknowledged the leader in nobiliary society.

As the marquis of Hartington the duke was Gladstone's right-hand man, but he broke away from the great leader on the question of giving home rule to Ireland, and has since been a guiding force of the liberal unionist party, which has outstripped the tories in its progress.

Englishmen Like Cocoa.

Cocoa is running a close race with tea as a beverage in England. It is on account of taxation. Tea is taxed sixpence a pound, while the tax on cocoa is only a penny a pound, and the cheapness of the latter has caused many to begin using it.

Longevity Among Royalty.

Europe has five reigning princes who are over 80 years old, and nine others who are more than 70.

IONA COUNCIL INSTALLS

NEW OFFICERS FORMALLY TAKE POSITIONS FOR THE YEAR.

At Conclusion of Ceremonies Dr. Merriam Makes Presentation of Indian Motto.

At its regular meeting, Jan. 7, Iona Council, No. 14, D. of P., installed officers as follows: Pocohontas, Miss Mamie Burke; Winona, Mrs. I. H. Roehm; prophetess, Miss Margaret Kennedy; Pocahontas, Samuel Montross; warriors, Miss Daisy Snyder, Miss Fanny Casenove, Miss Miss Mamie Clarke, Miss Margaret Willoughby; runners, Mrs. Elizabeth Willoughby, Miss Kate Cortright; councillors, Mrs. P. Finger, Mrs. Samuel Montross; inner guard, Miss Ella Sebring; outer, Mrs. Fahn. The installation ceremonies were performed by District Deputy Daisy Snyder, assisted by Mrs. Nimrod Horton and Miss Saidee Bowman.

At the conclusion of the work the council was presented with an Indian motto by Dr. Merriam, a prominent member of Wetumpkah tribe. It is framed in birch bark and bear Indian hieroglyphics supposed to have been made by the Ojibway tribe of Canada in the seventeenth century.

INSTALLED UNITY'S OFFICERS

DISTRICT DEPUTY JERE VAN WINKLE AND STAFF WERE PRESENT.

Placed Recently-Elected Officers of Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., in Their Respective Offices.

At its regular meeting Thursday Unity Lodge, No. 102, K of P., installed officers as follows: Chancellor commander, G. L. VanEmburgh; vice chancellor, J. B. W. Leonard; keeper of records and seals, Frank Putnam; master of exchequer, Samuel Hampston; master of finance, Horace Martin; master of work, John M. Hetfield; outer guard, Geo. Dean. The offices of prelate, master at arms and inner guard were not installed as the members elected were not present.

District Deputy Jerz VanWinkle was in charge of the proceedings and his staff was composed as follows: Grand vice chancellor, Asa Pope; grand prelate, T. C. Smith; master at arms, Samuel Hampston; inner guard, David Rogers; outer guard, George Badford.

Following the installation a smoker was enjoyed during which informal addresses were made by prominent members of the lodge.

HORSELESS FIRE APPARATUS

A COMBINATION HOSE WAGON AND CHEMICAL ENGINE TRIED AT NEWARK.

Chief Doane, of Plainfield Fire Department, Was Invited to Ride On It.

An automobile combination hose wagon and chemical engine is the latest thing in fire fighting paraphernalia and a trial trip of one, the only one ever given a run in any city, has been made at Newark. Invitations were sent out to many fire chiefs throughout the State to have a ride on the new apparatus and among those who received one was Chief T. O. Doane.

The chemical engine is operated by steam and was designed by the International Fire Engine Company, which owns it. It was operated by John E. McElroy, of Kearney, who has supplied numerous apparatus to the Newark department. The wagon weighs about 7,000 pounds and is built on a steel body. It holds about 1,000 feet of two-and-one-half-inch hose and its tanks hold thirty-five gallons of water and also carries 150 feet of small chemical hose. It is geared to run at any speed up to twenty miles an hour.

Its cost is $6,000. It is said it will save $300 a year on horses feed and wear and tear on the harness. It is also claimed that the machine, which is guaranteed to run for twenty years will save 10c cost in that time.

The test was a perfect success in every particular and its exhibition of hill climbing was quite wonderful. It is reported that the machines will make a tour of the State and it is possible that it will make a visit to this city.

SOCIAL EVENING.

Spent at Home of Miss Anna Thain, of North Avenue.

Miss Anna Thain, of North avenue, entertained a few of her friends last Thursday. Games were played, and a musical programme was provided which was enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served at a late hour. Among those who were present were Miss Herlick, Miss Posey, Miss Harr, Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacKinley and son, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Hoffman, Richard Higgins, Harry Kean and William Baker.

COLOSSUS OF FINANCE.

J. Pierpont Morgan Is One of Least Obtrusive of New York's Many Money Kings.

The colossus of the financial world to-day is J. Pierpont Morgan, the man whose wealth cannot be computed, but with all his mighty power financially he is not a common sort of person after all. Seen about the streets, he would attract no more than passing attention. He is not remarkable in appearance. His clothing is neither rich nor ornate and he looks as any prosperous business man might, jostling among the crowds at a ferry recently, he looked as much of the common herd as anyone and would have passed unnoticed had not some person who knew his features pronounced his name in a whisper, and this was enough to make those in hearing distance stand in awe. He stands among other millionaires like a tall pine in a stretch of hazel brush, and his power is more kingly. His every movement is watched by other financiers with an anxiety that borders on agony. He can make or break men with one word, and yet with all his strength he is not arrogant or pompous. In the recent coal strike he loomed portentously, and it is said that it was his hint to the coal operators that finally ended the strike, yet if he is able to control such men and even greater and more powerful he gives no outward sign, but goes his way quietly and unobtrusively.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN.
(Recognized the World Over as the Colossus of Finance.)

POWER IN THE WEST.

Edward C. Rosewater, Editor of the Omaha Bee, Is a Ruling Factor in Politics.

One of the brainiest and successful self-made men of the west is Mr. Edward C. Rosewater, of Omaha. Mr. Rosewater began his business career as a telegraph operator at Murfreesboro, Tenn. During the civil war he was attached to the staff of Gen. Pope for military telegraph service, and was later assigned to the war department at Washington. During this period he met President Lincoln, and the two became close friends. On January 1, 1863, Mr. Rosewater was assigned to personally transmit the original emancipation proclamation from the president to the army. He is also famous for the part he played in securing a postal telegraphic service. Several years ago, at the request of Postmaster General Wanamaker, he made a personal investigation of the postal telegraph systems of England, Germany, France and Austria, and was the sole American representative at the postal telegraph congress in 1897. He is the proprietor and founder of the Omaha Bee, one of the most powerful newspapers of the trans-Mississippi region.

EDWARD C. ROSEWATER.
(Omaha Editor Who Is Something of a Partisan Warwick.)

Forced to Take Pot Luck.

The following story is being told of A. J. Montague, the governor of Virginia. On one of his campaigns through the western counties of the state he was compelled to wait a couple of hours at a small wayside station for his train. Thinking to kill time, he sauntered across the street to a small wooden shanty which bore on its signboard the imposing legend: "Imperial Hotel. Snacks Served at All Hours." "Who are you?" he asked of a ragged negro youth leaning against the door. "Me, boss, waiterer, sah." "Well, can I get something to eat here?" "Oh, yes, boss." "Such as what?" "Sech as 'tis, sah," was the reply.

Jail News from Rock.

The county jail at Clifton, Ariz., comprises four large rooms hewn from the solid quartz rock of the hillside. The entrance is through a vestibule protected by three steel gates.

THEATRICAL.

Klaw & Erlanger are going forward with great vigor with their preparations for the presentation of the latest Drury Lane spectacle, "Mr. Blue Beard," at the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York. The opening performance will not take place Monday, evening, January 19, as previously announced, but will be given Wednesday night, January 21, affording opportunities for three full dress rehearsals before the opening night. This will be the greatest production Klaw & Erlanger have ever made, which statement means much indeed in view of the fact that they are responsible for the most elaborate theatrical achievements in the history of the American stage. The sale of tickets for "Mr. Blue Beard" will begin at the Knickerbocker Theatre Thursday morning, the 15th inst. Seats may be reserved by mail orders, accompanied by remittances, directed to Harry G. Sommers, manager Knickerbocker Theatre.

Mr. Proctor will present a new programme to his patrons at the Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York, next week. The bill will be headed by F. F. Proctor's gorgeous production of "Living Art Studies." James F. Cook and Clara Sonora have an eccentric comedy sketch to offer, entitled "Going in the Vaudeville." The attraction at Proctor's Fifth Avenue will be a revival of the famous melodrama, "Under Two Flags," a dramatization by Margaret Mayo, of Ouida's popular novel. At Proctor's One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street house, Ralph R. Lumley's brilliant comedy, "Aunt Jack," will be produced. "Around the World in Eighty Days," a dramatization of Jules Verne's most famous novel, will be given a spectacular scenic production at Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street Theatre. Proctor's Newark playhouse will have a strong bill of headliners, among whom will be Capt. Webb's marvellous performing seals; the new one-act comedy rural sketch, "Cloverdale," with a large supporingt cast; the Three Foscars, European gymnastic comedians, and fifteen other start acts. Popular prices is the prevailing feature of this handsome theatre.

Mrs. Fiske's engagement in "Mary of Magdala" at the Manhattan Theatre, New York, continues to be the most successful of a career that is a succession of artistic triumph. Paul Heyse's play has taken rank among the great offerings in the history of the theatre, and this is not only for the power and impressiveness of the story, but also for the beauty of the English translation, the magnificence of the mounting and the excellence of the interpretation. Mrs. Fiske's Mary has, if such a thing is possible, improved with repetition, and it is generally admitted that this foremost of American actresses has given no more superb portrayal than that of the Magdalen. The admirable work of the supporting company including Tyrone Power as Judas, Henry Woodruff as Flavius, M. J. Jordan as Caiaphas, Ida Hamilton as Miriam, and Rose Eytinge, Earl Brown, Max Figman, James Young and the others of the large company continues to win high favor. The storm scene continues to arouse wonder and awe, and is indeed a masterpiece of stage realism.

There is no denying the fact that New York critics have been set by the ears harder with Humorist George Ade's merry operatic satire, "The Sultan of Sulu," than with anything in the musical comedy or comic opera line seen in Broadway since the days when the Gilbert and Sullivan pieces were the rage. A composite of New York's critical judgment is to the effect that while Mr. Ade has not produced with his first effort the prettiest nor the best comic opera yet written by an American, he has given the public the wittiest one and one that promises for his future works more than has yet been claimed for previous American librettists. "The Sultan of Sulu" is undoubtedly in for a prolonged stay in New York. Manager Henry W. Savage had originally intended to follow up "The Sultan" with Mr. Ade's forthcoming piece, "Peggy from Paris," but it seems likely now that he will have to find a new Broadway home for "Peggy" or defer her visit to New York indefinitely.

Keeler's New Job.

Willie Keeler, the star baseball player on the old Crescents, of this city, has joined the new American League team to be formed in New York. He has signed a contract whereby he receives $10,000 a year for two years. It is believed that he will captain the new team.

With New Company.

A number of machinists have resigned their positions as the Potter Press Works to accept similar positions at the Frederick-Ayer Company's shop on West Front street.

Old Map.

John Fleming, of Readington, has a map of New Jersey printed before 1800. There are but thirteen counties on it.

AT REST BENEATH STARS AND STRIPES

General Eli Long's Funeral Services Were Held From His Late Home Thursday.

MANY MOURNED LOSS

CASKET COVERED WITH AN AMERICAN FLAG WHEN LOWERED INTO GRAVE.

Rev. T. L. Murphy Conducted the Impressive Episcopal Service and Read Tennyson's Last Poem "Crossing the Bar."

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea;
But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark;
For though from out our bourne of time and place,
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crost the bar.

These last lines from the pen of Tennyson read after the simple but impressive service of the Episcopal church over the remains of the late Major General Eli Long, marked the last sad rites over one who lived in the preservation of this country and who, in death as in life, was honored and revered not only by his family but by his fellow townsmen. The funeral services were held at the late residence of the deceased at 74 Grove street at 2:30 Thursday afternoon when the parlors and rooms of the house were crowded with friends.

The flag-draped casket placed in one end of the front room was opened and for half an hour before the services began there was an almost constant stream of those who passed by the casket as it lay in state to have a last look at the departed soldier. The rooms were laden with flowers. Some of them were set pieces and were very large and handsome while others were large clusters of sweet perfumed blossoms which permeated the atmosphere with their rich odors.

At 2:30, Rev. T. L. Murphy, former rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, opened the simple service of the Episcopal church. It was deeply impressive and many were moved to tears. During the service the hymn, "Lead Kindly Light" was read by the minister and just before the close of the services the last poem of Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," was read.

The interment at Hillside cemetery was private and none but the family and relatives attended the services at the grave. As the handsome black casket was being lowered into the grave the flag under which the General fought and for whose principles he bled, was placed upon it and was lowered with the remains into the last resting place. The pall bearers were Robert F. R. Huntsman, T. S. Armstrong, Robert Cook, Dr. C. R. Thiers and Charles Place, of this city, and Thomas Warman, of New York.

NEW BOOKS.

Added to Public Library During Month of December.

The following is a list of books added to the Public Library during the month of December:

Arnold, Sir E., Wandering words.
Atherton, Mrs., The conqueror.
Baldwin, J. M., ed., Dictionary of philosophy and psychology.
Birrell, A., William Hazlitt.
Boyd, A. K. H., St. Andrews and elsewhere.
Boyd, A. K. H., Twenty-five years of St. Andrew.
Briggs, C. A., and others, International critical commentary on the Old and New Testament.
Carmichael, M., Life of John William Walshe.
Darmesteter, M., Froissart.
Fiske, J., Essays historical and literary.
Gilman, and others, New international encyclopaedia.
Higginson, T. W., Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.
Hosmer, J. K., Story of the Louisiana purchase.
Lyall, Sir A., Tennyson.
Morejkowski, D., Romance of Leonardo de Vinci.
Morrison, A., Hole in the wall.
Moulton, C. W., Library of literary criticism.
Ollivant, A., Danny.
Parsons, F., City for the people.
Paul, H. W., Mathew Arnold.
Ridpath, J. C., Great races of mankind.
Scott, H. S. Vultures.
Singer, I., ed., Jewish encyclopaedia.
Stephen, C. E., Quaker strongholds.
Stubbs, C. W., Ely cathedral.
Ward, Mrs. H. D., Avery.
Whitehead, J., Passaic valley, N. J.
Wilson, W., History of the American people.

SECOND YEAR ENDS WITH BIG BANQUET

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, Celebrated Anniversary Jan. 8.

SOME STRONG SPEECHES

WHICH FOLLOWED THE SERVING OF AN EXCELLENT REPAST.

Banquet Held at the Casino—Francis J. Blatz Acted as Toastmaster —Those Who Spoke and Their Interesting Remarks.

In a manner eminently appropriate the second anniversary of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, was observed last Thursday at a banquet given in the Casino. Although the Council has only passed its second mile-stone, it is a sturdy organization and bids fair to become one of the strongest in the State. The true spirit of patriotism and love of country was exemplified to a marked degree in all the toasts and "the land of the free and the home of the brave" was referred to as the greatest country on the globe. The excellent menu, as served by "Mine Host" A. B. Rosell, divided honors with the other part of the evening's programme, the toasts, and notwithstanding that the hour was late when the speech-making began, nearly everyone remained to the last and then did not seem weary.

The dinner was served in the large hall, where 153 members and their friends, were seated at long tables. The room was attractively decorated with evergreens, with here and there a touch of red through the use of crepe paper. On the stage, there was a bank of greens, behind which Suhr's orchestra was placed. During the evening the orchestra gave one of its best programmes of popular music, adding much to the enjoyment of the affair. Every detail of the celebration was arranged and carried out with perfect precision and the committee in charge received many praiseworthy comments for its work.

Following the banquet, Grand Knight John O'Keefe made a few remarks in introducing the toastmaster of the evening, Francis J. Blatz, and the latter without any undue ceremony started the speech-making. The first speaker was Rt. Rev. John A. O'Grady, of New Brunswick, who responded to the toast, "Our Country." After reviewing briefly the various toasts, this eminent divine paid a glowing tribute to free America referring to it as the greatest Republic the sun ever shone upon, a government of the people, by the people and for the people. He added that the brotherhood of man must rest on the fatherhood of God, and that in these days of expansion it would soon be the brotherhood of nations.

Monsignor O'Grady referred to the Knights of Columbus as a loyal and devoted body of citizens. He said that the uninitiated one could have no idea of the beauty of the inside work of the organization. He impressed upon all the fact that they must be devoted citizens of a great country and faithful members of the church.

The next toast was "Catholic Progress and Its Lessons," responded to by District Deputy William A. Pendergast, of Brooklyn. This speaker characterized Catholic progress as for the betterment of mankind and while Catholics have much in this country to be thankful for, he believed that Americanism should be grateful at this progress. He said that Catholic principles stand for law and order and the church will always be as it has in the past, the upholder of the law. He paid a tribute to the free institutions of this country, thereby making it possible for all to secure the highest learning. He said that Catholicism as expounded by the church cannot represent anything else but the highest principles.

A pleasant intermission was occupied by Thomas Baker, of New York, who entertained with popular songs and some good stories. One of his songs, "Mr. Dooley," brought down the house, as he substituted the name of Chief Kiely for the original name. All joined in the chorus.

Rev. Father Andrew M. Egan, of St. Mary's church, responded eloquently to the toast, "Leo XIII," he having paid a visit to the venerable Pontiff last summer. He said that there is one universal admiration for the Pope, who is such a magnificent revelation of intellect. He spoke of his power over 250,000,000 people, directing them by his head and hand. Father Egan also referred to the Pope's love for America and his wish that she may always prosper. He hoped that the Pope would yet be spared many years.

"The Knights of Columbus from the Outside," was the toast assigned to City Judge William N. Runyon, and in a short speech, he paid rich tribute to the Knights of Columbus after saying a few words in a lighter vein he became more serious and characterized the Knights in the question "By their fruits ye shall know them." He said that Watchung Council had laid aside its swaddling clothes to don knickerbockers of sturdy boyhood. He added that with such principles as those which constitute the Knights of Columbus, the world must applaud and he hoped its greatness would be like the eternal hills. In conclusion he wished the Knights God-speed.

The last speaker on the programme was Past State Deputy James A. Berns, of East Orange, who organized Watchung Council. He is known as the "papa" of the Council, and his remarks bearing on the subject were appreciated fully. Other remarks were made by Past Supreme Knight Cone, of New York, and Brother Leahy, of Seattle, Wash., after which Mr. Baker sang several songs and related witty anecdotes. It was long after 2 o'clock when the affair came to an end and all departed singing the familiar song, "Auld Lang Syne."

Among the distinguished persons present were Past Supreme Knight J. J. Cone, of Jersey City; State Deputy Thomas Fay, of Long Branch; Past State Deputies W. Carroll Matlack, of Elizabeth; J. A. Burns, of East Orange; Rt. Rev. John A. O'Grady, of New Brunswick; Rev. Andrew M. Egan, of St. Mary's church; Rev. Father Miller, of St. Joseph's church; Rev. Wm. Smith, curate of St. Mary's church; Rev. Wm. Dietrich, of Bound Brook; State Warden T. J. McLaughlin, of Newark; District Deputies W. N. Pendergast, of Brooklyn, and Thomas White, of Perth Amboy; Grand Knight Wm. Whelan, of Elizabeth; Mayor O. L. Jenkins, Plainfield; Mayor N. Smalley, of North Plainfield; Grand Knight J. W. McCarthy, of Elizabeth; Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, Collector F. H. Smith, Chief Patrick Kiely, Councilmen R. I. Tolles, Robert L. Lee, W. S. Tyler, W. L. Glosk, Frank D. Randolph and Clarence L. Murphy, Sheriff B. Frank Cortell, Assemblyman Wm. Newcorn, City Clerk J. T. MacMurray, Chief T. O. Doane, Andrew McCardell and Postmaster E. H. Bird.

The committee having charge of the affair and to who all credit is due for the success attained, consisted of A. A. Cannon, chairman, M. J. Whalen, A. Arthur Boone, J. J. O'Keefe, Charles J. Ward, Francis J. Blatz, D. J. Galbraith and W. J. O'Keefe.

HUNTING SEASON OVER.

Snow Saved the Lives of Many Little Cotton Tails.

The local hunting season has closed and the hunter has laid aside his shot gun for a time. The hunting this season has been exceptionally good but there has been so much snow on the ground that many of the little cotton tails have been spared for another year with a whole skin which would have otherwise been punctured by the powder and ball of the relentless hunter. Beginning with January the season for hunting rabbit and quail came to a close but the hunter has several more months in which he can shoot duck, geese and other web footed fowl.

NO BAD LUCK.

Their Thirteenth Wedding Anniversary Was Happy Occasion.

The thirteenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Williams, of 117 Plainfield avenue, celebrated last Thursday, was a happy affair. The celebration was marked by a number of pleasing features, including a bountiful repast, prepared by the host and hostess. The celebrators were the recipients of many useful and handsome presents, showing the esteem in which they are held by their friends. Among those presents were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Shotwell, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Shotwell, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hoagland and son, Mr. and Mrs. MacKillop, William MacKillop, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Williams, Harold Williams and Miss Abbie VanOleef.

Change of Titles.

J. M. Siefel, formerly assistant train master of the New Jersey division of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, has had the title of his position changed to that of crew dispatcher and assistant general yardmaster of New Jersey and Lehigh divisions, with offices at Easton.

Big Contract for Locomotives.

The latest order placed by the Pennsylvania Railroad for equipment is for sixty-five locomotives, especially designed for the southwest system's freight traffic. This makes the outstanding contracts for engines for that road the large number of 250, of which not one has yet been delivered.

The crowned heads of every nation,
The rich men, poor men and misers
All join in paying tribute to DeWitt's Little Early Risers.

H. Williams, San Antonio, Tex., writes: Little Early Riser Pills are the best I ever used in my family. I unhesitatingly recommend them to everybody. They cure Constipation, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Torpid Liver, Jaundice, malaria and all other liver troubles. L. W. Randolph.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 15—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic—Endeavorers in training for Church work.—Acts ii. 17, 21; Prov. ii, 1-5; Mark i, 16-20.

"For Christ and the church" is the motto of the Christian Endeavor society. Its purpose has ever been not simply to lead the young to Christ, but to train them for service in His church. Christian Endeavor has ever claimed to be a means and not an end, and perhaps if more practical emphasis had been placed upon this fact Christian Endeavor would be stronger today in its old centers than it is. In many cases, instead of graduating its members into church work and taking up a new band to train, the early members have continued to do the work and hold the offices, with the result that as they did for one reason or another drop out no one remained to take up their labor. One may always remain an Endeavorer at heart, but not always in activity in the society if it is to be a young people's society and to develop the young for the church.

The training of the young for the important work and responsible positions in the church of Christ on earth is a most praiseworthy mission.

1. It is possible. The essential element in the performance of Christian work is the possession of the Holy Spirit. Spiritual work must be under the direction of the Holy Spirit. The possession of the spirit for service is possible to the young. "And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of My Spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions." First on the list to receive the Holy Ghost were the young—the young men and also the young women. It is therefore possible for them to engage in real spiritual work and by constant practice to be developed into more profitable servants of God.

2. It is Scriptural. God trained men in their youth for great missions in after years. He trained Joseph and Moses in Egypt, Samuel in the temple and Josiah in the royal palace. Christ also called men into a training school for future service. For three years He trained the apostles for the great mission or preaching the gospel to the whole world. Paul selected young men—Mark, Timothy and Titus—and developed them into workmen that needed not to be ashamed. And not only do the clergy need to be trained for their work, but also the laity. We live in a day of consecrated lay workers, and that their labors may be blessed to success these workmen need to be trained while young for their service.

3. It is practicable. Youth is the training time. The mind is plastic and may be easily molded. Habits of work have not become fixed habits and may be changed and directed. Proficiency in any vocation in life can only be attained by careful training in youth. Any instance to the contrary is the exception and not the rule. How important, then, that in the days of one's youth we should not only be taught to remember God and to consecrate our lives to Him, but also trained for His service! The youth of today must be the men and the women of tomorrow, and if enabled to do the work of men and women they must be trained for it. The Christian Endeavor society can perform a grand mission in training Endeavorers for future church work. This is its supreme purpose, and every effort should be made to effect this purpose.

BIBLE READINGS.

I Sam. iii, 10-21; Prov. xxii, 6; Eccl. xii, 1; Luke ii, 40-52; Acts xii, 12, 25; Rom. xii, 1, 2; I Cor. xv, 58; Gal. vi. 1-10; II Tim. ii, 19-26; I John ii, 14.

Echoes From Elliott.

The consecration meeting is as old as the Bible.

Happy the man whose hands are just full of service.

Some people work harder to escape work than they would work if they did work.

It's the "overflow" of your life that will make you a blessing.

We must "fill up" on something. Some people try to put in a little religion and a good deal of the world, and it makes very bad filling.

Many Christians are spiritually "balky."

We may consecrate ourselves and yet withhold our service, and we may render a deal of so called "service" and yet withhold ourselves.

God wants an offered service, a willing service, a service not to men, to the pastor, the church, the society, but a service unto the Lord.—Rev. Dr. *John R. Elliott in a New York Con*vention Address.

Paragraphs From "Farmer John."

"Next to an out and out bad man the devil dotes on the man who is of no particular use to the world."

"It pays better to endeavor to become what you ain't than to try to fool people into thinkin' you're it."

"A man can't be a good Christian very long by just sittin' around an' watchin' others work at it."

Quiz Box.

[Any question may be asked that pertains to the power of Christian Endeavor work. Address Lock Box 64, Binghamton, N. Y.]

27. A. H. G., New Jersey.—Mr. Robert A. Ashbets of your own state union answers your question thus: "Missionary libraries are found now in all up to date societies. They have proved a wonderful benediction when pushed by a good live missionary committee. The Student Volunteer library of sixteen volumes and the Conquest library of ten volumes are both excellent, and will do very well to start with."

28. C. K., Connecticut.—Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman was at one time vice pre*sident of the New York state union.*

LOCAL MEDICAL MEN GATHER AT BANQUET

Quarterly Dinner of Plainfield Medical Association Held at Hotel Rosell.

INFORMAL DISCUSSION

FIFTEEN LOCAL PHYSICIANS SAT DOWN TO THE BANQUET TABLE.

Discussed The New Sanitary Code and Cases of Interest in The Local Circle—Talked of Doctor Lorenz.

Medical men in this city enjoyed their quarterly banquet at the Hotel Rosell Jan. 7, when there were fifteen present. The banquet was given by the Plainfield Medical Association and was a very pleasant affair. Those who sat down to the repast were: Dr. J. T. Fritts, Dr. J. H. Carman, Dr. O. L. Jenkins, Dr. F. C. Ard, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, Dr. M. L. Clawson, Dr. W. Kempton Browning, Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, Dr. Albert Pittis, Dr. N. W. Harris, Dr. A. F. VanHorn, Dr. C. B. Lafbarrow, Dr. J. B. Probasco and Dr. P. B. Oregar.

After the dinner was over an informal discussion of the different cases of interest to the medical fraternity was held during which cases of measles, small-pox, pneumonia and tuberculosis were touched upon. Some of the new Board of Health code was also discussed and its merits weighed.

Pictures of the famous surgeon, Dr. Lorenz, at work in a Philadelphia hospital, showing the various methods of procedure in treating a patient was passed around and a lengthy discussion followed on his manner of treating disease. The banqueters re*tired from the hall at midnight.*

ORACLE OUT.

Second Number of City High School Publication Has Made Its Appearance.

The City High School publication, the Oracle, has made its second appearance and, as the first issue, it is bright and newsy from cover to cover. The leading editorial is on "Resolutions" and is very cleverly written. In the second editorial attention is called to the need of a cheering song which presents an excellent opportunity for some clever student to supply the demand and thus make his or her name immortal in the school annals.

"The Day After," is the title of a college love story by Miss Lillian Snodgrass, '05. Under the head of general reports is an able review of the recent senior play and also of the Christmas exercises. The Alumni Notes are unusually interesting to the graduate and the School Notes are bright and very clever. The second issue of the paper is very well edited and is a credit to the editors and to the staff of reporters.

TWO VALUABLE VOLUMES.

Received at Public Library Through Courtesy of Hugh Hastings.

Through the courtesy of Hugh Hastings, State historian of New York, the Public Library has received the two volumes recently published of the Ecclesiastical records of the State of New York.

This is a work of great value, including as it does, early documents showing the work of the Jesuit missions among the Indians, and documentary history of the Church of England in New York, but it is especially valuable for the great number of documents on the history of the Dutch Reformed Church in the State of New York. To all interested in the religious history of New York, the work will be of great value. It is likely also to be much consulted by the descendants of old Dutch families.

Break Will Not Knit.

J. D. Loiseaux, of East Second street, who fractured his leg sometime ago, and who recently went to New York to have an operation performed in the hope that the break would knit, has returned home. The physicians learned that the knitting process would not follow and Mr. Loiseaux will have to continue in the present condition or else have the lower portion of the leg taken off. He has decided to have nothing more done for the present.

Lecture on Japan.

The lecture to be given at the Casino Saturday evening by J. Dunbar Wright for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital, will be one of great interest to all. It will illustrate Japan in many interesting phases. These pictures were taken by Mr. Wright himself, and therefore have a special value. This lecture will afford an excellent opportunity for Plainfielders to have a pleasant evening and at the same time assist a worthy cause.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 15, "A Message From His Word."

Text, Jos. xv, 16; John xv, 7; Acts xx, 32.

A bank check payable to your order may be given you for a sum sufficient to meet all your needs and provide luxuries such as you have long wished, but if it is written in a strange language and you do not understand its signs or meaning it is valueless to you. You are still in poverty and wretchedness while the means of procuring wealth is in your hand.

God's word, the expression of God's thought, His feeling and will toward you are given you. He offers; He promises. How slightly has His message impressed most of us!

The offer, "Ask whatsoever ye will, and it shall be done unto you."

The condition, "If ye abide in Me and my words abide in you."

It matters not how great the amount of electrical power generated and stored, unless there is some way of applying it to the car wheels the car is motionless. There must be a good conductor used for feed wire. No matter how good a motor and feed wire the car may have, unless there is power generated and transmitted the car will not move.

The only motive power to goodness and blessedness this world now knows or ever has known is the God Spirit. So far as men have been united to that power they have been happy and powerful for good. However we lack goodness and blessedness, that lack is the cause of defective connection with God.

How few are conscious of the love, faith, patience, meekness, hope and joy which the Christian life is capable of affording them—some power, but more of weakness; sometimes of joy, but more of depression; some resistance of evil, but more of yielding to it; some faith, but more of doubt; some hope, but more of fear; some love, but more of indifference or dislike; some doing of duty, but more of inactivity—all this because the divine thought has never been received nor the divine joy been felt. The word has not been heard by the inner soul depths. The soul in us has not known the divine voice speaking. He has not communicated Himself to us.

But what a change when we do hear the voice of the Son of God and His word abides in us! What lucidness of knowledge! How the truth holds us as magnets hold steel! What tides of power and joy thrill through the being as pulsations of electric energy throb along the wires!

"Thy words were found, and I did eat them, and Thy words were unto me a joy and rejoicing of my heart."

He says, "Abide in Me."

The Father's Hand.

Nor is the sense of safety all that is awakened in the memory by a father's hand. It tells also of guidance and companionship. Not only in stormy evenings was the large hand reached down to clasp the small one, but memory is filled with pleasant outings and beauties of the country, always guided by the father's hand. The hand of father came to mean so much, both of pleasure and comfort, that the child can never seem or used but a sacred tenderness steals into the heart. All this and much more the Heavenly Father is to His children. We reserve our thoughts of the Father too frequently to the days of sorrow and grief and forget that it is the Father who gives the joys and pleasures too. We think so much of the pitying Father and imagine falsely that His care is confined to circumstances that call for pity. His hand is a bountiful hand, filled with pleasures. "The way is dark; my Father, take my hand," is often upon our lips, but just as true and far more fre*quently the path has many flowers all* planted by one hand. life has its gifts all given by one hand, the days are crowded with joys all showered from one hand, and this hand is "my Father's hand."—Episcopal Recorder.

Requires Constant Attention.

It is not with Christians that they can be made once for all and left to grow as they may. Christianity requires constant attention. Christians need to be warned and reminded and spoken to every day. There are works which, once done, are done forever, but Christianity is not one of them. We have to watch until the end. Our very last action may be an action of resistance.—Joseph Parker, D. D.

Trusting the Supreme Ruler.

Many times in history sudden and unexpected events have changed the fate of nations. We can only wait and *pray and do our part to uphold right*eousness, to plead for freedom from human tyranny and to extend the knowledge of the truth. Then we can trust the Supreme Ruler to guard His own and to carry His purposes to final triumph.—Congregationalist.

Kindness.

I wonder why it is that we are not all kinder than we are. How much the world needs it! How easily it is done! How instantaneously it acts! How infallibly it is remembered! How superabundantly it pays itself back!—Henry Drummond.

Truth.

Truth is always a constant factor. The grass may wither and the flower fall from its stem, but God's word remains the same.—Presbyterian Journal.

Secret Devotion.

Secret devotion is the very essence, evidence and barometer of vital and experimental religion.—Spurgeon.

For the Future.

Live in the present that you may be ready for the future.—Reformed Church Messenger.

AFTER THE GAS COMPANY

CITY AND BOROUGH HEALTH BOARDS WANTED NUISANCE STOPPED.

Found That the Sludge Was Being Emptied Into Brook Until Afterations Could be Made.

Acting upon numerous complaints received from residents on both sides of Green brook, Dr. W. E. Honeyman, of the Borough Board of Health, learned recently that the Plainfield Gas Company was responsible for an oily substance with a disagreeable odor finding its way into the stream.

For some time lately, the company has been using petroleum instead of naptha in the formation of its illuminating product and the waste has been temporarily let into the old North avenue sewer, the large tanks on the ground proving inadequate. From the sewer it emptied into the brook with the result that much annoyance was caused.

Dr. Honeyman communicated with Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, of the City Board of Health, and Superintendent Brokaw, the works, was notified. He has promised that the trouble will be abated as soon as the storage tanks can be made ready.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MARTIN.

Services Were Held at the Home on Manson Place January 6.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. James B. Martin were held January 6 from her late residence on Manson place. The attendance was very large.

Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel, was in charge and was assisted by Rev. John McMurray, of the Monroe Avenue church. During the service two solos, "Abide With Me" and "Nearer My Home," were sung by E. E. Runyon. The floral tributes were numerous and large.

Those who acted as pall bearers were Robert Slorah, Louis Nelson, Donald McInnis and J. Fred Wharton. Interment was in the family plot in Evergreen cemetery.

LAID TO REST.

Funeral of General Eli Long Was Held Thursday Afternoon.

The funeral of the late Major General Eli Long, who passed away, Monday, at the Presbyterian Hospital in New York, took place Thursday afternoon from his late residence, 74 Grove street, where Rev. T. L. Murphy, formerly rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, officiated. The services were very impressive both at the house and as Hillside cemetery, where the interment was made.

The pall-bearers who bore the distinguished solider to his last resting place were Robert F. R. Huntsman, T. S. Armstrong, Robert Cook, Dr. C. R. Thiers and Charles Place, of this city, and Thomas Warman, of New York.

ORGAN RECITAL.

Plans Being Made for Another at Grace M. E. Church.

Plans are maturing for another organ recital to be held at the Grace M. E. church Tuesday evening, January 20, when Norman Landis, organist at the First Presbyterian church at Flemington, will preside at the organ. Raymond A. McGee will assist at the recital and will render several bass solos. The recital will be under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church and will be for the benefit of the church fund. No admission will be charged but a silver offering will be taken.

WANT WILL CONSTRUED.

Thos. E. McDonald, of This City, is One of the Interested Parties.

Thomas E. McDonald, of this city, and Richard McDonald, of New Brunswick, through their counsel, Former Senator James H. VanCleef, have instituted a suit in the Court of Chancery, for the purpose of having that court construe the will of the late Abbie A. Eastburn, of New Brunswick. There is a considerable amount of property left the beneficiaries of the will but it can not be divided until some of the real estate is sold so as to allow the property to be equally shared by all.

Yardmaster Appointed Postmaster.

James Eagan, a conductor on the New Jersey division of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, who recently resigned this position to accept a place as yardmaster of the Louisville and Nashville at Anniston, Ala., has been appointed postmaster of the city at a salary of $2,000 per year.

Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is an old friend in a new form. It is prepared for the particular benefit of sufferers from nasal catarrh who are used to an atomizer in spraying the diseased membranes. All the healing and soothing properites of Cream Balm are retained in the new preparation. It does not dry up the secretions. Price, including spraying tube, 75 cents. At your druggist's or Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York, will mail it.

HOW DRUM'S TAVERN BECAME VERY FAMOUS

In Absence of Proprietor, it Was Conducted on Rather Unusual Lines.

HOSPITALITY FOR ALL

WAS A SUDDEN CHANGE OF CONTROL, BUT THAT DIDN'T AFFECT POLICY.

Martin Murphy Was Left in Charge, But Earl Sanders Thought He Could Run the Place Better—Brewing Co. Finally Closed It.

Drum's tavern at Berkeley Heights is closed. Its proprietor is in jail at Elizabeth for failing to comply with the directions of the court. Between the time of Drum's departure and the closing of his establishment a week intervened and the happenings of that week have supplied the gossips of Berkeley Heights with material enough to keep them going all winter. Altogether it mfght be said to have been one of the most eventful weeks since the Passaic broke loose from its banks.

Terence Drum and his wife failed to agree last spring so they separated and the courts instructed him to pay her an allowance every week for her support. It wasn't long ago that he fell behind in his payments and so the constable came and carried him away until he should furnish bonds for the regular payment of that allowance. Even if the payments grew slack the thirst of the community did not and so Drum arranged that Martin Murphy, of Summit, should look after it in his absence.

Acoording to rumor, Murphy proved a truly delightful host. Those who had money were royally entertained at their own expense and those who were less fortunate financially were, it is said, looked after just the same. Drum's tavern was high in popular favor when Earl Sanders, of Myersville, wandered in. Just what the trouble started over, no one seems to be able to say but Sanders, so the story goes, was not pleased with Murphy's stewardship and evicted him without waiting for due process of law. Sanders then assumed the role of host and Drum's tavern became even more popular than before.

Everybody was happy, except the dethroned Murphy and the proprietor in jail, until Saturday morning when the representatives of the Rising Sun Brewing Company, which had a claim on the place, put in an appearance. Then it was Sanders' turn to relinquish the helm and with his departure the famous hospitality of Drum's tavern came to an end. The brewing company's representatives closed up the road house and departed. The story of that famous week still remains, however, and the convivial spirits of that vicinity still talk over what a great time they had during the respective reigns of Martin and Earl.

PAID IT BACK.

Stole From Sunday-School Years Ago and It Troubled Him.

The clerk of the First Baptist church, Somerville, has received a letter from Rev. H. H. Barber, of Columbus, O., accompanied by $25, with the request that it be given to the Sunday-school of the church. The writer of the letter to Mr. Barber said that he appropriated $1.50 from the Raritan Baptist Sunday-school when he was a boy and he had had a troubled conscience over the theft for more than twenty-five years. At that time the Raritan Baptist Sunday-school was a branch of the Somerville Baptist church and was disbanded a quarter of century ago. The money will be placed in the treasury of the Sunday-school, as requested.

Mrs. Howe in "Boston Days."

In Lilian Whiting's "Boston Days" among the galaxy of brilliant men and women who have made the famous metropolis "The City of Beautiful Ideals", Julia Ward Howe is a notable personage. Her picture is copied from an early photograph. Of these eminent men and women, whose story is briefly told, there are but few survivors, of whom Julia Ward Howe is one. Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of Madison avenue, the daughter of Mrs. Howe, must read the tributes paid her mother with mingled pride and pleasure.

Going to a Conference.

Dr. and Mrs. H. K. Carroll, of Westervelt avenue, will leave Monday, January 19, for Florida. Dr. Carroll goes to attend an important conference of the Methodist church. The trip will combine business and pleasure.

Mrs. Fisk's Teas.

The first of a series of teas to be given Thursdays in January by Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, at her New York home, will be given this afternoon. A number of Plainfield women are expected to attend.

FRIDAY NIGHT CLUB HELD FIRST MEETING

An Informal Organization of Society Folk Met at the Casino Last Friday

SPENT TIME AT GAMES

CHIEF ATTRACTION OF THE EVENING WAS A PING-PONG TOURNAMENT.

Room of Casino Was Devoted to Badminton—Then There Was Bowling, Pool and Billiards in the Lower Rooms.

The Casino presented an animated appearance last Friday when the first meeting of the Friday Night Club was held there. Over 180 people were present and spent the evening in informal social intercourse. The plan for a Friday evening social club has apparently sprung into popular favor here as is evidenced by the large number of people who were present last evening and the rapidity in which they entered into the spirit of the occasion.

The main dance hall was transformed from a ball room to a badminton court where men and women enjoyed in the exhilerating English game. There were three courts arranged in a line lengthwise through the center of the room, and on each side of a net raised on two posts seven feet high in the center of each court, which is marked off very much like a tennis court, two players were stationed and endeavored to keep a feathered shuttle cock flying back and forth by means of two racquets. The game is comparatively new in this city but it promises to become quite as popular as ping pong.

This room was very tastefully decorated with greens and red flowers and all the electric lights in the hall were covered with red which cast a soft light on the players.

Down stairs, bowling and other games including pool, billiards and cards were enjoyed by both the men and the women. Some very good scores were made on the alleys and when the bowling tournament begins some very clever playing is anticipated. On the pool and billiard tables the playing was very good and it is planned to hold some tournaments in these games also.

In the reception room on the main floor a ping pong tournament was started. This proved to be the center of attraction as very handsome cups were offered as prizes by the committee.

In the ping pong tournament there are fifty entries for the women and fifty for the men. The men's tournament was not played off last evening but Miss Elsie Goddard took the lead in the first games in the women's tournament. The tournament will be continued next Friday evening.

Whist, euchre and other card games were also enjoyed during the evening.

The committee, which had the arrangement last night in charge, was Mrs. Daniel Ginna, Miss Maude Van Buskerck, Miss Huntington, Miss Gilbert, Thomas R. VanBoskerck, Evarts Tracy and G. Herbert Taylor, treasurer.

The meetings will be continued until the last week in March when, if it is the desire of the members of the club to continue the meetings longer, they will be held during the summer. The committee was very gratified at the large attendance at the first meeting of the club.

NEAF APGAR FIFTH.

Stands High in Review of Year's Trap Shooting.

In the last issue of the Sporting Life there is a year's review of the work at trap shooting and it is of interest to Plainfielders because Neaf Apgar, of this city, a representative of the Peters Cartridge Company, is fifth in the long list for the average number of wins. He has 125 points in the one day average wins and 169 for the general average wins. These scores are computed from the flying target events of the season. The list this year comprises nearly 750 men. This shows that over 400 more men shot well enough to win an average in 1902 than the previous year.

T. A. B. Dance.

The members of the T. A. B. Society are planning to give a ball Monday evening, February 23.

Lion Coffee

Every pound of LION COFFEE has just the same strength and flavor. You can't rely on coffee sold in bulk. The air-tight, sealed package keeps LION COFFEE fresh and pure.

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Dr. SAMUEL PITCHER

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. NEW YORK.

At 6 months old 35 DOSES – 35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

PARKS BURIED OPPONENTS

DEFEATED Y. M. C. A. BOWLERS IN THREE GAMES.

The Park Club Team Increased Its Lead in Every Game and Won Easily.

The Park Club bowling team of five members, entertained the Y. M. C. A. team on the club alleys, last Friday. In each game the visitors lost by an increased number of pins.

In the first game both rolled poorly, the individual scores being very ordinary. The visitors lost the game by 101 pins. In the second game the home team began to show its real strength and won with 196 pins to spare. In the third game the Parks rolled in the old-time form and Dr. Thiers brought the total up to a high mark by making a double header. This game was won by the Parks with 249 pins to spare.

A return game on the Y. M. C. A. alleys has been scheduled for Friday evening, February 6, when it is hoped that the Y. M. C. A. team will make a better showing. The scores of last evening's games follow:

	PARKS.
	1st	2d	3d
F. O. Ball	151	102	138
W. A. Townsend	157	165	127
Arthur Peck	113	—	—
W. R. Faber	—	176	169
Ralph Willis	134	154	161
Dr. Thiers	166	139	193
	722	736	788
	Y. M. C. A.
	128	2d	3d
Line	109	131	102
Dersam	146	—	—
Koons	—	123	107
Hummer	135	117	101
Kirch	95	—	116
Gerver	106	94	—
Mundy	—	96	—
Heywood	—	—	112
	611	561	539

ICY PLUNGE.

Harry J. Kingsley, of East Fifth Street, Narrowly Escaped Drowning in Tier's Pond Saturday.

Harry J. Kingsley, of East Fifth street, an employe of the Scott Press Works, accompanied by several friends, went to Tier's pond Saturday afternoon to enjoy the skating. He determined to pass under the Sand ford avenue bridge to the other side of that thoroughfare when the ice gave way and in a twinkling he was submerged up to his waist and was struggling in the water in an endeavor to keep himself from falling through all together.

By rare presence of mind he managed to throw his weight upon the ice as he fell and with the assistance of a number of bystanders he was able to crawl out none the worse for his wetting.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

RAISED WETUMPKAH'S CHIEFS

ELECTION AND INSTALLATION TOOK PLACE AT MEETING OF LOCAL TRIBE.

Deputy Great Sachem Humphrey and Staff Were Present at the Ceremonies.

The election of officers and the raising up of newly-elected chiefs occupied the attention of the members of Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, I. O. R. M., at their meeting on Park avenue last Thursday. There was a very full attendance and after the business of the evening had been transacted an informal smoker was held.

These are the new officers which were installed last evening: Prophet, Dr. A. R. Dundon; sachem, Frederick H. Fiedbrock; senior sagamore, Michael Armstrong; junior sagamore, John Clark; chief of records, E. F. Dorman; collector of wampum, W. A. Westphal; keeper of wampum, M. Leichtentritt; trustee, F. J. Blatz; representative of the Great Council, Harry H. Coddington; alternate, W. A. Westphal; first sannap, R. E. Humphrey; second sannap, O. A. Campbell; first warrior, R. D. Scott; second warrior, T. P. Kolb; third warrior, Z. P. Foster; guard of the wigwam, J. F. Moran; guard of the forest, William Neal.

The installing was done by Deputy Great Sachem R. A. Humphrey and staff, from Minntonomo Tribe.

Miss Bertha Keller, of the borough, is confined to her home by illness.

Dear Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, dizziness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Kodol

DIGESTS WHAT YOU EAT

Gives Health to the Sick and Strength to the Weak.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

Prepared by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

L. W. RANDOLPH.

UNIQUE INDIAN CURE

It Includes a Fiddle, Whisky, Frogs and Magic Passes.

To This Combination the Typhoid Fever Devil Is Sure to Succumb, According to the Siemse Tradition.

The Presque Isle (Me.) correspondent of the New York Sun reports that four weeks ago old Sandy Niccut, the great medicine man of the Micmac Indians, was stricken in his tent just outside the village unconscious, and suffering from a malady, which the local doctor said was typhoid fever. He was taken to a house where he revived enough to tell his attendants that he would die unless Eli LeClare, a French-Canadian musician who lived at Miramichi, was sent for.

A telegram was therefore sent to LeClare, asking him to come and bring his fiddle. Two days later, the wrinkled Frenchman and his battered fiddle reached Presque Isle.

The medicine man was unconscious when Eli entered the sickroom. The musician screwed up his instrument, twanged the strings for a moment and began to play in a minor key, the low notes rolling off from his bow like shavings under the stroke of a plane.

The sick man was tossing in a delirious fever when Eli started to play, but as the music continued, he became more quiet, his respiration was less labored, and at the end of an hour, he was sleeping quietly and perspiring.

"Heem bin geet well now," cried the fiddler. "Ah'm bin sear' out ze fever devil, so Sandy heem bin sleep."

He sent for a pint of whisky, and having drunk more than one-half of it, he mixed the remainder with cold water and began to bathe the body of his friend, chanting an Indian lullaby while he worked, and making passes, such as are practiced by magicians when they try to exorcise evil spirits.

The patient rested well that night. When he grew feverish Eli rubbed his bow across the catgut and reduced the temperature of his friend. For three weeks the French-Canadian watched by the bed of the sick Indian, doing himself with whisky and bathing the patient in whisky and water every hour.

BEGAN TO PLAY THE FIDDLE.

The doctor, certain that the Indian would die, paid little heed to the case beyond calling once a day to take the temperature of the sick man. The fever ran its course, and on the twenty-first day, when it turned, Eli went out for half an hour, coming back with six large bullfrogs, which he placed upon the sick man's body, three on each side.

After this he resumed his playing and did not stop sweeping the bow across the sounding strings until Sandy had broken out in perspiration and was sleeping easily.

"Now geev heem one quart of cols milk," ordered the musician, "an' heem bin geet well."

When Sandy had taken the milk as ordered and had slept for a few hours, those about his bed. He felt the cold frogs against his skin and asked to have them removed. Eli turned back the sheet and took from the bed six swollen and discolored frogs, all of them dead.

"Fever devil beem go in ze frogs an' mak' ze frogs die," said Eli. "Now Sandy heem geet well pretty kveek."

Delivering himself of his diagnosis of the case, the musician took his fiddle from the table, put on his furs and walked down to the railroad station, where he purchased a ticket for Miramichi.

Died of a Strange Disease.

Rudolph Fliedner, of New Brunswick, N. J., is dead, after a lingering illness from a rare disease of the skin known to scientists as pemphigus vulgarus. No other case of the disease has ever been known in the United States. It is asserted. Fliedner's skin became as if scalded, and his nurse had to swathe his entire body in cotton. Mr. Fliedner first became ill in May. Specialists were called who studied the case with great interest, but could do nothing to relieve him, and he died from exhaustion. He was 44 years old, and, starting as a laborer, had built up a large business.

Speed of the Gulf Stream.

The gulf stream flows at the rate of about two and a half miles an hour. Five miles is exceeded in some places, and the rate varies much with conditions of weather and tide.

Dwarfs Tougher Than Giants.

As a rule dwarfs live much longer than giants. The latter usually have weak constitutions, their blood circulation is sluggish, and they have brittle bones.

MARCONI IS BEATEN.

American Inventor Puts Italian's Device in the Shade.

Can Transmit 82 Words a Minute to Two Wires — Atmosphere Will Not Affect the Work of the New Instruments.

Wireless telegraphy has been taken out of the realm of theory and experiment and made a profitable commercial possibility by the invention of Dr. Lee De Forest, an American inventor and a graduate of Yale. He has perfected the De Forest receiver, or "responder," which consists of a small glass tube, open at both ends and holding in its bore two small wires. Between the ends of this is placed a small bit of special paste which ordinarily offers a passage for the local current. When the electrical wave from the sending machine traverses the responder on its way from the upright wire to the ground it increases the resistance of this device, but its conductivity is automatically restored the instant the electrical wave has passed.

A telephone receiver in circuit with the responder will give a sound which is an exact reproduction of the sound of the sending spark, from which emanates the electrical waves.

No relay or tapping-back device is required, as is the case with Marconi's detector, the simplicity and the great speed of transmission possible with the De Forest system.

During the last week two operators of the De Forest Wireless Telegraph company accomplished a feat which, while new in the annals of wireless telegraphy, is only significant of the possibilities before the responder or automatic receiver in combination with the telephone.

At the station of the De Forest company at 17 State street, New York, two messages were received and read simultaneously by the two operators listening at two separate telephone receivers attached to one and the same De Forest responder, and without any especial attuning or syntoning device in circuit. One message was from the De Forest Staten Island station and was sent quite rapidly, 82 words per minute, with a high-frequency spark (120 per second). The other was from some foreign station, evidently a Marconi installation. The speed was about ten words per minute, sent with a low-frequency interrupter. One operator concentrated his attention upon the Staten Island message while the other was able to pick out by their peculiar drumming sound the signals from the other station.

DR. LEE DE FOREST.
(Inventor Who Has Just Improved the Wireless Telegraph.)

The fact that without any tuning device this can be accomplished with one and the same responder demonstrates the advantages of the telephone receiver over any sounder or tape-recording device, and the greater immunity of the De Forest system from atmospheric and foreign disturbances.

So far as has been published two simultaneous messages is the record to-day for any tuned or syntonized system in its present development, and it is interesting to know that, with two styles of interrupter and sending speed sufficiently diversified, the same can be accomplished by the human ear listinening in a telephone connected with a De Forest responder.

Last week also the De Forest operators established a record as to speed in its wireless transmission. A commercial message 48 words in length was transmitted and successfully read at the rate of 52 words per minute. This by far the fastest speed yet attained by the wireless telegraph, being five times as rapid as is ordinarily attained by the coherer system, such as Marconi commonly uses, which only has a speed of ten or twelve words a minute.

The United States army has adopted the De Forest system to take the place of the cable system of communication between Forts Wadsworth and Hancock, New York harbor. The signal service of the United States government has purchased a De Forest apparatus to place on a war vessel in the fal maneuvres off Sandy Hook.

Freeze Their Winter Milk

Cows are scarce in Labrador, because it is extremely difficult to keep them in the extremely cold weather. The natives procure their milk for the winter and then kill their cows. The milk is kept in barrels, where it freezes and never turns sour throughout the entire season. When one wishes to use any milk he has simply to go to the barrel and cut out a slice.

CHILDREN TO REMAIN WITH THEIR MOTHER

Vice Chancellor Emery Announced His Decision in the Carson Case.

HIS PETITION DENIED

FATHER SECURED WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS TO SECURE POSSESSION.

Vice Chancellor Could See No Reason Why Children Should be Deprived of Mother's Care—Quarrel Was Between Parents.

Vice Chancellor Emery last Saturday decided that the children of James H. Carson and Sadie E. Carson, over which much litigation has lately arisen, shall be awarded to Mrs. Carson. On their separation on April 7, 1901, Mrs. Carson took the three children, three, five and eight years old respectively, and has since held them against the demands of her husband. Mr. Carson through his counsel, Winfield S. Angleman, took out a writ of habeas corpus with which to reclaim the children, but after a long contest the prayer of the petition, on which the writ was issued, is denied.

The vice chancellor in giving his decision, says among other things: "Considering the welfare and happiness of the children as the object to be secured by the decree or order in this case, I reach the conclusion upon all the evidence, that the custody of the children should for the present be awarded to the mother. Petitioner's counsel claims that the wife was guilty of misconduct in leaving her home with the children, and that therefore under the statute of 1903, he is entitled to the custody of the children as his common law right. To this claim there are two answers.

"First—the welfare of the children is the object of the statute, and the provision as to misconduct of either party was intended to give a preference to the innocent party, and to impose upon the party charged with or found guilty of misconduct under the statute the burden of overcoming this preference and showing that notwithstanding the misconduct and the inequality of rights, still the welfare of the children requires an award of the custody to the party guilty.

"Second—the character of the mis*conduct charged in this case is not* such as to affect the mother's love and affection for her children, but arises entirely from differences between the husband and wife, as to which each may be in some fault. I do not now decide this point as it is not necessary.

"In the present case, the weight of evidence shows that the wife left the house because she was ordered out by her husband, and that if it should be considered that her apprehensions as to her safety in living with her husband are not well founded or are exaggerated, the husband has made no effort to secure her return, nor does he now ask or seem to desire it. Her remaining away, under the circumstances, cannot be considered as such 'misconduct' as to deprive her of the custody of her children where it is best for the welfare. They are still of tender years and need a mother's care and oversight. The petitioner could keep himself in a position to care for them, as he is engaged from home in his daily work, which he pursues industriously.

"No suggestion has been made as to how he proposes to supply the mother's care and attention which his children need, and I think I should be taking a great risk with the happiness and welfare of these children if I deprived their mother of their custody."

Mrs. Carson was represented by Codington & Swackhamer, while Francis J. Blatz was associated with them.

Cut Hand Opening Bottle.

While opening a bottle at the bottling establishment of Somerset street and Chatham street, Saturday afternoon, George Maynard suffered a severe cut in his right hand through the breaking of a bottle. He went to the office of Dr. Hughes, of Somerset street, where the wound was dressed.

Insurance Banquet.

The district superintendents of the Prudential Insurance Company will this year return to the former plan of giving banquets. Superintendent C. E. Ball, of this city, will have his agents at the Hotel Kensington on Friday, Jan. 23.

One Hundred Dollars a Box is the value H. A. Tisdale, Summerton, S. C., places on DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says: "I had the piles for 20 years. I tried many doctors and medicines, but all failed except DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me." It is a combination of the healing properties of Witch Hazel with antiseptics and emollients; relieves and permanently cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, sores, cuts, bruises, eczema, salt rheum and all skin diseases. L. W. Randolph.

WORK OF ART FOR CITY PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Purchased With the Funds Raised at the Horace K. Turner Art Exhibit.

THEY'RE EXPECTED SOON

CARBON PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE WORLD'S FAMOUS PAINTINGS.

A List of Those Which Will Go to the Various Public Schools in the City—A Memorial for Miss Shattuck.

As a result of the Horace K. Turner art exhibit, recently held in the Assembly Hall of the Franklin School, about $250 has been expended in pictures for the various schools of the city. These pictures, which consist chiefly of carbon photographs of the world's famous paintings, have not yet arrived but are expected soon and on their arrival will be immediately placed in position in the various schools. The number of pictures for each school is determined by the amount of money raised by the pupils of that school by the sale of tickets for the exhibit.

The High School will receive three pictures, a photograph of the Colombe (Ceylon) Breakwater in a storm, Regnault's "Automedon," and "Spring" by Corot. A photograph of Stratford-on-Avon, Shakespere's home; "Ancient Britons," by Douglas; the Capitol at Washington; and "The Nursery," by Waterlow, will be placed in the Franklin School. The Washington School will receive George Riecke's "Sunset Glow" and "Road to the Village," "By the Riverside" by Lerolle, a photograph of Longfellow, and "The Nursery" by Waterlow. The Irving School will receive one pictures—"Sunset Glow," by George Riecke; "The Child Handel," by Dickson; "Taking a Sail," by Walden; and "Feeding the Birds," by Millet. Nine handsome pictures will go to the Whittier School. They are Watts' "Sir Galahad;" "The Chariot Race," by Wagner; photographs of Niagara Falls from Prospect Point and Ann Hathaway's Cottage; Ruysdael's "Windmill;" "Taking a Pilot" by Seeley; "The Vikings" by Douglass; "Automedon," by Regnault; and "The Wave" by James. The Bryant School will receive Nutting's "Meeting at the Stream;" "Sunset Glow," by Reike; and "The Windmill" by Ruysdael.

The pupils and teachers of the Lincoln School have contributed funds for the purchasing of pictures in memoriam of Miss EmmaV. Shattuck, for so long principal of the school. The companion pictures of "The Divine Shepherd" by Murillo and "St. John the Baptist," by the same painter are the pictures selected.

For the Bryant School, there has been purchased by money raised in a similar way, a large bromide copy of Bodenhausen's "Madonna" which will be hung in the school assembly hall as a memorial of Miss Shattuck. The class of 1903 in the High School proposes to invest about $60 from the proceeds of its recent entertainment in works of art as a gift from the class to the school but the subjects have not yet been decided upon.

CARD PARTY.

Was Given by Miss Bessie Martin in Honor of Her Guest.

A card party was held Saturday evening at the home of Miss Bessie Martin, of Central avenue, when Miss Estelle Irwin presided from New York, Brooklyn, Bound Brook, Cranford and Philadelphia. There were four tables in a progressive whist which was the main feature of the evening. The party was given in honor of Miss Douse, who is visiting at the home of Miss Martin. Refreshments were served during the evening and a most enjoyable time was spent.

Result of Accident.

Through Elston M. French, William R. Stanbery has effected a settlement with an accident insurance company for loss of time through an injury received last November. He was incapacitated three weeks, for which the company settled in full and fifty per cent. for the remainder of the time, making in all $182.

German Masquerade.

The Gesang and Turn Verein are arranging to hold a masquerade ball in Saengerbund Hall, February 22. The arrangements so far completed are elaborate and a successful affair is anticipated.

Month After Month

a cold clings to you. The cough seems to tear holes in the delicate tissues of the throat and lungs. You lose weight and you wonder if you are threatened with a disease you scarcely dare to name. Are you aware that even a stubborn and long-neglected cold is cured with Allen's Lung Balsam? Do not spend more of your life in coughing and worrying.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 22, 1903. NO.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

GOING TO FORECLOSE $500,000 MORTGAGE

Proceedings Started by the Knickerbocker Trust Co., Against Carteret Steel Co.

ON JERSEY PROPERTY

FORMER SENATOR CHAS. A. REED IS LAWYER FOR TRUST COMPANY.

Foreclosure Proceedings Were Instituted at Jersey City Today—

In Interest of U. S. Senator Jones a Stockholder in Trust Co.

Foreclosure proceedings instituted by the Knickerbocker Trust Company, of New York, against the Carteret Steel Company were begun today at Jersey City on a $500,000 mortgage held by the former company. Former Senator Charles A. Reed is one of the lawyers representing the Knickerbocker Trust Company in the interests of United States Senator John P. Jones, of Nevada, who is one of the heaviest stockholders in the trust company. The case is an interesting one in that the mortgages were issued on valuable property in Union, Warren and Morris counties.

The Carteret Steel Company, which is located at Carteret, some time ago secured $500,000 on mortgages on these properties. Foreclosure proceedings have been instituted on the ground that some of the $1,000 bonds were not issued at par but were issued at prices averaging fifty cents on the dollar. Those who had paid the full amount on them, or in other words, those who had secured the bonds at par, raised an objection, hence the proceedings.

Very interesting developments are expected to appear and the result is being watched for with interest by many prominent men of wealth in many States who are more or less interested in one or the other of the concerns.

TEST BORINGS.

First Steps Toward Providing the Sewer System for Proposed New Residential Park.

P. H. Conlan, of New York, arrived in this city Tuesday afternoon and will spend several days here looking over the ground on the site of the proposed new park in the southwestern part of the city, the details of which were first explained in The Daily Press, with a view of making test borings to ascertain the nature of the soil in that locality. The tests are being made for the purpose of finding out what kind of soil is to be found there and whether it is practicable to lay sewers along the routes suggested. This may be considered as being the first definite move towards securing for this city the $500,000 residential park in which G. Herbert Taylor, of this city, has been interesting Philadelphia capitalists.

TO SAN FRANCISCO.

Newark Veterans Have Arranged for a Special Excursion.

A committee from Lincoln Post, G. A. R., of Newark, has enlisted the services of W. C. Walsh, Jr., district passenger agent of the New Jersey Central, and will run a personally conducted tour to California for the G. A. R. convention to be held in San Francisco this year. The trip will consume about twenty-five days and the number carried will be strictly limited to 125 persons. The committee at present has applications for sixty-four prominent residents of Newark.

Trouble at Skating Pond.

Through the careless use of hockey sticks, a small-sized riot was caused among the skaters on Hyde's pond, yesterday afternoon. A small boy was knocked down with one of the clubs and his friends immediately sprang at the man who held it. He was struck by one of them and matters looked dark until it was learned the boy was not badly hurt.

His Friends Came In.

Harry Keene, of West Fourth street, entertained a party of friends at his home, last evening, in a social way. Great enjoyment was derived by his guests in listening to piano and phonograph selections and other features. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

For Full Amount.

Judgment for the full amount was secured Monday in the case of Sothphin & Mayer, of New York, against Pangborn & Petersen, of this city, on contract. The amount sued for was $140.75. The case was tried in Justice Huff's court.

CITY HIGH WON AT HOCKEY

DEFEATED BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL TEAM ON HYDE'S POND.

Score Was 2 to 0—Some Excellent Team Work by the Winning Side.

The hockey team of the City High School defeated the team of the Borough High School yesterday afternoon by a score of 2 to 0. The game was played on Hyde's pond where the ice was in a better condition than on Hermann's pond where the game was scheduled to be played. The city boys took an aggressive stand from the first and most of the playing was in the neighborhood of their goal.

Neither side scored in the first half. In the second half, the play was much improved on both sides and the city boys got right into the game with some excellent team play. Ulrich made the first goal after some fast work by his team and shortly afterwards Craig shot the puck between the goal posts for the second point. The remainder of the half nothing was done although the puck was continually near the city team's goal. McLaughlin, of the borough team, put up the best game for his side, his individual playing being commendable throughout.

The teams lined up as follows:

Plainfield High School—Forwards, Craig, VanAuken, W. Douglas, Meeker, Daniels; point, Tweedy; cover point, Ulrich; goal, Bock.

North Plainfield High School—Forwards, McLaughlin, Adams, Baldwin, Quaker; point, Armstrong; cover point, Humble; goal, George.

ANOTHER CRUSHER.

Is Soon to be Erected on Side of the Mountain at the Head of Grove Street.

Preparations for the erection of a large stone crusher on the mountains back of the borough have been started and when the structure has been completed it will be one of the largest in this section of the county, according to the plans laid out by Councilman Harrison Coddington.

Workmen have been engaged for several days in clearing an extensive piece of land at the head of Grove street on which the machinery for crushing stone will be erected as soon as the weather permits after the clearing away of trees has been completed.

The new stone crusher will be a competitor of that now owned by Mayor Smalley. It was rumored this morning that Mayor Smalley and another man had bought the land owned by Mr. Coddington, but when seen at his home the Mayor said that there was nothing in the rumor.

GIFT FOR SCHOOL.

After Aiding Athletic Association, Seniors Will Buy Works of Art.

At a recent meeting of the class of 1903, of the City High School, it was decided to give the Athletic Association of the school $35 of the proceeds of the senior play "Midsummer Night's Dream," given by the class before Christmas. The remainder of the proceeds will be devoted to the purchasing of works of art for the Junior department of the High School. This presentation will probably consist of pictures, but nothing definite has been decided. The presentation will be made in June at the graduation of the class.

Horses for Fire Department.

A pair of fine horses are expected to arrive in town this evening, consigned to Stonewall Jackson. They are for use at the city fire headquarters, if they pass the required examination and will replace the horse Frank, who recently fell down and was injured, and was retired from the service.

Surprised by Masquers.

Mrs. Emma Weigmann, of West Front street, was given a surprise masquerade by twenty-five friends, last evening. The participants had a delightful time until a late hour with dancing and music. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Fred Westphal and Mrs. John Adelmann.

Permit for Dwelling.

A permit was granted yesterday at the office of Building Inspector T. O. Doane to Henry Bohl to erect a house to be used as a dwelling at 946 Arlington avenue. The architect is the owner; W. J. Mundy is the mason, and W. H. Bohl is the carpenter.

—I. N. Wyckoff has just completed the interior painting and decorating of C. E. Ball's home on Sycamore avenue. The effect is made especially pleasing by some expert graining work of which Contractor Wyckoff makes a specialty.

WORKING FOR CITY'S GAIN

All Sorts of Projects Were Discussed at the Meeting of the Board of Trade.

LOTS OF TROLLEY TALK

Although Mayor Jenkins Wasn't There, the Members Found Many Interesting Subjects Up for Discussion — Election of Officers Held—The Other Details.

Although Mayor Jenkins failed to appear before the Board of Trade at its meeting, Tuesday, in order to outline his plan for a system of city parks, the organization transacted more business that it has in many months. It marked the annual session and in addition to the reading of reports and election of officers many matters of public interest were discussed at length.

Principal among these were questions in regard to the local trolley service which the board has been agitating of late. The committee appointed to inquire into the Arlington avenue line extension reported a cessation of progress owing to a hitch between the officials of the Plainfield company and Superintendent Radel, of the Middlesex company. This brought [out] the South Plainfield extension and it was unanimously decided to promote this line, if not over the Plainfield avenue route as has been suggested, by another leading from the present Monroe avenue terminus across private right of way and streets. P. J. McDonough, of South Plainfield, explained in detail how it could be accomplished and, with James E. Martine, C. W. Runyon, B. F. Coriell and H. C. Runyon, was appointed as a committee to take the matter up.

Speaking for the committee appointed to secure a better system of transferring from the trolley company, President Woolston stated that Chandler Biker, of the road, had declared his willingness to assist Plainfield in getting improvements provided the Common Council and property owners would grant the right of way through East Second or East Front streets for additional tracks to accommodate the through line traffic. With these, Mr. Biker is reported to have said, the Elizabeth cars would be sent direct to Dunellen without transferring. Later in the evening this plan was declared by several members to be a blind to secure a direct line through the State. Part of the board believed in recommending a franchise in one of the streets asked but final action was deferred until the committee appointed on the South Plainfield extension made an investigation.

For the committee appointed to inquire into the condition of the city disposal plant, brought about by the North Plainfield Board of Health's charges, W. C. Krauss reported visiting the beds in company with State Supervisor of Roads Robert A. Meeker but that he was not ready to submit any statement. In this connection, however, President Woolston declared the State Board of Health in its next report would assert the beds are in good condition and no menace to health as is alleged.

Mayor Jenkins' failure to appear and talk on parks was explained by Secretary Runyon, who declared the city's chief executive thought it unwise to name any proposed sites at this time for fear of sending the price of the land soaring beyond reach. Not to drop the matter entirely, as many of the members, including Mayor Smalley, of the borough, had attended the meeting expressly to hear the Mayor express his views, a committee composed of Frank H. Smith, D. C. Ivins and J. F. MacDonald was appointed to take it up and report at the next meeting.

Mayor Smalley was given the floor in order to outline the proposed plan for a new street leading from the North Avenue station, between Park and Watchung avenue, to East Front street and what advantages would accrue. According to facts gathered by him it could be done at a cost of $15,000 to the city, another $15,000 to be borne by assessment on abutting property owners. It was only a question of time, he said, when it would have to be done, owing to the congested condition of the business center. The board took no action.

Another question, which was widely discussed, referred to the effect which the early closing movement has had upon the business interests of the city. By most of the members present, who represent the merchant element, it was declared to be a detriment. The gist of the remarks was that the store keepers depend upon the merchants for trade, that the latter are closely confined during the day and that with everything closed at night they take advantage of the Saturday half holidays and make purchases in Newark or New York. It was deemed advisable to learn the sentiment of every merchant in the city in regard to the matter and this will be done by correspondence conducted by the secretary.

The committee on street lighting reported that the establishment of arc lights in the business center would mean an added cost of $1,200 per annum, or a total of $3,000 for twenty lights. Action upon the report was deferred for one month.

Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, Charles A. Reed, Frank H. Smith, H. C. Runyon and N. B. Smalley were appointed as a committee to make arrangements for the second dinner of the season under the board's auspices. It is proposed to make it a subscription affair.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, L. B. Woolston; first vice president, J. C. Pope; second vice president, E. A. Kapp; treasurer, E. M. Laing. Secretary H. C. Runyon declined to accept a re-election and he consented to serve for one month until a successor could be secured.

The concluding item of business was the election of the following as members: Charles A. Reed, William B. Smith, H. Texier, J. P. Emmons, V. W. Nash, Sr., J. B. Coward, W. L. Saunders, Herman Klinsman, Michael Higgins, D. W. Littell and Mayor N. B. Smalley.

GAVE AWAY FORTUNE ON HER DEATH BED

Mrs. Kate J. Fisher Did Not Die, But Had Trouble in Recovering Property.

IT WAS TAKEN TO COURT

CASE WAS SETTLED JUST FIVE MINUTES BEFORE IT CAME UP FOR TRIAL.

The Suit Was Brought Against Her Daughter, Miss Anna L. Fisher—Had Signed Over $11,000 in a New York Savings Bank.

Five minutes before the case of Kate J. Fisher against her daughter, Anna L. Fisher, came up for trial Tuesday in the Supreme Court at Elizabeth, a settlement was effected between the lawyers, and an unusually interesting case was withdrawn from the court. Reed & Coddington represented the complainant, and Charles J. McNabb, the defendant.

In 1895, Mrs. Kate J. Fisher, of West Fourth street, was taken ill with a paralytic stroke and was not expected to live. When she was assured that she had little or no chance of recovery she signed over $11,000 which she had in a New York savings bank, to her daughter, Miss Anna L. Fisher, also of this city. Instead of dying, Mrs. Fisher recovered. After she had partially regained her health she wanted her daughter to return to her money which, it is alleged, the daughter refused to do.

The mother tried all ways of persuasion on her daughter in an endeavor to regain her money but it was all to no avail and the matter was finally taken to court.

Yesterday morning when Judge VanBickel, of the Supreme Court, rose behind his desk and called case No. 28, it was announced that the case had only a few minutes before been settled; the daughter having returned the money to her mother.

AFTER GREATER CITY SCHEME

REPEALERS INTRODUCED FOR ANNEXATION AND CONSOLIDATION ACTS.

At Request of President Hutchinson, Senator Wakelee Introduced Them in Upper House.

¶ An attempt is being made by the opponents of the Greater Plainfield scheme to repeal the annexation and consolidation laws passed by the Legislature last winter. At Monday evening's session of the State Senate, Senator Wakelee, for President Hutchinson, introduced two bills repealing the annexation and consolidation acts.

WANT HYGEIA PLANT SOLD

Application Made for Order to Sell Factory and Property of Hygeia Ice Company.

IN HANDS OF RECEIVER

Wm. T. Kaufman is Now Receiver, But Interested Parties Desire to Wind Up Concern's Affairs—An Order to Sell From Vice Chancellor is Expected Soon.

Following close by upon an application for a receiver for the Hygeia Ice Company, the details of which appeared exclusively in the columns of The Daily Press at the time, comes an application before Vice Chancellor Emery at Newark this week for an order to sell the property of the concern to satisfy the demands of the creditors. The order is expected to be issued Monday of next week. The application was made through Reed & Codington.

At the time of the application was made for a receiver it was hoped that the business could be made to pay but after a few months under the receivership it has been found necessary to sell the plant as a public sale in order to satisfy interested parties.

The building at the corner of Berckman street and North avenue, where in the plant is located and the plant itself is valued at $50,000. The office is located in the lumber yard of De Witt C. Ivins on Watchung avenue, where F. T. Ostrom is still general sales agent. The machinery in the plant is of the best style of ice making machinery and was installed at great cost. In fact, it was the great cost of installing the machinery which, it is said, first crippled the concern.

As told only in The Daily Press of November 25, the application was made through a suit instituted by Edward M. VanBuren, one of the heavy stockholders in the company. Others who were heavily interested in the concern were: President, Harry G. Runkle; vice president, O. T. Waring; secretary and treasurer, De-Witt C. Ivins.

The receiver then appointed was William T. Kaufman, of this city, and he has had the management of the business in his hands ever since that time. The date of the sale will not be known until after the order has been issued by the Vice Chancellor at Newark, Monday.

KENNEL SHOW.

New Jersey's Event Will be Held at Orange Next Month.

The New Jersey Kennel Club will hold its second annual bench show in the Armory at Orange, February 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21. The show was held at Newark last year and was in every way a great success. This year arrangements are making on a more elaborate scale, and opening, as it does, at the close of the Madison Square show, will compete for honors with the big event. It is not improbable that many fine entries will be shown at Orange that will not be exhibited in New York. The premium lists are nearly ready for distribution and there are liberal prizes for every class.

William N. LeCato, of Hutton Park, West Orange, has offered a fine silver cup for the best American bred ball dog puppy. Mr. LeCato will judge the ball dogs, being an expert of standing in kennel circles.

Tell of Mission Work.

Miss Nellie Pendleton, who is engaged in mission work among the Italians, in New York, will tell of this work at a meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church Friday evening. Following the meeting there will be an informal social hour.

Tonight's Meeting.

The prayer meeting at Grace M. E. church this evening will be under the direction of the committee on tracts, Dykman Winckler, Miss Agnes Tingley and Miss Grace Carroll. The pastor, Dr. Earp, will address the meeting.

—With the help of fancy Boston lettuce, fresh mushrooms, hothouse tomatoes, artichokes and table celery an afternoon luncheon can be made very attractive. Neuman Brothers have these and many more.

—Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., conferred the second degree on one candidate last night.

ADMIT THE TRUTH AT LAST

BRUNSWICK PAPERS FINALLY REFER TO PRESENCE OF SMALL-POX.

Declare That There Are Only Four Cases in That City at the Present Time.

New Brunswick, Jan. 21—After almost a month's silence about the small-pox situation in New Brunswick, during which time the citizens of this town have been left to guess at the number of cases confined in the isolation hospital, the newspapers have at last come out with true statements in which they show that there are now only four cases in this city. There have been no deaths.

At one time rumor had it that there were twenty-seven cases at the isolation hospital and at other times this was exaggerated until many people really believed that there were as many as twice that number. This led to a small sized panic among the people and the physicians were overrushed with applications for vaccinations.

Now it appears that there are only four cases and the people hardly know whether to believe the statement of the papers or to think it is an attempt to quiet their fears and to hide the true condition of affairs.

ONE MORE ATTEMPT.

Meeting of League of American Citizens Has Been Set for Saturday Evening.

A number of men who have become interested in the organization of the League of American Citizens met in Trade Council Hall last evening, but owing to the small attendance it was impossible to make any progress. After waiting nearly an hour it was decided to postpone the meeting to Saturday, that time being considered best for the reason that it is an off night for most men.

A. C. Rogers, who has taken the initiative in the matter, says that after one more attempt he will seek some other town to start the organization, if the next meeting does not accomplish the purpose. He thinks it is a great shame that American citizens are not sufficiently interested in their welfare and the future of the country to secure such legislation as will effectually put a stop to foreign laborers coming to this country only to return to their homes with money earned without becoming American citizens. Mr. Rogers estimates that there will be 70,000 Italians arrive in this country this year and he believes that strong measures should be adopted to prevent the American from losing his position.

YELLOW LUNCHEON.

It Was Given by Mrs. Edward T. VanBuren Yesterday.

Among the informal social affairs of the season none have been more pleasant than a luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren, of Central avenue. The decorations were yellow, the prevailing color being prettily about the table. Covers were laid for ten, those present being Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren, Miss Florence Waring, Miss May Waring, Mrs. Lewis E. Waring, Miss Helen Bushnell, Miss May Evans, Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart, Miss Charlotte Lowe, Mrs. Clifford W. McGee and Mrs. James R. Blake.

ROLL CALL SESSION.

Notable Meeting of Local Odd Fellows Monday Evening.

The meeting of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., Monday evening will be a notable one, and one quite novel in this city. It will be a "roll call" session when every member who has ever attended that lodge will be present or send some word either by mail, telegraph, or telephone.

Deputy Grand Master John Becker and staff will be present as well as several other prominent State officials. A feature of the evening will be the social time which will follow the regular meeting when old acquaintances will be renewed.

Cases Adjourned.

The cases of William E. Tuttle, Jr., et. al., partners, against Ambrose Bobrovinsky, and John H. Dahl against Ambrose Bobrovinsky, in the Circuit Court at Elizabeth, which were called yesterday, were laid over until January 26 and February 2, respectively.

King's Daughters to Meet.

The City Union of King's Daughters will hold its semi-annual meeting in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church Thursday afternoon, January 29, when the usual interesting reports will be presented.

TO ERECT MONUMENT AT WASHINGTON ROCK

Continental Chapter, D. of A. R., is Working Toward That Particular Aim.

PLANS TO RAISE FUNDS

OFFICERS ELECTED AT ANNUAL MEETING HELD MONDAY.

Colonial Loan Exhibit Planned for Anniversary of Battle of Lexington As Means of Raising Funds for the Proposed Monument.

The annual meeting of the Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was held Monday at the home of Mrs. David P. Hall, of Madison avenue, when officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

Regent, Mrs. David P. Hall; first vice regent, Mrs. P. V. R. VanWyck; second vice regent, Mrs. Charles P. Leggett; secretary, Mrs. Lemuel W. Serrell; treasurer, Mrs. Frederick H. Andrews; register, Mrs. Edward O. Chickering; board of management, Mrs. Rowland Cox, Miss E. E. Kenyon, Miss Brown and Mrs. Isaac M. Field; delegate to the Continental Congress in Washington, February 23, Mrs. John Gray Foster; alternate, Mrs. Henry A. McGee.

It was decided at the meeting to appropriately celebrate on Friday, April 17, the battle of Lexington, by holding a colonial loan exhibit for the purpose of raising funds to accomplish the object proposed; that of erecting a suitable monument at Washington Rock. This matter has long been under the consideration of the Continental Chapter and there is now a small fund in the treasury for the purpose mentioned. This loan exibit will be held at the home of Mrs. P. V. R. VanWyck, of West Eighth street.

The question of erecting a suitable monument is in the hands of the board of management and from time to time plans will be formulated to increase the fund now so well started. A dramatic entertainment is proposed as one means. This will probably be given next fall.

History says that Washington Rock is one of the few places in New Jersey where the great general encamped and it is considered flattering that there are some public spirited women in Plainfield and North Plainfield who desire to appropriately mark the spot for the interest and edification of future generations. Now that the women have taken hold of the matter there seems to be but little doubt but what the project will be entirely successful.

NO HIGHER PAY.

Request of New York Division Conductors Was Refused.

The officials of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad have decided, after careful consideration, to deny the request of the conductors on the New York division for higher pay and the adjustment of other grievances. The conductors asked for $3.19 per day and extra pay for time over 11 hours. They are at present receiving $3 per day, and as compared with the wages paid by other roads the management concluded that the present rate was a fair one.

Coal in Box Cars.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad is drawing on its supply of box cars in order to handle its anthracite coal tonnage, regardless of the general demand for these cars in the merchandise traffic. On January 16 there were loaded at the mines 1,522 cars of anthracite coal to be forwarded over the Lehigh Valley, containing a total of 40,500 tons, an average of twenty-six and one-half tons to the car.

Final Appearance.

The evening service at the First Presbyterian church next Sunday will mark the close of the services of the male quartette which has been singing at the church during the past year. There will be a special musical service at that time. After next Sunday there will be a mixed quartette.

Defective Eyes.

They cause more headaches than all other bodily ailments. The remedy is properly fitting glasses. See their specialist, Stiles & Company, Philadelphia eye specialist, at 107 East Front street, this Thursday.

Lecture on Mexico.

Rev. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, will give his lecture on Mexico in the church Tuesday evening, January 27. He will illustrate with his own views.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

Drug Clerk Picks Up Three Young Skunks Under the Impression That They Were Angoras.

Music surely hath charms when it brings to the surface from their burrow three handsome skunk kittens. This, says the Hartford (Conn.) Times, was the case on Sunday afternoon at Riverside park while the band concert was being rendered to thousands of people. The country boy may be green; he may be given even the title of "hayseed," but he knows a thing or two about skunk kittens.

Not so with the young helper in a Main street drug store. He was lacking the wisdom of the farm boy on this particular occasion. He wandered about the park in his Sunday clothes, and he was decidedly smart in appearance. As he meandered along the edge of the grove a little way apart from the crowd he espied three little skunk kittens—"regular beauties." He thought they were young Angoras, and he immediately picked them up and started for home.

"GO BURY YOURSELF!"

The kittens were quiet for awhile, but that was caused more by fright than by natural instinct. As he struck into Morgan street a smell reached his nostrils that he recognized but couldn't locate. It seemed to be in his neighborhood all the time, and before he got to Front street the citizens and noncitizens of that locality were scattering in different directions, and all eyeing him in open-mouthed astonishment.

When he got to his place of business the proprietor took in the situation at a glance, and, plainly speaking, "fired out" the young man and his three skunk kittens, telling him what he had rolled in his arms at the same time. He dropped them outside the store, and it was then he came to his senses. The kittens were killed and then the young man turned to his employer and pietously asked: "What will I do?" The reply was:

"Go bury yourself."

CEMETERY FOR CATS.

Three Little Children of Norwich, Conn., Have Started a Unique Burial Ground.

"Cat Dale Cemetery" is the name three little children of Nelson place have given a burying ground at Norwich, Conn., which they have started for cats. It is not very populous just yet, but the children are hunting the neighborhood for the kind of cats that need burying.

A "cat funeral," as conducted by these youngsters, is one of the most imposing spectacles of the town. A wooden box is carefully lined and papered, the cat is placed in it and the top is nailed on. After the grave is filled in the children busy themselves writing epitaphs. The epitaphs over the two cat graves in the cemetery are as follows:

IN THE CAT CEMETERY.

"Tom Goodwin. Died 8th of August, 1902. Tom died about the middle of the morning, August 8th. Emily Goodwin's cat. It was a good cat in its life. It was treated good and had a good home and had plenty to eat. This little girl felt very sorry to have her little pet die. It was the only one she had. But she was good to every dumb creature. She took care of it very well. Tom is dead now and buried."

The children did not know so much about the second cat.

"Died on August 8, 1902. Good and noble in his life. A stray cat lode on Whittaker's lorn on August 8, 19 and two. Some naughty boys threw it into a barel and threw some sand in its eyes. Suffred by some disease. Fed it and it would not eat. We named it Freddie. But now it is dead. Dide at 3:30 this afternoon. It is out of its misery. For a little thig, it is dead now."

THE PANGS OF LOVE.

Many Men Have Been Driven by Them to Madness.

Romances in the Careers of Hermits Who Led Sordid and Secluded Lives—Driven to Despair by Bitterness of Failure.

Not many years ago there died in a western village a man of the name of Newman, who for more than half a century lived entirely alone in a small cottage, never mixing with his fellows unless absolutely compelled. In his old age, from personal neglect, he became a singularly repellant man. From whom the village children ran away in fright; and when at last he died the only feeling expressed by his neighbors was one of gladness and relief.

And yet this most wretched of old men had had his romance and days when life seemed a glad thing and full of promise. Suspended from his neck was found an ancient locket containing the portraits of a sweet faced girl, and a frank, handsome young man, and hidden away at the bottom of a trunk was a bundle of faded love letters tied with a ribbon. From these pathetic memorials it was clear that the hermit had in his youth known all the thrills of loving and the pains of losing; but the secret of his romance lies buried with him.

In the early '70's there was living in a town in eastern Pennsylvania a well known miser of the name of Nichols a sour faced shrunken man, of whose history nothing was known beyond the fact that he had come to the town when the oldest inhabitants were children, and that he was rarely seen outside his cottage, where his simple wants were attended to by a woman as old apparently as himself. It was only at his death that something of his early history became known. When he was a young man, studying for the law in Philadelphia, he had fallen in love with the daughter of the attorney to whom he was articled, and his suit so far prospered that an engagement was entered into. After he had qualified and had commenced practice in a neighboring town the day for his wedding was fixed.

HIS DAILY PILGRIMAGE.

All the preparations had been made for the event which was to crown his happiness, when on the eve of his wedding day he received a note from his fiancee saying that she loved another more than himself and declaring that she could not marry him.

This unexpected blow so seriously affected him that brain fever supervened, and for a time his life was in danger, and on his recovery he retired from his practice and the world into the hermitage where he spent the remainder of his life. With a perverse loyalty he cherished to the last the memory of the girl who had deceived him, and directed that her portrait and the letters he had received from her should be buried with him.

There is something strangely pathetic about these love stories of hermits. A singularly touching case of loyalty came within the knowledge of the writer when he was living in a small English town. One of the inhabitants of the town and a near neighbor was an old gentleman who for over 40 years had lived alone in the same house, rarely leaving it except once a day for a pilgrimage to a churchyard in an adjacent village. During all these years, in the heat of summer and in the storms and cold of winter, Mr. M— had never once been known to miss this daily journey or fail to take with him a few flowers to lay on the grave of the girl who had won his heart so long ago. She had died tragically within a few hours of the day appointed for their wedding and during all those years, the lover had shut himself as far as possible from the world and had lived only for her memory. Every room in his house had its memorials of the ill-fated girl, from portraits and her favorite books to the veil and wreath in which she was to have worn as a bride.

Busy Town in a Crater.

About 20,000 people live in the crater of an extinct volcano, 30 miles from Kumamoto, Japan. The town is in this pit-like town, surrounded by a vertical wall 800 feet high. The inhabitants rarely make a journey into the outer world, and practically form a little community all by themselves.

Horse Likes Limburger.

A horse belonging to Baltimore engine company No. 17 has developed a strong taste. He is fond of cheese sandwiches, and prefers those made of Limburger.

WAS QUITE PAINFUL

Sad Climax of Sweet Love-Making by Phonegraph.

Experiment That Promised Pleasant Possibilities Terminates in Dire Disaster to Its Enterprising Promoter.

Making love by phonograph is the latest fad.

No one believes that it will ever be popular and the experience of a well-known Philadelphian may put a damper upon other swains ambitious to do something unconventional in the wining of womanly hearts, as related by the Philadelphia Press.

This is the well-known's experience:

"Went to see a friend," said he, "and he showed me something that made me open my eyes. He has just patented a new phonograph. It was the best thing of the kind I've ever seen—or heard. There is no irritating metallic sound about its tones, and the 'records' are so made that the machine will run for eight or ten minutes.

"Well, I thought I'd borrow that phonograph and pay a visit to my sweetheart.

"It was not a vest pocket affair, however. The thing weighed 100 pounds or more, and for that reason I did not think of using it as a watch charm.

"But it played some music tunes, and I wanted my girl to hear them, so I lugged the whole thing to her house. It was as heavy as lead, and I had a hard trip of it. But at the girl's house it was a great hit, and the result was that for some months I lugged 'the pet' around to the homes of the best girls of quite a few of my friends.

"It was great—sort of love-making-machine affair, you know, and a winner every shot. We had more girls than we knew what to do with.

"It was a strange looking contrivance, you understand, and in order to reassure the girls it was necessary for us to hold their hands whenever the music box was doing the stunt.

"Well, one night I put the arrangement on the stretcher and carried it two miles through the snow to the home of one of the girls.

HAD WORKED THE WRONG RECORD

"She was the best girl of one of the most bashful fellows you ever saw. He wanted to propose to her, but he hadn't the nerve, and so he had concluded to let the phonograph speak his little piece for him.

"I left him alone with the whole business—stretcher, phonograph, record and girl—and agreed to call for him in two hours. When I went back the first thing I saw was the phonograph like a mess of hash in the gutter, and under a nearby tree was the bashful fellow lying at full length and apparently dead on the stretcher. I revived him and demanded an explanation.

"'You gave me the wrong record,' he said, in a sobbing tone, 'and I couldn't stop the blankety-blank thing. Her father and brothers are giants!'

"I called for help and took him home on the stretcher and then returned for the phonograph. It was soon patched up, and when I put into it the record that the bashful fellow had sprung on his girl. Some one started the machine and we heard:

"'Oh, fairest star, thou angel bright. I'd like your ma to be out of sight. Then with a sigh in your one good eye, I'd fondly gaze awhile, and your false hair I'd madly tear unless on me you'd smile.

"'Chorus—Oh, there's only one girl in the world for me; she has a face like a fuller dog and a voice like a gale at sea. But she has money, you can bet, and that coin I will surely get, when she becomes my own Birdie.'

"There was another verse, but I afterward learned that at the thirteenth verse the girl's screams brought in her father and three brothers. They found her beau working frantically to stop the machine. They were tall, strong, and all mad. He was painfully bashful.

"It appears that one of the fellows composed the doggerel and sang it into the phonograph so as to torment the bashful chap at some time, and that the record got mixed—quite by accident, of course—with the one which the poor chap's carefully prepared proposal was recorded.

"Yes, he lost the girl."

Now They Want More Pay.

The directors of a bank in Chicago think that no man should marry on a salary less than $1,600 a year. They have, therefore, informed their single clerks who get less than this sum that they must not marry. The clerks have requested higher pay.

NEW LINCOLN YARNS

They Are All Characteristic of the Great President.

Union Officer Whose Commission Was Signed by a Rebel Raider—An Amusing Meeting in Indiana.

(Special Washington Letter.)

"I CALLED on President Lincoln to request the appointment of a chaplain in the army. I didn't get the appointment, but I have always been glad that I took that occasion to see Mr. Lincoln at the white house," says a venerable and popular citizen of the national capitol.

"I heard three good stories narrated by Mr. Lincoln, and I am quite sure that they have never been published. You see it was his custom to receive a whole lot of people at a time. He would have a corneal greeting for all, talk cheerily a few minutes, and then take one after another privately into a corner of the big room and listen to his individual desires.

"Gov. Cuming, of the territory of Utah, whose original and permanent home was in Pennsylvania, was the first man received personally by Mr. Lincoln, who spoke unreservedly so that all present could hear. He assured Gov. Cuming of his perfect confidence in his integrity, and told him that although recalling him from Utah he was going to give him another appointment, to show his confidence in his ability. He said: 'I know very well why all these complaints have been made against you.' Gov. Cuming responded that no governor could be popular in Utah, without becoming a Mormon.

"'That's just it, Cuming,' said Mr. Lincoln. 'This Mormon question must be handled with care just now. It reminds me of a farmer friend of mine who had a big black gum log in one of his best fields. It bothered him for years. He said that it was too big to be moved, too wet to be burned, and too coarse to be split. It bothered him and often kept him from sleeping. Finally he told his wife that he had taken the gum log off his mind, and had concluded, as he ought to have done at first, to let it be, and just plow around it. So, Cuming, that's what we are going to do with the Mormon question for a long while, just plow around it.'

"The next gentleman who had a personal conversation asked if any news had been received from John Morgan, whose confederate cavalrymen were then raiding Kentucky and Ohio. Lincoln replied: 'We will catch John, some day. I admire him, for he is a bold operator. He always goes after mail trains, in order to get information from Washington. On his last raid he opened some mail bags and took possession of official mail. One letter was from the war department to a lieutenant in Grant's army, and it contained a commission appointing him a captain. Right underneath the signature of A. Lincoln was audacious Morgan wrote, 'Approved, John Morgan;' and sent the commission on its way. So there is one officer in our army whose commission bears my signature, with the approval of that daredevil rebel.'

"Having been an editor in Kansas City, as you know, the people there often called on me for services. A committee came on here in 1864 to see the secretary of war and endeavor to have the military districts changed. Old Dr. Boggs, of Westport, was chairman of that committee. I induced Gen. Benjamin Loan, who represented the St. Joe district, to accompany us. There was a great crowd in the office of the secretary of war, and we had to wait our turns. I remember that a handsome young lieutenant was in the procession, and as soon as he stood before Secretary Stanton that austere man roared at him: 'Get out of here, and go to your regiment. I have no time to hear your payment of respects. I haven't a minute now a second to waste.' The young soldier went forth crestfallen, and we all thought that Secretary Stanton was a rude curmudgeon.

DISMISSED BY STANTON.

"When it came our turn to state the case, he listened for two minutes, and interrupted, saying: 'That is too important to be decided here. Take this card, call on me at eight o'clock tonight. This card will admit you, and I will be prepared to give the matter full attention.'

"We called promptly on time and were received by as kind and courtly a gentleman as ever lived. He passed around the cigars and chatted pleasantly. Before proceeding to business, he said: 'I noticed how you and all others looked when I dressed down that lieutenant. Here I am working from 15 to 18 hours a day in order to keep pace with events. Four or five

A MYSTERIOUS TREE.

Its Hollow Trunk Contained a First-Class Dumb-Waiter.

And on Top Lived a Man Who Sold Beer to Thirsty Travelers—What a Peace Officer Saw in Kansas.

"When a fellow is chased up a tree it's about the end, you think." The deputy sheriff, says the Chicago Daily News, crossed his feet as he emphasized the "you."

"Generally it's a case for the coroner," remarked another deputy, tossing the burned match toward the steam heater.

"Yes, but this is not a case of hanging. You remember when I went to Kansas to catch a gang of train robbers?"

"And never got a man," sandwiched in one of the daggers-on.

"That was the time I found a man up a tree. It was like this: I got into one of the eastern counties and made my business known to the official there. He thought and thought and tipped back in his chair, and the room in the courthouse got blue with smoke. Finally he said there was a suspicious character in the woods over toward another town, but that the only time one could find him was after dark.

"It was decided that we should drive to the place in the evening. So over the roads we went snortly after dark. The moon was shining and the flowers were blooming by the side of the wire fences. People took me for a drummer, and it puzzled them when they saw me get into the buggy with the sheriff. But off we went. We drove till we came to a bit of woods about a creek—such as they have in that country.

"'Here we are,' said the sheriff.

"I looked around for a house, but could see none. No, sir; there wasn't a building to the right nor the left. The sheriff seemed to know the ground, and hitched the horses in perfect confidence. I was sure there was a walk down the stream for us and prepared for one of the things the boys call a 'hike.' I put my revolver into my coat pocket, and got CAUGHT HIM BY THE FOOT.

ready for a battle with desperadoes."

"What did the sheriff do?" asked the first deputy.

"He lined up to a tree by the side of the road and folded his feet as men do when they go to a bar. Out of his pocket he took a silver quarter and pounded in a hollow place in the tree. Something came down and the silver disappeared. There was more noise and presently a suspicious clink of glass. Then the thing raced down again and the sheriff pulled out a bottle.

"There was something mysterious about that tree. In all my experience I had seen nothing like that and I knew something animate was in the branches. But the sheriff went back to his team and went off up the hill. When we were well out of sight and hearing the official pulled up by a fence and we crept up and crawled and sneaked across the field. Someone approached the tree and went through the same performance we had, no word being spoken. Then like Indians we crept up and saw a dark object on the ground. It was a man. Before he could get into the tree the sheriff caught him by the foot. I came up then and together we pulled our captive down to earth and put handcuffs on him. After that I climbed into the tree and found a whole case of beer in the branches and a dumb waiter that slipped up and down in the hollow trunk. That was all, except a rope and a board for the barkeep to sit on."

"The man under the tree—how about him?"

"Oh, he was not the one I was looking for, after all. By and by we let him go, for there was no evidence against him. But it shows how they do business in Kansas."

Supposed Corpse Sat Up.

John Bluman, a barber of Wellsville, N. Y., was shaving a supposed corpse, Samuel Colledge, when he imagined that the body seemed warm. Further investigation showed that the man's heart was faintly beating. The preparations for the funeral were abandoned, and in a few days Mr. Colledge was able to sit up and take his rations.

Snow Stops Rifle Bullets.

A rifle bullet fired at a distance of 50 yards will not pass through a wall of snow four feet thick.

Where Umbrellas Are Cheap.

In Corea a serviceable umbrella costs about 12 cents. The covering is of oiled paper.

GOT A REAL BARGAIN.

His Wife Cost Only $4.75, But Now Mr. Wilson Wouldn't Take a Million for Her.

When Nathaniel Wilson, a glassworker, of Marion, Ind., led Miss Kathryn Overmeyer, of Gas City, to the altar, November 7, he completed a pretty little romance and at the same time got a lovely wife who cost him only $4.75.

A week before the Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church of Jonesboro held an auction sale of girls at the home of Mrs. Frank Pierce. Real live girls, residing in all the glorious charms of womanhood, were sold to the highest bidder. While the purchase of a fair charmer did not insure the buyer a partner for life, Nathaniel Wilson purchased Miss Kathryn Overmeyer and on Friday they were wed.

PICTURED ON THE CANVAS.

Mr. Wilson is a stranger in Indiana, having only recently moved to Marion city from Pittsburg. He is a handsome young man of 26 years, and, being a double-strength glassblower, commands a large salary. Several of his fellow employes, who were acquainted with the young women of Gas City and Jonesboro, were going to attend the auction sale of young ladies and asked Wilson to go with them.

When the sale opened a large white sheet was stretched across the end of a room and the girl to be sold was placed there so that her shadow would be revealed on the cloth. Not knowing whom she was the young men would bid for her for the evening.

Wilson took no part in this bidding until four young women had been sold, each one of whom brought over one dollar.

When the fifth young woman was placed on the stand the form of a handsome girl was pictured on the canvas. Wilson opened the bid with $5 cents. A young man from Fairmount recognized the form as that of one for whom he had great admiration, but with whom he was not acquainted. He raised the bid to one dollar. Twenty-five cents at a jump her price rose until the Fairmount man found that he had bid just as much as he had cash in his pocket. Wilson went him 25 cents better and bought the young woman for $4.75. An introduction followed immediately, and what started out in a little fun ended in the marriage of the young couple in the Presbyterian church in Jonesboro.

Now Wilson says he would not take $1,000,000 for his bargain.

ALARM FOR THE DEAF.

They Don't Hear the Rattle of the Clock, But There Is Something Else Doing.

The Anaconda Standard says that an alarm clock for deaf mutes is the novel invention of Elias Cretzer, a deaf mute in the employ of the Washoe smelting plant.

The dropping of a pillow on the sleeping person is the awakening agent, and it is operated so that the pillow falls at the desired time. An ordinary alarm clock is placed in a cigar box which fits it closely. It is then nailed to the wall at the head of the bed. A string connects the clapper of the alarm clock with an ordinary spring mouse trap fastened to the top of the cigar box. By a system of small pulleys and screw eyes a pillow is fastened to the end of a string and pulled to the ceiling directly above the bed. An ingenious arrangement connects the other end of the string to the mouse trap. The clock is set, and when the alarm goes off the string attached to the bell clapper springs the mouse trap and releases the pillow, which drops on the persons sleeping in the bed beneath. "When it does not hit me it hits my wife," Mr. Cretzer wrote on a piece of paper, "and so I never miss a day any more."

SPRING RELEASES THE PILLOW.

MISS DAISY LEITER.

In Company of Her Mother She Will Visit the Coronation Durbar at Delhi, India.

Miss Margaret Leiter, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter, of Washington and Chicago, will be one of the best gowned women at the durbar, Delhi, India, and her entire wardrobe is the product of her native city, Chicago. Miss Daisy, as she is more familiarly known to the public, has always said that she obtained more satisfactory results by having her gowns designed in Chicago than in New York, Paris and London. When Mrs. Leiter decided to accept the invitation of her son-in-law, Lord Curzon, viceroy of India, and attend the great historic pageant known as the durbar, or crowning of the emperor of India, the momentous question rose of preparing suitable toilets for the grand event. Miss Daisy unhesitatingly said that she would obtain all she needed in Chicago. It has been stated that Mrs. and Miss Leiter carried with them abroad the most complete wardrobe ever taken from this country. Twenty-five trunks were required for the gowns, and other less delicate articles were sent in shipping boxes. In order to avoid any misunderstanding, either on arriving in England, where they first landed, or on their return to this country, Mr. Leiter had a complete inventory made of the ladies' gowns, jewels and lingerie and placed a copy in the hands of the United States customs officers in New York and sent another copy to the officials of England. This is the first time such a course has been adopted, and Mr. Leiter believes that he has spared his wife and daughter much trouble and annoyance. Miss Leiter has visited India before, but this is Mrs. Leiter's first venture into that mystical land. The ladies will remain in Delhi until February and will then go to Simla.

MISS DAISY LEITER.
(The Charming Sister of India's Beautiful Vicereine.)

WOMAN BANK PRESIDENT.

Management of an Important New York Fiscal Institution Offered to Indiana Lady.

The organizers of a new bank for women in New York who are said to already have secured promises of a clientage that will give the bank $5,000,000 in deposits in the first year, have offered the presidency of the institution to Mrs. Sarah F. Dick, of Huntington, Ind., who for years was the only woman bank cashier in the country. Mrs. Dick, who is the wife of a Huntington merchant, went into the First national there as assistant cashier in 1873. Her father was then cashier of the bank. When her father, John McGrew, became president of the bank in 1881 his daughter was chosen by the board of directors to succeed him as cashier. This position she held until recently. Her father declared he had never been able to find a man who was as good a judge of men as his daughter, and who made as few mistakes in making loans as she.

MRS. SARAH F. DICK.
(Indiana Woman Who Has Declined a New York Bank Presidency.)

Mrs. Dick has declined the New York offer, in spite of the fact that a splendid salary was attached to the position.

How Smoke Is Utilized.

A novel method of getting rid of black smoke, and at the same time turning it to practical use, is now being adopted in some Belgian factories. The smoke is driven by fans into a porous receptacle over which flows a stream of petroleum or similar liquid. The smoke is thus caught and turned into a gas that gives great heat, and can be used for running gas engines.

The Population of Spain.

The population of Spain is only 2,000,000 more than it was 45 years ago.

FOR STREET WEAR.

Shoulder Cape Effects on Taller Redes.

Strappings on skirts and on cloth and sibeline suits are much wider and covered with stitched lines. They are disposed in lengths pointed or tabbed. Some run in lines over seams, others are arranged in graduated groups, the wide strappings on light colored gowns are rendered more prominent by a cording of black silk or satin running around the strap, and the pointed ends are finished with three to five of the tiniest black silk buttons.

In Paris and Vienna many of the new models have shoulder capes elaborately trimmed with lace and fur. These are arranged as deep collars on the blouse or sack coat and correspond with the toilet. Shaped strappings are very elegant on these cape collars, and tassels are largely used. An exquisite costume of green velvet was made with a sack coat barely touching the top of the hips and simply trimmed with stitched bands of velvet. The sleeves, cut in bell form, were drawn into a rather large cuff of ermine, and the deep cape collar which covered the top of the arms had two narrow rows of ermine, of which the lower one ran up to meet an ermine collar about four inches deep.

PARISIAN EVENING GOWN.

One of the latest Paris models in evening gowns is here shown.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

ODD FURS.

Inexpensive Skins Which Are Made Up Elaborately.

Many varieties of fur have been introduced this season, and some are absolutely new or have been so little used by the fashionable furrier that the smart woman is not acquainted with them.

Russian coltskin is admirable for motor and traveling coats, and musquash is now cut and dyed to represent the lustrous sealskin, which it does with some distinction.

Squirrel fur is dyed to the rich brown of the Russian sable, and its prettiest shades and markings are skillfully disposed to counterfeit the more costly fur.

AUTOMOBILE COAT.

In moires the little squares are joined and shaded with the utmost accuracy, and squirrel is arranged so that the dark shading produces a fancy stripe.

The cut shows a smart winter automobile coat. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHIONABLE SHADES.

Green Overdone—The New Mulberry Red.

A good deal of striped and spotted velvet is used for afternoon reception gowns.

In Paris there is a perfect rage for white crepe de chine worn with sable even in the daytime, but naturally only for indoor festivities. Plain velvet hats are perfectly charming, and very exclusive folks are wearing emerald green velvet, with long stoles of marten and big picture hats of green beaver. Green in such fabrics cannot get very common, though this charming color is slightly on the wane.

SABLE TOQUE.

The coming color is a dull red, almost a mulberry shade, which is very chic and has already found its way into the world of millinery. Hats of this color are trimmed with chiffon and roses of many hues or autumnal berries.

The best milliners keep one color throughout a hat, using several tones. No longer are startling bits of color seen in contrast on one hat.

There is a good deal of chenille being used, mixed in all sorts of ways, some of it forming network decoration for the brims of hats or toques.

The cut shows a sable toque trimmed with a long white feather, held in place by a jeweled buckle.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

EVENING DRESSES.

Net and Veiling Gowns Are the Height of Fashion.

Imported dancing frocks are shown with skirts which barely reach the ground.

A Vienna model seen recently had a skirt made in the new double style, the two skirts appliqued with guipure of the applique type and with narrow velvet ribbon running in stripes over the seam of each gore and finished with a fringe and a motif of pearls.

These long stripes from the waist are exceedingly fashionable, and a ball gown of point d'esprit was recently trimmed with satin ribbons about an inch wide placed in groups of three and finishing with deep loops left loose at the end. Rows of fine punched insertion encircled the skirt at intervals of eight or nine inches, and these rows of lace went over the ribbon and kept it in place.

VEILING GOWN.

Net gowns are very fashionable, and a fine brussels net with tiny ring spots is much used in cream and ficelle. There are usually many flounces on this type of gown, and it is quite smart to have three graduated ribbons on each flounce, the deepest at the edge.

The evening gown shown is of veiling trimmed with narrow ribbon and embroidery. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Dreadfully Discouraging.

"I see that a lot of French scientists claim to have discovered how to abolish old age and insure an indefinite prolongation of life."

"Say, what a sad blow this will be to expectant nieces and nephews who are waiting for the bank accounts of rich uncles and aunts!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

WHAT WOMEN ARE WEARING

Kilted Skirts—Walking Costumes. Kid Hats.

Women are wearing silk, satin or brocade evening petticoats in preference to those composed of cambric and lace. Zenana is of course a favorite winter material and obtainable in delightful shades, but it is better for dressing gowns and peignoirs, for even with shaped bands you cannot do away with a certain amount of thickness.

Cloth walking dresses in brown are much in favor, and they mostly boast the flat kilted skirts. Again, many of the bolero coats show plaits, these being loose either at the front or at the back. Plaits indeed are a fad just now, but they must be fitted and arranged so that their lines follow those of the figure they are to adorn or else disaster will lurk in every fold.

Kid hats are perhaps more new than pretty, though they are useful when devoted to motoring, and one of these in gray, bound with black braid and with bows and ends of braid at the back, has been especially designed for such exercise.

SMART MUFF AND HAT.

The up to date hat and muff shown in the cut are designed to correspond with the coat of light putty colored cloth. The hat is draped in the popular three cornered shape, with the edge of sable. There is a large ruche of ribbon and a bunch of violets under the brim. The muff is of the same cloth, with two large ruffles in each side, two bands of sable and a large fall of lace and violets on the left side.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION NOTES.

Evening Caraitures—Elaborate Effects the Keynote.

There is a dearth of novelties in evening attire, but the soft textures still prevail, and there is a rage for spotted or speckled net. The slips or foundations worn with net chiffon and transparent skirts are still gored and edged with fussy frills, but the top is cut and fitted in stern fashion. Slips with separate flounces of the godet order are only worn with heavier or nontransparent materials, as the line of heading is too obtrusive.

The floral garnitures are exceedingly lovely this winter and gain much in effect from a judicious mixture of ribbon. What, for instance, can be lovelier for a net gown than a cluster of salmon pink chrysanthemums resting on a few loops of flame colored satin ribbon and then wandering off into a slender trail of stems from which descend smaller buds and knots of ribbon? Exquisite garnitures of violets are made up with narrow pale blue ribbon.

ELABORATE NIGHTGOWN.

The elaborate nightgown here shown might also be used for a negligee and will be found especially useful for a convalescent. It is made of nainsook, banded with lace insertion. Some of these form a pointed effect on the yoke. The rest outlines the bolero of all over lace. JUDIC CHOLLET.

How to Make A Speech In Public

If a woman under the age of 100 can do even so simple a thing as to walk down a church aisle in the presence of others without thinking what those others are thinking of her appearance, she is an exceptional woman. An overwhelming, frightening self consciousness is the bane of the feminine sex. You see it in the silly vanity of even small girls when they strut along the street in new frocks or watch to learn if others are impressed with them. The whole sex, from five to ninety-five, is eaten up with this wretched vanity. It causes stage fright. It is not self conceit, but the lack of it. In the girl child it is the beginning of a false education; in the grown woman it is the distressing result of that education. Women have been trained to regard the tout ensemble of mere physical appearance as the all in all of the female being; consequently they are always in a stew in regard to that appearance.

IN WAR PAINT AND FEATHERS.

This eternal self consciousness cripples a woman when she would speak in public. It peeps out evermore in the oratory of clubwomen. It is the direst enemy to their success in that field. Get rid of it, then. But how? Well, resolve once for all that you will get rid of it or die. Make yourself cease to think about the impression you are making on others. If you find you are doing this in spite of good resolution, check yourself instantly. Think of something else. Do this in all the affairs of life. In proportion as you do it, in proportion as you can merge your petty personality into the infinite life, to that exact degree you will really begin to be somebody.

Would you like to make a speech? Sit down first, quietly and alone, and think very earnestly with all your powers of concentration on what you want to say. Don't for one second let the chilling, killing, accursed thought of whether your audience will consider you, Jane Smith, brilliant and wise, remain in your mind. Just think of what you, Jane Smith, desire to say in all good will and modesty. Make a perfect picture in your mind of yourself standing before the audience speaking this matter.

Then prepare your speech. Never read it if you can possibly avoid it, but speak it. Stand up like a man and look people in the eye and let yourself go. Hurl your sentences winged with the magnetic force of your soul. Women's clubs will fall to pieces if women do not stop reading those long, stupid papers.

If you have only a five or ten minute address to make, do not write it at all. Put upon paper the heads of what you would say; then talk the speech over to yourself in your mind till you are familiar with it as with A B C. That is the best way of all to make a speech.

Then speak distinctly, in a clear voice. How acquire this clear, distinct voice? Bring your voice forward from your throat and issue it from your lips, opening your lips moderately wide so it can get out. To understand exactly what I mean, take, for instance, the sentence "Braid broad braids, my brave babes." Pronounce it first back in your throat in the ordinary crude, slovenly way in which we American people manage the voice; then throw your tone forward and send it from your front teeth and the tip of your tongue, drawing your lips slightly backward at the corners to give the sound room to get out, and you yourself will be surprised at the difference.

Pitch your voice on a low key, so you will not shriek or squeal; then, in the name of all the saints, speak loud enough. A woman who cannot make herself heard in a given audience has no right to waste their time by attempting it. Life is short.

A last word as to dress. Do you want your hearers to pay attention to you instead of to what you have to say? Then trick yourself out in your most show-offish rig, putting on all your war paint and feathers and furbelows. Do you want them to heed what you have to say? Dress yourself with the utmost neatness, particularly as to your feet, hair and neckwear, but otherwise be just as plain and unornamented as is compatible with being well dressed. And don't wear your hat while speaking.

CLARA HEROLD.

EVENING GOWNS.

The Useful All Black Gown—Revival of Jet.

Women with small dress allowances will do well to invest in an all black evening gown. It is useful for a hundred and one occasions and always smart, and the wearer never appears overdressed.

Jet is being worn again. It is a good idea to have a demitoilet blouse of inexpensive chiffon to wear in turn with a full dress bodice, for nowadays the latter is hardly a necessity at hotels and the quieter restaurants, while even at the opera one is glad occasionally of the demitoilet blouse.

DINNER DRESS.

Chiffon voile is a new fabric which will be much patronized for evening frocks this year. It has the airy appearance of chiffon, besides having admirable wearing properties. The gauzes and flowered crepes de chine are very suitable for either dinner or dance gowns.

If a girl has a good maid, a good figure, wears good corsets and knows how to put her clothes on, she ought to be able to make charming frocks at home at a small cost. Baby bodices are so becoming to young figures they depend principally for their success on a piece of good lace and a properly adjusted waistband or sash, but they must be put on with care and over properly adjusted corsets.

The illustration shows an elaborate dinner dress. JUDIC CHOLLET.

SIMPLE EFFECTS.

They Are Possible to the Woman With a Good Figure.

The corset of today seems to consist of nothing but a few strands of ribbon, but there is more to it than meets the eye, and never was this garment more difficult to make. There are certain things which every woman who aspires to be well dressed must spend her money on—namely, her corsets, her headgear and her boots. Once she has these important accessories correct, she will find it wonderfully easy to appear well dressed at a small cost. It was quite a different matter in the days of tightly boned bodices, but now a graceful figure can wear the simplest stuffs and designs and look better in them than many do in a French model frock.

CLOTH COAT.

Yet never was dress more magnificent. Witness the gorgeous fur garments and evening wraps.

Ziberline wraps are pretty, while not expensive, and therefore will prove welcome to the girl with a small allowance. Pale pastel cloths are also being used for this purpose. These wraps should not be made at home, for they require the skill of a good tailor or dressmaker.

The picture shows a three-quarter length coat made of cloth and trimmed with fur. JUDIC CHOLLET.

DAINTY EFFECTS.

Tassels and Embroideries Figure on Many Gowns.

A popular fancy dies hard, and the blouse still lives to defy its detractors. For winter wear it is made of white cloth or white nuns' veiling, and elaborate insertions of Irish lace vie with stripes of Russian embroidery for the privilege of trimming it.

A remarkably pretty effect is achieved at a small cost by embroidering in colored cottons on a white flannel blouse.

Embroidery touches are now seen on nearly all the handsomer gowns. A gray sibeline costume in particular bore as its decoration straps of black velvet, hand embroidered in white silk in a small leaf design.

COFFEE COAT.

Tassels of every sort are a popular trimming. Pure black and pure white are of course favorites, but Persian tassels, combining all the colors of the rainbow, and tassels of cut amber pears and crystals are much worn and make a handsome effect on dressy gowns.

The pretty little coffee coat in the illustration is of pale pink brocade and accordion plaited chiffon. The underslecves and main part of the body are of accordion plaited chiffon. The bolero and the sleeve uppers are made of brocade edged with mink.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SMART HATS.

The Fashionable Shapes Are All Large.

Such a thing as a small toque or turban is not obtainable. All the shapes are much larger this year.

Some of the picture hats are really enormous, but have beautiful curves, the best being copied from old prints. White felt, white beaver and white caracal hats are much worn in Paris. A bordering of dark green leaves on a white picture hat is very effective, especially if the wearer puts some green chiffon about her neck and keeps the rest white.

White is really a craze and is likely to continue so.

It is permissible to utilize one's summer dresses for indoor wear, and the clever woman makes many little changes in this manner. The veilings and crepe de chines can be given a heavier appearance by the addition of heavy guipure collars.

A SMART HAT.

The jaunty sailor hat here shown is of champagne colored cloth, bordered along the brim with a wide band of reseda velvet. The hat has a soft crown, surrounded by a reseda velvet band finished on one side by a pearl and steel ornament, while on the opposite side clusters of reseda ostrich tips are arranged most picturesquely.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Memory Lesson.

"It seems to me," said the worried looking man, "that memory is very much a matter of habit. Now, for instance, there's the umbrella, generally supposed to be the most easily forgotten of all things. I never forget mine, for I am accustomed to carry it daily, rain or shine, and I should miss it almost as much as I would my hat.

"But I am not accustomed to carry parcels home, so in order to remember them I manage in this way:

"I carry my luggage in a certain number of pieces. I have, say, big parcel, little parcel, two overcoats and umbrella. When I enter or leave the train, I know that I ought to have five pieces, and I never forget them. Another way of remembering is to put the package on the floor of the carriage where I must stumble over it in getting out. The other way is to carry it in my lap or to lean it up against me so that it will fall and attract my attention when I get up. If I neglect to take one of these precautionary measures the package is gone."

FASHION FANCIES.

Ermine Stoles Fashionable — The Rage For Embroideries.

Ermine stoles are a great deal worn in Paris, but this fur is really only suitable for evening wear.

Squirrel will not last in the popular favor long, although the trying gray color is becoming to a few, and it certainly is much cheaper than chinchilla.

The rage for embroideries and incrustations of lace is greater than ever, and we shall do well, therefore, to use any we may have by us.

The amount a smart woman must spend on petticoats if she wishes to appear well dressed is enormous. The underskirt of today is a very important article of dress, being a mass of frills and furbelows, and it must be dainty and elegant. Although glace petticoats are made up cheaply and look tempting, their wearing properties are small when worn by those who walk much. The economically minded should pick up some remnants of satin or peau de sole, for although a petticoat requires many yards of silk, yet it is permissible to use two shades, one for the upper and the other for the frills. A soft silk lining adds greatly to the wearing qualities.

BLACK TAFFETA SKIRT.

The dress skirt in the picture is of black silk elaborately tucked and trimmed with velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

ODD FURS.

Handsome Coats Are Made of Greenland Seal.

Some odd new skins have appeared on the fur market, Greenland seal is the latest, and it is remarkably pretty. Cream of tone and spotted of surface, it somehow suggests the leopard's skin, yet lacks its harshness when supplied with a collar of skunk or black fox, for it really makes most smart little jackets.

A recent costume was composed of a skirt of mastic cloth and a blouse of surah silk of the same tones. The latter was trimmed with elaborate decorations of Chinese embroidery, having tassels of many colors pendent from straps on the shoulder. A Greenland seal coat lined with mastic satin and a marquis hat of bright colored velvet, the brim upturned, completed the costume, which also had the muff matching the seal coat. This was made in the latest style, large in size, trimmed with bands of skunk on either side.

COAT OF WHITE CLOTH.

A pretty three-quarter length evening coat is here shown. It is made of white cloth, with the revers and cuffs strapped in a darker material.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Rogers, Editor and Proprietor

THE BOROUGH ELECTION.

North Plainfield is going to have an election in the course of two months which gives promise of being a highly exciting one. Of late, all sorts of exciting things have been happening in North Plainfield but this promises to be the equal of any past event as far as excitement is concerned. In another column will be found a careful and impartial review of the situation over the brook. It is too early yet to make predictions as to what great value but all sorts of conjectures are rife and it is interesting to know what they are.

From the present outlook it seems very likely that Mayor N. B. Smalley will be renominated and will have a fair chance of re-election. Mr. Smalley is by no means the typical mayor of a suburban town. He has methods of his own which he has utilized since he was raised to that office but no one can scientifically state that he has not administered the borough's affairs in a satisfactory manner. Although he has in many ways departed from the beaten track, his own ways have often proved the excellence of his judgment regarding both men and municipal affairs.

There is one thing about it. Although Mayor Smalley is strongly in favor of the Greater Plainfield scheme, he has not allowed his interest in the affairs of the present municipality to lag so far, nor is he likely to do so in the future if he should be re-elected. It is this fact that will probably win for him the support of many citizens who strongly opposed annexation in the special election. Whatever one may say about the Mayor, his integrity and honesty of purpose cannot be questioned. He may be a clever politician, he is certainly diplomatic, but what most interests the taxpayers, he is a large property owner in the borough and he looks after the interests of the others who own property as well as himself.

This suggestion of a resident of the borough that Former Mayor W. L. Saunders be nominated is a deserved compliment paid to a man who is entitled to all the honor which the borough can confer on him. It is doubtful whether Mr. Saunders' business duties would permit him to accept such a nomination. There is other work before Mr. Saunders. The fight for consolidation is not yet over by any means and when the next campaign starts it will be to Mr. Saunders that we will look to assume his position as leader of the greater city forces. When city and borough are one, it would be the happiest kind of a compliment to name Mr. Saunders as mayor of the greater city.

THE Y. M. C. A.

A great and excellent work is being accomplished in Plainfield these days by the Young Men's Christian Association. Anyone who has any doubts on that subject will do well to read the review of the association's work as published in another column. It is customary for the president of the Y. M. C. A. to sum up the work of the year and present it as a report at the annual meeting of the association. Following out this custom, Stephen Cahoone, who is the executive head of the local Y. M. C. A. summed up comprehensively the accomplishments and happenings at the association during the last twelve months and presented it at the annual meeting last evening. The complete text of his report is published in this issue.

There are two significant facts about the report. It shows a steady growth in the membership and it demonstrates the fact that the association is not being conducted beyond its means. Everybody understands that the Young Men's Christian Association is not a self-supporting institution. It must depend on the subscriptions of the people of Plainfield to meet its obligations. Those in whose hands the management of the association has been intrusted have done well.

President Cahoone points out that the most important event has been the enlargement and growth of the boys' work. Any one who has been at all in touch with the association cannot help but see the wonderful strides made in that department since Kenneth Robbie assumed charge. He has interested the boys in the association as they never were before and there is every reason to believe that the present prosperity for that department is in reality only a start toward better things.

Considerable attention has been paid to the physical work department but there have been those who were afraid that the association would devote too much attention to athletics to the exclusion of the higher aims of the organization. No one wishes the association to become merely a huge athletic club but there is no way in which it can reach more of the young men of today than through this very branch. A physical work department with a variety of sports and frequent contests to interest the young men is sure to attract them. Then if the association cannot hold them, it is the fault of the association in general and not of the physical work department. With the Y. M. C. A. always in the foreground ready to encourage and support any healthy amateur sport, it would attract many young men to its doors who would, in time, be brought into the other branches of the work and thus accomplish that for which the association was formed.

IT WILL NOT WORK.

After several hundred thousand dollars have been spent by the State in paying one-third of the cost of building good roads in the different counties of the State, the Board of Freeholders of Somerset county expresses a desire that its legislators attempt to increase the State's share in road building to one-half. The reason for this action is undoubtedly the demands that are being made on the Somerset county Freeholders from all over that county for new roads. If the State would pay half then Somerset county would be enabled to build more roads than it can under the present arrangement whereby it pays two-thirds to the one-third contribution of the State.

Nobody doubts for a moment that such a change of policy would work to the advantage of Somerset county where the people are beginning to wake up to the advantages of good roads. The objection would come from other counties which have been building roads under the present act and naturally would object to see Somerset and the other conservative counties get advantages that were not given to the more progressive ones.

This change in the share of the State's appropriation is not a new one as it has been brought up in the Legislature before. At that time the argument against it was precisely that noted. It did not seem fair to the progressive counties to see those that had delayed road building until now reap the benefits that really ought to go to the up-to-date ones if any favoritism at all was to be shown. This argument effectually ended the proposal before and there is very reason to believe that it will kill Somerset's attempt to revive it.

TRESTLE FIRE.

Fire Department Called Out in the Cold Early Monday Morning for a Blaze.

While the thermometer flirted with the zero mark, the members of the local fire department were called out by an alarm to box 63 at 2:15, Monday morning. It was sent in by Roundsman John Flynn for a brisk blaze in the trestle work of the Campbell Press Works on South avenue near Berckman street.

The trestle is composed entirely of resinous ties with large wooden bins overtopping, all of which were in flames. The chemical engine was used first without effect and two streams were put on. A loss of $200 resulted before the fire was put out.

The firemen had a hard time of it while at work as the spray from the streams fell upon them and completely covered their clothing with ice. The trestle work was also coated and it was with great difficulty they moved about.

OLD HOUSE GOING.

Old Timer on Watchung Avenue Will be Replaced by Modern Dwellings.

The work of demolishing the old Bultman house on Watchung avenue at the corner of Kensington avenue, is in process. The property, owned by DeWitt C. Irving, will be improved and in place of the old house there will be erected handsome residences. The old house stood formerly where S. A. Ginns's handsome residence is now located and forty years ago it was one of three houses on Watchung avenue between Seventh street and Woodland avenue. It was then occupied by Jacob Laing, father of E. M. Laing, of Park avenue.

KITCHEN PROMISED.

Societies at Hope Chapel Agree to Donate Funds for It.

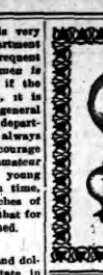
At a special meeting of the officers of Hope chapel, held Saturday, it was decided to begin at once raising sufficient funds for a modern kitchen to be erected in the rear of the present buildings. All the societies connected with the chapel have promised support and the Ladies' Aid Society immediately agreed to donate $200. It is estimated that $1,000 will be needed for the purpose.

Filling in Ditch.

Workmen are very busy in filling in the ditch in front of the new houses which have been recently erected on West End avenue. The ditch is a deep one and when the work is completed it will add greatly to the appearance of the street.

Quarantine Raised.

The quarantine has been raised at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Runyon on Madison, where Mrs. Runyon was ill with diphtheria and tonsilitis.



We want You to know Us

not only as makers of the NEW ROCHESTER,

THE STANDARD LAMP OF THE WORLD,

but also as headquarters for all lamp information. We will cheerfully supply it gratis, whether pertaining to Rochester goods or not. Write us a postal or letter, mentioning this paper, and say you think "ROCHESTER" deserves you think "LAMP." But we don't want you to consider, as so many do, that any centre-draft lamp is a Rochester. The name is a trade mark of a particular lamp. And every lamp that has not that name burned on it is not a real Rochester or NEW ROCHESTER. If the dealer you sell or others it as such he is trying to defraud you. Beware of him.

Whatever you want to know about lamps,
Whenever you want to know it, ask

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,
38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

THEATRICAL.

One of the most quotable musical comedies that has come to Broadway in many months is "The Sultan of Sulu," at Wallack's Theatre, New York, in which Humorist George Ade has used for stage purposes the clever talent that has made his famous "Fables in Slang" so widely popular. Henry W. Savage's production of the Ade-Wathall musical satire appears to have made the hit of the year at Wallack's and the critics are predicting an unlimited run for the merry "Sultan" and his array of bewitching wives. Mr. Ade's humorous shafts are making New Yorkers laugh and *are already found their way to club*dom and society.

Very extensive alterations in the stage at the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York, are being made for the presentation of Klaw & Erlanger's production of the latest Drury Lane spectacle, "Mr. Blue Beard," at this house Wednesday evening of next week, where it will make a long run. This extravaganza will be staged in fifteen massive scenes. During the performance fully sixteen hundred different costumes will be worn by a company, chorus and ballet of over four hundred people. There will be two great ballets presented, one called "The Land of Ferns" and the other "The Triumph of the Magic Fan." But scenery and costumes do not make up an entire production. John J. McNally, the author of the Rogers Brothers' farces, has written an entirely new book for "Mr. Blue Beard" and Frederick Solomon has provided a new score of popular music. The predominant interest of the story will be comic and it will be told with the spirit and dash that have contributed so much to the popularity of Klaw & Erlanger's musical entertainments. A large number of very original and attractive specialties will also have a place in the programme. While "Mr. Blue Bear" will be a production similar to "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" of last season, will be of greater magnitude in the number of people employed and far more gorgeous in the scenic embellishments and the costuming.

This evening, Col. John C. Fisher will celebrate the 100th performance of his latest musical play "The Silver Slipper" at the Broadway Theatre, New York. The occasion will be celebrated with expensive and beautiful souvenirs, typical of the name of the play—silver slippers that were im*ported from Germany.* The souvenirs could not be otherwise than in keeping with the lavish and stupendous manner in which Mr. Fisher presented this most delightful of English musical plays to the American theatre going public. That "The Silver Slipper" will continue at the Broadway for months to come and that there will be more souvenir performances there is not the slightest doubt. The same all star company remains, with Sam Bernard the inimitable German comedian; dainty and petite Edna Wallace-Hopper and the debonair Cyril Scott at its head.

"The Liberty Belles," the new musical comedy by Harry B. Smith, presented by that famous combination of talented men and beautiful women known as Klaw & Erlanger's Troubadours including Harry Gilfoil, will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House, Manhattan, for one week only starting today. This delightful novelty has scored the greatest hit among the musical productions of the past many seasons. Unique in its conception, splendidly staged and played by a company of extraordinary talent, it caught New York as no other piece has done in years during a run of four months at the Madison Square Theatre last season. A large number of very entertaining musical numbers are interpolated during the action, which greatly enhances its value as a diversion. This piece will be found very pleasing by those who delight in music, wit and humor intermingled in an interesting comic story.

Celebration at Three Bridges.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Higgins, of Three Bridges, celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of their wedding, Wednesday evening. Fifty friends were present including two daughters from this city, Mrs. Howard R. Biggins, of East Seventh street, and Mrs. John Hyler, of West Front street.

UNCLE SAM DIDN'T FORGET

ROBERT HART IS NOW TO RECEIVE A GENEROUS SUM.

He Was Entitled to a Pension, But Couldn't be Found—Now He Gets It All.

Through the beneficence of Uncle Sam, Robert Hart, of South Second street, will shortly come into possession of a small fortune. Back pension amounting to something over $1,300 is due him and it has been promised him through the Boston pension office of the government. Officials have been in communication with Attorney V. *W. Nash, Jr., and as soon as the pre*liminary arrangements can be completed, the money will be forthcoming.

Hart, who is a well known figure in the West End, is at present employed in the foundry of the Pond Machine Tool Company. He enlisted during the Civil War and during an engagement was shot in the head. The bullet was never extracted and at frequent intervals since it incapacitated him. In 1891 he applied for a pension but it was five years later before it was granted. Hart as that time was living in New Haven, Conn., and just previous to the government's action he shipped on the brig "Mary Jane" for Honolulu. The postoffice authorities were unable to locate him and the papers were returned to Washington.

Nothing more was done in the matter until Hart placed the matter in Attorney Nash's hands a few weeks ago. Prompt response was made to his inquiries and all back pension will be sent on.

During his residence in this city, Hart has always been employed at Pond's. He is married and has a family.

AT LEHIGH.

Register of That Pennsylvania College Just Issued.

The Register of Lehigh University, South Bethlehem, Pa., just issued, shows the attendance of 581 students, from twenty-seven States and six foreign countries. There are fifty-two in the teaching staff.

Twelve courses of instruction are offered at the university: The classical course, the Latin-scientific course, courses in civil, mechanical, metal*lurgical, mining, electrical and chem*ical engineering, analytical chemistry, geology, physics and electrometallurgy.

A list of the graduates of the uni*versity, 1,248* in number during the thirty-seven years of its existence, indicates that this institution is exerting a very marked influence on the industrial development of the United States, and also of foreign countries.

The following prize scholarships will be open to competition at the annual examinations in June: Two in the classical course of $150 and $100 each and one in the Latin-scientific course of $135 annually in addition to free tuition. Provision is made for worthy and needy students whereby they may postpone payment of tuition until after graduation.

In the list of students are the names of R. A. Droll, G. LeR. Hallock, F. R. Horne, L. W. Howard from Plainfield.

HAYES' STORY.

Says He Was Unwittingly Dragged Into Chicken Stealing Case.

Harry Hayes, who was arrested recently with John Morecraft, charged with stealing chickens belonging to Mrs. Shervell, of the borough, says that he was unwittingly brought into the trouble. He says that he was on his way home the night that the chickens were alleged to have been taken, and Morecraft asked him to assist in taking the chickens to his, Morecraft's, brother-in-law's home. Soon afterward they met a policeman and the two were arrested. Mr. Hayes bears a good reputation among people for whom he has worked and he says that it was the first time in his life he was arrested.

In Honor of Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Drake, of West Third street, entertained a party of friends at their home, Saturday evening, in honor of several friends from Brooklyn, Lebanon, Pa., and Bridgeton. The hours were passed pleasantly with games, music and dancing.

This famous remedy does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even if but slightly disordered or overburdened.

Like a Comet in the sky comes the star of health to the weak and weary despondent; speedily curing all stomach troubles and digestive disorders.

Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles and membranes of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. It cures Indigestion, Flatulence, palpitation of the heart, nervous dyspepsia and all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying and strengthening the glands, membranes of the stomach and digestive organs.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

Your Dealer Can Supply You.
Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50c.
Prepared by E. C. DeWITT & Co., CHICAGO.

L. W. RANDOLPH.

WOULDN'T WAIT.

Clothes Line Thieves Departed Despite Edward Mundy's Earnest Requests to Remain.

Two daring robberies took place in the borough Monday, which have the police of North Plainfield on the qui vive.

Edward Mundy, of Chatham street, was awakened last night by a loud noise in the yard and arising found that two men were at work removing the clothes from the clothes line in the yard. He called upon them to desist but they took to their heels and ran taking about $10 worth of clothes with them.

Another robbery took place at the home of Albert Perry, of Harrison avenue, when a valuable overcoat was stolen from the front parlor of his house. A shabbily dressed man applied at the back door for something to eat and while Mrs. Perry was giving him what he asked a confederate walked into the front parlor and stole the overcoat.

AMONG MINIATURES.

Miss Meade's Picture Included in Marie's Famous Collection.

Miss Leontine Meade, formerly of Mercer avenue, who is spending the winter in Berlin, is a niece of the late Peter Marie, prominent in New York social and art circles, who died last week at his home in New York. His "Gallery of American Beauty," consisting of four hundred miniatures of well known and beautiful women of society in New York, Boston, Newport, Philadelphia and other cities during the last twenty years, is to be presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, of New York. The miniature of Miss Meade is in this collection and will be regarded with interest by the many friends who know her.

Special Instructor.

W. L. Holbert, of the International Correspondence Schools, of Scranton, Pa., is giving instructions through a special instructor to his students at Somerville and Bound Brook, and is negotiating to opening classes here. Mr. Holbert's success in Plainfield has been very flattering. His headquarters are with Armstrong, the druggist, Park avenue.

Park Club Show.

Wallace P. Guilford, chairman of the committee having in charge the entertainment to be given at the Park Club, Saturday evening, January 24, has about perfected arrangements for the same. The entertainment will be divided into part musical and part variety.

Dr. Humphreys' Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

No.	CURES.	PRICE.
1	Fevers, Congestion, Inflammation	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic	.25
6	Cholera Morbus, Vomiting	.25
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
9	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Weak Stomach	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping Cough	.25
27	Kidney Disease	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggist or sent free.
Sold by druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER JAN. 12, 1902.

Trains will leave Plainfield as follows:—
8.26 a. m.—Express daily, with Pullman Vestibule Parlor Cars, for Pittsburg and Cincinnati, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.
8.27 p. m.—Western Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping and Dining Cars, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.
9.27 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, and Chicago daily for Louisville, Cincinnati, Shenandoah Valley Route, for Cleveland, except Saturday.
The Southern's Palm Limited—1.50 p.m. week-days.
The Atlantic Coast Line Florida Special—3.55 p. m. week days.
Seaboard Florida Limited—10.7 p. m. daily.
For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1.26, 3.30, 9.07, 9.31 a. m., 1.24, 1.27, 10.09 p. m. On Sundays, 1.26, 3.30, 9.07, 9.31 a. m., 1.24, 1.27, and 10.07 p. m.
For Newark and New York—2.12, 5.45, 6.48, 8.12, 9.00, 9.40, 10.40, 11.40 a. m., 12.00, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 7.17, 7.55, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m., 12.01 night. Sundays, 2.12, 5.45, 6.48, 8.12, 9.00, 9.40, 10.40, 11.40 a. m., 12.00, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 7.17, 7.55, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m., 12.01 night.
For Philadelphia, Broad Street Station, 2.12, 5.45, 6.48, 8.12, 9.00, 9.40, 10.40, 11.40 a. m., 12.00, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 7.17, 7.55, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m., 12.01 night. Sundays, 2.12, 5.45, 6.48, 8.12, 9.00, 9.40, 10.40, 11.40 a. m., 12.00, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 7.17, 7.55, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m., 12.01 night.
For Trenton—2.00, 9.55, 7.20, 9.05, 9.55, 9.07, 10.55, 11.40, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 2.00, 3.15, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07, 8.07, 9.07, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 4.07, 9.07, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07 and 10.07 p. m.
For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, 9.55 a. m. week-days. For Flemington, 9.55 a. m. week-days.
For Bound Brook, Somerville and Raritan, 9.55 a. m. week-days.
For Perth Amboy—6.44, 9.05, 11.07 a. m., 12.05, 4.00, 5.05, 6.15, 7.25, 9.04 p. m., and 12.02 night week-days. Sundays—10.35, 11.44 a. m., and 12.02 night.
For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Point Pleasant, 11.07 a. m. week-days. For Long Branch, 9.40 a. m., 12.05, and 5.43 p. m., 12.07 night week-days. Sundays, 12.05 p. m. and 12.07 night. For Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, 12.05 p. m. Sundays.
For Bradley Beach and Ocean Grove, connect at Jersey City with boats of Pennsylvania Annex, affording direct transfer to and from the Pennsylvania wedding and funeral carriage and journey across New York City.
Leave New Brunswick—From Albany Street, 6.55, 7.55, 9.55 a. m., 12.55, 2.55, 4.55, 6.55, 8.55, 10.55 p. m. and 12.55 night. From Penn Street, 7.00, 8.00, 10.00 a. m., 1.00, 3.00, 5.00, 7.00, 9.00, 11.00 p. m. and 1.00 night.
Leave South Amboy—7.00 a. m., 12.15, 4.10, 7.10, 9.45 p. m. and 12.15 night. Sundays, 9.30 a. m. and 12.15 night.
Leave Perth Amboy—7.15, 8.15, 10.15 a. m., 1.15, 3.15, 5.15, 7.15, 9.15, 11.15 p. m. and 1.15 night. Sundays, 9.45 a. m. and 1.15 night.
Leave Long Branch—7.00, 8.00, 10.00 a. m., 1.00, 3.00, 5.00, 7.00, 9.00, 11.00 p. m. and 1.00 night. Sundays, 9.30 a. m. and 1.00 night.
Leave Asbury Park—7.15, 8.15, 10.15 a. m., 1.15, 3.15, 5.15, 7.15, 9.15, 11.15 p. m. and 1.15 night. Sundays, 9.45 a. m. and 1.15 night.
Leave Ocean Grove—7.20, 8.20, 10.20 a. m., 1.20, 3.20, 5.20, 7.20, 9.20, 11.20 p. m. and 1.20 night. Sundays, 9.50 a. m. and 1.20 night.
Leave Point Pleasant—7.00 a. m. week-days.
For Cape May—1.26 p. m. week-days.
For Sea Girt—6.44, 7.55, 9.05, 9.07, 10.55, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 2.00, 3.15, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07, 8.07, 9.07, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 4.07, 9.07, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07 and 10.07 p. m.
For Manasquan—2.00, 9.55, 7.20, 9.05, 9.55, 9.07, 10.55, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 2.00, 3.15, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07, 8.07, 9.07, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 4.07, 9.07, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07 and 10.07 p. m.
For Bay Head—2.00, 9.55, 7.20, 9.05, 9.55, 9.07, 10.55, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 2.00, 3.15, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07, 8.07, 9.07, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 4.07, 9.07, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07 and 10.07 p. m.
For Atlantic City—8.45 a. m., 2.00 p. m.
For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.44, 8.36, 9.14, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 2.44, 3.44, 4.44, 5.17, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m., 12.01 night. Sundays—5.17, 7.44, 8.36, 9.14, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 2.44, 3.44, 4.44, 5.17, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m., 12.01 night.
For Wilmington—5.17, 7.44, 8.36, 9.14, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 2.44, 3.44, 4.44, 5.17, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m., 12.01 night. Sundays, 5.17, 7.44, 8.36, 9.14, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 2.44, 3.44, 4.44, 5.17, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m., 12.01 night.
For Baltimore and Washington—9.14, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 3.44, 5.17, 7.05, 8.05, 10.05 p. m., 12.01 night. Sundays, 9.14, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 3.44, 5.17, 7.05, 8.05, 10.05 p. m., 12.01 night.
For Washington and Harrisburg—4.17, 4.36, 8.36, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 3.44, 4.44, 5.17, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m., 12.01 night. Sundays, 4.17, 4.36, 8.36, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 3.44, 4.44, 5.17, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m., 12.01 night.
For Chester—6.44, 7.55, 9.05, 9.07, 10.55, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 2.00, 3.15, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07, 8.07, 9.07, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 4.07, 9.07, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07 and 10.07 p. m.
For Wilmington—6.44, 8.00, 11.07 a. m., 12.05, 4.00, 5.05, 6.15, 7.25, 9.04 p. m., and 12.02 night week-days. Sundays—10.35, 11.44 a. m., and 12.02 night.
For Perth Amboy—6.44, 9.05, 11.07 a. m., 12.05, 4.00, 5.05, 6.15, 7.25, 9.04 p. m., and 12.02 night week-days. Sundays—10.35, 11.44 a. m., and 12.02 night.
For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, 9.55 a. m. week-days. For Flemington, 9.55 a. m. week-days.
For Bound Brook, Somerville and Raritan, 9.55 a. m. week-days.
For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Point Pleasant, 11.07 a. m. week-days. For Long Branch, 9.40 a. m., 12.05, and 5.43 p. m., 12.07 night week-days. Sundays, 12.05 p. m. and 12.07 night. For Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, 12.05 p. m. Sundays.
For Bradley Beach and Ocean Grove, connect at Jersey City with boats of Pennsylvania Annex, affording direct transfer to and from the Pennsylvania wedding and funeral carriage and journey across New York City.
Leave New Brunswick—From Albany Street, 6.55, 7.55, 9.55 a. m., 12.55, 2.55, 4.55, 6.55, 8.55, 10.55 p. m. and 12.55 night. From Penn Street, 7.00, 8.00, 10.00 a. m., 1.00, 3.00, 5.00, 7.00, 9.00, 11.00 p. m. and 1.00 night.
Leave South Amboy—7.00 a. m., 12.15, 4.10, 7.10, 9.45 p. m. and 12.15 night. Sundays, 9.30 a. m. and 12.15 night.
Leave Perth Amboy—7.15, 8.15, 10.15 a. m., 1.15, 3.15, 5.15, 7.15, 9.15, 11.15 p. m. and 1.15 night. Sundays, 9.45 a. m. and 1.15 night.
Leave Long Branch—7.00, 8.00, 10.00 a. m., 1.00, 3.00, 5.00, 7.00, 9.00, 11.00 p. m. and 1.00 night. Sundays, 9.30 a. m. and 1.00 night.
Leave Asbury Park—7.15, 8.15, 10.15 a. m., 1.15, 3.15, 5.15, 7.15, 9.15, 11.15 p. m. and 1.15 night. Sundays, 9.45 a. m. and 1.15 night.
Leave Ocean Grove—7.20, 8.20, 10.20 a. m., 1.20, 3.20, 5.20, 7.20, 9.20, 11.20 p. m. and 1.20 night. Sundays, 9.50 a. m. and 1.20 night.
Leave Point Pleasant—7.00 a. m. week-days.
For Cape May—1.26 p. m. week-days.
For Sea Girt—6.44, 7.55, 9.05, 9.07, 10.55, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 2.00, 3.15, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07, 8.07, 9.07, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 4.07, 9.07, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07 and 10.07 p. m.
For Manasquan—2.00, 9.55, 7.20, 9.05, 9.55, 9.07, 10.55, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 2.00, 3.15, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07, 8.07, 9.07, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 4.07, 9.07, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07 and 10.07 p. m.
For Bay Head—2.00, 9.55, 7.20, 9.05, 9.55, 9.07, 10.55, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 2.00, 3.15, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07, 8.07, 9.07, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 4.07, 9.07, 11.40 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07 and 10.07 p. m.
For Atlantic City—8.45 a. m., 2.00 p. m.
For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.44, 8.36, 9.14, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 2.44, 3.44, 4.44, 5.17, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m., 12.01 night. Sundays—5.17, 7.44, 8.36, 9.14, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 2.44, 3.44, 4.44, 5.17, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m., 12.01 night.
For Wilmington—5.17, 7.44, 8.36, 9.14, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 2.44, 3.44, 4.44, 5.17, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m., 12.01 night. Sundays, 5.17, 7.44, 8.36, 9.14, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 2.44, 3.44, 4.44, 5.17, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m., 12.01 night.
For Baltimore and Washington—9.14, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 3.44, 5.17, 7.05, 8.05, 10.05 p. m., 12.01 night. Sundays, 9.14, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 3.44, 5.17, 7.05, 8.05, 10.05 p. m., 12.01 night.
For Washington and Harrisburg—4.17, 4.36, 8.36, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 3.44, 4.44, 5.17, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m., 12.01 night. Sundays, 4.17, 4.36, 8.36, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 3.44, 4.44, 5.17, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m., 12.01 night.
Change cars at Bound Brook.
W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Man'r.
C. M. BURT, Gen. Pas. Agent.

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT Nov. 16, 1902.

For New York—4.11, 4.55, 5.30, 6.30, 6.55, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 a. m., 12.00, 12.30, 1.00, 1.30, 2.00, 2.30, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 p. m., 12.00 night. Sundays, 4.11, 4.55, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 a. m., 12.00, 12.30, 1.00, 1.30, 2.00, 2.30, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 p. m., 12.00 night.
For Newark—4.11, 4.55, 5.30, 6.30, 6.55, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 a. m., 12.00, 12.30, 1.00, 1.30, 2.00, 2.30, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 p. m., 12.00 night. Sundays—4.11, 4.55, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 a. m., 12.00, 12.30, 1.00, 1.30, 2.00, 2.30, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 p. m., 12.00 night.
For Somerville—7.30, 7.55, 9.30, 11.30 a. m., 1.30, 3.30, 5.30, 7.30, 9.30, 11.30 p. m. Sundays—9.45 a. m., 5.05, 6.05 p. m.
For Flemington—7.55, 11.30 a. m., 3.30, 7.30 p. m. Sundays—9.45 a. m., 5.05, 6.05 p. m.
For Phillipsburg and Easton—7.55, 9.30, 11.30 a. m., 3.30, 7.30 p. m. Sundays—9.45 a. m., 5.05, 6.05 p. m.
For Allentown, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.55, 9.30 a. m., 3.30, 7.30 p. m. Sundays—9.45 a. m., 5.05, 6.05 p. m.
For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.55, 9.30 a. m., 3.30, 7.30 p. m. Sundays—9.45 a. m., 5.05, 6.05 p. m.
For Lehighton, Weatherly and Hazleton—5.55, 9.30 a. m., 3.30 p. m. Sundays—9.45 a. m., 5.05 p. m.
For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—7.55, 11.30 a. m., 3.30, 7.30 p. m. Sundays, day (except Ocean Grove)—9.45 a. m., 5.05 p. m. Sundays, Ocean Grove only—9.45 a. m. (Saturday only).
For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—7.55, 11.30 a. m., 3.30, 4.17 p. m. Sundays—9.45 a. m., 5.05 p. m.
For Atlantic City—8.45 a. m., 2.00 p. m.
For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.44, 8.36, 9.14, 9.44, 10.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.44, 1.36, 2.14, 2.44, 3.44, 4.44, 5.17, 6.05, 7.

ESCAPED FROM QUARANTINE

Colored Man Broke Out of New Brunswick's Isolation Hospital—Was Captured.

HE STARTED THIS WAY

Local Police and Health Authorities Were Waiting for Him at Trolley Terminus, But He Didn't Appear—Was Captured at New Brunswick After a Fight.

The local police and health board authorities had a little scare, last Friday, that sent officials from both scurrying to the western and southern outskirts of the city in search of a colored man suffering with small-pox who had broken out of the isolation hospital at New Brunswick. An embargo was placed on the Bound Brook and Dunellen cars and all roads leading from South Plainfield were carefully patrolled. Relief came shortly before midnight when word from New Brunswick stated the fellow had been captured and safely housed.

The man has been in the New Brunswick isolation hospital suffering with a bad form of small-pox. He would have been released in one week but at present his condition is at the danger period. Early Friday eve'g he made his way out of the place and as he has friends in this city it was thought he would at once come here. Chief Kiely was informed by telephone and he in turn notified Inspector Addis of the Health Board.

The latter immediately donned his germ proof clothing and, driving to the Dunellen terminus, warned, the conductors of cars on both the local and Bound Brook lines not to let him ride. Policemen were also despatched to the southern outskirts and carefully guarded every avenue of entrance to town. The cordon was maintained until the second word came from New Brunswick.

According to the New Brunswick police, the patient was aiming for Plainfield but kept under cover for some time after he made his way out of the hospital. He was caught near Franklin Park but only suffered himself to be retaken after a desperate struggle. The officers fought him for a long time and were finally forced to bind him with ropes and tie him in a wagon.

COMMITTEES NAMED.

Committees for Ensuing Year of the Women's Relief Corps.

At the last meeting of the Women's Relief Corps committees for the ensuing year were appointed as follows: Executive board, Mrs. W. R. Mattox, Mrs. Andrew Cox, Mrs. Charles Westphal, Mrs. John Manley, Mrs. Sadie Baglin; relief, Mrs. Charles Westphal, Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, Mrs. Caspar Bolsterli; conference, Mrs. William C. Smith, Mrs. Sarah D. Brokaw, Mrs. Charles B. Stephens, Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, Mrs. Caspar Bolsterli; auditing, Mrs. Charles Westphal, Mrs. W. R. Mattox, Mrs. Sadie Baglin; good and welfare, Mrs. Andrew Cox, Mrs. John R. Naylor, Mrs. S. C. Terry, Mrs. John Manley, Mrs. Edward DeVine; home and employment, Mrs. Charles B. Stephens, Miss May E. Howlett.

Mrs. John Manley, who was recently elected junior vice president, resigned this position and Mrs. Charles Westphal was elected and installed in her place.

TOURNAMENTS BEGUN.

Park Club Bowlers Started Contests at Individual Tournaments.

Park Club bowlers were out in force Saturday evening for the opening of the ten-pin and "cocked hat" individual tournaments. While the committee in charge had announced that the matches in these tournaments might begin before Saturday, that day really marked the beginning of the play.

In addition to those who contested in the two tournaments there was quite a crowd of members and their friends who turned out to take advantage of the privileges of the club.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and bowels and is a pleasant laxative. This effect is produced by the combination of herbs of which it is made. It is called Laxative Bromo Quinine.

LANE'S FAMILY MEDICINE

All druggists or by mail 25 cts. and 50 cts. Buy it to-day. Lane's Family Medicine moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Address, Box 2939, La Salle, N. Y.

IN WARNING OTHERS THEY ALMOST DROWNED

Two Young Men Had Narrow Escape From Drowning in Tier's Lake Saturday.

WENT TO WARN OTHERS

KENNETH MAYER TUMBLED IN AN AIR HOLE HE DIDN'T SEE.

Chas. Holstein Went to His Rescue and Fell in Too—Both Were Finally Dragged Out and Suffered No Serious Results.

Kenneth Mayer, whose parents live on Mountain avenue, and a companion, Charles Holstein, of Somerset street, went skating at Tier's lake Saturday and while the former was busy warning other skaters away from dangerous holes in the ice he fell in the deepest part of the pond and in trying to save him, his companion, young Holstein, lost his footing and fell headlong into the water. The two boys were rescued with difficulty.

The two boys arrived at the pond at about 10 o'clock and for a time they watched the men harvest the ice until they heard a scream at the fartherest part of the pond and started out to see what was the matter. A young man had broken through the ice and was being fished out by skaters.

Young Mayer saw a number of skaters coming across the pond straight for the very same hole in which the young man had fallen and as he started forward to warn them of their danger he stepped in an air hole and down he went. He carried a hockey stick and this fortunately caught on the ice and he was able to hold himself up until his friend Holstein arrived.

In his excitement, young Holstein stepped too near the opening in the ice and he fell in head foremost. He disappeared beneath the ice and it was several seconds before he came to the surface. As soon as he appeared he was caught by other skaters and hauled out onto the ice.

The two young men were sent to their homes where they had some dry clothing put on and yesterday they were able to attend school not in the least suffering from their icy bath.

Shake Off Wintry Blasts.

The months of January and February are the most disagreeable to the northerner and delightful are they for the Florida tourist. The trip to Jacksonville is through a section most historic as it is picturesque and the service to that point via the Royal Blue Line is the best. The New Jersey Central is going to run an excursion to Jacksonville on Tuesday, January 27. Train leaves New York, foot of Liberty street, at 8:30 a. m., arrive Washington at 2:10 p. m., same day leave Washington at 9:50 p. m., January 28, and arrive Jacksonville at 7:40 p. m., January 29. The round trip rate from New York and vicinity is $50, and includes also sleeping car berths, meals en route, transfer and hotel accommodations in Washington. The arrangements are such that the care and worry of the journey are in the hands of the railroad company, and the tourist has the entire time for enjoyment. The New Jersey Central has issued "A Little Yellow Book" on this Florida trip; if you want it send a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York. Its free for the asking. 1 10 5 eod c 2

CONTRACTING MASON.

Jacob Gulick Died at His Home on South Second Street Monday From Paralysis.

The death of Jacob Gulick, the well-known contracting mason, occurred at his home on South Second street, Monday morning. He had been ill for several months suffering from the effects of a paralytic stroke.

Mr. Gulick was sixty-six years old and came to this city in the early eighties from Clinton, Hunterdon county, where he has many relatives. He engaged in the masonry business which he followed up to a short time before his death. He leaves a widow, one daughter, Mrs. Jacob Schlick, and four sons, Austin, Harry, Charles and George, all of whom reside in this city.

On Charity Ball Committee.

Among the men, well-known in Plainfield society, who will act on the floor committee of the coming charity ball to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, are Edward R. Finch and Burritt Shepard, of "The Gables," Fanwood.

Exposure to Wet,

dampness and cold, invariably results in a sudden chill, which if not attended to immediately will cause a cold. By mixing a teaspoonful of Perry Davis' Painkiller in half a glass of warm water or milk, the whole system will be heated and the danger of cold avoided. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Price 25c. and 50c.

NEW SENATOR OF SOMERSET

Samuel Southard Childs is a New and Interesting Figure at Trenton.

MADE HIS WAY IN LIFE

How the Founder and Principal Owner of the Childs' Restaurants Rose to His Present Position in Life—He is a Public Spirited Man—What He Has Done.

Trenton, Jan. 20—Among the new and interesting figures in the senatorial chamber is Samuel Southard Childs, the newly-elected State senator from Somerset county. He is the founder and the principal owner of the Childs' dairy restaurant system, which extends over a large section of the country and which has made him a rich man.

"Sam" Childs, as he is known by his friends, was born on a farm near Bernardsville, and he was one of a family of ten children There was lots of work on the farm to be done by Sam and his brothers, so that very little time was left for them to attend school. This disadvantage was rectified to a certain degree by the fact that the district school teacher boarded with the Childs family and devoted part of nearly every evening to instructing the children. Sam Childs was always an ambitious boy, and appreciated the benefits to be derived from knowledge. He made good use of the school teacher's assistance and gained a thorough understanding of bookkeeping and higher arithmetic.

There is a story told about Senator Childs that forcibly illustrates the ambitious hopes he entertained when still a bare-footed lad. He and several companions were in search of blackberries one hot summer day. They stopped to rest on the summit of the high ridge of hills back of the Childs' farm. The point commanded a magnificent view. The boys expressed their appreciation and "Sam" exclaimed:

"When I'm a man I intend to be rich and to build a house on this spot." His career has, proved his determination. He did become rich, and upon the spot he selected when a youngster is the site of Bairn's Brae, Senator Childs's handsome and comfortable home.

Young Childs prepared himself for the United States Military Academy, and in 1887 received an appointment. After a year at West Point he left to accept a position in the engineering corps of New York City. As it was necessary to have lived in the city six months before entering upon his new duties, he got a position in one of A. W. Dennett's restaurants. While there Mr. Childs became impressed with the possibilities in that kind of a restaurant business. He decided to abandon an engineering career and devote his attention to supplying the public with meals.

With his brothers, William Childs, Jr., and Ellsworth Childs, he opened a restaurant on Courtland street, New York City. As in all new ventures, there were many difficulties to overcome, but Mr. Childs, with the aid of his brothers surmounted them all. The growth of the business in the last twelve years speaks for itself. The Childs brothers have about twenty restaurants in New York, five in Philadelphia, two in Newark and one each in several smaller cities. The general character and equipment of these quick-lunch places are well-known.

Mr. Childs is a public-spirited man. He resides in Bernardsville all the year round and shares with the villagers many of the privileges his wealth has brought him. He has spent $30,000 in bringing from his mountain home to Bernardsville a much-needed water supply. He has also constructed an electric light plant upon his property, and he has run a line to the village so that the residents are supplied with electricity at a nominal cost. Mr. Childs is a member of the Basking Ridge Presbyterian church. He has built at Basking Ridge a public library, which is maintained largely at his expense.

Senator Childs has always been a Democrat. Two years ago he was a Presidential elector on the Democratic ticket. In the fall of 1901 he was a candidate for the Assembly, and was defeated by only forty votes. He is a man of strong, sturdy character, yet quiet and unostentatious.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

LOCAL PASTOR ACCEPTS CALL

Rev. J. W. Richardson Announces His Resignation as Pastor of Park Ave. Baptist.

GOES TO STAMFORD, CT.

Has Decided to Accept Call Made by Church Where He Was Formerly Located—He Made Announcement From the Pulpit at the Morning Service.

Rev. J. W. Richardson, who for the past ten years and two months has been the pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, has accepted the recent call to return to the pastorate of the Stamford, (Conn.,) Baptist church. Announcement of this was made Sunday at the morning service in the Park Avenue Baptist church, when Mr. Richardson gave his decision in the matter. To many the decision was not a surprise, but by others it was believed that Mr. Richardson would remain in this city and continue the good work which he commenced years ago. Every seat in the large church was filled as the service and with great expectancy the members of the church and congregation waited for the announcement.

As soon as the decision was made known, it was noticed that nearly everyone present was visibly affected and there were not a few moistened eyes. Thoughts of severing pleasant associations of many years' standing brought deep feeling of regret to all, but in the light of the explanation offered by the pastor, there were few who could say that Mr. Richardson's decision was not for the best.

The statement made by Mr. Richardson is as follows:

"To the Officers and Members of the Park Avenue Baptist church, Plainfield.

"Dearly Beloved:—

"After an unbroken pastorate of ten years and two months, we are called upon to confront an issue of vast importance to us both. On Monday evening, January 13, by a unanimous vote, the Stamford Baptist church invited me to return to the pastorate of that church. I have prayerfully and thoughtfully considered the whole subject in its bearings upon your future and mine.

"Unfeignedly have I weighed the fact, that during my pastorate with you, no discord or dissension has marred our loving relations, and that today no sort of bitterness exists. Keenly have I appreciated the golden opportunities which Christ has placed so freely at our disposal. It has been a constant pleasure to meet and fellowship with so many warm, steadfast friends in the outside community. And the harmonious relations between the associate pastors and their congregations in Plainfield, have been of the most cordial and delightful character; all of which have contributed to make the idea of removal from this beautiful city doubly difficult.

"On the other hand, the remarkable providence which brought about the perfect unanimity of the recall to Stamford. The fact, that not directly, or indirectly, have I used any influence or means to produce the above result; together with the hearty enthusiasm displayed by the Connecticut brethern towards me, have deeply impressed me with God's meaning.

"I wish to be obedient to the Divine Will, which I believe is revealed through these circumstances; and therefore, directed as I believe by the Holy Spirit, I do hereby resign from the pastorate of the Park Avenue Baptist church, for the purpose of assuming the pastorate of the Stamford Baptist church. With your permission I desire this resignation to take effect on Sunday, February 15, 1903.

"May the Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ richly abide with you all, and guide you in all ways.

"Lovingly your pastor,

"J. Wilbor Richardson."

Of course, not a thought of a successor to Mr. Richardson has as yet been expressed. This matter will have to be brought before the church in due form, when action will be taken. It is likely that there will be a meeting of the church very soon, when action will be taken on the resignation. Then will follow plans for filling the pulpit. This will make three Plainfield churches without regular pastor. Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, the First Baptist church and the Park Avenue Baptist church.

Recovering From Bite.

Chester Denton, of Washington avenue, who was bitten by a dog several days ago, is improving every day. At first the laceration caused much pain, but this has disappeared and the lad is able to walk about with little difficulty.

CITY TO FIGHT DAMAGE SUIT

Street Committee Given the Authority to Act in Trouble With Sewage Disposal Co.

POLICE PATROL SYSTEMS

Police Committee Will Look Into Different Systems as to Merits and Cost and Report at Next Meeting —Members of Board of School Estimate Were Named.

When the Common Council met in adjourned session last Monday there were two important matters that engaged the attention of the members. One was a consideration of a report from Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh regarding the suit of the American Sewage Disposal Company against the city of Plainfield for the alleged infringement of certain rights. The other matter was a resolution offered by Mr. Randolph, chairman of the police committee, authorising the police board to inquire into and examine the various police patrol systems, including the Gamewell system, ascertain the cost and merits of each and report at the next regular meeting. This resolution was adopted after a forty minutes' recess of the Council, during which time Mr. Torrey, of the Gamewell company, was present and explained to the members the system represented by himself.

Regarding the suit of the American Sewage Disposal Company against the city, Mr. Daniel stated that the taking of testimony on behalf of the complainant would begin during the week commencing January 26, and in view of this he offered a resolution providing that all matters and questions involved in this suit be referred to the committee on streets and sewers, that committee being requested to confer with the corporation counsel with authority to take such action as will best protect the city's interests. It is likely that the taking of testimony will occupy at least a week, and it will be necessary for Mr. Marsh to be in Boston and represent Plainfield in whatever is done in this suit. The action, it will be remembered, is brought to recover damages from the city for the use of a certain system, which the complainant company claims to have a patent on the sole right to use.

In reference to the installation of a police patrol system, the Council, as previously stated, seems to be a unit. Mr. Torrey was present at the meeting of the Council and, during the recess, explained the working of the Gamewell system. He said that he had gone over the territory in Plainfield and believed that his system could be installed here at a cost of about $5,000, exclusive of a patrol wagon or horse. This figure represents the cost and installation of the system itself. The Council seemed to be favorably inclined to the proposition, but in order that no unfair methods might be ascribed to the members it was thought best to have the police board examine other systems and the cost of same and report back to the Council.

A third important matter considered was the appointment of two members to the Board of School Estimate. Mr. Daniel nominated Mr. vanHerwerden, one of last year's members, and Mr. Tyler, a new member this year, and they received the unanimous vote of their colleagues.

A request came from President C. J. Fisk, of the Board of Health, for an electric light on Rock avenue near the isolation hospital, and this matter was referred as were also two other petitions, one for two fire hydrants, on East Second street, between Richmond street and Netherwood avenue, and another for two electric lights on East Second street and Johnston avenue.

Mr. Daniel reported back the petition of Mrs. Sarah R. Runyon, of Park avenue, asking for the remittance of $18.70 tax money which she claimed she paid in error, it having been paid once before. Mr. Daniel stated that after investigation it was learned that Mrs. Runyon's claim was just and he moved that the amount claimed be returned after she had produced her receipted bill at the office of Collector Smith.

This concluded the business and the Council adjourned.

Thistle Club Officers.

The following officers have been elected by the Scotch Thistle Club: President, Alexander McDuff; secretary and treasurer, Thomas McNeil; entertaining committee, Andrew Campbell and David Bowden. Burns' birthday anniversary will be observed Saturday evening by an entertainment and reception to be held in K. of P. Hall on West Second street.

WATER SUPPLY FOR 'PLAINS

Plainfield Water Supply Company Will Lay Water Mains to Scotch Plains.

TO INSTALL HYDRANTS

Fanwood Township Committee Will Make Contract With Water Co.—After Many Years of Effort It Has Finally Been Arranged to Have Pipes Laid to Village.

Scotch Plains, Jan. 20—After several years of anxious waiting the residents of this place have hopes of securing a water supply from the Plainfield Water Supply Company. Time and again this matter has been agitated, but for various reasons the matter was delayed. The principal reason was that the people of the town did not take a sufficient interest in the matter to warrant the laying of a main from Fanwood to this place. They would not guarantee to take the water and there was some hitch about fire hydrants.

This trouble is now apparently overcome and at a recent meeting of the water company it was practically decided to lay a main through the town. If this is done the company will install twelve hydrants for fire purposes. There are many who would now take the water and be glad to abandon their old wells and pumps for an absolutely pure and unfailing water supply.

Of course, the Township Committee will enter into a contract with the Plainfield Water Supply Company for the fire hydrants at a certain sum each per year. The company has notified T. J. Nichols, president of the Township Committee, of its recent action and there is rejoicing that the 'Plains is to enjoy one of many improvements needed to make the place ideal in every respect as a residential section.

TROLLEYS STOPPED.

Didn't Run Between Cranford and Elizabeth for Two Hours.

Owing to repairs being made to the boilers at the Elizabeth end of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company's line, there were no cars on that system running between Cranford and Elizabeth for two hours yesterday afternoon, between the hours of 2:30 and 4:30 o'clock. The cars were able to go from this city to Cranford, but from that town there was no trolley communication whatever.

For Draining Purposes.

Street Commissioner Gavett is having a force of men at work clearing out the ditch below Clinton avenue, near South Second street. This ditch, which takes much of the surface drainage in that locality, has filled up with sand from the streets and it has become necessary to remove this.

Changed Light.

At the suggestion of the light committee from the Common Council, the electric light company has changed a light on West Front street in toward the sidewalk so that there may be no shadows as before.

—Miss Chandler, of East Fifth street, will entertain the Geisha Whist Club at her home tomorrow evening.

DIED

McCAULEY—In this city, Jan. 18, 1903, Thomas F. McCauley, in his 44th year.

HUFF—In this city, on Wednesday, Jan. 14, 1903, M. Grace, daughter of Rosa and the late Henry Huff.

GULICK—In this city, Monday, January 19, 1903, Jacob Gulick, aged 66 years.

WANTS AND OFFERS

WANTED—Several apprentice boys to learn the machinists or moulders trade at Scott Press Works. Apply at hours 12 and 6 at office. 1 8 4 c

THE CLEANSING AND HEALING CURE FOR CATARRH is Ely's Cream Balm

Easy and pleasant to use. Contains no injurious drug.

It is quickly absorbed. Gives Relief at once.

It Opens and Cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Inflammation.

Heals and Protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Large Size, 50 cents, at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size 10 cents, by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York

Woolston & Buckle, PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing, Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE.

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. BOOKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses paid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant permanent position. Liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. B. CODDINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange
Money to loan on Approved Security

NEXT MAYOR OF THE BOROUGH

How the Campaign Preceding the March Election in North Plainfield Is Shaping Itself.

Although the borough election in North Plainfield is almost two months away, the trend of events is so plain that it cannot be mistaken. Whether he wants to or not, Mayor Newton B. Smalley will have to stand again for mayor. As avowed captain of the Republican forces in the borough and advocate of the Greater Plainfield movement he has generaled his command thus far and he must stand by it to the end, be it victory or defeat. And just as certain as it is that Mayor Smalley will be a candidate for re-election as chief executive of the borough, so is it certain that the chief issue of the coming election will be a continuation of his policy of municipal government. While the question itself may not actually appear, perhaps, the defenders and opponents of the movement will be facing each other on almost the same lines and the battle waged just as fiercely as ever.

Mayor N. B. Smalley.

It is decidedly early to start campaign talk and yet that subject is uppermost in the minds of a great many boroughites and forms the leading topic of conversation save when some important event of the present temporarily forces it to the background. The interest is there and both sides are slowly beginning to formulate plans for the election. Even at this date mayoralty possibilities are being mentioned and seriously discussed. Without a question, it is going to prove a very exciting election, one that will stir that municipality to its foundations and may have a powerful influence on its future.

At the March election there is to be elected a mayor, to succeed Newton B. Smalley and two Councilmen, to succeed Harrison Coddington and Charles R. Lee. While Former Mayor W. L. Saunders is without doubt the leading spirit in the Greater Plainfield movement, the active command of the consolidation and annexation forces has rested with Mayor Smalley. Of a temperment that naturally assumes leadership in any undertaking he enters, Mayor Smalley has become a power in the borough of North Plainfield that few realize who have not had an opportunity of seeing it for themselves. Mr. Smalley is either for or against any question, you never find him on the "fence." From the start, he has been in favor of the greater city plan and he has never been backward in saying so. With his natural ability as a leader and his wonderful influence in the borough, it is not surprising to find him at the active head of one side or the other. He can be counted in the greater city forces. The other two city officials whose terms of office expire at the same time are, although Republicans, both lined up on the other side. Councilman Coddington has not had much to say but Councilman Lee has been quite strong in his opposition to both consolidation and annexation.

One thing can be counted upon, Mayor Smalley will be nominated but it is not a certainty that the renomination will come from the Republican party. This must not be construed to mean that he will not be the candidate of his party for there is a fair chance that he will be. If, however, by any possibility the opponents of consolidation gain control of the Republican primary and N. B. Smalley is not the man chosen as the mayoralty candidate of the G. O. P., be assured of one thing, Mayor Smalley will a candidate all the same, if not on the Republican ticket then as the standard bearer of an independent movement.

All this prominence is not of Mayor Smalley's own seeking. He is by no means anxious to be renominated. On the contrary he would be only too glad to see his party settle on some strong candidate of the consolidation stripe and there isn't the slightest doubt that the Mayor would do his utmost to bring about the election of such a candidate. To the writer, Mayor Smalley declared that he did not want the nomination and would not seek for it. When the question was put to him point-blank as to whether he would accept the nomination if it was demanded, he replied that he would probably have to, but didn't think that such a state of affairs would come to pass. He is anxious to find another candidate but anyone who has studied the situation at all can see plainly that the course of events simply makes it imperative for N. B. Smalley to stand for the place again.

Just how the Republican party in the borough will stand on this question of a mayoralty nomination is the subject for much interesting conjecture. Mayor Smalley is a very popular man and there are many who, while they are opposed to annexation and consolidation, believe that the present Mayor is one of the most efficient that the borough has ever had and one who ought to be continued in office. This remarkable popularity of the man is another of the reasons why his friends declare that he must stand again.

That there will be a contest at the Republican primaries now seems a foregone conclusion. If one faction or the other discovers at the last moment that there is no show of winning there, it is possible that the primary fight will be dispensed with and the departing faction will devote all its efforts to a contest at the polls with the assistance of an independent ticket. Just at present, however, it looks as if the names of Mayor Smalley and Dr. J. H. Buchanan would be presented at the primary for the mayoralty nomination.

While Dr. Buchanan is not seeking the nomination, he seems to be the most available of the Republicans who are opposed to the greater city scheme and, from present prospects, he is likely to be selected by that wing of the borough G. O. P. While both E. S. Hooley and Chas. W. McCutchen were prominent in their opposition to annexation, neither would accept the nomination knowing that they have not the time which men of their calibre would want to give to such an office. A. V. D. Honeyman, who was probably the most public figure on the "anti" side, is a very busy man and is absent from the borough for several months each year so that he would not consider it. Dr. Buchanan is in North Plainfield or Plainfield practically all the time, is popular in fraternal orders, a member of the fire department, and is generally liked by all who know him.

"Who will be the next mayor of North Plainfield?" remarked a well-known borough business man when the question of probabilities was put to him, "Newt Smalley, of course. Says he won't run? Don't you believe it. He's got to, that's all there is to it. Of course he'll be nominated by the Republicans. You couldn't beat him in a Republican primary if you tried. He's been a good mayor and there are a lot of people who know it and they want him back again and he's going back, too."

"It is a question in my mind who the Republicans will nominate for mayor," said a conservative citizen of the borough. I think without doubt it will be either Mayor Smalley or Dr. Buchanan. Of course I may be wrong but I believe that whichever one is defeated for that nomination will run on an independent ticket."

"What are the Democrats going to do in the borough this March?" was asked of a boroughite of that political persuasion.

"Nominate a ticket," was the prompt reply. "No, I haven't heard any names mentioned except that of David J. Carney for mayor and I do not think he will run. Most of the Democrats in the borough are against annexation and I believe that a candidate of that belief would have an excellent show of election as I understand the Republicans are having troubles of their own. If there is an independent ticket, our chances would be just as good if not better for it would serve to split the Republican vote and give us a show. I think you will be safe in counting on a complete Democratic ticket in the field in March."

A prominent Republican, who is known to stand well with Mayor Smalley and his friends, took another view of the Democratic possibilities. "The next mayor of North Plainfield will be a Republican," he exclaimed. "Don't forget that. Lots of Democrats want Mayor Smalley to run again and have promised to stand by him. There isn't the ghost of a show for a Democratic candidate this year unless they should nominate an "anti" Republican and then I believe we can beat them."

Another prominent resident of the borough took a somewhat different view of the general situation.

"Yes, I understand they want Mayor Smalley to run again," he began. "If he's a candidate, I believe he will be elected. If he is not, then I think the friends of the Greater Plainfield agitation ought to unite in an independent movement and nominate Former Mayor William L. Saunders. He is the man who has kept at it until he has carried the movement to its present position. The citizens of the borough owe him a great deal and no better way could be chosen of showing it. With Mr. Saunders as a candidate, there would be no question as to the platform on which he stands. A victory for him would mean an endorsement of his plan for the betterment of this community. While it would not pledge the people of the borough to any particular method of bringing the desired end about, it would show that, as a lot of us believe, there are a majority of the citizens of North Plainfield who believe that we should be a part of the city of Plainfield. It would also serve as a lesson to Somerville for its past interference in the affairs of the borough.

"No, I haven't said a word to Mr. Saunders about it and I do not know whether he would accept the nomination if it were tendered to him. Possibly he would not as he is a very *busy man and hasn't the time to de*vote to it, but if he were elected, aside from the question of consolidation, he would be a mayor of whom any municipality in the United States would have reason to feel proud. As a gentleman, as a scholar and a business man of executive ability, he is unsurpassed in North Plainfield."

And there you are. Nobody knows what will happen, but the ideas of those who care to predict a little are rather interesting. It all goes to show that the coming campaign is going to be a hot one and that it already promises no end of exciting developments. Meanwhile the only thing to be done is to wait.

WIDOW OF COLLECTOR.

Mrs. Wilson Was an Old Resident of Somerset County.

Mrs. Wilson, who died Jan. 14, at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Peter C. Saums, 29 Manning avenue, was the widow of Elias Wilson, for many years a tax collector in Somerset county. Mrs. Wilson was eighty-four years old and had practically lived in Somerset county all her life.

Mrs. Wilson leaves one son, Charles *N. Wilson, of Millstone; six grand*children, Mrs. Peter C. Saums, of the borough; Fred Wilson, of Elizabethport; George Wilson and Miss Amy Wilson, of Weston; Miss Ethel Wilson, of Lamington; Minard Wilson, of Trenton. There are also three great grandchildren, two of whom are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Saums, and the third the child of Fred Wilson.

The funeral services were held Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock from the First Reformed church, Somerville.

SOME UNIQUE FEATURES.

Will be Introduced at the Coming Endeavor Social.

The last social, which will be given by the social committee of the Christian Endeavor Society, of the First Baptist church, is being arranged by the committee which comprises N. Douglas Drake, chairman; Mrs. H. Y. Flanders, Miss Grace TenEyck, Miss Edith Cairns, Herbert DuBois and J. Henry Crane. Some unique features will be introduced. It is planned to hold the social on Tuesday evening, February 10, in the parlors of the church. An entertainment will comprise part of the programme of the evening.

Mission Work in Japan.

Miss May Tracy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, of West Eighth street, is planning to go in a few weeks to Japan, where she will engage in mission work connected with the Presbyterian church.

Bought Building Lots.

Henry DeMott, the undertaker, of Somerset street, has recently pur*chased nine building lots on Jefferson* avenue through the local real estate agency of William Pangborn.

In reply to inquiries we have pleasure in announcing that Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is like the solid preparation of that admirable remedy in that it cleanses and heals membranes affected by nasal catarrh. There is no drying or sneezing. The Liquid Cream Balm is adapted to use by patients who have trouble in inhaling through the nose and prefer spraying. The price, including spraying tube, is 75 cents. Sold by druggists or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.

MYSTERY IN FIRES.

Fourteen Conflagrations in Forty-Eight Hours Terrify a Family Down in Tennessee.

Residents of Weakley county, Tenn., are stirred up over a series of mysterious fires that have been breaking out in the house of Josiah Page, about two miles from the town of Gleason. The first blaze sprung from apparently no cause whatever last Thursday, and was promptly extinguished by Page and his family. Not more than an hour later the house was again discovered on fire, in a different place, and the blaze was again extinguished. By this time the family was excited, and they began to hunt for the cause of the mystery. Then even while they were looking at the house another blaze was seen creeping out near the roof.

SAW THE FIRE START.

Persons from Gleason heard of the occurrence, and to satisfy curiosity A. S. Brummitt, president of the bank of Gleason, in company with Dr. Bandy, Dr. Bledsoe and other responsible citizens, went out to be convinced that there was nothing at all in it. The party had not been there more than 15 minutes when, to their surprise, a blaze was seen shooting out from the roof of the house, and to make the proposition more unreasonable, after that was put out other fires started in less than 30 minutes.

The members of the family are honest people of average intelligence and are terror stricken, having removed everything from the building and taken their household goods to other quarters. Fire had broken out 14 times in 48 hours, and hundreds of people are flocking out to witness the sight. The writer of this drove out to the place, and, though incredulous, stood and saw the fire start from the west gable of the house, though no one was within 50 feet of the building. The whole community is wrought up over the matter.

NEW STREET COSTUME.

It Consisted of a Suit of Pink Pajamas and Made a Milwaukee Copper Blush.

The Milwaukee correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer relates this story of a pretty woman, a suit of pink pajamas and a big policeman. "What is the charge?" asked the judge.

"Disorderly conduct—wearing a suit of pajamas in the street," replied the officer in the witness box.

The pretty woman in the prisoner's dock smiled sweetly, the court looked surprised, and the big policeman blushed, and the pink pajamas said nary a word but lay there in plain sight of prisoner and judge and policeman.

"WHERE ARE YOU GOING?"

Vivian Partell lives in Marinette. She has a fad. It is the wearing of pajamas—not only during the hours of slumber, but as a lounging costume for women. She came to Milwaukee to introduce the costume, and thereby hangs the tale. Policeman Brost was walking on the street last evening when the natty figure of the woman caught his eye. "Where are you going?" inquired the officer. She said: "I am introducing pajamas as a neat and attractive apparel for general home wear." She paid a fine.

Very Helpful Admonition.

Information for travelers was imparted by a thoughtful genius in Ireland, who engraved the following warning on a stone near the banks of a rivulet in the town of Strabane: "Take notice, that when this stone is out of sight it is not safe to ford the river." This is somewhat similar to the famous fingerpost which was erected in Kent, England: "This is a bridle path to Faversham. If you can't read this, you had better keep to the main road."

REAL HUMAN TANK.

Can Drink a Big Pail of Beer at One Draught Without Showing the Least Effect.

A committee of English brewers recently visited America to study the methods of the large breweries in New York.

While looking over the Ruppert brewery the conversation turned on the privilege accorded to employes to indulge in the malted beverage. To the Englishmen's great surprise they learned that there was no restriction placed upon the men.

"But are you not afraid that their over-indulgence might interfere with their work?" Col. Jacob Ruppert, the host, was asked.

"OH, DOT WAS EASY."

"Oh, not at all. No amount of beer that they drink can affect our men," replied the colonel. "Why, we have a foreman who can drink a pail of beer at one draught without showing the least effect."

This statement, says the New York Times, called forth such an expression of doubt that the foreman was summoned.

"Fritz," said the colonel, "these gentlemen seem to doubt that you can drink a pail of beer without stopping. Now, I want you to fill one of your big pails, bring it in here, and prove what I have said."

This was done, and, without turning a hair, the German assimilated the contents of the pail.

"My word!" exclaimed one of the Englishmen. "How did you manage that?"

"Oh, dot was easy," said the fat Teuton, with a proud smile. "To make sure dot I don'd make no mistake I first fill de keg and drink it outside, to try it once. Den I fill it again und drink it in here."

BRASS WEDDING RING.

It Was Purchased by an Insane Man Who Expected to Marry Alice Roosevelt.

Ferdinand Kenzel, a laboring man *residing at Delafield, Wis., was recent*ly examined as to his sanity and committed to the hospital. He has been laboring under a delusion that he has been promised the hand of Alice Roosevelt as soon as the president should die. He has made plans for a wedding. There were several unusual features about the case. He had bought a ring at a toy store, which he declared was given him by the president in behalf of his daughter. This ring was one which retails for about ten cents, and has a green glass setting. At his home he has another ring, brass, 18 carats fine, with which he was to make Miss Roosevelt his bride. Then he had also purchased some linen table cloths of turkey red, napkins of bandana blue, and other similar home furnishings. He said they would have to be rather cheap, but maybe Teddy would give him some white stuff later on. He is well educated, and speaks five languages fluently.

BOUGHT TOY STORE RING

She Kissed the Wrong Man.

Mrs. Sarah Plunket, of Concordia, Kan., is on her way to her old home in Ohio, happy in the thought that she kissed her husband before leaving home. She has not yet learned that instead she kissed a stranger. On the way to the train, Mrs. Plunket stopped at her husband's store, and was told he was at the barber shop. She had only a minute and she rushed into the shop, bent over a man whose face was covered with lather, kissed him in the mouth, and charged him to write every day. Her husband was in the next chair, and the astonished man she kissed never saw her before, but she boarded her train without knowing the difference. When the shaving was over the man who was kissed and the husband shook hands.

Onions as a Medicine.

It is said that onions eaten raw are a preventive of and sometimes a cure for malarial fever.

TRUTH ABOUT GARWOOD CO.

FORECLOSURE WAS MERELY STEP TO ACHIEVE DESIRED RESULT.

Corporation is Perfectly Solvent, But the Minority Stockholders Wished to Withdraw.

*Recently, there have appeared vari*ous articles in Union county papers regarding the foreclosure proceedings against the Garwood Land and Improvement Company, and the articles seem to be at variance with the facts as set forth in a statement made by the company.

In 1900, the Garwood Land and Improvement Company was organized by several men of strong financial and banking interests and then owners of the New Jersey Central. The company issued $150,000 first mortgage bonds, due July 1, 1902, and drawing 6 per cent interest. These men subscribed for over 70 per cent. of the entire issue and invited some of their friends to subscribe to the extent of less than 30 per cent. The holders of this thirty per cent. have had their 6 per cent. interest for five years, and upon maturity of their bonds were paid the full face value. The men holding the 70 per cent. paying the others in full and thereby owning the entire issue. Owning it all they naturally want the property vested in themselves free of all encumbrances. The only legal method to accomplish this is foreclosure of the mortgage and sale of the property. When this is accomplished, the property will be in the hands of men of the highest integrity and financial responsibility. The community will be largely benefitted and it is believed the town of Garwood will develop very rapidly. Every opportunity will be offered the prospective home seeker, and every effort put forth to maintain the broad, liberal management heretofore existing.

THEATRICAL.

The theatre scenes in Klaw & Erlanger's "The Billionaire" at Daly's Theatre New York, where Jerome Sykes is entertaining capacity audiences in his latest role of "John Doe" in this screamingly funny musical farce, are the talk of New York and the surrounding cities. Klaw & Erlanger have done more to effectually satirize the foibles of New York "first-nighters" and some well-known patrons of theatres in this piece, than all the cartoonists and comic papers have ever accomplished. And yet it is all done in such a good natured spirit that even the subjects considered innocent fun and laugh as heartily as their neighbors who escape the shaft of the librettist's wit. The new farce keeps an audience in a roar of laughter from start to finish, and when not laughing it is applauding with all its energy the brilliant specialty and musical features. The show goes at a whirlwind pace from the time the curtain rises and not a moment occurs that is not occupied by novelty till its final fall amid the cheers of an audience that has been amused as people are seldom entertained in a theatre.

Although Mrs. Fiske's production of "Mary of Magdala" at the Manhattan Theatre, New York, is now in its third month, it is still without a rival among the attractions at the various Broadway theatres. The play contains features to interest every class of theatregoer, be he lover of the dramatic, the impressive or the spectacular. There are episodes in Heyse's drama, as it is acted by Mrs. Fiske and her admirable company, that exceed in power anything that has been offered on the contemporary stage. The beautiful settings and costumes arouse wonder and applause and the storm scene stands as an unparalleled achievement in stage mechanics. Seats are selling a month ahead. Matinees are given on Saturdays only. The performance is over at 11 o'clock, and residents of the suburbs have therefore ample time to catch theatre trains on all railroads.

ART CATALOGUE.

Needed Addition to Art Department of Public Library is Completed.

A much needed catalogue of the pictures and art objects of the Public Library has now been completed and a type-written copy hangs in each room of the gallery, thus enabling visitors to ascertain the artists.

The catalogue is also on the more permanent form of cards, forming part of the card catalogue which is kept in the reading room.

It has been decided to allow the collection of photograps illustrating Italian art to remain in the reading room during January. This collection illustrates Italian art from the fourteenth to the seventeenth century, and is fairly representative of the artists of that period.

The Art Gallery hours are on Tuesday and Saturday afternoons, from 2 to 5 o'clock.

The annual session of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will be held in Masonic Temple, Trenton, February 18 and 19.

WOODEN WEDDING AND CARD CLUB MEETING

Double Event at Home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Smith, of Washington Avenue.

A DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

WOODEN WEDDING RECEPTION HELD IN THE AFTERNOON.

In the Evening the Fairview Whist Club Was Entertained—The House Was Prettily Decorated—Received Many Gifts.

A delightful social event of Thursday was the wooden wedding celebration by Mr. and William B. Smith, of Washington avenue, together with the entertainment of the Fairview Whist Club, of which the celebrators are members, in the evening. While the wedding celebration was in the afternoon from 3 to 7 o'clock, it afforded an opportunity for nearly seventy-five guests from this city and New York to call and extend their congratulations. The house was very prettily decorated with southern smilax, roses and carnations. In the reception room, parlor and halls these decorations were most attractive.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were assisted in receiving by their daughters, Miss Mary Smith and Miss Dracilla Smith. A pleasant feature of the afternoon was the piano selections by Miss Seward, of Cranford. Among the New York guests present at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Martha, the Misses Gordon, Miss Carruthers, Mr. and Mrs. Franke, Miss Franke, Mrs. Fifer, Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Opdyke and Mrs. Fembro. Everyone enjoyed the social features and the host and hostess were the recipients of many handsome and useful presents in wooden ware. During the reception refreshments were served.

In the evening from 8 to 12 o'clock the Fairview Whist Club was entertained. After the play it was informed that Mrs. Salmon O. Baker and Mrs. L. B. Woolston were the winners of the first and second prizes for the women, while James F. Buckle and L. B. Woolston had won the first and second prizes for men. Following the announcement of the prize-winners, a social time followed and refreshments were served. A feature of this affair was the phonograph concert given by Salmon O. Baker.

WAS GIVEN HIS CREDENTIALS

THE STATE DEPARTMENT SUPPLIES AUGUSTE SALTZMAN WITH THEM.

He Goes As Representative of the Inter-National Association of Fire Engineers.

Auguste Saltzman, formerly of this city, who has been elected a representative from the International Association of Fire Engineers to a grand tournament of firemen to be held in Europe next June, has just received credentials from the Department of State, Washington, through the good offices of United States Senator John Kean.

The letter reads as follows:

"To the Diplomatic and Consular Officers of the United States.

"Gentlemen:—At the instance of the Honorable John Kean, a Senator of the United States from the State of New Jersey, I take pleasure in introducing to you Mr. Auguste Saltzman, a representative of the International Association of Fire Engineers, to any of the meetings of the Fire Brigade Association in Europe.

"I cordially bespeak for Mr. Saltzman such assistance and courtesies as you may be able to extend consistently with your official duties.

"I am, gentlemen,

"Your obedient servant,

"David J. Hill, acting secretary."

Mr. Saltzman will sail for Europe during the latter part of February.

Planning More Houses.

Charles L. Moffett and Elmer E. Gulick are planning to build a number of handsome residences in the vicinity of Park avenue and and Randolph road. Work will be commenced in the spring.

One Hundred Dollars a Box is the value H. A. Tisdale, Summerton, S. C., places on DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says: "I had the piles for 20 years. I tried many doctors and remedies, but all failed except DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me." It is a combination of the healing properties of Witch Hazel with antiseptics and emollients; relieves and permanently cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, sores, cuts, bruises, eczema, salt rheum and all skin diseases. L. W. Randolph.

YEAR'S WORK AT Y. M. C. A.

Review of Season's Achievements of That Association Made by the President.

AT ANNUAL MEETING

Complete Text of the Annual Report Presented by Stephen Cahoone, President of the Y. M. C. A., at the Annual Meeting of the Association Held Thursday.

The annual report of Stephen Cahoone, president of the Plainfield Young Men's Christian Association, which was presented at the annual meeting of the association, last Thursday, was as follows:

The past year, in some ways, has proved one of the best in the history of our association, the principal event having been the enlargement and growth of our boys' work, under the care of Secretary Robbie, who came to us last July; the details and results will be referred to later in this report.

During the year just closed there have been held in our large hall, on Sunday afternoons, fifty-two religious meetings for men, with an average attendance of 107. Interesting and profitable addresses have been delivered to these meetings, and we have endeavored to make the music, both vocal and instrumental, a marked feature at the services, and believe that their results have been commensurate with the thought and care bestowed upon them. We often ascertain, upon inquiry, that men come to these Sunday afternoon meetings who do not attend either church or any religious service; many of those who have expressed an interest in spiritual things are backsliders, who, for some reason, have wandered away from God, but who frequently testify to renewal of their Christian faith and purpose through the leading of the Holy Spirit in our meetings. Besides these gospel meetings on Sunday, we held services during the week of prayer for young men in November, and our own workers have, at different times, assisted at religious gatherings outside of our building. There have also been meetings for boys on eight occasions, with an average attendance of twenty.

Bible study has been carried on in the following classes: Young men's, average attendance, 6; gymnasium, average attendance, 9; Mr. Murray's class, average attendance, 5; boys' class, average attendance, 13; Volunteer League or mission Bible study, average attendance, 14; total, 47.

We have been represented at Northfield every year since 1887, and in 1903 there were nine in attendance from Plainfield. At the Lake George conference there were three present, and at the Eastern conference for foreign work at Trenton, December 3 to 4, six of our members were privileged to attend that helpful convention gathered to consider that great topic, the association's work among young men in foreign lands.

In connection with our Volunteer League or missionary study class, three of our Sunday afternoon services were devoted to the cause of foreign missions, and in this way we have sought to interest young men in the most vital subject of this age, the evangelization of the whole world; the offerings taken at these services and at the league meetings have amounted during the year to $44.21, and this sum has been sent to the International committee for mission work. Our association also made its regular contribution of $25 to the above committee, and also $50 toward the work in our own State.

The physical department of our association retains its popularity, and the capacity of our gymnasium, and the time and strength of our physical director are about the only limits to the development and growth in this line. We have recently built quite a number of lockers in our gymnasium, but soon more will be required, and the floor space where they can be placed is limited. The formal opening of the physical work department for the season was held on the fourth of October, and regular class work began on the 7th. The director has carefully supervised the different interests of this department, and not only have regular class exercises occupied much of his time, but he has also given special attention to such matters as baseball and outdoor recreations, bicycle runs, basket ball, bowling, chess, checkers, and other games. Our new tennis courts in the rear of the building have been well patronized, and what are termed the "summer privileges," especially the swimming pool, which are offered at reduced rates for a limited period of the year, have been availed of and appreciated by those using them. Base ball was a prominent feature during the summer months, and the "League," of which our association was a member, successfully furthered the objects for which it was formed, and the financial results were satisfactory, even beyond our expectations.

The attendance at the different gymnasium classes during the year has been as follows: Boys' class, average attendance, 29; young men's average attendance, 23; business men' average attendance, 7; Leal's average attendance, 20; total, 88.

The physical director has also taken parties of boys to Rutgers College, New York City, and Bronx Park, Naval Y. M. C. A., and United States Navy Yard, and has held athletic contests for men and boys at intervals. He has also during the year given eighty-one physical examinations to men and boys, besides examining candidates for the city police. He has also given individual instruction to many, looked after the spiritual welfare of the men and boys under his care, and conducted the general supervision over this department. The number of different men and boys that availed themselves of our physical privileges during the year was 345.

The educational department, while showing no increase in numbers over the previous year's record, which was the highest in enrollment and attendance for four years, and the largest in number of classes in our history, nevertheless, has given evidence of the care bestowed upon it by the committee in charge, and also of the faithful and efficient service of the various instructors. Preparatory to the fall and winter's work our general secretary and the chairman of the committee visited different machine shops, to ascertain the needs of the men, and to gain the co-operation of the managers. There was also a conference of the foremen on September 18, and State Educational Secretary Browne held meetings at the shops, calling attention of the men to the advantages of our educational classes.

During the past year we have given instruction in the following studies: Mechanical drawing, English, mathematics, stenography and typewriting, bookkeeping, Spanish, and also first aid to the injured. The calendar for these classes, with curriculum, teachers, and other information, can be found in our annual "Prospectus" issued last October.

The boys' work, as before stated, has been a marked feature in 1902, and it is with great satisfaction that we note results, even in so short a time, in the improvement, under the direction of our new secretary, Mr. Robbie. On August 31, there were sixty boys in the junior department, while, on December 31 there were 117; a large increase in four months. Mr. Robbie has been untiring in his efforts, both to reach as many boys as possible, and also to interest and profit them in all ways. He has at different times taken parties of them to the New York City Associations, to the Elizabethport ship yards, and different machine shops in our city and elsewhere, besides giving them various kinds of outings, as well as indoor amusement. He has looked carefully after their spiritual needs, as well as their mental and physical, and in the brief term that he has been with us, has demonstrated that he is well qualified for his position, and his influence over the boys has been salutary and helpful. Other features of this junior department have been the furnishing and arranging of rooms for the boys on the third floor of the building, the formation of the boys' musical club and orchestra, and the boys' camp, in July, at Lake Wayawanda, attended by thirteen of our juniors, of which number ten signified their intention to live Christian lives, and have been organized into a Bible class. At the State conference on boys' work, held October 24, at Orange, seven from our department were in attendance. The figures relating to the religious meetings, Bible classes and gymnasium work, are given under their respective departments.

On December 6 there was given a gymnasium exhibition to school boys, on which occasion there were 100 visitors present, and recently Mr. Robbie aided in forming a boys' club at Hope chapel. Our building is still largely used by different organizations of our city, religious, philanthropic, and social, and during last year upwards of 150 meetings were held in various parts of this building, by fifteen or more societies and boards; there was no charge made for such use of our rooms, and we always consider it an honor to act as host in welcoming these and kindred organizations, as they may wish to avail themselves of whatever privileges we can offer them. Our large hall is used for our Sunday afternoon services, our "Star Course," and other entertainments, and we have rented it during the year, on different evenings, for various purposes.

The "Star Course," as usual, was well patronized, gave general satisfaction, and while all our members have free admission to these entertainments, the financial results have even surpassed those of the preceding year. The supplementary course of illustrated lectures on travel, given during the winter and spring, while not designed for revenue, were appreciated by those in attendance. No admission was charged, although an offering was received, and as these lectures were designed to instruct as well as to entertain, they might properly be classified under the head of educational work. Another somewhat recent development has been the men's orchestra, filling a want that long existed, for we have always realized that music was not a sufficiently prominent feature of our association work. This orchestra has had a creditable record, and on different occasions has been of great assistance in our religious meetings, and other gatherings in the building, while the concerts which they gave in our hall were greatly enjoyed by appreciative audiences.

During the year there have been social events of different kinds in the building, and in November Warren chapel was tendered a reception to our members, which was greatly enjoyed by all of those present. There was a watch-night meeting on December 31, and on New Year's Day we kept open house. On Christmas evening a dinner was given to fifty needy boys, and on Thanksgiving a dinner to young men away from home, which was so appreciated by the participants that it is to be hoped we may repeat it as often as the day returns. We also observed the thirty-fifth anniversary of our association in October, when we were privileged to present our work in the churches, and also to receive offerings from them for its support. Thus we have tried to promote a social spirit among our members, and make the building attractive to young men, and while something is being accomplished there is room for larger results along this line, and I trust that the social committee may plan for greater things during the coming year.

Our membership now consists of 330 men and 117 boys, a total of 447, against 383 last year, but the increase is due to the large accessions to our junior department, to which reference has already been made. There seems to be no good reason why this membership should not be greatly increased, when we consider the large number of young men in our city.

Turning now to that work performed by our general secretary, and others, of a more personal character, we enter a field where figures cannot adequately express the results accomplished, and to which reference may only be made in passing. Nearly 100 visits have been made to the machine shops in our city, numbers of men directed to suitable boarding places, others provided with permanent or temporary employment, or assisted in different ways. Visits have been made to the sick, men have been counselled in difficulties, advised with in spiritual matters, and many letters written to parents and friends about young men coming to, or departing from our city, and a vast amount of personal work of this character has occupied our secretaries and workers.

Financially, it is my pleasure to report that we have closed the year free of debt. The report of the treasurer shows total receipts from all sources, $7,950.16; disbursements, $7,936.18; leaving a credit balance of $13.98. The sum of $13,638 has been contributed by a large number of persons in amounts of $100 and less. We wish again to express to the many thanks of our association to all those donors for the interest thus expressed in our work by their gifts.

For detailed statements of what has been accomplished during the year, you are referred to the annual reports presented at this meeting, and also to the monthly reports of committees and officers, which are on file, and open for inspection to all our members.

The thanks of our association are due to our employes, for the faithful performance of their several duties, and also to the teachers in our evening classes for the valuable service which they render us; and we should recognize the labors of our committemen, and of those who have in any way participated or aided us in the general work of our association. In recognizing the year's results, and those whose interest in this work for young men, and whose labors have made these results possible, we look beyond all human agency, and realize that whatever has been accomplished in our past history, has been due to the Divine Blessing, and Presence with us, and is through the Power of the Holy Spirit, and in reliance on Him, that we anticipate larger measures of success in the future.

Stephen Cahoone,
President.

Plainfield, January 15, 1903.

Turkey Supper.

The annual turkey supper under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church will be given in the lecture room of the church on the evenings of Thursday and Friday, January 29 and 30.

There will be confirmation Sunday, January 25, at St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, when Bishop Scarborough will be present.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 25—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic—An evening with Chinese missions—Acts xvii, 24-31.

One special feature of the Christian Endeavor topics for 1903 is the prominence given to missions. The last topic of each month is devoted to this subject, and in most cases definite mission fields are selected for study, such as China, Africa, South America, India and Japan. Such a course of missionary studies should arouse great interest and, properly conducted, cannot but greatly increase our missionary interest, information and zeal.

To what extent this will be done depends entirely upon the intelligent direction given to this work. Glittering generalities may be indulged in on the general subject of missions, but not on the Chinese missions. Information will be needed, which can be obtained only by consecrated effort. Every missionary committee should obtain or prepare a special programme for each of these evenings with missions and, to that end, much sacrifice it may, should see that they are made a success.

In an evening with Chinese missions the following phases of the subject should be covered by papers or addresses or by one treating the entire subject:

1. The Chinese. Mission study among any people should begin with a study of the people. And what an interesting subject of study the Chinese are! The area inhabited by them embraces a million and a half square miles. The population of the empire is not less than 350,000,000. The Chinese occupy one-tenth of the habitable globe and form one-fourth of its population. Their history runs back for forty centuries, the most of which time they have been practically isolated from the rest of the world. Their recent history is well known and most interesting.

2. Chinese religions. China has three religions: (1) Confucianism, which is more a philosophy than a religion, dealing principally with the duties toward the state and in the home; (2) Taoism, and the author of Taoism was Lao Tse, who lived at the same time as Confucius, and it is an abstruse system full of superstitions and of idolatry; (3) Buddhism, which was imported and claims many of the Chinese among its devotees.

3. Effects of Chinese religions. In these we see their weakness. Morally, socially and politically the Chinese are an inferior people. The most revolting vices are practiced, immorality is widespread, woman is degraded and the system of the people are hopeless for time and for eternity.

4. Chinese missions. The Nestorians first introduced the gospel into China. The Protestant missionary movement began with Morrison in 1807; to 1842; second, 1842 to 1860; third, 1860 to the present time. While there have been many discouraging features in Chinese missions in recent years, yet there is great hope for the future. The greatest obstacle to their success has been the foreigners, which caused the Boxer rebellion and the martyrdom of missionaries. But it is fervently expected that here again "the blood of martyrs will become the seed of the church" and that present adversity will aid to ultimate success.

5. Denominational Chinese missions. In addition to surveying the mission field in general, each society should pay special attention to the work of its own denomination in this great oriental empire.

With these millions in China calling to us by their need for the gospel, how can we be indifferent to foreign missions? Is there anything more than all the world, what about the 350,000,000 souls of China? Is there nothing we can give or do to make it possible for them to hear and to be saved?

Workers With Christ.

We are workers together with Christ. What an honor! The Christian's mission is to teach lost men the way of life, introduce them into the church of God by the rite of baptism and then build up in them the graces of their holy faith. The sweetest privilege God gives to man is that of uniting with the Lord Jesus in bringing a lost world back to God.—Rev. J. Foster Wilcox, Vice President New York State Union.

Preaching Tour Around the World.

Rev. E. S. Ufford, the author of the famous song "Throw Out the Life Line," is making a preaching tour around the world. When he left his home in Holyoke, Mass., on this long journey, the Christian Endeavor union of the city gave him a silk banner with a daintily wrought C. E. monogram on it. He displays this on the front of his organ in all the services which he conducts.

In the Home of the Tenth Legion.

Fifty-two out of fifty-five members of the Christian Endeavor society in the church of which Rev. Dr. Wilton Merle Smith is pastor are pledged givers of a tenth of their income to benevolent work. This society is the home of "the Tenth Legion."

Quiz Box.

(Any question may be asked that pertains to any phase of Christian Endeavor work.—Address Look Box 674, Binghamton, N. Y.)

C. K. B., New York.—The object of the Christian Endeavor society as defined by the model constitution "shall be to promote an earnest Christian life among its members, to increase their mutual acquaintance and to make them more useful in the service of God.

D. P. M., New Hampshire.—"The Christian Endeavor Hour" in the New York Mail and Express each Saturday is edited by Mrs. Grace Livingston Hill.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 25, "Christian Stewardship."

Text, Matt. vi, 19-34; Acts xx, 35; II Cor. ix, 7; I John iii, 17-18.

The Christian doctrine of property, and the rights of men in property, is:

First.—God is maker and ruler and owner of all things and all men.

Second.—Every man is obligated to acquire and use property for his own needs and those of his fellow men.

Third.—For this acquisition and use of goods and things he is responsible to God and shall eventually give account.

On these three principles rests the whole framework of human industry and government. It is a view of matters different from that held by any other religion the world has ever known. It necessitates a different adjustment of the relations of men in society from what is possible under any other system. It must revolutionize human customs and establish a new order. If God owns and man occupies the world as but a steward and must work for and account to Him for all he gets and uses, we have an entirely different conception of things from the view which has prevailed outside Christianity. Whatever a man's ability, opportunity and desires, he must ever have regard for the rights, needs and wishes of his fellow men. It is evident that the Christian view does not entirely control matters in any Christian land as yet. But great advance has been made in the world since Christ came. Changes come slowly, and it is well that they do. Men must gradually see more clearly and grow into the new conditions.

The stewardship of wealth reaches every person in the community. It requires that all shall labor in some manner. Each should labor according to the full measure of his ability. No amount of wealth inherited or acquired can excuse any one doing his share for other men as well as himself. Neither millionaire nor tramp has a right to shirk.

Great emphasis is laid at the present time on the desirability of Christians giving one-tenth of their income to benevolence. This is good as far as it goes, but should in no manner be allowed to obscure the truth that all belongs to God and should be used in such manner as will best advance His cause among men.

Business should be done by all Christian men, not for their own private gain merely or principally. Regard for the needs of other men must ever be kept in view and the will of God in general and particular. Herein lies the key to all future adjustment of capital and labor.

Christian stewardship means more than the contribution box by far. It means doing business for the glory of God and benefit of men.

Nuggets.

Sinners are first driven, then drawn, to God.

The conversion of a sinner is a greater wonder than the creation of the world.

Do not think to begin to live when thou art ready to die.

The worst of the ways of God are better than the best of the ways of sin. If sin be in the fashion, we must be out of it.

We must be sick of sin before we can be dead to sin.

There is no sin a man can be tempted to but he will find greater comfort in resisting than in indulging.

If we be not humble for sin, we derogate from the majesty of God; if we despair under it, we derogate from His mercy.

We should fear to think that before God which we are afraid to do before man, for God knows our hearts better than any man knows our faces.—Rev. John Mason.

Disloyal to the Master.

When a Christian is at peace with any sin in his own life, when he is reconciled to any evil habit or becomes indifferent to anything in his own character which renders him unlike Christ, he is disloyal to his Master. In like manner when a citizen of the kingdom of God is at peace with any sin of society, becomes reconciled to any evil habits or customs, or indifferent to anything inconsistent with the full coming of God's kingdom on the earth, he is disloyal to the kingdom.—Josiah Strong, D. D.

More Blessed.

It is infinitely more blessed to be pierced with the arrows of conviction than to be wounded with the fiery darts of Satan, because the wounds of the former are healing, but the wounds of the latter are poisonous to the soul. —American Friend.

Armed For the Fray.

Every man who has on the whole armor of God will be sure to have war with the devil.—Christian Instructor.

Faith's Prayer.

Lead me, dear Lord, by Thine own hand
Where'er the path may go;
It may be very sweet indeed,
I do not need to know.
I only need to trust Thy care,
To know my way is Thine,
To let Thee all my burdens bear
And in Thy strength endure.

Teach me, dear Lord, in Thine own way
Whate'er I ought to do;
The lessons may be hard to say.
The path too dark to see.
But, hold me fast, Thy perfect hand,
I cannot go amiss;
Until I reach the unseen land
By faith I'll walk in this.

Guide me, dear Lord, by Thine own eye
In every step I take;
So shall I feel Thee always nigh
And love Thy dear sake.
And, looking up to Thee, my Guide,
Through darkness or through light,
May I in trustful faith abide Till faith is lost in sight.
—Christian Work.

FINE MUSIC AND RECITATIONS

WERE FEATURES OF ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN AT CHURCH OF HOLY CROSS.

Affair Given Under Auspices of the Women's Guild of That Church Thursday.

Under the auspices of the Woman's Guild of the Church of the Holy Cross a pleasing entertainment was given last Thursday in the parish house. The programme was of a literary and musical character.

William Holmes sang baritone solos and Mrs. F. M. Ward rendered several contralto solos. Miss Daisy Zerbe, church organist, gave two choice piano selections and also acted as accompanist. Miss Marie Wilson, of New York, a clever reciter, gave some of her best selections and she was warmly received, as was also Maurice A. Audsley, who rendered violin solos. The other participant was Harry E. Hayden, of New York, who gave humorous selections. His stories were really funny and he had no trouble in keeping his audience in the best of humor.

In part first Mr. Holmes sang "A Red, Red Rose," with another selection for an encore, and Mrs. Ward sang "A Love Song," with a second song for an encore. Miss Zerbe gave one of Chopin's selections, while Miss Wilson recited "The Sweet Girl Graduate." Mr. Audsley's number was "Air Melodieux," by Carl Bohm.

Miss Wilson opened part second with a recitation, "Dolores Defies the King," arranged from in "The Palace of the King," by Marion Crawford. In this her work was seen to fine advantage. Mrs. Ward followed with "Little Boy Blue," by D'Hardelot, after which Miss Zerbe gave one of Wagner's selections. The concluding numbers were "Israel," by Mr. Holmes, humorous selections by Mr. Hayden and a violin solo by Mr. Audsley.

CARNEY WAS THERE.

One of the Most Pleasant Features of Gathering at Cream Hollow.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haines, of Cream Hollow, entertained a large number of friends at their home last Thursday when seventy-five people enjoyed the evening in dancing and making merry until early this morning. Guests were present from this place, New York, Gladstone, Mt. Horeb, Warrenville and Bayonne.

Prof. Frazee's full orchestra was present and supplied the music for the dancing until midnight when a bountiful repast was served. A suitable prize was offered to the maker of the best cake on the table and it was awarded to Miss Ammons, of Mt. Bethel.

Miss Edith M. Custiman, of Gladstone, rendered several pleasing solos and introduced several new dancing specialties. Jack Carney, the well-known entertainer of the borough, was present and favored with some of his quaint dilect sketches which brought forth much applause.

INSTALLED ARCANUMITES.

Acting Grand Deputy Drummond Visited Greenbrook Council.

Acting Grand Deputy Samuel Drummond, of Bound Brook, visited this city, last Thursday, and installed the following officers of Greenbrook Council, No. 1725, Royal Arcanum; Regent, L. B. Skillman; vice regent, William Taylor; past regent, U. G. Pierson; orator, H. A. Todd; secretary, Webster Grant; collector, J. F. W. Bamberger; chaplain, Ira West; guide, R. B. Vandalay; warden, Charles Mehlenbeck; sentry, John Higgins; trustees, M. C. VanArsdale, C. C. Davis and William Force.

Previous to the ceremonies three candidates were initiated. The business of the evening was followed by a social hour during which addresses were made by prominent visitors present.

WHIRLED ABOUT.

Frank Alexander Caught in the Machinery at Safe Works, and Just Escaped With Life.

Frank Alexander, an employe of the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works, sustained severe injuries while at work in the factory, Thursday afternoon, and but for the presence of mind of a fellow workman, would undoubtedly have met death.

He was passing by a revolving wheel which had a bolt projecting. The latter caught his clothing just below the knee and he was whirled about and into the machinery. A nearby mechanic reversed the machine in time to save him. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital where it was found his right leg had been badly torn and sprained and his head had been gashed.

Lecture on Mexico.

Arrangements are being made for an illustrated lecture to be given by Rev. C. E. Herring at the First Presbyterian church on "Mexico." It will probably be given toward the last of this month.

Y. M. C. A. IS YEAR OLDER

Annual Meeting for Electing Directors and Hearing Reports of the Departments.

PROSPEROUS CONDITION

Six Directors Chosen—Report of President Stephen Cahoone Presented—Chairmen of Committees Summed Up the Work of Their Different Departments.

The election of six directors and the reading of the reports of the year's work to bringing young men into a better living knowledge of the Master, as well as training them in a healthy spiritual and physical manner, occupied the attention of those interested in that work at the annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association Thursday. The meeting was held in the small hall and there were a large number of people present who listened to the encouraging reports read by the chairman of the various committees. These showed that the work accomplished in this city by the association during the past fiscal year has been productive of better results than even the most sanguine had anticipated. The results have been uniform in all departments; religious work, educational, physical and juvenile. Financially the association has a better record than it had at the close of the last fiscal year as there is an increase in the surplus.

The meeting opened at 8 o'clock with a short entertainment by Harry Bryant, a ventriloquist, of New York, while the directors were in session in the parlors of the association, where the report of the nominating committee was submitted and claims were paid in closing up the work of the past year.

President Stephen Cahoone, of the Y. M. C. A., opened the meeting by reading a passage of Scripture found in John I-35, after which Joseph W. Gavett lead in prayer. In the absence of the secretary, A. B. Beers, George S. Clay was appointed secretary pro tem. He read the minutes of the last annual meeting and later the report of the nominating committee wherein were the nominations for six directors to serve for the ensuing year. These were Stephen Cahoone, William D. Murray, E. L. Bonney, A. B. Beers, Nelson Runyon, Horace J. Martin and William S. Tyler. Later in the meeting when the nominations were acted upon it was found that there was one too many nominations for the office and Horace J. Martin withdrew in favor of Mr. Tyler, after which those nominated were unanimously elected. They will meet for organization in a few days.

President Cahoone read his report which was a most interesting one and showed lucidly what progress had been made by the association. It will be found it full in another column.

The reports of the various committees, the pith of which was contained in the president's report, were then read, that being the report of chairman, George M. Rittenhouse, of the religious work committee. Ira A. Travell, chairman of the educational work department, read the report of that branch of the work. It was announced that a class in "first aid to the injured" would be opened in the near future with Dr. Norman H. Probasco as instructor. The report of the physical work department was equally interesting. It was read by the physical director, C. E. A. Heywood.

Curtis M. Thorpe read the treasurer's report but on account of several late subscriptions the report was not read in its entirety. It showed, however, that the association was on a good financial basis and had a surplus greater than that of the previous year.

Before the meeting closed John H. Doane made a motion to the effect that a vote of thanks be extended to The Daily Press and other local newspapers for favors shown during the year, which was unanimously adopted.

Remembered Local Assemblyman.

Some of Assemblyman Newcorn's friends remembered him on the day of the opening of the Legislature and presented him with handsome flowers. One large basket of roses was presented by several Plainfield friends.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

PARKS CAPTURED ONE; JUST MISSED OTHERS

Park Club and Roselle Casino Bowled Series on Park Club Alleys Friday Night.

ONE RECORD BREAKER

IN THE SECOND GAME, PARKS WON BY REMARKABLE SCORE OF 878.

First Game Was Lost by Only Nine Pins, and the Third Game Should Have Gone to the Local Bowlers—The Score in Detail.

Out of the three bowling games rolled last Friday between the Park Club and Roselle Casino teams on the Park Club alleys, the home team succeeded in winning one, the second, and they came mighty close to winning the other two. A little hard luck at times when better effort would have counted a great deal, was responsible for the loss of two games. The home team, as a whole, bowled better last evening than at any time this season. In a number of instances high scores were the rule and the Parks carried off the honors in this respect. Especially was this true in the second game, when they made a grand finish. W. H. Faber and Dr. Thiers rolled like veterans, each making six strikes. Faber made a score of 220 in that game and Dr. Thiers rolled a score of 188. With such an effort the visitors could not hope to win this game which was finished with a total score of 878 as against 750 for the visitors.

The visitors won the first game by only nine pins and the third game by forty-six pins. Nearly everyone believed that the Parks should have won all three games, but luck was against this. As the scores were so close, owing to the teams being matched so evenly, there was great enthusiasm among the supporters of the home team.

With the exception of Morris J. Dumont, who fell off materially in the third game, every one of the Parks did good work, as the scores will show. As for the visitors, they rolled a trifle stronger. Mulford was high man with a score of 203 in the first game, while Howe's scores were very good. The other members of the team held up their end of the game, making it possible for the team to carry off the honors.

Ralph Willis rolled in the first game for the Parks, but afterward his place was taken by William A. Townsend, who did excellent work. The scores are as follows:

PARKS.
	1st	2d	3d
C. O. Ball	156	157	167
Morris J. Dumont	185	145	127
Ralph Willis	127
Wm. A. Townsend		170	149
Wm. H. Faber	159	220	153
Dr. Thiers	169	188	165
	796	878	731

ROSELLE CASINO.
	1st	2d	3d
Howe	177	145	175
Westerberg	126	155	144
Harris	170	131	146
Miller	134	151	149
Mulford	203	168	161
	805	750	777

OLD GUARD BOWLS.

Members of Defunct Country Club Spend Saturday Nights on Alleys.

For some time past some members of the defunct Union County Country Club, who still retain their love for bowling, have been meeting at the Casino Saturday nights to enjoy the favorite game. There are nearly twenty of the older members and they meet once a week to spend a few hours in this healthful exercise. No attempt is made to keep a record of the impromptu games which are rolled. Saturday night the usual number of men were present and several games were rolled. Some of the scores were high, showing that the old-time bowlers are still able to put up a good game.

Pink Luncheon.

The Misses Waring, of Park avenue, gave an enjoyable pink luncheon at their home Friday to a number of the young married people. Among those present were Mrs. John G. Drayton, Mrs. Evarts Tracy, Mrs. G. Herbert Taylor, Mrs. L. D. Timpson, Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring.

will teach you that coffee in an air-tight, sealed package is purer, cleaner and fresher than coffee kept in open bins.

LION COFFEE

is never sold in bulk.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

SURPRISE AT JERSEY CITY

LOCAL Y. M. C. A. BASKET BALL TEAM MEETS DEFEAT THERE.

Jersey City Five Was Swamped When It Came Here—Different Thing at Jersey City.

There was something of a surprise awaiting the basket ball five of the local Y. M. C. A. when it went to Jersey City last Friday. The Jersey City Y. M. C. A. team came here a short time ago and proved an easy victim for the local team. It was a different proposition which the local players encountered when they met the same team Friday night.

While the Jersey City boys had the advantage of knowing their own gymnasium, the first half showed the teams very evenly matched. The half ended with the score 10 to 9 in favor of Jersey City. The home team improved its game in the second half and finally won out by a score of 18 to 14.

The teams lined up as follows:

Plainfield.	Jersey City.
Denton . . . . right forward . . . DeWolf, Dorr
Hand, Neal . . . left forward . . . . VanDeen
Calhoone . . . . . centre . . . . . Bohen
Giles, Scull . . . right guard . . . . . Berlew
Bellacke . . . . . left guard . . . . . Geiger

Score—Jersey City Y. M. C. A., 18; Plainfield Y. M. C. A., 14. Goals from the field—Denton (3), Hand, Neal, Osborne, DeWolf, VanDeen (1), Bohen (3). Goals on fouls—Denton (2) Bohen (2). Foule—Jersey City, 11; Plainfield, 9. Referee—J. D. Downey, of Jersey City. Umpires—C. E. A. Heywood and Ray Smith, of Plainfield. Timekeeper—M. Hoffman. Scorers—Brokaw and Washar.

I. C. T.'S BIRTHDAY.

Will be Celebrated February 11, With a Reception and Masquerade Dance.

At a meeting of the I. C. T. Club, held Saturday evening, the members decided to hold a large reception and dance on February 11, in commemoration of the first anniversary of the organization. The dance will be a masquerade and a feature of the evening will be an elaborate collation. It will be served at midnight and several of the city's prominent officials will be asked to address the members at that time. The club anticipates making it the grandest affair of the season.

The following committee was appointed to complete all arrangements: Leonce Terrier, Ray King, Joseph Robinson, George L. Apgar, Fred Donavan, Edward Mosher and Thomas Muir.

Nickel Steel Rails.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has decided to use nickel steel rails on all heavy curves. It has ordered 5,000 tons of them at a cost of $74 a ton. The standard steel rails can be purchased for $28 a ton, but as the nickel steel rails last much longer, the latter will be cheaper in the long run.

Will You Sleep Well

Tonight? Not if you have a cough that begins to torment you as soon as you lie down. You can conquer the cough with Allen's Lung Balsam, which will relieve the pain in the chest, the irritation in the throat and the hard breathing. Since it contains no opium, this remedy may be given freely to children, and to the most delicate adults.

GIFT TO REFORMED CHURCH

MOST OF MISS ALIDA VAN SCHAIK'S FORTUNE IS BEQUEATHED TO IT.

Requests of Will Which Has Just Been Filed in the Surrogate's Office.

Members of the Reformed church in America will be interested in knowing that a New York woman, Miss Alida VanSchaik, has bequeathed to that denomination a large part of a half million dollars. Part of this amount, $12,000 is specifically devoted to the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick.

Miss Alida VanSchaik died December 28 as her home at 59 West Forty-eighth street, New York. The will was filed Monday in the Surrogate's office and was executed on March 11 last. $2,000 is to be given to the Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed church, in trust, the income to be devoted toward the maintainance of missionaries; $12,000 is left to the Board of Education of the church for the foundation of and maintainance of scholarships in the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick, "for pious and indigent young men," and another $12,000 is left for the foundation of similar scholarships in the Western Theological Seminary at Holland, Mich. $2,000 is left a brother, Henry VanSchaik and $15,000 is left Alida Van Schaik Banks, daughter of John V. S. Oddie to be free from the control of her husband, and to go to the Western Theological Seminary in the event of her dying without children. The house at 35 East Sixty-second street, New York, and $40,000 go to a niece, Elizabeth V. S. Winthrop, and to Mrs. John V. S. Oddie is given the use of 29 West Forty-eighth street, with $64,000 in addition.

The residuary estate goes to the General Synod of the Reformed church for the general religious and charitable purposes of the corporation

New Quarters.

Lafayette Rosenstiehl, the Somerset street barber, will move into his new store and flat in his new building on Somerset street on or about the first of the month. The interior of the building is now almost completed and only the finishing touches need be applied.

Mrs. Pierson and Daughter's Teas.

Cards have been sent out by Mrs. Israel O. Pierson, Miss Pierson and Mrs. Malcolm McKenzie for teas to be given on the last Wednesday and Thursday in January at the home of Mrs. Pierson, 733 Watchung avenue.

Change of Stores.

Edward A. Laing will shortly remove his stationery business to the Voorhees building which he recently purchased. The present occupant, Horace M. Sherwin, will remove to the place where Laing's store now is.

Engagement is Announced.

The engagement is announced of Miss Florence R. Williams to William S. Loizeaux, both of this city.

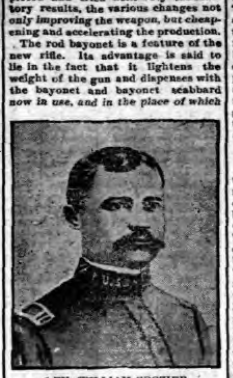
In a recent examination in literature taken by a large class of students at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Miss Ariadne Gilbert, of this city, took the first and highest rank.

THE NEW ARMY RIFLE.

Lighter Than the German or Mannlicher Rifle, But Has Far Greater Penetration.

Gen. William Crozier, chief of the bureau of ordnance, in his annual report to the secretary of war says the improved musket has been completed and tried with very satisfactory results, the various changes not only improving the weapon, but cheapening and accelerating the production.

The rod bayonet is a feature of the new rifle. Its advantage is said to lie in the fact that it lightens the weight of the gun and dispenses with the bayonet and bayonet scabbard now in use, and in the place of which



GEN. WILLIAM CROZIER.
(Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, United States Army.)

intrenching tools may be carried by the soldier.

The new piece weighs but a little less than 9½ pounds, considerably lighter than the German and the Mauser, yet has greater velocity and greater penetration. It is noted that opinions differ as to the value of the rod bayonet. The construction of 5,000 of the new muskets has been authorized.

Gen. Crozier embraces in his report the conclusions of the board of ordnance and fortification on the recent tests of the several systems for a new field gun to show why the ordnance department model is superior. He says the bureau is proceeding with the manufacture of field material from designs which it has prepared concurrently with the development of knowledge by tests. Generally speaking the new gun will have a caliber of three inches and will fire a projectile weighing 15 pounds with an initial velocity of 1,700 feet per second. The breech mechanism will be of the ordnance department type with certain modifications for securing safety. The piece will have a recoil of from 45 to 48 inches. Defects developed at the tests on the proving grounds are to be remedied. A new feature will be the bullet-proof shields with which the pieces are to be provided. Capt. Charles B. Wheeler is given credit for the design of the gun carriage.

HAS BUSINESS HEAD.

Princess Waldemar of Denmark, Who Prevented Sale of Islands to the United States.

Princess Waldemar of Denmark, who is credited with having secured the defeat in the landsthing of the treaty ceding the Danish West Indies to the United States, is possessed of great business ability. It is said that she acted in the interests of a syndicate of bankers and merchants with whom she is believed to be associated. This syndicate

THE PRINCESS WALDEMAR.
(Favored Throughout Denmark for Her Great Business Ability.)

plans to exploit the islands by establishing a bank, encouraging agriculture and starting steamship lines.

This is not the first venture of this kind in which the princess has been interested. A year ago she engaged in real estate speculation, secured a plot near Copenhagen, which she cut up into building lots, with the sanction of the city, and erected villas, which she rented to wealthy people. She is interested in the development of the Danish commerce in Asia and has secured valuable concessions from the Russian government.

Gas Balloons Are Costly.

War balloons are frequently made of the bladders of oxen, which are preferable to silk. The rents in a skin balloon close almost automatically, and therefore the leakage is slight. It requires 75 bladders of about 24,000 cubic to make a medium-sized balloon, and the cost is about $5,000.

Garlic for Tuberculosis.

Garlic juice, inhaled under certain conditions, is the remedy which Dr. W. C. Uinchin, of Kells, Ireland, claims has cured many cases of advanced tuberculosis.

The Country Dance in Ireland.

"The country dance, the cross-roads festivity of the Irish peasantry, which had practically become a thing of the past in Ireland when I was there five years ago," said the Rev. Father Fielding, of Chicago, "is again in full swing in the old country, much to the delight of the lovers of an Irish Ireland. A puritanical spirit totally alien to Irish character," he continued, "arose among the Irish clergy a decade ago, and every enjoyment and pastime of the young country folk was frowned upon. The great work done by the Gaelic league in Ireland has changed conditions. The league now pays Irish pipers and fiddlers to play at the crossroads dances, when, in view of all the old folks, the boys and girls of Erin' enjoy themselves just as they did in the time Lever wrote about."—Philadelphia Record.

Last of a Species of Parrot.

Ornithologists will regret to learn that Guilding's Amazon parrot, a rare bird inhabiting the mountains of St. Vincent, has in all probability become extinct, owing to the recent volcanic disturbances in the island. The species was said formerly to occur only on the Soufriere, hence it became known as the Soufriere bird. The great eruption of 1718 drove many specimens to seek shelter in the other highlands of St. Vincent, but their numbers were considerably reduced by the fearful hurricane of 1898, and there is reason to fear, so I am told by an ornithological friend, that the few survivors have all perished in the eruption of May last.—Scotsman.

Concerning Names.

"Apropos of the eternal domestic question, an English woman relates this experience: "I engaged a maid named Pearl, and as I simply couldn't ask a Pearl to fill the coal scuttle—happy woman to have one to fill—or to holystone the doorstep, I said: 'I would rather call you by some other name. Have you a second one?' 'Yes,' replied the damsel, brightly, 'my second name is Opal.' So I stuck to Pearl. At one time I all but engaged a maid named Hermione, but upon asking her: 'Have you a black dress, white caps and aprons?' she replied, acidly: 'Yes, I have; but I'm not going to wear 'em. Ma didn't christen me 'Hermione for to wear a livery.'"—N. Y. Tribune.

Dissatisfied American Women.

The American woman is restless, dissatisfied. Society is not among the highest or lowest classes, has driven her toward a destiny that is nor normal. The factories are full of old maids; the colleges are full of old maids; the hotels are full of wordly millionaires are full of old maids. For natural obligations are substituted the fictitious duties of clubs, committees, meetings, organizations, professions, a thousand unwomanly occupations.—Everybody's Magazine.

Woman's Self-Defense.

Once upon a time a woman who believed that a man had spoken wrongly of her called on him to defend himself and to convince him that he had done her an injustice.

She began her defense by talking, and though he proved that he had never said what he was accused of saying she continued to defend herself by talking, and after that she went on talking in her defense.

Moral—There is a womanly art of self-defense.—N. Y. Herald.

Lost Opportunity.

Tess—I met that pompous Mrs. Jorkins on the street to-day, and I was so mortified. You see her name was right on the tip of my tongue—

Jess—But you couldn't think of it, eh?

"Not that at all. The trouble was that I blurted right out: 'How d'y do, Mrs. Porkins?' when I might have said 'Snorkins,' 'Porkins' or something else to make her mad."—Philadelphia Press.

Woke Him Up.

"Did you know that in the Arctic regions, Mr. Staylate, they have nights that are six months long?"

"So I have heard, Miss Laura."

"Yes. I was just thinking what characteristic evening calls you could make up there."

"Dear me, is it as late as that? Good night."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Quite Neighborly.

Whyte—How do you raise your new house? Do your neighbors show a friendly disposition?

Green—I guess so. They sent over to borrow our ping-pong set the other night while we were having an evening party.—Somerville (Mass.) Journal.

Their Revenge.

Judge—I wonder why babies always scream and cry without any apparent reason.

Judge—They probably do it to have revenge on the women that make them stand for all kinds of silly baby talk.—Baltimore Herald.

Not Returnable.

Cholly—You say this ring is guaranteed for a year. Then, I presume, you will take it back if I care to return it within that time?

Salesman—Oh, no. We guarantee the ring, not the engagement.—Judge.

A Sticker.

Father—This whipping is going to hurt me more than you.

Son—Well, I guess you'll stick to that idea as long as you don't feel the stick.—Judge.

Softened Grief.

Wilson—I saw that Lee silk umbrella that I carried in town to-day.

Mrs. Wilson—O, what a pity!

"Still, there is one consolation. It wasn't mine."—Somerville Journal.

TWO POINTS DECIDE CONTEST FOR LEAL'S

First of Series of Scholastic Basket Ball Games Played Friday Afternoon.

THE SCORE WAS 9 to 7

ONE OF THE CLOSEST GAMES EVER PLAYED IN LOCAL GYMNASIUM.

City High School Had Lead in First Half, But Leal's Braced Up Just Long Enough to Win by a Very Narrow Margin.

It was not until the second half ended that anyone knew how the first of the scholastic series of basket ball games, played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium between the Leal School and City High School teams Friday afternoon, was going. It ended in a victory for the Leal boys by a score of 9 to 7, after one of the most exciting games played in the local gymnasium.

There is an old rivalry between the two schools which has resulted in some lively contests in the past. Both sides went in with the determination of winning yesterday's game and some very hard and fast playing was the result. Although the play was hard, it was quite free from roughness. The Leal boys had the advantage of height and weight but it did not count for so much until the second half. At times, both sides developed very fair team play. There was a tendency, however, to leave men uncovered as critical times.

At the start, the High School boys set a pace that surprised everybody. They had better team play and made a decidedly fast game. Leal's boys were inaccurate at goal throwing and failed to score from the field during the first half. It was an even thing in the first half with the score 3 to 1 in favor of the High School.

There was a change in the second half. The Leal boys became more aggressive, their team play appeared, while the High School contingent did not play with the same spirit that characterized their game in the first half. This lasted long enough for the Leal five to come to the fore. Then the High School team braced up and the windup was lively enough to suit anybody. The lead that Leal's had obtained was held despite the best efforts of their opponents and the game was finally won by just two points.

The teams lined up as follows:

Leal's School.	City High School.
Deane . . . . . right forward . . . . . Mearn
R. Abbott . . . . . left forward . . . . . Sherbert
G. Abbott, capt . . . . . centre . . . . . Meeker, capt
Schoonmaker . . . right guard . . . . . Thompson
Bigelow . . . . . left guard . . . . . Miner

Score—Leal's School, 9; City High School, 7. Goals from the field—Deane, G. Abbott, Meeker (2). Goals on foule—R. Abbott (4), Bigelow, Meeker (3). Foule—Leal's School, 7; City High School, 13. Referee—Charles B. Morse. Umpires—C. E. A. Heywood and Kenneth Robbie. Timekeepers—C. V. Fowler and Prance Anderson. Scorers—R. S. Lane and John H. Doane. Time of halves—20 minutes.

HELPS HEAVY TRAINS.

Jersey Central is Using Its Heavy Engines to Assist on Grades.

In order to facilitate the removal of coal from the Pennsylvania fields to tidewater, the New Jersey Central is using some of its largest freight and passenger locomotives. The huge engines are also placed at various places along the road to help trains over grades. One piles between Dunellen and Graceland, acting as pusher for all coal trains passing through Plainfield.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

Dinner to Agents.

Superintendent Charles Ball, of the local office of the Prudential Insurance Company, will give a dinner, Friday evening, at the Hotel Kensington for his agents in this district, the medical staff and the secretary of the home office will be present. The affair is not given by the company, but by Mr. Ball.

Inspect Poor Farm.

The annual inspection of the Piscataway township poor farm was made by the county officials last week. Everything was found to be in excellent shape and Overseer Hummer was commended. The officials afterwards enjoyed a good dinner as the guests of the overseer.

Injured While Wrestling.

Louis J. Clark, of Lincoln place, was kicked and severely injured while wrestling with some companions Friday evening, and was sent home, where he is now confined.

CASE WAS DISMISSED WHILE SHE WAITED

The Complaintant in Chicken Thief Case Says She Was to Wait Until Notified.

AND SO SHE WAITED

MEANWHILE THE TWO MEN, CHARGED WITH STEALING, WERE DISCHARGED.

Hearing in Case Was to Have Been Held Before Justice Smalley Friday Afternoon—The Court Was Held in a Pool Room.

Over the green cover of a pool table in a room in the rear of a saloon justice was meted out Friday afternoon by David Smalley, justice of the peace. The case in hand was that of two men who were charged with having broken into and stolen several chickens from the coop of Mrs. Shotwell, of Pearl street. The case was announced to be called at 2 o'clock but for some reason it was called an hour earlier.

The poolroom-court was crowded when Justice Smalley rapped with his lead pencil gavel that the Court would come to order but when the complainant was called no one was present to press the complaints.

The two men on trial, John Morecraft and Harry F. Hayes had secured William G. DeMeza as their counsel and he at once moved for a dismissal of the case on the ground that there was no one present to press the complaint. Justice Smalley, after a brief discussion, discharged the men.

After the case was over word was sent to Mrs. Shotwell, who was at her home on Pearl street, where she had been waiting for almost an hour, and where she says she was told to wait until she was wanted as witness, so that she would not have to have such a long wait in a poolroom.

She was highly indignant at not being called to testify to the court against the men. When seen by a Press reporter and asked why she did not appear said:

"I was told to wait at my house until I was wanted to testify so that I would not be obliged to wait in the room so long before it was my turn to testify. The first I knew of the case being over was when Officer Myers came to my house and told me that the case was over."

MISS LORTON'S SURPRISE.

Friends Dropped in at Her Home Friday Evening.

A birthday surprise party was given in honor of Miss Ethel Lorton at her home on Watchung avenue, last Friday by her cousin, Harvey Morrison. Games and dancing were the main features of the evening. Among those present were the Misses Jessie Hill, Florence and Clara Kanen, Edith Glaentzer, Amy Moore, Ethel VanWinkle, Luella Day, Etta Trembley, Edna Oakley, Bertha Manning, Hazel Morrison, Sarah Hopewell and Ethel Lorton; Leo Moore, Raymond Harvey, Vincent Meaney, George Wilson, Jack Burke, Herbert Dobbs, John Harper, John Lyness, Alfred Keenan, Leslie Palmer, Irving Walsh and Harvey Morrison.

The young people had a most enjoyable evening and so did "Aunt Mary" Force, who is nearing her eighty-eighth birthday. She did not tire of seeing the young people play games, dance, etc., and refused to retire until all had departed for home. During the evening refreshments were served.

One Hundred Dollars a Box

is the value H. A. Tisdale, Summerton, S. C., places on DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says: "I had the piles for 20 years. I tried many doctors and medicines, but all failed except DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me." It is a combination of the healing properties of Witch Hazel with antiseptics and emollients; relieves and permanently cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, sores, cuts, bruises, eczema, salt rheum and all skin diseases. L. W. Randolph.

Lunch-Box Social.

The Christian Endeavor Society, of Bethel chapel, will hold a lunch-box social in the chapel Wednesday evening, January 28. Each woman is asked to bring a lunch-box for two and to provide two bows of the same color, one to be placed in the box and the other to be worn by the woman bringing the box. Thus she will secure a partner with which to eat lunch.

To Replace Street Signs.

The damaged street signs of the city are to be replaced by Street Commissioner Gavett, in accordance with a recent action of the Common Council when an appropriation for the work was made. Some of the signs are damaged as a result of boys shooting at them with flobert rifles and some are imperfectly made.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 29, 1903. NO. 5.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

APPALLING DISASTER!

OVER SCORE KILLED IN AWFUL RAILWAY CRASH.

Philadelphia Express Crashed Into Rear of Local Train Well Filled With Plainfield Commuters Near Westfield.

PLAINFIELD PLUNGED IN DEEPEST GLOOM.

With over a score of its citizens dead and many more injured, most of them seriously, all Plainfield stands aghast at the terrible disaster which occurred on the Jersey Central Railroad at 6:45 o'clock Tuesday evening, half a mile west of the Westfield station. One of its famous Philadelphia express trains, going at full speed, crashed into the rear of a local train, well filled with commuters most of whom were returning to their homes in this city and Dunellen. Three cars of the local train were ground to splinters and another car partially wrecked. The passengers were tossed into the air or buried beneath the ruins where fire soon added to the horrors and carried a torturing death to those pinned beneath the wreck. Never has such an awful blow fallen on the city. Never has the Jersey Central known an accident of such proportions.

All the city was horror stricken when the first news of the disaster reached here. Each minute brought fresh tidings of the terrible event and added to the horror instead of allaying it. As the wreck blocked all traffic for a time, there were many in the trains following that did not arrive at their usual hour and the anxiety of their relatives and friends was pitiful to behold. Then when the dead and injured began to arrive, the horror of it all was never seen before in Plainfield. And today, there is gloom and sorrowing in every household for some loved one or dear friend who met death in that appalling disaster. There were few who could realize the terribleness of it all yesterday but today it has stunned the city as has no previous calamity.

According to the evidence of all, the block signal system of the Jersey Central Railroad, which is one of the finest in the country, was in perfect working order at the time of the wreck and after it. The only conclusion to draw, and the one which the officials of the railroad have taken, is that the engineer of the second train failed for some reason to see the signals and thus brought about an awful event. With over a score of others, the engineer met his death in the wreck.

Today the morgue is crowded with the charred and mangled remains of the victims while Muhlenberg Hospital is crowded way beyond its capacity with the injured ones.

The Victims.

THE DEAD:

CHANDOR, Roland, clerk, aged seventeen, lived with his mother, Mrs. A. A. Chandor, of 202 East Ninth street; died while being brought to this city.

CUMING, Thomas A., employed by G. E. Hall, aged twenty-eight, resided on Putnam avenue with wife and one child; died at his home.

FLYNN, Edward, clerk, aged twenty-five, resided at 444 West Fourth street. Caught in wreck and body almost entirely consumed. Identified by his brother, Roundsman John Flynn.

GILES, Elias, aged twenty-one, residence 417 East Sixth street; son of Enoch Giles; body burned almost to a crisp; identified by clothing. Was a member of Company K.

HAND, Horace G., aged twenty-five years, of Elizabeth, son of Hezekiah Hand.

HARDINGHAM, Fred, twenty-five years, clerk, Dunellen avenue.

PATTERSON, Harvey L., bookkeeper with Sutphen & Meyer, of New York, aged twenty-five, resided with parents at West Dunellen; died soon after being removed from wreck.

ROGERS, Harry, aged twenty-one years, son of A. C. Rogers, West Fifth street.

REED, Charles E., residence Clinton avenue; aged fifty years; body badly burned; identified by employer.

THAYER, C. T., secretary to T. C. Platt, resided with wife and family on Watchung avenue; died soon after being removed from wreck.

TOMLINSON, H. W. electrician, aged thirty-five, lived with wife and child on Verdon street; caught in wreckage and burned.

WILLIAMS, Edgar W., lawyer, aged forty-four years; lived with wife at 314 East Sixth street.

WALDRON, Craig, bookkeeper, aged forty-two; resided on East Fifth street with family; body badly burned.

There are Seven Bodies at the Morgue as yet Unidentified.

THE INJURED.

GEORGE, Howard, Craig place, right leg broken in three places and upper part of body cut and gashed; condition serious; at the hospital.

DUNN, William, Norwood avenue, right leg crushed and face cut; condition serious; taken home.

CUTTER, Miss Lizzie, Sandford avenue, badly cut about head; not serious; taken home.

PANGBORN, Miss Carrie, Linden avenue, general cuts and bruises; not serious; taken home.

LINE, A. M., 248 East Front street, spine injured, cut and bruised; taken home.

LINE, Miss Mary, 248 East Front street, scalp wound and general shock; thrown through car window; taken home.

FORCE, George, East Front street, badly cut by flying glass; taken home.

CLARK, William, Crescent avenue, both legs broken; condition serious; at the hospital.

VAN DEVENTER, William, East Fifth street, slight cuts about head; taken home.

FREDERICKS, Wilson, Dunellen, right foot injured, both arms scalded; condition not serious; at the hospital.

WALSH, Mrs., Crescent avenue, badly cut about the head and suffering from shock; taken home.

GIDDES, William, Dunellen, injured about the lower limbs; taken home.

KANEN, Fred, Fifth street and Watchung avenue, hurt internally; condition good; at the hospital.

RUNYON, Howard J., 106 Railway road, suffering from shock and cuts; taken home.

CHANDLER, George, Mountain avenue and Somerset, street, spine severely injured; condition not serious; taken home.

EVERITT, Miss Mildred, Somerset street, scalp wound; not serious; taken home.

LANGWORTHY, Charles, 1022 Park avenue, leg crushed, bad cuts and contusions; condition serious; at the hospital.

ISING, P. M., Dunellen, chest crushed, compound fracture of the leg; condition serious; at the hospital.

ALBERT, Miss Kittie, East Fourth street, injured about the hips; not serious; taken home.

BALCH, Mrs. Madeline, 724 Watchung avenue, compound fracture of right leg, hurt about entire body; condition serious; at the hospital.

APGAR, Ray, Dunellen, seriously injured about head; at the hospital.

DUNHAM, Charles, badly cut about face; taken home.

QORINNE, James, badly cut about head; taken home.

SEARGENT, Miss Nina, East Second street, back severely sprained; taken home.

DAVIS, James H., Philadelphia, engineer of express; fractured pelvis, large lacerated wound in right groin; at the hospital; will die.

GEORGE, Edward, Craig place; severe bodily bruises and cuts; taken home.

LOCK, Frank, Fairview avenue; slight bruises; taken home.

SAMPSON, Walter, East Fifth street, cut and bruised about body.

McCARTY, Samuel, fireman on Philadelphia express; terribly crushed; eyes burned, condition serious; at the hospital.

OGDEN, A. C., East Sixth street, badly cut by glass; taken home.

QUEREAU, Augustin, Belvidere avenue, general contusions; condition not serious; at the hospital.

SANDERS, Miss, East Seventh street, both legs and jaw broken; condition serious; taken home.

SIMONSON, Miss Evelyn, Duer street, bruised and cut over entire body; condition not serious; taken home.

FREEMAN, James H., 1280 Park avenue; arms badly scalded and general shock; condition good; taken home.

O'KEEFE, Wm. J., residence West Seventh street, Plainfield; severe scalp wound and general abrasions; condition good, taken home.

MISSING.

LINBARGER, Miss Lera, 515 Park avenue.

MAHAN, Henry L., 187 Martine avenue.

BERKMAN, James, 212 West Eighth street.

HOPPERSET, Robert W., 922 Putnam avenue.

DENOUNCED REPEALERS.

Board of Trade Took Vigorous Stand on the Question.

Despite the excitement caused by the wreck, the meeting of the Board of Trade was held last Tuesday. There were strong speeches against the repealers for the annexation and consolidation acts by J. C. Pope, James E. Martine, Former Mayor Saunders and Mayor Smalley. Resolutions denouncing the repealers were unanimously passed.

Hugh Fawcett Safe.

Hugh Fawpett, of Rockview avenue, who was reported missing, is safe in Boston. His family received a letter from him this morning in which he stated that he had been called to Boston. The letter was written last evening.

Jerusalem's Progress.

The members of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., are just now pointing with no little pride to the fact that the lodge is in the sixty-eighth year of its existence and with a membership of 165 starts the year with new officers under the most favorable auspices.

Chauncey Field Stout, of Madison avenue, who has been detained at home several days by illness, expects to return to work today.

HOW WRECK WAS CAUSED

Details of Collision and the Circumstance Which Led Up to It.

From the information given out by the railroad officials and the statements of passengers and eyewitnesses of the affair, it is possible to give as authentic an account as may be without the story of the engineer.

Train No. 13 is schedule to leave New York at 5:45 o'clock. Tuesday afternoon it was composed of seven coaches and a combination baggage and smoker. The rear car was also utilized as a smoker. The train runs as an express to Elizabeth and then stops at Westfield, Netherwood, Plainfield and goes on to Somerville. It is customary for that train to take the fourth track at Cranford and allow the Philadelphia express, which leaves New York at 6 o'clock, to pass it in the neighborhood of Westfield. Tuesday afternoon, the crew of No. 13 received orders to proceed to Dunellen before taking the fourth track.

Shortly after passing Westfield, the engineer discovered a hot journal. The packing around it caught fire and began to blaze. The train stopped half a mile west of Westfield station and the heated bearing was cooled. The flagman was sent back. Many of the passengers left the train to see what was the trouble. They had returned to their seats, the flagman had been called in and the train had just begun to move when the Philadelphia flyer came rushing along and plowed directly into the local. The flagman waved his red lantern and sprang to one side.

According to the testimony of hundreds who looked at the block signals immediately after the disaster, they were working without trouble. They seemed in perfect order. From all evidence obtainable, the engineer of the express did not observe the block signals.

William Verson was the gateman at the Broad street crossing at Westfield. He says that the signals were set against the Philadelphia express. When that train bore down on him, he waived his red lantern. As the train passed by, he exclaimed, "My God, they'll all be killed. He hasn't seen it."

Just at the instant that the express crashed into the forward train, Train No. 136, a local starting from Somerville, was passing on the main eastbound track. None of the cars on that train were derailed although a portion of the car sides was torn out and nearly all the windows broken. The passengers were badly shaken up.

Engine No. 27, of the Atlantic City Railroad, was drawing the Philadelphia express. The engineer was W. E. Davis, of Philadelphia. There were one combination baggage and passenger coach, one passenger coach and two Pullman cars, all vestibuled, in the train. The conductor was George McKeven, of Philadelphia. The train was a heavy one and, according to the statements of its passengers, was moving at about forty miles a hour. The brakes were applied but a few seconds before the crash came.

The huge locomotive of the express train plowed through the last car of the local as if it had been pastboard. The car was reduced to kindling wood in a moment. Passengers were hurled through the air. Through the second car, the engine went and it, too, was reduced to fragments. Its passengers were either buried beneath the wreckage or tossed one side. The third car, which contained many women, was split in twain. One side was thrown to the right while the remainder of the car rolled over and lay diagonally across the track resting against the fragments of the other cars. The fourth car had its rear end stove in and it was derailed and twisted to the left although not overturned. The fifth car was partially derailed but not otherwise damaged. The remaining three cars were not damaged and were subsequently used as a hospital train to convey the injured to Plainfield.

All of the express train remained on the track. The engine and tender were covered with debris which ought fire at once. They soon became a mass of broken and twisted metal. Windows throughout the train were broken and all the passengers were badly shaken up but none were seriously injured. While not crowded, the train had a fair complement of passengers on board.

According to the stories of those who were on train No. 13, there were some twenty-five people in the rear car. As many more were in the second and fully thirty in the third. Many passengers had alighted when the train stopped at Westfield. Among those in the rear smoker were four young men who were playing cards in the back seat.

Several people, who were in Elizabeth when the Philadelphia express passed through, make the statement that there appeared to be a leak in the steam chest or cylinder, a cloud of steam almost concealing the engine. They advanced the theory that the steam must have hidden the signals from the view of the engineer.

A NEVER-FORGOTTEN SCENE

Those First Few Moments Immediately Following the Crash Before Aid Came.

In less time than it takes to tell it, three of the passenger coaches were reduced to kindling wood and half a

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 5)

By Eye-Witnesses

Probably the most complete account of what followed directly after the terrible crash occurred, was told a Daily Press reporter by G. A. Wegeforth, manager of the Grand Opera House, of Philadelphia, who was a passenger on the express train:

"I had just gotten up from the first coach near the front of the train and gone to the parlor car to speak to a friend. Hardly had I been seated when a mighty crash came that sent us flying in all directions with the chairs piled upon us. There was absolutely no warning and as the train continued to move, rocking from side to side, my first thought was that it had left the track. But as the train on the east bound track rushed past us ripping out window panes I realized it was something more serious.

"As soon as the onward motion stopped I rushed out and the scene that met my eyes will haunt me to my dying day. Men and women with maimed limbs, some almost disemboweled, were crawling in all directions. From out the mass of wreckage that was piled high upon the express engine, miserable unfortunates cried piteously for the help we were unable to give. Only for an instant was this visible for suddenly a sheet of flame swept the splintered mass from end to end and we were all driven back. I attempted to reach one young woman who was held down by a heavy beam but it was useless and I was forced to withdraw with her moans ringing in my ears.

"Lying near the track in a heap of snow was a woman whose lower limbs were crushed, while she pillowed her head upon the breast of a man evidently her husband. The latter essayed to rise but as he did a low cry burst from him and he sank back. I then saw one of his legs was shattered from the hip down. With the assistance of several other passengers I carried them to a nearby house and afterward continued in the work.

"It seemed an age before either doctors or fire department arrived and in the meantime all we could do was to tie up splintered limbs with improvised bandages. The horrible scenes were constantly recurring and it is a wonder to me that anybody maintained nerve enough to carry on the rescue work."

HEROINE OF THE DISASTER

How Mrs. Harkson Opened Her Home and Cared for Dying and Injured.

Trying ordeals like Tuesday night's disaster generally bring to light some hero or heroine. One of the latter was revealed in Mrs. Alfred Harkson, of South avenue, whose home is directly in front of where the wreck occurred.

Hearing the crash and shrieks of the dying, she ran to the rear of the yard and saw the horrible sight. Then without a moment's hesitation she grasped an axe, demolished the fence bounding the tracks and called to the rescuers to bring the injured to her home. She herself helped several into the kitchen and leaving them, ran to a neighbor's where she telephoned for the Westfield fire department and police.

At the house again she found herself alone with the dying and while administering spirits to some, she took the names and addresses of others whose life blood was ebbing. Five people died in her parlor and still she worked on, never depending upon a woman's prerogative to faint. She snatched sheets and coverlets from her beds to make bandages, rolled up the rugs for head rests and even directed the removal of bodies through the hallway to the porch where they were laid in a row to await identification.

"It was awful," she said to a Press reporter, "but I just couldn't stand still and see those poor people suffer. I am covered with blood and sick at heart from the sights I witnessed but as long as there is an injured man or woman to be cared for I shall do my best. My only thought has been for the poor mothers and sisters of those who have been killed and I wish I could comfort some of them as I have helped the unfortunates in their last moments.

All who came in contact with Mrs. Harkson during her work are loud in their praise of her conduct. She is rather petite in form and looks anything but the part she acted.

SAW THE TRAIN APPROACH

Wm. Palmer Smith Was on Rear Platform of the Ill-Fated Local.

Perhaps the only eye witness of the terrible accident who saw the approach of the colliding train and who is the only one who sounded a warning of the impending collision was William Palmer Smith, of Belvidere avenue, who, when interviewed by a Daily Press reporter immediately after he returned to his home from Westfield, said:

"Just after we passed Westfield I stepped out upon the rear platform of the train which came to a stop about half mile this side of that town owing to some trouble with the running gear. When the train came to a stop a brakeman took a lantern and ran along in back of the train.

"Soon the engine whistled for the brakeman to return and the train started again. Just as our train was getting up speed a light appeared some distance in the rear. I watched the light draw near thinking it was an approaching train and that it would switch off to another track.

"While I was still watching the light, which approached with great speed, I suddenly realized that a collision was about to take place. Hastily throwing open the rear door I yelled to the unsuspecting passengers, about thirty in number, to jump and then, casting one glance in the direction of the light which was then almost upon us, I jumped from the train and the next instant an awful crash came.

"When I recovered from the shock of my jump I saw the train a mass of ruins and the pitiful shrieks of the passengers mingled with the sound of hissing steam as it escaped from the damaged engine, made an awful babbel of sounds.

"People were seen crawling out from beneath the cars. Some were injured and others who escaped injury began to assist those who were pinioned under the wreckage."

FREE TRANSPORTATION.

The Lehigh Will Carry Young Fish or Fish Eggs for Commissioners.

General Superintendent Wilbar, of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, has issued a notice authorizing all agents and conductors to transport, without charge, young fish and fish eggs when shipped by the United States commissioner of fish and fisheries, or by any of the fish commissioners of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. The object of the order being to insure the proper distribution of young fish and to assist the various commissions in stocking the waterways along the line of the road, a matter of much importance to sportsmen.

To Get Acquainted.

A new feature of the Baltimore & Ohio management is a rule requiring every train dispatcher on the system to spend two days each month travelling over their respective divisions riding on locomotives, to familiarize themselves with every fact regarding the movement of trains, and looking to the improvement of the present system.

John B. Dumont, of East Seventh street, has recovered from a recent illness which detained him at home.

Mrs. Yardley Brown, of Summit avenue, who has been ill with tonsilitis, is able to be out again.

What the New Woman Is Doing

YOU can be sure the people in that boarding house are all from a country village," said Miss Wantrell, the city woman. "They don't talk anything but personalities, and they make fun of one another constantly behind backs. It makes me think of Flipton, where I used to teach school. There were women in that town who knew every movement of their acquaintances and twisted the most innocent acts into something to be criticised or ridiculed. They watched the postoffice to see how often people got letters. They peeked out behind their closed blinds to study their neighbors' clotheslines. If patched garments were displayed, these gossips did everything but publish the fact in the village newspaper." If a man, married or single, called at a house of an evening, the town knew of it next day, and motives were imputed to the man which he in his wildest moments could hardly have dreamed of."

"But are country people worse gossips than city folk?" I asked.

"Indeed they are. In the city there is always somewhere to go and some excitement to occupy the thought. The city woman who undertook to keep track of her next door neighbors would be driven into nervous prostration."

Now, is what Miss Wantrell said true? Is the air of country villages full of poisonous gossip, the microbes from which ferment in the souls of the women who live there and wither up and kill all sisterly tolerance, all noble, broadening growth and aspiration? Flatly, I do not believe it.

Of old humility was considered the virtue of women and slaves.

No new woman is ever found in an old woman's home.

If men, law and custom do not stop discriminating against and persecuting the feminine sex for being wives and mothers, the feminine sex will in time cease to be either. Men may as well know now that this is the ultimate of that financial independence for women which is coming as fast as time can bring it. Normal woman naturally likes man, but now that she is able to earn her own living it will have to be a tolerably fine man who can woo and win her. She more and more looks at the man himself, not at the "support." Let the man take notice accordingly.

Isn't it about time some women learned to mind their own business?

Do not glory in weakness and cowardice. Glory in courage and strength.

That noble organization, the National Council of Jewish Women, has now more than 7,000 members. Its president, Mrs. Hannah G. Solomon, favors an intermarriage of Hebrew women at the St. Louis exposition.

Pathetic is the story that a granddaughter of Patrick Henry, Mrs. Virginia Henry Beasley, aged, penniless and friendless, is now waiting to die in a charity home at Ithaca, N. Y. She is eighty-seven years old, but apparently as able to earn her own living as she was at twenty, for she says: "My father was a son of Patrick Henry. He owned a great plantation on which there were 1,000 slaves. The war wrecked my father's fortune." Mrs. Beasley was brought up in the old helpless, useless way to do nothing. That was her greatest misfortune. The southern woman of the new school is bravely earning her living.

A to do is made over the fact that there is now living in Kentucky a woman eighty-two years old whose grandmother-in-law once refused to marry George Washington. Well, what of it?

Two abiebodied widows, mother and daughter, advertise in a Long Island paper for husbands, one apiece, to take care of them. Those two abiebodied widows will find themselves much better off if they hustle and take care of themselves. Men in these days are not marrying women to take care of them.

The writer of a letter printed in the Philadelphia North American says she is a widow, eighty-seven years old, that she reads without glasses and does her own housework. That is the right sort of widow. Let us have more of them.

Women's clubs, especially woman suffrage clubs, should have each Feb. 12 an impressive celebration of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, the man who believed in giving the ballot to all, "by no means excluding females."

It is said that Mrs. Armour of Sierra county, N. M., is increasing her wealth at the rate of $25,000 a year through the breeding of Angora goats. She has a herd of nearly 30,000 of these goats. One of them, Columbia Paschal, is valued at $1,500. Four years ago Mrs. Armour found herself a widow with nothing but nine little children that were lost among insects for purposes commercial. She had no money, but took a few goats on shares to rear and tend. She located a claim in a spot where there was pasture for them all the year, built a cabin and worked as wanted. Her eldest son is now in college.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

COSTLY FURS.

Complete Suits Are Made From Lightweight Skins.

Furs were never more beautiful than they are this year, and women are not content with fur wraps only, but must have suits of fur.

Moleskin has more or less taken the place of sealskin, and it lends itself admirably to almost any shape. As a matter of fact moleskin is not heavy, and is therefore one of the best skins to use for blouse and skirts. The prettiest way of treating these skirts is to let in on the hips some stitched cloth of the same shade, fitting the skirt tightly to the knees, where some strappings of cloth may be arranged at the top of a shaped flounce. There must be a certain amount of fullness in these plain skirts, and the flounce should just clear the ground. The bolero or short blouse to correspond can be finished with a cloth or stitched silk band, thereby avoiding necessary bulk at the waist.

EVENING COAT.

Fur as well as cloth coats are usually lined with cream satin with inner frills of lace when an extra elaborate effect is desired at the neck and sleeves.

Enamel or paste buttons are also added, and these sometimes figure as ornaments on the large fur toques which go with these suits. A large moleskin toque relieved with white chiffon and white ostrich feathers is very smart.

In the picture is shown an elaborate evening coat. JUDIC CHOLLET.

COFFEE COATS.

Popular Garments For House Wear. Dainty Effects.

The coffee coat and the petticoat to match have to a large extent taken the place of the negligee. These fascinating little coats are generally made barely reaching the waist line in the back, but having long tabs in front, reaching almost to the knees. They are trimmed with fine lace, embroidery and every dainty touch known to the dressmaker's art.

One of these recently seen was of pale blue taffeta. The lower edge of the jacket was cut in toothed effect, and lines of white insertion covered the body, imitating the pointed outline. The collar was of all over lace run through with tiny baby ribbons. The skirt was of the same taffeta, with the pointed insertings and a wide flounce headed by a beading run through with velvet ribbon.

A DAINTY BLOUSE

Equally pretty effects are to be gained with spotted net trimmed with bands of heavy lace and sometimes tiny edgings of fur and lace.

Negligees and coffee coats offer a fine opportunity for combining artistically several short remnants.

In the illustration is shown a dainty evening blouse of chiffon, ribbon and lace. JUDIC CHOLLET

NAUGHTY CHILDREN.

They Are an Unnecessary Evil in the Household.

It is the worst possible policy to call a child naughty.

"You are such a naughty child!"

"I think you are the naughtiest little boy I ever saw!"

These are expressions which not only rouse a passion of resentment in a child's breast, but harden him as well. The child's point of view is the right one too. He may have broken a vase or he may have been disobedient, but does this one fault make him wicked and depraved? If so, he might as well go on in earnest.

Too much discretion cannot be exercised in correcting a child. In every case, when possible, his sense of honor or pride should be appealed to. Punish the child, but make your punishment a logical one. Never punish without explaining.

DON'T SCOLD THE CHILD BEFORE COMPANY

Children, even the tiniest ones, are more capable of reasoning than we give them credit for being. If your child is bad tempered, selfish or a story teller, in nine cases out of ten it is your own fault. If you had taken these faults in their very beginnings, when the child was perhaps a mere baby, you would not have to keep correcting him now and devising new forms of punishment. The trouble with the average mother is that she waits until the child is "old enough to understand." When the child is old enough to show signs of a fault, then he is old enough to be restrained from committing that fault and to be helped to that end in the kindest and most patient of ways.

Very few children need heroic handling, but all need watchful and constant care, together with advice suited to their small understandings. Never, if possible, break a child's spirit or pride. Do not scold or reprove him in the presence of company. Speak to him quietly afterward.

Above all, be just in your treatment of the little ones. Let your "No" be a "No" and your "Yes" a "Yes," and do not let circumstances or the presence of other people make you relax your laws. Once the child realizes that you cannot be coaxed or fretted into giving in, he will resign himself to the situation, particularly if you have made the justice of your position clear to him.

By using reason and kindness, mixed with a proper amount of firmness, no mother need have "naughty children."

HELEN CLIFTON.

Fashion Notes.

The Monte Carlo coats continue to be well liked, and they are pretty. But for the rough stuffs the two piece blouse suit is the best style. Hats seem to have grown flatter than ever, but somehow they all manage to remain quite as becoming as ever. Toques of dress material are splendidly stylish and not so very economical as one might think, for though the body of the hat is made of the pieces of stuff left over it requires a master hand to make a toque look well, and some fine trimming must be found to go on, though probably it will look as though it did not cost much. Still the toque has a reason to be, and that is that a whole suit of anything is the vogue. One tweed was made of rub cloth as to crown and brim, though the last was almost hidden under a thick wreath of velvet autumn leaves. The effect was rich and reasonable.

The White Fad.

White is the one great fad of the season, and the fad demands that the gown, cloak or wrap shall be of fine broadcloth covered with rich and heavy lace, this either dead white or cream. String and ecru are also employed where the shade of the gown makes them suitable. On light gray the ecru lace shows beautifully, and the string color also finds its proper place. All but white lace and gowns are also seen sometimes, but the beauty of the lace is not shown so well as where there is a slight difference in the shade. The New York horse show presented to us the fashion of wearing white in every case where it can be worn, and it is now used in many places for which it is manifestly unsuitable. Many women on the street seem so overdressed and conspicuous that they look positively vulgar.

STRIKING FASHIONS.

Wide Capes on Tailor Modes—Velveteens Popular.

One of the most striking features of the winter tailor made is the large collar or cape arrangement which covers the shoulders and is a revival of the large Richelieu collar of point lace which was worn in the summer. Such a cape gives extra warmth in the winter and makes a fine background for a stole of fur.

The costliest simplicity is the keynote of the best fashion, but some of lesser lights will aim at elaboration. The woman with a small income must use much discrimination in buying just now, as styles are likely to undergo a great change. She can, however, make little mistake if she buys anything that is really good of its kind.

VELVET BLOUSE

In Paris they are wearing a great deal of velveteen, both striped and spotted. Sometimes it is trimmed with fur. It is being used in pale shades for reception gowns, especially in fawn and gray. Parisians always show their good taste by dressing in complete harmony, and their fancy for gray is very pronounced.

The pretty blouse shown is of velvet with a front of white silk and chiffon applique. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHIONABLE COLORS.

Green Is on the Wane—New Shades of Red and Orange.

There is no doubt that the popularity of green is on the wane in exclusive circles, whereas the fashionable champagne shade is in the ascendant and will continue so for some time. The new mulberry red is in vogue, and so are, even more than ever, smart combinations of black and white.

There is a new shade of orange which runs into flames—that is to say, it is considerably shot with pink. This will be immensely popular and extremely becoming when subdued with lace.

Soft laces, tulles, gauzes and crepes de chine, as well as nets, are all pressed into service for evening wear. Despite the use of some beautiful satins and brocades the softer fabrics are certainly the most popular, while the all"lace dress is never really out of fashion.

SMART CAP AND APRON.

A great deal of oriental embroidery is used both for day and evening wear. Colored cloth embroideries are extremely useful on cloth frocks. In fact, with the exception of gold braid, they are the only permissible trimming. Nothing is smarter for the morning gown of utility than the practical blue or black cheviot or rough goods simply made, heavily stitched and pressed, with the slightest touch of harmonious color introduced into the waistcoat revers or cuffs.

An up to date maid's cap and apron are here shown. JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Guess.

"This is the laundry," said the agent who was showing them through the house. "Here, you see, are stationary washtubs."

"Ah! Why do you call them stationary?" inquired the bride to be. "Is it because colored goods won't run to them?"—Philadelphia Press.

NEW FASHION MATERIALS.

The Hairy Albelines, Mohair, Rosana, Mystral, Floconne and Others.

All the hairy albelines are among the favorites in the way of woolen stuffs for midwinter, and well they may be, for they have a richness and apparent warmth while they are really light and flexible. They are so very rich that they require little if any trimming, and by wearing an inner waist of chamois and a fur collar one can look perfectly well dressed for any day. Gray with silvery white hairs is very elegant. There is soft blue with the overlay of white hairs and dark plum shades also covered with the white hairs. Ivory white has the silvery ones on the surface, and the green with the overlying white hairs obtains a delicate watery look. Red in a dark shade is covered with the white so that it becomes a most beautiful shade of pink. No matter what the combination, the same soft and elusive beauty is the result.

SILKLINE COSTUME.

Plain skirts, with sometimes two deep shaped flounces somewhat like a double skirt, are handsome, but the long, sweeping lines of a plain skirt are the most elegant. It all depends how one wears a dress for the effect it has. This particular goods looks best when made quite plain as to skirt except, perhaps, that seams may be slotted to emphasize the seam lines.

In the design offered herewith the side seams are slotted and left in a small inverted plait at the end of the seam. Such a skirt is cut in five gores only. The bodice is in blouse shape in front and a basque in the back. There are Norfolk plaits on each side of the waist down to the belt. The basque part is set on separately under the belt. It has two lines of buttons, and in the front there are many small buttons to match set on in clusters of three. The sleeves are the best liked of the newest styles and are large at the wrists and finished off with black velvet cuffs bordered with Persian castle braid in rich colors and with a little metal in it for brightness. The flat collar and revers are done in the same way.

All black silkeline and camel's hair are most ladylike materials for street attire. There is also a new thin stuff called mystral, with rough dots and spots on it. This is to be made up over taffeta of light contrasting color or in glace taffeta all black. In many cases this is so made up that there are openwork places with insets of lace or the different parts are joined by handsome fagoting.

Another fine new stuff for nice gowns is the mohair roxana, which is slightly armure in weave. Besides this, there is the handsome empress cloth, which was a great favorite some years ago. Satin striped voiles are new and very soft, with exceptional draping qualities. Some of the mystrals are also striped. These are really for early spring, but a few favored ones have them now. Floconne is made up into rich looking suits for midwinter, especially in those suits where there is a jacket to match the skirt.

Such materials, with the exception of the mystral, can be made into suits like the illustration and worn through the whole winter. Quite a number of bayadere stripes are seen, and Roman colorings in curtain dress materials and ribbons are shown. They are pretty when judiciously employed. Plaid in large design is much affected, especially for waists, and they are certainly striking. Worn with dark skirts they are not too gaudy; besides, they are always trimmed in a manner to tone down the large pattern and high colors.

Regular Irish frieze is again fashionable for short capes in the Red Riding Hood shapes, and it is a matter of personal taste whether the cape is lined with red and the hood also, or leave the same way or whether the cape is left natural. The collar can be high and flaring in any of the present styles or flat with a revers. But the hood is part of the garment and should not be left off. Some of these capes are made quite long and trimmed with fur or some one of the heavy braids.

MARIE LOUISE ROUSSEAU.

THE MARRIED PARTNERS.

A Good Husband Who Helps His Wife In Woman's Sphere.

The "gentle couple" is the name that seems to suit them best. At any rate, that is what I always call them in my mind when the husband and apparently the junior partner of the firm comes to our door twice a week—the first time with his clothes bag for the wash and the second time, on Friday evening, with crisp, snowy linen and smooth, perfectly ironed shirt waists—blue, white, pink and lavender—all done in neat paper parcels. He is a small man, rather timid and hesitating in manner, but the manner is that of a gentleman.

The little man is our wash lady. He is not a Chinaman, but an intelligent white, Anglo-Saxon man. He and his wife operate a laundry in partnership, and it is the best laundry I know of. His wife is taller than he and not so sweet tempered looking as he; still she is not a soured woman. She is shrewder than he and attends to the mathematical end of the enterprise. She keeps the books, irons the starched things and wraps up the parcels of shining clean clothes. He goes after the linen, carries it home when it is ready and does the washing. Yes, he does. He has found his niche and fills it well. He wrestles over the washboard as cheerfully and effectively as though he had not invaded woman's sphere at all, but was doing man's work. Perhaps he is.

THE MAN WASH LADY.

Everything is very quiet in the little laundry shop. Across its plate glass window is stretched an ivory white Japanese silk curtain upon a brass rod. It looks really aesthetic, especially as the window shines like a diamond, it is so clean, and the walls and shelves of the place are spotless and sweet smelling. When the silken curtain becomes dingy, it is taken down and washed.

The gentle couple do not speak of themselves or their history. They have little to say to their neighbors, though they are civil and polite to all. They have never quarreled even with the people who live upstairs over their heads. Who they are or whence they came few in the neighborhood know. They are well bred and intelligent, and their silence and their appearance and manner tell a story in spite of them, and the story is true.

It is that they began life in a so called higher station than that which they occupy now and that they had some money. They lost it and slid down, down by degrees to the bottom of the ladder. The mild little man attempted to get work to support them. In the wild whirl of American city life he was tossed and dashed hither and thither and finally hurled upon the shore, out of the swim. He was inefficient, helpless. He lost his grip. Then the second act in this little human comedy suggests itself, and this part of the story is true too.

The wife takes the steering gear into her hands. The husband's voice is mild and atonic. There is a ring of aggressiveness in hers. She is naturally the strong, pushing one. The little man is as good as gold, but he cannot make a living alone. He is too light in weight to shovel coal, he is too weak to force himself into a place for which half a dozen stronger, more capable men are already tussling. Madam decides she will start a laundry and that her husband shall help her with it till something else offers him better employment.

The laundry is started. It is very popular because everything is done so satisfactorily. Linen is called for and delivered promptly, and handkerchiefs are scarcely ever lost or misplaced, the garments are as clean and odorless as if they were done in a home laundry, as they are really. The married partners have all the business they can attend to.

Year after year has gone by. There is now no suggestion that the mild mannered little man shall seek employment elsewhere. That has been given up. The partners have a snug sum in the savings bank; they have insured their lives—each for the other. Every holiday, like Christmas or Thanksgiving, they give themselves the afternoon and go out somewhere to take the air together or attend some place of amusement. They have no children, so are all in all to each other. And, really, thinking over the married folk I am well acquainted with, this masculine wash lady and his partner wife seem to be the happiest couple I know.

MARCIA CAMPBELL.

The Views of Three Good Husbands

THE views on the woman question of a man who has been tried in the furnace of matrimony and not found wanting are entitled to a most respectful hearing. Therefore a little time ago I addressed to three liberal minded, intelligent married men of experience the following questions:

1. In your opinion, should a husband give his wife regularly a fixed sum for her own use, which she is to spend as she pleases? If so, what per cent of his income should this sum be?

2. What do you consider the duties of a wife to be?

3. Are you willing to allow your wife the same liberty of personal action that you claim for yourself—for instance, in her comings and goings night and day and in her absences from home?

4. Has either a husband or wife any right to attempt to control the other in politics or theology?

Here are the answers:

No. 1.

Dear Miss Sharp—It seems to me that the best way to answer these questions is to give you a peep into the conditions that prevail in my own home.

1. We run no accounts, except with the iceman and milkman, which bills we pay weekly. We have an arrangement that whenever my wife breaks into her last ten dollar bill she notifies me, and I give her whatever sum she wishes. If she has a dressmaker's bill to pay, she tells me the amount and that is added to the usual amount; if it is near rent day, the rent is also added. When a surplus accumulates in my pocket from my wages (my only source of revenue), it goes into one of three savings banks. We have three bankbooks—one a mutual one, one mine and one hers. If it is to be put to the mutual account, I give it to her and she deposits it; if to her account, she deposits it; if to mine, I deposit it. Thus there is no need of an allowance, as there is never any question brought up as to what my wife does with the money she handles.

2. To attend to the household duties, doing whatever work she desires and hiring the rest of the work done.

3. We freely accord to each other equal liberty of personal action as to our comings and goings.

4. No.

No. 2.

1. Yes. The percentage of course will depend entirely upon circumstances. I should say that of the surplus (over actual living expenses) she should have 25 per cent, while the remainder should be put away in the bank.

2. Strictly speaking, to do the work equitably devolving upon her as conscientiously as the husband does that which falls to his lot; socially, to be the chum and adviser of her husband, just as he should be the chum and adviser of the wife.

3. This is a difficult question to answer briefly. Broadly speaking, I should say "No." The very element of physical danger would make it indivisable, to say nothing of the fact that, inasmuch as the wife's duties are mostly at home, it is but fair that she should spend the greater portion of her time there, just as it is necessary that the husband shall spend most of his time at his place of business. On the other hand, the woman who is worthy of the name will not wish to do anything which she should not do, and the husband ought to permit things to go pretty close to the limit before interfering and then only when he has such a good case that he will be able to convince his wife that what he says is prompted not by a desire to be captious or to abridge her liberties, but by the desire to point out an error of judgment, which she will see as readily as he has seen it. It will also strengthen his position if he is able to add that he should be thankful to have her do likewise by him if their positions were reversed.

THREE BANKBOOKS—"HIS," "HERS" AND "THEIRS."

4. No, no, never!

No. 3

1. Yes. The wife should have as much money to spend on herself as her husband has for himself.

2. To manage the household affairs and the servant or servants; to look after the children; to be cheerful, agreeable and companionable.

3. Yes, so far as such liberty may be exercised with due regard to the safety and to the proper comfort of the home.

4. No.

KATE SHARP.

ORIGIN OF ICE CREAM.

The Process of Evolution Dates Back to the Beginning of the Seventeenth Century.

Ice cream has been brought to its present state of perfection by a gradual process of evolution from the original idea which dates back to the beginning of the seventeenth century, says What to Eat. At that time iced fruits and cups made of ice first appeared at banquets. Like many other good things for the table, ice cream claims Paris for its birthplace, and yet it was not a Frenchman but an Italian named Procope Cousteaux who first thought out the idea of icing lemonades and liquers. From this was gradually evolved over 100 years later ice cream, or iced butter, as it was then called, from its resemblance to that article of food.

While all civilized nations serve ices in great variety, we are apt to think of ice cream as an essentially American dish, probably because frozen desserts of all kinds are more generally used in this country than in any other. Ice cream first made its appearance in America in Philadelphia at the end of the eighteenth century. It was then considered a great luxury, and, consequently was served only on state occasions. It was not within the reach of ordinary mortals until 1800, when an Italian confectioner established an ice cream house, as it was then called, at Germantown, a suburb of Philadelphia.

A SHOWER OF RATS.

Thousands of the Rodents Borne by a Tornado Over a Town in Algeria.

The town of Bougie, in Algeria, was lately visited by a shower of rats.

For many years thousands of rats, in company with many hundreds of monkeys, inhabited the Courays, a high mountain towering over Bougie. The great storm which swept them from the mountain arose early in the afternoon, and soon developed into a furious hurricane. A huge funnel-shaped cloud of dust and stones buried itself over the mountain, destroying everything in its path. Oddly enough most of the monkeys managed to hold on to the pine trees, although the larger portion of them were killed; but literally thousands of rats were carried high into the air and strewn in vast numbers over the Grand Phare and the suburbs of Bougie.

*The Kabyle tribes of the neighbor*hood, who are extremely superstitious, were terribly frightened and fled in all directions, spreading terror over the district. They believed that the rats were sent down from the skies to punish them, and that the end of the world had come. In the town the more intelligent Arabs were less superstitious and promptly set to work to kill those rats which were not already dead. But there were so many of them still alive and they found such convenient hiding places that the hunt is still going on.

The Bougie prefect of police went out into the country on his motor car to reassure the Kabyles, and finally succeeded in pacifying the chiefs so that the people returned to their homes.

REVEALS INCONSISTENCIES.

Absurdities in Dress Are Brought Out in Noticeable Way by the Camera.

"If women would but remember," remarked the photographic artist, "that the gown when composed of more than one material should look like one garment worn over the other, they would save themselves from some grievous artistic errors in dress. Take the case of the double sleeve now so popular. The idea is that of a comparatively heavy outer sleeve, cut away to show the lighter and generally prettier arm covering, and a woman with any artistic feeling always preserves that effect, even though she may not act on any definite principle.

"But artistic feeling is a rare thing; therefore, the double sleeve is the occasion of many artistic atrocities. One actually sees such sleeves cut in two at the elbow in order that the puff of silk may be inserted, thus leaving the lower half without any apparent connection with the shoulder, and nothing to prevent it, so far as the eye can see, from sliding off the arm. The sleeve may with perfect propriety be slashed at the elbow to show a silk lining, but to cut it in two for the purpose of inserting another material is merely making patchwork of it. Another custom is to put the material with which the sleeve terminates over, instead of under, the predominating material, thus destroying the idea of an undersleeve entirely, and leaving the construction without any show of reason for its existence.

QUEER USE FOR HUMAN SKIN.

Mummies Ground by Machinery and Converted Into Paint for Artists' Colors.

Not many persons are aware of the fact that the best brown paint used by artists is made from human bodies. The bones and skin, which are ground up by artists' colormen and sold in tiny tubes, are those of mummies taken out of the Egyptian mausoleums.

When a person died in Egypt a century or two B. C. he was preserved in the finest bitumen. The remains of a body treated in this manner at the time of being unwrapped to-day present an appearance similar to light-colored leather. The bitumen and the leather-like remains are ground down by machinery, and turned into a beautiful brown liquid paint which is the delight of all artists.

In the manufacture of artists' colors, animal, vegetable and mineral substances are largely used, states the Detroit News-Tribune. Crimson and purple lakes and carmine are all obtained from the cochineal insect. Sepia is the dark fluid discharged by the cuttlefish to render the water opaque for its own concealment when attacked by a larger fish. Prussian blue is made by fusing the hoofs of horses with impure potassium carbonate, and ultramarine is obtained from the precious mineral known as lapis lazuli.

Buddhist Center of America.

It is stated that San Diego, in southern California, is fast becoming the Buddhistic center of America. In one house there has been erected a shrine to Buddha, and the owner, a woman of means, has brought a Buddhist priest from India, who gathers a large congregation together every week.

Bed Worth a Fortune.

Countess Anna di Castellane, once Anna Gould, sleeps in the great bed of Mme. de Sevigne, than which there is no finer in all the world. It is made of gilded cedar wood inlaid with precious stones, and has painted panels by the greatest masters of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

Germany's Coffee Farms.

German farms occupy nearly 1,000,000 acres in Central America, on which over 20,000,000 coffee trees are planted.

Scilly Island Flowers.

The Scilly Islands produce yearly 80 tons of flowers for perfume making.

COWBOYS AT THE PLAY.

One of Them Tried to Make It Easier for the Heroine by Roping the Villain.

Under a recent date the San Antonio correspondent of the St. Louis Republic writes that there was a fascinating conglomeration of the drama of true, wholesome Texas life at the Grand Opera house last night. Zach Mulhall, general live stock agent of the Frisco, is here with his cowboy band, and they occupied eight boxes at the Grand last night at the presentation of Hal Reid's "Human Hearts."

"Can you boys make all the noise they want to?" asked Col. Mulhall before he accepted the invitation. He was assured that they could. The band was attired in leather leggins, buckskin shirts, sombreros and red bandana handkerchiefs. They carried Colt's six-shooters and belts full of cartridges. Miss Lucile Mulhall, the pretty daughter of Col. Mulhall, who can rope and tie a steer in 38 seconds flat and sing an operatic air equal to a prima donna, accompanied the band as sponsor.

EMPTIED IT AT THE CEILING.

After the third curtain the band struck up "Dixie," with such feeling that everybody cheered until they were hoarse, but the climax of enthusiasm and consternation came when Miss Mulhall snatched a six-shooter out of one of the men's pockets and emptied it in the direction of the ceiling. The boys were not averse to following her example, and while they continued to play music they punctuated the stirring notes with a fusillade of shots. There was wild consternation in the big audience, but a panic was averted.

There was another tremendous sensation when Jim Hopkins, a big raw-boned cowboy, not liking the way the heroine was being treated, undertook to lasso the villain. While unsuccessful the attempt caught the fancy of the crowd and Hopkins was forced to take the stage and, lariat in hand, bow his acknowledgments.

On the whole, it was a bit of the "wild and woolly west," not witnessed here for many years.

ENTIRELY TOO POLITE.

Exchange of Courteous Remonstrance Leads to Hot Fight at an Irish Ball.

The most characteristic instance of carrying politeness to an extreme came off not long since at an Irish ball. As related by one of the sons of Erin who keenly appreciates a good thing, it seems that one gay Lothario, in crossing the room to request Bridget's hand in the next reel, stumbled over the outstretched foot of Mr. Terence O'Grady, who promptly arose and, in the politest manner, said: "I beg your pardon, sir."

"YE IGNORANT POLTHROON!"

"No offense—no offense, sir, at all," responded the other; "it was my fault."

"I beg your pardon, sir, it was intirely my fault," was the response, accompanied with a graceful wave of the hand.

"No, sir," answered Misther O'Toole, "yer intirely in the wrong, sir; I tell ye it was altogether my fault."

"I tell ye it was not, sir," responded Misther O'Grady; "do you mane to say I'd be telling a lie, sir?"

"Faith look ye, sir, d'ye mane to say I'd be affther telling a lie, sir, when I till ye it wasn't yous fault?" responded O'Toole, quite wroth.

"Bad luck to yer bad brading, ye ignorant polthroon; d'ye think yed be getting the better av me be swearers?" shouted Misther O'Grady, as with a tip and a blow he laid the unfortunate O'Toole flat as a pancake.

*The latter rallied, and a rough-and-*tumble ensued, which ended in the expulsion of both gentlemen from the ballroom.

TREED BY A MANIAC.

Thrilling Adventure of a Lineman Near a Madhouse.

Fortunately, He Had a Telephone With Him, and That Saved His Life—Wanted to Cut Him to Pieces.

"We all meet with strange adventures in this world, I guess," said an old lineman to a Cincinnati Enquirer reporter, "but I think I had an experience that beats many a one. While engaged with the Bell Telephone company, I was sent out one day to find the trouble between one office and the insane hospital at Indianapolis.

"An attendant escorted me from place to place; but while I was in the hall examining the telephone he was called away. I was busy with my work when a hand was laid on my shoulder and a voice at my elbow said:

"'Say, is that the safe where you put my money?'

"Astonished I looked up, and into the face of an elderly man who looked every inch the gentleman, being neatly and carefully dressed. For a moment I was too much surprised to answer, for his appearance at first belied the inference I drew from his question, but a closer observation revealed an unnatural expression in his eyes; so, remembering where I was, I knew he was a maniac. Thinking to humor him, I said:

"'Yes, I put it there; it is a good place for it.'

"Quick as a flash he caught up a heavy stool that was standing near and brought it down with all his might on the telephone, crushing it.

"'Give it to me, quick—quick!' he gasped, but I didn't stop to give him anything, but just started on a run for the door, and there met the attendant, who soon quieted the poor fellow and led him away.

"I had to make another trip to the city for another telephone, and as it was late by this time I didn't go back until the next day. When I got out there I found several 'trusties' guarded by their keepers working in the garden. I saw my friend of the day before busy with a large knife topping turnips. He glanced up at me, and I saw a quick, angry gleam shoot into his eyes.

"AIN'T THIS A BEAUT?"

"I had to climb a tree in an isolated part of the yard to unfasten a wire that in some way caught on a limb. I connected my test set and called up the wire chief and explained the case to him, so with the work I had done and talking to him 20 minutes must have passed. I started to turn down, and when I reached the lower limb looked for a place to drop. But I didn't drop, for there, standing at the foot of the tree, stood my crazy man, the knife still in his hand.

"'Come down!' he yelled. 'I know you. You are the man that stole my 5,000. Give it up to me, or I will kill you, you thief! Come down or I will come up there and cut your heart out!'

"But I didn't come. I scrambled higher and yelled for help.

"About this time another inmate came sauntering along and at once took a hand in the game and held the plank for my friend, who soon made good headway, and I saw in a few moments he would reach me.

"I yelled again, but no one came. At that instant an idea flashed into my brain. I quickly attached the test set and called the wire chief at the office.

"'For heaven's sake call up the insane hospital and tell them to send help to me, or I am a dead man! There are two lunatics after me and one of them is coming up the tree with a knife a foot long! Hurry, hurry, for God's sake!'

"With a surprised exclamation he cut me out. I looked down and found the man was in the tree, and was coming toward me, snarling like a wildcat.

"Closer he came, until he was just below me, when he seated himself on a large limb and, flourishing the knife, yelled:

"'Look at this. Ain't it a beaut? Won't it cut you, though? It is sharp! I will cut you up like a steak!'

"He started toward me and had one hand on my foot, and I had just raised the other to kick him, when several keepers rushed up; two of them climbed the tree, and just as he raised the knife to strike they reached him and threw a rope around him. So intent was he on doing for me that he did not see them, and was easily taken."

TITLES WERE UP FOR SALE.

French Nobleman Conferred Knighthood and Decorations on All Who Would Buy.

Prince de Vilantral is a man of courage and imagination. He is a young Frenchman, whose real name is Lafforge, who has just returned to Paris after serving a six months' sentence for unlawfully selling orders of nobility. His history, says the New York Commercial Advertiser, is interesting as showing what a young man of imagination and courage can do. A year or so ago he began to negotiate with the vatican for a title. Had he, a penniless youth, asked for a simple knighthood of St. Gregory he might have had some trouble in getting it, but his aim was higher than that. He asked for the title of prince. The papal nuncio said it would cost him $10,000, and he requested the nuncio to get the patent. The vatican made him prince and he forgot to pay for the honor, which minor fact, however, has not invalidated his title.

As soon as he got his title he organized an order of knighthood, which he called the "Order of St. Leon," and began to sell titles for this at a good price to any one who wanted to buy. A decoration is very dear to a certain class of Frenchmen, and the prince prospered so much that he contemplated buying an estate on the Riviera which would place his princedom on a secure foundation. About this time the law stepped in and decided that he had no right to sell the decoration He was convicted and sentenced to serve six months in jail and pay a fine of 1,000 francs. He paid the fine and served his sentence.

ITALY'S FADING GLORY.

One More of Her Historic Buildings Said to Be on the Verge of Collapsing.

Alarming accounts come from Aquila as to the condition of the campanile of San Bernardino. A large crack has appeared in the southwest corner of the tower, which is described as in imminent danger of collapse, says a report from Rome.

It is possible that the imagination of the local correspondents is still under the enlivening influence of the Venice catastrophe, but the commission which visited the place at Aquila considered the danger grave enough to necessitate the evacuation of part of the barracks adjoining the tower, and a special engineer has been sent to ascertain the measures necessary for its preservation.

The campanile of San Bernardino was built in 1472. It was struck by lightning, which knocked down several feet of the upper part, in 1703, but the earthquake of 1703, which destroyed many buildings in the neighborhood, left it untouched.

At a recent congress of engineers at Cagliari a motion framed by the architect, Luca Beltrami, was read, which set forth the right direction for them, when painters will not be dependent on conventional shapes in pottery, and the necessity of the same design being used over and over again, but each woman can design and model her own pieces, and thus give opportunity for the introduction of original forms."

FIGURES FOR FLY-TIME.

Twelve or Thirteen Generations Produced in a Summer and Millions from One Fly.

An exchange quotes a distinguished entomologist as saying that a single female fly will lay 120 eggs during her life of 10 to 15 days, and that of these 90 or 100 will produce other flies, says The Louisville Courier Journal. During a summer 12 or 13 generations of these flies will be produced, so that millions in one season may be the descendants of a single fly. "Millions" is a feeble word to express the number that would be produced under this estimate. Putting the first generation at 100, and allowing that half of them are females, the second generation would number 5,000, with 2,500 females. The third generation would number 250,000, the fourth 1,250,000, and the fifth 62,500,000. Continuing the calculation on the same system to the twelfth generation, we should get a grand total of 4,882,812,500,000,000,000, or expressed in words, four quintillions eight hundred and eighty-two quadrillions, eight hundred and twelve trillions five hundred billions, a number quite inconceivable. Estimating the population of the earth at a billion and a half, this would give 3,255,208,333 1-3 flies to every man, woman, and child on earth, all the descendants of one fly in a single summer.

DeWet's Military Status.

Gen. DeWet, the sturdy Boer leader, carried his independence with him to London, and when he met Lord Roberts during his interview with Colonial Secretary Chamberlain. The latter addressed him as "Mr. DeWet," whereupon the warrior from South Africa corrected him by saying "Gen. DeWet." Almost immediately afterward Mr. Chamberlain repeated the "Mr." and DeWet said, sternly: "General or nothing." Then the suave Chamberlain followed Lord Kitchener's example and recognized the military status of his visitor.

Ought to Be Readville.

A curious political situation is presented in Greenville, Ohio, where three rich men, each named Mead, have been nominated on separate tickets for members of the state assembly. There are 2,700 voters in the town, and of these almost ten per cent. are of the same name. Probably the wealthiest and most influential citizens.

NOW IT'S "PING POODLE."

New Game with Which Suburbanites Amuse Themselves on the Train Going Home.

"Have you ever played "ping poodle?" If you are a commuter and don't know anything about the game you are behind the times. Most of the suburbanites are now indulging in "ping poodle" with as much enthusiasm as they formerly displayed over their games of whist or pitch, reports a Chicago exchange.

"Ping poodle" is simply an elaboration of that venerable child's game, known as "spots." A square is made with any given number of spots in it. Then these spots are made into smaller squares by means of pencil marks. The man who has to fill out the last square loses the game.

On the suburban trains each spot usually counts for five cents, and the loser must pay the winner the sum of the spots. If there are 64 spots in a square, the man who makes the last pencil mark must produce $3.20.

The other day a number of railroad men were playing "ping poodle" when a suburbanite who lives at the farthest station on the line division appeared. When the game had been explained to him he insisted upon playing 128 instead of 64 spots. It was at hour before the game was finished, and then the new-comer found that he owed his opponent just $6.40. But the veteran "ping poodler" had passed his own station during the excitement of the game, and as he was unable to catch an incoming train, he was obliged to spend the night with his victim, who after much persuasion finally agreed not to pay his loss.

WOMEN AT POTTERS' WHEEL.

Classes Being Formed All Over the Country for the Purpose of Learning the Art.

The newest outlet for women's energy is pottery making. The famous Rockwood works were started by a woman, and many women are now turning their attention to the possibilities of the wheel, combined with deft fingers and delicate fancy in the manipulation and designing of clay, reports the Brooklyn Eagle.

All over the country women are becoming interested in pottery making, classes are being formed and find enthusiastic students ready to join them. Several classes are already in operation in Brooklyn, and are giving time to the acquisition of this practical art. One local artist, who is a member of one of these pottery classes, says:

"The work is and will be for some time to come crude and imperfect, but there is so much enthusiasm manifested and so good work promised to come, that the outlook is very promising. It is proposed to have courses in pottery connected with china painting societies. This will be a great step in the right direction for them, as china painters will not be dependent on conventional shapes in pottery, and the necessity of the same design being used over and over again, but each woman can design and model her own pieces, and thus give opportunity for the introduction of original forms."

CREAM DOWN HIS BACK.

But the Duke of Fife Was Not Discomfited by Awkwardness of the Server.

"I was waiting on the Duke of Fife one evening," said Mr. Bortsch, "when his grace was giving a small private dinner party in the cuisine-room. There was a dish of ice cream being handed each guest. The soup was Bortsch—a costly Russian potage made from boiled duck and served with sorrel, vegetables and cream—and just as I was serving it round an accident happened. In one hand I had a plate of soup and in the other my cream. The duke was talking earnestly to me and so intently did I listen to him that I did not know I was dropping all the cream in a hideous thick stream down his back. What did I do? I made no fuss and gave a alarm. The duke went on talking and laughing with his guests with the back of his exquisitely-fitting dress coat one mass of thick cream. I got two or three waiters to help me, and I served his grace with each course I gave him a rub. By the time we had come to the ice there was nothing left of the cream except certain faint traces, for which I fear his grace's valet was unjustly blamed."

The Army Baked Bean.

"Beans are the soldiers' mainstay," says Thomas P. Dillon, a retired United States cavalry officer. "The American soldier, at a pinch, can equal the performance of an Arab on a handful of dried dates, but he must have and fight all day on a mere handful of beans, properly prepared. There is nothing to equal the army baked bean."

Little Iron in Japan.

The Kobe Chronicle, speaking of the imperial iron foundry in Japan, says that it has proved a failure because the iron deposits of ore in that country, and that the government *hopes to secure the privilege of work*ing the rich Hangang iron mines in China.

Atmospheric Elements.

Besides oxygen, nitrogen and carbonic acid, there are present in the atmosphere five other elements—argon, neon, helium, krupton and xenon.

WOMAN SAVES TRAIN

Her Cool Nerve at a Trying Moment Prevents Disaster.

Assisted in Her Heroic Effort by a Telephone and a Man with a Bicycle—How She Found the Danger.

A San Rafael (Cal.) correspondent writes that the cool nerve of a plucky woman and the speed of a man riding for life on a bicycle was all that saved the Ukiah express, bound from Ukiah to Tiburon on the line of the California Northwestern railway, from destruction late the other afternoon. Mrs. James Cochrane, wife of a well-known San Rafael attorney, was the heroine of the incident, and to her courage scores of passengers on the endangered train owe their lives.

It was afternoon, a storm of wind swept over San Rafael. Near the outskirts of town and close to the residence of Mrs. Cochrane a huge eucalyptus tree, fully 100 feet in height, and two feet in diameter in the thickest part, was blown over so that the heavy portion of its trunk lay squarely across the tracks of the California Northwestern railway. Shortly after five o'clock Mrs. Cochrane, with a team of horses, started on a drive into the country. She passed close to the track in her carriage and saw the big tree lying across the rails. Suddenly the thought struck her that the Ukiah express was about due. She looked at her watch and it was just 5:30 o'clock. A feeling of dread passed over her as she realized that the quick moving train with its long string of passenger cars was due at 5:35 o'clock.

Hurriedly jumping from her carriage, she ran down the track, hoping to flag the train. Then the full peril of the situation dawned upon her. The tree had fallen just at the end of a curve, which wound itself about a tall hill. At the beginning of the curve the track emerged from a tunnel, and it was evident that the engineer in his cab would not be aware of his danger until he was right upon it.

"IT WAS A CLOSE SHAVE."

Mrs. Cochrane confesses that she grew sick with fear and the thought came to her that the engineer emerging suddenly from the tunnel would not understand her signal till too late. Then she remembered the telephone, and, turning back ran over the rough ground toward the house, where a line was installed. Once she stumbled, but the distance was short and in less than two minutes she was ringing for the railway depot. Train Dispatcher Force answered her message. All that she could say was: "There is a tree across the track near the tunnel; hurry; a train is coming."

Outside the station G. E. Gillbride, the *baggage master, who is an expert bi*cycle rider, was standing. "I was said to him the message, and with a jump Gillbride had seized his bicycle and was off. Force threw him a signal flag as he started and yelled a string of orders after him as he sputtered down the street. The distance was only about a mile and the bicyclist rode like the wind. After he had gone a block he heard the shrill whistle of the coming train as it approached the tunnel. It was at least a mile and a half away and in the other my cream. The duke was talking earnestly to me and so intently did I listen to him that I did not know I was dropping all the cream in a hideous thick stream down his back. What did I do? I made no fuss and gave a alarm. The duke went on talking and laughing with his guests with the back of his exquisitely-fitting dress coat one mass of thick cream. I got two or three waiters to help me, and I served his grace with each course I gave him a rub. By the time we had come to the ice there was nothing left of the cream except certain faint traces, for which I fear his grace's valet was unjustly blamed."

The Army Baked Bean.

"Beans are the soldiers' mainstay," says Thomas P. Dillon, a retired United States cavalry officer. "The American soldier, at a pinch, can equal the performance of an Arab on a handful of dried dates, but he must have and fight all day on a mere handful of beans, properly prepared. There is nothing to equal the army baked bean."

Little Iron in Japan.

The Kobe Chronicle, speaking of the imperial iron foundry in Japan, says that it has proved a failure because the iron deposits of ore in that country, and that the government *hopes to secure the privilege of work*ing the rich Hangang iron mines in China.

Atmospheric Elements.

Besides oxygen, nitrogen and carbonic acid, there are present in the atmosphere five other elements—argon, neon, helium, krupton and xenon.

A NORTH CREEK TALE.

Being the Truthful Narrative of a Wonderful Hunting Experience by a Truthful Man.

The following narrative was written by the veracious North Creek correspondent of the Troy Press:

George Little has lived all his life in the Adirondacks and the fish and game stories he tells are worth traveling many miles to hear. Some years ago when he had charge of a camp for the late Speaker Hunted and Dr. Hayes he was out hunting and fishing on Raquette lake. He discovered a flock of wild geese flying in the shape of a V. He was in the act of loading his gun which was of the muzzle-loading pattern, and not having time to withdraw the ramrod, fired, and then waded across Alder brook to bag them. On going through the water a brass button on his pantaloons flew off and as he reached shore he found 20 pounds of trout in his pants, which was the cause of the button disappearing, and about four rods away lay a fine deer dead. He then went to secure the geese, and on his ramrod sticking in a tree hung 17 of the birds pierced through the neck. He then brought his game safely to camp, and when he dressed the deer he found the brass button imbedded in his heart. If anyone doubts this story he has the brass button to show.

HE TURNED UP THE POWER.

The Timely Suggestion That Was Offered an Absent-Minded Automobilist.

A prominent Washington physician furnished considerable amusement to pedestrians on Pennsylvania avenue one afternoon recently. The eminent, but upon this occasion absent-minded physician endeavored to leave the Raleigh hotel in his automobile. He had ridden from some distance with a party of friends whom he entertained at luncheon at the hotel. When the party was ready to resume the trip the machine refused to go, and the physician labored for a long time in the fruitless effort to induce it to move, relates the Washington Post.

By this time a large crowd had collected, and the party seemed to wonder how it was possible for such a mob to form in such a little while.

Then some rude man in that collection called out in the top of his voice: "Why don't you turn on the gasoline?"

The doctor's facial expression might have meant anything, although he said not a word. But he quietly laid down his tools, his quick eye sought out the man who had made the suggestion, and in a manner that was Chesterfieldian to the limit, he said: "I thank you."

Then he turned on the power, and the machine sailed away as off as smoothly as a cup defender.

RUSSIA'S FOREIGN TRADE.

American Importations Show That the Czar's People Appreciate Good Machinery.

The official report of the Russian foreign trade for the first four months of 1902 shows the American importations to be virtually the same as in 1901, apparently indicating that Russian buyers have become fully convinced it is better to buy American machinery in spite of the discriminating duty against it. The comparative figures for 1900, 1901 and 1902 are respectively $8,980,000, $7,158,000, and $13,500. In the meantime German and British imports have fallen, their figures being $34,061,300, $32,216,500, and $30,297,000, and $15,064,000, $14,317,000 and $13,500,000, while the whole import has continued falling, so that the share of America is relatively larger than in 1900. The exportations continue to increase.

Hosiery in the Air.

One morning not long ago there was an odd sight in the eastern section of the city of Reading, Pa. In the lid of a large kettle, containing several thousand stockings, at a local dye works, was lifted off under a too heavy pressure of steam, and the hosiery scattered in every direction. Stockings hung from trees and telegraph wires and neighboring roofs were littered with them. Several employes jumped from upper windows during the excitement.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Por[illegible] Proprietor

NEED OF A PUBLIC PARK.

Generally, personal expressions of a public need precede the authoritative expression of public need by the officials in power. Plainfield's need of a public park has often found expression during the past few years by private citizens, especially by the new residents, who have come from towns where there are public parks and pleasure grounds.

In a city the size of Plainfield, there are many homes with small yards or none at all, and the occupants feel the need of a nearby place of resort, easy of access by foot or trolley where they can enjoy the beauties of nature, feeling they have a right to the place as citizens of a town in whose ownership the park should be. The park of West Eighth street is a strolling place for near by residents, but it is too much in town for a day's pleasure and there is not enough variety of landscape for the delights of picnicking.

One observer of this lack in Plainfield's perfections, like the wise woman from Philadelphia who was quick to suggest to the Peterkin family some very sensible notions, was of opinion that land intersected by Green brook, either in the direction of Dunellen or Scotch Plains would make a charming park, the brook affording facilities for boating and a home for aquatic animals, besides enhancing the beauty of the landscape as nothing but water can. The wise woman suggested, as did the Mayor, that the value of land at the present time would make purchase possible whereas its increase as time rolls on would make ownership by the city more difficult.

It sometimes happens that a large hearted and endowed individual earns the gratitude of generations by a gift to a city for such a purpose. Betsy Williams was such an one when she gave the beautiful Roger Williams Park to the city of Providence. One cannot wander through the quaint rooms of the old farm house which was the donor's home without reverencing the far sighted woman who believed in beauty as well as utility and who gave this farm for a city's pleasure, which is "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

Oh for a Betsy Williams to merit the gratitude of Plainfield's coming generations!

A HEARING.

When the annexation and consolidation bills came before the Legislature last winter a hearing was held to give the opponents of the measure an opportunity to have their say. It was brought out at that time that the only real objection against them was that they contained no referendum clause. At the request of Senator Charles A. Reed, such a clause was added by the Senate committee and the bills were back to the House where the amendment was approved. Those who attended the hearing before the Senate committee will remember distinctly that the few men who did appear against the measures opposed them on the ground that the people's opinion on the subject should be obtained first before any change was made.

When they were made laws, both of these bills contained the referendum provisions. Thus was the fight transferred to where it should be, the interested community. It could not have been fairer. Even the opponents of the measures had to admit that the place to settle the question was right in the city and borough.

Now the Senator from Mercer, who has nothing to do with the case, introduces bills for the repeal of these two measures. Under one of them there has been a vote. The question of consolidation has not yet come before the people of either city or borough. It is most inadvisable to repeal these laws at this time. The opponents of the greater city scheme had an opportunity to be heard before the measures were passed. It is the duty of the legislators at Trenton to give the advocates of the subject a chance to be heard before these repealers come up for a vote.

If the opponents of the greater city scheme want to play, let them join with the advocates of the measure in demanding a hearing from the Legislature before they are acted upon. When one remembers the great throng which went to Trenton in behalf of those measures and the comparatively small representation against them, there can be little doubt as to what would be the result of a hearing for those proposed repealers.

Will Go South.

As soon as arrangements can be completed, Rev. E. E. Jackson, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, will leave for Asheville, N. C., for his health. He has been very ill, but has recovered sufficiently to be about the house.

BUILDING BOOM IS STILL IN PROGRESS

The Building Inspector, T. O. Doane, is Kept Busy Issuing Permits for New Buildings.

A NUMBER GRANTED

DESPITE THE WINTER SEASON, THE BOOM HAS STEADILY CONTINUED.

Six Permits Granted Last Week—One Was for Four New Dwellings in the West End of City—The Other Permits Granted.

There has been an unusually large number of applicants at the office of Building Inspector T. O. Doane for building permits during the past few weeks which shows that the building boom which has been going on in this city for the past six months has not slackened but is keeping up very well indeed. These permits closed the week's business at the Inspector's office Saturday:

Albert Baker, of 440 West Fifth street, a two and a half story residence on West Fifth street. W. H. Brokaw will do the mason work, and carpentering work himself.

W. D. Bird, of West Third street, to erect a dwelling on West Third street, near Clinton avenue. R. L. Robinson is the contracting architect. W. M. Daly, the mason, and W. D. Bird, the carpenter.

James E. Totten, of John street, near Fourth street, to erect four two story and attic dwellings. Fred L. Lancaster is the architect, J. W. Mundy, the mason and James L. Stryker, the carpenter.

Augustis Rasding, of 339 Arlington avenue, a residence on John street, near West Fourth street. F. L. Lancaster is the architect, James Mottlay, mason, and carpenter.

W. A. Gahagan, of 519 Belvidere avenue, to erect a stable. W. A. Gahagan is the architect, W. Stewart is the mason and F. H. Berve is the carpenter.

A permit was also granted to William Hedden, of 718 Kensington avenue, to build an addition to his house on that street. It will be of brick. W. H. Bohl is the contracting carpenter.

SURPRISE DANCE.

Third of Series of Social Events Arranged for Members of the In and Out Club.

The third event of the In and Out Club is to be a surprise dance at the residence of the Misses Randolph, at the corner of East Front street and Farragut road, Saturday evening, January 31. The committee which has this affair under their supervision comprises: Miss Caroline Randolph, Miss Josephine Randolph, Miss Edith VanBoskerck, Mrs. William Tyler, Miss Minnie Bowen, Miss Ethel Bowen and Miss Steele.

The dances which have been given by this club have been resplendent with unique features and this one which will be given at the close of this week will no doubt be something very clever as no one knows what kind of a dance it is to be and they are at a loss to know what they are to expect in the way of surprises.

JUSTICE MARRIED THEM.

Ferdinand V. Rockafellow and Miss Anna L. Diem Joined in Wedlock.

Ferdinand V. Rockafellow and Miss Ann Lacretta Diem, both of this city, were married quietly, Saturday evening, by Justice Mosher at his home on East Fourth street. The only witnesses were Mrs. Mary O'Neil and Miss Sadie Kreagar. For the present the young couple will reside with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Rockafellow, of East Front street. The young man is an employe of Hand & Son and a calliman in the local fire department.

SAVED HER LIFE.

John Hopewell Dragged Little Miss Tempita Out of Tier's Lake, Where She Had Broken Through Ice.

An exciting rescue from death by drowning was seen by many on Tier's lake, Thursday afternoon, when John Hopewell, of 120 Watchung avenue, saved the life of his companion, Annie Tempita, of North avenue, who had fallen into the pond.

The rescued young girl were playing "tickly bender" when the ice gave way and the girl disappeared from view. She had gone down for the second time when the young lad grasped her hand and, with the aid of several bystanders, he was able to pull her out of the pond.

The boy, who is but thirteen years of age, received warm praise for his heroic deed.

THEATRICAL.

Grace George probably is the only star in this country whose plays all have been written by American authors. The first of these, "Her Majesty," was from the pen of J. C. Clarke, one of the editors of the New York Journal. Then followed "Under Southern Skies," the work of Lottie Blair Parker, a native of Massachusetts, and "Pretty Peggy," by Frances Aymar Matthews, a resident of Brooklyn. In each case, the piece produced by Miss George proved to be the greatest success of the man or woman responsible for it.

Clyde Fitch's society drama, "The Way of the World," is to be produced by the stock company at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre in February, with Miss Minnie Seligman in the role filled by Miss Elsie De Wolfe. Mr. Proctor has secured the exclusive right to present the piece in New York City, and all the original scenery (which was uncommonly effective) will be used at the Fifth Avenue. Within a few weeks a splendid production of "Camille" will be given at that theatre. All negotiations have been completed for the production of "Hearts Are Trumps" there before many weeks.

"A Queer Little Ostrich" is the title of a new song for Gertrude Quinlan that has been introduced in "The Sultan of Sulu," George Ade's witty musical satire that has scored one of the biggest kind of hits at Wallack's in New York. The song is a comedy number, something on the order of the famous "Bumble Bee" song that Miss Quinlan sang in "King Dodo." Miss Maude Lillian Berri, the prima donna, will also have a new song this week, entitled "Dangle Him Lightly." This was one of Mr. Ade's original numbers for the opera, but was crowded out because of the length of the performance. "Dangle Him Lightly" will supplant Miss Berri's "Palm Branches Waving," a straight descriptive song that has not the characteristic satire of the other number.

The Whitney Opera Company has scored a marked success in "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" at the New York Theatre, New York. All critics declare this to be the best American opera since "Robin Hood." It is a great novelty in every aspect and is drawing immense audiences to the New York, such eminent men as Senator Depew and ex-Gov. Black highly commending it. The latter has seen it several times. Many of the musical numbers have established a great vogue and are being widely sung and whistled and played by orchestras. An especially attractive number is the song and chorus, "Katie, My Southern Rose," sung by William G. Stewart and Union officers and introducing a promenade of officers and Southern belles arrayed in the great crinoline and hoop skirts worn during the Civil War period. Another big feature of the opera is a great waltz scene in which forty officers and Confederate young women are disclosed in an old-fashioned dance with all its extravagance of movement. The effect is novel indeed and is repeatedly encored. Seats for "Johnny" may be secured by mail orders, accompanied by remittance, directed to Louis F. Werba, manager New York Theatre.

"Mr. Blue Beard," the Drury Lane spectacular extravaganza which Klaw & Erlanger present as the successor to their remarkable hit of last season, "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast," received its American premiere at the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York, Wednesday evening, representing an expenditure of $150,000 by the Drury Lane corporation of London and an additional outlay of fully $60,000 in its translation to the New York stage by Klaw & Erlanger.

The new piece, in "Drury Lane" only so far as the costumes and scenery are concerned. The enormous success of "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" last season was unquestionably attributable to the fact that the book and score were practically American, possessing quick action, snap and humor and a large number of lively specialty features. Klaw & Erlanger followed the same policy in preparing "Mr. Blue Beard" for presentation here. The original book and music were practically discarded and John J., McNally and Frederick Solomon provided a new libretto and score. While the familiar tale of "Blue Beard" is retained as the theme of the story, the predominant interest of the book is entirely humorous, as in "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast." There is, of course, a sentimental interest, but this is for the serio-comic order, making mainly for laughter. A large number of musical specialties are introduced throughout the piece, which is played with that entertaining spirit and dash so pleasing to New York theatre patrons. It is presented in three acts, each of which presents a measure of entertainment more than equal to most attractions in their entirety.

The term "howling success" was never more aptly applied to any attraction presented on the American stage than to Jerome Sykes' performance of "John Doe" in Klaw & Erlanger's magnificent production of "The Billionaire" at Daly's Theatre, New York, where all records of this house since it was built have been broken. From the time the curtain rises till it falls on the last scene, the audience is kept in a roar of laughter. In fact, when the people leave the theatre they are actually tired from merriment. "The Billionaire" is one of the strongest appeals to the humorous side of human nature that has been originated in years. Although comic interest predominates the piece, there is much in it that is a response to the artistic, especially in the scenery and costumes and in several of the more important musical numbers. Klaw & Erlanger display a very happy faculty for getting together a comic show that is artistic in the highest sense and is humorous without resort to horseplay and low buffoonery. Their great success in this line of productions is unquestionably due to the fact that they appeal to refined people and present such attractions in a manner acceptable to them. They aim at the highest standard in all that they do. The result is the best people are Klaw & Erlanger's supporters and follow all their attractions and projects with unusual interest.

Mr. Keith has decided to hold over for one week Papinta, the marvellous myriad dancer who is making a sensation second only to that of her first appearance. Charles Grapewin and Anna Chance in their sketch "The Awakening of Pipp" will be the headliners. Stephen Grattan and Mamie White, who have not been seen in this part of the country for some time, offer their eminently laughable sketch entitled "Locked Out at 3 A. M." Tom Lewis and Sam Ryan, who have been starring with great success in a musical comedy "The Major and the Judge" are back in vaudeville with their comedy skit "The Two Actors," an act that has always been different from any other. Colby and Way have their ventriloquial comedy sketch. O. K. Sato, probably the funniest and most entertaining of the many comedy jugglers; the Four Lukens, celebrated for their grotesque acrobatic work; The Horse-Shoe Trio in "Hotel Repose;" Avery and Hart, the well-known colored comedians; Barry and Halvers, who have an act impossible to describe and who bill themselves merely as "entertainers;" Mitchell and Love, eccentric commedians; Lew Wells, the musical tramp; E. J. Rice, original monologist; Nellie V. Parker, character songs, and many other performers of the first rank, will be on the programme.

MATCH AND LACE CURTAIN

BROUGHT ABOUT A BLAZE THAT FIRE DEPARTMENT LOOKED AFTER.

Two fires, neither of which resulted in any great damage, kept the local fire department busy, yesterday afternoon.

The first was the most serious and occurred at 1:50 in the apartments of George Townley, who occupies the second floor of Robert Armstrong's residence on East Fourth street. Townley attempted to strike a match when the head flew off and into a lace curtain, igniting it. With other occupants of the house, he attempted to prevent the flames from spreading but without success. The department responded to an alarm from box No. 15 and extinguished the blaze. The damage to furniture will amount to $100 while that to the house is slight. For some reason the box was pulled twice, causing a second round of the alarm to be given.

Just three hours later the second alarm was sent in from box No. 53 for a small fire caused by an oil stove in the home of George Rankin on Berckman street. The damage was trifling but Mr. Rankin was severely burned in throwing the stove out of doors.

"THE QUIVER."

Second Number of the Randolph-Cooley School Paper Has Made Its Appearance.

The second number of "The Quiver," published by the Qui Vive Society of the Randolph-Cooley Collegiate School is just out. It appears in a very attractive blue cover in the centre of which is the monogram of the society. The publication is an improvement over the first numbers, the stories and short sketches being not only entertaining, but more interesting. The board of editors is as follows: Editor-in-Chief, Miss Helen T. Batchelor; assistant editors, Miss Elinor G. Waring, Miss Margaret Lowe, Miss Ruth C. Fredericks, Miss Helen M. Cruikshank, Miss Ellen D. Burke; business managers, Miss Dorothy Burke and Miss Marion Smith. Announcement is made that Miss Batchelor has gone to California for a few months and during her absence Miss Waring will take her place.

Elected Treasurer.

At the meeting of the managing directors of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation held Thursday, when officers for the year were elected, Frank O. Herring, of Park avenue, was elected treasurer.

WORKING TO ORGANIZE AGAINST ALIEN LABOR

League of American Citizens' Adopted a Constitution at Meeting Saturday Night.

TO ORGANIZE BRANCHES

THE ORIGINATOR OF THE LEAGUE, A. C. ROGERS, MADE AN ADDRESS.

Considerable Enthusiasm Was Manifested — Arrangements Were Made for a Mass-Meeting to be Held in the Near Future.

One of the most encouraging meetings of the League of American Citizens, since the scheme was inaugurated in this city several weeks ago, was held in the Trades' Council chambers Saturday evening. The attendance was fairly good and the enthusiasm at the meeting waxed warm. Several local union leaders were present and made short addresses on the subjects of the league. Refreshments were served during the meeting.

The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by the organizer of the league, A. C. Rogers. He told in a few words the object of holding the meeting and told how an organization of that kind could do much good in helping union men to attain the objects which they have been striving for so long, namely, the discouragement of foreign labor and the encouragement of employed skilled American labor.

W. C. Tracey was elected secretary pro tem of the meeting and he read over the constitution which was adopted. The constitution says that all American citizens over twenty-one years of age are eligible to membership without regard to race, color or creed. The entrance fee will be 25 cents and the regular dues 10 cents a month. Meetings will be held every two weeks.

Arrangements are being made to hold a rousing mass meeting in this city in two weeks, or at the call of the chairman, A. C. Rogers. It is hoped that Samuel Gompers or John Mitchell will be here as invitations will be sent to them to be present.

It is the intention of the promoters of the league to start a branch organization in New Brunswick within a few weeks and also one in Elizabeth sometime next month. Permits have been granted to Unions in Baltimore and Chicago to organize societies in those cities.

PLAINFIELDERS THERE.

Represented at the Amherst College Alumni Banquet.

The Amherst College alumni held a reunion Thursday evening in New York City at Delmonico's. A good alumni representation from the college was present at this time, Plainfield being represented at the banquet by Col. Mason W. Tyler, Superintendent of Schools Henry M. Maxson, Councilman W. S. Tyler, Boardman Tyler and Fred W. Goddard. The speaker of the evening was Professor Tyler, of the college faculty, who is a brother of Col. Mason W. Tyler, of this city.

Captured the Boarder.

People at the North Avenue station, Saturday morning, witnessed an amusing encounter between an absconding boarder and an irate boarding-house keeper. The former had checked his trunks and baggage and was making a dash for the 11:44 P. and R. train when the creditor suddenly appeared and a tussle ensued. Matters were straightened out by the boarder producing the amount due for his keep.

Telegraph Office Changed.

The office of the Postal Telegraph and Cable Company will soon be moved from Park avenue to North avenue in the office formerly occupied by the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, adjoining the Smalley building. A number of years ago the telegraph office was in that same place.

Pulpit Supply.

The pulpit at the Crescent Avenue church will be occupied next Sunday by Rev. Dr. S. E. Wishard, of Salt Lake City, Utah, and in the evening, Rev. Dr. Thomas C. Hall will preach. Dr. Hall will occupy the pulpit during February.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. L. W. Randolph.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER JAN. 12, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—
For New York—5.37, 7.30, 8.47, 9.47, 10.47 a. m., 12.47, 1.47, 2.47, 3.47, 4.47, 5.47, 6.47, 7.47, 8.47, 9.47, 10.47, 11.47 p. m., 12.47 night. Sundays—5.37, 7.30, 8.47, 9.47, 10.47 a. m., 12.47, 1.47, 2.47, 3.47, 4.47, 5.47, 6.47, 7.47, 8.47, 9.47, 10.47, 11.47 p. m., 12.47 night.

Vestibule Parlor Cars, Pittsburg and Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

5.37 a. m.—Western Express, daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

7.30 a. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg and Chicago; daily for Knoxville, via Shenandoah Valley Route, for Cleveland, except Saturday.

The Southern's Palm Limited—1.20 p.m. week-days.

The Atlantic Coast Line Florida Special—2.35 p. m. week days.

Seaboard Florida Limited—1.27 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore—5.37 (Express), 7.30, 10.47 a. m., 12.47, 1.47, 3.47, 4.47, 5.47, 6.47, 7.47, 9.47 p. m. week-days. Sundays—5.37, 7.30, 10.47 a. m., 12.47, 1.47, 3.47, 4.47, 5.47, 6.47, 7.47, 9.47 p. m.

For Washington—5.37, 7.30, 10.47 a. m., 12.47, 1.47, 3.47, 4.47, 5.47, 6.47, 7.47, 9.47 p. m. week-days. Sundays—5.37, 7.30, 10.47 a. m., 12.47, 1.47, 3.47, 4.47, 5.47, 6.47, 7.47, 9.47 p. m.

For Philadelphia—[illegible]

For Newark and New York—[illegible]

For Atlantic City—[illegible]

For Wilmington—[illegible]

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Manch Chunk—[illegible]

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—[illegible]

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—[illegible]

For Atlantic City—[illegible]

For Philadelphia—[illegible]

For Somerville—[illegible]

For Flemington—[illegible]

For Phillipsburg and Easton—[illegible]

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Manch Chunk—[illegible]

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—[illegible]

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—[illegible]

For Atlantic City—[illegible]

For Philadelphia—[illegible]

For Somerville—[illegible]

For Flemington—[illegible]

For Phillipsburg and Easton—[illegible]

For Baltimore—[illegible]

For Washington—[illegible]

For Philadelphia—[illegible]

For Newark and New York—[illegible]

For Atlantic City—[illegible]

For Wilmington—[illegible]

For Woodbridge—[illegible]

For Perth Amboy—[illegible]

For East Millstone—[illegible]

For Trenton—[illegible]

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, via Trenton—[illegible]

For Flemington—[illegible]

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R. to Spring Lake—[illegible]

Leave New York for Elizabeth—From West 23d street, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00 a. m., 12.02 night week-days. Sundays—10.00 a. m. and 12.02 p. m. From foot of Cortlandt street, 8.00 a. m. week-days. Sundays—9.00 a. m. and 12.02 p. m.

Leave New York for Newark—From West 23d street, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00 a. m., 12.02 night week-days. Sundays—10.00 a. m. and 12.02 p. m. From foot of Cortlandt street, 8.00 a. m. week-days. Sundays—9.00 a. m. and 12.02 p. m.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—All through trains connect at Greenville with ferry boats of Pennsylvania Annex, affording direct transfer to Brooklyn, Manhattan Beach, Bedford and Flatbush carriage and journey across New York City.

Leave New York for Elizabeth—From West 23d street, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00 a. m., 12.02 night week-days. Sundays—10.00 a. m. and 12.02 p. m. From foot of Cortlandt street, 8.00 a. m. week-days. Sundays—9.00 a. m. and 12.02 p. m.

APPALLING DISASTER

(CONSTIUED FROM PAGE 1.)

score of lives were blotted out. The scene that faced the survivors of yesterday's appalling disaster as they scrambled from out the wreckage and gazed about them, is one that can never be forgotten. The horror of it all will haunt them to their dying day. The locomotive of the Philadelphia express was buried beneath the fragments of the cars of the local train. Pinned under the wreckage were several score of men and women. Shrieks and moans filled the air. There was the rush of escaping steam. Then like a flash, before the bewildered passengers had time to grasp the situation, little tongues of flame began to creep over the mass of wreckage.

There were a few who did not lose their heads in this moment of peril. There were scores of brave rescuers. Men and women were dragged out of the path of the fast approaching flames. But others were not so fortunate. So deep were they under the debris that is was impossible to save them in the brief interval at the command of the rescuers. Their screams for aid grew fainter and finally the fire ended their agony.

Engineer Davis remained at his post at the throttle. There he was found by the emergency corps of passengers and railroad men and lifted out to the ground beside the track.

Word was sent to Westfield and the fire department of that town responded promptly. The flames had done their fiendish work, however, and all the firemen could do was to extinguish the smouldering rains and assist in the work of disinterring the corpses.

Strange things happened in those few minutes that followed the wreck. The dead and dying were strewn about on every hand. Men suffering from terrible injuries arose and walked to the bank beside the track. Others walked to assist in the rescue work not realizing that their own wounds were serious, perhaps fatal. And yet, it seemed as if the cool heads were in the majority for, among those who escaped, there was little or no noise or agitation. The awfulness of it all seemed to stun them. Those who were not ready to assist stood around quietly in a dull apathy gazing at the picture of ruin and death that was spread before them.

REMOVAL OF THE BODIES

A Sickening Task That Followed the Arrival of the Wrecking Crews.

Not until the wrecking crews arrived from Philadelphia and Elizabethport did the work of removing the bodies from beneath the smoking ruins begin in earnest. At first the laborers crawled about the charred timbers and emerged now and then with what had once been a human being. Blackened beyond recognition and in many cases only a few fragments of flesh, there was no way of telling who it was.

When the huge steam cranes moved the tangled iron work from about the wrecked engine, the anxious crowd, which had been pressing about, turned away sick and partially overcome. Charred trunks were seen on all sides and a nauseating smell of burned flesh added to the horror of the scene. In some instances a shovel sufficed to hold all that was left of a body.

All the while the flames continued to spurt up at intervals and in one fell gleam the body of a woman was seen lying on the crown sheet of the engine just beneath the smokestack. It was in such a position that it could not easily be reached and while one man stood over it with buckets of water keeping the fire back, others knocked away the imprisoning iron. It was finally released but in no condition to be identified.

Thirteen of the blackened masses were removed by 12:15 this morning and placed aboard a special train. It was given the right of way to this city but, in order to avoid the weeping crowd of relatives at the North Avenue station, was switched into the freight yards at Berckman street. Wagons had been summoned and the remains were quickly transferred to the morgue, a gang of men having been brought with the train for the purpose. The scenes of the earlier evening when the first crushed bodies were revealed for identification were avoided.

All the injured, who died after being removed, or in the home of Mrs. Harkson, were brought here by wagons. In most cases the features were not entirely marred and friends found it an easy matter to identify them. They were immediately prepared for burial and sent to the homes designated.

SCENES ABOUT THE CITY

Awful Scenes at Station and Morgue During Hours After Accident.

At 7 o'clock the first telephone message arrived from passengers who had walked back to Westfield to notify parents, wives and families here that those who were in the wreck had escaped uninjured and that many were victims of the collision. The news of the wreck spread about the town like wildfire and anxiety changed to fear when the passengers on the ill-fated train began to arrive in this city by trolley car from Westfield where they left the scene of confusion, wreckage and death, to hasten home to assure friends that they were not among those who were already counted among the dead.

People who expected friends or relatives on that train began to assemble at the station. There the scene was most heartrending. Women stood in the dense crowd and wrung their hands and wept while the men in their endeavor to learn the latest news besieged the ticket and telegraph offices but were unable to learn the much sought for details. For almost five hours the grief-stricken people stood about the platform gazing anxiously down the track in search of approaching trains which would bring back the dead and injured. The scene was most pathetic and the wails of the women and men could be distinctly heard on the street.

When the morgue train arrived at the station the ambulance was backed up to the curbing, a cordon of police and depot men was formed and the dead bodies were hurried into the vehicle and were taken to the morgue on West Second street where many anxious people were waiting to hear the worst.

One of the first of the bodies to be recognized at the morgue was that of Roland Chandor. Some of the other bodies were identified by cards and papers in the pockets of the victims.

The crowd about the morgue was almost as dense as that at the station. Some were clamoring for admittance through morbid curiosity while others anxiously waited without with bated breath for news from within, trembling lest those who were identified were friends or relatives.

At The Daily Press office the crowd was quite as large. Crowds blockaded the sidewalk and filled the reportorial rooms where the full list of those who were reported injured and dead was kept. The telephone was kept busy answering the calls of anxious parents and families until early this morning. Many persons rushed in and scanned the sheet and then went away to identify their dead at the morgue or to seek the injured at Muhlenberg Hospital.

A, full corps of operators were kept on a continual jump at the telephone and telegraph offices. Anxious friends called up the railroad officials and the telegraph office at the depot while others inquired of friends if they had heard any of the latest details.

About the streets of the town every thing was like the silence of the night. Quietness reigned throughout the city and sorrow and anxiety hung over the town like a pall. Carriages rushed from place to place carrying injured occupants to their homes or to the hospital while the ambulance was driven back and forth from the morgue until all the dead and injured had been removed from the special train which went to the scene of the wreck with local physicians and re*turned with the handsomely finished* cars converted into a receiving vault for the dead or a hospital for the injured.

At 12 o'clock, all the seven bodies, which had arrived at the morgue on the first train, had been identified and fears were quieted in the breasts of many an anxious mother or father, wife or husband. The relief was only temporary, however, for hardly had the last body been recognized before another special train arrived at the freight house bearing thirteen charred and utterly unrecognizable remains. So gruesome was the sight at the morgue that strong men had to turn their faces from the awful spectacle.

CLEARING UP THE WRECK

Physicians From Westfield and Plainfield Early on the Scene—Railroad Men There.

Westfield sent the first quota of physicians to the scene in Drs. Sinclair, Harrison, Cooper, Kinch, Havey and Tubbs. They worked like Trojans applying splints to broken limbs, binding up wounds and in several instances amputating legs that were hanging by shreds. About 8 o'clock they were joined by Drs. Fritts, Carman, Buchanan and Endicott, of this city, who had been summoned by Claims Agent John K. Large, of the railroad. They were placed on the improvised hospital car and found plenty to do in attending those with severe cuts and minor wounds.

General Manager W. G. Besler, Assistant Train Master Charles English, Division Superintendent Huntington, Chief of Detectives William Dougherty and many other railroad officials were early on the scene and directed all the labor connected with caring of the injured, removing the dead and opening the line to traffic.

The latter was a different task from the fact that the men had not only the engine and remains of the cars to get out of the way, but two of the tracks were damaged for nearly three hundred feet. Two wrecking crews were pressed into service, the first coming from Elizabethport *at 8:30 and the second from Phil*adelphia three hours later. Both had steam derricks but it was 1:15 this morning before the first passenger train was able to get through on the west bound freight track. The others were not placed in repair until late today. All the woodwork found in the vicinity was placed in huge piles and burned.

IDENTIFICATION OF THE DEAD

How the Bodies Taken to the Morgue Were Recognized by Families and Friends.

George Cole's undertaking parlors were converted into a morgue last night and all the dead who have been recovered from the wreckage were removed there. As fast as they arrived the bodies were prepared for burial and laid on slabs in the cold room of that establishment where they were identified. Some were so badly distorted by fire and injury that at an early hour this morning there still remains ten bodies which had not yet been recognized.

The bodies of Edgar W. Williams, Harvey Patterson, George Reed, Roland Chandor, Thomas A. Ouming, C. T. Thayer and W. E. Davis were easily recognizable but those of Craig Waldron and H. W. Tomlinson were recognized by their friends by marks on their clothing and other articles on their person.

Mrs. Waldron and L. W. Randolph were enabled to recognize the remains of Craig Waldron by his false teeth and by the figures "L. W." on his cuff. These were the only marks of identification.

Roundsman John Flynn recognized the remains of his brother, Edward, charred as they were, by his gloves which he purchased at a local store.

The body of H. W. Tomlinson was a mass of charred flesh and broken bones. It was only by means of an intact commutation ticket in his pocket that Dr. Tomlinson was enabled to identify the remains of his nephew.

The other bodies are entirely without marks of identification except that a woman who may be identified by her dress, part of which still remains; and a man who still has a part of his watch chain attached to a button hole in his vest.

One body was found on the top of the engine crushed. The features are also burned beyond recognition.

PATIENTS AT THE HOSPITAL

Muhlenberg Hospital's Facilities Taxed to Uttermost—Official Bulletin.

Not since the fatal Lehigh Valley wreck at West Dunellen has Muhlenberg Hospital been called upon to furnish cots for so many injured at short notice, but despite all conditions the institution met the emergency.

Superintendent Venner was informed of the wreck at 7 o'clock and within a few minutes had the entire day and night forces of nurses on hand and beds, bandages, splints and all accessories prepared. The nurses remained on duty all night as did Drs. Endicott, Carman, E. W. Hedges, E. W. and B. VanD. Hedges, Pittis, Murray, Probasco, VanHorn, Tomlinson, Long, Boone, Clawson, Buchanan, Cregar and Dundon. Drs. Endicott, Fritts, Pittis, Clawson, Tomlinson, Buchanan and Long were also in attendance at the scene of the wreck.

The following official bulletin was issued by the physicians at Muhlenberg Hospital at noon today, giving a complete list and the condition of the patients at the institution:

McCarthy, Samuel; aged twenty-six, residence 2930 Ogden street, Philadelphia; fireman of Express train, general burns, condition serious.

Balch, Mrs. Madeline; aged thirty-one, Watchung avenue, Plainfield; fracture of right leg at the middle; wounds over the body, condition not serious.

Querean, Augustin; aged twenty-eight, general contusions, condition good.

George, Howard A., aged twenty; cut on thigh, large scalp wound, compound fracture of right leg; operated upon and doing good.

Clarke, William V., aged twenty-eight; compound fracture right leg, simple fracture left thigh, scalds over entire body; condition critical.

Kanes, Fred; aged twenty-three; contusions over back; condition good.

Agge, Ray K., Dunellen; contusions left side jaw; incised wounds of scalp; doing well.

Reighton, J. Everitt; aged eighteen; left leg amputated, compound dislocation of right leg at ankle, severe scalds; too weak to be operated upon; will probably die.

Ising, P. M., Dunellen; general shock, lacerated wounds, over knee joint; condition good.

Fredericks, Wilson; Dunellen; aged forty; general burns and scalds over body; doing well.

Davis, James H., aged thirty-four, 1555 Seltzer street, Philadelphia; engineer of Express train; fractured pelvis, large lacerated wound in right groin; condition critical, will probably die during the day.

Langworthy, C. R., aged fifty-two; compound fracture of right leg, cut under knee; operated on by Dr. Hedges and doing very well.

DISREGARDED THE SIGNAL

Statement Made by General Manager Besler Regarding Cause of Wreck.

The following statement was made by General Manager Besler to a Daily Press reporter last night: "In behalf of the management I would say we have the most perfect block signal system to be secured. That it was in working order when the wreck occurred is proven by the fact that it was still in working order im*mediately after the accident. It seems* to be evident that the man must have disregarded the signal."

MISS CADY'S RECITAL.

Second of Series Held at Residence of Mrs. E. P. Lincoln, of West Eighth Street.

From a group of modern composers, embracing French, American, Polish, Scandinavian and Russian, Miss Harriette Cady selected a programme of unusual excellence for her second re*cital, Saturday afternoon. It took* place at the home of Mrs. E. P. Lincoln, of West Eighth street, and was very well attended.

In her first appearance, Miss Cady showed a wide versatility and a delicacy of touch that enabled her to interpret the numbers. They were from Chaminade, Saint-Saens, Mc*Dowell, Hendricks, Mason, Leschet*isky, Paderewski, Grieg, Sjogren, Schytte, Sinding, Arensky, Tschaikowsky, Rubenstein and Maszkowski. One of the numbers by Schytte was dedicated to Miss Cady. The recital concluded the series which had been arranged.

TO CLOSE OTHER WORKS.

Safe Company Will Concentrate Its Entire Plant in This City.

Notice has been posted in the local works of the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Company that on April 1 the Perth Amboy factory of the concern will be closed down. In the meantime the employes will gradually be brought to this city after which the best of the machinery will be sent over. The local shop is busier at present than it has ever been, running both day and night, while the day shift works four hours overtime.

To Close McVey's Hotel.

John H. McVey, who has conducted a hotel on North avenue for a number of years past, has decided to go out of the business and take up his residence at Red Bank. The furnishings of the hotel will be sold at auction early next month. It is said that the property will be used as apartment houses.

Setting Up Lathe.

Louis H. Morgan, of New Market, who is the superintendent at the Pond Machine Tool Works, is at present located at Youngstown, O., where he is setting up the large lathe which was recently shipped from the plant in this city. The lathe is said to have been the largest ever built by the local concern.

Auditing Borough Books.

E. L. Suffern, the expert accountant residing in the borough, assisted by S. R. Struthers, is now engaged in auditing the books of the borough collector and treasurer. The work will probably be completed within the next two weeks.

Penny Social.

A penny social, a most unique affair, will be held at Trinity Reformed church, Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. Each person at*tending is requested to bring a penny* with them.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

RIDING RINK TO BE BUILT

Part of Comprehensive Plan to Revive Interest in the Casino.

ALL KINDS OF GAMES

Plan to Convert Old Union County Country Clubhouse Into Home for All Kinds of Indoor Winter Sports—Would Have Riding Academy and Horse Show.

The prospect of having a centre of attraction for winter indoor sports is being hailed with delight by many Plainfielders, who have already learned of the proposed plans. While there is nothing definite in the scheme, as yet, the promoters of it are hoping that their plans may ma*terialize and thus place this city in* the van with other places, where such institutions are established. It has been said that if Orange can support an annual horse show, there is no reason why this city should not go one better and have a horse show, a riding rink, a gaming room, a plunge bath and all the latest forms of indoor amusement on an elaborate scale. The place proposed for these attractions is at the Casino and plans are now being discussed to transform that property into a place where all of these indoor sports can be enjoyed.

During the past few days an architect, a surveyor and several persons interested in the movement have been looking over the property, ascertaining exactly what can be done with it. It is learned that a riding rink, 75x120 feet, can be built in the rear of the Casino, and this would give plenty of room for riding, in fact, this space would be the largest of any one in this part of the country. The structure would probably be built of iron, making it better as a fire-proof building and in other respects most desirable. Accommodations would be made for the keeping of at least thirty horses near the academy for the use of patrons. Besides, there are many Plainfielders who have fancy thoroughbred stock who would like an opportunity to exhibit the same under favorable conditions. It is believed that a show the equal of the one in Orange could be arranged annually and it could follow the New York horse show or the one at Orange, whichever plan is considered best.

In connection with the improvements proposed for the Casino, plans are being discussed for enlarging the the Casino so that there will be a large place for amateur dramatics, dancing, etc., at the same time there will be provisions made for new bowling alleys, and rooms for playing ping-pong, badminton, cards and all similar games which can be played indoors. It is also proposed to build a "squash" court, where that popular game can be played.

Another valuable addition to the general scheme of improvement is the baths. A plunge is proposed and probably a shower bath. It is argued that many persons would be glad of an opportunity to play these games provided that they could have the use of baths afterward. Arrangements would be made so that the women, as well as the men, could have the benefits of the baths.

As stated the plans for all this improvement are only being discussed. Several wealthy Plainfielders have had the idea brought to their attention and aside from any personal feeling in the matter they believe that such an institution would tend to make Plainfield more attractive and bring desirable people to this city to live. It is also believed that unless something of this kind is done with the Casino it will never be any great paying investment. Those have who the project under discussion would like to know the sentiment of Plainfielders regarding it and is a sufficient amount of support is assured, no doubt the improvements will be made within the near future.

Residential Changes.

H. Victor Keane, of West Front street, has leased John Rafferty's house on Grant avenue, opposite Sixth street, and will take possession February 1. Mr. and Mrs. Holz, of New York, have leased a flat in the Voehl building on East Front street and will take possession February 1. These rentals were made through the office of the Mulford real estate agency on North avenue.

Newspaper Train Will Run.

*The Lehigh Valley Railroad Com*pany's order to discontinue its mail and newspaper train has been recalled. As the rumor got afloat of the road's intention there was a protest from many business men and publishers which convinced the road that it would not be justifiable to interfere with that service.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.
My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and bowels, and I find it the best medicine I ever used. It is pleasant to take, and is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called LANE'S FAMILY MEDICINE.

LANE'S FAMILY MEDICINE
All druggists or by mail 25 cts. and 50 cts. Buy it to-day. Don't accept substitutes. Insist on having the Seventh each day. In ordering by mail state the amount. Address, Box 1928, La Roy, N. Y.

SIMPLE SERVICE.

Funeral of Garrett VanWinkle Was Held From Residence of His Daughter Saturday Afternoon.

Marked by a simple service in keeping with the life of the man, the remains of Garrett VanWinkle were laid away, Saturday, to their final resting place. The service was held at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Leggett, 822 Madison avenue, and was attended by a gathering of relatives and friends, including a delegation from Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, was in charge and spoke impressively to the bereaved ones. He also offered up a heartfelt prayer.

Following the obsequies, the remains were interred in Hillside cemetery, the casket being borne by four nephews, Garrett, Charles, Nelson and Jeremiah VanWinkle. The floral tributes were quite numerous and set pieces were presented by Plainfield Council and Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters, of Trinity Reformed church.

PREACHERS SECURED.

Those Will Fill Pulpit at First Baptist Church Next Three Sundays.

Arrangements have been completed for the supply of the First Baptist church pulpit during the next three weeks. Next Sunday the regular communion services will be held in the morning and Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes will officiate. He will also preach in the evening. The following Sunday, February 8, Rev. Rush Rhees, president of Rochester University, will preach morning and evening, and on Sunday, February 15, Rev. Mr. Gallup, of Albany, N. Y., will preach. Mr. Gallup has for some time past been an assistant pastor in one of the largest Baptist churches at the New York State capital.

Surprised on Birthday.

*A surprise party was given to Ed*ward K. Allen, of the borough, Saturday evening, in honor of the anniversary of his birthday. Guests were present from Newark, Paterson, Flemington and Whitehouse, as well as Plainfield. Music was furnished by local talent and both young and old enjoyed dancing until a late hour, after which a bountiful supper was served. The celebrator was the recipient of many useful gifts and he appreciated them all.

They Will be Missed.

The many friends of Rev. W. T. Griffin and family, of East Seventh street, will learn with regret that they expect to remove from Plainfield to New York city in the spring. The removal is made necessary by the business engagements of Mr. Griffin's son-in-law, Charles H. Clarke.

Mrs. Pope Building House.

It is Mrs. E. R. Pope, of Park avenue, who is building the dwelling house corner of Park avenue and Fifth street, and not Howard A. Pope, as previously stated. Mrs. Pope purchased the property some time ago and then decided to improve it.

DIED

LANPHEAR—At Plainfield, N. J., Tuesday, January 20, 1903, Ethan Lanphear, aged 84 years, 10 months.

TERRY—At Alton, January 21, 1903, Edward Terry, in his 78th year.

VAN WINKLE—In this city, Wednesday, January 21, 1903, Garrett VanWinkle, aged 65 years, 3 months.

REED—At Philadelphia, Pa., Tuesday, January 20, 1903, Lizzie Reed, aged 18 years.

OAKLEY—In this city, Monday, January 26, 1903, Clarence E., son of Edward F. and Emma A. Oakley, aged 23 years.

WANTS AND OFFERS

WANTED—Several apprentice boys to learn the machinists or moulders trade at Scott Press Works. Apply at hours 12 and 6 at office. 1 8 4 c

Nasal CATARRH
In all its stages there should be cleanliness.
Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membranes. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.
Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having secured myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the tonsoria line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work. Good pay from start. Expenses advanced; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement. Old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure present, permanent position, liberal income and future. Now, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church st., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange
Money to loan on Approved Security

SOME NEW APPLICANTS WHO WANT LICENSES

Council Believes That the Present Number of Saloons Should Not be Increased.

BUT MAY BE CHANGES

HINTED THAT GALBRAITH MAY NOT GET LICENSE AGAIN.

Chance of Another Applicant From That Neighborhood — Others Talked Of for Both the West and East Ends.

When the Common Council meets at the regular February session the various applications for liquor licenses will be presented and final action will be taken at the March meeting. It is not generally believed that there will be any increase in the present number, unless there should be a new application for a saloon on West Third street, near the one now conducted by Mr. Galbraith. It has been hinted in certain quarters that a new application is likely to come from that section of the city and that it is now an open question as to whether Mr. Galbraith will secure a renewal of his license.

Then there is some talk of a licensed place in the West End of the city in the vicinity of Clinton avenue. It is said, by its advocates, that in view of the many new industries in that section there is a demand for such a place, where the workingman can refresh himself without coming all the way to the heart of the city. This matter is not definitely settled, however, and it is possible that no application will be made from that section.

There was some intimation that a new application would be received for a place in the East End of the city in the vicinity of the Scott Press Works, but that the applicant was discouraged on the ground that he would fail to secure a license. The policy of the Council is to keep the number of licenses down to the present limit and to keep the saloons as near together as possible. Heretofore, the city has had little trouble from saloons and this is no doubt due to the fact that they are located where the police can keep their eye on them.

TO LAST RESTING PLACE.

Funeral of Ethan Lanphear Held in This City Yesterday Afternoon.

The funeral services of Ethan Lanphear were held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the late residence, corner of Central avenue and West Fifth street, where a large number of friends gathered to honor the memory of one who had lived among them for many years.

The services were in charge of Rev. Dr. L. E. Livermore, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church at New Market, assisted by Rev. George B. Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, this city. The service was a short and simple one for the reason that later in the afternoon the remains were taken to Nile, N. Y., where this afternoon at 2 o'clock another service was held. The interment will be at Nile.

Dr. Livermore accompanied the remains and he conducted the services this afternoon.

Stomach Troubles cured by KODOL DISPEPSIA CURE

Under all curable conditions

Mr. D. Kauble of Nevada, O., was cured by Kodol of stomach trouble which had effected his heart.

Mrs. W. W. Layler of Hilliard, Pa., was cured of Chronic Dyspepsia by the use of Kodol.

KODOL Digests What You Eat

L. W. RANDOLPH.

CONFERENCE OF CHARITIES

NEW JERSEY ASSOCIATION WILL MEET AT TRENTON NEXT MONTH.

The Second Annual Meeting Will be Held February 19 to 20—The Officers.

The New Jersey conference of charities and corrections, which was instituted in Trenton last year, will hold its second annual meeting in that city, February 19 and 20. The success of the plan of conference-holding has been assured, and it is expected that this year's assemblage will be even more enthusiastic than was that of 1905.

Following the lines laid down by educators, child study will be the most important subject upon the programme. The tendency of philanthropic work in New Jersey is toward child saving and incidentally the entire problem of the maintenance of the home. Among the subjects proposed for discussion are wife desertion and non-support legislation, family care for dependent children, women's reformatory, probation and organized play.

It is also understood that a specific plan for a State board of charities and corrections will be presented.

The conference officers are: President, Emily E. Williamson, Elizabeth; treasurer, Robert L. Fleming, Jersey City; secretary, William H. Allen, Jersey City; assistant secretaries, E. R. Johnston, Vineland; Sarah Manton Van Boskerck, Plainfield; A. W. McDougall, Orange; vice presidents, ex-Governor Foster M. Voorhees, Elizabeth; Rev. Amory H. Bradford, D. D., Montclair; Rt. Rev. Bishop James A. McFaul, Trenton; Mrs. Stewart Hartshorn, Short Hills; Charlton T. Lewis, Esq., Morristown, and the following executive committee: Francis B. Lee, Trenton; Professor J. H. Finley, Princeton; Mrs. Laban D. Ennis, Newark; Bleecker Van Wagenen, Orange; Charles T. Currie, Blackwood; A. M. Teston, Atlantic City; Rev. Frank A. Fay, Jersey City; Mrs. Caroline B Alexander, Hoboken; T. L. McConnell, Smith's Landing; Mary Sinton Lewis, Morristown; Hugh F. Fox, Bayonne; Otto Otterson, Jamesburg.

STATE DIPLOMAS.

Pupils in Borough High School Will Have to Take Four Years Course to Get Them.

Up to the present time pupils in the North Plainfield High School have been given State High School diplomas after completing only three years' courses in English and commercial studies. Recently the State Board of Education has decided that in these courses it will be necessary for the pupils to successfully finish four years of study in order that a State diploma can be secured which will entitle them to save one year at the State Normal School at Trenton.

The four year course of advanced English has been arranged for those pupils who desire State diplomas. Those who do not desire the High School certificates may receive them without taking the additional course. This led to the rumor that there would be no graduating class from the Borough High School this year which has been shown to be without any foundation.

BLAZE AT POTTER'S.

Spontaneous Combustion Started a Little Fire in the Paint Closet Thursday Evening.

A fire was narrowly averted at the Potter Press Works, Thursday evening. William Mack was busy at a lathe when he remarked to Assistant Superintendent George Lawson that he smelled smoke. Nothing was thought of the remark at the time but later the odor became very noticeable and the assistant superintendent again had his attention attracted to it. Mack broke open the door of the paint closet. There in a corner was a pair of workingmen's overalls, in the pocket of which was a bunch of waste.

The waste had caught fire by spontaneous combustion and already had burst into a good sized flame. The blaze was extinguished without much trouble.

Water Heater.

A water heating apparatus will soon be installed in the West End Hose Company's headquarters. The apparatus will be like the one which has been in use at the headquarters on Park Second street for some time, where it is used to heat water for bathing purposes.

Dry Bridgeton.

The Common Council, of Bridgeton, has refused to grant licenses for the sale of liquor and the town will be "dry" for the next year.

We Are All Familiar with the deep, hoarse bark, primly called "a grave-yard cough." It is the cry of the tortured lungs for mercy. Give them mercy in the form of Allen's Lung Balsam, a remedy for pulmonary trouble, so highly esteemed that it is recommended even in the earlier stages of consumption. In the latter stages mortal skill is unavailing. Nobody can afford to neglect a cold. 50c.

OLD CITIZEN PASSED AWAY

GARRETT VANWINKLE DIED AT HOME OF HIS DAUGHTER.

Successive Strokes of Paralysis Finally Proved Fatal — Lived Here Over Quarter Century.

Following an illness of more than a year, Garrett VanWinkle, one of Plainfield's best known citizens, passed away Wednesday Jan. 21, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Leggett, of Madison avenue. For the past twelve months he had been subject to slight strokes of paralysis which kept increasing until his system was unable to withstand the attacks.

Garrett VanWinkle was born in Bergen county in 1838 and in his earlier years worked as a ship carpenter at Greenpoint. He afterward engaged in the real estate business which he followed up to 1875 when he removed to this city. While here he followed carpentering until he retired from active life. He was a member of Trinity Reformed church and also of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Leggett, the daughter with whom he lived, and Mrs. Virginia Chickening, who also resides in this city. In addition there are four brothers, John H., William H., Daniel and Jacob H., all residents of the city or borough.

The funeral was held from his late residence, Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Interment was at Hillside.

PLAYED GAMES.

That Was Feature of Social Given by Ladies' Aid Society of First Presbyterian Church.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the First Presbyterian church, the monthly social was held last Thursday in the chapel of the church. Games were the feature of the affair, ping-pong, bean-bag, crokinole, blind man's buff and several other games being provided for the entertainment of both young and old.

Turns were taken in playing some of the games. Cards were distributed and the guests played in the order of the number on these cards. A bell was sounded to start the games and another tap was used to bring them to a close. In this way everyone had an opportunity to play.

After an evening of games refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Mrs. Charles Haseltine, Mrs. William W. Dunn, Mrs. Russell Bond and Mrs. Harry Williams. This committee was assisted by Harry Williams, who took charge of the various games.

WILDWOOD SOLD.

J. D. Loizeaux Purchased Valuable Property at Sheriff's Sale.

The handsome Hart property at Metuchen, known as "Wildwood" was sold Wednesday under the sheriff's hammer.

The place was sold some time ago to satisfy a mechanic's lien and was bought by Joshua D. Loizeaux, of this city. He sold it to William J. R. Thiers, of this city, and Frederick C. Jennings, Mr. Loizeaux's partner, took a mortgage on the property.

Wednesday's sale was on a foreclosure of this mortgage by Mr. Jennings. The property was again knocked down to Mr. Loizeaux who paid $4,000 for it. The decree and costs amounted to $3,670.

TO LIGHT STATION PARK.

Laying Pipes to Carry Electric Wires to Light Park.

Workmen in the employ of the New Jersey Central commenced work, this morning, laying pipes from the station on the south side of the tracks to East Fourth street which will be used to carry electric wires. Before spring the grounds will be placed in readiness for lights in every part of the little park. Special attention is to be paid to the driveways which will be fully protected from accidents at night.

To Protect Store Front.

A temporary awning has been erected in front of the new store of Woodhull & Martin on East Front street to shield the new mason work, which forms the front of the first floor, from the storms and falling bricks and mortar from the floors above.

To Play Caroms.

Arrangements are under way for a series of games of caroms among the members of the Y. M. C. A. If the number of games required can be booked it is possible that a tournament will be started.

There Are Some Simple Remedies indispensable in any family. Among these, the experiences of years assures us, should be recorded Painkiller. For both internal and external application we have found it of great value; especially can we recommend it for colds, rheumatism, or fresh wounds and bruises.—Christian Era. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Price 25c. and 50c.

WISE YOUNG MEDICS.

Had to Swallow a Pill That Was Hard to Digest.

For a Time They Had Everything Their Own Way, But in Winding up the Old Guy Came Out Victorious.

In Chicago he was known as an eminent specialist on diseases of the brain and nerves. When his name appeared in print it was followed by an array of dignified-looking abbreviations which gave it a very imposing appearance. It lent importance to the faculty of a leading medical college and to the staffs of several big hospitals.

Ten months of steady work, the doctor considered, entitled him to a rest, and his method of resting was to throw off his work entirely. So that when he presented himself as a passenger on a lake steamer for an extended cruise he had dropped his title and was just plain "John Blank." Even his cards vouchsafed no further information. It was the cards which misled two young doctors from a small neighboring city who took passage on the same steamer. On the trip the two younger physicians discussed the latest medical discoveries daily with an erudition which secretly amused "John Blank." The conversation drifted one day to the subject of nerves, when, noting the Chicago man's evident interest in the discussion, they drew him into the conversation. Their criticisms of the specialists quietly offered opinions were made in terms intended to make their meaning plain to a layman, but "John Blank" allowed the younger men to have the last word.

The young men landed at Mackinac island and the specialist, says the Chicago Daily News, lost sight of them until a few days before his return. He had passed most of his time far up in Georgian bay and returning leisurely stopped off at Mackinac for a day or two. He walked right into trouble as soon as he stepped on to the hotel piazza. A Chicago acquaintance, quietly smoking on the piazza, gave him a hasty greeting and hurriedly plunged into the hotel. Presently a disheveled man rushed from an elevator and seized the doctor.

"YOU'RE THE MAN I WANT."

"Doctor," he exclaimed, "you're just the man I want. Our baby is sick—dying, we're afraid. Brain fever—unconscious; doesn't know me; telegraphed all over, but couldn't find you. We've had every doctor we could find up here, but none of them seems to think he's got any chance."

Swept along by this tide of explanation, the doctor finally stood in a darkened room beside a limp, unconscious child. Waving the mother and several attendants aside, he sat down close to the bed. Soon he motioned the father to accompany him from the room, but a voice from the foot of the bed interposed. "Speak right out, doctor; we will be glad to have your opinion."

The specialist hesitated in evident embarrassment. "If the child has had brain fever, doctors," he said, "you have cured him of that, but—" he motioned to the nurse to draw up the shades, and as the light streamed into the room turned again to the bed—"I find something in the mouth which may contribute to the trouble somewhat. A slight surgical operation will doubtless assist somewhat." He reached for a lance from one of the medicine cases at hand and lanced the child's gum, where several teeth were struggling through.

There was a sigh of returning consciousness and presently the child opened its eyes.

"He will be all right in an hour or two," explained the doctor to the astonished parents. Then he turned toward his audience.

"The pressure on the nerves—" he began with his usual eagerness to explain, but he stopped abruptly. Before him, reddening with confusion, stood the two wise young doctors.

Latest in Burglar Alarms.

An ingenious mechanic in Brooklyn, in a district where burglaries are frequent, has invented a novel burglar alarm. It consists of a pistol and a bell actuated by mechanism under the floor. As the intruder steps inside the door he treads on a platform, which sinks just sufficiently to start the alarm. The pistol goes off and shoots the intruder, while the bell rings until stopped by one who understands the device.

Suffering for His Dogs.

A tender-hearted man in Hoboken, N. J., pawned his only coat to enable him to pay for two dog licenses. Although lacking money enough to supply bread for himself, his kind heart would not permit him to part with his beloved dogs.

HE SHOT THE HAT.

A Somewhat Risky Custom in Oklahoma That Saves Time on a Windy Day.

"A whole lot of ideas with which we grow up change when we get into another country," said a New York man who has just came back from a three months' trip in the southwest, according to the Sun. "Now, one of the things we have heard of all our lives is that if a man's hat blows off he is a fool to run after it, for there is always some body around polite enough to pick it up and hand it to the owner, if he has to walk a block to do it.

"I have seen it done. I have read about it more times than I have had hats.

"But it is not the custom at Reno, Okla. I was sitting on the veranda of the hotel in that town, watching the various articles which one of those sandstorms whirled through the air.

"The hat of a citizen was raised and carried against a place on the other side of the street. A strapping fellow, who had been picking his teeth with a match as he sat near me on the veranda, got up, whipped out a navy revolver and fired a shot at the hat, nailing it to the fence.

"The owner came up, pulled the hat from its impalement, waved his hand at the man on the veranda and proceeded on his way.

"'It saves time runnin' after it,' said the man on the veranda, 'and it don't hurt the hat.'"

AMERICAN SURGERY PRAISED.

High Tribute Paid Our Doctors and Medical Men by the Late Professor Virchow.

The late Prof. Virchow, the eminent German physician and scientist, had a high notion of American doctors and American medical scientists generally, reports the Chicago Inter Ocean. When interviewed some time ago the professor said, in the course of the conversation, that several young medical students from the United States had passed through his hands whose attainments were certainly on a very high level and whose brightness and alertness could not be excelled.

"I have a great admiration of American surgery," he added. "The men in America are as good as any we have here in Europe and in some departments they are better. I do not think, though, that the American specialists are as good as the best men in London, Paris, Berlin and Vienna, but they are making up their minds to penetrate spirit rules the United States. Everything is on a large, liberal scale, and the splendid university endowments there are bound to tell in the near future. The American laboratories are excellently equipped and the students have enormous advantages over those who study at some of the inadequately equipped schools in Europe."

MODERN CAVE DWELLERS.

Comfortable Villas Carved Out of Rock by Civilians at Kinver Edge, England.

Although there is nothing inherently improbable in the circumstance, it is not generally known that the race of troglodytes is not yet extinct, and that there are at least quite a number of cave dwellers in modern Britain. The inhabitants are by no means half savages.

At Kinver Edge, near Birmingham, are two rows of modern villas, formed mainly out of the "immemorial caves hollowed out of the hill," with stone-front projections. These dwellings are said to be "far more comfortable and luxurious than the less original houses to be found in more pretentious neighborhoods." The rooms are "spacious and rain-proof" and the people of Enville, "as the village formed by these houses is called, are justly proud of their quaint homes and speak with patriotic affection of Holy Austin rock, the stone from which their dwellings are hewn."

There are several remarkable cave dwellings in Knaresborough, in Yorkshire, the Detroit News-Tribune, the "proprietor" of one of which has adorned the various levels of his hillside cave home with battlements and calls it Fort Montague.

SENATOR CLARK'S WIT.

How the Western Millionaire Got Back at a Tonsorial Artist Who Had "Nerve."

A story is going the rounds in Butte which quite aptly represents the business methods adhered to by United States Senator W. A. Clark, the multimillionaire miner, banker and manufacturer.

Upon his return from the east the senator visited a barber shop for the purpose of having his hair trimmed. He inquired for a certain barber whose ability had been recommended to the senator by his son, Charles W.

Upon the completion of the job the senator inquired the amount of the bill, whereupon the tonsorial artist calmly replied:

"Charley usually gives me five dollars."

The senator was taken by surprise, but, regaining his wits, asked: "But what is the usual charge for such a service?"

"Fifty cents," responded the barber.

"Well," said Senator Clark, with a smile, according to the New York Times, "Charley has a rich father and I have not," whereupon he handed the barber 50 cents and departed.

Glaciers in Montana.

But few people are aware that there are in Montana some of the finest glaciers in the world.

DR. WHITFORD GETS PLACE

APPOINTED CLERK OF ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE ON RAILROADS AND CANALS.

Was Defeated for Assembly, But More Successful Colleague Didn't Forget Him.

Dr. Myron J. Whitford, of New Market, who was defeated at the last election when he ran for Assemblyman in Middlesex county, has secured one of the legislative plums which recently dropped at Trenton. He will receive $300 a year as clerk of the House committee on railroads and canals.

Whitford was an Assemblyman from Middlesex last year and became well-known throughout the entire State, as being the father of a bill for a million dollar university which was pigeon holed and never was passed.

Whitford was nominated last fall but was low man on the Republican ticket and a Democrat, B. Michael Gannon, beat him out. Assemblyman John Montgomery, of the same county had such a close shave himself, that when he got the chairmanship of the committee on railroads he offered the clerkship to Dr. Whitford and the doctor had a chance of helping to make laws another session even if he could not have a vote.

READING'S PENSION PLAN

HOW PRESIDENT BAER PLANS TO CARE FOR AGED AND SICK EMPLOYES.

Announcement Came As a New Year's Gift to Employes of the Reading System.

President Baer of the Reading company made a New Year's gift to the officers and employes of the company when he announced that all the old employes are to be taken care of and those who had been incapacitated are also to be carried on the pay rolls of the company.

Some time ago the board of directors of the Reading company authorized President Baer to prepare a plan for pensioning old employes. After months of work this plan has been put in shape. The employes are divided into three classes, A, B, and C. The first includes those who have attained the age of 70 years. They are to be retired if they have been continuously in the service of the company for thirty years.

Second, all employes 65 to 69 years of age, both inclusive, who have been continuously thirty or more years in the service and who have become incapacitated may be retired and pensioned; and, after any faithful employe of the company, irrespective of his age or length of service, who shall have received injuries, in the performance of his duty which totally incapacitated him for his regular or other vocation, or who shall, through sickness becomes so incapacitated may be awarded such sum, as a pension, for such length of time as the president shall determine.

The monthly allowance paid each person under class A and B granted a pension shall be upon the following basis: For each year of service 1 per cent. of the average regular monthly pay for ten years next preceding retirement; provided, however, that the annual disbursement, including the pensions paid to employes of the associated companies shall not exceed $75,000. Should the aggregate pension allowances exceed this amount, in the *absence of action by the board of di*rectors increasing the yearly amount usable for pensions, a new rate shall be established proportionately reducing all allowances. Notice of any change of rate shall be given retired employes before the beginning of the fiscal year in which the change shall become effective.

MRS. VAN BUREN'S LUNCHEON.

The Second of a Series Was Given by Her Thursday.

The second and last of a series of luncheons was given Thursday by Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren at her home on Central avenue. Like the first affair, it was marked by several pleasing features. A clever color scheme was presented in light green and light pink.

Those present at the luncheon were Mrs. G. Herbert Taylor, Miss Maude VanBokereel, Miss Lucy Otterson, Miss May Holly, Mrs. *John G. Dray*ton, Mrs. Lewis G. Timpson, Mrs. George S. Ring, Miss Edith L. Burt, Miss Cornelia Ryast and Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren.

A Selenitic Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

TO INTEREST OTHERS IN ROYAL ARCANUM

A District Meeting of That Order Was Held in This City, January 21.

GRAND OFFICERS HERE

IT WAS THE LAST OF A SERIES OF TEN MEETINGS HELD IN THIS DISTRICT.

Members of Plainfield Council and Neighboring Branches of the Order Attended the Meeting in Goodly Numbers.

The first district fraternal gathering of Arcanumites to take place in this city was held at Masonic Hall, January 21, when two hundred members of the Arcanum in this city and in other towns in this district were present and enjoyed a pleasant evening listening to stirring addresses by prominent members of that order and enjoying a programme furnished by a New York entertainer of note.

The session was one of a series of ten district meetings which have been held throughout this district. The last one was held at Jersey City several weeks ago when there were about 2,000 members present. The meeting last night was the last of the series and the primary object for holding the meeting was to interest outsiders in the order. The number of visitors who were present last night augured well for many new members for the local order.

Delegations were present from Adelphic, No. 1015, Bridgewater, No. 1875, Fireside, No. 715, Greenbrook No. 1725; Plainfield, No. 711, Bound Brook, No. 1339, Cranford, No. 1469, Fanwood, No. 744, Metuchen No. 1675, and Roselle, No. 1384. All of these delegations brought with them a number of visitors.

The State officers who were present were, Grand Regent H. J. Bowne, of Hoboken; Grand Vice Regent J. M. Washburn, of Jersey City; Grand Orator S. Kenyon Messick, of Cranford, and Past Grand Regent L. A. Lightfoot, of Westfield.

The committee which had the meeting under their supervision was H. R. Ward, of Jersey City; W. C. Hayward, of Passaic; W. C. McKever, of Rutherford; R. E. Felous, of Rahway; Harold Porter, of Jersey City; W. Collier, of Bayonne and John D. Beach, of Bayonne.

The session was called to order by Grand Regent H. J. Bowne, of Hoboken, who made a short address of welcome, during which he touched upon the objects of the Arcanum and the benefits to be derived from the order and urged that those who were not already members of the order to join.

George F. Curtis, of New York, was introduced and entertained with original monologue selections and story telling. His entertainment was well received and later in the evening he was urged to appear again before the assemblage.

The speaker of the evening was the address by Rev. John Handley, of Long Branch, who told in an interesting and forceful manner of the great benefits of the order. He proved to be an eloquent and humorous speaker.

Following the meeting proper, a gathering was held among the members when the characteristic social side of the order was shown to the visitors.

FOR FREEHOLDER.

Friends to Number of Seventy-Five Gave Him a Party Wednesday, Jan. 21.

Seventy-five friends tendered a party to Freeholder Augustus Mohrs at his home on Somerset street, Jan. 21, when a most enjoyable evening was spent in playing cards, dancing and listening to music. Those who favored with selections were C. M. Meeker, Peter Blake and Thomas Trainor. A sumptuous repast was served at a late hour and then dancing was resumed until early next morning.

Some of those who were present were Mayor N. B. Smalley, Chief Marshall and Mrs. William B. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nelson, Miss Annie Texier, Edward Texier, Miss Jennie Devine, Mrs. Hoerster, Miss Elvira Hoerster, William Demler, Stonewall Jackson, Clifford Schorb, Mr. and Mrs. Meeker, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Blake, Frank and Frederick Winn, Harry Winn and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cleaver.

Recovered Speech and Hearing.

Messrs. Perry Bros. & Co. commenced using your Cream Balm about two years ago for catarrh. My voice was somewhat thick and my hearing was dull. My hearing has been fully restored and my speech has become quite clear. I am a teacher in our town. L. G. Brown, Granger, O.

The Balm does not irritate or cause sneezing. Sold by druggists at 50 cts. or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., New York.

SOLDIER BOYS AS MINSTRELS

Opening Night of Company K's Minstrels Proved to be a Decided Success.

THE AUDIENCE PLEASED

Good Singing and Local Hits Were Features of An Excellent First Part—Olio Was Highly Enjoyable—Everything Went Off Very Smoothly.

Songs and funny sayings, music and dances, interspersed with high-class orchestral selections, was the offering Company K's minstrel troupe gave in the Casino, last Wednesday, when the members made their initial bow to the public as entertainers. From the rise of the curtain on the first part until the closing overture surprises followed each other in close succession and the result was a performance which evoked roars of laughter and highly delighted the large audience. Long before the concluding number the military boys were made aware through the medium of handclaps that their efforts in black face comedy were crowned with success.

The performance opened at 8 o'clock with a swinging and catchy overture, "Coming Through the Rye" by an orchestra of fourteen pieces under the direction of William E. MacClymont and when the curtain was rung up, the troupe was disclosed seated in the customary half circle. On the end were Fred J. Pope, A. M. Seiders and A. I. Littell handling the bones and William L. Holbert, W. R. Harsel and Robert M. Clark with bamboo. The genial face of Joseph C. Martin was in the center as interlocutor and his interpretation of the part was excellent.

The remainder of the members composed the chorus as follows: Oliver R. Pearson, Charles Hayes, James Conkling, William S. Richards, Stephen Stover, Captain W. B. Martin, F. G. Wikoff, John M. Lewis, Paul Whitall, J. Everitt Reighton, Walter Sampson, Leonce Texier, Robert Goldsack, H. B. Kitchell, H. McGiveray, John W. Turner, James Frazee, Clarence Bilyeu, Horace J. Martin, Jr., Vernon Waters and Alfred R. Trenchard.

A medley overture of popular airs was the initial number and it was sung in a manner that augured well for what was to follow. In addition to a solo, each of the end men were armed with a bunch of "roasts" on local celebrities which they delivered with good effect. Robert M. Clark sang a parody on the "Good Old Summer Time" in which the delights of camp life at Sea Girt were disclosed; Augustus Seiders contributed "My Princess Zulu" with a whistling chorus; Fred J. Pope gave "Under the Bamboo Tree" and W. R. Harsel rendered an original comic song that took well.

One of the most catchy and laughable musical numbers was "Mr. Dooley" sung by A. I. Littell, substituting local words. Among those who came in for good natured "knocks" were Tax Collector Frank H. Smith, Mayor L. S. Smalley, City Judge William N. Runyon, William Towsley, "Carrie" Higgins, Thomas Muir, of the Daily Press staff, and Ralph L. Morrow, local correspondent for the Newark News.

Other selections in the first part were "I've Got My Eyes On You," by Harry Kitchell; "Dear Old Stars and Stripes, Good Bye," by Horace J. Martin, Jr.; "King of the Winds," by Captain W. B Martin; and "The Sons of Ham" with a pretty marching effect by the end men. The concluding number was a medley of national airs by the entire company.

The second part or olio was made up of high class vaudeville numbers anyone of which would gain distinction upon the professional stage. With but one exception the artists were from this city. Clarence Pope and William Hickey formed an acrobatic combination that would be hard to excel. Their act was frequently interrupted by applause which they richly deserved for feats in tumbling and contortion work.

Fred Frey, a Plainfield boy who has gained renown for fancy dancing. Went through some of his most difficult steps dressed in a dazzling costume of green, red and white set off by an immense diamond of some twenty candle power. He was recalled twice and even then the audience seemed to want more. A slack wire walking act was contributed by Michael Burke, who needs no introduction to local audiences. He went through all his usual feats and added several new ones that were astounding. George Carroll, of Elizabeth, sang several ballads in a creditable way. Fred Moore, of the same city, picked a mandolin in masterly fashion.

The concluding number of the olio was a travesty on the famous "Florodora" double sextette entitled "Has Your Mother Any More At Home Like You" in which an octette of men and "women" danced and sang. It was one of the evening's hits. Those who appeared in this number were Robert M. Clark, A. I. Littell, Horace J. Martin, Jr., and Fred J. Pope, men, and Joseph C. Martin, Robert Goldsack, Alfred Trenchard and Clarence Bilyeu, "women." "America," rendered by the entire company with an original grouping effect brought the performance to a close.

While every member of the company rendered assistance in making the affair the success it was, special mention is due W. L. Holbert, an old time exponent of minstrelsy, for his work as instructor in connection with R. M. Clark, William E. MacClymont, who acted as musical coach and director of the orchestra and William Holmes, who bought the members the dancing steps. The members of the company who acted as ushers were Harold Whitney, Nathan Hort, Charles A. Peterson, George L. Apgar, Frank Stiglitz, Elias Giles and Arthur Phillips.

This evening the second performance will be given with one additional number in the olio while new songs and jokes will be substituted in the first part.

CHAMPIONSHIP AT BALTUSROL

NEW JERSEY STATE GOLF ASSOCIATION FIXES DATE AND PLACE.

A New Handicap System Adopted at Annual Meeting Held This Week.

The new president of the New Jersey State Golf Association is Lionel H. Graham, of the Baltusrol Golf Club, this being Mr. Graham's third term in this office. Baltusrol has been selected as the place for the holding of the annual championship and the dates selected are June 4, 5 and 6, provided they are sanctioned by the Metropolitan Golf Association. Thirteen of the sixteen clubs were represented at the meeting held this week and among the five new members elected are Country Club, Atlantic City; Arcadia Golf Club, East Orange; New Brunswick Golf Club, Cape May Golf Club and Madison Golf Club.

There will be a new handicap system for the rating of players and as the change is a radical one much interest is manifested in it. It will become the standard method for amateur handicapping throughout the country. In a nutshell, it is proposed that clubs adopt as a basis for their handicapping the par score of their links. Club handicaps, as a rule, are at present based on the bogie of the course or the play of some scratch player. This system is inaccurate from a handicap committee's point of view because bogie is altogether too elastic.

Among the delegates at the meeting were S. A. Crukshank, Colonia; Thomas R. VanBoskerck, Hillside Tennis and Golf Club.

DEATH OF EDW. TERRY.

Old Citizen of Alton Died After An Illness of a Year.

The death of Edward Terry, of Alton, occurred at his home, January 21, after an illness of a few weeks from paralysis. He had been in ill health for more than a year. He was in his seventy-eighth year and leaves two sons, William E. and Scott Terry and one daughter, Miss Hattie Terry. The funeral will be held from his late residence, Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Interment will be at Scotch Plains.

LARGEST SINGLE VAULT.

Shipped From Safe Works to a New York Banking House.

The first section of what is believed will be the largest single vault in New York City was shipped from the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works, Jan. 20. It was an immense slab of manganese steel and others like it will be completed in quick succession. When erected in the office of the United States Mortgage and Trust Company the combined weight will be in the neighborhood of sixty tons.

In Justice Mosher's Court.

Summons have been issued in Justice Mosher's court in the contract case of the New York Painting and Decorating Company against Van-Winkle. The papers are returnable January 27.

One Hundred Dollars a Box is the value H. A. Tisdale, Summerton, S. C., places on DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says: "I had the piles for 20 years. I tried many doctors and medicines, but all failed except DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me." It is a combination of the healing properties of Witch Hazel with antiseptics and emollients; relieves and permanently cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, sores, cuts, bruises, eczema, salt rheum and all skin diseases. L. W. Randolph.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 2, "Self Mastery or Slavery." Text, I Cor. ix. 24-27.

Every athletic contest emphasizes the necessity for training. Efficiency never comes by accident. Proficiency is secured only by continued exercise. Skill in the use of any power, whether of body, mind or spirit, can be had only by continued application. It is needful, first of all, to learn how a thing ought to be done, then there must be the repeated attempts to do it until it can be once done properly. Repeated doing correctly will give ease, facility, accuracy and rapidity.

This is the only path to victory, whether in football, study, work or Christian grace.

Mastery over the temper can be had only by restraining the angry word when provoked. It is useless to ask to be delivered from all irritation and provocation. That never will cure a quick temper.

A horse will never be cured of shying by tying up in the stable. No muscle ever grows strong by inactivity. An ax or hoe is better for developing an arm than a dumbbell or Indian club. A hammock may rest a sprinter after a run, but running alone can make him a good runner. If you want to be a good Christian, make up your mind to work at it.

Many are heard to say, "I want to love God better; I want to serve Him more faithfully." That is good as far as it goes, but if it never goes any farther it is no better than a pauper wishing to be a multimillionaire and only wishing. The gift of prayer is more than facility in talking. It comes after long exercise of the soul in communion with God. Who does not recognize the vast space which lies between the soul which can utter fervor, unction, assurance, humility and boldness and one who pours out a string of words?

Paul describes his own efforts in Christian living as if he was a boxer preparing for the great athletic games of his times. He smites himself to keep the soul in mastery over the body. What need there is at the present time of this robust, resolute Christian living! The seeking for recreation which is emphasized as so necessary under our modern conditions of society can do little toward toning up the moral life. How robust a Christian experience does any one get who frequents the theater more than the prayer meeting? No crew ever was trained for victory in rowing by indulgence of appetite, but by rational use of it.

No more will any one in Christian life acquire self mastery except by exercise of rational control and continuance. Self will gives powers. We must think and speak and do the right and keep ever at it.

Helping One Another.

So far as our duties are concerned, we cannot live our lives in isolation. Our duties ray out in every direction. We are dependent upon others; others are dependent upon us. In doing our own part in life we are sure to help others to do his part. If our work is of no benefit to society, it cannot benefit us in the highest and best sense. But who of us gives so much to society as we really get? If our duties bind us to our fellows, we are also bound by the same ties and sympathies. Even there are those who, like the Pharisees, put heavy burdens upon other men's shoulders and will not lighten them, there is, thank heaven, a host of others who are willing to lighten the heavy laden. This is shown in hours of sorrow as well as in hours of toil. There is nothing more beautiful and inspiring than to see how a community may bear up with buoyant sympathy some afflicted, heavy stricken soul. The consolations of God are great, but He often reveals them through the consolations of man.—Christian Register.

Recognition in Heaven.

"Shall we know each other there?" Do Christians really doubt the fact that the reunion of heaven will include recognition, the meeting again of those who have been separated, the gathering of all of earth's tenderest ties? A God who gives us daily bread here, so unkind a Father that He will offer us a stone there? If there is immortality, is it to be apart from the sweetness and sacredness of love? Is not this the implication of the Mount of Transfiguration—the saints, who had been for centuries in heaven, knew each other and conversed and were known to Peter, James and John?—Margaret E. Sangster.

Simple Faith.

There was once a good woman who was well known among her circle for her simple faith and her great calmness in the midst of many trials. Another woman, living at a distance, hearing of her, said, "I must go and see that woman and learn the secret of her strong, happy life." She went and, accosting the woman, said: "Are you the woman with the great faith?" "No," replied she, "I am not the woman with the great faith, but I am the woman with the little faith in the great God." —Christian Standard.

By Praise We Give.

By prayer we ask, by faith we take, but by praise we give. In heaven blessing God will be our constant employment, and if we would have a portion of the happiness of heaven upon earth in the enjoyment of divine peace, while seeking to be free from all undue care, while committing all anxieties to Him in prayer and supplication, we must also cultivate the important grace of continual thanksgiving.—Freeman.

The Beauty of Thy Peace.

Drop Thy still dews of quietness
Till all our strivings cease;
Take from our lives the strain and stress
And let our ordered lives confess
The beauty of thy peace.
—Whittier.

GLACIAL GEOLOGY OF NEW JERSEY GIVEN

State Geological Survey Has Prepared a Report Containing Much of Interest.

SOON TO BE PUBLISHED

TELLS OF GREAT ICE SHEET THAT ONCE COVERED PART OF JERSEY.

Terminal Moraine Extends Near This City—Origin of the Lake in Northern Jersey Explained—The Report Is in Two Parts.

The New Jersey Geological Survey has in press, almost ready for publication, a full report upon the glacial geology of the State, which will contain much information of popular interest.

During the glacial period—the most recent of the geological epochs, although not less than 8,000 or 10,000 years ago—the northern portion of the State was covered with a great ice sheet, just as the interior of Greenland is covered today.

Along the State line the ice was probably from 1,000 to 1,500 fees thick on the mountains and 1,800 to 2,500 feet in the valleys. It extended as far south as Belvidere, Hackettstown, Dover, Morristown, Summit, Plainfield, Metuchen and Perth Amboy, along which line there was accumulated a great belt of sand, gravel and bowlder clay, known as the terminal moraine.

The rock surface beneath this great sheet of ice was profoundly altered. Sharp peaks were worn off, ledges were rounded down and the whole surface grooved, scratched and polished. Many of these polished surfaces are now visible along the Palisades and Kittatinny mountain, as well as elsewhere in the State.

When the ice finally withdrew it left the surface mantled with a layer of tough bowlday clay, called till, while along the valleys were plains of sand and gravel deposited by the flooded river to which the melting ice had given origin.

In some valleys large lakes were temporarily formed in front of the ice sheet. In these great beds of clay were deposited, and on their shores deltas and beach lines were formed. Lake Passaic, in the basin of the upper Passaic river, was the largest of these, and its varied stages are clearly shown in the report by a series of carefully prepared maps.

The numerous lakes of Sussex, Passaic and Morris counties, in every case, owe their origin to the great ice sheet, for they occupy either valleys, which were dammed up by drift, as is the case with Lake Hopatcong, or basins in the drift itself.

Part I of the report is of more general interest, describing as it does the glacial drift, the origin of glaciers, their methods of work and the changes in the surface of the country wrought by them. Part II contains detailed descriptions of the glacial deposits of the northern part of the State.

The report contains about 800 pages and is abundantly illustrated by maps' half-tone plates and figures, which explain and illustrate the text.

Dr. H. B. Kummel, the State Geologist, is desirous that all citizens of the State interested in these matters should receive a copy of this report, and requests for it will be filled until the edition is exhausted. However, the cost of mailing several thousand reports of this size is more than the funds of the survey will warrant.

It will be necessary, therefore, to require the recipient to pay the express charges.

BEFORE THE MAYOR.

Several Charged With Minor Offenses Were Arrgigned Before Mayor Jenkins.

Before Mayor Jenkins in the city court, January 21, Joseph Satphen was arraigned on a charge of drunkenness preferred by Patrolmen Saffron and Flynn. He was found at the corner of Central avenue and Front street, last night, in a helpless condition. He paid a fine of $10.

Charles Barry entered a general denial of violating the back ordinance against Patrolman Overbaugh's charge. He paid $2.

Sophie Reddick was arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct and the use of profane language made by Daisy Brokaw. Through her counsel, S. S. Swackhamer, the defendant secured an acquittal.

Tells of Local Exhibit.

"Exhibit for Charity Workers" is the subject of an interesting article appearing in the New Jersey Review for January. It was written by Miss Emma L. Adams, librarian of the Public Library, and tells of the exhibit recently held there, when books treating of the subject of charity in all its various phases were exhibited.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 1—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Decide today.—Heb. iii, 7-13. (Christian Endeavor day.)

The book of Hebrews sets forth the superiority of Christ (1) over angels, (2) Moses, (3) the Aaronic priesthood. The purpose of this comparison is to inspire the faithfulness of the Jewish Christians, who were strongly tempted to give up their faith. In this third chapter Christ's superiority to Moses is set forth. It is also shown that those who disbelieved God under the direction of Moses were punished. How much more certain this would be the case when God was revealed in Christ, a greater than Moses! Therefore the force of the exhortation, "Today, if ye will hear His voice, harden not your hearts."

The topic speaks of a call to decision and we may inquire: What are we to decide? Who calls us to decision? When and how should we decide?

1. What are we to decide? Practically our relation to God. This is the position urged upon the Jews who had become Christians. In the midst of trial and tribulation they were in danger of unbelief and of departing from the living God. This they are called upon not to do and are urged to decide in the favor of faith and of God by the and fate of their ancestors, who had the other choice. God called to the ancient Jews, but they hardened their hearts in unbelief and decided against God. Therefore they never entered Canaan. Their fate should be a warning to us. If not Christians, we should decide for Christ, and if Christians under temptation to give up our faith or our faithfulness we should decide for God. The unbelieving and unfaithful can never enter into God's heavenly Canaan.

2. By what upon us to decide? The Holy Ghost. "Wherefore, as the Holy Ghost saith, Today, if ye will hear My voice." The office work of the Holy Ghost is to call sinners to repentance and to build them up in faith and comfort. To this end He calls us by His personal influence through His word, the church and the people of God. The call that comes to us is no human call, but a divine call. God, through His Spirit, calls us to repentance, to faith and to faithfulness. The personality of Him who calls should dispose us to speedy acceptance. An invitation from the president of the United States is equivalent to a command. Much more should a call from God be looked upon in the same light. We should feel that we dare not disobey. "God calls; I must obey," should be our attitude.

3. When should we decide? Today. "Today, if ye hear His voice, harden not your hearts." Today is the only day we have. No living being is sure of tomorrow. This spirit strives today, but "My Spirit shall not always strive with men," saith the Lord. Procrastination is dangerous, for we have no guarantee for the future and no promise that God will still call us even if we live into the future. Today is our only opportunity. Now is the accepted time; now is the day of salvation. Tomorrow may be too late; therefore decide today.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. xxxii, 26; Num. xiv, 21-24; Josh. xxiv, 15-18; I Kings xviii, 22; Ruth i, 16, 17; Prov. iv, 23-27; Mark ii, 14; Acts xxi, 8-14; Rev. ii, 10.

An Appeal From Africa.

Between our heaven of blessedness and this hell of Africa's woe and want and wretchedness there is a great gulf fixed—a gulf of selfishness, a gulf of indifference, a gulf of ignorance. And there is no hope of bridging the chasm until we get beyond missionaries and missions and human appeals and get one clear vision of Jesus Christ. Fellow Endeavorer, I do not ask you to pity the heathen, but I do beg of you that you simply love Jesus Christ right. Is it right to accept the gift of life at the price He paid for it and then give Him only the spare change you *happen to have left after your luxuri*ous living is satisfied? Is it right to give Him only the odds and ends, the spare moments, the convenient service, the thing that costs you nothing? Is it right to grudge Him even so small a portion as the tenth of your income for the advancement of His cause? Shall we forever crucify the Son of God on the cross of convenience?—Rev. Willis R. Hotchkiss, East Coast of Africa.

For the Temperance Committee.

In these days there is much intemperate temperance talk indulged in, and from adding to it I want to be delivered. I will admit, however, that I am a "temperance crank"—that is, I will make that admission, immodest though it may seem to you, if you will accept the following definition of a crank: "A crank is something of an expert on a subject in which you are not interested."—John Willis Baer.

An Evangelizing Force.

The Rev. B. Q. Denham, one of the vice presidents of the New York state union, in a recent convention address said: "Let us go home and transform our Christian Endeavor society into an evangelizing force. . . . Let us study the word of God, so that the Holy Spirit shall wield that word in our lives."

Quiz Box.

[Any question may be asked that pertains to any phase of Christian Endeavor work. Address Lock Box 674, Binghamton, N. Y.]

31. T. E. P., Pennsylvania.—The pastor of the individual church is the only person whose authority the society is bound to respect.

32. S. M. V., Delaware.—If your membership is too large to be worked profitably in one, there is certainly no harm in having two societies in your church.

MINSTREL SHOW EVEN BETTER SECOND NIGHT

Company K's Performance Went Through in Very Satisfactory Fashion.

THE NEW JOKES SPRUNG

ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE AT CASINO WAS WELL PLEASED.

March Written by W. E. MacClymont for the Occasion—Received An Ovation—There Was Also Fine Music and Singing.

With the advantage of one night's experience, Company K's minstrel show at the Casino last Thursday proved even more successful than the night before. The audience was enthusiastic, found the jokes of the end men many and thoroughly enjoyed the singing and music.

Some new jokes were cracked and End-man W. L. Holbert sprang one on the spur of the moment, which was appreciated more perhaps by the participants than the audience, when he told of how any man would look troubled if he had a 40-inch waist put into a pair of 36-inch trousers. Several of the topical songs had new stanzas added for the occasion.

Scene of the friends of Captain W. B. Martin sent him a bouquet which was presented during his solo. The end men amused the crowd by accepting as a matter of course that it was intended for one of them.

Particularly pleasing was the work of the orchestra under the direction of William E. MacClymont. During the intermission between the first and second parts, the march "Off to the Front," written by Mr. MacClymont and dedicated to Company K, was played and received quite an ovation from the audience.

Of the songs given in the show the parody on "Mr. Dooley," which was sung by A. I. Littell, probably contained the most local hits and greatly amused the hearers. The following are the words for some of the best hits:

Who was the cop upon our force who's famous in the land,
Who's a fine sharp old sleuth, plays ball to beat the band,
Who spoils the business of the folks who sell without a right
Older, whiskey and other stuff that make some people tight?

CHORUS.

'Tis Maurice Higgins, 'tis Maurice Higgins, Higgins——O!
He's no imitation like Carrie Nation
Is Maurice Higgins——O.

Who is it sits upon a bench that looks so very high,
And looks down on offenders with his stern and haughtye?
Says he "Now come your money pay or down to jail to go.
I'll hand you over to the chief, so now tough up you cough."

'Tis Billie Runyon, 'tis Billie Runyon, Runyon——O!
He is a wonder, he sings like thunder,
Does Billie Runyon——O.

Who is it owns a little place that's just across the brook,
Who's been in politics long enough to write a great big book,
Who turned the county upside down and made You Thompson swear,
Who's mayor, judge, recorder, cop and everything over there?

'Tis Newton Smalley, 'tis Newton Smalley,
Mayor Lewis Jerry Smalley——O.
He made a great fuss when he tried to join us,
Did Newton smalley——O.

There are two men who make you mad with their apparent lies,
They'll tell you you're in the dead of night and question you thus wise—
"Now has your father had a fit or your mother gone away?
O, come, give us a personal, we are short of news today.

'Tis Tommie Muir, Tommie Muir,
From the Daily Press he weekly draws his pay,
The other nerve racker is Archie Hacquer,
Who on the Courier pages has his say.

This is a game I certainly like for no one can get back,
There's lots of people in the town I'd like to hit a whack,
There's a special Prank, who collects the tax, the editor of the News
The deacon of the Daily Press I think I could amuse.

But Mr. Dooley would get surelly,
For if this evening I make too great a use,
A pen he'd borrow from Mr. Morrow
And roast me in the Newark Evening News.

Given a Blue Ribbon Winner.

Frank Hard, the Somerset street blacksmith, has had presented to him a full blooded brindle bull dog, which has captured a blue ribbon at the last dog show in New York. It is a gift from his cousin, Frank McCabe, of Philadelphia. Mr. Hand has also received the dog's pedigree.

Of Great Interest.

For those who know little or nothing about Mexico, the illustrated lecture to be given in the First Presbyterian church, Tuesday evening, January 27, by Rev. C. E. Herring, will be of great interest. He will use a large number of his own slides.

Ice Houses Filled.

Harvesting on Tier's lake was completed Wednesday night, and the houses belonging to John H. Tier are filled to their capacity. This is the earliest he has secured a sufficient quantity in many years.

BANQUET FOR GRAND MASTER

Central Lodge Honored A Member Now State Head of the A. O. U. W.

HELD AT HOTEL ROSELL

Given in Honor of Grand Master Workman V. W. Nash Thursday—Number of Distinguished Guests Were Present—Was An Enjoyable Affair.

On the occasion of the first official visit of Grand Master Workman Vincent W. Nash to Central Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Order United Workmen, Thursday, the members very appropriately gave their fellow townsmen and high officer a banquet at Hotel Rosell, after the meeting held in the lodge rooms. There were other dignitaries present from various parts of the State and altogether the affair was complete in every detail.

At the meeting of the lodge prior to the banquet two candidates were initiated. District Deputy Grand Master Workman F. P. Fowle, of Irvington, presented Harvey R. Thorn and Joseph Kingston with emblematic watch charms for bringing in new members. This is in accordance with a plan inaugurated by Grand Master Workman Nash at the beginning of his term. After the meeting the members adjourned to the hotel, where everything was in readiness for them. There were eighty-three men who sat down to the tables to partake of the very excellent menu prepared by Proprietor A. B. Rosell.

As the hour was late when the dinner was started, and it was the desire of those present to hear from the officers, the speechmaking began before the dinner was concluded. Master Workman J. Alfred Wilson was the toastmaster. His witty remarks were enjoyed immensely as he introduced the various speakers, the first of which was Mayor Olin L. Jenkins, who is a member of the Workmen. His Honor gave a short talk. In an amusing way he told of the experience of some of the members as they came to him to be examined for membership, and he paid deserving tribute to Grand Master Workman Nash, telling how faithfully and earnestly he had labored for the interests of the Workmen.

Following the Mayor, Mr. Nash was introduced and received a hearty welcome from all. In a brief speech he recited the success of the Workmen in New Jersey during his term. He told of the slight loss by reason of the change to the classified plan and stated that he believed that the time had arrived when this order will go forward increasing in membership and prestige. He said that the suspended list is small, while since December thirty new members had been received. He spoke of the excellent financial condition of the lodge and said that he believed that no doubt his successor would reap a good harvest from earnest effort made this year.

Grand Outside Watchman F. P. Fowle, of Irvington, pictured with incidents the inception and growth of the Ancient Order of United Workmen and predicted for the organization, success that cannot be retarded.

The next speaker was Deputy Grand Master Workman Washington H. Tier, Rahway, who gave an enthusiastic short talk which had a tendency to stir the members to greater activity.

Past Chairman of the Finance Committee William Newcorn gave the members some excellent advice. He praised Mr. Nash for his efforts during a critical period and urged the members to put forth greater effort toward the success of the lodge. In conclusion other remarks were made by District Deputy Grand Master Workman Flagg, of Upchurch Lodge, of Westfield, and J. W. A. Bauernschs, a member of the Grand Finance Committee.

Central Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Order United Workmen, was organized December 26, 1888 and today it has a membership of 219. It is of the most energetic lodges in the State and has accomplished great good since its birth. The committee having charge of last evening's affair consisted of L. J. Spicer, Harvey R. Thorn and Theodore J. Mason.

Married in New York.

Thomas Arthur Stine, of North Plainfield, and Miss Consuello Frost Beattie, of New York, were married Wednesday evening at the Church of the Holy Faith, New York. After an extended wedding trip the couple will take up their residence in New York.

House Disinfected.

The residence of George Hummer, of Stone street, was disinfected today after the recent case of diphtheria which was confined in the house. The patient was Mr. Hummer's son.

BANQUET MARKED TENTH YEAR WITH PRUDENTIAL

Was Given by Superintendent Ball to the Members of His Local Staff.

THE SEVERAL SPEAKERS

MR. BALL WAS MADE MEMBER OF THE PRUDENTIAL "OLD GUARD."

Local Agents and Representatives From Home Office at Newark Sat Down to Excellent Banquet at Hotel Kensington.

The trite and significant saying that the Prudential Insurance Company has the strength of Gibraltar was appropriately reversed last Friday at a banquet given by Superintendent Charles E. Ball to his staff and six representatives from the home office in Newark. In view of the fact that the company has made such rapid strides during the past year, it was unanimously decided that Gibraltar has the strength of the Prudential Insurance Company. This was verified in the statement that Gibraltar stands still, while the company is rapidly advancing.

The affair not only marked the completion of Superintendent Ball's ten years of service with the company, but was given as a reward for faithful services performed by his efficient staff. A happy feature was the presentation to Mr. Ball of a handsome certificate and silver badge by Division Manager Edward S. Alston, in recognition of the ten years' service. This places Mr. Ball in the Prudential "Old Guard" and in class B. The recipient of this honor accepted it in a few well chosen words. There were a number of speeches during the evening and all paid deserving praise to Mr. Ball for his untiring efforts and for the banquet.

It was 8:30 o'clock when the guests sat down to dinner and for over an hour all thoroughly enjoyed the fine menu. There was nothing but praise for Proprietor Staats, who prepared a dinner of exceptional merit. Toward the latter part of the banquet, Mr. Ball, who acted as toastmaster, introduced the various speakers. William Hamilton, assistant secretary from the home office, was the first speaker and he compared the relationship between industrial and ordinary insurance, showing how closely they are linked together and how one must follow the other. His talk was filled with optimism and he gave the men some valuable pointers.

Supervisor Henry Overgne, of the home office, followed, and he gave a few interesting figures. He said that in 1892, ten years ago, the collections amounted to $7,500,000, while in 1902 it was $31,000,000. The new business ten years ago amounted to $97,000,000, while last year it was $272,000,000. The insurance in force ten years ago was $193,000,000 and last year it reached $802,000,000. Mr. Overgne was pleased to announce that there was a decrease in lapses and he urged the men to beat the company's and their own record this year.

Supervisor G. W. Mansick, also of Newark, was the next speaker and he briefly cited a few of the essential qualifications of a successful agent. He said that the agent must believe in his business, in his company and in himself. He believed that the Prudential Insurance Company is one of the greatest companies on earth, if not the largest and showed how other companies had copied its methods. He said that everything but life insurance costs more today and the company is planning to give its men more money.

Assistant Superintendent Hope, of Somerville, one of the hustlers in the company, gave a short talk telling of the success attained in that field. He reported 6,000 policies in force with 4,000 more people to insure. He was followed by Chief Clerk Louis V. Ash, of Newark, who gave a brief and interesting talk of the company's success. Division Manager Edward S. Alston's talk was listened to with great interest for he told of the work in the Plainfield district. He said that Plainfield stood sixth last year on a per rata basis, first in securing ordinary business and ninth in industrial, and sixth in joint results. Seven agents wrote $130,000 worth of business and among the honor men he mentioned Agents Haley, Schibel, Bailey, Riddle, Ball, Seals and Hulsizer. He spoke of a new plan just inaugurated to increase the salaries of the agents and he said it must meet with success.

The speech-making was concluded by Joseph Atkinson, editor of the Weekly Record, published by the Prudential Insurance Company. He gave a rousing talk and filled the men with enthusiasm to go forward and do more business than ever. He urged all to read the Weekly Record. He considered the twenty-seven year life of the Prudential one of marvelous growth, which he believed was due to the efforts of President J. F. Dryden and Vice President Leslie D. Ward.

In all there were forty-four guests at the dinner, and all but two were directly connected with the Prudential. All joined in hearty words of praise for Superintendent Ball and promised to stand by him in the future even better than in the past.

SECOND "AT HOME."

Given by Mrs. W. B. Wadsworth and Her Daughter.

The second and last "at home" given by Mrs. W. B. Wadsworth at her home on West Eighth street, was held Thursday afternoon between 4 and 7 o'clock. The receiving party included Mrs. W. B. Wadsworth, Miss Mary Wadsworth, Mrs. J. F. Harmon, Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, Mrs. Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Miss Lou Symmes, of Hartford, Conn., Miss Helen Martin and Miss Marjorie Fleming. Those who presided at the tea table were Mrs. Fred G. Meade and Mrs. John Gray Foster.

The decoration were of pink and green which gave to the parlors and reception hall a very charming appearance.

Result of Icy Plunge.

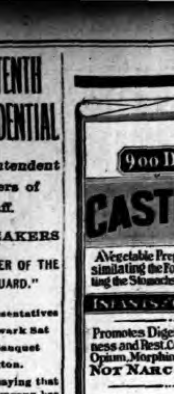
Charles Holstein, of Summit avenue, who was one of two boys who fell into Tier's pond recently while skating, is now in a critical condition suffering with tonsilitis as a result of the wetting received that day. Dr. Hedges is in attendance.

Won a Pipe.

In the contest for a meerschaum pipe which was held at the cigar store of Herrman Keller, on Somerset street, the prize was won by Thomas Waldron, of Lincoln place. The highest number was 43 which was held by Mr. Waldron.

Supper for Workingmen.

A delightful supper was served last Thursday at the Y. M. C. A. for the benefit of the workingmen of this city. There were fourteen present. Miss Pessinger, Miss May Howlett and Miss Deborah Winn assisted in serving the supper.



EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

PLANS FOR STATE MEETING

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS OF JERSEY GETTING READY FOR CONVENTION.

Although It Will Not Be Held Until Next October at Orange.

The executive committee of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union met in Newark this week and began its work of outlining the work for the State convention to be held at Orange in October. There was a large attendance, nearly every county in the State being represented. Rev. W. T. S. Lanahar, State president, occupied the chair.

The programme committee, consisting of Rev. B. B. Ware, of Camden; Rev. Dr. Cornelius Brett, of Jersey City; Rev. A. Edwin Kerigwin, of Newark; Rev. P. T. Pockman, of New Brunswick, and Rev. J. R. Thompson, of Bound Brook, reported that the programme for the State gathering will provide for a two days' meeting. October 15 and 16. There will be a report from each of the nine State departments, to be followed by an open parliament. The convention sermon and four addresses will be delivered by prominent Endeavor pastors throughout the State and adjoining States.

Rev. Dr. F. E. Clark, president of the United Endeavor Society, and former general secretary, John Willis Baer will be two of the principal speakers. The usual conferences and rallies will be held and a junior parade will be a feature of one of the afternoon sessions. An effort will be made to secure a ten per cent. increase in membership by July 1. This is in charge of a special committee. Several minor changes will be made in the State constitution, a committee being appointed for that purpose.

RAIDED COAL TRAIN.

Crowd Boarded Stalled Train and Coal Was Plentiful for a While.

Coal in a certain section of the West End is more plentiful today than it has been since high prices put it out of reach of most poor people. It all came about through a New Jersey Central train, heavily laden, with the precious anthracite, getting stalled on the grade just below Plainfield avenue, Saturday afternoon.

The wheels had barely stopped revolving before a swarm of men, women and children to the number of fifty poured out of back yards and clambered on top of the cars. Coal was kicked, shoveled and dragged off, while the trainmen looked on helpless. It appeared as though everybody would get a supply for the next six months when the raid was stopped by a pushing engine getting the train in motion.

Made An Officer.

Bert A. Brown, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Bristol, Conn., was recently elected secretary and treasurer of the Bristol Specialty Company. Mr. Brown is also consulting engineer at the Bristol Electric Light and Power Works.

IS GOOD INDIAN NOW.

Love Led Allen Walking Shield to the Gallows.

Hanged for Murder of His Sweetheart's Old Mother—Three Years at Carlisle Changed the Girl's Sentiments.

Allen Walking Shield, a full-blooded Sioux Indian, was hanged at Sioux Falls, South Dakota, the other day because the white man's civilization estranged his sweetheart, and because his attempt to elope with her ended neither his way nor her mother's.

Walking Shield were till his death long, native hair and wrapped a gaudy vermilion blanket about him when he slept in his tepee; so he didn't understand why Mabel Ghost-Faced Bear wore strange clothes when she came back from Carlisle Indian school, and why she looked over his head when he sought to claim her. But he tried the white man's way—went at dead of night to get her and carry her away into the Bad Lands. But it went wrong, for her mamma, Mary Ghost-Faced Bear, intercepted him and he shot her, and now is dead that his sweetheart might have retribution.

Ten or 12 years ago, when Walking Shield was but a reckless, stalwart boy, the Indian maiden admired his prowess and the two became friends. Walking Shield's native restlessness found vent when he robbed the store of Sylvan Winter, the post trader at Ewer Brule agency. With tools passed to him by the Indian girl, he scaled his way from the jail. He ran to safety amid the bullets of the guards, jumping from side to side in zigzag fashion as an Indian does when trying to avoid the marksman's aim.

Walking Shield was now a hero among the Indians, and the officers did not rearrest him, fearing an uprising. Six years ago he and his brother were put in the Deadwood jail for stealing cattle. His brother committed suicide, and one night Walking Shield struck out for the foot hills, and was not recaptured.

"BUT WHAT WAS THAT NOISE?"

While these adventures injured his social standing among the Sioux in no way nor the affection of the girl for him, they were not pleasing to Mrs. Ghost-Faced Bear. Mabel was told in the "ki-vi talk" never to see her lover again. Red blood runs under red skin as well as white, and Mabel Ghost-Faced Bear whispered to Allen Walking Shield she would go with him to some far hunting ground. Walking Shield rode to the cabin lodge one night, but Mrs. Mary Ghost-Faced Bear expected him and the girl was locked in her room.

The next day Mabel was taken to the agency and the outgoing stage carried her away to the Carlisle Indian school. It was three years after when she came back. She was a different girl. Half-civilized now, she shuddered at Walking Shield's deviltry. She would have none of him. Walking Shield went to his tepee and smoked long at a pipe of kinnikinick. It was Mrs. Ghost-Faced Bear who kept the girl from him. Mrs. Ghost-Faced Bear must be pushed away. He decided to wait.

The night of May 8 last the skies were black with tumbling clouds. The gurglings of the approaching storm drove the red men to their tents. But Walking Shield did not sleep. At midnight he saddled his broncho and rode away to the cabin lodge of Mary Ghost-Faced Bear. In front of her door he stopped. The lightning's flashes and the expostulations of the thunder excited his petulant blood and he was soon half crazed. Suddenly he lifted his Winchester to his shoulder and fired through the door.

There was a startled cry within, and a moment later the Indian saw in a flash of yellow light the woman's face at the door. She swung it shut, bolted it and carried away. Walking Shield fired through the back window and the woman fell dead.

A moment later Walking Shield was rousing the girl he sought. "Somebody shot at me as I passed the tepee," he panted. "Your mother has gone for the police."

"But what was that noise?" asked the girl, as she passed her mother, gasping on the floor.

"It's nothing; just the spitting of the lightning," he urged, as he stepped outside and closed the door.

For answer the powerful Indian clutched her about the waist, lifted her to the pony's back and rode away down the nearest gulch. But a week later he gave himself up.

THEY SOUGHT QUAIL

But the Englishman's Dogs Got Polecats Instead.

They Liked a Strong Scent and Had No Difficulty in Finding It—One of Senator Vest's Best Hunting Stories.

Senator Vest has told many stories, but one experience of his has not reached the general reader. It occurred many years ago, but the senator, telling it not long ago, was still chuckling.

In his younger days Senator Vest was an ardent hunter and an authority on the wild life of the prairies. He was living on the advance line of civilization and his home was known far and wide for its cordial and abundant hospitality. There Mr. Vest one day received a visit from a rich and famous hunter from London, who brought a letter of introduction from a friend living in the English capital. And the Englishman had brought with him his own hunting dogs. Senator Vest has dogs of his own and he could not repress his surprise, but the Englishman asked him to wait and see. They drove for many miles and finally the wagon was left in care of the men, and Mr. Vest and the Englishman started out on the quest. They did well. The dogs of the Englishman were not worth much, but the Missouri breed gave excellent sport.

"Just wait and give my dogs a chance," declared the Englishman. "All they need is a stronger scent."

"They got it," said the senator, telling the story to a New York Sun man. "Yes, they got it. Some distance away was a little hill and in the side of the little hill were little holes. Suddenly the Englishman's dog got the stronger scent and started for the little hill with the little holes.

"'Call them back,' I shouted to the Englishman.

"'Oh, no,' he replied. 'Now they've got it. Now they've got it.'

"'They will get it if they don't keep away from there,' I answered. But with all I could do I could not call him back. He would not listen and he got so excited that he started on a run after his dogs.

"Well, it was my time to be moving, too, for I knew what was coming; so

HON. GEORGE G. VEST,
Missouri Senator Who Can Tell a Story and Make a Speech.)

I called my dogs and made for the wagon as fast as the good Lord would let me. Just as I crawled in I turned and saw the show, and I never pitied anybody in my life as much as I did that Englishman with the dogs that wanted a stronger scent. Out of the holes came little animals and you never saw such a mix up in your life. The dogs ran for the Englishman and jumped around him for protection. Then the Englishman tried to get away from the dogs for protection, too, and the whole combination started for the wagon.

"'Put the whip to the horses,' I told my man, 'and don't let them get within half a mile of us.'"

"'Hi, there, wait for me!' cried the Englishman.

"'Keep your distance,' I responded, and to do me justice I said, 'While I'm up.'

So we went mile after mile over that prairie. I pitied the Englishman from the bottom of my heart, but there are times when pity must not get too close. I kept him in sight so that he should not miss the way, but he had to walk. Once in a while he would run as though I would allow him to catch up with the wagon, but every time he did we put on more speed. When we neared town, I had to call back to him that his company would not be desirable for at least 24 hours. I never saw him again."

"And the little animals in the little holes in the little hill, senator?" Mr. Vest was asked.

"Polecats," replied the senator. "The English man had read about quail living in holes in the prairie hills and he wouldn't change his mind when I tried to explain things to him. But those dogs of his certainly did get all the scent they wanted—there was no mistake about that."

Died for Her Baby Brother.

One of the touching stories of the sacrifice comes from a little town in northern Wisconsin, where a six-year-old child died for her baby brother. The baby had been left in the yard, sleeping in its buggy, and the sister had been asked to go out and see to him. There she little girl saw a big rattlesnake coiled at the feet of the infant, and, realizing the danger, seized a broom and tried to kill the reptile. The snake, disturbed, darted at the little girl, coiled around the handle of the broom and slipped down it, striking its fangs into the child's neck. The infant boy was untouched, but the motherly baby sister died in great agony.

THISTLE CLUB DIDN'T FORGET BOBBIE BURNS

Anniversary of Birth of Scottish Bard Was Celebrated Saturday Evening.

'TWAS A GREAT TIME

FITTING CEREMONIES WERE HELD AT K. OF P. HALL.

There Was Singing, Instrumental Music and Recitations and Then All Joined in the Famous Scottish Ballads.

The 144th anniversary of the birth of "Bobbie" Burns, the Scottish poet for whom every true son and daughter of the Land of the Heather cherishes an affection, was observed with fitting ceremonies by the Thistle Club, Saturday evening. They were held in K. of P. Hall and the affair proved a characteristic gathering of Scotchmen, informality prevailing during the entire evening.

Alex. McDuff, president of the club, presided as chairman and announced the following programme: Songs by Thomas Hendry, James Stewart, Alex Fraser, Alex. Campbell, Mrs. William Wilson, Miss Jessie Campbell, Mrs. William Gray and Mrs. William Nicholson; violin selections by William Wilson and Hugh Gray and recitations by Alex Fraser. Interspersing these, remarks appropriate to the occasion were made by the chairman and by Councilman William Gloak and Robert Kenney. Afterward the gathering united in singing many of the familiar Scotch ballads, several of which were favorites of the great poet.

The concluding feature of the evening was the serving of a genuine Scotch supper with all the favorite edibles, including scones and oat cakes, prepared in the main by Mrs. David Bowden and Mrs. Head. It was thoroughly enjoyed.

The entertainment committee which arranged the details and supervised consisted of William Gray, Arthur Campbell and David Bowden.

MUST BUILD.

Primary Department of Trinity Sunday-School Has Outgrown Quarters—Must Have More Room.

On account of the steady increase in the primary department of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, the Consistory is seriously considering plans for building an addition to the rear of the church, which would give the department just twice as much room as it now has and would give Pastor Schenck a study room. Plans are now out for this addition and the matter will be brought before the Consistory at its next meeting.

In case the addition is built it will occupy all the extra ground from the present structure to the alley in the rear.

Church Open Daily.

Following the custom of a number of New York churches, the Brick Presbyterian church, of which Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, is the pastor, has been open to the public daily between the hours of 9 a. m., and 5 p. m. A sign on the front of the building announces that all are welcome there for rest, meditation and prayer. This is the second Presbyterian church thus to open its doors to visitors and worshippers every day.

After Borough Taxes.

Henry Meyers, constable and deputy collector of borough taxes is still "gathering in the sheaves" across the brook. He is making hay while the sun shines and is making a personal visitation on all boroughites who have neglected to pass in their checks in payment of their taxes. There are now only a few who have not paid up.

New Place of Worship.

Hereafter the Swedish Lutheran congregation will hold its services in the German Lutheran church instead of Grace P. E. chapel. The meeting hour has been arranged for 3:30 Sunday afternoons. The Sewing Circle connected with the church will meet Thursday evening at 122 Madison avenue.

Freedom Castle's Anniversary.

Preparations are already under way for the observance of the second anniversary of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, to be celebrated next month. Horace J. Martin is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Plaintiff Wins.

Justice Huff has given a verdict for the plaintiff in the contract suit of the Brown Powder Works against the Manhattan Heating and Ventilating Company. Carlos Gallup represented the plaintiff.

Progressive Euchre.

There will be a progressive euchre party at the Park Club, Tuesday evening, February 3.

SOCIETY FOLK MEET AT VARIOUS GAMES

Friday Night Club Provides Some New Amusements at Casino Last Friday.

SOME CONTESTS ENDED

NEXT WEEK WILL SEE A HIGHLY ORIGINAL CHAFING DISH CONTEST.

Progressive Hearts Was the Chief Feature, While the Ping-Pong and the Bowling Tournaments Were Ended.

The Friday Night Club met last Friday for the third time since it was organized and the Casino was again the scene of a very animated assemblage of people who spent the evening in the several contests arranged by the committee and in social intercourse. Something new was introduced at the meeting and that was the serving of refreshments by a corps of waiting maids.

The main feature of the meeting was progressive hearts. There were nineteen tables in the main reception room of the hall and the game was continued until shortly after 10 o'clock. Each table kept its own score. A Japanese playing card case was the women's prize and was won by Miss Anna Miller. The men's prize was a stag horn silver mounted cork screw and was won by Alex. VanOst.

Last week a bowling tournament was started and it was played off with Dr. F. C. Ard the winner of the men's prize and Miss Helen Brown the successful competitor for the women's prize. The trophy was a silver cup provided for this tournament by the committee.

The ping-pong tournament which was opened the first night the club met was also played off. The prizes were two silver cups, one for the women and the other for the men. Frederick W. Clark won the men's prize and Miss Margaret Goddard scored highest for the women's prize.

Games of badminton, ping-pong, pool and billiards were played during the evening. In order to secure more room for other games the ping-pong tables, excepting those where the tournament was being played off, were placed upon the stage in the main hall.

Next week the feature of the evening will be a chafing dish contest in which there will be a score of chafing dishes presided over by amateur chefs and a suitable prize will be offered for the best viand cooked in this manner. This will prove to be a unique feature as well as an enjoyable one.

COLOR DANCE.

Everybody Who Goes to Anniversary Dance of I. C. T. Must be Dressed in Red.

At a special meeting, held Saturday evening, the members of the I. C. T. Club decided to hold its anniversary dance on Tuesday evening, February 10, instead of the following night as was originally planned.

The affair will have many unique features, as it will be the first of a series of "color" dances, so much in vogue among the colleges. Every attendant is required to be dressed in red so far as possible, the women wearing red dresses and the men student gowns of a red material. Red dominoes will cover the features thus making it a masquerade. In this way a very pretty effect is gained and a great deal of amusement is occasioned.

The second in the series will be orange and the third blue, thus forming the colors of the club.

TO FURNISH ROOM.

Willing Workers of Trinity Church Reached Decision at a Social.

The Willing Workers, of Trinity Reformed church, tendered a surprise last Friday to Mrs. Oscar Woolley, of Watchung avenue and Race street. The evening was very pleasantly spent in games and enjoying instrumental music.

Early in the evening the party, numbering thirty, gathered at the residence of Lafayette Rosenstiel, of Somerset street, and from there went to Mrs. Woolley's home where they burst in upon the unsuspecting host, quite bewildering her.

During the evening it was decided to furnish the class room at the church, the funds for which will be raised among the members.

Attended Installation.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander, Mrs. Edward Townley, Col. Perry and Miss Lida Day were among those present at the installation of officers of Hancock Division, Union Veterans' Union, in New York, Tuesday evening.

Dr. Richards to Address.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, will address the King's Missionary Circle, at Warren chapel, Thursday evening, Feb. 5, at 8 o'clock.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1903. NO. 6.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison

CORONER'S JURY BEGINS ITS INVESTIGATION AS TO CAUSES OF THE WESTFIELD DISASTER

First Session of the Coroner's Inquest Was Held Tuesday Afternoon, When Twelve Witnesses Were Sworn and Examined.

TWO WRITTEN STATEMENTS, BY ENGINEER DAVIS, ON HIS DEATH BED, WERE READ.

A beginning was made Tuesday afternoon in the effort to fix the responsibility for the Westfield disaster. The coroner's inquest held its initial session in the Council Chamber. Twelve witnesses were examined. They did not bring to light anything startling although they furnished some additional details which had heretofore been unknown. The inquest was conducted with the most utmost publicity and the session was open to all. Two statements, made by Engineer Davis the night before he died, were read. One of them was the famous ante-mortem statement which was made to Chief Kiely. They proved, afterall, to simply confirm the stories of Engineer Davis' final statement as already published.

There was a little uncertainty before the beginning of the inquest as to what line would be pursued. There was some question as to the ability of any witnesses to testify that the body of John Currid was found in the wreck. In case the necessary witnesses could not be secured, it was planned to have the jury view the remains of J. Everitt Reighton and conduct the inquest into the manner of his death and who was responsible. The chain of evidence in the Currid case was complete, however, and it was not necessary to resort to the other plan.

Much interest was taken in the proceedings. While the space inside the rail in the Council Chamber was filled with reporters and witnesses, the public had a chance to hear from the visitors' benches outside. These were filled early in the afternoon and many remained standing throughout the session. Coroner P. Du Bois Bunting occupied the chair of the president of the Council with Herbert W. Knight, court stenographer, of Newark, in front of him. On his left hand sat the members of the jury in the following order: Foreman Charles J. Fisk, City Treasurer Wm. F. Arnold, School Trustee Floyd T. Woodhull, President of the Common Council James F. Backie and Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett. On the right was the host of reporters representing the New York, Philadelphia, Newark and local newspapers. Directly in front sat County Prosecutor N. C. J. English, who conducted the investigation and directed the examination of the witnesses. With him sat his assistant, John K. English, with whom he was in frequent consultation. At this table with the Prosecutor were City Judge William N. Runyon, Counsellor Francis J. Blain, County Physician F. W. Westcott and Chief Kiely. The witnesses were grouped around the room.

While Prosecutor English was in charge of the examination of the witnesses, Former Mayor Fisk exercised his right to ask questions. There was not a witness on the stand that he did not ply with questions, many of which were very pertinent and which brought out some facts heretofore unknown. There were occasional [questions] by the other members, chiefly from Mr. Backie and Mr. Gavett.

It had been expected that the railroad company would have its attorney at hand to assist in the examination. Lawyer C. J. Conover, of Jersey City, who is one of the counsel for the Jersey Central, was present but he had nothing to say and kept well in the background.

Yesterday's session only started the investigation. Fifty witnesses have been subpoenaed and there may be more before the inquest is over. The adjournment was taken until Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock and it is expected that the investigation will then proceed without delay. At the close of the session yesterday afternoon, Prosecutor English remarked that he had received a letter from Philadelphia telling him that if he summoned the witnesses, as he afterwards did, they would expose the iniquity of the railroad. On the contrary, Mr. English declared the men had proved good witnesses for the railroad. But now to the inquest itself.

There was a moment's delay to allow the photographers to take a flash light picture of the room and then at 2:15 o'clock Coroner P. Du-Bois Bunting brought the inquest to order. The roll was called by Constable Peter V. Weaver and Coroner Bunting read the charge to the jury.

County Prosecutor N. C. J. English made a short statement in which he declared that he intended to prove whose body it was on which the in*quest was held and to learn concerning* the accident, the condition of the engine, and the condition of the signals. He asked the jury to remember that the proceedings were not being conducted on an accusation but were an investigation and it was not his intention to favor one party or another but simply to learn the truth.

Dr. Westcott was the first witness called. He said that he believed John Currid met his death near Westfield on the evening of January 27, his body being recognized by a New Jersey Central pass. It would not have been possible to otherwise identify it. The body was found in the ruins of a car. He was satisfied with the identity of the body.

T. J. Roysanne, telegraph operator of Dunellen, was next called as knowing John Currid. He had known the dead man thirteen years. Things found on the body satisfied him that it was Currid.

F. S. Martin, of 950 Hillside avenue, testified that he was a passenger on the wrecked train, known as the Easton local. He was in the rear car. He said:

"When the train stopped I was sitting in an aisle seat. I noticed we were on the main tracks. I went to the rear door and stood on the platform. The rear brakeman was down the track a hundred yards with a lantern. I then noticed the head-light of a locomotive near the Westfield station, coming toward us very fast. I then shouted to the other passengers to get out of danger; at the same time I jumped and climed up the embankment."

Mr. Martin said he did not notice any signals, except those used by the brakeman of the train who went back. He carried two lanterns which he waved. The witness explained the custom of shifting the Easton local at Cranford and said he did not notice any flagman but kept his eyes on the approaching train.

Former Assemblyman Roger F. Murray, of 901 Madison avenue, was the next witness called. He had been a passenger in the fourth car. He was sitting five or six seats from the door on the north side. The car rose up on one side and then dropped back. He found the rear door too much smashed to escape from and, with the assistance of others passengers, helped some women out of the front door. With others he crawled under the wreck of the next car and assisted in getting some of the imprisoned passengers out. They finally retired as the flames were approaching and they were warned that the top would fall. That was really all they could do. He thought the car he was in was heated by steam. He saw the fire before he left the car but afterward saw no gas tanks in the fire. He did not think the flames started from the fire box of the engine.

It looked to him as if two cars had been crushed together and a third thrown on its side. The rear of the other car had been smashed. He did not know how many were killed. He was present when Mr. Thayer breathed his last and helped get several bodies out. He also saw other bodies lying on the bank.

Charles C. Burnett, of 830 Madison avenue, testified that he was on the 5:45 train and occupied a seat in the second car from the rear. He moved about considerable as he felt rather uneasy. He could not explain this feeling of unrest. When he discovered the Easton train was on the main track he felt constrained to move to a forward car. Mr. Burnett said that three of the wrecked cars were filled with the old-fashioned stoves and the fourth car had a Baker heater. He did not hear any signal blow prior to the crash. After the collision Mr. Burnett said that passengers found axes in the forward part of the train. Mr. Burnett's injuries consisted of bruises.

John R. Day, of Easton, conductor of the Easton local, No. 13, told that his train left Jersey City two minutes late. At his first stop at Elizabeth, he received instructions to proceed ahead of No. 631, the Philadelphia express, from Cranford Junction to Dunellen. He identified a copy of the order, signed E. K., Superintendent, as the one he received. After leaving he heard a squealing which indicated to him a dry hot box. He walked through the train looking for it when a brakeman told him it was on the tender. Then the train began to slow up on that account. He insisted, on Prosecutor English's repeated questions, that the engineer was justified in stopping for that reason. Had he continued, Day said, the disaster might have been greater.

"Not greater," observed the Prosecutor.

Day continued that the engineer had received a copy of the special orders and that he, Day, had given them. Day then told of the stop, sending back the brakeman and the repairs made to the tender. Before he boarded the train again Day looked back and could not see the approaching express. He thought he could see as far back as Garwood. Then the engineer gave the signal, calling in the flagman. Day boarded the train and as nearly as he could judge it started a minute later. He thought the train had gone 300 yards when the crash came. He thought that the train had stopped partially in one block and partially in another. When the collision occurred he first thought the journal on the tender had broken but quickly saw what had happened. After telling of his work at the wreck, he answered some questions of Foreman Fisk regarding the block system. When the red light was shown, the orders were, he said, to stop one minute and then proceed cautiously. There were eight cars in the train, two of the last cars being old ones. They were lighted with Pintsch gas. Some of the old cars had Baker steam heaters in them and he could not remember whether these cars had or not.

In answer to further questioning by Prosecutor English, Conductor Day said his brakeman did his duty when the train stopped and went back. He didn't remember calling to him to hurry. When Day went back to Westfield station to report the accident he noticed the block signals were as they should be, one red and one green. In answer to a question from a juror, Day said that it meant dismissal for an engineer who was known to pass a red signal without making the minute stop.

Dr. Westcott was recalled to testify as to who the engineer of the Philadelphia train was. He saw him in a little house at Westfield. His pelvic bone was broken, and the flesh was torn away. He afterward saw the engineer at the hospital, when he wanted to get a statement from him. The latter was evasive every time, claiming he wanted time to think it over.

Afterward Dr. Westcott and John Morris, of the railroad company, went to see Davis to get a statement, but it was not obtained until the evening of January 28.

Dr. Westcott read the statement which Engineer Davis made to him on the evening of January 28. The statement is as follows:

"I started from Jersey City going west at 6:13 p. m., with a leaking steam chest which had been cracked for a month or so; steam in large quantities was escaping and it was necessary for me to shut down to see the tower signal. I said to the fireman we must go carefully in order to see signals. We arrived at Elizabeth two minutes late. Between Cranford and Westfield the front injector broke and jumping up to put it back I missed my signal after passing Cranford. I saw the Westfield station and the passenger train when within sixty feet of it. I applied the emergency brakes and knew no more until I found myself in the back of the cab with a car seat upon and fire all around me. I am 34 years old and have been an engineer for 13 years."

Sworn and subscribed before me on this 28th day of January, 1903.

James Davis.

F. W. Westcott,
Commissioner of Deeds.

Justice Fred J. Huff, of New street, was called.

"Are you a justice of the peace?" asked the Prosecutor. Huff nodded.

"Then I'll take the liberty to call you squire."

Huff told how he had been summoned to Muhlenberg Hospital by Chief Kiely to take a statement from Engineer Davis. He read the statement which was as follows:

New Jersey S. S:

James Davis, being duly sworn, according to law, on his oath deposes and says: That he lives at No. 1555 Seltzer street, Philadelphia, Pa., and that he was the engineer of the express train, engine No. 27, of the P. & R. R. R. Co., leaving Jersey City at 6:13 o'clock.

"We left Philadelphia with engine No. 632, but cut off at Trenton on account of being hot; that is, a hot box. They gave us engine No. 27 there. I took her to Jersey City. The engine had a crack in the steam chest on the left side; the valve steam packing blowing very much which prevented me from seeing signals at every junction or crossing. I had to shut the engine off to see the signals. The signals at Roselle and Cranford were all right. I shut the engine off and let her drift to get a view of signals and they were both white. It became necessary for me to get the injector, and came up to one signal and could not see what it was and passed it. The first I knew of the accident was when I saw the train ahead of me about sixty feet and I put the emergency brake on and then the crash came. I stayed right in my cab I felt something burning my leg and I thought I would burn. I asked the fireman on the way to West Eighth street if he could see anything wrong, and I told him that we would have to lose time at every station to see signals. This engine has been leaking for a month. The local train is ran on track No. 4 but last night they ran it on track No. 2."

Sworn and subscribed to this 28th day of January, 1903.

James Davis.

Frederick J. Huff,
Notary Public of New Jersey.
(Seal.)

Witness: Patrick S. Kiely.

This statement, Huff said, had been read over to Davis and he understood it. The only ones present at the bedside, besides Huff and Chief Kiely, were his two brothers. Davis had also said he had complained against an engine and they had given him a new one from Trenton. He said something about getting a milk train engine but Huff didn't remember exactly what.

Daniel H. Dester, master mechanic of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, said that he understood Engineer Davis had a good record. He heard that engine No. 27 was put on at Trenton Junction the morning of the day of the wreck. It was sent to Philadelphia to be run on the New York division of the Reading.

The witness said that engine 27 was sent out on a milk train. He had noticed the steam leaking and had ordered the engine out of service. It was sent to Third and Berks streets for repairs. The repairs were made consisting of new pistons, new cylinder packing and was generally overhauled. This was between January 9 to 17.

The witness said he knew the engine did leak and that it was repaired. He saw nothing that would interfere with the engineer's sight. The leaking was on the left side of the engine. He asked his foreman if the crack was perfectly tight and was assured that it was. He never received a complaint about the engine after it was repaired. It was previously ran on the Atlantic City Railroad, being taken off of that run in the winter.

Mr. Dester said that an engineer is

[CONTINUED ON PAGE 2.]

AN EXTRA MAN IN EVERY CAB

Assemblyman Swackhamer Introduces a Bill in House Providing for a Third Man.

AT SESSION TUESDAY

His Bill Provides That There Shall be a Pilot or Assistant Engineer in the Cab of Every Passenger Locomotive in the State—The Other Legislative Business.

Trenton, Feb. 3—Although there was much interest in the Legislature over the proposed legislation relative to the Westfield disaster, there was much of importance done at yesterday's session of Senate and House. The Senate heard the report of the voting machine commission and other matters. Bills were introduced, the most important being one increasing the appropriation for good roads to $350,000 a year.

In the House, too, bills came up for consideration. Assemblyman Newcorn's resolution calling for the appointment of a commission to investigate the wreck has started no end of talk. Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer added to the bills on the subject by introducing the following:

An act concerning the running of passenger trains in the State of New Jersey.

Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey.

1. It shall be unlawful, from and after the passage of this act for any steam railroad company doing business in the State of New Jersey to run or operate any passenger train on any road or branch of road within this State, unless there shall be provided a pilot or assistant engineer who shall accompany the engineer in charge of any and all passenger trains on said roads, which said pilot or assistant engineer shall be qualified in all respects to run and operate said engine.

2. Any superintendent or assistant superintendent, train master or assistant train master, road foreman of engine, or assistant road foreman of engine, or any other official of any railroad company doing business in the State of New Jersey violating any provision of this act shall upon conviction thereof be fined for the first offense not more than five hundred dollars, or be imprisoned in the County Jail for a period not exceeding six months, and for each additional offense of this act shall, upon conviction, be fined not more than one thousand dollars, or be imprisoned in the County Jail for a period not exceeding two years or both in the discretion of the Court.

3. This act shall take effect immediately.

LOTS OF PRESS.

Was Well Handled at Local Office of Western Union Telegraph Co.

The Western Union Telegraph Company office at the North Avenue station executed a great amount of business Tuesday. In the absence of Manager C. H. Schermerborn, the office was in charge of John A. Gaffney and he personally gave his time and attention to the quick disposition of all business. Over 14,000 words of press matter were sent direct to Trenton, Philadelphia and New York. Mr. Gaffney was ably assisted by Harry Bennett, Victor Peterson and W. C. Randolph, extra operators, and an extra force of messenger boys was ably controlled by the management of the office. This press was in addition to the regular business of the office.

To Regain His Health.

Rev. E. E. Jackson, pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, left this morning for Southern Pines, N. C., where he will remain for the next two months regaining his health and strength. During his absence Rev. Mr. Crudup, of this city, will occupy the pulpit at the church.

Result of Dance.

The officers of the Children's Home Association gratefully acknowledge the receips from the junior subscription dance, given at Christmas time, the sum of $22 55, through F. A. Martin, J. Hartley Mellick and Gordon W. Abbott.

—Fire department called by telephone. The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company.

SINGLE FUNERAL FOR FATHER AND DAUGHTER

Samuel Boss Fatally Stricken in House Where His Daughter Lay Dead.

HE DIED LAST TUESDAY

THEY WILL BE BURIED TOGETHER AT HILLSIDE THIS AFTERNOON.

Mr. Boss Had Just Returned From a Walk Late in the Afternoon, When He Was Stricken—He Passed Away Shortly After.

While his daughter lay dead in the front parlor of his home at the corner of Craig place and Deer street, Samuel Boss returned to the house Tuesday afternoon after visiting friends, and suffered a stroke of paralysis and died in a short while. Dr. Hughes, of Somerset street, was called in but life was almost spent and the aged man gradually passed away. It is believed that the stroke was partially brought on by grief over the death of his daughter. Her husband was overcome with faintness after assisting in the care of Mr. Boss and was unconscious for two hours.

Mr. Boss was sixty-three years of age and for the past twelve years has lived in this city. When he first came here he resided at the corner of Central avenue and Fifth street. He was born in Hunterdon county where he followed the agricultural vocation for a time. He accepted a position as traveling buyer for a number of New York commission houses. During the Civil War he was a provost marshal in Hunterdon county.

He is survived by his wife, Emily K. Boss, and two daughters, Miss Sarah Boss and Mrs. L. M. Hummer.

His daughter, Mrs. J. Phillip Kirch, died at the home of her father Monday morning. The double funeral will be held this afternoon at 3:45. The interment will be in Hillside cemetery. Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, will officiate at the services.

TO ACT AS AGENT.

Honduras Syndicate Will Manage Affairs for the Plainfield Banana Growers Company.

The Honduras Syndicate, which operates the Honduras Railroad, has agreed to act as agent for the Plainfield Banana Growers' Company for ten per cent. of the net profits.

The Plainfield company's affairs should certainly be well managed with Mayor Olin L. Jenkins as president, J. Fred MacDonald as treasurer, and Frank H. Smith as secretary, to look out for the Plainfield end and with the management in Honduras in the hands of such a Board of Directors as Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, Col. John Jacob Astor, F. A. Govett, Frederic R. Jennings, Gov. J. G. McCullough, Chas. H. Johnson, Wm. Radcliff, Geo. S. Scott, Henry L. Sprague, Washington S. Valentine and W. Seward Webb.

If the Honduras Syndicate is willing to take charge of all the practical part of the business for ten per cent. of the net profits, the Plainfield subscribers ought certainly to make a handsome profit out of the ninety per cent. balance.

PURSE FOR ORGANIST.

A Pleasant Surprise at the Swedish Evangelical Church.

A pleasant surprise was in store for J. Tinglof, organist of the Swedish Evangelical church, at the choir rehearsal, Saturday evening, when the congregation of that church presented him with a purse containing $25 as a token of the appreciation of his faithful services at that church. The committee who arranged the surprise comprised Rev. O. G. Norseen, Mrs. C. W. Johnson and Mrs. A. Annette Brandt.

Prize Choristers.

The prize choristers of Grace church for January were Herbert Grant, Clarence Steiner, and the Misses Nina Sampson and Carrie Fuller. Miss Fuller received the Grace church cross.

In New Offices.

Lawyer Charles M. Dolliver has taken possession of his new offices in the Vanderbeck building. They are well adapted to his needs and they are comfortably furnished.

—Press want ads pay.

—Protect your home. Telephone service does it. The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company.

FUNERAL WAS MILITARY ONE

Company K Honored Memory of Its Former Member, J. Everitt Reighton.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES

Funeral Was Held From Trinity Reformed Church Tuesday Afternoon—Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck Officiated—Reformed Service—Volley at the Grave.

One of the most impressive funeral services seen in this city in years was that of J. Everitt Reighton, Tuesday afternoon, in Trinity Reformed church. The services were of a military nature and were very largely attended. The interment was in Hillside cemetery where the remains were placed to their last resting place.

The funeral procession left the house at 1945 Park avenue at 2 o'clock and were escorted to the church by the Independent Fife and Drum Corps and the members of Company K in full uniform. From the house to the church the sound of muffled drums and the mournful notes of the fife drew large numbers of people to the curb to witness the solemn pageant. As the remains were being borne into the church on West Second street the fifers of the Independent corps played "Nearer My God to Thee," unaccompanied by the drums.

As the flag draped casket was being carried to the front of the church a funeral dirge was rendered upon the organ. The entire front of the church was occupied by floral pieces.

A choir, composed of members of Company K, rendered several of the favorite hymns of the deceased. Those who formed the choir were Robert M. Clark, Captain Wm. H. Martin, A. I. Liddell and Walter Sampson.

Rev. A. V. Tulp, of the Theological Seminary, New Brunswick, read the Scripture lesson followed by prayer by Rev. Mr. Watts, of the Reformed church, New Dover. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of the departed, read several comforting selections from the Bible and also delivered an eulogy over the remains. His remarks were full of comfort to the bereaved parents and friends of the deceased. He likened the demise of the young man to the death of David's son, and asked them to take comfort like David in that while his son could not return to the bereaved parents they could go to him.

After the singing of a hymn, "Abide With Me," the congregation remained in the seats until after the remains had been borne out of the church to the waiting hearse.

The march was resumed to the cemetery, led by the uniformed soldiers. The firing of the volley at the grave marked the final repose of one of those who lost their lives in the horrible wreck.

OPENED ITS DOORS.

Martha Washington Council, D. of A., Entertained Its Friends and Lodge Members Tuesday.

Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., threw open its portals last Tuesday, and entertained members and friends in large numbers at a social gathering. The affair proved to be very enjoyable.

During the evening a programme was rendered as follows: Piano solos, the Misses Ethel and Clara Golberg, Theresa Carman, and Dora VanCamp; recitations, Mrs. A. E. Cox, F. H. Letourneau, Mabel VanCamp, J. Harold Martin, Maude A. Martin, Ethel VanCamp and Clara Weber. Afterward refreshments were served under the direction of the good and welfare committee.

At the conclusion of the programme, a drawing was held for a set of diabes and a quilt. The former was won by Robert York, of this city, and the other by Mrs. Alvatez, of Flemington. The committee in charge consisted of G. B. Allen, chairman, Mrs. Fred Walsh, Mrs. E. Fritts, Mrs. J. Benjamin, Mrs. G. B. Allen and Mrs H. Thompson.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement has just been made of the engagement of Mary Lewis Evans, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Austin Barnaby, to Sidney Alexander Kirkman, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

—Increase your business. Telephone service does it. The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company.

Women Bankers Of the United States

HAND in hand with man's newspaper jokes about women who try to keep bank accounts come items from here, there and all over concerning women who are the "only" bank presidents. Ohio has one of these "only" women bank presidents, Colorado another, while Nebraska calls both these states down sharply for their untruthful claims by pointing with pride to Mrs. Hester Welpton, president of the Exchange Bank in its town of Ogallala, Nebraska boasts of the business ability of Mrs. Welpton and tells the world besides that she is one of the most cultured ladies of Ogallala. Maryland, however, makes a claim which, so far as heard from, has not been disputed, that she possesses the "only" woman national bank president in Mrs. Evelyn S. Tome of Port Deposit. Mrs. Tome is a lady worth $5,000,000. The lady did not herself accumulate this wealth, but inherited it from her husband, who did. When he died Mr. Tome was president of two national banks, one at Port Deposit, the other at Akron. His widow was elected to fill both the posts left vacant by his death, and has discharged with distinguished ability her duties as president of two national banks.

The fact is that at present women bank presidents are not at all rare in the smaller cities of the Union. In almost every instance they have shown themselves eminently capable of holding such places. Woman is a better economist than man; she is more exact and careful in matters of detail, where she has any sense at all.

At any rate, large up to date banking and investment companies are learning the advantage of having a shrewd business woman in their financial department. Every year in our country adds to the number of women investors of money, and they have so much money that even curmudgeony stockbrokers, who have heretofore refused to deal with the feminine customers, now welcome them.

In its New York office a firm of bankers and brokers whose standing is as high as that of any in the United States has a department for women investors, though it has not yet reached the advanced plane of employing women behind its windows, except as stenographers and telegraphers. In the conservative old city of St. Louis, however, two great banking and investment companies have women officials to deal with women investors. In one of them Mrs. Florence M. Laflin has charge of the women's department; in the other Mrs. Frost.

It is through their sympathy with their own sex that women bankers are better able to deal with women investors than men are. A man lacks patience with a timid woman in matters of business, while the timid woman is so afraid of the business man that she sometimes, through nervousness, becomes incapable of talking at all.

WOMAN TRUSTS WOMAN.

Mrs. Frost has been superintendent of the woman's banking department long enough already to increase the business of the institution appreciably. She has a room all to herself, and there the women come and sit and talk to her. She says:

"A woman loses her head when she must speak out loud over a counter at a man, but when she can come in here and sit down face to face with me we talk together as one woman to another, and soon her business is transacted."

Womanly sympathy and gentleness reassure the shy and ignorant investors. Mrs. Frost has the most delicate, difficult and trying of all the tasks set to employees in the bank. One of the woman bank official's customers was an old lady who had carried all the money she owned, $600, upon her person for years, so long that it looked like a wisp of mummy wrappings; yet Mrs. Frost was able to make her feel sure her treasure would be safe in that bank. Another client was a woman who, with her husband, a boy laborer, had saved $1,000. He carried it one day, she the next, till their wealth became a nightmare, the care of it had so worked on their simple minds. Of Mrs. Frost's work one of the men bank officials says:

"No man of us could stand the strain."

MARCIA CAMPBELL.

FOR THE YOUNGER SET.

Pretty Gowns Both Expensive and Inexpensive.

The favorite material for young girls' dancing frocks is ring spotted net or point d'esprit, which seems to be getting cheaper and cheaper and is quite admirable on account of its fresh appearance combined with its durability. To be effective it must be made very full, and all white or all black is the best, although there are some very chic evening toilets of white or ecru colored net with rings of black chenille.

FRENCH GOWN.

The skirts may be gored around the hips and fall in full folds around the feet or tucked at the waist with a series of flounces from the knees downward. In either case the bodice corresponds.

Artificial flowers are worn in the evening, but they must be of the very best quality to look well. Roses and violets are perhaps the most popular. The most economical materials for dinner dresses are silks, satins and panne, for any one of these will outwear several others composed of light fabrics. Black is always smart, particularly when relieved by a good berths and trimmings of lace. Girls look charming in black, provided they are not too thin, for black accentuates thinness. Pure white is also trying and requires a fresh, rosy complexion.

A gown of chiffon shirred in panels is the subject of this sketch. This effect is both chic and novel.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

ELABORATE DRESS.

Quantities of Lace and Embroidery Are Necessities.

At one period lace contees were only worn at teatime. Now we use them as additions to evening frocks and even day blouses.

One thing is certain—we cannot dress well without a good amount of lace and chiffon. Never was the latter more popular, and some of the most acceptable gifts for birthdays are those of real lace. The woman who has to content herself with imitation lace, however, need not despair, for the reproductions of the old patterns are delightful and in exactly the right shade.

EVENING DRESS.

Lace of a coarse make will be a prominent feature on spring millinery. Some lovely Paris picture hats are of white moire with a regular curtain of fine chantilly lace falling over a brim consisting of endless tuckings of cream chiffon and further adorned with one thick black ostrich plume.

The empire style, with its long, straight lines, gives height to the wearer, but should never be selected when there is any tendency to embonpoint or if the figure is overfull or round.

A particularly handsome evening dress of spotted net and silk applique is the subject of the sketch.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FADS AND FASHIONS.

The Craze For Ornamentation—Evening Jewelry.

The craze for ornamentation of every description is getting daily more marked. A fancy for beautiful designs in precious stones is a very praiseworthy one, but if you would be well dressed avoid tawdry rubbish of every description.

Necklaces of jet are a fad with black gowns, and dog collars and pearls are considered very chic.

Solid ropes of pearls twisted together are used as girdles for priceless lace gowns by the favored few who can spend all they desire on dress.

The squirrel set—stole, hat and muff—though rather common, is undeniably smart and very becoming to a fresh young skin, though this fur should never be worn by a pale or fagged out woman.

GRAY SQUIRREL COAT.

Many hats still have most of their trimming on the underside of the brim, but milliners promise a complete change and predict the fall of the single drooping feather. In millinery decorations as well as in every other department of dress oddity is the keynote.

The illustration shows a fancy effect in squirrel fur. These coats are at present all the rage.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WHAT IS WORN.

All White Not Always Suitable. Cheap Millinery.

The prices of good millinery are greatly reduced, and it is just the time to invest in an extra winter hat.

Fur toques are much more elaborate than of yore, the only simple shape being known as the "shah," in ermine, astrakhan, moleskin and mink, with its big brush in black and white. This is not a shape that suits every one.

White still continues to be very popular, but for out of door wear it is very trying, for the sunlight on white cloth is not apt to prove flattering to any but dazzling complexions.

AFTERNOON TOILET.

At smart "at homes" and receptions, however, there is nothing so dainty as a white gown, provided it is toned down with mink or sable and is in keeping with its surroundings. A smart gown recently seen at such a function was composed entirely of cream colored crochet lace over crepe de chine in a deep shade of ivory. The bodice seemed to be an inner blouse of accordion crepe de chine with a loose hanging bolero of the lace ornament with a wide waistband of cream panne. The only color introduced was a large bunch of parma violets.

The picture shows a smart costume which can be made up in any shade of cloth. The hat is especially good and the plaited skirt worthy of notice.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Titanium.

Titanium is the hardest metal. It looks like copper, but will scratch rock crystal.

FASHION HINTS.

The Possibilities of Lace—Pretty Blouses.

The up to date tailor is a man of great artistic perception; otherwise he could not cope with the changing modes of the day.

The possibilities of lace, instead of dwindling, increase and get more fascinating every day. Lace berthas are particularly useful in renovating an old frock. These berthas are of various shapes, and every woman can find one to suit her style.

The all lace blouse is more charming and effective than ever. It is worn usually over an oriental satin blouse. It is, sometimes made of fine ecru net threaded with black velvet or colored ribbons, while in direct contrast coarse

WOOL BLOUSE.

Irish crochet or guipure is softened with a lining of chiffon or mousseline and used with an equally good effect.

Panne makes charming winter blouses. Some chic examples are in green, made up with coarse lace in the shape of collars and vests. Very pretty, too, are those of plain oriental satin or tucked chiffon. Blouses worn with a short hanging coat of lace or embroidery are smart.

A useful and up to date flannel blouse is shown in the picture. The tie of folded silk is a recent creation.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

CHILDREN'S CLOTHES.

Little Fur Coats—Useful Cloth Coats and Dresses.

Squirrel makes a charming coat for a small girl, the turndown collar and cuffs being hemmed with ermine. More costly coats for the little ones are made of ermine, with little caps to match trimmed with white osprey and tiny replicas of the fashionable flat muffs.

For the child of moderate means, however, the most serviceable and smart material for a coat is fawn or blue broadcloth with a wide collar of lace or velvet and a wide furry hat to match. This hat can easily be trimmed at home, but the coat should know the touch of skilled hands and should be made loose and comfortable so that it can be worn another season.

CLOTH SKIRT.

Pretty children's dresses are made of that soft fashioned material corded mull. These are made with a deep yoke and roomy bishop sleeves, the skirt displaying a hem surmounted by a cluster of tiny tucks.

Many of the large floppy beaver hats are tied under the child's chin by means of wide satin ribbons. Two huge feather pompons often serve as the entire trimming.

One of the latest skirts is shown in the cut. It is pretty made up in cloth or wool veiling.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The New Pythias.

"Is he a friend of yours?"

"Oh, yes! He never takes advantage of me except to benefit himself."—Town Topics.

THE WORLD OF FASHION.

New Silks and Dainty Thin Goods For Summer.

Scarcely has lovely woman recovered from the fatigue of Christmas and New Year's when she finds that she must take up the white woman's burden again and haunt the shops, for, behold! they are full of the new silks and the dainty thin goods for next summer. Just think of it! It seems to be an unwritten law that early in January the white underwear sales take place, and they are followed by the advance of all the lovely and delicate materials for summer. This is done so that during the forty days wherein women fast and repent they are enabled still more to mortify the flesh by dressmaking, for, be it known, most of the summer frocks are made at this time. If there is any one thing more certain than another to mortify the flesh and cause tears of penitence to flow, it is to have a dressmaker in the house. So lovely woman has, as usual, managed to kill two birds with one stone.

STRIPED SATINETTE GOWN.

The new silks are mostly satin finish foulards and soft finish satins. These are printed, and they are almost equally divided into two large and small designs. There are perhaps twenty-five different designs in blue, and the blue runs through several shades, the majority of indigo shades being in rather subdued tints. The designs are especially quaint, like those seen in some old forgotten ragbag in a farmhouse attic. One pattern has a close ground in shades of blue, and over this is a larger pattern in white stars or arabesques or clusters of dots, as the case may be. Others have a dark blue ground with white crescents and arabesque designs of geometrical figures. But there is none where the pattern is as large as it was a season ago. All the figures are neat and close, and the smooth satiny finish adds to their beauty. Few of the silks of this class are crisp, but are instead soft and pliable and clinging.

If there are many navy and indigo blues in these pretty silks, there are quite as many more in black and white, for all the designs are duplicated. The black and white summer silks are really beautiful, and some few gowns already made as samples show deep flounces or double skirt effects quite as often as plain skirts. But skirts seem to be much wider around the waist and are often shirred down two or three inches. Lace, both black and white and often in combination, is used to trim them. Insets, insertions, borderings and separate pieces as applique are put on as before wherever lace seems called for.

There appear among the new cottons and other washable materials muslins with wavy stripes, dotted ganze, plaid organdie, satin striped mulls, printed batistes, grenadines in silk and cotton, very soft and dainty; batistes with lace stripes and with Jacquard weaves of flowers in various colors, and an immense line of linen, both plain and embroidered. These grass linens are expected to be very popular, and they certainly deserve it. The most of them are embroidered in silk, which gives them a rich appearance. There is also a long list of beautiful designs in St. Gall embroidered swisses. That these are lovely may be inferred from the fact that it took over great lawmakers a long time to decide whether these embroideries should be entered through the custom house as lace or embroidery. They are so much like lace that one hesitates to call them embroidery, but, whatever they are, they are beautiful.

All the foregoing are the thin fabrics, but there are many really handsome printed dimities, homespun linen and cotton suitings, cloth in appearance, yet light; all sorts of fancy bourettes, with their rough tufts; canvas, mercerized duck, looking like silk; reps, etamines, crash in all weights and an infinite number of percales and ginghams of every variety, striped and checked.

A model at an evening dress of white satin striped mull is shown here. The stripes are arranged to go around, and the whole dress is trimmed with bands of lace insertion. The dress is worn over a pink silk slip and has a pink belt and a breloque of pearls at each shoulder. With this are seen the new lace glove mitts. The glove proper reaches above the wrist, and the lace rises to the shoulder.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

THE INDEPENDENT WOMAN

Why She Desires to Earn Money. Poor Mrs. Oldfoggle.

"I hope the time will come when women will have the sense to stay out of business and remain home and marry, as they should," growled Tom Oldfoggle crossly.

"But what are they going to do if they need the money?" put in his sister.

"Oh, half of them don't. They have parents who could just as well support them, only they want so many frills."

"If they want the good things of life and have brains enough to secure them, why should they deliberately go without just because they don't happen to be men?" retorted the sister, who earned a neat income herself writing clever advertisements.

"They take the bread out of other women's mouths; that's what."

"Do you know that never appealed to me as a good argument," she answered. "If there were any question of favoritism among employers, it might be; but, all things being equal, why shouldn't women stand or fall on their own merits, as men do? What would a man think of his son when he came to the age when boys usually begin to work were the son to remark that he had a sufficient income in his own right and did not think he should be dealing justly by men who were penniless if he took payment for his labor?"

"Humph! But it is different. A woman is a woman, and she ought to marry."

"But they all can't"—

"Their own fault then"—

—"because they are homely or there are not men enough to go around."

"Tut! Nonsense! That isn't the principal reason why girls don't marry. It's because they run after the men too much. Men don't want anything that's easy, and they'd run after the homeliest girl that ever was if she made herself difficult."

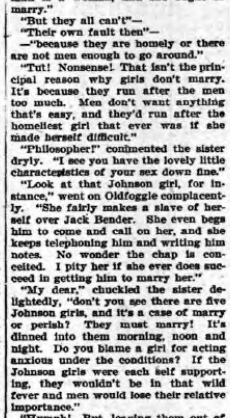
"Philosopher!" commented the sister dryly. "I see you have the lovely little characteristics of your sex down fine."

"Look at that Johnson girl, for instance," went on Oldfoggle complacently. "She fairly makes a slave of herself over Jack Bender. She even begs him to come and call on her, and she keeps telephoning him and writing him notes. No wonder the chap is conceited. I pity her if she ever does succeed in getting him to marry her."

"My dear," chuckled the sister delightedly, "don't you see there are five Johnson girls, and it's a case of marry or perish? They must marry! It's dinned into them morning, noon and night. Do you blame a girl for acting anxious under the conditions? If the Johnson girls were each self supporting, they wouldn't be in that wild fever and men would lose their relative importance."

"Humph! But, leaving them out of the question, many women do the proper thing and wait quietly at home to get decently married and have a husband to support them," he persisted.

At this moment Mrs. Oldfoggle, a timid little woman, entered and, clearing her throat nervously, remarked:



BEGGING FOR MONEY.

"I'm awfully sorry, Tom, but I'll have to ask you for $5. The children's boots"—

"Great heavens!" growled Oldfoggle. "Didn't I give you $10 only the day before yesterday?"

"But that was for my winter hat," replied Mrs. Oldfoggle, with spirit. "You surely can't expect me to go bareheaded."

"What was the matter with your last year's one? Anybody 'd think you were a millionaire when I married you. Many's the time you had to retrim when you were with your father, and precious glad you were to get me and escape it all. There, don't ask me again for money for an age—here it is! Now I want to read my paper. I declare, women are enough to drive a man to the poorhouse!"

Miss Oldfoggle followed the weeping little wife into the bedroom.

"Oh-h," sobbed the latter, "I nearly die of shame when I have to ask him for money! Oh, if I could only earn some! As it is, no matter what he says to me I have to stand it. I can't even leave him. I—I should starve! What can I do? What can I do?"

Miss Oldfoggle looked at her pityingly; then she said softly, "You can teach your children to be self supporting, so that even if they love him they need not be the slave of any man!"

MAUD ROBINSON.

The New Woman and The Old Man

YESTERDAY I sat and listened to the talk of the old man. By "old man" I mean the old style man of any age from twenty-five to 105. I have come to the conclusion it is time for the old man to reconstruct himself to fit the new woman. If he does not, he will find himself left. This old man I listened to was a very old man. His opinions are those of the age of Tiglath Pileser and Jehonadab. He thinks man knows it all and woman knows nothing except as man imparts it to her. His definition of a man is anything that wears trousers. This old man was talking to some new women. They had learned in their childhood that two and two make four. It may be mentioned that they could read Latin; also that they knew how to pronounce French, Spanish and German. But the man was a Briton, therefore a doubled and twisted old man. Yet that ancient and mildewed old man sat there and told the women of the geography, the politics and the government of their own country with the air of one who was announcing great truths which the women would never have heard if Providence by special act had not raised him up to announce them. You observe this is a way men have—old men, that is. They patronise the whole feminine sex and endeavor to explain things down to its capacity. They expect to do all the talking, so as to exploit their knowledge. They resent it if a woman presumes to know anything out of her own head. Such a female creature is extremely unwomanly in the eye of the old man. She makes him feel her in his vanity; therefore he never likes her afterward. But the old man is being jarred in his vanity every day these times. Will he learn thereby that he must reconstruct himself and become a new man to match the new woman?

⁂ ⁂

A man who is neither the old man nor the new on the woman question, but who is just lying low and taking observations, confesses himself perplexed over girls. He is a good looking, intelligent bachelor of thirty-five or thereabout, not old enough to be grumpy and set in his ways, yet old enough to have left his gosling days behind. He daily crosses East river in a ferryboat between Brooklyn and New York. Many girl clerks and stenographers do the same. The bachelor says:

"When I see these girls, they are always giggling about something. In the morning when they come over they giggle and titter from shore to shore. When they go back in the evening, they giggle and titter all the way again. It seems as if the girls can do anything but giggle. What do they do it for? I never could find out." Can you?

⁂ ⁂

White male lawgivers and makers of rules are always ready to regulate women and negroes. White male men in Richmond, Va., seem to be seriously concerned over the smoking of cigarettes by women, so that they have caused to be posted in places frequented by the feminine sex notices forbidding this indulgence. Why don't they forbid men to smoke cigarettes? Again, in Mississippi "the powers and physicians" are so exercised over the growing use of cocaine among negroes, particularly "female negroes," that they are trying to get a law passed against it. Why don't they include white people, too—white people from whom the blacks learned the use of the drug?

⁂ ⁂

If you keep at a thing, only keep at it. It will be accomplished at last.

⁂ ⁂

A good way to make a living is to found a society, supposedly for some good object, then charge those who join it an initiation fee and use the proceeds yourself.

⁂ ⁂

In Switzerland, sometimes in Germany, when a couple are married the husband takes the name of the wife, adding it to his own. Thus, if Mr. Brown wedded Miss Smith she would not be Smith-Brown, but he would be Brown-Smith, hyphenated. The daughter of the distinguished Prussian statesman Adolph Lette married a Mr. Schaefer. Thereafter the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Schaefer-Lette.

⁂ ⁂

At a banquet not long since of the students of a great male university there were mobbish rioting and smashing of furniture and crockery that have never been surpassed in New York city's east side slums. Just so. But suppose it had been a "coed" university and ladies had been present there.

⁂ ⁂

Don't do a weak, foolish or wrongly impulsive thing, but if you do don't plead the baby act. Don't cry like a fool or claim the privilege of your sex to get you out of the scrape. Stand up like a man and grown women and face the consequences. The woman who manufactures tears or illness to influence a jury or anybody else is a despicable creature.

⁂ ⁂

If the members of women's clubs can do no better than to waste their nervous energies in election rows, then the formation of women's clubs were a custom more honored in the breach than the observance.

⁂ ⁂

At the last Boston municipal election the thermometer was 10 below zero, yet, according to the Women's Journal, the women voters came apparently much nearer the figures of their full registration than the men.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

ARMY PROUD OF HIM.

Gen. MacArthur Is a Fine Type of the American Soldier.

He Is Brave, Courteous and Has Deep Insight Into Human Nature—Enlisted Forty Years Ago, a Boy of Seventeen.

Maj. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, who is at present in command of the department of the east, the most important military station in the United States, has risen from the ranks, literally. He is at present stationed at Governor's island, in New York harbor, and has command of 16,000 infantrymen. Gen. MacArthur will remain in command of the department of the east until the arrival of Gen. Chaffee, who has been ordered home from the Philippines and who will come home late in the fall. After that Gen. Chaffee will assume command at Governor's island and Gen. MacArthur will return to Chicago and resume command of the department of the lakes.

Gen. MacArthur is not a graduate of any military academy nor has he ever received any instruction in warfare beyond what he has received on the battlefield, but he has proved himself a capable and even a great general since the opportunity was offered in the war in the Philippines

At 17 years of age young MacArthur went into the civil war. He enlisted in the Twenty-fourth Wisconsin regiment, and although but a beardless youth, with no military experience whatever, he was at once made regimental adjutant, with the rank of first lieutenant. His regiment took part in many of the important engagements of the civil war and when he was but 19 years old he was made a major. Before he was 20 he was breveted colonel and as a colonel served the remainder of the war. When the war was over and he was mustered out he immediately joined the regular army. That was in 1866. He loved army life and decided to remain in the service.

When the Spanish-American war opened MacArthur was immediately made a brigadier general of volunteers and sent to Manila with the first detachment of troops dispatched there. His work immediately attracted attention and he was made major general in the line. He is the youngest major general the United states army ever had, which is something of a distinction. It is more than probable that he will some day be the commander of the armies of the United States, his age being in his favor.

GEN. ARTHUR MACARTHUR.
(At Present in Command of the Department of the East.)

Gen. MacArthur was made governor general of the Philippines and his administration was clean, vigorous and eventful.

His grasp of affairs in the Philippines was the result of an intelligence beyond the scope of most men. It has shown us that the modern soldier must succeed in other ways beside those required of him in action. While his attitude as commander of the occupying army at Manila demanded that he should regard the Filipinos with suspicion, he was always alert to discover the human motives of the individual Human nature is not at its best held up at the muzzle of a loaded gun, and Gen. MacArthur was intelligent enough to recognize that the native Filipino required something more than shooting. Coercion is better than absolute subjugation.

The faculties that helped him most in his policy at Manila were the scholarly ones. He is a fine historian, and there is nothing ripens judgment so safely as a knowledge of the world's history. It is a sure index of national evolution, in which racial motives can be traced, and if expansion is the will of the people force of arms alone is not a shock that subdues temporarily.

Gen. MacArthur is a diplomat. The gift of reasonableness is his. He has, beyond the harmonic poise that is required in the service, the infinitely rare gift of tact. We all know what that quality involves, the relationships it can establish, the dignity it entails and exacts. The training of an army man is intended to develop the best that is in him. Sometimes it does, and sometimes it does not. There are all kinds, all sorts and conditions of men in every service, but the best executive quality in a man is integrity of purpose toward his fellow man, white or black, and that quality is distinctively Gen. MacArthur's.

Five Jaws and Five Teeth.

The sea urchin has five jaws, each with a single tooth.

ODD HUNTING STORY.

Tales of the Extraordinary Fate of a Wild Turkey.

Burney's Intelligent Dog Not Deceived, Though Its Master Was —A Discovery Which Surprised the Simrod.

A good deal has been said about the extraordinary intellect of the wild turkey. Some men think that it has so much sense that it would die but for its strong constitution. A story sent to the New York Sun from Paragould, Ark., goes to show that Homer occasionally nods in turkey-gob.

Dick Burney, a gunman, of Paragould, started after turkey one day, taking with him his Irish setter dog. Bess was what he called a cracking good turkey dog. That is, she would find the trail of the bird and follow it by scent as if she were a hound, finally running upon it and flushing it into a tree, barking at it and diverting its attention while her master made a stealthy approach and used his double-barrel.

On this occasion there was slight snow on the ground and trailing promised to be good. The pair hunted for two hours without finding anything, when Bess struck a turkey-track. It led them for two miles.

Sometimes the dog lost it on hard bare ground, but always picked it up. Because of these delays the work was slow and the turkey, which may have known that it was followed, was able to keep well ahead.

Finally the trail ran out into an old field and stopped. There was bare ground ahead, no cover on either side, and no turkey. Burney concluded that the bird had flushed here and flown a half mile.

The setter, however, who had gone on for 20 feet or so, suddenly came to a dead stop, tail, legs and head rigid, a strong point. Burney walked up to her with his gun cocked, though there was nothing to indicate the presence of game.

Five yards further on a couple of small bare trees had been felled and one lay across the other, forming a sort of V of the two trunks. They were bare of limbs. At the intersection of the trunks a hen turkey had squatted.

A STRONG POINT.

Its head was poked under the bottom trunk and it crouched in the blissful belief that because its head was hidden it could not be seen, as much like an ostrich as if it had been hatched in South Africa. Burney could have thrown the bird no bits. He walked forward, and hearing him close behind the hen finally jerked its head back and flushed not ten feet away.

To avoid breaking it in two Burney waited until it had gone 25 yards, then held directly on it and pulled the trigger. Not a feather fell. Hastily he fired the left barrel with a like result. The turkey sailed on for a half mile and whizzed into some woods on the far side of the field.

Shoving new shells into his gun and saying things, Burney followed. The setter got to the woods before he did and disappeared. Three minutes afterward the dog was lost as well as the turkey.

Burney whistled and searched to no purpose. Concluding that the dog had become bewildered and had taken the back track for home, he gave up the chase.

Fifty yards distant was a brush-tree top that had been severed from a fallen trunk, and Burney thought that he might as well have a look into it on the chance that the turkey had hidden in it and he might get another shot. He approached the tree top, went half way around it and started into it.

There, completely shielded by the branches, was the setter, rigidly pointing, and five feet from her, on its breast, with its wings folded much as if it were crouching was the turkey, stone dead. It had died as soon as it reached the tree top, having been hard hit with the first barrel, and the dog, strangely believing it to be alive, had not attempted to retrieve it.

Crippled by a Sneeze.

The champion sneezer of Pennsylvania is John Hamilton, a druggist, of New Castle. While near victim on a prescription he felt a sneeze coming on, and to steady himself clutched a railing. The force of the sneeze was so great that it threw his shoulder out of joint.

His Pension Came Too Late.

Many years ago, Henry Wensler, of Warsaw, Ind., a war veteran, applied for a pension. It has just been granted, and the government has sent him a check for $25,000. The poor pensioner is not likely to appreciate this fortune, as he is demented.

STORY O A MO ERN RUTH.

Remarkable Feats Performed by a Pennsylvania Girl Working as a Farm Hand.

The Ruth of biblical fame and commendation has a most admirable counterpart in eastern Pennsylvania, her home being at Myerstown. This modern daughter of Naomi is named Mary Swanger and she can perform not only all the duties of the house, but she has an unconquerable delight in working in the harvest field and performing other labors which belong properly to farm hands, reports an eastern exchange.

Miss Swanger is visiting at the home of Samuel Phillips, the proprietor of a large stock farm near Lebanon. It is a frequent sight to see her assisting in the harvest field, and using other manual labor about the place. Miss Swanger declares that she likes the work, not from necessity, but from choice. She believes that all women should do outdoor work of this character for their own physical development, and that if they did, the American women would be stronger and happier.

Suiting her belief to action, Miss Swanger has performed two feats which the neighbors consider marvelous. One of these was to shovel 1,500 bushels of corn into a bellier with on interval of but 15 minutes for rest. The other was to unload 15 wagon loads of grain in the sheaf and pitch it into the loft of Mr. Phillips' barn. Miss Swanger is a lightly constructed young woman, and her feats are the talk of the neighborhood.

REFLECTION ON THE JUDGE.

How an Ulm Pious Lawyer Drew Upon Himself the Wrath of Justice Gray.

Justice Gray, of the United States supreme court, who has just retired, had a long experience on the bench before going to Washington. Many years ago, when he was a member of the supreme court of Massachusetts, relates a Washington exchange, he had an amusing experience with a certain Boston lawyer, an exceedingly pious man with a taste for evangelization, who had his letterheads printed with a verse from Scripture in large type following the name and address. On one occasion, having to make an ex parte preliminary argument before Justice Gray in chambers, in which it would be necessary to discuss certain parts of his client's case which he desired not to make public until the trial, he wrote the judge a note asking that he be allowed an opportunity to speak to him in private. He was somewhat chagrined when his note came back to him with a scrawl across the bottom: "Request denied, with a suggestion from the court that counsel base future petitions on a more appropriate citation."

For a moment he could not make out the meaning of this, as he was not aware that he had quoted any law, but glancing up the page he discovered that he had written his page on a letterhead bearing this text:

"Ye are bought with a price."

NEVER TRUST A HORSE.

Conclusion of a Man Who Has Trained and Studied the Animals for Years.

I have spent much of a long life in the observation of horses. I have owned them, trained them, ridden them, driven them, worked them from the plow to the horse-in-hand. The result of these years of study is summed up in one sentence, as a writer in Harper's Weekly: Never trust a horse to be part of your life. Never bring a horse or anything in his life envelops into a friendship for him. I believe any man who trusts himself or his family to the power of a horse stronger than himself, or to the mercy of a horse's mind and body, is a fool of ordinary prudence. I have seen more commonplace horse every other day for six years over the same road, and then had him go crazy and try to kill himself and me because a leaf fluttered down in front of him. I have known scores of horses, apparently creatures of routine, go wild and insane over equally regular and recurring phenomena. No amount of observation can tell when the brute will break out. One mare took two generations of children to school over the same quiet road, and then in her nineteenth year went crazy because a rooster crowed alongside the road. She killed two of the children. If any man can tell me of one good reason why man should trust a horse I should be glad to know.

TO RAISE COTTON IN EGYPT.

British Spinners Hope to Make Themselves Independent of United States Supply.

The British Cotton Growing association, which, with the hearty cooperation of the colonial secretary, Joseph Chamberlain, is trying to render the British empire independent of the United States so far as raw cotton is concerned, is now paying special attention to upper Egypt.

Maj. Count Gleichen, secretary of the sirdar of the Egyptian forces, Maj. Gen. Wingate, addressing the association at Manchester recently, said the experiments not recently made on the banks of the Nile show the quality of the cotton grown there to be the equal of any in the world.

There are available 12,000,000 acres of irrigated land, and the only difficulty is the labor supply. The cerrishes have been depopulated in the Soudan, but the completion of the Sankim-Berber railroad is expected to solve the problem, besides furnishing an outlet for the crop.

NOW RANKS FOURTH.

American Museum Is Truly Magnificent Institution.

Only Three Other Collections in the World Exceed It in Magnitude —Has Priceless Treasure of Gems.

[Special New York Letter.]

WITH a silk hat of the vintage of '76 on the back of his head, attired in a broadcloth coat somewhat shiny at the sleeves; with trousers somewhat shy at the lower end; with a stiff dickey over the top of which flaunted luxuriant chin whiskers like flowers out of a vase, he climbed slowly up the wide steps leading to the imposing archway of the American

"WE ARE WONDERFULLY MADE."

Museum of Natural History in West Seventy-seventh street.

He proceeded directly to the department of vertebrate palaeontology and was soon deep in contemplation of the skeleton of a three-toed marsh horse. He also studied industriously the bones of the little creature of the lower Eocene regarded as the ancestor of the whole race of equines of to-day. He looked longingly at all the specimens representing the various types of the American Hippidium.

"A learned professor," whispered the attendant to the big policeman who had been assigned to that floor.

The man with the moth-eaten hat and the scientific look edged up to the lamented remains of a wild jackass from Texas. For a moment he seemed completely lost in rapt admiration. Then, as he made a few notes on the back of an old letter, his interest reached a red glow, and, turning to the bluecoat, he remarked:

"Say, captain, we are fearfully and wonderfully made."

"Yep," said the policeman, but the attendant, desiring to show the stranger the courtesy of the institution, murmured respectfully:

"From what college, professor?"

"Veterinary surgeons' institute, class of '74," was the reply. "Some folks call me the professor, but to be up and up with you, I might as well tell you I am a horse doctor."

Over in the zoological department a woman with a determined look on her face was staring fixedly into the broad and grotesque countenance of a hippopotamus. For five minutes she never took her gaze off him and then she whispered, as if she were really disappointed:

"He is quite plain."

Not far away two little girls from the street, who had wandered in, were viewing a many-legged creature that resembled an octopus. They counted and recounted his numerous arm-like

"HE IS QUITE PLAIN."

contrivances until one, with great awe, suggested to the other:

"Sis, we'd better git away. Supposin' he should take it into his head to hug us?"

These represent the superficial visitors to the great museum. Last year the attendance was 461,026—an average of nearly 10,000 a week, and which on some weeks reached as high as 20,000. While it must be admitted that the majority of the visitors go there out of mere curiosity, many thousands are seeking information. The record of the organization shows that during the year 361 teachers and 4,920 pupils made use of the collection. In October of this year the international congress of Americanists will hold its convention there, where exceptional advantages for the study of anthropology will be offered the members. Last year the American Ornithologists' union, the national conference of the Audubon Societies of America and all the scientific societies of New York held their annual meetings in the institution, and it is daily patronized by students and seekers in all fields of natural history from all parts of the world.

But, while the student and the professor make use of the advantages afforded by this wonderful museum, comparatively few people in the United States know of the scope of its usefulness.

The fame of the British museum has extended throughout the civilized world, and there is probably not a school child of 12 years of age who has not some idea of the educational interests that it covers. Yet our own institution, established with the same object in view, although still in its infancy, compares favorably with the great British museum, and in many of its departments exceeds it. It has been formed on a plan so gigantic and far-reaching in its character that it ridicules the fears that are to come to outstrip all its European contemporaries in the size and value of its collections. In point of scientific importance it now ranks fourth in the world. First is the British museum; second, the Berlin institution; third, the Paris museum, and fourth, the American museum.

In many respects the American Museum of Natural History exceeds the museums across the water. It has the largest and most remarkable collection of gems in the world. They were presented by J. Pierpont Morgan, and represent the fortune of a king. The nucleus to the magnificent collection was the Tiffany exhibit at the Universal exposition at Paris, purchased by Mr. Morgan. Since then many additions have been made till the collection is now the largest and most expensive in existence. It has been installed in the southern end of the hall west of Mineral hall and arrayed in a most attractive manner in glass cases. It would be impossible to enumerate in this article even the salient points of such a large collection. It is sufficient to say that there is a marvelous display of cut and uncut materials in the groups of sapphires, emeralds, topazes, garnets, tourmalines, chrysoberyls, opals, amethysts, diamonds, golds and pearls. In addition to this there are carved and engraved vases and other objects of jadeite.

In the department of mineralogy is probably one of the largest collections that was ever gathered together. It includes the famous Bement collection, also a gift from Mr. Morgan.

"WHAT IF HE SHOULD HUG US?"

The collection of woods is the most extensive on exhibition. The American anthropological collection is the most comprehensive in the world, but not content with gathering specimens representative of the life of men in their own country, the directors have sent expeditions to all parts of the earth. And not only have these expeditions searched in the ethnological fields, but they have delved into every branch of science. They have visited China, Japan, Peru, Siberia, Bolivia, Central America, Greenland—and, in fact, every known part of the globe in search of specimens of a historic and scientific nature. The result has been a wonderful collection of material which cannot be duplicated in any other institution of the world.

To give one an idea of the scope of the work in which the American museum is engaged a few figures are presented. The institution has a permanent endowment fund of $433,000 and special funds of $73,336 annually. Its receipts and disbursements last year were $156,883. The grounds of the museum consist of the block situated between West Seventy-seventh, West Eighty-first streets, Columbus avenue and Central Park west. The building is a magnificent five-story brown stone, erected at a cost of $4,000,000, and forms only one fourth of the ex pansive structure that is to be built in wings, as occasion demands, the whole, when completed, to cover an area of 15 acres of ground.

When we consider that the British museum was organized in 1759 and the American museum in 1868 we can realize what wonderful gains we have made. The entire British museum was built at a cost of $3,065,000. The cost of erecting the American museum, which represents one-fourth of the completed structure, was nearly $1,000,000 more. The British museum is maintained by the government, but the American museum is not a national institution, but is supported by the city of New York and private subscriptions and donations. Fortunes in cash and collections have been given to it by American millionaires, of which the general public knows comparatively little. The library, consisting of 60,000 volumes treating on special subjects, has been entirely donated from private libraries of New York and contains hundreds of rare works that money cannot buy.

FREDERICK BOYD STEVENSON.

AMERICAN PRECIOUS STONES.

Hardly a State in the Union in Which There Is Not Some Trace of Them.

When we think of the mining of precious stones our thoughts are usually carried to long trips into South America, over to the orient, among the mountains of Asia and Europe, or perhaps to South America, but we are not likely to think of our own land yielding them; but the fact is that no insignificant value in gems is taken from the soil right here at home. The report of the geological survey, just compiled for 1901, shows that during the year we mined in the United States precious stones to the value of about $300,000, reports the New York Herald.

Diamonds represent only $100 of this amount, but the fact that they are found at all gives encouragement to the hope that paying fields of them may some time be found. Last year one diamond was found in Lee county, Georgia, where diamonds were not before known to exist. New Mexico furnished $18,000 in turquoises, and these have been placed on the market. Montana gave us $90,000 in sapphires, which come next. They came from Fergus county. Granite county is now being explored for fancy colored sapphires, that give evidences of being there in paying quantities.

Fine and extensive rhodolite garnet deposits are found in Mason county, North Carolina. Many dark green, blue and yellow beryls, as well as substantially emeralds, were found in that state. There is hardly a state of the union in which there is not some trace of precious stones, and it appears not at all unlikely that before many years we may be competing with the old world in furnishing gems.

ANCIENT AMERICAN BOOK.

New York Museum to Have Very Old Copy of Aztec Work in Hieroglyphics.

When hieroglyphs are mentioned one naturally thinks of the records of ancient Egypt; yet before Columbus landed on these shores the Aztecs of ancient Mexico had a most elaborate system of writing in hieroglyphs.

They left behind them books of deerskin into books folded screen-fashion, on which were depicted signs and representations of ceremonials. These old pre-Columbian books the Spaniards greedily collected and destroyed so that only ten are known to-day in the whole world.

One of these has only recently been found in one of the libraries of Europe and an exact copy presented to the American Museum of Natural History in New York, where it will shortly be placed on exhibition. The text represents the history of the lives of several individuals. One recounts the life of the Lady Three-Olinta, who has two husbands and a child and goes through elaborate ceremonies.

Another portion of this old "Codex," as it is called, says the New York Times, treats of the life of a great lord and conqueror named Fire Deer, who, in company with other chieftains, makes many conquests. This old book proves most conclusively how love, religion and warfare were bound in hand in the lives of the ancient Mexicans, just as in people's lives to-day.

GOTHAM'S COURTING CLUB.

Odd Organization In New York City That Does Not Contemplate Matrimony.

The city of New York boasts a club which has for its object the promotion of aimless courtship in so far as matrimony is concerned. A number of young men there have banded themselves together and have bound in hand in the lives of the ancient Mexicans, just as in people's lives to-day.

When they desire to call on a young lady they notify the club secretary, who then proceeds to make out a list of the names of young ladies who are willing to receive the attentions of the members of the club. The list is then submitted to the members, who choose the young ladies they desire to call upon. Each member is then given the name of the young lady he is to call upon, and the secretary notifies the young lady that Mr. So-and-So will call upon her on such and such a night.

The young lady is then supposed to entertain the young man, and he is supposed to entertain her. Neither party to the contract is supposed to fall in love with the other, and if either party does so the club rules require that the love affair be kept a profound secret. Should the young man and young lady meet in public they are not supposed to recognize each other, and if they do so they are fined by the club.

The club has been in existence for some time and has a membership of about 100. Its members are all young men of good social standing, and the club is said to be a very popular one.

JERSEY'S PURCHASE PRICE.

Historic Document Which Shows What the State Was Sold by Indians for Rum, Guns, Etc.

Carefully locked away in one of the fireproof safes of the New Jersey Historical society there now exists a valuable documents that tell of the early colonization of the state, says the New York Times.

The first is a deed on parchment from Charles II. to his brother James, duke of York, conveying all of lands, the site of the present city of Newark, giving him a grant of all lands from the St. Lawrence river to Chesapeake bay. The only two names on the grant that Americans of to-day would recognize are Nantucket and Cape Cod, which are spelled as they are to-day. The St. Lawrence river is designated as "The Great River in Canada."

The deed is beautifully written in Gothic lettering, and the document is in excellent condition. Under each line of writing is a ruling of red, evidently done with a quill. The parchment is over two feet in length, and to the bottom is attached what was once a large seal of wax.

Gold and silver cords are fastened to the seal. In an upper left-hand corner is an engraving of Charles II., and the borders of the deed are filled with pen and ink designs, delicate and beautiful. The document is dated from Westminster in the seventeenth year of King Charles' reign. While the deed is apparently the original, for the amount of work expended on it would have given to a copy, no signatures appear, and apparently none was ever placed on it.

CENTURY OF PATENT ISSUES.

Beginning July 31, 1790, the Number Granted in This Country Has Been 428,621.

The census bureau lately issued a report dealing with the cooperative relation of patented inventions to manufactures, which shows that New York, though third in population and patent rank for the first decade of the 100 years has since been first in both, as well as manufactures. It is an interesting fact, in considering the list of states presented in the report, that the manufacturing ranks of a state as a rule approximates its patent rank, says the New York Sun. The report says:

The first patent granted by the general government was to Samuel Hopkins, July 31, 1790, for an improvement in pot and pearl ash manufacture. The last patent granted for the year 1889, at the close of the first 100 years of patent issues, was to Wilhelm Dreyer, December 31, 1889, for an electro-magnetic typesetting machine. These two patents are suggestively symbolical of the progress of the century in invention and manufactures—the first akin to the primitive industries of a new country and the last serving the exacting demands of a highly organized industrial system. The total number of patents issued during this century of invention was 428,621."

A feature of the report is the steady growth shown in the number of patents granted to citizens of foreign countries.

NOT THE SAME NAMES.

Nomenclature for Birds in England and America Is Not at All the Same.

In reviewing a book about "Beasts and Birds in America," the London Spectator warns English readers against the confusion that may arise from the fact that the application of the same name to different birds in England and the United States. "The consequence," it remarks, "is that the critical English schoolboy who reads of robins pecking a wicked squirrel (Chickeo) to death will perhaps toss the book away as untrustworthy—unless he is a reader of Wendell Holmes, and remembers the allusion to the day when young Americans were misled by the English books with local color set in the wrong country. In the books that came from England the robin was a little domestic bird that fed at table instead of a great fidgety, jerky, whooping thrush."

But the whooping thrush (Turdus migratorius) of North America had a red breast, like the robin of England, and so the name was given to him, and it was a mob of whooping thrushes, and not robin redbreasts, that did "Chickeo," the mischief maker to death. And so, it may be added, the ancient misunderstanding and controversy between English and American tourists at the Atlantic liners' tables as to what is a partridge, a pheasant, a grouse, etc., will go on to the end of time.

Excessive Kindness.

A singular case is that of Patrick Logue, of Altoona, Pa., who has been prosecuted for cruelty to animals, his offense consisting of excessive kindness. Logue is so fond of an intelligent horse owned by him that he will not allow the horse to work or even be exercised. The result is that the horse has not been out of the stable. Logue feeds it and cares for it tenderly, but he has steadfastly refused to take it out. Consequently the humane society has been called on to force him to give the horse some work or exercise it daily at least.

Fine Tribute to Mackay.

John W. Mackay, the Irish-American multi-millionaire, who died recently in London, had a fine tribute paid to him once by a friend. "Mackay," said he, "is one of the few rich men I should like to know if he were poor."

Emigration of Jews.

During the last year 80,000 Jews emigrated from Roumania.

Some Plainfielders Who Were Injured in the Westfield Disaster.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

NO INTERFERENCE!

Citizens of Plainfield and North Plainfield, without regard to political creed, united together Tuesday night in voicing their sentiments that there should be no outside interference with the settlement of the Greater Plainfield question. At the meeting of the Board of Trade, it was clearly evidenced that the substantial men of the community were strong in their opposition to the repealers to the annexation and consolidation acts which state Senator Hutchinson, of Mercer, has introduced. It is a question for the people of city and borough to settle. Let there be no interference from the outside.

Why did the opponents of the original bills argue for the insertion of a referendum clause and confine their opposition before the Senate committee to that one feature? Because they knew that the question must be finally settled by the people interested and by them only.

Why did Senator Charles A. Reed insist that the referendum clause should be added to the original bills? Because he knew that it was a question that must be finally settled by the people interested and by them only.

Why has Senator Hutchinson introduced bills that aim to deprive the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield of the right to settle a question, the justice of which has been admitted by both houses of the Legislature and the Governor? That is something which the Senator from Mercer will have trouble in explaining satisfactorily.

Are the other members of the Legislature going to support the Senator from Mercer in his attempt to interfere with the internal affairs of this community, the right to settle which without interference has already been admitted? Not if they have the slightest consideration for the rights and desires of the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield. Let them bury these bills so deep that Senator Hutchinson will begin to realize that it is not always wise to interfere with other people's business.

Herbert W. Bowen, American minister to Venezuela is to be congratulated on the successful termination of his peace-making journey to Washington where he has represented Venezuela in the settlement of claims against that country by Great Britain, Germany and Italy. Public opinion expressed in the editorials of the best papers is to the effect that the "Venezuela controversy is on the verge of settlement largely as the result of Mr. Bowen's promptness in presenting President Castro's proposition and the confidence which all the powers have in him as a peace-maker." America has a right to rejoice in the maintainance of the Monroe Doctrine and the services of her Consul in the interests of peace.

New Jersey's present trouble with the pollution of the Passaic river ought to be an object lesson to those who have talked about a trunk line sewer to the Raritan river. If North Plainfield should join Bound Brook and Somerville in emptying its sewerage into the Raritan, it is only a question of a little time when the communities further down the river would bring about a state of affairs similar to that which now exists along the Passaic.

The February Staff.

The staff of physicians selected for duty at Muhlenberg Hospital for the month of February are Dr. W. H. Murray, Dr. J. H. Buchanan and Dr. P. J. Zeglio.

LOCAL PASTORS DRAW LESSONS FROM THE WESTFIELD DISASTER

Difference of Opinion Regarding the Responsibility For the Wreck—Some Suggestions Made.

ITS HORROR MENTIONED IN PRAYER

NEARLY EVERY CHURCH HAD A SERVICE WHICH TOOK THE FORM OF A MEMORIAL SERVICE.

The Responsibility for the Accident, Remedies to Prevent a Repetition, and Lessons to Be Drawn From It Were the Chief Topics Discussed by the Pastors From the Pulpits of the Local Churches Sunday Morning and Evening.

With the horrors of the Westfield disaster fresh in their minds, the local pastors could not fail to refer, to the great calamity which had fallen upon the city. At least one service at nearly every church took on the nature of a memorial service. The responsibility for the catastrophe, the remedies to prevent a repetition and the lessons to be drawn, bitter perhaps, but none the less true, were the chief topics touched upon in the several sermons that took the disaster as their subject.

While the subject was uppermost in the hearts of every congregation, in some cases only passing reference to the disaster was made in sermon and prayer. Some of the special sermons on topics relating directly to it are given in brief.

Rev. J. W. Richardson.

Rev. John Wilbur Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church preached a sermon Sunday night on the recent disaster at Westfield. His sermon follows in part:

"Perhaps the terrible accident of Tuesday night was caused by a careless engineer, or a slow train dispatcher. The thing to do now, is not so much to find where the responsibility lies, but to raise an investigation for the purpose of learning the conditions on which the railroad is being run, and to endeavor to bring about better facilities for providing for the safety of the passengers who may ride on that road.

"Every railroad should be compelled to employ intelligent men and not those who are irresponsible on account of the cheapness of their wage. A radical reform is needed and it is for that reason I preach this sermon this evening. Public sentiment should be aroused and those who have lost their lives shall not have died in vain if the lives of other passengers may be made more safe. Let the courts say that $35,000 be the penalty for killing a man and the railroads will soon adopt better appliances for the safety of the patrons of the road. $6,000 for a husband, father, brother? It is a farce.

"Those who have died in the railroad carnage are martyrs and have not died in vain if railroad improvement can be obtained. Steel passenger coaches should be used on all passenger roads. They will not burn in case of a collision and will not telescope.

"I do not say that the Central Railroad of New Jersey is responsible for the accident. The responsibility is traced to the train dispatcher, the stockholder, and down as far as the builders of the engine. Hereafter it should be made compulsory for all railroads operating camelback engines to employ two engineers where the fireman is isolated from the engineer. Two engineers is the cry from now on."

Rev. A. C. Nickerson.

"The Shadow Over Us," was the subject of the discourse by Rev. A. C. Nickerson, of All Souls' church, Park avenue. Of course it referred to the recent calamity which has cast such gloom over the city. Mr. Nickerson began his sermon by saying that the shadows of life are full of meaning for mortal men.

"The shadow of common danger," the speaker said, "impresses us very much at this time. We feel that it might have been any one of us who was called away so suddenly. Those who were taken away were all valuable people whose task increased their self-respect and filled the palm of love with the power to bless. They were our neighbors and friends who were taken away and this calamity unites us all as one man.

"This calamity shows us more plainly our dependence on individuals. It was a needless sacrifice of lives. It is not a railroad with the best ballast that counts so much as a level head, not the brightest electric lantern, but the clear eyes of the engineer and fireman in which we trust, not the automatic alarm signals, but the fidelity of the switch-tender which is our dependence. Corporations must learn that no economy is permissable which puts into machinery or adornments that which it takes out of the salaries of reliable men. The railroad does not seem to blame for the collision and what explanation can be given of an utter disregard of signals we do not know.

"The question of the use of stoves should be looked into. They should be barred absolutely. No explanation of other heating apparatus can lessen the offence resulting in unmentioned agonies. Human blood still seems necessary to purchase protection at grade crossings and from the deadly train stove."

In conclusion Mr. Nickerson spoke of a number of shadows and from each he drew helpful lessons. He said that the life of Jesus was passed in the darkness of the world and he was acquainted with grief. Where he found the heart of God human mortals can find it. Mr. Nickerson urged all to trust in the Spirit of Jesus and the love of God.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, was to have preached a special sermon, Sunday night on the subject of "The Lessons of the Catastrophe," but just before the sermon he announced that owing to many duties during the day and the past week he was suffering with a nervous headache and was physically unable to proceed with his sermon, and stated that A. P. Tulp, the sppply at Marconnier chapel, had very kindly consented to preach in his place.

Mr. Tulp delivered an interesting and helpful sermon on the subject of "Sacrifice," using the illustration of Christ giving His life for the redemption of the world.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich.

"Teachings of the Tragedy," was the subject of the special sermon by Rev. C. L. Goodrich at the Congregational church, Sunday morning. In the course of his remarks Mr. Goodrich said that he did not know enough facts concerning the recent railroad disaster to blame the railroad company or the engineer. However, he said, that so long as God continued to give one control of himself and allowed him to do this and that according to his own will, these accidents would happen. Mr. Goodrich said that if people were machines such accidents would not occur, but he did not believe that would be wise.

The pastor drew lessons from the disaster. He said that all should be ready at any minute when called. By way of comparison, he said that there were other powers for disaster besides that of steam, and one of these was the power of the saloon. He stated that while the accident was but for a brief time, the saloon was for all time and the results of the saloon be considered far worse than those of the wreck.

Rev. John McMurray.

Taking as his theme "Be ye ready; at such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh," Rev. John MacMurray, of the Monroe Avenue church, expressed himself, Sunday night, in connection with the Westfield disaster. While offering sympathy for the bereaved and signifying extreme sorrow for the results of the terrible crash, he declared with emphasis that measures should be taken to fix the responsibility.

"The first impulse," he said, "is to blame it upon the engineer, but knowing railroad men as I do I am loathe to believe he was guilty of criminal negligence. Davis' schedule called for ninety miles in 109 minutes and the railroad officials and general public expect him to maintain it. That calls for a clear right of way, a good engine and no delays. He had a right to expect this and work upon it until warned to the contrary.

"Some blame ought to go to the railroad company. Stoves in cars are a violation of the law, and if the engine was out of order so much more neglect on the part of the officials. I may be called unsympathetic for it, but the accident can be declared one of the penalties the traveling public has for demanding fast time and winking at violations of the law."

In conclusion the preacher said one beautiful thought is gained from the parting scene of Engineer Davis and his wife, Tuesday morning, when she murmured a prayer for his safety during the day, and that is, that friends should never leave each other except with feelings of love, for the end may come at any time.

Four Score and Eight.

Mrs. Mary L. Force, of Watchung avenue, quietly celebrated her eighty-eighth birthday Sunday. She was the recipient of gifts from her children and a neighbor presented her with a beautiful blooming azalia tree. Mrs. Force is in good physical health and able to be about the house with regularity.

Big Real Estate Deal.

One of the largest real estate deals was closed Saturday, when Robert H. McCutchen, of North Branch, purchased the handsome country residence of W. A. Barnaby on Plainfield avenue. Mr. McCutchen expects to occupy the property himself. Charles H. Lyman, of this city, was the broker in the deal.

The Easy Pill.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers do not gripe nor weaken the system. They cure biliousness, jaundice, constipation and inactive livers, by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently, yet effectually, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach, liver and bowels that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely. These famous little pills exert a decided tonic effect upon the organs involved, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the trouble. L. W. Randolph.

WRECK VICTIM BURIED WITH MILITARY HONORS

Funeral of J. Everitt Reighton Held From Trinity Reformed Church Tuesday Afternoon.

SERVICES AT HILLSIDE

COMPANY K ACTED AS ESCORT FOR REMAINS OF FORMER MEMBER.

Impressive Service at Trinity Reformed Church Conducted by the Pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck—The Pallbearers.

Marching with measured tread and the sound of muffled drums accompanying the funeral dirge played on fifes, the remains of J. Everitt Reighton were borne last Tuesday to the quiet spot in Hillside cemetery where all that remained mortal of the young soldier was consigned back to the dust. It was the only military funeral held over the remains of any of the victims and it marked the last of the funerals of those who succumbed to the injuries of the disaster.

The funeral services over the remains of young Reighton were attended with great ceremony. Shortly before 2 o'clock the members of Company K, and the Independent Fife and Drum Corps assembled at the house, 1245 Park avenue, and escorted the hearse bearing the remains to the Trinity Reformed church where the services were held. The passage of a long line of carriages and the uniformed ranks of soldiers was an impressive sight.

The casket was placed on biers in front of the pulpit. The flowers displayed at the services were very handsome. Among the pieces was a wreath of lilies of the valley sent by the employes of the local telephone exchange, where the young man was employed until he accepted the position in New York, which he held until his death. There was also a cluster of flowers from the members of the Oreseent Club, of this city and Elizabeth, of which club he was a member, and a tribute from Company K.

The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of the church. The simple services of the Reformed church were followed. Several of the young man's favorite hymns were rendered on the organ during the services.

After the services the remains were borne from the church by his soldier companions in uniform and then the march was resumed to Hillside cemetery where with military honors the remains were laid at rest.

The pall bearers who were all intimate friends of the departed were: Corporals Hort and Whitney and Privates Stovell, Jennings, Wickoff and Phillips.

At the grave as the casket was being lowered Sergeant Seiders sounded the taps and three volleys were fired by the entire company.

WHIST TROPHY HERE.

The Camera Club Captured Metropolitan Trophy From Brooklyn.

Plainfield again came to the fore in metropolitan whist circles Saturday evening when the team from the Plainfield Camera Club defeated the four of the Brooklyn whist Club for the Metropolitan trophy at Brooklyn. The score was19 to 8. The Camera Club was represented by Arthur F. Freeman, Fred H. Freeman, Ralph T. Willis and W. J. R. Hegeman, Jr. The crack four of the Brooklyn Whist Club were was on hand, Messrs. Ohlwetler, Buffington, Leslie and Kling. The next game will probably be played this evening in this city with the Newark Bay Boat Club as challengers. The trophy was displayed in the window of J. Hervey Doane's jewelry store.

Owns His Home, Now.

James R. Blair has purchased of the owner, Freeman J. Shotwell, the house and lot at No. 78 Duer street.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER JAN. 12, 1902.

Trains will leave Plainfield as follows:—

7 57 a. m.—Fast line daily, with Pullman Vestibule Parlor Cars, for Pittsburg and Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

*2 27 p. m.—Western Express, daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

3 47 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, and Chicago, daily for Knoxville, via Shenandoah Valley Route, for Cleveland, except Saturday.

The Southern's Palm Limited—1:20 p.m. week-days.

The Atlantic Coast Line Florida Special—2:55 p. m. week days.

Seaboard Florida Limited—3:27 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1 05, 4 04, 7 57, 10 09 a. m., 12 01, 2 27, 3 47, 10 09 p. m. On Sunday at 1 00, 9 07, 9 28 a. m., 1 04, 1 27, and 10 07 p. m.

For Newark and New York—3 45, 5 13, 6 09, 6 13, 6 35, 6 39, 6 55, 7 04, 7 17, 7 40, 7 47, 7 54, 8 13, 8 30, 8 39, 8 55, 9 04, 9 30, 9 47, 10 07, 10 30, 11 04, 11 41 a. m., 12 00, 12 10, 12 40, 1 04, 1 30, 2 05, 2 30, 3 41, 4 04, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 21, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. Sunday—1 05, 1 30, 2 05, 2 30, 3 41, 4 04, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. Express, 3 45, 5 13, 6 09, 6 13, 6 35, 6 39, 6 55, 7 04, 7 17, 7 40, 7 47, 7 54, 8 13, 8 30, 8 39, 8 55, 9 04, 9 30, 9 47, 10 07, 10 30, 11 04, 11 41 a. m., 12 00, 12 10, 12 40, 1 04, 1 30, 2 05, 2 30, 3 41, 4 04, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. For New York only, 9 30 a. m., 2 55 and 4 30 p. m. Parlor Cars.

For Philadelphia—1 05, 6 55, 7 10, 8 00, 9 00, 9 07, 9 30, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 3 55, 4 04, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. Express, 7 10, 9 00, 9 07, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 4 04, 5 00, 6 30, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. Sunday—1 05, 6 55, 7 10, 8 00, 9 00, 9 07, 9 30, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 3 55, 4 04, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m.

For Atlantic City—10,55 a. m., and 3 35 p. m. week days. Sundays, 8 30 a. m. Through Vestibuled Trains. Buffet Parlor Cars and Standard Coaches on week days. Parlor Smoking Car, Parlor Cars, Dining Car and Standard Coaches on Sunday.

For Cape May—1 37 p. m. week-days.

For Delaware—1 05, 6 55, 7 10, 8 00, 9 00, 9 07, 9 30, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 3 55, 4 04, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. Express, 7 10, 9 00, 9 07, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 4 04, 5 00, 6 30, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. Sunday—1 05, 6 55, 7 10, 8 00, 9 00, 9 07, 9 30, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 3 55, 4 04, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m.

For Trenton—1 05, 6 55, 7 10, 8 00, 9 00, 9 07, 9 30, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 3 55, 4 04, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. Express, 7 10, 9 00, 9 07, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 4 04, 5 00, 6 30, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. Sunday—1 05, 6 55, 7 10, 8 00, 9 00, 9 07, 9 30, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 3 55, 4 04, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m.

For Bristol—1 05, 6 55, 7 10, 8 00, 9 00, 9 07, 9 30, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 3 55, 4 04, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. Express, 7 10, 9 00, 9 07, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 4 04, 5 00, 6 30, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. Sunday—1 05, 6 55, 7 10, 8 00, 9 00, 9 07, 9 30, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 3 55, 4 04, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m.

For Morrisville—1 05, 6 55, 7 10, 8 00, 9 00, 9 07, 9 30, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 3 55, 4 04, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. Express, 7 10, 9 00, 9 07, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 4 04, 5 00, 6 30, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. Sunday—1 05, 6 55, 7 10, 8 00, 9 00, 9 07, 9 30, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 3 55, 4 04, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m.

For Fort Dix—1 05, 6 55, 7 10, 8 00, 9 00, 9 07, 9 30, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 3 55, 4 04, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. Express, 7 10, 9 00, 9 07, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 4 04, 5 00, 6 30, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. Sunday—1 05, 6 55, 7 10, 8 00, 9 00, 9 07, 9 30, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 2 00, 3 07, 3 55, 4 04, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, via Trenton—8 30, 11 01 a. m., 2 27 and 9 27 p. m. week-days. 9 27 p. m. Sunday.

For Flemington—11 01 a. m. and 5 25 p. m.

For Freehold and Jamesburg, via Monmouth Junction—8 30 a. m., 1 05 and 5 25 p. m. week-days. Sundays—8 07 a. m.

For Long Branch, Sea Girt, Spring Lake, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R.—9 40 a. m., 12 55, and 5 45 p. m., 12 07 night week-days. Sundays—10 50 a. m., 5 45 p. m. Stop at Interlaken for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—All through trains connect at Jersey City with boats for Pavonia Ferry, affording direct transfer to and from Fulton Street, avoiding double ferriage. Journey across New York City.

Leave New York for Elizabeth—From West Twenty-third Street Station—4 10, 7 35, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 a. m., 12 40, 1 40, 2 40, 3 40, 4 40, 5 40, 6 40, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 p. m., 12 40 night. Sundays—2 40, 4 40, 5 40, 6 40, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 a. m., 12 40, 1 40, 2 40, 3 40, 4 40, 5 40, 6 40, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 p. m., 12 40 night.

From Liberty Street—4 10, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 a. m., 12 40, 1 40, 2 40, 3 40, 4 40, 5 40, 6 40, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 p. m., 12 40 night.

From Cortlandt Street—4 10, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 a. m., 12 40, 1 40, 2 40, 3 40, 4 40, 5 40, 6 40, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 p. m., 12 40 night.

For Woodbridge—6 44, 9 05, 11 07 a. m., 12 55, 3 09 4 50, 7 05, 7 56, 10 25 p. m. and 12 10 night week-days. Sundays—8 05, 11 44 a. m., 5 51 and 10 16 p. m.

For Perth Amboy—6 44, 9 05, 11 07 a. m., 12 55, 3 09, 4 50, 5 45, 7 05, 7 56, 10 25 p. m. and 12 10 night week-days. Sundays—8 05, 11 44 a. m., 5 51 and 10 16 p. m.

For Fast Millstone—7 30 a. m., 12 40, 3 07 and 5 25 p. m. week-days.

For Trenton—1 05, 6 55, 7 10, 8 00, 8 55, 9 07, 9 30, 10 45, 11 01 a. m., 12 01, 1 35, 1 57, 2 07, 2 55, 3 15, 3 55, 4 04, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 15, 7 56, 8 17, 8 54, 9 31, 10 11, 11 05 p. m., 12 01 a. m. Express, 7 10, 9 07, 9 28, 10 40 a. m., 1 04, 3 40, 4 37, 7 44, 9 37 and 10 07 p. m.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, via Trenton—8 30, 11 01 a. m., 2 27 and 9 27 p. m. week-days. 9 27 p. m. Sunday.

For Flemington—11 01 a. m. and 5 25 p. m.

For Freehold and Jamesburg, via Monmouth Junction—8 30 a. m., 1 05 and 5 25 p. m. week-days. Sundays—8 07 a. m.

For Long Branch, Sea Girt, Spring Lake, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R.—9 40 a. m., 12 55, and 5 45 p. m., 12 07 night week-days. Sundays—10 50 a. m., 5 45 p. m. Stop at Interlaken for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—All through trains connect at Jersey City with boats for Pavonia Ferry, affording direct transfer to and from Fulton Street, avoiding double ferriage. Journey across New York City.

Leave New York for Elizabeth—From West Twenty-third Street Station—4 10, 7 35, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 a. m., 12 40, 1 40, 2 40, 3 40, 4 40, 5 40, 6 40, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 p. m., 12 40 night. Sundays—2 40, 4 40, 5 40, 6 40, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 a. m., 12 40, 1 40, 2 40, 3 40, 4 40, 5 40, 6 40, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 p. m., 12 40 night.

From Liberty Street—4 10, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 a. m., 12 40, 1 40, 2 40, 3 40, 4 40, 5 40, 6 40, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 p. m., 12 40 night.

From Cortlandt Street—4 10, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 a. m., 12 40, 1 40, 2 40, 3 40, 4 40, 5 40, 6 40, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 p. m., 12 40 night.

For time from Desbrosses and Cortlandt Streets consult time-tables to be procured from agents.

W. W. ATTERBURY, J. R. WOOD, Gen'l Manager. Gen'l Pass. Agent.

Vegetable and Flower SEEDS

Reliable and Tested. Catalogue Mailed Free

WEEBER & DON Seed Merchants 114 CHAMBERS STREET NEW YORK

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 261 West Front street, to South side of Somerset street, first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

AGENTS WANTED.

LIFE OF T. DEWITT TALMAGE, by his son, REV. FRANK DEWITT TALMAGE and associate editors of Christian Herald. Only book endorsed by Talmage family. Enormous profit for agents who act quickly. Outfit ten cents. Write immediately CLARK & CO., 209 S. Fourth Street, Phila., Pa. Mention this paper. 2 31

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 129, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

Juniors Will Entertain.

The Juniors of the North Plainfield High School will entertain the Seniors on Friday evening, February 13, at 8 o'clock at the High School. Elaborate arrangements have been made for the coming event and a most enjoyable time is anticipated.

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT Nov. 16, 1902.

For New York—5 27, 6 00, 6 45, 8 00, 8 45, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m., 12 30, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 30 night. Sunday—5 27, 6 00, 6 45, 8 00, 8 45, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m., 12 30, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 30 night.

For Newark—5 27, 6 00, 6 45, 7 05, 8 00, 8 45, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m., 12 30, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 30 night. Sunday—5 27, 6 00, 6 45, 8 00, 8 45, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m., 12 30, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m.

For Somerville—8 35, 7 12, 8 21, 9 30, 9 54, 11 30 a. m., 1 07, 2 09, 3 11, 4 28, 5 45, 6 39, 7 30, 8 30, 9 54, 11 30 p. m. Sundays—8 54 a. m., 4 28, 6 39, 8 30, 9 54, 11 30 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5 55, 9 54 a. m., 2 11, 4 28 p. m. Sundays—8 54 a. m., 4 28, 6 39 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—4 28, 9 54 a. m. Sundays—8 54 a. m., 4 28 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—11 35, 11 55 a. m., 4 00, 7 00 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove)—8 54 a. m., 4 00, 11 55 p. m. Wednesday and Saturday only, 12 01 a. m. Returning—From Ocean Grove, week-days, 6 11 a. m., 12 30, 4 11 p. m. Sundays—8 54 a. m., 1 30, 4 11 p. m.

For Atlantic City—8 45 a. m., 2 50 p. m.

For Philadelphia—4 27, 7 44, 8 26, 9 14, 9 54, 10 45, 11 34, 11 55 a. m., 12 46, 1 30, 2 17, 3 14, 4 20, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 17, 8 14, 9 20, 10 30, 11 34 p. m., 12 46 night. Sunday—4 27, 7 44, 8 26, 9 14, 9 54, 10 45, 11 34 a. m., 12 46, 1 30, 2 17, 3 14, 4 20, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 17, 8 14, 9 20, 10 30, 11 34 p. m., 12 46 night.

For Trenton—4 27, 6 26, 7 12, 7 44, 8 26, 9 14, 9 54, 10 45, 11 34 a. m., 12 46, 1 30, 2 17, 3 14, 4 20, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 17, 8 14, 9 20, 10 30, 11 34 p. m., 12 46 night. Sunday—4 27, 7 44, 8 26, 9 14, 9 54, 10 45, 11 34 a. m., 12 46, 1 30, 2 17, 3 14, 4 20, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 17, 8 14, 9 20, 10 30, 11 34 p. m., 12 46 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—4 27, 6 26, 7 44, 9 54, (10 45 Reading only), 11 34 a. m., 1 30, 3 14, 5 00 through train), 11 17 night. Sundays—4 27, 9 54, 11 34 a. m., 5 00, 11 17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—4 27, 9 54, 11 34 a. m., 1 30 p. m., 11 17 night. Sundays—4 27 a. m., 5 00, p. m., 11 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—4 14, 11 34 a. m., 1 30, 7 13, 4 16 (Parlor cars only, Royal Blue), 11 17 night. Sundays—4 14, 11 34 a. m., 1 30, 11 17 night. Express, 7 30 a. m., 1 17 night. Sundays—7 30 a. m., 1 17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—4 27, 6 26, 7 44, (10 45 Reading only), 11 34 a. m., 1 30, 5 00 through train), 11 17 night. Sundays—4 27, 9 54, 11 34 a. m., 5 00, 11 17 night.

Change cars at Round Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Man'gr. C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect November 16, 1902.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Leave South Plainfield 10 31 a. m.

Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

Leave South Plainfield 6 40 p. m.

Daily, except Sunday, express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations, except Suspension Bridge.

For time of local trains see pocket time-tables. Telephone No. 118-B

ROLLIN H. WILBUR, General Superintendent.

CHARLES S. LEE, General Passenger Agent.

26 Cortlandt Street, New York.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 218 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m.

On Saturday's close half hour later.

MAILS CLOSE AS FOLLOWS.

Arrive—7.30, 9.45, 11.30 a. m., 2.30, 5.45, 8.30 p. m.

Close—7.00, 9.30 a. m., 1.00, 3.15, 6.00, 7.30 p. m.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD STATION.

Arrive—9.40 a. m., 3.15 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—10.00 a. m., 3.45 and 6.00 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Close—4.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton Close 12.35 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct.

Arrive—8.00 a. m., 2.30, 5.30 p. m.

Close—7.30 a. m., 1.00, 3.15 and 6.30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7.30, 9.45, 11.30 a. m. and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.00 and 9.30 a. m., 12.35, 6.30 and 7.45 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South close 4.30 and 8.45 p. m.

Through fast mail for East, close 1.00 and 6.45 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE & GALLA (Mt. Bethel.)

Arrive—1.30 p. m. Close—9.00 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9.30 to 10.30 a. m. Mail closes at 9.15 p. m.

H. H. BIRD P. M.

THEATRICAL.

The termination of Mrs. Fiske's successful engagement in "Mary of Magdala" at the Manhattan Theatre, New York, has been set for Saturday, February 28, when the Heyse drama will have been presented for fifteen weeks in New York City. The success of Mrs. Fiske, the play, the supporting company and the production have been so great that the engagement might well continue until the end of the theatrical season, and indeed, endeavors to this end have been made. It was found impossible, however, to cancel bookings in Boston, Cincinnati and other cities, made last season, and Mrs. Fiske must leave to fulfill these contracts. The attendance at the Manhattan Theatre continues uniformly large and there is practically no decrease in the number of those who desire to see Mrs. Fiske's superb interpretation of Heyse's masterly play. The performance appeals to every class of theatre-goer and as well to those who do not habitually visit the theatre. The announcement of the close of the engagement has caused a still greater demand for seats and the final performances of "Mary of Magdala" will undoubtedly be witnessed by the largest audiences of the engagement. In addition to the regular Saturday matinees, there will be an extra Wednesday matinee on February 4, and holiday matinees on Lincoln's Birthday and Washington's Birthday.

Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, who has been ill for the past week, does not improve as well as his friends would like and his condition is critical.

Many School Children are Sickly

Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for Children, used by Mother Gray, Nurse in Children's Home, New York, Break up Colds in 24 hours, Prevent Fevers, Headache, Feverishness, Teething Disorders, move and regulate the Bowels, and Destroy Worms. Mrs. Emily Manor, Meriden, Ct., says: "It is the best medicine for children when feverish and constipated." Sold by all druggists or by mail, 25c. Sample sent FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, LeR

HARVEY L. PATTERSON

CHAS T. THAYER

CRAIG WALDRON

THOS. A. CUMING

HORACE G. HAND

OTHER WRECK VICTIMS LAID AT REST WITH SOLEMN SERVICES

Funerals Held From Churches and Homes Were Attended by Throngs of Sorrowing Friends.

THREE SERVICES HELD IN CHURCHES

IN MANY CASES THERE WAS NOT ROOM TO ACCOMMODATE ALL THOSE WHO DESIRED TO ATTEND.

Two Prominent Young Men Were Laid at Rest Saturday Afternoon—Company K Formed a Guard for the Remains of Elias Giles, Although It Was Not a Military Funeral—Pythian Knights at H. L. Patterson's Funeral.

Of the obsequies held for those who met death in the Westfield disaster on the Jersey Central Railroad, Tuesday night, three services have been held in churches. St. Mary's R. C. church was packed Friday morning with those who wanted to honor the memory of Edward Flynn. The next of the church funerals was that of Thomas A. Cuming, one of the most widely known of the victims. His obsequies were held from the Park Avenue Baptist church, where he had labored with so much earnestness and zeal, and the sanctuary was far inadequate to hold all those who desired to attend. Trinity Reformed church was the scene of an immense gathering sunday afternoon when the last sad rites were said over the remains of Elias Giles. While the members of Company K, of which he had been a member, attended in a body escorting the casket, it was not made a regular military funeral at the request of the family.

Other funerals were held Saturday afternoon and Sunday and like the others, the profound sadness which had been felt throughout the community, was apparent among the throngs that attended. Of the services to come, the largest will be those over the remains of J. Everitt Reighton, a young man with a very large circle of acquaintances. He will be buried from Trinity Reformed church Tuesday afternoon with military honors. He was a member of Company K.

Thomas A. Cuming.

The first public funeral of the many held during the past few days of victims of the railroad wreck, was that of Thomas Adams Cuming on Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock. A short service held at the late home in Putnam avenue, preceded one at the Park Avenue Baptist church a half hour later. Before the cortege arrived at the church every seat, except those reserved for the near relatives, was occupied and the Sunday-school room had to be opened to accommodate all who wished to attend. Those present were personal friends or acquaintances of the deceased and it was, indeed, a sorrowing assemblage. The members of the Sunday-school, in which Mr. Cuming was such an active spirit, attended in a body, while every family of the church was represented.

Placed about the pulpit platform were beautiful floral tributes from the church, Sunday-school, business associates, personal warm friends and relatives, while resting upon the casket were other tributes all of which added solemn testimony to the esteem in which Mr. Cuming was held by all. As the casket was taken into the church, a funeral dirge was played very softly on the organ by Daniel E. Davis, organist. Preceding the remains walked the pall-bearers, the first four of whom were ushers at Mr. Cuming's wedding a little over a year ago. They were Dr. Norman H. Probasco, Charles B. Morse, Herbert L. Richardson, Benjamin W. Letson, S. Arthur Krom and Joseph M. Hawkins.

The services began with the reading of Scripture by Rev. Irwin Dennett, of Brooklyn, at whose church the father of the deceased was at one time an attendant. Then followed an eloquent eulogy by Rev. Dr. Robert Bruce Hull, also of Brooklyn. Dr. Hull baptized Mr. Cuming in 1885 into the membership of his church and from early youth he attended Dr. Hull's church, being in the primary department of the Sunday-school.

For these reasons Dr. Hull was especially able to speak of Mr. Cuming's early church life. His words were filled with tenderness and admiration for the departed, referring affectionately to his manly Christian character and how from a boy he had followed closely the good teaching of godly parents and had profited thereby. He said that what appeared to be a separation now was only for a time, that there would be a grand long reunion later on when for all eternity the broken family would live together in supreme happiness. Dr. Hull brought a touching testimony from Mr. Cuming's Sunday-school teacher in Brooklyn, who had said "You can say for me that Mr. Cuming was a good boy." The speaker's words to the bereaved family were filled with sympathy and while Dr. Hull was talking, as well as during the entire service there was scarcely a dry eye.

Rev. W. T. Dorwood, pastor of the Baptist church at Stelton, followed with a few earnest words. He spoke of the "Ecclesiastical Relations" he had with Mr. Cuming and at the close read an impressive letter written by Rev. Dr. Searls, formerly of Stelton but now of Philadelphia.

At this time Charles L. Lewis sang tenderly, "It Is Well With My Soul," after which the pastor of the church, Rev. J. W. Richardson, spoke of Mr. Cuming's town life. These remarks will be published tomorrow in full.

At the close of the above remarks, Mr. Lewis sang "Sometime We'll Understand." An opportunity was then given all present to take a last look upon the face of the departed one. Immediately after the service the remains were taken to Stelton for burial. Dr. Hull made the closing prayer at the church service.

Harold W. Tomlinson.

The late home of Harold W. Tomlinson, of Verdon street, was entirely inadequate to hold the host of sorrowing relatives and friends who sought to attend the services held over his remains, Saturday afternoon. It was crowded in every part and many people were turned away.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich was in charge and after a Scripture reading spoke on the text, "Living or dying, we are the Lord's." Continuing on these lines he spoke of the fine character and Christian life of the young man so suddenly taken away; of God's care for His own even when, through the agency of men and the forces of nature, things He does not wish, come to pass; of the Heavenly home from which no one would ever recall a loved one and that five minutes of Heaven compensate for a violent death.

Two of the departed one's favorite hymns, "Count Your Blessings" and "Now the Day is Over" were sung by a quartette composed of Miss Etta Raybert, Mrs. Charlotte M. Rose, Fred Tallamy and R. Wilson Derby. The service closed with prayer by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis and benediction by Rev Mr. Goodrich.

Late in the afternoon the remains were laid to rest in Hillside cemetery, the bearers being Morris C. VanArsdale, James D. Macnab, Gilbert T. Rhodes, Asa F. Randolph, Philip S. Suffern and Dr. Marc L. Clawson.

Included in the large number of floral tributes presented by friends were a wreath from the Congregational church Men's Club and a pillow from the trustees of the same church.

Elias Giles.

The tramp of soldiers' feet and a long line of slowly moving carriages along the streets of the business section of the town Sunday afternoon marked the funeral of another of the victims of the recent wreck. The funeral was that of Elias Giles, a member of Company K, who lost his life with others in the frightful disaster of last week.

Short services were held at the late residence, 417 East Sixth street, at 1 o'clock by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, of which the young man was a member.

At Trinity Reformed church, where the remains were borne after the services at the house, rites of the Reformed church were read by the pastor. The church was crowded, long before the time for the service, with sorrowing friends.

The march from the house to the church was a solemn one. The members of Company K attended in a body in uniform. They formed a cordon in front of the house and when the procession started they took their places in front of the hearse and led the way to the church where they drew up opposite the edifice while the remains were being borne into the church. After the casket had been carried up the steps the soldiers passed in behind and took their places near the front.

The services were simple but very impressive. Rev. Dr. Schenck made a short prayer and read passages of Scripture. He delivered no eulogy over the remains but referred to Mr. Giles as a pupil of that Sunday-school and read his favorite hymn "Jesus for Me Always."

The floral display at the church was very handsome. A triangle of roses was contributed by members of the Y. M. C. A., of which he was a member, and a broken column made of flowers was the gift of the members of Company K. A handsome wreath was sent by his Sunday-school teacher, Miss Mabel Wilson and class and a floral piece was the gift of H. B. Claflin & Co., of New York, where he deceased was employed.

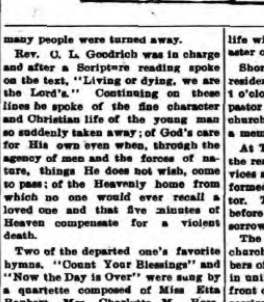
The interment was in Bound Brook and the funeral cortege was escorted to the outskirts of the city by the members of Company K. At the cemetery the interment was witnessed only by the family and intimate friends.

The pall bearers were: Clarence Bittenbohse, Elmer Wheeler, Frank Piatts, Robert Praden, Archibald Derby and William Trembath. The honorary bearers were a squad of eight members of Company K under command of Corporal Harold G. Whitney. They were: Frank Wyckoff, Howard Woolston, C. D. Pope, C. S. Wilson, Roy DeCamp, John Turner and William Hayes.

At the session of the Sunday-school, immediately following the funeral, a solemn and impressive prayer service was held, bearing on the death of young Giles, one of the members of the school.

ROBERT W. HAPPERSETT

EDWARD V. FLYNN



Elias Giles.

Miss Lera Linbarger.

The funeral of Miss Lera Linbarger, who was the only woman who lost her life in the wreck, was held Sunday afternoon from the residence of Mrs. DuBois, of 515 Park avenue, where Miss Linbarger formerly lived. There was a large number of people present from New York, Brooklyn and New Brunswick. The floral display was very attractive.

The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church, who was the pastor of the unfortunate young woman since she has resided in this city. The services were very impressive. A few remarks were made by the officiating clergymen in which he eulogized the young woman. Charles L. Lewis rendered a solo during the service.

The interment was in Hillside cemetery. The pall bearers were: Gill. Bender, Rea Bender, Kimball Bender and Ribbert Davis.

Harvey L. Patterson.

Of all the many funeral services which have taken place in this vicinity within the past few days, there were of a more impressive character than those over the remains of Harvey L. Patterson, which were held at the residence of his parents in West Dunellen, Sunday night. Members of three fraternal orders and one organization to which he belonged were in attendance. They were Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., Crescent Company, No. 13, U. R. K. of P., both of this city; Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of New Market, and Atlas Lodge, F. and A. M., of New York. In addition, included among the friends, were a delegation from the offices of Stephen & Mayer, of New York, where he was employed as bookkeeper.

Rev. L. R. Howard was in charge of the service and spoke at some length upon the lovable, almost childlike disposition of the young man. He referred to his pure Christian life and drew a lesson from his untiring devotion to the friends and the orders he loved.

Following Mr. Howard, while a guard from the Uniform Rank stood about the casket with drawn swords, Prelate Robert L. Lee, of Perseverance Lodge, conducted the beautiful Pythian service. At its close each member was permitted to gaze upon the lifeless form and deposit the Pythian sprig of myrtle beside it.

This morning the remains were taken to Rye, Westchester county, N. Y., where they were interred with honors by the Uniform Rank. An escort of ten members in charge of Captain John Hall was in charge and Thomas Muir acted as prelate. The pall bearers were Charles McGinley, J. E. Flannery, Jacob Blimm, Jr., William N. Runyon, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and William Feiring.

George E. Reed.

The funeral of the late George E. Reed was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence on Clinton avenue. There was a large number of people present at the services and the display of flowers was very handsome. The services at the house and at Hillside cemetery, where the interment was held, were conducted by Rev. J. A. Sproul, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Dunellen.

Horace Hand.

The funeral of Horace Hand, who was one of the victims of the recent wreck, was held Saturday afternoon from his late residence at 1:30. There was a large number of people present at the services at the house and the display of flowers was very handsome.

Rev. J. H. Parks, pastor emeritus of the Baptist church of Scotch Plains, conducted the services and delivered a short eulogy over the remains. Large delegations from the local lodges of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics were present. Twilight Council, No. 7, of Scotch Plains, had charge of the ritualistic service. Past Councilor, H. R. Thorn had charge of the services both at the house and at the grave.

The pallbearers were:

George Johnson, Charles Wade, Wilson Clark and Samuel Mathew.

Entertainers.

Among those who will take part in the entertainment portion of the Plainfield Democratic Club ball at the Casino, February 13, will be the Edward Brothers, of Newark, and George L. Carroll and Robert L. Swart, of Elizabeth.

Miss Grace MacKee, of Orange place, has been confined to her bed by illness for a week.

Miss Jeurie DeCamp, of Linden avenue, has returned from a visit with friends at Metuchen.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

DIED.

THAYER—Suddenly, on Tuesday, Jan. 27, 1903, Charles T. Thayer, aged 43 years.

WILLIAMS—Suddenly, on Tuesday, Jan. 27, 1903, Edgar W. Williams, husband of Grace Petrie Williams, aged 33 years, 11 months, 9 days.

TOMLINSON—Suddenly, on Tuesday, Jan. 27, 1903, Harold W., son of Amanda P. and the late George E. Tomlinson, aged 21 years.

MACKENZIE—At the residence of her parents, 1017 LaGrande avenue, on Thursday, Jan. 29, 1903, Grace S., daughter of Edmund L. and Julia Mackenzie, aged 5 years, 9 months and 15 days.

SMITH—Suddenly, on Tuesday, Jan. 27, 1903, Fred A. Smith.

HARDINGHAM—Suddenly, on Tuesday, Jan. 27, 1903, Frederick J., son of Walter R. and Serena L. Hardingham, aged 23 years.

WALDRON—Suddenly, on Tuesday, Jan. 27, 1903, L. Craig Waldron.

DUNAVAN—On Wednesday, Jan. 28, 1903, Margaret A., widow of William Dunavan, aged 75 years.

ROGERS—Suddenly, on Tuesday, Jan. 27, 1903, Harry A. Rogers, aged 21 years.

BOICE—In this city, Jan. 27, 1903, Ephraim D. Boice, aged 70 years and 2 days.

FLYNN—Suddenly, January 27, 1903, Edward V. Flynn, aged 24 years.

CURRIED—Of Dunellen, died January 27, 1903, John Curried, aged 45 years.

MAHAN—Suddenly, Jan. 27, 1903, Henry L. Mahan, aged 36 years.

HALLETT—At Westfield, N. J., Jan. 27, 1903, James H. Hallett, Jr., son of James H. and Alice Hallett.

CHANDOR—Suddenly, on Tuesday, Jan. 27, 1903, Roland G., youngest son of Mrs. A. A. Chandor.

CUMING—Suddenly, on Wednesday, January 28, 1903, Thomas Adams Cuming, husband of Ada Runyon Cuming, and eldest son of Thomas H. and Matilda J. Cuming, aged 26 years, 2 months and 13 days.

CLARK—On Friday, January 30, 1903, William M. Vail, son of Wm. H. and the late Annie E. Clark.

GILES—Suddenly, Elias H. Giles, aged 21 years, 3 months and 1 day.

ROENIG—On Thursday, January 29, 1903, Gottfried Roenig, aged 49 years.

RANDOLPH—At Dunellen, Jan. 30, 1903, Mrs. Huldah Jane Randolph, widow of the late Manning F. Randolph, aged 67 years.

ALLEN—On Thursday, Jan. 29, 1903, Elias Allen, aged 79 years.

PATTERSON—Suddenly, Jan. 27, 1903, Harvey L. Patterson, in his 26th year. Funeral services from his late residence, West Dunellen, on Sunday, February 1, at 7:30 p. m. Interment at Rye, N. Y. 1 29 3

HAND—Suddenly, Jan. 27, 1903, Horace G. Hand, son of Hezekiah Hand.

BRADY—At Atlantic City, N. J., January 31, 1903, Angela Marie, aged 20 years, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Brady.

REIGHTON—On Friday, January 30, 1903, J. Everett, son of Geo. W. and Annie Reighton, aged 18 years.

VANNEST—On Saturday, January 31, 1903, Sarah E., wife of Wm. VanNest, aged 65 years.

KIRCH—At North Plainfield, N. J., on Monday, February 2, 1903, Lucy C., wife of J. Philip Kirch, and daughter of Samuel and Emily K. Boss, aged 25 years.

SMITH—In this city, on Sunday, February 1, 1903, Thomas U., son of Ella S. and the late Henry T. Smith.

CURTIS—In this city, Feb. 3, 1903, Willie A., son of T. F. and Laura Curtis, aged 10 months and 3 days.

HERRING—On Monday, Feb. 2, 1903, Charles H. Herring, aged 68 years, 2 months, 13 days.

PEARSON—Suddenly, on Monday, Feb. 2, 1903, Charles G. Pearson, aged 59 years.

BOSS—Suddenly, on Tuesday, Feb. 3, 1903, Samuel Boss, aged 63 years.

KIRCH—On Monday, Feb. 2, 1903, Lucie C., wife of J. Philip Kirch, and daughter of Emily K. and the late Samuel Boss, aged 25 years.

WANTS AND OFFERS

WANTED—Several apprentice boys to learn the machinists or moulders trade at Scott Press Works. Apply at hours 12 and 6 at office. 1 24 c

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at "robbers" prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house, Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal increase and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange Money to loan on Approved Security

WESTFIELD WRECK VICTIMS WERE LAID AT REST

Funerals of Those Who Met Death in Railroad Disaster Held Friday and Saturday.

MANY PRESENT AT THE SERVICES

FRIDAY AFTERNOON WAS OBSERVED AS TIME OF PUBLIC MOURNING AND ALL STORES WERE CLOSED.

No Business Transacted Between Hours of 2 and 4—Some Impressive Services—Those Who Assisted in Bearing the Dead to Their Last Resting Places—The Funerals of the Victims of Terrible Accident in Detail.

Gloom—so deep and oppressive in its density that it appalled—pervaded the streets and homes of Plainfield, Friday. In every part of the city men moved about with bowed heads and spoke in whispers. No one laughed but the innocent children upon whose shoulders grief sits lightly or is but momentary.

On every side the solemn black funeral processions, each with its quota of bereaved mourners, moved silently by toward the cemeteries. Business houses closed their doors and employer and employes mingled with those already paying their respects to some beloved one reposing in a casket. School children laid aside their books and from every staff flags hung at half mast. Truly, it was a silence that was unnatural and made the stoutest heart quail as only Death can.

The same scenes were repeated Saturday. More victims of the terrible disaster were laid away.

Craig Waldron.

There were a number of New York business associates that attended the funeral services of Craig Waldron held Friday afternoon from the home on East Fifth street. As stated yesterday, Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis and Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes officiated. During the services Miss Nan Randolph and David E. Titsworth sang "Sometime the Silver Cord will Break." The service was largely attended by friends and relatives.

The pall-bearers were W. F. Lowry, W. J. Schoonover and A. N. Wares, of the Baldwin Express Company, New York, where Mr. Waldron was employed for years, and L. W. Randolph, of this city. For the latter Mr. Waldron did private bookkeeping. There were a great many floral tributes from friends and business associates. The interment took place in the Baptist cemetery.

Harry Rogers.

In addition to the host of relatives and friends who filled the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rogers, of West Fifth street, Friday, when funeral services were held over the remains of their son, Harry, one of the youngest victims, the entire membership of the Criterion Club was present. He was one of its charter members and did a great deal to promote its growth.

Rev. George B. Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, was in large and he was assisted by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis. The latter gave a most impressive talk in which he dwelt upon the uncertainties of life and how little God's ways and purposes are understood by His children. He closed with a heartfelt prayer in which he invoked blessing upon the bereaved parents.

During the service two selections, "Lead Kindly Light" and "Somtime We'll Understand" were rendered by a quartette composed of Mr. and Mrs. David Titsworth, Miss Nan Randolph and Elmer E. Bunyon.

The floral tributes filled one end of the room where the casket was and were mostly all from friends individually. A large set piece was sent by the Criterion Club.

The body was laid to rest in Hillside cemetery, the casket being borne by William Kennett, James Pope, George L. Babcock, Richard Randolph, Hervey Doane and Irving Niles.

James H. Hallett, Jr.

The last rites over the remains of the late James H. Hallett, Jr., were held at 7 o'clock Friday evening at his late residence at New Market. The services were conducted by Rev. Arthur Phelps, rector of Holy Innocents church at New Market, and Rev. Frank Fletcher, pastor of the Baptist church of that place.

The service was simple, yet impressive. Rev. Mr. Fletcher offered a prayer and an eulogy was delivered by Rev. Mr. Phelps. He spoke feelingly of the life of Mr. Hallett and in his remarks were words of comfort to the bereaved family. During the service a hymn, "Abide With Me," was sung by a quartette.

The floral tributes were particularly handsome. Some of the pieces were from business and social acquaintances. He was an honorary member of Company K and several of the members of that company were present at the services.

Saturday morning the remains were taken to Hillside cemetery where the interment took place.

Chas. T. Thayer.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Charles T. Thayer were held Friday afternoon from his late residence at the corner of East Ninth street and Watchung avenue. The services were attended by a large number of very prominent New York men.

At 1:30, the services began with a prayer by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, formerly pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church but now of the Brick Presbyterian church at New York. The hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee," was sung by Elmer Bunyon.

With a choking voice the minister delivered a short eulogy over the remains and spoke in a feeling manner of the life of the dead man.

The display of flowers at the funeral service was very handsome. Many of the flowers were sent from New York by business and social acquaintances of the deceased.

Shortly after the services were over the remains were placed in the main room of the house where they lay until evening when they were sent to Buffalo. The interment was in the family plot at Buffalo.

Those who arrived in this city on a special car to attend the services were: Jeremiah DeNoviel, superintendent of the National Express Company; George W. Slingerland, superintendent of the American Express Company; Joseph McWilliams, superintendent of the Manhattan Delivery Company; Alonzo Corias, superintendent of the Joy Line Express Company; W. H. Hutton, ex-general manager of the United States Express Company; William Hute, assistant superintendent of the National Express Company; and Lewis Harrington, chief of the money order department of the Wells-Fargo Express Company.

Frederick Hardingham.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Frederick Hardingham were held at his home on Dunellen avenue, last Friday at 3 o'clock, when there was a large number of people present, many of whom were from New York and Brooklyn where the deceased was very well known in business circles and in social life.

The service was the simple though impressive one of the Plymouth Brotherhood and was conducted by members of the local Brotherhood. Those who conducted the services were F. C. Jennings, J. F. Parker, and Theodore Lotsaux. Several of the favorite hymns of the deceased were rendered. The display of flowers at the home was very handsome; they were banked about the room in tasteful array.

After the services at the home the body was allowed to remain in the house until 10 o'clock Saturday when it was removed to Hillside cemetery where the interment took place.

The pallbearers were Sidney Perrine, Frederick Bowman, Mr. Grant, Edward C. Hardingham, Ivan N. Hardingham and Enoch H. Hardingham, brothers of the deceased.

Edgar W. Williams.

The funeral services of the late Edgar W. Williams, one of those who lost their lives in the railroad wreck at Westfield, Tuesday night, were held Saturday at 11 o'clock from the home on East Sixth street, where a very large number of friends gathered to unite their sympathies with those of the bereaved family. There was a profusion of floral tributes from many friends and business associates in New York, while many associates attended the services. Prior to coming to Plainfield Mr. Williams lived in Washington and he took up his residence here after completing his work as private secretary to Dr. H. K. Carroll, special commissioner to Porto Rico.

The services Saturday were conducted by Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, with which Mr. Williams was identified. He was actively engaged in the various interests of the church and he will be greatly missed. Mr. Herring referred impressively to the exemplary life and character of the deceased and offered words full of tender sympathy to the bereaved family.

The interment took place in Hillside cemetery.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Gates, Case, Anderson, Avery and Wheelock.

Robert Happersett.

In contrast with many of the others, the services over the remains of Robert Happersett were extremely simple. They were held at his late home on Putnam avenue, Friday afternoon and were in charge of Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel. Dr. William R. Richards, former pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, offered a brief prayer.

There was no singing and but few remarks. Afterward the body was taken to Hillside cemetery where it was placed temporarily in a receiving vault. There were no pall bearers.

Thomas A. Cuming.

Three divines, all of whom had relations with the young man during his life time, were present at the funeral services of Thomas A. Cuming which were held Friday afternoon, first from his late home on Putnam avenue at 1 o'clock and from the Park Avenue Baptist church at 1:30.

Rev. W. T. Dorward, of Stelton, spoke on the "Ecclesiastical Relations" he had had. Rev. R. B. Hull, D. D., of Brooklyn, "His Early Church Life" and Rev. J. W. Richardson, "His Town Life."

The body was afterward taken to Stelton for interment. The bearers were Joseph M. Hawkins, Charles B. Morse, Dr. N. H. Probasco, S. A. Krom, C. Herbert Richardson and Benjamin Letson, the latter of Stelton.

Catarrh and Hay Fever.

Liquid Cream Balm is becoming quite as popular in many localities as Ely's Cream Balm sold. It is prepared for use in atomizers, and is highly prized by those who have been accustomed to call upon physicians for such a treatment. Many physicians are using and prescribing it. All the medicinal properties of the celebrated Cream Balm are contained in the Liquid form, which is 75c. including a spraying tube. All druggists, or by mail. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., New York.

Moved Into New House.

James Mowrey, of Somerset street, who has been erecting a house on Jefferson avenue, has completed it and on Monday moved into it. The house is a neat little residence and adds greatly to the appearance of the street.

Letters from Women

Our fifty-day use of Kodol are received daily, from females nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then, last of all, will finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that they can do the work intended through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. MRS. J. W. COOLBAUGH, Mills Corner, N. Y.

Kodol Digests What You Eat.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50 cents.

Prepared by E. O. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO

L. W. RANDOLPH.

HAS NEW PRESIDENT

Republic of Brazil Formally Inaugurates Dr. Alves.

Official Career of Chief Executive Gives Promise of Good Things to Come—Belongs to the Republican Party.

Dr. Francisco de Paula Rodrigues Alves, who was elected president of the United States of Brazil last March, was formally inaugurated November 15. The inauguration ceremony took place at the capital, Rio Janeiro, and the occasion was doubly important to the citizens of Brazil, because it was also the anniversary of the proclamation of the republic, the Brazilian Fourth of July.

The new president belongs to the republican party, which is also described as the "conservative," the opposing faction being the federal party. He was born on July 7, 1848, at Guaretinguetá, in the state of Sao Paulo. He was graduated from the Dom Pedro II. college in 1866, and in 1870 received the degree of doctor in law at the college of Sao Paulo. Shortly after that he was elected to the state legislature of Sao Paulo, and to the imperial congress in 1887. Emperor Dom Pedro II. appointed him after that as president of the state of Sao Paulo. After the proclamation of the republic, in 1889, he was elected representative of his native state in the First federal assembly, and helped to frame the Brazilian constitution. In 1891 he was appointed minister of the treasury under President Peixoto, and in 1895 was elected federal senator for his state. He resigned his place in the senate to assume the second time the duties of minister of the treasury under President de Moraes. Dr. Alves was again elected to the senate, and again left that body to become the governor of his state, and before his term of office had expired he was chosen to the presidency of the republic.

The Brazilian congress is composed of 212 deputies, representing the 21 districts or states, there being one deputy to every 70,000 inhabitants. Thus, the state of Minas Geraes has 37 members, while several states have only four representatives. The state of Sao Paulo is represented by 22 deputies. The members are elected by popular vote every three years. The senators are also elected by popular vote, three for each state, for a term of nine years each, and the terms of one-third of the upper house expire every three years. When the new president was sworn in 21 new senators were also inducted into office.

The republic has been in existence only since November 15, 1889, but it bears the stamp of stability, and its citizens refer to Dom Pedro and the empire as though these had been matters of past ages. When the royal family of Portugal fled to Brazil in 1815 and founded the kingdom, the Roman Catholic church was established there, and when Dom Pedro was chosen "perpetual defender," the established religion of the country was the Roman Catholic. When the republic was declared all connection between church and state was abolished, and, although there are only about 150,000 Protestants in the republic, against about 15,000,000 Roman Catholics, no obstacles are placed in the way of the minority as to their form of religious worship.

DR. FRANCISCO ALVES.
(Just Inaugurated President of the Republic of Brazil.)

Supported by His Wife.

Not long ago Dr. Edward Brooks, the genial superintendent of the Philadelphia public schools, was asked by one of his youthful friends to listen to the latter's rehearsal of a lesson in which there was a reference to Atlas. "Do you know who Atlas was?" asked Dr. Brooks. "Yes, sir. He was a giant who supported the world." "Ah! Supported the world, did he?" went on the superintendent. "Well, tell me who supported Atlas." The little fellow looked as though he had not given the subject any particular attention, but showed immediate willingness to proceed at once. The doctor stood looking on, trying hard to keep back a smile; but the youngster finally brightened up and answered: "Well, I guess he must have married a rich wife."

Where Kissing Is Unknown.

Kissing is a delight unknown to the Maori women of New Zealand. When they meet each other, and wish to demonstrate their mutual affection, they grasp each other by the shoulders and rub their noses together. In times of sorrow, when mourning for the death of a relative, for instance, two women will sit together and moan by the hour, all the time rubbing their noses together.

JILTED A REAL KING

Montenegrin Princess Drew Line on Alexander of Servia.

Peremptorily Refused to Marry the Spiky-Footed, Knocked-Kneed Monarch of Europe's Most Turbulent Kingdom.

The only living princess who has jilted a king has become engaged to another man.

She is Princess Xenia of Montenegro. Her engagement to the divorced grand duke of Hesse recalls the most sensational and piquant episode of modern royal society.

True, it was only King Alexander of Servia whom she jilted, but he is a real king and there are not many of them.

So overpowering was the sensation of disgust which this misshapen, obnoxious little monarch aroused in the beautiful princess that she literally ran away from him, says the Chicago American.

It is well known that royal marriages are arranged by families and statesmen and that the personal inclinations of the two principals have little to do with the matter. The wishes of the girl in the case are least of all consulted. Princesses are brought up to believe that it is their duty to submit absolutely to the commands of their parents and elders in the matter of marriage. But even in the heart of a princess there may lurk a spark of rebellion, and in this case it burst forth.

Three years ago Alexander of Servia was scouring the imperial, royal and princely courts of Europe seeking for a bride. He needed one sorely, for his throne is very insecure, and without an heir he cannot expect to hold it permanently. After making personal application at the courts of Russia and at several others, King Alexander ascertained in the most unmistakable manner that he was not desired as a relative by any of the great reigning families of Europe.

He then made overtures for the hand of the beautiful Princess Xenia, the seventh child and fifth daughter of Prince Nicholas of Montenegro. This country is the smallest among the truly independent states of Europe. Servia is certainly in several places higher in the monarchical hierarchy. The prince of Montenegro was therefore desirous of having the king of Servia for a son-in-law, and thereby greatly increasing his prestige in the Balkan peninsula. The alliance was agreed upon.

PRINCESS XENIA OF MONTENEGRO.
(Charming Young Woman Who Rejected King Alexander's Suit.)

The poor princess, only 18 years old, innocent, inexperienced, was sent forth, accompanied by a suitable escort, to meet her future husband at his capital, Belgrade.

The meeting of the affianced pair was arranged. The princess stood in her reception room, erect, radiant, a model of Montenegrin beauty, to await the king.

The king shambled forward, grinning, shambling, knock-kneed, hardly able to see.

"Mon dieu, mais vous etes impossible!" cried the princess, speaking in French, as she is accustomed to do.

The cry came from her heart and was the first impulse of an innocent, unspoiled nature. The princess turned away from the king and put her arm around her lady-in-waiting. King Alexander mumbled a few inane words of welcome and tried to come up the rebuff by suggesting that the princess was suffering from the fatigue of the journey—Princess Xenia glanced at him with a pitying smile and fled.

The action of the princess put an end to the match. Even in royal families it is scarcely possible to go on with preparations for a wedding after the bride has expressed the deepest loathing and disgust for the bridegroom. After the first meeting the princess did not hesitate to repeat her expressions of disgust and to assert that she would rather die than marry King Alexander. There was nothing to do but to take her back to her father's capital, Cettinje.

When Princess Xenia said that King Alexander was impossible, she did not exaggerate. His personal appearance is singularly degraded and repulsive. He has prominent, black eyebrows, scarcely any forehead and a mat of black hair. His forehead appears to have been smashed down over his head with a hammer. His small eyes are extremely weak and recede into his forehead. His nose is small and hooked. He is round-shouldered, knock-kneed and splay-footed.

The Smallest Screws Made.

The smallest screws used in a watch are so diminutive that it would take 150,000 of them to weigh a pound.

TO A CITY, IN HER SORROW.

I saw the women standing in the rain
There at the railway station; and the night
Was bringing home the wounded and the dead.
For you remember, late last night it rained;
It rained upon the living, upon the dead.
The women's waiting faces, in fresh tears,
And we were closely together, all we men,
For we go forth each morning to the city,
To where the wide blue river meets the sea,
And monumental towers touch the sky.
And is that greater city than our own,
We labor for the home we call our own;
We labor for one woman, and for those
Who run to call us "Father" when we come Home at the close of day. But ah! last night
There were our brothers . . . they were nearing home,
When suddenly, without a warning, God
Came in a pillar of fire in the night,
And on the homeward track, the last long house
Ate took them. And their last day's work is done,
And nevermore shall they be weary now
Who sleep tonight the unawakening sleep.

I think I see the little children stand
Beside the window waiting. And papa
Is longer coming home to them tonight.
God keep the little children, when they know!
God help the women, left to fight alone!
The battle for the children of them both!
And may His guardian angel bend and brood
Above them, and with wide white crushing wing
Encompass them, and keep forever safe
The mother and the children fatherless.

We somehow seem survivors, you and I,
Spared in the great affliction still to do
A greater work for God than we have done—
Whatever you, and I take God to mean.
We who might well have been of them that died
Or, maimed and in their malformation, live,
God must have meant that we should be alive
More than to bury and bewail the dead.
More than to nurse the living back to life!
We love not less, nor the less greatly grieve
When, greatly grieving, we arise and go
Along God's planning track to follow them
To their abiding city in the stars.

—Fullerton L. Waldo.

Midnight, January 27.

WENT TO HER FATHER'S AID

Miss Mary Line's Story of Escape of Herself and Her Father From Wreck.

One of the most narrow escapes from death in the wreck fell to the lot of Miss Mary Line, of East Front street. She was seated in one of the cars that escaped smashing, covered with blood but unmindful of her own hurts supporting her injured father, when seen by a Daily Press reporter.

"It is a miracle how I escaped alive," she said, "and I am yet too dazed to realize my good fortune. I was sitting by my father on the aisle side of the car when the terrible crash came. I was thrown right over him and through the window. At the same time the car turned over with me on the top and I suddenly found myself high in the air. I was terribly cut as you can see but before getting away from the scene I looked for father and after finding him, helped to get him out."

"Yes," added her father, "I am proud of her. A beam held me down and my back was so badly hurt I was unable to help myself in any way. She reached back through the window and aided me to get out and escape from the flames that were beginning to creep about."

Resolutions of Condolence.

Whereas, In view of the terrible calamity that has fallen upon the citizens of Plainfield and vicinity, Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., in regular session assembled on this twenty-ninth day of January, 1903, adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., do by this method extend to the bereaved families our most sincere respect and affection.

Resolved, That this resolution be spread on the minutes of this council and be published in each of the daily papers. Signed,

D. Rodine,
E. Compton,
J. A. Krisey.

Depends on the Shoes.

It may be of interest to relatives of some of the victims of the Westfield wreck to know that any one who wore congress shoes containing the Hub Gore at the time of death are entitled to $100. All wearers of these shoes are insured to that amount by the company and it will be paid to the next of kin.

Going to Baltimore.

John D. Bailey, manager of the Park Avenue Hotel, will give up his present position April 1 to accept the management of a hotel at Baltimore. Augustus Brunson, owner of the Park Avenue Hotel, will assume the management after Mr. Bailey retires.

Urgent Needs.

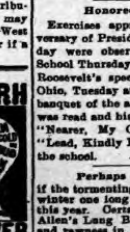
The Relief Association is in urgent need of second-hand clothing, especially children's wear, for distribution among its cases. Donations may be sent to the Relief rooms, 544 West Front street, or will be called for if a notice be sent to the rooms.

THIS REMEDY IS SURE TO GIVE SATISFACTION.

CATARRH

Ely's Cream Balm
Gives relief at once.
It cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It quickly checks and drives away a cold in the head quickly. It is absorbed. Relief is immediate but a thorough treatment will cure. It protects the Membrane from additional colds. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Full size 50c. at Druggists or by mail; Trial size 10c by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.



STILL PLANNING FOR MEETS

DESPITE FACT THAT HIGHLAND PARK TRACK IS TO BE SOLD.

New Brunswick's Horsemen Have Not Given Up Their Favorite Sport—Their Plans.

Although the Raritan Driving Association has offered its track in Highland Park, near New Brunswick, for sale it does not mean to give up holding race meets if it does not dispose of the property. The members have begun already to talk over plans for next summer and will probably open the track, as usual, with a Memorial Day meet.

If the track is not sold it is likely that greater efforts will be put forward by the association to attract local patronage. Every meet held so far has been well attended and individually all have been successful financially. But, taking the balance sheet for the whole year, the association has not been making much, as continual expenses are necessary for keeping the track in order.

A prominent member of the association is quoted by The New Brunswick Home Review as saying, that there was no doubt that the track would be the scene of some interesting meets this year. "If no one else will run it," he said, "I will lease it and run it myself. A track here ought to be a paying venture. It ought to be as successful as the track at Plainfield. Down at Freehold a crowd of 3,000 is not considered large, for everybody turns out. Coaching parties come from Lakewood and all around the country and make a gala day of it when a meet takes place.

"With a population of 20,000 right at hand, the track here ought to be well patronized. But the people here do not turn out when meets are held. The country people have been the ones who have patronized our races. The association has somehow or other been unable to stir up local interest and has a hard time, even, to get local merchants to advertise on our race meet programmes. The meets here certainly help town merchants, for they bring people here who would not come otherwise.

"There will be some changes made if I have any influence in the matter. Probably there will not be any racing for big purses this summer, but it is likely that there will be amateur cup racing, as is held on all the big tracks. Changes should be made at the track to make it more up-to-date."

WORK FLOURISHING.

Semi-Annual Meeting of City Union of King's Daughters Held Yesterday Afternoon.

The semi-annual meeting of the City Union of King's Daughters was held in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church, yesterday afternoon, with a very large attendance. It was one of the best meetings the organization has yet conducted.

Ten Circles were represented and gratifying reports were read from two new ones, recently formed in the borough and Netherwood. Excellent reports were presented by the treasurer and the committee on camp work.

Rev. R. L. Earp read scripture and led in prayer and an address was made by Mrs. Isabelle Davis, corresponding secretary of the Central Council of King's Daughters, who lives in New York but is wintering in this city.

Friends' Buy Lot at Hillside.

The members of the Friends' meeting-house on Watchung avenue have purchased a plot of ground at Hillside cemetery, the object being to secure such a plot before it is all purchased. It is likely that in the course of time burials will be made there for the present cemetery back of the meeting-house has not been used for many years and is nearly filled up.

New Office for Lehigh Valley R. R.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad has established the new office of second vice president, to which position J. H. Middleton has been elected. His location will be in Philadelphia, where he will have charge of the financial and accounting affairs of the company as well as its purchasing department.

Honored McKinley.

Exercises appropriate to the anniversary of President McKinley's birthday were observed at the City High School Thursday morning. President Roosevelt's speech, given at Canton, Ohio, Tuesday at the commemoration banquet of the assassinated President, was read and his two favorite hymns, "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Lead, Kindly Light," were sung by the school.

Perhaps You Wonder

if the tormenting cold that made last winter one long misery will be as bad this year. Certainly not, if you take Allen's Lung Balsam when tickling and rawness in the throat announce the presence of the old enemy. Do not expect the cold to wear itself out. Take the right remedy in time. Allen's Lung Balsam is free from opium.

TRIED TO ROB AT DISASTER

Mrs. Augustin Queneau Attacked by Colored Man While Waiting for Her Husband.

WAS ALONE IN A CAB

She Fought Off His Attacks Until Friends Came to Her Aid—Stories of Ghouls Working at Scene of the Westfield Disaster Are Confirmed by Plainfielder.

Since the wreck there have been reports circulated that there were ghouls at work while the excitement was at its height and that some of the bodies which arrived at the morgue had money and jewelry missing. Little attention was paid to these reports until yesterday afternoon when a Daily Press reporter heard from an authentic source that a local woman, whose husband was one of the victims of the wreck and who now lies in a serious condition at the Muhlenberg Hospital, had to fight for her life with a negro ruffian who tried to eject her from her cab, and at the same time relieve her of her money and valuables. Several other cases have been cited and it has been found that most of these have been correct. It is understood that the Central Railroad Company has several detectives at work on the case.

It appears that among the passengers of the train was Augustin Queneau, of Belvidere avenue. He had been in New York where his business interests are and was returning home when the crash came. He was pinioned between some large timbers and received injuries which have kept him at the local hospital since.

He sent to his wife a telegram saying that he was injured and she, in company with two neighbors, hired a cab and started out for Westfield. When they arrived there the two men got out as did the driver and started for the scene of the wreck in search of the husband of Mrs. Queneau. She was left in the carriage alone half expecting and half fearing that the remains of her husband would be brought to her crushed and bleeding.

Her account of the assault as told to her sister, Mrs. Bullock, of East Second street and Richmond street, and as told to the Daily Press reporter by Mr. Bullock at his home last night is as follows:

"Mrs. Queneau was sitting in the cab alone when footsteps were heard approaching along the road. She was sitting in the dark a little distance from the scene of the wreck, and on hearing the approaching footsteps she leaned out. She asked for news, thinking is was one of the searching party.

"A rough stranger stepped up to the side of the carriage and told her in a hoarse whisper not to utter a word. The stranger tried to enter the cab but Mrs. Queneau pushed him out again. Once again he made an attempt to gain an entrance and partly succeeded.

"Finding herself overpowered by the man she screamed loudly for help and in a short time the others came to her assistance. Hearing them approaching the fellow slipped out of the carriage and disappeared around the back of it. Those who had come to the rescue started in pursuit of the man, declaring that they would take his life if they caught him but he had disappeared."

Other cases of the presence of criminals have come to light.

Griffeth Jenkins, a clerk in the employ of Hill & Shapp, who resides on East Fifth street, was present at the scene of the wreck shortly after the collision occurred. To a Daily Press reporter Mr. Jenkins gave a statement of what he saw at the wreck:

"I was standing near the demolished cars a short time after the wreck occurred and was watching some men remove the unconscious form of a woman from out of one of the windows.

"As I stood there too horror stricken to speak, a colored man stepped up beside me and half to himself said, as he saw a diamond flash out from the woman's hand, 'I wonder if there are any diamonds or jewelry in there.' I turned from the fellow who disappeared at once.

"About ten minutes afterwards, just after a brilliant flash from the photographer's lantern was seen I heard someone say to a fellow who was somewhere nearby in the darkness, 'If you touch one of these bodies I'll shoot you through as soon as look at you.' I later saw the fellow addressed slink off towards Westfield and he was out of view."

It was a noticable fact that on many of the bodies brought into the morgue there was very little valuable jewelry. A relative of one of those who had lost their lives in the wreck remarked in the hearing of a Daily Press reporter that a diamond ring and several shirt studs were missing, and that she had little doubt but that they were removed from the body at the scene of the wreck. On one body there was only a part of a watch chain attached to the vest. The watch and rest of the chain was gone.

An excellent description of the fellow which is supposed to have been the only ghoul at work at the wreck is given by others who heard the threat made by a rescuer. One man said that he would know the fellow in an instant by his extraordinary broad shoulders. He had a slight limp.

FOREMOST AMONG RESCUERS

R. L. Crontite, a New York Lawyer, Used Axe to Cut Away Wreckage.

One of the first to start the work of rescuing the imprisoned passengers, was R. L. Crontite, a New York lawyer, who was on the way to visit his parents, Colonel and Mrs. Crontite, of 419 Grant avenue. While still at the scene of the wreck, with his own face so blackened by flame and smoke as to defy recognition, he said to a Daily Press reporter:

"It seems to me one of the most awful things about this wreck, was the oppressive silence which reigned immediately after the splintered timbers settled back. With several others I rushed through the cars searching for an axe and on getting one returned to the burning pile. All that I heard was an occasional moan and the crackling of the flames but nothing else. It was awful, awful.

"I chopped away timbers from several unfortunates and helped them to a place of safety. In doing so I received severe cuts and burns but I thank God I was spared to help others."

BY AIR SHIP.

Missionary Committee of Trinity Endeavorers Is Arranging a Trip.

The missionary committee of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church has arranged with Grist R. Lu Company to conduct the members of the society on a trip to the Pacific coast and all are cordially invited to join in the expedition. A commodious air ship has been chartered for the trip, and the start will be made Monday evening, February 16, promptly at 8 o'clock, at Trinity Reformed church. Everything possible will be done for the comfort and pleasure of the tourists, and the journey promises to be a most enjoyable one. Miss Lillian A. Force, is chairman of the committee and Hon. P. Seader associate chairman. Transportation will be furnish free to all who go.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Had Been All Planned by One of the Wreck Victims.

Harold W. Tomlinson, of Verdon street, who was killed in the railroad wreck at Westfield Tuesday night, had just prior to the fateful night arranged for a special service to be held in the Congregational church under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society tomorrow evening. That service will be carried out as he planned it and will be in the nature of a memorial service to him. All persons who were interested in Mr. Tomlinson will be welcome. F. H. Andrews will make an address on "Heaven and Its Inhabitants," and there will be solos by Miss Miller and Willard Wadsworth.

MRS. WARING'S LUNCHEON.

Social Affair Held at Home of Mrs. L. E. Waring.

A luncheon was held Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. L. E. Waring at her home on West Seventh street to a number of her friends. The house was prettily decorated in carnations and greens, giving an attractive color effect of white and green. Those who were present were Mrs. E. M. Van-Buren, Mrs. Wm. S. Tyler, Mrs. J. R. Blake, Mrs. C. W. McGee, the Misses Waring, Miss Cox, Miss May Evans, Miss Charlotte Lowe, Miss Helen Bushnell and Mrs. L. E. Waring.

Buying Horses.

Hugh McIlwaine, the owner of the extensive driving stables near this city, is in Kentucky, where he is purchasing some fine thoroughbred horses. The horses are combination driving and saddle horses and they will be shipped to this city in the near future after which they will be sent to New York markets for sale. He expects to send to this city about thirty head of horses.

People Believe In It.

It has been cynically said that anything can be sold by advertising nowadays. This is not so. Many liniments have been advertised but only one—Perry Davis' Painkiller—has stood the test of sixty years' use. Today its popularity is greater than ever and is based not up to what anybody says but upon what the remedy does. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 8—Comment by Rev. S. M. Doyle.

Topic.—Bible lessons from men that failed.—Gen. iv, 3-12; Judg. xvi, 20, 21; I Sam. iii, 11-14; xv, 22, 23.

Failures teach their lessons as well as successes. It is as possible to learn salutary lessons from the mistakes and errors of men as from those things in which they have succeeded. The lighthouse as a warning is no necessary to the sailor as the polar star as a guide. Men's successes should inspire us to success; their failures should warn us against failure. For this reason Christ recalled the failure of Lot's wife, pointed out to His disciples the weaknesses of the Pharisees and pictured the folly of the prodigal son in leaving his father's house for the far country of sin.

The Bible is true history and biography. It records men's vices as well as their virtues, their failures as well as their successes, their defeats as well as their victories. And what for but that we may be warned as well as inspired by their examples. To this end let us notice the failures suggested by the topical references and their lessons.

1. Cain's failure warns us against anger (Gen. iv, 8-12). Angry and jealous, both without cause, Cain slew his own brother, and thus became the first murderer. A disposition to lose of temper, to anger, seems to be a little thing, and yet how serious it often becomes. Anger in the heart is murder in the germ. A bad temper is not to be condoned as a mere physical disability, but recognized as a sin and by persistent effort and the grace of God overcome. Else it will make life miserable, if it does not lead to a great crime.

2. Samson's failure warns us against many errors (Judg. xvi, 20, 21). His downfall was a sad one, and its various steps are distinctly marked. He began with disobedience to his parents; this led him into evil associations. This resulted in temptation; he dallied with the temptation, at last yielded to it and in doing so disobeyed God, broke a solemn vow, and his ruin was complete. He who had been strong spiritually and physically lost the spirit of God and was physically degraded by having his eyes put out and by being compelled to grind corn like a beast of the field for his enemies! Could ruin have been greater? And how true it should serve as against disobedience to parents and evil companions, trifling with temptation, disobedience to God and broken vows!

3. Eli's failure should warn us against neglect of duty (I Sam. iii, 11-14). The calamity that came upon him and his family was not due to what he had done, but to what he had failed to do. Neglect of duty is failure as well as transgression against the law of God, and it causes ruin and destruction almost as widespread as those resulting from broken laws. God warns us against many evils. He calls us to many duties, and—

Where duty calls or danger,
Be not deceived or daunted.

4. Saul's failure warns us against disobedience to God. Few failures in human history have been sadder than King Saul's. Crowned with every earthly advantage, with limitless possibilities before him, his life became an utter wreck and ruin simply because of his disobedience to God. The career of King Saul should be an awful warning, especially to young men of brilliant attainments and bright prospects. It should say to them and to us all, in thunder topes, "To disobey God is to fail."

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. iii, 17-19; Num. xiv, 21-24; Ps. xcv, 1-11; II Kings v, 20-27; Rev. vi, 13, 14; Matt. xxvii, 1-5; Mark xiv, 66-72; Luke xvii, 26-33; Acts v, 1-11; Rom. xii, 1, 2; I John ii, 15-17.

The Birth of "In His Steps."

Since the Christian Endeavor society has become interested in connection with this famous book the following will have an added interest: "What suggested to you the writing of 'In His Steps?'" was asked Rev. Charles M. Sheldon. He replied: "When I went to my pastorate in Topeka I found a heavily settled district, and I found, too, that I didn't know enough to preach two sermons on Sunday. Moreover, I found that the young people would come out to hear a story, and I didn't want the business men to come out Sunday evening since I found that their home life needed them there, so I wrote 'In His Steps,' sitting out on the porch with the thermometer for days 104 degrees in the shade, and I read it on Sunday evening audience a chapter or two at a time."

Nuggets.

No great society can live on a sentiment. We have got to get behind the ideals with deeds if every great movement.—Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, D. D.

As Christian Endeavorers it ought to be our business to keep the devil on the jump all the time.—Rev. B. Q. Denham, Vice President New York State Union.

To young people, can we prepare ourselves better for the larger work to which we look than by pressing close to the broken heart and bruised form of the Christ?—Rev. Edwin Forrest Hallenbeck, D. D.

Quiz Box.

[Any question may be asked that pertains to any phase of Christian Endeavor work, address Lock Box 654, Binghamton, N. Y.]

33. K. X. N., Tennessee.—We know several city unions that make a practice of holding a monthly meeting of the presidents of all the societies in the union for the purpose of conference and the discussion of methods.

34. Z., Massachusetts.—The next International convention will be held in Denver in July, 1903.

LITERARY.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 8, "Truth and Lies"—Text, Eph. iv, 25; Prov. xii, 19; Ps. ii, 4.

Everybody's Magazine begins most appropriately with an article on India —"The Courts of the Rajahs." This is apropos of the great "durbar" at Delhi. Both text and illustrations are graphic exponents of the India of the past and the India of today. Justus Miles Forman's exquisite love story, "Journey's End," is concluded; Alfred Henry Lewis takes, for his third article in the series, "Great Days in Great Men's Lives," the forceful part played by Franklin in negotiating with England the Treaty of the Peace of Paris. There is a stunning character study of the adventurous Englishman, Sir Rajah Brooke—"A Viking of the East," by H. S. Canfield. An account of Miss Jane Addams of Hull House and what she has done for the poor of Chicago will be found very interesting. Booker T. Washington continues "Work With the Hands," with the fourth paper of his autobiographical example. Oscar King Davis's "Incidents of Service in the Philippines and China," is full of thrilling stories of courage drawn from several campaigns. "The New Medical Science of Prevenion," by Dr. Thomas L. Stedman is a timely exposition of the real value of physical culture. In the matter of short stories there is "The Rapier of Ferara," by Atherton Brownell, a dramatic love story; "Ilygeia at the Solito," by O. Henry, and "A Japanese Gentleman," by C. V. C. Mathews, the latter a Japanese Washington love story.

WANT MORE MONEY.

Local Laundries Agree to a Slight Increase in Prices.

The laundries in this city and in neighboring towns have started a movement to increase the price of laundered articles.

The movement has been started by Hillier & Co., The Westfield Laundry and several local concerns. A circular has been issued to the customers of these laundries in which it states that cuffs will now be washed for 5 cents a pair and collars 1½ cents a piece. Other laundered articles will be increased in price.

It is said that there are a number of other local laundries considering going into the plan and it is affirmed that the reason of this increase in price is because of the raise in the price of fuel.

OLD RESIDENT.

Elias Allen Died at His Home on Somerset Street.

The death of Elias Allen, an old resident of North Plainfield, occurred Thursday at his home at 180 Somerset street, after a short illness. He was eighty years of age and leaves two daughters, Mrs. Wm. Schutt, of New York city, and Mrs. Stephen Beeching, formerly of this city. Mr. Allen was the brother-in-law of the late H. N. Spencer, who was surrogate of Somerset county.

The deceased recently lost his wife and since her death he has been gradually growing more feeble until the end came Thursday evening.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Trip to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras.

The celebration of the Mardi Gras at New Orleans this year promises to be superb in all respects, and will surpass all other celebrations of the day in pageantry, display and general jollification. The different organizations which take part in this great carnival season equipped than ever to make it the greatest social event in its history.

The trip via the Royal Blue Line and Southern Lines through the southern States, is both historic and picturesque. The rate to New Orleans from Plainfield via Washington and Southern Lines is $37, via Cincinnati $35.30. Rates from the above point via Washington and Southern Lines to Mobile, Ala., or Pensacola, Fla., $35, via Cincinnati, $33 in both directions.

Tickets will be placed on sale at the above station February 15, and will be limited to return until February 28. c

Funeral of Mrs. Burns.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Charles Burns took place at her late home on Spooner avenue, Thursday afternoon, in charge of Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel. Interment was afterward made in Evergreen cemetery. The pall bearers were James Patterson, Harry Corlies, Joseph Brown and William Fairbank.

Gives Up.

The men of the Seventh-Day Baptist church who planned a social for Thursday evening at the church have decided to postpone the affair indefinitely.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.

The only positive cure for blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, cuts, burns, bruises, eczema and all abrasions of the skin. DeWitt's is the only Witch Hazel Salve that is made from the pure, unadulterated witch hazel—all others are counterfeits. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is made to cure—counterfeits are made to sell. L. W. Randolph.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 8, "Truth and Lies"—Text, Eph. iv, 25; Prov. xii, 19; Ps. ii, 4.

For I hate with deepest hatred,
Hate him as the gates of hell,
Who within him one thought harbors
While his lips another tell.

Such was the expression of an ancient heathen who had felt in the depth of his soul the stirring of something of the divine spirit of truth and revolted from the torment of falsity.

How clear the word of God is in its declarations on this subject! Jehovah is a God who will not compromise with evil. As our ideas of the divine nature enlarge so does our appreciation of truth as the unity of His being grows upon us. If God is and all things by Him exist and consist, then truth is the self consistency of all things. Falsity is the rebellion of a free intelligence against this unity and in its nature is the absurd, the monstrous, the self destructive and it cannot stand. All things stand linked together for its destruction, as it stands opposed to the existence of all. The very nature of God is a pledge that the false can never be successful. It may be lifted up, continue for long or, no one can say. In a moral universe the presence of the untrue and false may serve to emphasize the beauty and harmony, the goodness and indispensable excellence of all which it antagonizes. But no profit can come to any creature from sharing in the false. Only loss can result from it.

Jeremy Taylor says, "A prosperous iniquity is the most unprofitable condition in the world."

The very violence of the liar is not a sign of strength in his cause, but of weakness.

It is ever, as Wendell Phillips observed, "when a man does not believe what he says he tries to persecute the man who contradicts him; when he does believe it, he sits quiet."

Lord Bacon said that "no pleasure is comparable to standing on the vantage ground of truth."

Whatever temptation there may be to yield to falsehood, every real interest dictates that it be resolutely resisted. No permanent good can ever be secured through lies and subterfuges. The heaviest penalty visited upon him that falsifies is the loss of the power to know the truth. His own hand closes and bars every gateway to the right, the good, the beautiful, the true.

Carlyle in his counsel sounds like the voice of God when he cries: "If thou hadst all the artillery of Woolwich marching at thy back in support of an unjust thing and infinite bonfires visibly awaiting ahead of thee to blaze centuries to come for thy victory in behalf of it, I would advise thee to call 'Halt!' to fling down thy baton and say, 'In God's name, no!' What will thy success amount to? If the thing is unjust, thou hast not succeeded. I tell thee there is nothing else but justice. One strong thing I find here below—the good thing, the true thing."

Nobler Things.

The law of the earth life is fluctuation, change. Men change in their likes and dislikes. Children are interested in trinkets, toys and gewgaws, but when they become men and women no more of these for them. Riches interest for a time, but men either die or leave them, or they fail to give them comfort in old age. The soul demands something nobler, more enduring than these. But to love these temporal, nonsatisfying things is to become so absorbed in them as to fail to consider the interests which are eternal, and to live and die thus loving, thus absorbed in the flesh life, is to pass naked, hopeless, unsaved into the eternal world. "Then who shall those things be which thou hast provided?"—Religious Telescope.

The Reward of Faith.

The reward of faith will be in proportion to the tests which it has successfully endured. The promises of God were enlarged to Abraham after he went from his country and his kindred, not knowing whither he went. They were enlarged again after he had offered Isaac upon the altar. So will it be with every one. As the field of promise enlarges, so will be the blessed reward to the believer when he shall experience in the future the blessed results of his faith in the promises fulfilled to him.—Christian Instructor.

Due to Faith in God.

Every godlike fruit communicated to human life is due to faith in God. Thus by this constant communication of divine life and character it saves the soul. While love may be the fruit of character faith is the root. Our chapter in Hebrews makes no mistake when it says that Enoch's life pleased God and adds, "But without faith it is impossible to please Him."—Christian Intelligencer (Baptist).

Living Close to Christ.

The clouds that for us mortals hunt the land of righteousness and truth may long hang so thick and low that living close to Christ the soul may still fail to see Him, but some day certainly the fog will lift, the cloud will scatter, and in the perfect enlightenment of the other life the soul shall see its Lord and be thankful for every darkest step that it took toward Him here.—Phillips Brooks.

Beginning of Temptation.

Every temptation begins in the first faint suggestion. Deal with that, and no power of the adversary can prevail against you. Yield to that, and sooner or later you will rue your weakness and find that the innocent looking egg contained a viper, and that the tiny, trickling streamlet has become a raging torrent, which carries all before it in its ungovernable passion.—R. F. Meyer.

FELT TROUBLE APPROACHING

Experience of Chas. C. Burnett Who Was Passenger on Ill-Fated Train.

Among those who had a hair's breadth escape in the wreck at Westfield Tuesday night was Charles C. Burnett, of Madison avenue. His experience was such an exciting nature that he has not yet fully recovered.

Mr. Burnett has been in the habit of taking the 5:45 train about four nights a week, and Tuesday night was one of the four. From the time he boarded the train in Jersey City to the crash, Mr. Burnett says that he had constant misgivings. He felt unusually nervous and after the train left Elizabeth he seemed unable to remain in any one seat very long. He was in the last car, the "smoker," and from there he gradually found his way to the fourth car from the rear, the rear end of which was demolished and upset.

Mr. Burnett says that at one time he had it on his mind to warn the passengers in the last three cars to be prepared for a collision, but upon second thought, changed his mind, for he believed that the people would think him crazy. Usually when he takes the 5:45 train, Mr. Burnett meets Frederick W. Yates, of this city, and the two have frequently stood in the rear part of the last car and watched the "flyer" pass them. Mr. Yates was not on the train Tuesday night and Mr. Burnett did not go to the rear end of the last car.

Regarding the question of stoves in the cars, Mr. Burnett says that the wrecked cars were of the old-fashioned style and were provided with stoves in several ways his attention was attracted to this. He says that Miss Lora Lanbarger, who is now dead, occupied the third car from the rear alone just prior to the crash. She sat in a seat next to the stove in the end of the car and her feet were resting against the stove. He afterwards thought it would be impossible to identify her, unless she had a miraculous escape. This he did not believe possible.

Mr. Burnett gives especial credit to several Plainfield men, who were in the fourth car from the rear. He says that they worked heroically in rescuing the injured and dead. When the crash came, Mr. Burnett says he was thrown across the car on top of other passengers. He succeeded in crawling out of the rear end of the car and dropped into a ditch.

MADE BUSINESS.

Greatest Rush Ever Known at the Local Telegraph Office.

The business at the Western Union Telegraph office in the North Avenue station, last Wednesday, was the largest for any one day in the history of the company in this city. During the day 800 telegrams went through the office and over 100 words of press matter. Two extra operators were sent from New York to the local office and in all three operators were kept busily engaged sending and receiving telegrams and press. Manager Schermerhorn says that in his experience of thirty years he never before saw such a large amount of business for one.

JUNIORS FAIR.

Benevolent Council Hear From the Committee Making Arrangements.

At the regular meeting of Benevolent Council, No. 26, Jr. O. U. A. M., held last Friday, three new members were initiated and several propositions for membership were received. Isaac T. Wyckoff was elected to the office of vice councilor and duly installed by the installing officer, Past Councilor Arthur G. Adams.

Interesting reports were received from the committee having in charge the arrangements for the fair to be held by the Council during the week of February 9 to 14.

The members decided that so far as possible they would attend the funeral of the late Horace Hand, a member of Twilight Council, of Scotch Plains, who was a victim of the wreck at Westfield, Tuesday, to be held this afternoon.

Horses for C. J. Fisk.

Charles J. Fisk, of this city, has recently purchased some very fine horses from John Bratan, of Lexington, Ky. It is reported that the purchase price was $1,500. The horses are thoroughbred drivers and one of them recently captured the first prize at the Kansas City Horse Show.

One Minute Cough Cure gives relief in one minute, because it kills the microbe which tickles the mucous membrane, causing the cough, and at the same time clears the phlegm, draws out the inflammation and heals and soothes the affected parts. One Minute Cough Cure strengthens the lungs, wards off pneumonia and is a harmless and never failing cure in all curable cases of Coughs, Colds and Croup. One Minute Cough Cure is pleasant to take, harmless and good alike for young and old. L. W. Randolph.

ELIZABETH VIEW OF MERGER SENATOR'S ACT

Elizabeth Journal Declares That Repealers for Greater City Bills Not Needed.

SOME OF THE REASONS

NO NEED FOR ANY INTERFERENCE BY SENATOR HUTCHINSON.

The Elizabeth Journal Contains a Lengthy Editorial on Proposed Repealers for Annexation and Consolidation Bills.

Very proper is the stand taken by the Elizabeth Journal in its editorial column regarding the action of Senator Hutchinson in introducing repealers for the annexation and consolidation acts passed by the Legislature last winter.

The Journal says:

"Senator Hutchinson, of Mercer county, the president of the Senate, has introduced two bills providing for the repeal of the North Plainfield annexation and consolidation acts, passed last year.

"Just why the Senator from Mercer county saw fit to regulate the internal affairs of Somerset and Union counties, when neither Somerset nor Union asked him to do so, remains to be explained. Somerset county has a Democratic senator (Mr. Childs) and a Democratic member of the Assembly (Mr. Swackhamer). The former has not taken any initiative in the annexation and consolidation question, so far as is known; but Mr. Swackhamer is strongly against the annexation. Both the Senator and the Assemblyman from Somerset were elected by the votes of North Plainfield Republicans who favored annexation, yet inasmuch as the remainder of Somerset county is opposed to the annexation of North Plainfield to Union county, it is but logical that the Democratic representatives should be of the same mind. Why, moreover, makes Senator Hutchinson's promptness in introducing repealers still more inexplicable. Why was not Somerset county allowed to speak for herself in this matter?

"And again it is a question whether the North Plainfield consolidation and annexation acts are not functus officii. They were referendum acts. They provide that the people of North Plainfield should, by popular vote, decide these two questions of annexation and consolidation. The people decided them, casting a majority of 116 votes against the proposed change. Having fulfilled the provisions of the law it is the opinion of some able lawyers that the two acts are of no further force; that they have no longer any vitality; they have performed their functions; they are dead. True, other able lawyers hold to a different opinion, but the greater number seem to think the two acts are of no further force and virtue.

"There is still another feature of the case that calls for consideration. It is stated upon reliable authority that the sentiment has greatly changed in North Plainfield since the referendum election, and that were the people called on to vote anew on the questions, they would annex and consolidate by a vote of two to one, if not even a larger vote. Whether this sentiment is correctly gauged or not will be made manifest at the coming spring election, for though there is no duty of vote to be taken on these questions, the annexationists and the anti will be again lined up in battle array for the control of the mayor's office and the Borough Council. If present indications are correct, the annexation ists will win by a handsome majority.

HOW TO CO-OPERATE.

Organized Aid Association Work-Held Conference to Discuss Question.

The friendly visitors of the Organized Aid Association held a profitable conference Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, of East Front street. The question how to co-operate and obtain the best results in charity work. Dr. W. H. Allen, general secretary of the State Charities Aid Association, was present and introduced the topic that of professional standards in charity work and also considered organization and co-operative the best solution of the problem.

United action in charity work was advanced as a most valuable aid and prevents in a large measure extra work. Along the line of discussion of the subject reference was made to the probation system, woman's reformatory, juvenile courts, etc. The discussion also brought out some valuable suggestions as to the elevation of the lowest class of people.

The State convention of charity workers will be held in Trenton February 19 and 20 and all persons interested in charity work are cordially invited to attend.

SHOCK OF DISASTER HASTENED HIS DEATH

Thomas U. Smith Passed Away Sunday Night After a Long Illness.

HE WAS VERY POPULAR

FEW HAD THE LARGE CIRCLE OF FRIENDS THAT HE POSSESSED.

Had Been in Business in Plainfield for Many Years, and Was Prominently Identified With Local Athletics—Family at Bedside.

One of Plainfield's best known young men, Thomas U. Smith, passed away Sunday night at 7.50 o'clock after a long illness. Tuberculosis was the cause of death but the end was hastened by the shock on hearing of the Westfield disaster. He was conscious almost to the last and bade farewell to the members of his family who were gathered about his bedside, at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ella B. Smith, 65 Westervelt avenue.

T. U. Smith was born at Locust Valley, L. I., twenty-seven years ago. At the age of eleven, he came to Plainfield with his parents and resided here ever since. He attended the Plainfield public schools until he went in the employ of Doane & VanArsdale, shoe merchants. When the partnership dissolved, he remained with John H. Doane. On the return of Morris C. VanArsdale to resume business in this city, Mr. Smith went with him as salesman. He afterwards was employed in the freight department of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. A year ago, he joined the ambulance corps of the Walton Oxygen works and was so successful in his work that, at the time of his illness, it had been planned to take him into the office and make him junior partner of the firm.

While working on the ambulance corps at the Park avenue fire in New York, he caught a severe cold which he neglected. It settled in his lungs. In a paroxysm of coughing, he burst a blood vessel in the lung and bled for two days. He was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital where his life was despaired of. That was in May. He gradually improved and was brought home. He was sent to Sullivan county, N. Y., but the trip did him no good and he returned to Plainfield where he remained up to the time of his death.

There were few young men in Plainfield who had a larger circle of friends than he. He was of a pleasant, obliging disposition and was greatly liked by all who knew him. He was prominent in local athletic circles. He played with the original Y. M. C. A. football team and then was one of the managing committee of the Plainfield A. A., another member of which was Thomas A. Cuming, who was killed in the Westfield wreck. He made a great reputation for himself as full back on the P. A. A. eleven. Of late years, he took much interest in lawn tennis and was conceded one of the best players in Union county, having repeatedly won the open tournaments at the Westfield Club. He was a member of Grace Episcopal church and sang in the choir of that church for many years.

He leaves a mother, two sisters, Mrs. Lester R. Walton, of New York, and Miss Elsie T. Smith, and one brother, H. Clifford Smith.

WINTER GOLF.

Winter Championship of Park Golf Club Was Started Saturday.

The scratch contest for the winter championship of the Park Golf Club began Saturday, the winter being Senator Chas. A. Reed. This contest will take place every Saturday afternoon and continue through February and March. Any member may challenge for possession of the trophy, holding it until beaten by some other player. At the close of the season the player scoring the most wins to his credit will have permanent possession of the trophy. The rules will be match play but with slight modifications to fit the weather conditions. Challenges should be sent to Chas. B. Morse, secretary of the club. In the game Saturday, Senator Reed made a score of eighty-two for the eighteen holes.

Lion Coffee

Every pound of LION COFFEE has just the same strength and flavor. You can't rely on coffee sold in bulk. The air-tight, sealed package keeps LION COFFEE fresh and pure.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

JURY BEGINS INVESTIGATION

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

supposed to examine his engine before taking it on a run. He declared a man would not lose his job if he refused to take out an engine that was in poor condition. He could not see how steam would obstruct Engineer Davis' view, the leak being on the left side. When on the road an engineman is supposed to take care of his locomotive and assume no risk.

Engineman Wilkins, who had engines 27, prior to its fatal run, did not make any complaint about it, excepting on January 27, the day of the wreck, when he reported that it needed two brake-lines. This was not a serious defect.

Along the same line was the testimony of Thos. A. Foersch, of Philadelphia, road foreman on the New York division of the P. and R. R. R. On the morning of the day of the wreck he saw engine No. 27 just starting from a station. There was some steam escaping but not more than would naturally come from a compound locomotive. It had been taken to the shops in January for repairs and no complaints had been made against it afterward. It was about five years old and had been used in passenger service on the Atlantic City road. It had been put on the milk train as it would not keep up the steam pressure on a continuous run as well as others. On the run from Trenton Junction to Jersey City that day, it made up seven minutes.

Foreman Fisk again carefully questioned the railroad man regarding the operation of the block system and the rules for violating the danger signals. He received practically the same replies as from the other witness.

Chas. P. Dampman, an engineer on the Reading road, and living in Philadelphia, said that two years ago he ran engine 27 when its old number was 1039. He said he did not know anything about the condition of the engine 27, only when he ran it. Then she was first-class.

The witness had known Engineer Davis fifteen years and said he was a first-class engineman. In reply to a question by Mr. Fisk, the witness said an engineman would have to stand up to repair a leaky injector.

Mr. Dampman said that after passing Cranford, the engineman consider they have a good straight track. If an engine is discovered out of condition while running, the engineman is supposed to stop. Before taking an engine out, the engineman is expected to go over the engine thoroughly.

Bernard F. Loughery, another engineman on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, took the stand. He had run the engine and found it in generally good condition. He had run it last during October. He did not know what had happened since that time. He had known Engineer Davis for twenty years and always considered him a first-class man. He told of the signals and what they meant but said that it was possible that fog or steam might obscure the signals.

The last witness of the afternoon was Hiram Meek, a freight engineer on the Philadelphia and Readig Railroad. He had seen engine No. 27 at Ewing but hadn't noticed whether any steam was escaping. The inquest then adjourned to meet Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

SERVICE IN HIS MEMORY

HAD BEEN ARRANGED BY H. W. TOMLINSON PRIOR TO HIS DEATH.

Conducted by Endeavor Society of Congregational Church Sunday Evening.

A service in the nature of a memorial to Harold W. Tomlinson, who was killed in the wreck at Westfield Tuesday night, was held Sunday night at the Congregational church under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. Rev. Charles L. Goodrich was in charge. It was first arranged to hold the meeting in the Sunday school room, but the attendance was so large that the main church had to be used.

During the service there were vocal solos by Miss Cornelia Miller and Willard Wadsworth. The address was made by Frederick H. Andrews. About a week ago Mr. Tomlinson had arranged a special service for last evening and he spoke to Mr. Andrews in reference to addressing the meeting. He told him he could take the Endeavor topic or select his own. Mr. Andrews agreed to be present and received a cordial letter from Mr. Tomlinson by way of thanks.

Mr. Andrews related the details of the arrangements and read a portion of the letter received from Mr. Tomlinson. He said that he would not call the meeting a memorial service, but one of triumph, for Mr. Tomlinson had passed to that country where there is no more crying, grief or sorrow. He spoke beautiful words concerning the character of the departed and said that two years ago he, too, sustained a severe personal loss. He noticed that in death there was a triumph and that the dear departed ones had passed into a greater heritage.

RECEPTION AND TEA.

Given by Mrs. James W. DeGraff, of Central Avenue, Saturday.

A large reception and tea was given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. James W. DeGraff, of Central avenue, when two hundred guests from this city and elsewhere were present. Mrs. DeGraff and her mothers, Mrs. Milliken, received and they were assisted by Mrs. Isaac N. Miller, Mrs. Frank Raymond, Miss Waldo, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Mrs. E. R. Ackerman, Miss Munger, Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, Mrs. Joseph Sandford, Mrs. F. C. Harder, Mrs. L. G. Timpson, of Plainfield; Mrs. Allen Worth, of Westfield; Mrs. Rapplier and Miss Stokes, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Milliken, of New York.

The decorations consisted of roses, carnations and greens. Refreshments were furnished and served by a Newark caterer.

MORE PAY FOR CITY EMPLOYES

Common Council Increases Pay in Police and Fire Departments.

OTHER SALARY CHANGES

Common Council Expresses Itself as Against Passage of Repealers of Annexation and Consolidation Acts—License Applications Made—Two New Ones.

Much business of importance was considered at the regular February meeting of the Common Council Monday night, and some was left over for an adjourned meeting to be held Tuesday evening, February 23. The presentation of applications for liquor licenses was the first business. There are two additional applications this year, that of E. P. Turner for a saloon on West Third street, and one from Morris Snyder for a wholesale license on North avenue. The other old applicants are A. B. Rosell, J. H. Staats, Michael F. Watson, Bernard Clark, Jacob Blimm, Henry Windham, Henry Haarand, A. D. Findley, John Rafferty, Charles J. Shanz, Daniel Galbraith, Chris. Glocker, the Eastern Bottling Association and Frank Linke. In all there are three applications for wholesale licenses, Morris Snyder, Eastern Bottling Association and Frank Linke. The applications were referred to the license committee and will be reported upon later.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, as predicted in The Daily Press, petitioned the Council for an annual appropriation of $1,500 which is allowed by law. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Mrs. Elizabeth Parse, as president of the W. C. T. U., entered a protest against the granting of liquor licenses. The communication was received and referred to the license committee. C. W. Ellis asked for a rebate in a tax assessment on the ground that he had been assessed for too many feet of property on Netherwood avenue. The matter was referred to the finance committee for adjustment.

Manager John H. Akarman, of the Plainfield, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, reported to the Council that the petition recently received, asking for a readjustment of running schedules was under consideration by the officials of the company.

The call men in the fire department petitioned the Council for an increase in pay from $35 to $75 a year, believing that their services are worth that much in view of the fact that they are obliged to purchase their own uniforms. The matter was referred to the fire and building committee.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that twenty-five permits were granted during January. Mr. Murphy reported that Constable John Manley's bond was all right and he moved that it be recorded. Mr. Murphy also moved that an assessment of $80 against property on West Sixth street, owned by the Plainfield Library be marked "assessed in error" on the grounds that the library is exempt from such assessment. The motion was adopted.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution authorizing the street and sewer committee to make test borings along the line proposed for the south-side sanitary sewer, at an expense not to exceed $200. This was adopted. Later in the evening the Council took a recess for over an hour to confer with G. Herbert Taylor regarding the proposed sewer.

Mr. Lee offered a resolution which was adopted granting a petition for two fire hydrants, one on East Second street and Johnston avenue, and the other at Netherwood avenue and East Second street. Mr. Murphy reported back the petition of C. J. Fisk for a light on Rock avenue and moved that it be granted. This was so ordered, as was also a petition of H. G. Adams for two electric lights on Farragut avenue and Midway avenue.

After the recess, the Council took important action in several matters. The first was on a resolution offered by Mr. Lee fixing the salaries of the men in the fire department. The list is made up as follows: Chief Doane, $800 to $900 a year; First Assistant J. W. Murray, Jr., $100; Second Assistant Andrew Jennings, $800 to $900; veterinary, $150 a year; engineer, $75 a year; hose and ladderman, $25 to $50 a year, this includes call men; first-class men, drivers, tillermen and hosemen, first year, $60 to $65 a month; second class men, $55 to $60 a month; third class men, $50 to 55 a month; fourth class men, $40 to 50 a month. In this latter class the rule has been to give the men $40 the first six months and $50 for the next two and half years. For the extra $25 which is given the call men they will still be obliged to do 90 per cent. duty, buy their own uniforms and sign a paper agreeing to do these things.

Mr. Randolph offered a similar resolution fixing the salaries of the men in the police department. This list was adopted: Chief Kiely, $1,200 to $1,400 a year; Sergeant Frederickson, $900 to $1,000 a year; roundsmen and patrolmen, first year men, $50 to $60 a month; second year men, $55 a month; third, fourth and fifth year men, $70 a month; sixth year men and longer, $75 a month. With the adoption of this, which goes into effect from February 1, the regular men are obliged to buy their own uniforms, get paid only for the time they work, unless incapacitated by some work over which they have no control, which will be decided by the Police Board.

Mr. Randolph also offered two amendments to the rules governing the fire department which makes them agree with the new order in salaries.

Mr. Murphy moved that the salary for the corporation counsel for the coming year be $1,250, that of the city treasurer $1,450, the city clerk $1,200, the city physician $1 a day and that of the overseer of the poor $400 a year instead of $250 as formerly. This list was adopted.

Mr. Murphy also moved that $1,800 be transferred from the general fund to the fire fund. He offered a resolution, which was adopted, to the effect that the clerk communicate with the Legislators informing them that it is not the wish of the Council that the "repealers" offered for the purpose of killing the proposition of annexation of Plainfield and North Plainfield, be passed. The resolution was voted for unanimously.

Mr. Tolles called up the ordinance providing for a surface sewer in West End avenue and it was adopted on its third reading. After Mr. Lee's motion that the rules of the Council for 1902 be made the rules for 1903 was adopted, the Council on Mr. Murphy's motion adjourned to meet Tuesday evening, February 24. At that time it is expected that there will be a report made on the adoption of a police patrol system.

YEARS OF ENDEAVOR WORK

TWENTY-SECOND ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED AT TRINITY CHURCH.

Rev. N. J. Sproul, of Dunellen, Was the Speaker of the Evening—H. F. Crawford Led.

The twenty-second anniversary of the Christian Endeavor movement was appropriately celebrated Monday evening by the society at Trinity Reformed church. There was a good attendance and the meeting was a spiritual and helpful one. H. F. Crawford was in charge of the service and there was an earnest prayer by Robert Love.

The address of the evening was made by Rev. N. J. Sproul, of Dunellen, who took for his subjects, "Soul-Winning." The speaker said that Christian Endeavorers are to be soul-winners, and he wanted to know if the members of this society are striving to win souls. He said that Christ placed a priceless worth on souls and if Endeavorers are not soul-winners they are not carrying out their pledge.

Another point touched upon was one's personal responsibility in soul-winning; and Mr. Sproul urged all to study God's word. At the close of Mr. Sproul's remarks, Dr. Schenck spoke a few helpful words and there was a solo by H. J. Martin. The collection received was for the Christian Endeavor church fund.

HER PLAYMATES THERE.

Little Miss Evelyn Manley Had a Birthday Party.

In honor of the anniversary of her birthday, little Miss Evelyn Manley, of Park avenue, entertained a party of playmates at her home, Saturday evening. The little guests passed several hours very pleasantly in games and singing, after which refreshments were served. Those present were Ethel A. Searing, Anna Templin, Florence Gidney, Grace Rafferty, Arlene Carver, Grace Sharp, of New York, Beulah Rogers, of Brooklyn, John Yose, Frank Hart, Russell Abbott, Alfred, Irving and Raymond Manley, Herbert Grant and Eddie Sheller.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

"My Mother says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys and is a tonic to the nerves. This drink is made from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called Laxative Tea."

LANE'S FAMILY MEDICINE

All druggists or by mail 25 cts. and 50 cts. Buy it to-day. Lane's Family Medicine moves the bowels each day. In this way it cures Sick Headache, Biliousness, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bad Complexion, Bad Blood, Malaria, Kidney Troubles and Rheumatism. Sold by druggists. Price 25c. Le Roy, N. Y.

LOCAL CAPITAL INTERESTED

PLAINFIELD BANANA GROWERS' ASSOCIATION HAS BEEN ORGANIZED.

Plans to Raise Bananas in Honduras—Details of the Plan and How it Will Work.

Bananas growing in Honduras by a New Jersey corporation with Plainfield officers and stockholders is the latest proposition to interest local financial circles. The Plainfield Banana Growers' Association has been quietly organized and now its formation and objects have just been made public. In its selection of trustees it has been particularly fortunate as the president is Mayor O. L. Jenkins, the treasurer, J. Fred MacDonald, president of the Watchung Silk Company, and the secretary is City Collector Frank H. Smith, the attorneys are Reed & Coddington.

Briefly outlined the plan is as follows: The LaMesa Plantation Company agrees to clear, plant, cultivate and manage a banana plantation until it is under full cultivation, under the supervision of a representative of the Plainfield company, before transferring it to the local concern. No funds will go to the plantation company until all is complete and it has been found that everything is as agreed. Meanwhile the payments of the subscribers for stock will be deposited in a trust company where they will draw interest until paid over to the LaMesa Company. In case of any failure of the latter concern to comply with all the provisions, the money will be paid back to the subscribers with interest.

Each share of $150 represents an acre and it is declared that a conservative estimate of the net receipts per acre amount to $40. Allowing 10 per cent. for management, it would make a profit of $36 a share or 24 per cent. a year, 2 per cent. a month. The Honduras syndicate, which operates the Honduras railroad but is not interested in this project, has declared that with proper handling the returns should amounts to at least $40 an acre.

CALLED AGAIN.

Monroe Avenue M. E. Church Expresses Its Desire to Have Rev. John McMurray Remain.

When the fourth quarterly conference was held at the Monroe Avenue church, Wednesday, Jan. 28, the members unanimously requested the return of Rev. John McMurray, the pastor, for another year, which will be the fourth. Walter M. McGee and Edwin H. Beekman were chosen delegates to the meeting of the Laymen's Association of the Newark Conference to be held in April, at which time lay delegates will be elected to the general conference to be held in 1904.

The election of stewards for the Monroe Avenue church for the ensuing year resulted as follows: John J. Praed, N. Bonnell, Mrs. H. Broward, Mrs. D. P. Hicks, Edwin H. Beekman, Mrs. I. P. LaRue, Miss Leora Wenzel, N. M. Smith, J. P. Thompson, John T. Stafford, T. W. Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore VanPelt. Presiding Elder Rev. Dr. Halleron, of Newark, was present at the conference and occupied the chair.

WM. SWEENEY IN JAPAN.

Clerking for the Standard Oil Company at Port Kote.

For the first time since he sailed from Philadelphia, on July 10 last, word has been received from William Sweeney, a former well-known lawn student of this city. He embarked upon the Standard Oil tank steamer, "Tatsopain" which sailed at Port Kote, Japan, on December 25, after one of the stormiest voyages the crew ever experienced. Several times the sailors prepared to take to the boats and several were washed overboard. Sweeney is clerking at Port Kote for the oil company but states that he may be moved into the interior at any time.

Mission Band's Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church will be held tomorrow afternoon, at which time the mite boxes will be received and opened.

Met Informally.

While the members of the In and Out Club assembled Saturday evening at the home of the Misses Randolph, of East Front street, the brilliant affair planned by the committee was not held.

A Weak Stomach

causes a weak body and invites disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures and strengthens the stomach, and wards off and overcomes disease. J. B. Taylor, a prominent merchant of Obrienian, Tex., says: "I could not eat because of a weak stomach. I lost all strength and run down in weight. All that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol, I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefitted me, and after taking four bottles I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health." L. W. Randolph.

GOOD STANDING FOR ATHLETES

City School Board Decides to Require Good School Work of All Who Participate.

IN SCHOOL ATHLETICS

This Will Also Apply to the Social Events of the Classes—Too Many Poor Reports Was Cause for Action—Getting Time to Start the New High School.

Laggard pupils in the city schools who care more for the social and athletic side of student life than lesson learning will have a damper placed upon their aspirations through the action of the City Board of Education at its meeting, Monday night. The following resolution passed by the members, explains the matter fully:

"Resolved, that the Board of Education does not approve of participation in the athletic and allied interests (literary and social) of the High School, by students whose work is unsatisfactory, and that the principal be directed to require satisfactory school work of students as a condition for participation in such interests."

The attention of the school officials has been directed to the condition of affairs for the past year through a great number of reports being below the standard. A careful study disclosed too much devotion to outdoor sports and evening parties under school auspices to be greatly to blame and Superintendent Maxson decided to place a ban upon those dilatory in studies. It was he who brought the matter before the board with the above result. The rule will go into effect at once.

Another matter of importance was an informal report of the new High School project presented by Secretary L. N. Lovell. It declared matters were now getting down to the point where estimates would be made for the letting of contracts and that once actual work was started the building would be completed in one year. In addition it was made known that the Common Council had appointed Jan vanHerwerden and William Tyler, as members of the Board of School Estimate. The appointment of an additional two from the educational board was deferred until the next meeting.

In the way of routine reports, Tax Collector Smith's showed a collection of $6,304 84 for the month; Superintendent Maxson announced receiving $948.50 tution fees for the past two terms; the medical inspectors examined sixty-three pupils during the past month and the custodian of school moneys showed a balance on hand of $18,204 43.

The board decided at its own expense to send Superintendent Maxson to the annual convention of the National Superintendents, which is to be held February 20 at Cincinnati, O. Mr. Maxson has attended them for twenty years and the discussions have facilitated his work in many ways.

The committee on teachers reported the resignation of Miss Sarah L. Chase, of the Bryant School, and the appointment in her place of Miss Jessie Brighton, of Oneonta, N. Y. The concluding item of business was the election of L. N. Lovell as vice president of the board. This is demanded by the new school law but was overlooked in the regular election.

To Practically Rebuild.

The first permit to be granted in the office of Building Inspector T. O. Doane for the month of February was to Frank H. Hand and Frank H. Smith, who will demolish the house at the corner of East Seventh street and Crescent avenue. Extensive alterations will be made and the house will be almost entirely rebuilt.

SUDDENLY STRICKEN.

Mrs. Sarah VanNest Died Very Suddenly at Her Home at Alton Saturday Evening.

Mrs. Sarah VanNest, aged fifty-six years, wife of William VanNest, of Alton, died suddenly of heart trouble Saturday evening at her home. Without any warning she was taken ill and passed away within fifteen minutes afterward. A few years ago Mrs. VanNest suffered a stroke of apoplexy, but she had entively recovered from it.

Mrs. VanNest's daughters had gone calling and did not return until their mother had passed away. Mr. VanNest was also home. This is the third death in that family within six weeks.

Mrs. VanNest is survived by a husband and four children. The latter are Mrs. Dayton Melick, Miss Grace VanNest, Miss Harriett VanNest and Harry VanNest. The funeral services were held from the home yesterday afternoon at 2:03 o'clock and the interment was in Hillside cemetery, Plainfield.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1903. NO. 7

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison

REASONS WHY GREATER CITY ACTS SHOULD BE LEFT ALONE

Presented At Public Hearing On Repealers To Annexation And Consolidation Acts At Trenton Tuesday.

GREAT HOST PRESENT TO OPPOSE.

NORTH PLAINFIELDERS, PROMINENT IN "ANTI" RANKS, OPPOSED REMOVAL OF BILLS FROM THE STATUTE BOOKS.

Small Delegation of "Antis" Present To Urge Passage of Repealers—Senator Strong, of The Committee, Compelled To Rebuke W. W. Howland For Indulging In Too Many Personalities In His Remarks—Those Present From City and Borough

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Trenton, Feb. 11.—In no uncertain way did the citizens of Plainfield and North Plainfield express to the members of the Senate committee on the revision of laws their desires regarding the fate of the two bills aimed to wipe from the Statute books the annexation and consolidation acts. With much earnestness they urged the members of the committee to allow the city and borough to settle this question according to the will of the majority without any interference from the outside. A host of men from both Plainfield and North Plainfield appeared at the Senate Chamber, Tuesday afternoon, and at the hearing on the repealers to the annexation and consolidation acts, given by that committee, outlined the reasons why the bills should never be passed. The opposition was represented, of course, but its delegation was a very small one compared with the other side.

It was during the closing hours of the session of the State Senate that the throng began to arrive. The old Supreme Court chamber, where the Senate is meeting now, was not large enough to care for them all behind the rail. Then, when the Senate adjourned, they soon filled all the chairs while some were left standing.

Among the North Plainfielders who were there to oppose the repealers were Mayor N. B. Smalley, Former Mayor W. L. Saunders, Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., Samuel Townsend, secretary of the Union Association, Former Senator Charles A. Reed, F. W. Iredell, William Griscom, A. J. Winkler, Barney Williams, Fred Bettman, Chas. H. Lyman, Borough Clerk Frank Rowley, F. H. Ball, W. L. Smalley, David King, Joseph Howe, Capt. William C. Smith, Borough Magistrate Thomas Dond, A. E. Faber, Jr., L. B. Woolston, president of the Board of Trade of Plainfield and North Plainfield, Councilman J. K. Arnold, Wallace Guilford, Nelson A. Miller, Morris C. VanArsdale, Joseph H. Howell, J. P. Simmons, J. V. E. Vanderhoef and J. H. Robley.

From Plainfield there came President of the Common Council James F. Buckle, City Clerk J. T. MacMurray, Vice President J. C. Pope, of the Board of Trade, Secretary Harry C. Runyon, of the Board of Trade, J. W. Johnson, P. V. R. VanWyck, Harry Potter, David Smalley, Henry Liefke, Amos Andrews, Chas. W. Runyon, City Collector F. H. Smith, James E. Martine, Andrew McCardell, George J. Tobin, Chief of Police Kiely and State Supervisor of Roads R. A. Meeker.

Advocating the repealers were Chas. W. McCutchen, president of the Citizens Association, W. W. Howland and Dr. W. E. Honeyman. County Clerk Frank Somers, of Somerville, was on hand to represent that town. Senators Cross and Childs and Assemblymen Newcorn and Swackhamer were also present as interested listeners to the arguments. Other members of the Legislature dropped in during the course of the proceedings and listened to the talk.

It was just 3:13 o'clock when Senators Strong, Wakelee and Martin took the chairs on the platform and Senator Strong rapped for order. As the introducer of the bill, Senator Hutchinson took the floor and announced W. W. Howland as the first speaker in favor of the repealers.

Mr. Howland began very pleasantly, remarking that there were only a few of them and that they didn't bring a brass band. We wanted to apologize to the Legislature for all the trouble that North Plainfield was causing but assured that the other people were to blame. Then he began at Senator Reed and said that if it had not been for the peculiar action of Somerset's former Senator regarding the first bills, there would have been no trouble at all. He claimed to represent a majority of the citizens of the borough as the special election had shown a majority of them against annexation. Then he proceeded to relate a history of the greater city movement from his point of view. He told of the introduction of the bills into the Legislature last winter but said they had not worried as the Senator had told them he was firmed opposed to any such bills.

"We were sold out," he exclaimed. "And that's the truth. What the consideration was we do not know; every one in the borough believes there was a consideration." Then he told about the local papers. No, he didn't say they were subsidized, hypocitized expressed it better. He told of a literary bureau, headed by Senator Reed, that furnished identically the same editorials to both local papers.

In graphically describing one of the "anti" meetings, Mr. Howland started in to tell about the hosts of the enemy and he had just gotten as far as "Emperor Newton I" when Senator Strong interrupted his eloquent flow with a request that his remarks take a less personal form. The rebuke had its effect and Mr. Howland became more temperate in his remarks. A promise had been made to Governor Murphy to call an election to vote on consolidation at once but, he pointed out, it had not been done. After the special election, there were threats about what would be done at the regular election and he sadly related what did happen and how the Republican forces had been routed. In closing he declared the annexation and consolidation measures a menace to the peace, prosperity and happiness of the borough. Then he demanded justice.

In a very temperate speech, Charles W. McCutchen outlined his arguments in favor of the repealers. The annexation act should be repealed he said because the question had been presented to the people and they had definitely said that they did not wish to annex. The consolidation act should be repealed, he believed because it had no status without the other. They belong one to another. Siamese twins was the way he characterized them and said that you kill one and you killed the other. He trusted that the members of the committee would appreciate that this was a very important matter to that town and that it was stirring up strife in a peaceful community.

Having been dragged into the discussion by the first speaker, Senator Reed wanted a few words. He spoke very highly of Mr. McCutchen but suggested that it was possible to judge the other speaker by the contrast in their remarks. He referred to what he termed Mr. Howland's hallucinations.

"His statements are not worthy of credit," remarked Mr. Reed. "They have been proven so elsewhere and they can be proved so here." Mr. Reed told of how he had originally objected to the annexation and consolidation bills until, at the hearing, the speakers of both sides had agreed to a referendum. Regarding Mr. Howland's claim that he represented all those who had voted against annexation, Mr. Reed told of two men present at the time, A. J. Winkler and William C. Smith, who worked and voted against annexation but were desirous of leaving the measures on the statute books.

Much regret was expressed by Former Mayor W. L. Saunders at seeing the personalities introduced into the discussion as in the campaign last fall. It was only another evidence that the question was by no means settled. For the benefit of the committee so they might understand Mr. Howland's objection to a really worthy movement, he explained that Mr. Howland had once strenuously opposed trolleys and factories for North Plainfield.

Then it was Mr. Saunders' turn to tell the history of the Greater Plainfield movement and how it had been gaining ground steadily for the last five years. He wanted to know who there was who could determine how the people felt on it. No one vote could settle any question for all time. He told how many questions of national importance had kept coming up and coming up despite defeat. There was, he said, much truth in Lincoln's saying, "Nothing is settled that is not settled right."

He outlined the strength of the movement, the fact that nearly all those interested in the material welfare of the borough were lined up for it. Not in five years had a single member of the Board of Trade been found who opposed consolidation. And now, many of these men, not satisfied to send a representative, came down personally to ask that they be allowed to settle their own affairs.

In order to refute the claim that the defeat of the annexation bill meant that a majority of the borough citizens were opposed to consolidation and that the single vote answered both questions, Mr. Saunders quoted from the pamphlet issued by the Citizens Association in which Dr. H. K. Carroll laid special stress that the vote was on the question of annexation only. Dr. Carroll believed that the talk of consolidation was only a blind to carry out the plans of certain politicians. Many that opposed annexation were in favor of consolidation, Mr. Saunders declared.

He had been told by able lawyers that the consolidation act was complete in itself, that it did not depend on the other measure. He quoted A. W. Honeyman, one of the "antis," to show that consolidation was possible without annexation. What would be safer, he wanted to know, than a special act that would allow the people directly interested to settle the question for themselves.

Here Mr. Howland had a question he wanted answered. In reply as to whether a favorable vote for consolidation would settle annexation, Mr. Saunders said that it was his personal opinion that consolidation could be best brought about with the two municipalities as part of the same county but he was perfectly willing to see consolidation with the two counties and a trial given to discover whether the double county part would be as cumbersome as they believed. The situation in Plainfield was, he declared, absolutely unique.

L. B. Woolston, president of the Board of Trade, explained that he lived in North Plainfield and did business in Plainfield. Those who were not on the ground every day could not really understand the situation. He believed that there was a strong feeling for consolidation.

Mayor Smalley's arguments came straight from the shoulder. The "antis" didn't have the band, he explained, because they couldn't get the musicians. The election was won by misrepresentations and a bundle of money. The other side wanted the repealers passed as their only safety as they knew they would lose in another election.

"We are a determined band of Jerseymen," continued the Mayor in his pledge hammer style. "We are going to leave Somerset county sometime. There is no power in Jersey that can stop us. It may not be now but the day is coming. We have got to get out if we want our rights. We don't come to the Legislature asking for anything except that we be left alone."

Mayor Smalley also explained that the reason there had not been a vote on consolidation immediately after the other was that they had to consult the city and prepare for it in joint session.

At Mayor Smalley's request, Capt William C. Smith had something to say. In a witty little speech he explained that while he had worked against the annexation measure, he was in favor of allowing the annexation and consolidation measures to remain on the statute books. As long as they had a majority, there wasn't any danger and there might come a time when they did want to go. Furthermore, they would prevent the Legislature from changing the county line some day and giving the people nothing to say. He had been doing a little canvassing during the last day or two and he found among some twenty-five of his friends, representing property amounting to $500,000, that there was a general feeling that the acts should remain as they are.

In strong and forcible way, James E. Martine summed up the arguments in behalf of consolidation. In was not a scheme of politicians but one of common sense and good business judgment. He did not see how a legislator could refuse the right of the referendum to the people.

Reasons why annexation was defeated at the last election were summed up by Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr. The liquor element and the firemen were responsible and it was a matter of business with them, he explained. He had followed the borough's prosperity for many years and only asked that its people have an opportunity to work out their own salvation among themselves.

An eloquent appeal was made by James F. Buckle, president of the Common Council. Plainfield was a very prosperous city. North Plainfield was trying to keep up with it. It was doing well but he didn't know how long it would last. He appealed to the Legislature to leave the acts alone.

Mr. Howland announced that his party had answered every argument that the other side had advanced. He didn't see the use of going into the merits of the question.

For the benefit of the committee, Mayor Smalley explained that it was the first time that they had been able to speak directly to the "antis" as the latter had refused to debate during the campaign and that was being the case they were naturally anxious to bring a few more important facts home.

Another "anti," A. J. Winkler, explained that he was just as much opposed to removing the acts from the statute book as he was to annexation.

It was a funny story that W. B. Smith had to tell. He had purchased a house supposing it to be in Plainfield, not knowing of the dual nature of the community. After he had paid for, he discovered that he was living in the borough of North Plainfield instead of the city of Plainfield. He wanted the Legislature to help him get over into Plainfield as fast as possible.

A final word was said by Mr. Saunders. He repeated the invitation given earlier in the afternoon that the members of the committee visit Plainfield and look the ground over for themselves. As a last suggestion, he asked that if the repealers were going to be content that they have referendum clauses attached so the people could decide whether they wanted to give up the measure in question.

Senator Strong tapped the gavel and the hearing was over. A general informal discussion followed in which everybody joined.

ORGAN RECITAL.

To be Given by Swedish Pilgrim Church Congregation on Erection of Its New Instrument.

An organ recital is to be given on Thursday evening, February 19, at the Swedish Pilgrim church at the corner of New and West Sixth streets, when the new organ which was recently purchased by that congregation arrives. The organist who will preside at the instrument will be Rev. J. A. Hultman, of Worcester, Mass., who is pastor of the Swedish Pilgrim church at that place. It is in response to a call from this church that Rev. O. G. Norseen, has tendered his resignation to the congregation in this city.

The recital will be given for the benefit of the organ fund and a very complete programme has been prepared. The instrument is on its way to this city now and will be installed during the present week, so that it will be in use for the evangelistic services.

Remarkable Fishing.

Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Carman, of Franklin place, who have been stopping at Maimi, Fla., during the past two weeks, have written home telling of their exceptional good luck in fishing. They recently caught 131 king fish, each weighing from 10 to 25 pounds, also some Spanish mackerel. They except to remain at Maimi a week longer.

—Time, travel, money saved by telephone in residence. The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company.

—Sifted sugar peas of the White Label brand are exceptionally nice. They can be had at Neaman Brothers in any quantity.

UNION COUNTY TAKES SAME VIEW OF THEM

Elizabeth Journal Unites in Cry That Repealers Should Not be Passed.

A STRONG EDITORIAL

BELIEVES THE CITY AND BOROUGH SHOULD BE LET ALONE.

Interests of the People Are Perfectly Safeguarded by the Referendum Provisions Attached to Both of the Measures.

Plainfield is not alone in its belief that it should be allowed to settle the questions of annexation and consolidation without outside interference. The rest of Union county takes the same view. In the Elizabeth Journal of Monday, the following strong editorial on the subject appeared and will be read with much interest by everyone in Greater Plainfield as it presents the situation very clearly:

"The citizens of Plainfield and North Plainfield wish to be let alone, and to be allowed to settle the questions of annexation and consolidation acording to their own judgment.

"This sentiment has grown rapidly and has made itself much more manifest since Senator Hutchinson, of Mercer county, procured the introduction in the Senate of his two bills repealing the annexation and consolidation acts of last year.

"At a recent meeting of the Plainfield Board of Trade, whose membership comprises the leading citizens and business men of North Plainfield, as well, a resolution protesting against the repeal of the acts of last year was unanimously adopted. The Common Council of Plainfield at its last meeting unanimously adopted similar resolutions, and the same subject is to come up at the next meeting of the Council of North Plainfield, and there is hardly a doubt that the action of this body will be the safe as that of the Board of Trade. Public sentiment throughout North Plainfield is certainly indicative of this result.

"There is absolutely no demand, arising from either city for the adoption of Senator Hutchinson's bills, and the repeal of the two acts already referred to. If there is such a demand it comes from other parts of Somerset county. President Hutchinson has doubtless been misled as to the sentiment of the people most directly interested in these measures.

"While it is unquestionably true that a number of the North Plainfield people are as yet opposed to annexation to Union county, a great many of those holding to this opinion have come out openly in opposition to the repeal of the laws of last year. They express themselves strongly in favor of being allowed to settle this local question according to their own judgment. 'No matter,' they argue, 'if what we think at present with reference to consolidation, the time will come when we may think it advisable and highly essential to consolidate, we do not want the privilege removed.'

"There has been and there is constant friction between North Plainfield and Somerville. It cannot be allayed. It will continue to irritate in the future. The business relations, the social relations, the church relations, and to a certain extent the municipal relations of Plainfield and North Plainfield are so close and so intermingled that they are practically identical. They are growing more so with each passing year. Had it not been for the unfortunate factional antagonisms aroused last year—antagonisms so intense as actually to cause many of the people to lose sight of their party interests and the merits of the main issues involved in the special election—there is now no room to doubt that the result would have been different.

"Public anger has cooled down since then in North Plainfield, and public interests are again rising into consideration. The sentiment of the citizens and taxpayers has changed to such an extent that it is claimed an election held today would result in favor of consolidation by a majority of at least two to one.

"Be this as it may, it is certain that the Plainfield and North Plainfield citizens do not wish the annexation and consolidation acts of last year to be repealed. They would esteem it a great favor if President Hutchinson would withdraw his repealers and not take from the taxpayers and the voters the power to deal with this local question as their own interests demand and their own best judgment dictates.

"The acts of last year do not threaten or interfere with the rights of any people save those of Greater Plainfield. They are referendum acts. They are absolutely inoperative unless the people cause them to be effective by a plebiscite. Nothing but the will of the majority of the voters, taxpayers and property owners, can give them force and effect, and to these intelligent and interested people they should be left. No other people in this State know so well what to do with the annexation and consolidation acts.

"The people of these two municipalities are certainly not asking too much when they ask, with all courtesy, to be let alone."

RED PREVAILED AT DANCE

"COLOR" DANCE IN HONOR OF FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF I. C. T. CLUB.

Novel Affair Proved a Great Success—Costumes of Prevailing Color.

Something new in a local sense was promulgated by the I. C. T. Club, last Tuesday, when the members tendered a reception and dance to their friends in honor of the club's first anniversary. In point of originality, decorations and success it exceeded all other affairs of a like nature conducted by the popular organization.

The event was termed a "color" dance, red being the predominating hue. It was to be seen everywhere. The walls were adorned with crimson streamers, more of them were about posts and pillars and at midnight it was again discerned when lemonade of more than a pinkish shade was served in connection with refreshments. Costumes of red were worn by the young women while the men had the color displayed to some part of their apparel. The effect viewed from a distance was charming and many favorable comments were heard. It is the intention of the club to conduct a similar dance in the near future.

The affair was arranged and in charge of a committee consisting of Leonce Texier, chairman; George L. Apgar, Edward Mosher, Thomas Muir, William Waters and Arthur Calcen. The decorations were designed and placed by V. W. Nash, Jr., and Howard Drake.

THE AGRICULTURALISTS MET

UNION COUNTY ORGANIZATION DISCUSSED INTERESTING SUBJECTS.

Many Theories Advanced for Best Methods of Pruning and Spraying Fruit Trees.

The regular meeting of the Union County Board of Agriculture which took place last week at the home of E. P. Beebe, Elizabeth, was one of the largest in point of attendance yet held. President James L. Headley, of Union, presided. It was decided that as there is a sufficient amount of money in the treasury, to suspend the payment of dues for the balance of the season. Mr. Ogden gave a short report of the meeting of the State Horticultural Society which he attended as a delegate.

There was also an interesting report presented by Mr. Beebe, who as a delegate attended the Western New York Horticultural Society meeting held last week at Rochester.

There was a discussion of the subject "Pruning and Spraying Fruit Trees," and it was thought that a mixture of lime, salt and sulphur was one of the best, especially for the San Jose scale which is rapidly increasing in this county. The subject for the next meeting will be "Potato Culture; Especially Planting, Fertilizing and Digging." This meeting will be held Thursday, February 19, at the home of Mr. Beebe in East Grand street, Elizabeth. The meetings of the Board are held the first and third Thursdays of November, December, January, February and March. All agriculturists and horticulturists of the county are cordially invited to attend and become members. All will be made welcome, however, whether members or not.

Still Feels Effects.

Miss Carrie Pangborn, of Linden avenue, who was injured in the recent railroad wreck is still confined to her bed as a result of her injuries. Sunday she tried to get up for a short while but was obliged to return to bed again.

—Keep posted on stock market by telephone. The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company.

HOPE CHAPEL WOMEN HOLD ANNUAL FAIR

Crowd That Attended the Event Packed Chapel to the Doors.

CONTINUED LAST NIGHT.

THOSE WHO WERE IN CHARGE OF THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS.

Ladies' Aid Society of Hope Chapel Began Its Fair on More Elaborate Proportions Than Ever Before—The Committees.

With an attendance that packed the building to the doors, the annual fair of the Ladies' Aid Society, of Hope chapel, began last Tuesday. It needed but a glance to show that at every point it exceeded its predecessors and before it terminated last night it undoubtedly surpassed the most sanguine expectations.

Attractions in the way of salable articles and refreshments are especially numerous and these and their attendants were as follows: Grocery department, Mrs. William G. Gray, Mrs Harry Corless, Mrs. David Bowden and Mrs. W. H. Smith; chocolate booth, where the article is to be had in both liquid and solid forms, Mrs. A. B. Lewis, Mrs. Harry K. Lister, Mrs. Charles Dixon, Miss Mary Duvier and Miss Mabelle Firstbrook; cake room, Mrs. Joseph Randolph and Mrs. William Ruckman; ice cream booth, which enjoyed a liberal patronage despite the unseasonableness of the delicacy, Mrs. Charles Graves, Mrs. Joseph Brown, Mrs. John Turner and Mrs. John Richardson; tea and coffee room, where the beverages were served in the most approved form, Mrs. Fred Wharton, Mrs. William Jones, Mrs. J. B. Higgins, Mrs. Walter Bradford, and Miss Bessie Farlee; candy booth, loaded down with all manner of tempting confections, Mrs. Thomas Chamberlain and Mrs. Charles Vincent; fancy goods, in a variety seldom seen as a similar affair, Mrs. William Gray, Mrs. A. Weber, Mrs. O. F. Pierson, Miss Alice Leland, Mrs. Charles Delahunt and Miss Thain.

A distinct feature which attracted much attention and caused great merriment by the originality of the epistles, was a postoffice, where letters were in waiting for all the prominent people among the attendants. This was presided over as post mistress by Mrs. George Radford.

All the booths and tables and the greater part of the chapel was decorated in a most pleasing manner. Bunting was used with good effect and it was set off very prettily by crepe paper.

Under the direction of J. Fred Wharton a programme was presented during the evening which consisted of the following numbers: Piano selections, Miss Pearl Ruckman; vocal selection, Thomas Muir, accompanied by William N. Runyon; recitations, Miss Clara Weber; black-face sketch, B. C. Firstbrook and M. D. Sweeney. The latter was an original effort and provoked much mirth. An entire change of programme was given last evening.

Mrs. Margaret Sweeney supervised the affair and she was assisted by the entire membership of the society. There were no sub-committees.

MUST BE TREATED.

State Sewage Commission Will Not Allow Borough to Empty Raw Sewage Into Raritan.

Mayor N. B. Smalley and Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., chairman of the Borough Sewage Commission, appeared before the State Sewerage Commission at Trenton, Monday, to make some inquiries concerning the problem of sewage disposal for North Plainfield. They were told that the Commission would not grant the borough permission to empty crude sewage into the Raritan river at tide water. It would have to be treated first.

The board informally advised them to establish a plant on the same general principles as the Plainfield one to treat the sewage and then empty it into some flowing stream not used for water supply. It was suggested that North Plainfield have its plant at a greater distance from its borders than is the city disposal works in order to avoid opposition.

—Keep in touch with your doctor by telephone. The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company.

UP TO DATE GOWNS.

Pink the Fad of the Moment—Fine Gauze.

Pink is one of the fashionable evening shades at present, and a smart gown recently seen was all of pink chiffon over a glace of pink silk foundation.

Another ideal pink gown was veiled with chiffon of the same tone, with black and white lace medallions worked in silver.

Extremely cheap crepe de chine skirts tucked, in all shades, with bodice materials to match, are sold in the department stores and prove indeed boons to the impecunious girl with clever fingers.

BLACK SILK GOWN.

Tea gowns have also to be considered in the practical policy of winter clothes, and people are copying many designs from old pictures, especially from the Stuart and Georgian periods. Diaphanous sleeves seem a necessity, and there is a disinclination to show the waist.

An elaborate evening toilet of black silk is here shown. It is trimmed with applications of black chantilly over white silk.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Louis XV. Designs in Embroideries. Marked Down Furs.

The revival of Louis XV. designs offers a wide field to the home worker. For instance, some women are embroidering old patterns of lace with jewels, using good imitations. The effect is very stunning.

A really good effect is obtained by embroidering renaissance lace with tinsel and jewels. It is to be hoped that the crude ribbon work on cheap lace will be given up in favor of this artistic scheme of decoration.

A good many opera cloaks consist of very heavy brocades, sometimes lined with inexpensive Japanese fox.

Never have furs been so cheap as at present. Squirrel especially is marked down, because there is a great deal more of it in the market than there is a demand for. It is a good investment for the early spring, especially when trimmed with ermine, because gray and white are always charming when combined with a flower trimmed toque.

BATHROBE.

A useful and serviceable bathrobe is here shown. It is of quilted Japanese silk lined with a contrasting shade, which also appears on the collar and cuffs.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A GIRL'S LIFE.

And How It May Be Made Easier For Her.

"It seems to me life might be made easier for a girl," sighed Mrs. Brown. Her life had certainly not been an easy one, filled as it was with foolish mistakes from beginning to end, including a most unhappy married existence and a divorce.

"If some one, my mother for instance, had taken the trouble to give me a few practical talks showing me what life really was, I might have been saved a good deal of trouble, but she believed that a girl's mind should be kept a delightful and poetic blank—"sweetly innocent," she termed it. I was taught accomplishments and how to dress, and, yes, how to smirk and be as ingenuous little hypocrite, and the one aim of my existence was to make a brilliantly wealthy match and justify my mother's careful bothouse training of me. Even the books I was given to read were of the 'then they were married and lived happily after' order, giving one the false idea that life stopped at matrimony and that existence thereafter was a sort of peaceful dream. Oh, sorrow! Why, it only began then. And when in the midst of all my troubles I tried to remember some one maxim, some bit of advice which would help me out, there wasn't a thing that would fit the case, and I had puzzled it all out myself. A nice mess I made of it. Now that I know life it is too late."

PRACTICAL TALKS.

"Yes," wearily assented the older woman she was talking to. "Of course there are certain things which one can only learn by experience, but there are lots of others—fundamentals and rudiments, as it were—that could just as well be given to us from the start, both in order to spare time and pain."

"If I had a child," Mrs. Brown went on, "which it was just as well I didn't, as things turned out, I am pretty sure I would bring her up on pure, straight logic. I wouldn't so much tell her not to do things because they were wicked as because they were downright foolish and bound to cause her untold pain and inconvenience in the end. The old time doctrine that woman was made to suffer and that she must bow her head with all due meekness is just about exploded. Woman is finding out that if she suffers she has mostly her own sweet self or some parent with antiquated notions to blame for it. The very first thing I should teach my child would be to control her nerves. Nerves pure and simple are the cause of nearly all the troubles, real or imagined, of my tormented sex. Men are encouraged to be stoics. Even their reading helps them to that end from the story of the little Spartan boy with the fox to the tales of adventure or war. Girls who, heaven knows, need stoicism much more than the boys are fed on morbid romances or soul dissecting Sunday school stories. Why should a girl be encouraged to cry more than a boy? The first thing one says to a boy is, 'Brace up and be a man!' The natural thing to a girl is: 'Have a good cry, dear. It will do you good and help you get it over with.' Absurd! In other words, lay the foundation for a senseless habit just because you are a woman and make yourself weak for life. I should try all in my power to make my daughter as brave as any man; then I should teach her the true meaning and beauty of life and the common sense of it. I would impress on her the value of good friends and show her how to distinguish the real from the false. I would illustrate from the lives of the people around us. I would impress her with the necessity of having a doctrine of cheerfulness and of downright pluck. Above all, without making her conceited, I would give her an honest pride in herself, and this would make her so strong it would be next to her very instinct of life, for when a girl has that pride strong enough it is bound to bring her around successfully in the end.

"Then I should impress her with the truth that, while love is a great thing in this world, it is not all; that one is put into this world to cultivate one's talents and make the most of them. I should arouse her interest in something more than the social game; should encourage her to cultivate her strongest gift; if possible, make her financially independent through this.

"Above all, I would teach her to be simple, wholesome and direct, avoiding self consciousness—that bane of woman—neither running after people, men or women, nor on the other hand, neglecting them. And I think," she concluded, with a sigh, "I should have saved her much heartache and much foolishness."

MAUD ROBINSON.

SELF CONSCIOUSNESS.

A Fault Which May Spoil Your Child's Success in Life.

"Won't your little daughter play for me?" The visitor's voice was full of graceful expectation. Little Bessie smiled back at her and arose from her seat.

"Oh, I'm afraid you wouldn't care to hear her! She doesn't play very well. I never can get her to practice," said the mother.

Over Bessie's face a change came.

THE AWKWARD AGE.

She suddenly became conscious of herself, of her own weaknesses. She hung her head awkwardly, squirmed and finally put her finger in her mouth.

"Come, Bessie, play since Mrs. Jones wants you to."

"Oh, I—I can't!" This in a low, muffled tone. More twistings, more awkward turnings, and suddenly Bessie grew very red in the face and rushed from the room.

"She is the most awkward child!" groaned the mother. "I'm sure I spend enough money teaching her accomplishments, too, but she never will do anything or act naturally before people. I'm sure I don't know what I shall do with her if she keeps on this way! And I don't know either where she gets it. I never was awkward before strangers when I was her age."

"No," thought the visitor, "perhaps your mother was a better diplomat."

Mothers, if you have self conscious children, in nine cases out of ten it is your fault. Teach the child to forget itself, to consider others first, itself last. If the child is asked to do something, let it do it the best it can. Don't scold little ones because they cannot do things perfectly. With practice perfection will come, but ridicule or criticism, unless of the gentlest sort, will sow seeds of self distrust in the child which will be a serious hindrance in after life, because, after all, half the people in the world today fail because they have no confidence in themselves.

HELEN CLIFTON.

MODERN DRAWING ROOM.

An Artistic and Cheerful Arrangement.

The modern drawing room is a cheerful place, with dainty and comfortable furniture and a general unconventional arrangement.

The cut shows a section of a drawing room which forms the mise en scene of a London play. The walls are covered with plain green tapestry. The ceiling is white and gold, and the pillars are of white marble. Palms artistically placed here and there add to the green effect.

DRAWING ROOM SCENE IN A PLAY.

The furniture is mahogany, covered with empire silks combining green and old rose. The arched doorways open upon a long, narrow gallery which is used as an antechamber.

Bowls of flowers and a tea table complete the artistic effect.

L. DE LA BAUME.

Fashion Notes.

Some of the foulard silks are almost if not quite transparent, and there are many fine stamines in navy, also in black, and no end of printed india silks in all colors, but it seems that black and white and the blues and white are to be the best choice of all. There are many light taffetas in plain colors and black and white, some of it striped, and quantities of habutais and shanghais. These will be mostly used to make waists. The Japan corded silk is also for that purpose.

Pongees are shown as among the very best of the season's output, and almost all of them are embroidered in self color. They make up into elegant and ladylike dresses. Some of them have only the waist part embroidered, while others have elaborate edges intended for flounces. Very deep flounces and double skirt effects are seen on many of the new stuffs.

"Do You Hear The Cry of The Children?"

MORE than fifty years ago Elisabeth Barrett Browning wrote some verses headed "Have You Heard the Cry of the Children?" It was an arraignment of the child factory labor system then prevalent in Great Britain, an arraignment so terrible that one who read it once never forgot it, and one who wished to keep disturbing pictures out of his mind never read it again. In America those who read the poem shuddered and blessed themselves that here at least in this land there were no hapless, dwarfed child victims of uncivilized industrialism.

While they slept and blessed themselves there grew around them in their own land, under their own eyes, a system of child slavery as body and soul destroying as any that ever blotted the record of civilization in old England.

In New York and in the manufacturing centers of New Jersey official statistics show that, owing to child labor, illiteracy among children under fourteen has increased in a marked degree in the past twenty years—that is, with all the free libraries, with the palatial schoolhouses built in the east in the past ten years, there is now a larger number of ignorant children under fourteen than there was twenty years ago. What are free books to those who have no time to read them? What are palatial schoolhouses to little girls under fourteen who work all night in a factory?

Have you heard the cry of the children in Pennsylvania, where the little ones tend silk looms in the coal regions? Silk is cheap now. The United States coal commission has found that in the anthracite region in two counties alone 1,600 girls under sixteen work in the silk mills. It seems unbelievable that 400 to 500 of these are on the night shift, that they stay out of bed and work twelve night hours week after week.

There was one Slav girl, Helen Sicak, eleven years old, employed on this night shift. Her mother, yet a young woman, had borne eleven children, then was sent to an insane asylum, and no wonder. Deprived of her care, six of the eleven died in one year, which must have been a happy release for them. The father was left with his five young ones, and Helen had to work twelve hours at night in the mill to help support them.

NIGHT FACTORY CHILDREN.

When solid residents of that part of the state found it out they held up their hands and exclaimed:

"Great heavens! We knew nothing of this."

Just so. Nine-tenths of the people of the United States are in ignorance of the awful facts. Would you like to have your eleven-year-old daughter work twelve hours in a factory at night?

Now let us leave Pennsylvania and go to Chicago. A meeting was held there not long since in connection with the child labor problem. What the state of things there is may be known from the object of that meeting. It was to take measures for preparing a legislative bill to prevent the employment of children under the age of fourteen and to stop children's night work in factories. Jane Addams, the sociologist, found a mill in which 3,500 children toiled incessantly, and all but sixty-six of these had fathers. She found hundreds of parents who live on their children's earnings—coin the tender blood drop by drop into money to support their own big, lazy bodies. In some cases the unlebodied fathers came daily at noon to bring the children's lunch—that by way of a little walk for exercise. Facts show it to be largely the fault of unworthy parents that these little creatures are forced to earn their blood pittance. The excuse of the unworthy parents is that children are better off than cheated out of their childhood than they would be running the streets. To this Miss Addams answers:

"I would rather see children allowed to run in the streets than to have them working in factories at a tender age. They would be stronger physically and mentally, and I don't believe their morals would be injured as they are by confinement and toil in places where they see nothing of the better side of life."

In southern cotton mills the terrible tale is the same. In Georgia women's organizations are striving to have a state law enacted to stop the inhumanity. Mrs. A. H. Granger, president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, writes a moving appeal to Massachusetts women to help the south in the work, because the owners of the cottoa mills are mostly northern men.

Do you hear the cry of the children?

KATE SHARP.

HANDSOME SILKS.

Chine and Pompadour Silks Used as Trimmings.

Chine and pompadour silks are intermixed with lace on the more sumptuous evening gowns. A deep flounce of ivory silk with lovely groups of rosebuds and foliage in natural tints was arranged on a gown of moss green velvet of rather a light shade. At the edge of the flounce was a border or tuck of velvet overlaid at intervals with motifs of lace. The velvet fell over the chine flounce in deep slender points which were tasseled in green silk. The bodice was almost indescribable, so intermixed were the three materials—lace, velvet and chine silk. The very abbreviated bolero of velvet had a deep flounce of lace, and the low neck had a quaintly shaped bertha of the silk opening in vandykes over the velvet.

DINNER WAIST.

Pompadour taffeta in a delicate iris design was used as a trimming to a lace gown. These fancy silks make admirable trimmings used in strips or medallions.

The smart black and white waist in the illustration is of black chiffon shirred into bands and livened by a collar and front of silk over lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DAINTY TOUCHES.

Handsome Creations Which Show the Latest Trimmings.

Evening dress at the moment is distinguished by an exceeding daintiness. The tiniest of ribbons, the smallest of fringes, traceries of sequins and tassels innumerable may be found decking frocks of chiffon and net, while ruffings of chiffon are essential to the hem of any well made evening dress.

A handsome evening dress recently made was of white mousseline trimmed with stripes of black chantilly lace joined with bands of black velvet ribbon. Frillings of white mousseline decorated the decolletage and formed the twisted bows which did duty as sleeves.

IMPORTED GOWN.

Another more elaborate creation was entirely made of white lace striped with folds of gray and white chiffon, with medallions of white passe and applications of gray velvet edged with chenille. On the bodice was a decoration of yellow roses. Chenille fringes were pendent from the panne ornaments.

An odd and at the same time handsome gown is shown in the picture. It is of heavy ficelle lace over pale green crepe de chine. The full sleeves are of pale green chiffon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Then He Went.

"I used to like winter weather when I was a boy," said Mr. Staylait. "But, I tell you, the older I get the more I hate to go out into the cold."

"Yes," said she, repressing a yawn, "and, gracious, you're getting older every minute, aren't you?"—Philadelphia Press.

DAINTY LINGERIE.

Up to Date Effects—The Fitted Chemise.

Nightgowns are being made more elaborate than ever.

The tendency is to do away with the yoke and substitute a round neck shirred into a wide beading of lace, through which is run ribbon. The sleeves are three-quarter length, in some cases mere puffs.

Chemises are not the clumsy affair of long ago. They are gored out so that they fit as closely as one desires. They are usually made in combination with a short skirt, terminating in a wide flounce of lace. The new silk stockings are marvels of openwork and embroidery. The latest are pearl gray worked in delicate colors to go with the fashionable gray gowns.

NIGHTGOWN.

Patent leather shoes are the only ones for the well dressed woman. It is a mistake to think that they injure the feet or do not wear well. With the ordinary amount of care they last fully as long and wear a great deal better as far as appearances are concerned.

A dainty nightgown is here shown. It has a wide sailor collar and elbow sleeves.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FLORAL GARNITURES.

Zibeline Flowers—Sprays of Holly. Narrow Velvet.

The new floral schemes are certainly original, and no evening gown is really complete without them. The latest novelty is to wear instead of a sash a long trail of roses and velvet foliage from the center of the waist behind to the hem of the skirt, and very pretty and piquant it all is.

In cases where the skirt is made with a plain panel of lace or net back or front it is outlined with clusters of roses or other flowers in a nest of autumn foliage, and for the decolletage one of the prettiest and smartest fashions is to edge it with shaded pinkish bronze rose leaves, with just a cluster of flowers in the center.

LAVENDER BROCADE.

Garnitures of velvet and holly leaves are extremely smart. The new zibeline flowers with their soft, downy surfaces are combined with zibeline ribbon and graduate from tiny buds to blossoms of gigantic proportions.

Sometimes more than one kind of blossom may be used in a spray. For instance, a spray of chrysanthemums in soft pink is supplemented by tight little green rosebuds.

The evening dress in the picture is of lavender brocade and chiffon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Asts.

Stella—Why did she elope with the coachman?

Bella—Her father didn't employ a chauffeur.—New York Herald.

LITTLE TOUCHES.

They Are the Making of a Smart Gown.

It is the little touches in the evening gowns which make them so perfect, like a black satin bow tied flat in the back of the waist with a paste buckle and a beautiful vest coming from beneath a bolero of lace formed of narrow rows of velvet radiating to a point in the center. All these several velvets are apparently drawn from beneath the bolero into a bow of ends and loops at the top of the decolletage. Many of the sleeves open on the outside of the arm down to the elbow, where they end in ruffles.

OLD ROSE SILK VEILING.

Veiling plays its part, and a good part, too, in the evening fashions. It falls so softly and forms such a good background for silver decoration.

A gown recently arrived from Paris in a deep tone of blue velvet sparkles with paillettes that shine like a star in the heavens. It is neither very full nor has it the appearance of being much trimmed. A perfect figure molded in it could hardly be shown to greater advantage.

The smart dress here shown is of old rose silk veiling over silk of the same shade.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

PERISHABLE GOWNS.

Beautiful Designs and Trimmings of Gold Lace.

Velour mousseline is one of the most beautiful fabrics of the year, and chiffon peking, with its satin stripe, which can be had in almost any color, is a feature of fashion we do well to remember.

A wonderful dress recently designed for a French house was in sky blue mirror velvet with a diaphanous front and back trimmed with a series of chevrons, which appear also on the bodice and short sleeves.

An empire evening gown demands a perfect carriage and the art of wearing one's clothes. Indeed in nine cases out of ten it is a failure. A recent example to the contrary, however, was of pale blue crepe de chine made with an empiecement on the hips calculated to show off a good figure at its best, and down the front there was a broad band of lace beautifully embroidered in chenille and gold and caught up here and there with tiny tassels. This treatment was repeated at the hem over cloth of gold.

CREPE DE CHINE GOWN.

The pretty gown here shown is of ecru crepe de chine.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SWEATBOX CONFESSIONS.

Recent Court Ruling on This Method of Compelling Accused Persons to Tell What They Know.

Here is a recent court decision in the court of appeals of the District of Columbia, West vs. United States, which shows what a violation of the legal rights of accused persons the so-called "sweatbox" methods of the police are:

Where an officer, having a prisoner in custody, said to him: "You have been telling me a pack of lies; now, you had better tell the truth," whereupon the prisoner made a confession, it was held that the confession was involuntary, and it was error to admit it in evidence and to submit to the jury the question whether or not it was voluntary. Under the law, as properly administered, a confession, if forced, cannot be used against a person charged with the commission of crime. The sweatbox method of obtaining confessions to be used against the parties making them is not sanctioned by the court. The court said that words of exhortation to a confession seemed often to be innocent enough, and cited the following, all of which had been held sufficient to vitiate the confession. "You are under suspicion and you had better tell all you know," "It would be better for you to speak out," "You had better tell the truth" and "You had as well tell all about it."

TWO DECADES OF BIG SHIPS.

Some of the Great Ocean Liners That Have Been Built Within the Last Few Years.

A striking illustration of the rapidity with which marine architecture has developed during recent years is to be had in the case of the old Anchor liner City of Rome, which was built in 1881, and for 12 years enjoyed the distinction of being the largest Atlantic steamship. She is being towed now in England to an obscure port to be broken into junk, says the Washington Star. It is with difficulty that one recalls the City of Rome as a holder of records of any kind, although when she was in her prime her name was familiar to the people on both sides of the ocean. When she was displaced from top rank in point of size by the Lucania and the Campania, in 1893, there was much marveling and many predictions that these vessels would for a long time hold the head of the lists. But since the era of big vessels opened it presented a rapid succession of "largest ships," and during the past five years there has been such an impetus in the steamship building line, especially in Germany, that the announcement of another monster excites comparatively little attention. Just at present the Oceanic and the Celtic are the largest vessels in service, and alongside of them the City of Rome would seem a pygmy.

MARY LEITER'S ELEPHANTS.

Former Chicago Girl Owns More of the Big Animals Than Any Other Caucasian.

Lady Curzon, too, has one distinction that is unique. She is the possessor of more elephants than any other Anglo-Saxon or European in the world, for more than one of her dusky admirers has sent her "lordship an elephant," sometimes two, says London Household Words. One of these is an immense creature, with the kind of wonderful sagacity about which we all read in school readers in the days of our youth. Its unwieldy form, with Lady Curzon in a white and gold howdah on its back, is often to be seen in the native bazaars, and when the beast sees anything for which it has a fancy that article is promptly handed up to its mistress. One day last year he made a very queer present, nothing less than a small brown baby two or three years old. It was the son of the great beast's keeper, and no sooner did the elephant see it trotting along with its mother than he seized it gently and lifted it into the air. The next moment Lady Curzon was gazing in astonishment upon a small brown baby clothed in a string of beads. Needless to say, it descended a richer and happier baby.

Sick on Manners.

Are bad manners on the increase among us? Riding the other day on a suburban train there were five men sitting without their coats within the immediate range of the writer's vision, and it was not an inordinately warm day, either, says Harper's Weekly. One of these gentlemen had gone so far as to roll up his sleeves and take off his collar, a pair of red suspenders being much in evidence. There were also three women in the same car who divested themselves of gloves and hats with the utmost unconcern, and who were possibly prepared to go further, had the thermometer been a few degrees higher. Five, or even three years ago, such spectacles were confined to the smoking car and to the day coaches of immigrant trains.

Lucky Old Maids.

Woman insure against being old maids in Denmark, says the New York Mail and Express. If they marry before they are 40 what they have paid goes to the less fortunate, and these last are endowed for the remainder of their lives on a scale proportioned on what they paid in.

Starving in Galicia.

In Galicia the wage of the farm laborer has been so reduced that he is starving to death on a pittance of from three to 10 cents a day.

Index of Civilization.

The average French person uses six pounds of soap in a year; the average English person uses ten pounds.

OUR NAVY'S PROGRESS.

It Is Hampered More or Less by the Snobbishness of Commanding Officers.

Once more it is demonstrated that the graduates of the national naval academy at Annapolis constitute the only self-centered monopoly in this country, and that they control the navy department.

The course of study and instruction at Annapolis has been reduced from four years to three years, upon the ground that the supply of commissioned officers is inadequate to the needs of the navy, and that more Annapolis graduates will have to be turned out quickly or our naval establishment will go to the bow-wows. The inference is that no one save a graduate of the national academy is worthy of commissioned rank in the United States navy.

CAPT. W. H. BROWNSON.
(New Superintendent of Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.)

Why should such a preposterous pretense be allowed to hamper the progress of the navy? Why should the naval establishment of a republic be turned into a nursery for a Brahmin class—the only restricted aristocracy in this country?

The present head of the army is not a West Pointer. Hardly one-fourth of the officers of the rank of colonel and above it are graduates of the national military academy. It is admitted without question that a man may be a good military officer, though he has not passed through West Point. Yet the naval clique which controls the navy department has been able to enforce upon the country for years the proposition that no man is fit to bear a commission in the United States navy unless he has graduated from the academy at Annapolis.

The grudging and insignificant concession through which six warrant officers are yearly allowed to make application for commissioned rank, amounts to nothing. Even if a man is thoroughly competent professionally, it will be urged against him as it was urged against Gunner Morgan, that he "lacks social qualifications."

There is no excuse for such a condition of affairs. Annapolis is no more sacred than West Point. The president should have the authority, and he should exercise that authority, to appoint from civil life officers of the merchant marine who are competent professionally. The social qualifications should cut no figure whatever. Moreover, warrant officers and enlisted men should be eligible to commissions, just as non-commissioned officers and privates in the army are eligible to shoulder straps.

In other words, says the Chicago Chronicle, the notion that Annapolis graduates alone are competent to officer American warships should be *thoroughly exploded. It is a snob*bish pretense that has held sway altogether too long.

FILIPINOS TRUST HIM.

Gen. James F. Smith's Appointment as Philippine Commissioner Pleases the Natives.

Gen. James F. Smith, of California, has been appointed a member of the Philippine commission, to succeed

GEN. JAMES F. SMITH.
(Recently Appointed a Member of the Philippine Commission.)

Bernard Moses, who is to retire January 1.

Gen. Smith filled the important office of collector of customs for the Philippine islands, where he showed marked administrative ability. He resigned to accept his present position as associate justice of the supreme court of the Philippine islands. Judge Smith is a prominent Catholic. It will be recalled that he accompanied Gov. Taft on his recent visit to the vatican in Rome, returning with Gov. Taft to resume his duties on the supreme bench.

He is much respected by the Filipinos and a great believer in their future under proper education and industrial opportunities.

A UNIQUE CEREMONY.

First European Cremation in Siam Described by an Intelligent Eye Witness.

Dr. Peter Gowan, physician to the king of Siam, who died recently, was cremated according to the rites of the Buddhist religion. Dr. Gowan, who spent the greater part of his life in Siam, and was for many years physician to the king of Siam, gave up his practice and joined the Buddhist priesthood, devoting his time to teaching the priests the art of healing. The doctor had long suffered from asthma, and did not long survive after joining the monastery. Before his death he expressed the wish that his body

DR. GOWAN'S FUNERAL PYRE.
(Prepared for the First European Cremation in Siam, Asia.)

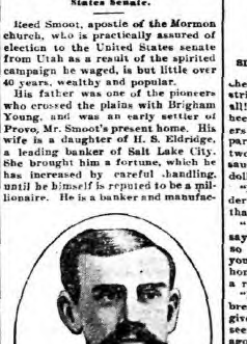
should be cremated. The ceremony attending the cremation was most im*posing. The king, as a mark of sig*nal respect for the memory of his late physician, sent a gilded state car, drawn by two black horses, on which the coffin was placed. On arriving at the temple the body was placed on the top of a pyre surrounded by elaborate floral tributes from the ladies of the royal palace, while beneath were wreaths placed both by European and Siamese friends. After viewing the coffin the company, which included a large number of Europeans, adjourned while the rites of the Buddhist faith were gone through. The chief of the temple then delivered a sermon (in the Siamese language) eulogizing the meritorious services rendered by the deceased. At the conclusion of the Buddhist service, one of the king's brothers, specially deputed on behalf of his majesty, then proceeded to light the pyre. The funeral pile was of the company present, European and Siamese, placed sandal sticks and flowers on the pyre. A grand display of fireworks ended the mournful proceedings.

APOSTLE REED SMOOT.

Mormon Leader Who May Be Elected to Represent Utah in United States Senate.

Reed Smoot, apostle of the Mormon church, who is practically assured of election to the United States senate from Utah as a result of the spirited campaign he waged, is but little over 40 years of age, wealthy and popular.

His father was one of the pioneers who crossed the plains with Brigham Young, and was an early settler of Provo, Mr. Smoot's present home. His wife is a daughter of H. S. Eldridge, a leading banker of Salt Lake City. She brought him a fortune, which he has increased by careful handling, until he himself is reputed to be a millionaire. He is a banker and manufac-



APOSTLE REED SMOOT.
(Mormon Leader Who May Be Elected United States Senator.)

*turer and is interested in a large num*ber of other enterprises.

Throughout Utah officials of the Mormon church electioneered for him, while he had the assistance also of Senator Thomas Kearns, whom, it is said, he is to help in return two years hence. His candidacy split the republican party in the state, for many were opposed to the idea of electing a Mormon apostle. These supported openly the democratic legislative candidates, who would vote for the return of Senator J. L. Rawlins, elected. On the other hand, many of the Mormon democrats who are susceptible to ecclesiastical influence in politics were brought over to Smoot.

Clothing Made of Bark.

Shirts and hats that are never in need of ironing are worn by the Indians of the interior of Bolivia. They are made of the bark of a tree, which is soaked in water until the fiber is softened, and then beaten with stones to make it pliable.

Coffee Causes Blindness.

Blindness is very common among the Moors. At 45 their eyesight begins to fail. This affliction is due, it is said, to the excessive use of coffee.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS.

Chicago Barkeeper Thinks They Will Not Return Again.

Says Candidates Nowadays Won't Thaw Out—Calls Them a Lot of Cheap Guys and Chicken-Feed Statesmen.

"Elections are getting quieter and quieter all the time, especially as far as the saloon business is concerned," said a West side bartender to a Chicago Tribune reporter, "and the past election was about the quietest I ever saw. A dollar of campaign money on a saloon bar now is nearly as scarce as a white blackbird.

"No, there's nothin' doin'. It's not like the old election times at all. Then a candidate for alderman or any other politico, you had to be a good fellow and a spender. He was glad to buy himself wash to go round and paint things red and make them whoop. When you saw him and his gang coming down the street it looked like there was a riot or a revolution. In every saloon there was a crowd of red-eyed bums waiting to get the glad hand and their beer from him and from the other fellow. The crowd would line up at the bar and shout for him and tell him he was the whole thing. Then he would make a little speech and jolly them up and order drinks, and the same again, and a good cigar for all hands, and throw down a five or a ten-dollar bill, or maybe a $20 bill. And expect any change? Not on your life, type. And no decent bartender would ever dream of giving him any. Bet your life he wouldn't.

"But my, how different now! The old candidates were princes compared with some of these fellows. A cheap or lot of guys never came over the pike, and how they have the gall to look for votes is what gets me. Most of them seem to be members of the W. C. T. U. Soda water and brown pop is their limit, and they seem to expect to get it for nothing.

"Why, the other day a candidate for something or other, one of these cheap statesmen of the new-fangled stripe of 'dead game sports,' save us all! floated in here with a lot of ward heelers, ordered beers for the rounders and ginger ale for himself and his particular grooms, and handed me a two-dollar bill. His eyes grew like saucers when I rung up the whole two dollars on the register.

SLAPS A HANDFUL ON THE BAR.

"Don't I get any change, bartender?" he asked, and he figured it out that I owed him 35 cents.

"'I don't do business that way,' I says, 'not at these times. If you're so ignorant of campaign etiquette, your mother had better keep you at home. You're a hot proposition for a representative, you are!'

"He looked so mad that I made a break for the long starter. O, it gives me the chills. I'd like to have seen that fellow's finish a few years ago.

"And the skate that is running against him isn't any improvement, either. He's one of these farmers and a saloon keeper and ought to know better. A poor welcome he'd have in *his own joint for any political candi*date who'd leave less than ten bucks on his greasy old bar. And what is he doing on his glorious campaign? I'll tell you his little dodge. He puts a lot of dimes and nickels in his pocket before he starts out and he slaps a handful of them on the bar with a big bluff at reckless generosity and says: 'Come on, old man, I'm feelin' good to-day; give the boys a drink and have one on me yourself, and take the price out of that.' He tried it on me, but it didn't work. I scooped up the measly little pile of chicken feed, about $1.35, and swept it into the till.

"'That's all right Johnny,' I says, 'but it's a poor way of doing business during a hot campaign, seein' that it cuts no ice for me and puts no slates on the house. Get proper and be a moderate candidate, I says.

"Then he gets mad, too, and goes away with his nose in the air.

"So that's the kind of thing we saloon keepers was up against this fall campaign, and that's the kind of stuff a lot of these bum state statesmen are made of. They'll give you plenty of guff, but to get them to loosen up is like trying to find the north pole. They're goin' round to private houses jollyin' the women and coaxin' them to have their husbands treat them and kissin' the children and maybe givin' them a cent here and there. But the good old times are gone and the days of the saloon campaign are over."

Fortune Spent on Levees.

During the last 37 years Louisiana has spent $30,000,000 on the levees of the Mississippi.

PHOTOGRAPHING THE ALPS.

Daring Feats of Camera Enthusiasts on the Summit of the Highest Peak.

Among the most daring feats attempted by modern photographers are those performed by the camera experts who carry their apparatus to the summit of the highest peaks of the Alps. A following incident is one of the many thrilling ones related by the writer of an article in Pearson's:

"We were somewhat troubled by the rising wind, which blew strongly across the crags, as our route lay up a striking-looking chimney on the exposed side of the ridge. The rest of the party decided to lower the writer over the overhanging wall of rock on our right to gain some ledges where a photograph could be taken of the ascent of the chimney.

"Being lowered over an ordinary cliff in search of birds' nests with proper apparatus is child's play compared with such a lowering as I en*dured that day. In the first place*, an Alpine rope is too thin for such work, for one felt almost cut in half before the full strain came on the rope, and absolutely convinced that those above could not have sufficient hold to manipulate the rope in such a wind. However, the painful dangling was soon over, and a simple scramble up some broken rocks led to a capacious recess which would accommodate the camera."

PARROT AS DETECTIVE.

A Bright Bird That Knew Wines Aided in the Discovery of Some Stolen Bottles.

This is a fact, says a correspondent of the Gentlewoman, though you are inclined to feel skeptical. Some people I knew in the country had a fine cellar and a parrot of peculiar perspicacity. They taught him to know the different wines.

"Ah!" he would exclaim, as they moistened his beak with claret, "'71!" or, if a few drops of champagne, "'89," "'84," or "'92," as the case might be. He never made a mistake as to the vintage.

At last my friends thought that the bird was getting uncanny. They quite longed to catch him napping, and one day to try and put him out they sent for a bottle of cheap port from the village grocer. The parrot sipped the port, and what did he exclaim but "Best of all! '54!"

My friends tasted the wine. It was peculiarly good. To the village grocer they went, and demanded an explanation. The old man faltered and reddened, and on being pressed for the history of the wine admitted that a butler recently discharged from the family had sold him a few bottles of 54 port from their cellars, and that the bottle in question was 54 port!

STRENGTH OF AN EGGSHELL.

An Experiment Shows That It Can Sustain Great Pressure Within and Without.

*An eggshell can withstand an in*ternal pressure of 65 pounds per square inch and an external pressure of 673 pounds per square inch, according to experiments made by Albert E. Guy, reports the American Machinist.

The eggs were taken at random and the contents emptied by first boring a one-sixteenth-inch hole at each end.

The shells were tested in three ways—by pressure applied on the long axis, by internal pressure on the whole shell and by external pressure. As the eggshell is porous the difficulties met with in trying the last two tests were overcome by using an ordinary toy balloon of thin rubber.

For the internal test a one-sixteenth-inch tube, plugged at one end and with a hole drilled in the side, was inserted in the balloon. The balloon and tube were then put through holes carefully drilled in the ends and the balloon tightly tied outside the shell. The small tube was soldered to a pipe plug for connection with the pump.

For the external pressure test the eggshell was tied up inside the balloon.

THE STERILIZING AGE.

Door-Knobs, Hand-Rails and Other Lurking Places of Infection Must Be Scrubbed.

If the bacteriologists tell us we must scrub the mouthpieces of telephones once a day to get rid of dangerous bacill, of course we must obey orders from such a source, remarks the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. But why once a day only? The last user of the 'phone may have deposited disease germs in the mouthpiece. Is it not necessary to scrub after each user? Why take partial precautions? Why not be entirely safe?

Then there are the door-knobs—terrible lurking places of infection. Should we not have these scrubbed as soon as use has, possibly, made them deadly? And the straps and hand-rails of street cars—it is an old *story that these are thick with bac*terial colonies. If this line of possible and impossible infection from invisible sources gets strong enough we may get as scared as the Salem*ites in the days of witchcraft. At* any rate, the mania promises to provide plenty of employment for those who are out of work, if not for everybody. If all the articles of daily use that need scrubbing, from the bacteriologist's points of view, are to be scrubbed, the world will get busier than it has ever been.

Crushing a New Sect.

The sultan of Turkey has ordered the extirpation, by as severe methods as can be devised, so as to teach a lesson, it is reported, of a new religious sect that has made great headway in Damascus. The new religion is not Jewish nor Mohammedan nor Christian, but a sort of medley of all three. It teaches that neither Mohammed nor Christ was a divine person, though their existence is admitted. They were simply great philosophers who were endowed with powers to perform certain miracles. More interesting, however, is that the members, having admitted some belief in Islam, are allowed a plurality of wives, while as a recognition of Christianity they are not forbidden to be total abstainers from strong drink. It is an enticing religion to those who have no desire to place too great a curb on their passions, and such are common in the land of the Turk; hence, probably, so great a number of recruits that the attention of the sultan and the sublime porte was attracted to it.—London News.

Holiday in Bed.

I was told the other day of a decidedly novel party in which two hospital nurses spent their vacation. Hospital nursing is very arduous, for the hours are long, and the two girls were thoroughly worn out. They went off to a seaside place, they took rooms, and they went to bed. People were surprised when they did not go down stairs, and it was feared they were ill. When the landlady went up she was told very quietly they were quite well, but that they meant to stay there for many days. When they did get up it was only to take a walk, and, practically speaking, they spent their vacation between the sheets, and astonished their friends by the way they looked when they returned to town. They were sensible women, for most people would have gone in for what they called enjoying themselves, and would have returned to work more tired than they left it.—Woman's Home Life.

No Overcrowding Here.

There are more than 20,000,000 acres of the finest arable land in the world in Manitoba, says a Winnipeg dispatch. There are perhaps 20,000,000 acres more of prairie grass, which needs little or no cultivation to feed cattle on. In Assiniboia, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and Athabasca there are immense tracts of agricultural country sufficient to supply the United Kingdom with all the corn and cattle required. Including Manitoba, they are estimated to comprise over 80,000,000 acres of farm lands. Of this vast territory not more than 13,000,000 or 14,000,000 acres are occupied. Manitoba and Assiniboia have already done much to justify Canada's title to be the granary of the empire. —London Express.

Richest Nation in the World.

The Osage Indians of Oklahoma af*ford the best example of socialism* in the world. The tribe is said to have $8,000,000 cash on deposit in Washington and to own 1,500,000 acres of land, worth another $8,000,000. Their realty holdings give a per capita wealth of $4,000 for every brave, squaw and papoose in the tribe. The interest on their money and lands alone affords an annuity of little over $300 to each member, old, middle-aged and young. This makes the Osages the richest people in the world.—St. Louis Star.

A Critical Expression.

Miss Gushington—Mr. D'Auber was showing us some of his sketches in oil. I think his style is just cute, don't you?

Mr. Knox—Oh, I wouldn't say "cute," exactly.

"No?"

"No; I should say 'artless.'"—Philadelphia Press.

In Case of the Husband's Death.

"Ah, my darling wife," said a young husband the week after he was married, "if your husband were to die, what would you do?"

"I don't know, I am sure," said his loving wife. "I must look in my 'Book of Etiquette,' and read the rules for young widows." — Woman's Home Companion.

Bit the Handle.

"Mr. Slowpay," asked the landlady, "do you not like that drumstick I served you? I thought it would please you."

"Well, Mrs. Feeden," answered Mr. Slowpay, "I hate to ask it, but if you cooked the rest of the drum, I should prefer a piece of the head or a part of the rim."—Baltimore American.

Intellectual.

"*Just fahncy, Wegin*ald; I've forgotten ma cahrd case."

"Never mind, dear, deah boy; I'll lend you some of mine."

"But—ah—the name would be different, you know."

"Bah Jove, so it would! What a head you have, Algy!"—Tit-Bits.

Partington in Scotland.

Minister (to one of his members, a venerable old gardener)—You have reached the age of seventy, John.

John—'Deed ha'e I, sir, for gin I leeve till next month I'll be an octegeranium.—Glasgow Times.

The Coming Jury.

Lawyer (a few years hence)—Make your mind easy; the jury will disagree.

Prisoner—Sure?

"I know it. Two of the members are man and wife."—Tit-Bits.

Sexes in Prisons.

In American prisons the proportion of men to women is as twelve to one; in French prisons as five to one.—Chicago Journal.

IRWIN TURNED DOWN

Kentucky Congressman Defeated Because He Snored.

His Successor Elected on a Platform That Requires Him to Stay Awake While Representing His Constituents.

To sleep in church has long been *considered a perfectly legitimate oc*casion for physical recreation among some people. The name of the good man or woman who seeks rest from weary sermons in slumber is legion. From time immemorial the practice has been countenanced by our very best people, and although it is in the highest degree reprehensible it has been smiled rather than frowned upon.

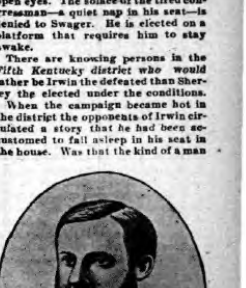
Kentuckians are very much like their fellow citizens of less distinguished commonwealths. As a general proposition they don't object to a quiet little snooze in church or in the halls of congress, but they could not forgive one of their illustrious sons who was accused of snoring in the dignified house of representatives at Washington.

"Irwin snored!" So the voters of the Fifth Kentucky congressional district have formally decided, and it has cost him his seat in congress. Representative H. S. Irwin was defeated in the election November 4, and the weightiest charge against him was that he went to sleep during sessions of the august but sometimes tedious body to which Kentucky had elected him.

Swager Sherley, his successful opponent, now faces a fearful fate. He must sit through all manner of long drawn out debates in the house and listen to hone long speeches by wise open eyes. The solace of the tired congressman—a quiet nap in his seat—is denied to Swager. He is elected on a platform that requires him to stay awake.

There are knowing persons in the Fifth Kentucky district who would rather be Irwin the defeated than Sherley the elected under the conditions.

When the campaign became hot in the district the opponents of Irwin circulated a story that he had been accustomed to fall asleep in his seat in the house. Was that the kind of a man



HON. HARVEY S. IRWIN.
(Kentucky Congressman Who Was Defeated by a Hearty Snore.)

the intelligent voters wanted to represent them? They asked the good folks of Kentucky.

In vain Irwin tried to quiet the rumor. He made the mistake of taking it seriously, and the people finally decided that it was a serious reflection on the Fifth district to have as representative a man who could not keep awake.

If Mr. Irwin had said that it was a common thing to go to sleep during a dreary debate, and if he had laughed at the story it might not have carried weight against him. It is not unusual for a member to go to sleep during a session. In fact, there are some party leaders who believe that no member is quite so good a member as when he is peacefully asleep in his chair.

But the democratic spellbinders of the Fifth distributed the capital crime out of Mr. Irwin's peaceful snores and held him up to ridicule. Every time this method of attack was chosen Irwin denounced his antagonists for indulging in unseeming personalities.

"Any person who says I was asleep lies," declared Mr. Irwin at his political meetings in a vain effort to stem the tide against him. "I want it distinctly understood that I was not asleep. If I had been asleep I would admit it. Mr. Grosvenor, who was presiding, says I was not asleep. He was not disturbed because of my slumbers, as has been reported. I showed him a statement of the charges and he said it was ridiculous. Mr. Hill, who was making a speech on the river and harbor bill at the time, says I was not asleep, and he is a democrat. Mr. Bromwell, who sat next to me, declared the next day that I was not asleep."

But it was no use. The intelligent voter decided that Irwin had been asleep and elected Sherley, who is pledged not to sleep.

The X-Ray in Dentistry.

The X-ray is being used in dentistry with considerable success. It sometimes happens that the permanent, or "second," teeth are not properly cut. The mouth is thus disfigured by the loss of the first set of teeth and the non-appearance of the second teeth. With the X-ray the dentist can determine whether the second tooth is in the gum, and if so, why it has not appeared. The obstruction is removed, a passage opened and the tooth works gradually down to its place. An operation of this kind was recently performed on a girl of 20.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

[illegible] Proprietor

FIND OUT THE TRUTH.

Assemblyman Newcorn's idea that the State Legislature should be fully informed before it begins to consider any remedial legislation regarding the railroads is an excellent one. His idea of accomplishing it is by the appointment of a commission of five men to look into the causes of the Westfield disaster. So far, no other plan has been advanced and it would look as if his scheme would work out to the best interests of all concerned. The findings of such a commission would have great weight and it would require the unmistakable stamp of public disapproval to check any reforms it might suggest.

Just at present the Legislature is being overran with bills which has been brought out by the wreck on the Jersey Central. Some of them are not worth the paper they are written on. Others possess considerable merit. There must be a sifting process and it must be an intelligent one. As things are now, there is no one in the Legislature qualified to decide. It may be that no legislation will be needed. The railroads may see a way of accomplishing the desired object without any assistance from the Legislature. These are all subjects which should be looked into. What is any body's business is nobody's business and unless the work of investigation is delegated to certain individuals the Legislature is going to be woefully ignorant on the subject.

Public opinion seems to favor two men in the cab. Practical railroad men, who certainly ought to know what they are talking about, declare that the two engineer plan is not feasible; that the danger would be far greater with two to share the responsibility; that there must always be one to answer for what might happen. Two firemen on engines of the "camelback" type might solve the problem. The danger is as much the railroad's as anyone else's and there is not a road in the country that is going to have an accident if it can prevent it. An investigation and conference with railroad officials may bring to light the proper remedy. By all means let the Legislature provide for an intelligent inquiry and discover the remedy if possible.

THE RESPONSIBILITY.

Those who have closely followed the proceedings of the coroner's inquest, heard the testimony which has been presented at its sessions, and seen the various demonstrations intended for the enlightenment of the jury, become very close to guessing what the general trend of the findings of the inquest will be. After everything that has been said and done, there appears to be no reasonable doubt that Engineer Davis was directly responsible for the accident.

Right here, however, it might be well to add that there is a vast difference between responsibility and liability. There isn't any question as to the liability of the Jersey Central Railroad and that it will have to pay out thousands of dollars to the families of those who met their death in the accident or were injured there. That is a conceded fact by the railroad officials as well as every one else. The question of responsibility, and particularly criminal responsibility, is a different one altogether.

Had the signals failed to work properly; had there been any confusion of orders; had the order of the company not stated specifically that one must not run by a red signal, the responsibility for the accident would not have rested on the engineer. Under the circumstances, however, the jury will have to bring in a verdict that he was directly responsible. It will remain with the jury, if it so desires, however, to offer any suggestions or recommendations that will tend to indicate that any methods pursued by the railroad company or its employes are not of the best and may have worked disastrously in this case.

It will be these recommendations of the coroner's jury that will be looked for with special interest by the public at large. Here are six of Plainfield's best citizens who have examined all the circumstances exhaustively and impartially. They have gone more deeply into the subject than is usual in such cases and if the truth is to be found they certainly ought to discover it. Whatever is their decision in this case is going to have great weight with the public at large and with the State and county authorities.

Plainfielder There.

The annual breakfast of the Lydia F. Wodleigh Association took place at the Hotel Manhattan, Manhattan, Madison avenue and Forty-second street, New York, Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Among those present was Mrs. S. H. Struthers, of West Front street.

SAW SIGNALS FROM ENGINE

A Demonstration of Conditions Prior to Wreck for Benefit of the Coroner's Jury.

IT WAS A UNIQUE TRIP

Vice President and General Manager Besler, With Jury, Impersonated Express With Observation Engine—Superintendent's Private Car Acted as "Dummy 13."

Over the same ground that Engineer Davis traveled just previous to the Westfield disaster, with the same signals giving warning of waiting orders and a train in front, the members of the coroner's jury were given a practical demonstration, Friday evening, of the events which led up to the wreck. It served to show better than all possible explanation could just how the signals are operated there and what were the conditions at the scene of the collision. It was, by all odds, the most unique feature of a remarkable inquest. It also had the peculiarity of being the only event of its kind in railroad annals when the incidents of a wreck were thus reproduced for the benefit of public inspection.

It all grew out of a remark made by Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, who, as foreman of the coroner's jury, was interrogating Vice President and General Manager William G. Besler when he was on the witness stand Thursday afternoon. There was talk of the operation of the signals and Mr. Besler was trying to explain them for the benefit of the jury. Without any warning, Mr. Fisk wanted to know if Mr. Besler would take the jury over the same ground and show them the signals, as Davis should have seen them, in operation. As soon as Mr. Besler grasped what Mr. Fisk wanted, he readily agreed and last evening's expedition was the fulfillment of his word.

For the benefit of the jury, the observation engine of the Reading system, No. 101, was summoned from Reading, Pa. It reached here a few minutes behind the east bound Philadelphia express, due at 7:32, and the party climbed aboard without delay. Mr. Besler was present to explain the workings of the signals. Then there were the jurors, Foreman Fisk and Messrs. Arnold, Woodhull, Buckle, Kenney and Garrett. The others in the party were Coroner P. DuBois Bunting, Assistant Prosecutor John K. English, County Physician F. W. Westcott and Chief of Police Kiely. W. S. Hunt, of the New York Herald, had been selected to accompany the party as the representative for the New York papers while Charles B. Morse, city editor of The Daily Press, was present as the representative of the local newspapermen.

As the observation engine left the North Avenue station and sped away to the eastward, the members of the jury began to get some idea of what the signals really meant. There was a coal train halted on track three, just beyond Netherwood, the block signals being against it. In front of it stood a second train. From there on both of the east bound tracks were clear. From the darkened cab, the party could see the signals far in advance. Mr. Fisk occupied one of the front chairs with Mr. Besler close beside him. The others were in the chairs on either side or sat in front where they could obtain a good view of the road ahead.

At Cranford Junction, the engine was switched into the yard when the passengers descended while the locomotive was turned about on the turntable. There was a short wait until a Philadelphia express passed by and following it was the private car of General Superintendent O. W. Huntington, with Mr. Huntington and several other railroad officials aboard. It had been arranged that Mr. Huntington's car was to represent train No. 13, while the observation engine was to follow out the course of the express.

So the "dummy 13" departed westward and after a few minutes delay, the "dummy 621" followed after. No sooner had the little engine glided on the main track than everybody exclaimed:

"There it is." It was the red light at Cranford station which the operator had placed between tracks two and four and was visible fully a mile away. There wasn't any running by signals this time and the observation engine came to a stop at Cranford just long enough to get orders to allow it to proceed. With Cranford behind the "dummy express" rushed along at a lively clip.

Hardly were they well under way again and passing by the last houses of Cranford when the sharpest eyes discovered a red glimmer far ahead.

"Next look out for Verseo's warning," said Mr. Besler.

It was the light on the block signal that was first spied but it wasn't long before the red light gleamed at the Broad street crossing. Then came the block signal just west of Westfield station with the green cautionary light visible. The engineer of No. 101 slackened his speed and proceeded cautiously. There was the red light of Flagman Verson at the Broad street crossing bobbing around like a fire fly nor did it quiet down until the engine had almost reached it.

Another red light came into view. It was the rear brakeman of the "dummy local." He was swinging his red lantern about with vigor. Behind him should be seen the two red lights on the rear end of his train.

"See, he's running this way," said somebody. And still another red light gleamed before them. This time it was on the block signal and warned them that the block in front was occupied. Before the signal was reached, however, two torpedoes, left behind by the rear brakeman, exploded. With everybody listening for them and the engine moving slowly, there was no trouble in hearing them. The rear brakeman was gathered in and at the red signal the "dummy express" stopped for the prescribed time. On again they went but very slowly and finally came up with Mr. Huntington's car standing right where the wreck had occurred and the exhibition was over. Before anybody had a chance to move, there was a blinding flash and some enterprising photographer had added another picture to his collection.

The ride home simply served as a further demonstration of the regular operation of the signals. The observation car followed two blocks behind the other and the changing of the signals could be plainly seen. Again was the rear flagman seen at work as the party approached Plainfield and the rear of the private special was guarded. In a few moments there was a general hand-shaking on the station platform and words of thanks to Mr. Besler for his very realistic reproduction of the incidents just previous to the disaster.

While the demonstration did not throw any new light on the subject, it served to give the members of the coroner's jury a comprehensive idea of the signals, how they are operated and just what Engineer Davis had to pass before he collided with the Easton local.

Engine No. 101 was driven by Engineer Bradford, who was for year's Mr. Besler's engineer and who he has not seen since 1901. Both times the greeting between the two was a hearty one. No. 101 returned to Reading, Pa., immediately while Superintendent Huntington's private car was turned about at Dunellen and sent back to New York with the railroad officials, Mr. Fisk and others of the party who decided to get back to the city at once.

T. R. MEAD DEAD.

Old Resident of Scotch Plains, Employed in Local Grocery of Late, Has Passed Away.

Thomas R. Mead, aged fifty years, died Sunday afternoon at his home, 142 East Fifth street, following an illness with heart trouble.

Mr. Mead was a resident of Scotch Plains for many years, where, under the firm name of Baker & Mead, a general store was conducted. Upon the death of Mr. Baker, Mr. Mead gave up the business and went to Spring Valley, N. Y., where he conducted a grocery store up to a year ago, when he came to Plainfield. Since then he has been a bookkeeper for J. A. Smith & Brother, grocers.

Mr. Mead was a member and deacon of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, also a member of Fanwood Council, Royal Arcanum. His birth place was in New York State. He leaves a wife, who was Miss Hattie Radford, of this city, and a daughter.

The funeral services were held from the late home Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and interment was in the North Plainfield cemetery.

NARROW ESCAPE.

John Dond's Coat Caught Fire and Threatened Serious Results.

John Dond, the sub postmaster at North Plainfield had a narrow escape Friday morning from being burned to death in the store of J. J. Stahl on Somerset street. He had just put some papers in a large stove and thinking the damper was turned in the right direction closed it in front of the stove. Instead of the flames going up the chimney they came out of the open front door and in a short while Mr. Dond's coat was in flames.

John H. Carney, of Lincoln place, happened into the store at that moment, and seeing that the coat of Mr. Dond was ablaze, he rushed the young man to a faucet where the flames were extinguished. The coat was ruined.

Miss Mary Turnbull, of Scranton, Pa., who has been the guest of friends in this city for the past few days, has returned to her home.

FAST RIDE IN ENGINE CAB

Coroner's Jury Had Practical Demonstration of How High Speed Engines Are Run.

TOOK TRIP THIS MORNING

Carried to Jersey City in Cab in Just Thirty-Four Minutes—Returned in Private Car—Trip Was Taken as Duplicate to Wrecked Locomotive.

A demonstration of a high-speed locomotive going at sixty miles an hour was given to the members of the coroner's jury, Saturday morning. Engine No. 26, the exact duplicate of No. 27, which was demolished in the Westfield disaster, was sent to Plainfield this morning for the benefit of the jury so the members might see the exact location of the throttle, leavers and injectors. A trip on the engine was proposed in order to see the engine in actual operation and the consent of General Superintendent Huntington being secured, the jury took a decidedly fast trip to Jersey City and return.

The trip was planned in a hurry and the engine, with no cars attached, left the North Avenue station at 10:06, just ahead of the local. In addition to the jurors, the party consisted of P. and R. Road Foreman Thomas A. Foersch, of Philadelphia, Chief of Detectives Dougherty, Chief Kiely and Ralph L. Morrow, representing the newspapermen. They were all in the cab.

There wasn't any time lost in the trip to Jersey City. Just thirty-four minutes were consumed, the engine reaching the terminal at 10:40. The engineer was B. J. Lougherv, who appeared before the inquest as a witness. H. R. Rowland was the fireman.

At Jersey City, the party was met by General Superintendent O. W. Huntington who explained various details of railroad service. As engine 26 was needed in Philadelphia, it was turned around and attached to Mr. Huntington's private car "Central" and the party brought back to Plainfield. Jurors Arnold and Buckle preferred to remain in the cab while the others of the party occupied the private car.

Conductor T. J. McCabe was put in charge.

"What are your orders?" he was asked.

"Haven't any special orders. We are running under the block signals," was the reply.

The special train left Jersey City at 11:00 and a few minutes later a Philadelphia express followed. It was about three blocks behind the special. The train was travelling at about sixty miles an hour. The jurors timed the train from the Westfield station to the scene of the wreck and it took just forty seconds. At 11:40 o'clock, the party reached Plainfield and disembarked.

A committee has been appointed from the coroner's jury to visit the Philadelphia round house shops Monday and look over the "work" books. The members will also be on the look out for any new evidence which may have any bearing on the case. The committee will consist of Foreman Fisk and Jurors Buckle and Kenney.

Regular Call.

M. Seymour Purdy, of the Theological Seminary, at Rutgers College, formerly the supply at Marconnier chapel, but now holding a similar position with the Reformed church at Bogota, has received a call to become the regular pastor of the Bogota church upon the completion of his studies at New Brunswick May 1. It is quite likely that Mr. Purdy will accept the call. His many friends in this city and at Oak Tree will wish him success.

Death of Mrs. Moore.

Mrs. Hannah English Moore, wife of Rev. Dr. William L. Moore, who died last Thursday, February 5, at her residence, 301 West Seventy-second street, New York, was the mother of Mrs. Simeon Ayers Cruikshank, of Belvidere avenue. The funeral services were held Sunday and were private. The interment was at the convenience of the family.

Address and Tea.

The Home Missionary Society, of the First Presbyterian church, will meet Friday afternoon in the parlors of the church and listen to an address by Mrs. Gildersleeve, of Westfield. Tea will be served after the meeting.

Albany Pastor to Preach.

The services at the First Baptist church next Sunday will be conducted by Rev. Clarence Gallup, of Albany, who recently resigned his pastorate in that city. Mr. Gallup is considered a very forceful speaker.

BASKET BALL LEAGUE WILL RESUME FRIDAY

First Game Will be Played Between Hope Y. M. A. and the I. C. T. Club.

AT HOPE GYMNASIUM

ALL THE TEAMS HAVE BEEN PRACTICING STEADILY.

Great Improvement Shown Already in the Work of the I. C. T. Club and the Plainfield Reform Club, the New Additions.

After a postponement of two weeks occasioned by the Westfield disaster, which came as such a shock to the whole community, the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League will resume its activity this week. It will be remembered that when several changes were made in the membership of the league and it was enlarged from a triangular contest to a four cornered fight, it was decided best to cancel all the games already played and start anew. The first game of the new series is now booked for Friday evening when the I. C. T. Club and the Hope Y. M. A. will meet at the latter's gymnasium.

It has been remarkable how the interest in the sport has kept up despite the postponements that have been necessary and it speaks volumes for the interest in the league contests which may be expected as soon as they have been started. All of the clubs in the league have been practicing, however, and they are now in the best of shape. Naturally it is to be expected that the Y. M. C. A. and the Hope Y. M. A. will have the stronger teams at the start. The I. C. T. Club boys and the members of the Plainfield Reform Club have been hard at work and they all expect to develop some surprises before the season is over.

When it is remembered that the Hope Y. M. A. started the season this winter with practically no experience and defeated both the Y. M. C. A. and the Elks A. A. in the start of the first series, the new teams in the league have hopes of getting into form before the schedule is anywhere near completed. At its start, the Hope and Y. M. C. A. boys will undoubtedly have the stronger teams but even in the few games the other teams have played there has been decided improvement and the league is going to be no easy victory for either of the more experienced fives.

NEW RULES.

Adopted by the Jersey Central and Reading Systems to Become Operative March 1.

As a result of the recent wreck at Westfield when so many of Plainfield's citizens lost their lives a meeting of the officials of the New Jersey Central Railroad was held at Philadelphia Sunday. At the meeting it was decided to introduce new rules governing the operation of trains on their lines. Vice President W. G. Besler, of the New Jersey Central, presided at the meeting.

The new rules conform with the latest rules promulgated as the best and safest standard by the American Railway Association. A complete book of rules, the very latest and most improved, will become effective on March 1, on the entire Reading-Jersey Central system.

Factory Changes Hands.

The Schepflin Clothing Manufacturing Company ceased to exist Saturday afternoon when its entire factory, machinery, stock and orders were sold to a New York firm. It will now be run under the name of the Globe Manufacturing Company. Wallace M. Brown, who was treasurer of the Schepflin Company, has been appointed manager of the new concern. Most of the old employes will be retained.

Position At Museum.

Waldron DeWitt Miller, son of Major and Mrs. W. D. W. Miller, of East Seventh street, has just secured a very fine position in the Museum of Natural History, New York. His duties are those of classifying and as Mr. Miller has an especial fondness for the study of birds his position is a most pleasant and profitable one for him.

For Spencer Conway's Benefit.

Professor W. L. Lindsay, known of the world's greatest musical prodigy, will appear at Reform Hall, Friday evening and give one of his concerts. The proceeds will be for the benefit of Spencer Conway, who has been an invalid for the past eighteen months.

Quiet Wedding.

William M. G. Fisher and Miss Carrie R. Pisco, of Boston, were quietly married Monday afternoon at the residence of the groom sister, Mrs. Wm. M. Culbertson, 159 Crescent avenue. Rev. C. L. Goodrich officiated.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

On and after Jan. 15, 1905.

Trains will leave Plainfield as follows:

9.32 a. m.—Fast Line daily, with Pullman Vestibule Parlor Cars, for Pittsburg and Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

2.37 p. m.—Western Express daily, with Pullman Parlor Car and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

4.37 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, and Chicago, daily, for Kenova, via Shenandoah Valley Route, for Cleveland. except Saturday.

The Southern's Palm Limited—1.58 p.m. week-days.

The Atlantic Coast Line Florida Special—3.56 p. m. week days.

Seaboard Express Limited—1.31 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1.05, 3.56, 9.07, 9.32 a. m., 1.58, 1.05, 10.09 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 3.56, 9.07, 9.32 a. m., 1.58, 10.09 and 10.07 p. m.

For Newark and New York—2.08, 5.52, 6.26, 6.42, 7.15, 7.30, 8.00, 8.15, 8.30, 9.07, 9.30, 9.37, 9.45, 10.07, 10.30, 10.42, 11.07 a. m., 12.02, 12.30, 1.07, 1.30, 2.07, 2.30, 3.07, 3.30, 4.07, 4.15, 4.30, 5.07, 5.30, 6.07, 6.30, 7.07, 7.30, 8.07, 8.30, 9.07, 9.30, 10.07, 10.30, 11.07 p. m. Sundays, 2.08, 5.52, 6.26, 6.42, 7.15, 7.30, 8.00, 8.15, 8.30, 9.07, 9.30, 9.37, 9.45, 10.07, 10.30, 10.42, 11.07 a. m., 12.02, 12.30, 1.07, 1.30, 2.07, 2.30, 3.07, 3.30, 4.07, 4.15, 4.30, 5.07, 5.30, 6.07, 6.30, 7.07, 7.30, 8.07, 8.30, 9.07, 9.30, 10.07, 10.30, 11.07 p. m. For New York only, 9.20 a. m., 2.48 and 6.58 p. m. week-days.

For Philadelphia—2.08, 5.52, 6.26, 6.42, 7.15, 7.30, 8.00, 8.15, 8.30, 9.07, 9.30, 9.37, 9.45, 10.07, 10.30, 10.42, 11.07 a. m., 12.02, 12.30, 1.07, 1.30, 2.07, 2.30, 3.07, 3.30, 4.07, 4.15, 4.30, 5.07, 5.30, 6.07, 6.30, 7.07, 7.30, 8.07, 8.30, 9.07, 9.30, 10.07, 10.30, 11.07 p. m. Sundays—2.08, 5.52, 6.26, 6.42, 7.15, 7.30, 8.00, 8.15, 8.30, 9.07, 9.30, 9.37, 9.45, 10.07, 10.30, 10.42, 11.07 a. m., 12.02, 12.30, 1.07, 1.30, 2.07, 2.30, 3.07, 3.30, 4.07, 4.15, 4.30, 5.07, 5.30, 6.07, 6.30, 7.07, 7.30, 8.07, 8.30, 9.07, 9.30, 10.07, 10.30, 11.07 p. m. week-days.

For Trenton—1.05, 3.56, 9.07, 9.32, 10.09 a. m., 1.58, 1.05, 10.09 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 3.56, 9.07, 9.32 a. m., 1.58, 10.09 and 10.07 p. m.

For Atlantic City—10.09 a. m., 1.58 p. m. week-days. Through Vestibuled Trains. Buffet Parlor Cars and Sun Observation Parlor Cars. Dining and Smoking Car, Parlor Cars, Dining Car and Standard Coaches. Limited.

For Cape May—1.07 p.m. week-days.

For Rahway—1.05, 6.45, 7.15, 8.05, 9.05, 9.37, 9.45, 10.07, 10.30, 10.42, 11.07 a. m., 12.02, 1.07, 1.30, 2.07, 2.30, 3.07, 3.30, 4.07, 4.15, 4.30, 5.07, 5.30, 6.07, 6.30, 7.07, 7.30, 8.07, 8.30, 9.07, 9.30, 10.07, 10.30, 11.07 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 8.45, 9.05, 9.37, 9.45, 10.07, 10.30, 10.42, 11.07 a. m., and 12.02 night week-days. Sundays—1.05, 8.45, 9.05, 9.37, 9.45, 10.07, 10.30, 10.42, 11.07 a. m., and 12.02 night.

For South Amboy—6.45, 9.05, 11.07 a. m., 12.56, 2.06, 4.50, 5.45, 8.15, 7.05, 9.04 p. m., 12.07, 12.22 night, week-days. Sundays—10.05 and 11.44 a. m., 9.51 and 10.16 p. m.

For East Millstone—7.30 a. m., 12.05, 3.07 and 7.26 p. m. week-days.

For Trenton—1.05, 7.15, 8.05, 9.05, 9.37, 9.45, 10.07, 10.30, 10.42, 11.07 a. m., 12.02, 1.07, 1.30, 2.07, 2.30, 3.07, 3.30, 4.07, 4.15, 4.30, 5.07, 5.30, 6.07, 6.30, 7.07, 7.30, 8.07, 8.30, 9.07, 9.30, 10.07, 10.30, 11.07 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 8.45, 9.05, 9.37, 9.45, 10.07, 10.30, 10.42, 11.07 a. m., 12.02, 1.07, 1.30, 2.07, 2.30, 3.07, 3.30, 4.07, 4.15, 4.30, 5.07, 5.30, 6.07, 6.30, 7.07, 7.30, 8.07, 8.30, 9.07, 9.30, 10.07, 10.30, 11.07 p. m.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, via Flemington Junction—8.05, 10.42 a. m., 2.30 and 6.42 p. m. week-days.

For Flemington—11.05 a. m. and 2.30 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and South Easton, via Flemington Junction—8.05, 10.42 a. m., 4.30 and 6.42 p. m. week-days.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R.—9.45 a. m., 12.02 and 5.45 p. m.—12.02 night week-days. Sundays—10.42 a. m., and 5.45 p. m. Parlor Cars for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove.

For Brooklyn, L. I.—All through trains connect at Jersey City with ferry boats of Pennsylvania Annex, affording direct transfer to and from Fulton and Cortlandt streets, New York. Passengers for Brooklyn take ferry and journey across New York City.

Leave New York from Elizabethport Annex, West Twenty-third Street Station—2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 a. m., 12.00, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m. Sundays—2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 a. m., 12.00, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m.

Leave New York from Liberty Street—2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 a. m., 12.00, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m. Sundays—3.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 a. m., 12.00, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m.

For Philadelphia and Atlantic City—1.05, 3.56, 9.07, 9.32 a. m., 1.58, 10.09 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 3.56, 9.07, 9.32 a. m., 1.58, 10.09 and 10.07 p. m.

For Somerville—2.08, 7.15, 8.05, 9.05, 9.37, 11.07 a. m., 12.02, 1.07, 2.07, 3.07, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07, 8.07, 9.07, 10.07, 11.07 p. m. Sundays—2.08, 8.45, 9.05, 9.37, 11.07 a. m., 12.02, 1.07, 2.07, 3.07, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07, 8.07, 9.07, 10.07, 11.07 p. m.

For Lebanon, Tunnel, Stockton, Bloomsbury, Hampton, Asbury, Riegelsville, Belvidere, Delaware, Manunka Chunk, Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Mount Pocono, Cresco, Tobyhanna, Gouldsboro, Moscow, Scranton, Binghamton, Elmira, Canandaigua, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

Leave South Plainfield 6.60 p. m.

Daily, Solid Vestibule train for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations, except Rochester.

For time of local trains see pocket timetables. Telephone No. 113-B

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.

CHARLES E. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.

26 Cortlandt Street, New York.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent,
128 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m.; closes 7 p. m.
On Sundays, 9 to 10 a. m.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7.30, 9.40, 11.00 a. m.; 2.00, 5.00, 8.00 p. m.
Close—7.30, 10.00 a. m.; 2.00, 5.00, 8.00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and BASTON.

Arrive—9.40 a. m.; 2.00 and 7.00 p. m.
Close—10.00 a. m.; 2.00 and 7.00 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Close—5.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton

Close 12.35 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct.

Arrive—9.40 a. m.; 2.00, 5.00 p. m.
Close—7.30, 10.00 a. m.; 2.00, 5.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7.30, 9.40, 11.00 a. m.; 2.00 and 7.00 p. m.
Close—12.35 p. m.; 1.05, 3.56, 9.07, 9.32 a. m.; 1.58 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South close 10.00 a. m.

Through fast mail for East, close 1.58 and 6.45 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE & GALLIA, (Mt. Bethel.)

Arrive—1.30 p. m. Close—9.30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open 7 to 9.30 a. m. 12.30 to 1. m.
Mail closes at 9.30 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

Vegetable and Flower SEEDS

Reliable and Tested. Catalogue Mailed Free

WEEBER & DON

Seed 114 CHAMBERS STREET Merchants NEW YORK

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 241 West Front street, to South side of Somerset a feet first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

AGENTS WANTED.

LIFE OF T. DEWITT TALMAGE, by his son, REV. FRANK DEWITT TALMAGE and associate editors of Christian Herald. Only book endorsed by Talmage family. Enormous profit for agents who act quickly. Outfit 50 cents. Write immediately CLARK & CO., 327 S. Fourth Street, Phila., Pa. Mention this paper. 2 p

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

To Attend Farewell Service.

The members of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., have arranged to attend Rev. J. W. Richardson's farewell service at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Sunday. Mr. Richardson is a member of Trinity Commandery.

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT Feb. 5, 1905.

For New York—2.17, 3.07, 5.00, 6.20, 7.25, 8.10, 8.50, 9.30, 10.11, 11.00, 11.40 a. m., 12.20, 1.00, 1.40, 2.20, 3.00, 3.40, 4.20, 5.00, 5.40, 6.20, 7.00, 7.40, 8.20, 9.00, 9.40, 10.20, 11.00, 11.40 p. m. Sundays—2.17, 3.07, 5.00, 6.20, 7.25, 8.10, 8.50, 9.30, 10.11, 11.00, 11.40 a. m., 12.20, 1.00, 1.40, 2.20, 3.00, 3.40, 4.20, 5.00, 5.40, 6.20, 7.00, 7.40, 8.20, 9.00, 9.40, 10.20, 11.00, 11.40 p. m.

For Somerville—2.36, 7.25, 8.25, 9.25, 9.44, 11.02, 11.44 a. m., 12.25, 1.05, 1.44, 2.25, 3.05, 3.44, 4.25, 5.05, 5.44, 6.25, 7.05, 7.44, 8.25, 9.05, 9.44, 10.25, 11.05, 11.44 p. m. Sundays—2.36, 8.25, 9.25, 9.44, 11.02, 11.44 a. m., 12.25, 1.05, 1.44, 2.25, 3.05, 3.44, 4.25, 5.05, 5.44, 6.25, 7.05, 7.44, 8.25, 9.05, 9.44, 10.25, 11.05, 11.44 p. m.

For Lebanon, Tunnel, Stockton, Bloomsbury, Hampton, Asbury, Riegelsville, Belvidere, Delaware, Manunka Chunk—2.36, 9.44 a. m., 3.11, 6.30, 8.45, 9.25 p. m. Sundays—2.36 a. m., 3.20 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—2.36, 7.25, 9.44, a. m., 3.11, 6.30, 8.45, 9.25 p. m. Sundays—2.36 a. m., 3.20 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—2.36, 9.44 a. m., 3.11, 8.44, 9.17 p. m. Sundays—2.36 a. m.

For Atlantic City—2.36 a. m., 3.20 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Manch Chunk—2.36, 9.44 a. m., 3.11, 6.30 p. m. Sundays—2.36 a. m., 3.20 p. m.

For Cape May—2.36 a. m. Sundays—2.36 a. m., 3.20 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington—2.36, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 1.36, 3.17, 4.46, 6.30, 8.45, 9.25 p. m. Sundays—2.36, 11.44 a. m., 3.17 p. m. Through Vestibuled Trains. Buffet Parlor Cars and Sun Observation Parlor Cars. Dining and Smoking Car, Parlor Cars, Dining Car and Standard Coaches. Limited.

For Cape May—1.07 p.m. week-days.

For Harrisburg—4.17, 8.36, 11.44 a. m., 12.46, 3.17, 4.46, 6.30, 8.45, 9.25 p. m. Sundays—4.17, 8.36, 11.44 a. m., 3.17 p. m.

For Pittsburg—4.17, 8.36, 11.44 a. m., 3.17 p. m. Sundays—4.17, 8.36, 11.44 a. m., 3.17 night.

For Williamsport—4.17, 8.36 a. m., 3.17 p. m. Sundays—4.17, 8.36 a. m., 3.17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—9.14, 11.14 a. m., 12.01, 1.14, 2.14, 3.14, 4.14, 5.14, 6.14, 7.14, 8.14, 9.14, 10.14, 11.14 p. m. Sundays—9.14, 11.14 a. m., 12.01, 1.14, 2.14, 3.14, 4.14, 5.14, 6.14, 7.14, 8.14, 9.14, 10.14, 11.14 p. m. Through Vestibuled Trains. Buffet Parlor Cars and Sun Observation Parlor Cars. Dining and Smoking Car, Parlor Cars, Dining Car and Standard Coaches. Limited.

For Harrisburg—4.17, 8.36, 9.14, 11.14 a. m., 12.01, 1.14, 2.14, 3.14, 4.14, 5.14, 6.14, 7.14, 8.14, 9.14, 10.14, 11.14 p. m. Sundays—4.17, 8.36, 9.14, 11.14 a. m., 12.01 night.

For Pittsburg—4.17, 8.36, 9.14, 11.14 a. m., 12.01, 1.14, 2.14, 3.14, 4.14, 5.14, 6.14, 7.14, 8.14, 9.14, 10.14, 11.14 p. m. Sundays—4.17, 8.36, 9.14, 11.14 a. m., 12.01 night.

For Williamsport—4.17, 8.36, 9.14 a. m., 12.01, 1.14, 2.14, 3.14, 4.14, 5.14, 6.14, 7.14, 8.14, 9.14, 10.14, 11.14 p. m. Sundays—4.17, 8.36, 9.14 a. m., 12.01 night.

Change cars at Round Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Man'gr.
C. M. BURT, Gen. Pas. Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect November 16, 1902.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Leave South Plainfield 10.21 a. m.

Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

Leave South Plainfield 6.60 p. m.

Daily, Solid Vestibule train for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations, except Rochester.

For time of local trains see pocket timetables. Telephone No. 113-B

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.

CHARLES E. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.

26 Cortlandt Street, New York.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent,
128 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m.; closes 7 p. m.
On Sundays, 9 to 10 a. m.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7.30, 9.40, 11.00 a. m.; 2.00, 5.00, 8.00 p. m.
Close—7.30, 10.00 a. m.; 2.00, 5.00, 8.00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and BASTON.

Arrive—9.40 a. m.; 2.00 and 7.00 p. m.
Close—10.00 a. m.; 2.00 and 7.00 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Close—5.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton

Close 12.35 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct.

Arrive—9.40 a. m.; 2.00, 5.00 p. m.
Close—7.30, 10.00 a. m.; 2.00, 5.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7.30, 9.40, 11.00 a. m.; 2.00 and 7.00 p. m.
Close—12.35 p. m.; 1.05, 3.56, 9.07, 9.32 a. m.; 1.58 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South close 10.00 a. m.

Through fast mail for East, close 1.58 and 6.45 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE & GALLIA, (Mt. Bethel.)

Arrive—1.30 p. m. Close—9.30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open 7 to 9.30 a. m. 12.30 to 1. m.
Mail closes at 9.30 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

NOTICE of Copyright Renewal. Class C XXC. No. 9069. Library of Congress to wit: Be it remembered that on the 16th day of January, 1905 Mrs. Mary Sunyon Lowry, of Plainfield, New Jersey, has deposited in this office the titles of twenty-four musical compositions by Stoddard Lowry, as follows: "Where'er he may be," "The Comforter came," "Yes-si, O Yield," "Pick up the Cross," "Glory to God," "The Wholly Thine," "Star of the Morning," "No near to the Kingdom," "Thanksgiving," "Jesus is coming," "Born," "One more song for Jesus," "Good night," "Rescue the Perishing," "I am the Lord's and he is mine," "Bless the Lord O my soul," "Our Children," "Consecration," "Sweet Hour of Prayer," "Over There," "Coming By and By." These

ONE OF SOMERSET'S OLD CITIZENS GONE

Garrett Eick Passed Away at His Home in This City Saturday Night.

VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR

HE ONCE OWNED NEARLY ALL OF EAST MILLSTONE.

He Came to This City Twenty-Five Years Ago—Leaves a Wife, Daughter and Two Sons—Illness Was of a Brief Duration.

Following a severe illness of a few days' duration, Garrett Eick, aged seventy-seven years, one of Plainfield's well-known citizens and a veteran of the Civil War, died at his home, 205 East Third street, Saturday night at 10 o'clock. He was taken ill early in the week, but at first it was not considered serious. Soon afterward he grew worse and medical aid was summoned at once. From that time until he died, Mr. Eick suffered more or less. Toward the last of the week his physician, Dr. Adams gave up all hope.

Mr. Eick had been a resident of Plainfield over twenty-five years. He was born at East Millstone and at one time owned nearly all of that place. The property upon which the Reformed church stands at East Millstone, as well as the cemetery property, was given for the purposes for which they have been used for years. Prior to coming to Plainfield he followed farming to some extent. When the war broke out he enlisted for nine months in Company K, Thirtieth N. J. Volunteers, of which Captain Totten was in command. He served his full time and following his honorable discharge he soon moved to this city.

The deceased was a member of the Reformed church at East Millstone and was a thoroughly devoted Christian. He remained true to his faith to the last. During his residence in Plainfield he was unable to do any heavy work. During the term of the late Postmaster W. L. Force, he was appointed a letter-carrier, but owing to physical disability he was unable to continue this work. After that he lived in retirement. During the past few years he became very deaf and it was almost impossible to converse with him.

Besides a wife, Mr. Eick leaves a daughter, Miss Georgianna V. C. Eick, two sons, Robert D., and Frank H. Eick.

Although Mr. Eick was a member of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., in preference to a request there will be no Grand Army funeral. There was a short service at the late home Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church. The remains were taken to East Millstone, where in the afternoon a service was held in the Reformed church. The interment will be in the family plot in the cemetery at East Millstone.

WAGON STILL BEHIND.

But a Long Run Through Town Had Partially Demolished It.

An exciting runaway which livened up matters, Saturday night, had its beginning in the West End and terminated in the opposite portion of the city.

The animal, which belonged to J. Kadosky, became frightened when left standing at Grant avenue and Front street and bolted towards town. It ran directly through the business center, turned Park avenue to East Fourth street and ended up at the barn near Church street. The wagon was still attached to the runaway when it stopped but it was in a partial state of demolition.

Reception to Seniors.

Preparations are now well under way for the reception which will be tendered the seniors of the North Plainfield High School by the junior class Friday evening. A pleasing programme is being arranged by the juniors and will consist of a short musical entertainment and later dancing will be enjoyed.

Illustrated Lecture.

F. H. Grant, who recently visited the Presbyterian mission fields in the far east in company with Robert E. Speer, will give an illustrated lecture to the Crescent Avenue church, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. The lecture will be for the benefit of the Boys' Mission Band.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

WED AT PASTOR'S HOME

MARRIAGE OF MISS GERTRUDE TIER AND EDWARD A. ROSS.

Ceremony Took Place at Home of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck—To Live in Voohi Building.

A quiet, but pretty wedding was celebrated Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock, when Miss Gertrude Tier, daughter of John H. Tier, Jr., of Bank place, and Edward A. Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ross, of Prospect place, were married by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. Schenck.

The bride was gowned in pale blue silk, with lace insertion, and she carried a bouquet of white roses. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kirch, of 66 Doer street. Mrs. Kirch is a sister of the groom.

After the ceremony, the bride and groom returned to their new home in the Voohi building on East Front street, where a suite of rooms had been completely furnished and awaited their coming. There an informal reception was held for the relatives and few friends. The couple received hearty congratulations from all. During the evening refreshments were served.

The bride is a popular young woman in a large circle, and both she and her husband are attendants at Trinity Reformed church. The groom is an employe of the Metropolitan Insurance Company.

ODD FELLOWS' SERVICE.

Took Charge of Interment of James N. Ryno Sunday.

Burial services of James N. Ryno, who passed away last week at his home in Jersey City where he had resided for several years, was held in this city Sunday afternoon in charge of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F.

The remains were brought to this city on the 1:04 train and at the depot they were met by a full attendance of the members of that lodge. At the North Plainfield cemetery where the interment took place, services were held. They were conducted by the chaplain, N. C. Pennington.

During the services several hymns were sung by the members of the lodge and before the casket was lowered an opportunity was given all those present to view the remains of their departed brother. The pall bearers were: Steven Schlief, Henry Nischwitz, James Clarkson, John Morton, John Kingston and A. Sergeant.

THEATRICAL.

The Whitney Opera Company will present the new military comic opera, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," for the last times in New York at the New York Theatre this week, ending its engagement there Saturday evening. This production has scored a big success as a clean bright and refined entertainment, catering to lovers of pure fun and high class music. A special matinee performance will be presented Thursday afternoon, Lincoln's birthday. On Wednesday, Feb. 18, "Johnny" will be followed by the noted colored entertainers, Williams and Walker, and their own company of 100 people, in a new farce called "In Dahomey."

The engagement of "The Silver Slipper" at the Broadway Theatre, New York, is rapidly drawing to a close and after what has been a most successful engagement of sixteen weeks, this delightful musical play has entered upon the last five weeks of its engagement. This most tuneful of musical extravaganzas is as popular as ever and continues crowding the large and commodious Broadway Theatre with fashionable and enthusiastic audiences who never seem to tire listening to the tuneful strains of Leslie Stuarts music. The same well-known players, Sam Bernard, Cyril Scott, Stanley, Hawkins, Suits Edwards, Harry Burcher, Eva Davenport, Eleanor Kent and last but by no means the least, the dainty Edna Wallace-Hopper, are still in the cast and are as popular favorites as ever. This tuneful sister play of the ever popular "Florodora" could undoubtedly remain at the Broadway until the end of the season but for other engagements which John C. Fisher, owner and manager of "The Silver Slipper," has been unable to cancel. Before leaving the Broadway, however, "The Silver Slipper" will celebrate the 150th performance with handsome and expensive souvenirs.

Rev. Arthur Crane in Town.

Rev. Arthur Crane, who drafted the resolutions signed by the passengers on the St. Louis, when that vessel was so long overdue, in which the passengers protested about being sent to a sea in a boat which was alleged to be unseaworthy, was in this city, Sunday, and was the guest of his son, J. Henry Crane, of East Fifth street.

THE CHILDREN IN A BLAZE

PLAYED WITH MATCHES AND THE RESULTS WERE SERIOUS.

Brisk Blaze on Elm Place This Morning Which Resulted in $300 Damage.

Children and matches formed a combination that started a bad fire in the Bird house on Elm place, shortly before noon Tuesday. The flames spread so quickly that one of the former narrowly escaped being seriously burned if not losing his life. Damage was caused to the extent of $300 but it would have been much more but for excellent work on the part of the department.

The conflagration started in the east apartment occupied by Mrs. John Naylor. She was calling on neighbors at the time leaving her two children alone. When out but a short time she was recalled by screams and rushing back, found the parlor and kitchen in flames. The children were found groping about and the smallest was almost overcome by smoke.

Two lines of hose were laid but the blaze was extinguished entirely by the chemical stream. Of the damage $250 was on the building and $50 on furniture, the latter uninsured.

FUNERAL OF MRS. ROBINSON.

Held From Her Late Residence on East Second Street, Sunday.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Eleanor S. Robinson were held Sunday afternoon from the home on East Second street. Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, where the deceased was a member, conducted the service. A trio consisting of Mrs. Charlotte Ross, Morris C. VanArsdale and E. E. Runyon, sang "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Jesus Lover of My Soul."

Among the very pretty floral tributes was one from the Ladies' Association of the Congregational church and one from the Christian Endeavor Society. There was also a beautiful wreath from the children.

The interment took place in Hillside cemetery, the pall-bearers being Geo. S. Reynolds, Henry C. Nomer, Harry Webster, Morris C. VanArsdale, J. A. Powlison and Charles Steiner.

TO AWARD CONTRACT.

Council Will Meet Soon to Award Contract for Police Patrol System.

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting Monday evening, February 23, at which time it is believed that the contract for the proposed police patrol system will be given to the Gamewell Company, of New York. It is understood that the police board, as well as other members of the Council, are well satisfied as to the system and believe the Gamewell to be the best. When the contract is awarded it will require only a comparatively short time to install the system. It is quite likely that Manager Runyon, of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, will secure the contract to take care of the system in connection with the fire alarm system which is now done by Mr. Runyon.

MRS. MILLER'S TEA.

The First of Series of Two Teas Was Held Friday Afternoon.

The first of two teas, for which cards had been sent by Mrs. Isaac L. Miller and her daughter, Miss Miller, was given at their home on Watchung avenue Friday afternoon between the hours of 4 and 6. A large number of friends was present and enjoyed the delightful hospitality. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers, red being the prevailing color in the dining room.

The guests were received by Mrs. Miller and Miss Miller in the parlor. In the dining room, the table was presided over and the comfort of the guests looked after by Mrs. F. O. Herring, Mrs. J. A. Lapsley, Mrs. William Miller, Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Daniel Giana, assisted by Miss Edna Strong, Miss May Shreve, Miss Kathleen Ryder and Miss Edith Clapp.

WEDDED IN NEW YORK.

Miss Weaver, Formerly of Plainfield, Married to Army Officers.

In Grace Church Chantry, New York City, Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, took place the marriage of Miss Margery Weaver, formerly of this city, and Lieutenant Fred Turner, of the 6th Cavalry, U. S. A. Lieut. Turner is stationed in North Dakota. Among the Plainfielders present at the wedding were Mrs. J. W. Gavett and son, Mrs. Underhill, Mrs. J. H. Manning and son, Miss Janes, Mrs. Janes, Miss Cornelia Miller, Miss Caroline Dewey, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Struthers.

Harry B. Kitchell Transferred.

Harry B. Kitchell, who has been wire chief of the local telephone exchange for several years past, has been transferred to Newark. He will be greatly missed especially by the members of Company K of which he is a lieutenant. James Gannon has been appointed to succeed him.

FRIGHTENED TO DEATH BY FIRE

Sound of Fire Gong and Passing Engines Alarmed Mrs. Abbott and Caused Death.

HAPPEND AT RAHWAY

Was Mother of Mrs. Scott Terry and Well-Known Here—Third Death in Terry Family Within a Year—The Funeral Was Held Wednesday Afternoon.

Awakened by the furious blowing of the fire gong and the subsequent passing by of the engines and apparatus, Mrs. Frances Abbott, of Harrison street, Rahway, was literally frightened to death, Sunday morning. The alarm came from a box situated near her home and she became fearful lest the conflagration be in the immediate neighborhood. Members of the family sought to allay her mind but when the department went dashing along in front of the house, she was thrown into convulsions. Medical aid was summoned but she died without regaining consciousness.

Mrs. Abbott was the widow of the late Charles Abbott and like her husband was very well known in this city, where she was a frequent visitor. She was the mother of Mrs. Scott Terry, of Terrill road, and had other relatives in this vicinity. The funeral services were held from her late residence, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Abbott's death is the third to affect the Terry family within one year. Mr. Abbott's was the first and two weeks ago, Scott Terry's father, Edward Terry, passed away. In addition several of Mrs. Terry's children are ill from various causes and a sister was helping her in the care of them when news of her mother's death was brought.

THROWN DOWN.

John Beek Injured While Trying to Board a Trolley Car at Terrill Road.

John Beek, a former old resident of Terrill road, but of late residing with relatives at Passaic, was quite badly injured at the Park avenue crossing, Scotch Plains, Saturday morning about 11:30. Mr. Beek, who is nearly eighty years old, had been visiting at the home of friends near his former home and had told them that owing to the recent wreck he thought it would be safer him to return home by trolley.

Mr. Beek is nearly blind and in some way, while the car was coming too a standstill, either stood too near the track and was struck by the car, or while trying to board the car on the wrong side, was not noticed by the conductor, and was thrown to the ground when the car started. The first known of the accident was when Mr. Beek was seen lying along the track cut and bruised. The car was brought to a standstill and Mr. Beek was picked up and taken care of, and later sent to Muhlenberg Hospital. There seems to be several accounts of the accident and, until the matter is sirted, it is impossible to say just who is to blame.

MAJOR MURPHEY RESIGNS.

Commander of Cadet Corps Will Go South to Recuperate.

Cadet Major E. Douglass Murphey, of the City High School battalion, will leave for Southern Pines, North Carolina, Monday. On account of severe ill health, Major Murphey has been compelled to give up school and to resign his position as major of the High School battalion. The trip south will be made at the advice of his physician and he will return in the early part of the summer. Walter G. Sampson, of East Fifth street, who was in the recent Jersey Central wreck, is suffering from a severe nervous shock and will accompany Mr. Murphey south to spend a month recuperating before resuming his business in New York City.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.
My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys and is a pleasant laxative. This drink is made from herbs, is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called "Lane's Tea." 25

LANE'S FAMILY MEDICINE
All druggists or by mail 25 cts. and 50 cts. Buy it for your health's sake. Manufactured by Mayer Bros. Drug Co., Newark, N. J. Don't let the healthy thing in the world be humbugged. Address, Mayer Bros. Co., N. Y.

BORNE BY HIS COMRADES

GARRETT EICK LAID TO REST AT EAST MILLSTONE CEMETERY.

Service Held at East Third Street Home Tuesday Morning—The G. A. R. Service.

The funeral services of the late Garrett Eick were held Tuesday at 10 o'clock from the late home on East Third street. There was a large gathering of relatives, friends and neighbors, including a delegation from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, of which the deceased was a member.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church, conducted the services. After reading appropriate Scripture lessons, he made a few remarks concerning the Christian life of the departed. He likened his life to that of Paul the Apostle, who fought a good fight. He said that early in life Mr. Eick had declared his faith and that he had remained firm to the end. He referred to his devotion to his country in times of trouble, by enlisting in the service for the defense of the Union. In conclusion Mr. Schenck spoke words of sympathy for the bereaved family and pointed them to the Heavenly Father who alone can comfort.

Following Mr. Schenck's remarks and an earnest prayer, members of Post No. 73, G. A. R., conducted their ritualistic funeral service. There were a number of floral tributes, including a pillow from the G. A. R., a tribute from the Woman's Relief Corps, a wreath of galax leaves and several bunches of flowers.

At noon the remains were taken to East Millstone, where in the Reformed church another service was held. The interment was in the cemetery at East Millstone. The pall bearers, members of Post No. 73, G. A. R., were Commander H. C. Smith, Augustus Runyon, James B. Clarkson, Abram King, Albert Perry and Louis Willet.

SCHEPFLIN TO CONTINUE.

Will Go Into Clothing Business for Himself in a Few Days.

C. Schepflin, who was the president of the Schepflin Clothing Manufacturing Company, which has just been sold out to a New York firm and will continue under the name of the Globe Manufacturing Company, announces that he will start in business for himself in the course of ten days. He will occupy the loft of the Baldwin building and the second and third floors of the Schepflin building. He expects to install all new machinery.

STILL UNIDENTIFIED.

Remaining Victim of the Westfield Disaster Will Be Buried This Week.

The unidentified body which remains at Cole's undertaking parlors will be buried within the next few days. It has been held by the railroad authorities with the expectation that relatives would claim it. Although the authorities have received over 100 letters asking for information regarding the victim, none have thrown any light upon the mystery. The remains will be interred in a local cemetery with the same ceremony as those conducted over others taken from the Westfield wreck.

Competent Judges for Dog Show.

At the bench show of the New Jersey Kennel Club, which will be held in the Armory on William street, Newark, Feb. 17-21, several well-known breeders will make their inaugural bows as judges. Among them are: J. Bristol, E. L. Jones and Edward A. Hardin. J. B. Dale, Mr. Lenoir and Dr. Foote are among the old timers as is C. G. Hopton. The premium list will soon be issued and every indication points to a highly successful show. Several novelties will be introduced each day, so that there will be no begging of interest and the entries already promised place the exhibit upon a high plane from a professional standpoint.

Dwelling in West End.

A permit was granted in the office of Building Inspector T. O. Doane yesterday to Wm. D. Bird, who will erect a dwelling at the corner of West Third street and Clinton avenue. The house will be 35 feet front and will be two stories in height. The contracting artisans are: R. L. Robinson, architect; Wm. Daley, mason; and Wm. D. Bird, carpenter.

Song Recital.

A song recital will be given by Louis F. Haslanger, baritone, assisted by Miss Florence Wolfert, violinist, under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society in the parlors of the First Baptist church, Tuesday evening, February 17, at 8:15 o'clock.

In Justice Huff's Court.

A suit on contract between James Reilly and Arthur Clark, both of Plainfield, was tried before Justice Huff Monday, when judgement was rendered the plaintiff, who was represented by Hetfield and Hetfield, lawyers. The judgment amounted to $18 and costs.

BASKET BALL LEAGUE SCHEDULE OF GAMES

Games in League Will be Played Every Monday and Friday Evening.

TEAMS IN READINESS

Frank McTague, of Newark Advertiser, Will Act as Referee.

List of Players Will be Filed at a Meeting of Executive Committee Tomorrow Evening—The First Game Friday Evening.

All is now in readiness for the opening game of the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League at the Hope Y. M. A. gymnasium Friday evening, when the Hope boys will meet the five from the I. C. T. Club. Although the two teams have met twice recently, the I. C. T. aggregation has been showing improvement at each game and this first league meeting promises to be still closer.

Another meeting of the executive committee of the league will be held at The Daily Press office tomorrow evening when the clubs will present their lists of players for final approval. Both Hope and Y. M. C. A. have filed their lists but recent happenings have made a few changes necessary.

A rule has been made that the referee and umpires at every game shall be from out-of-town in order that there shall be no question as to their impartiality. Frank McTague, of the Newark Daily Advertiser, who is considered one of the most competent officials in Newark, will act as referee and will bring with him two umpires from Newark teams, men who are constantly officiating in games in that city.

The schedule was adopted at a meeting of the executive committee, held last Wednesday evening, but its publication was delayed in order that all teams might make sure that there was no conflict of dates. It is now announced as follows:

Friday, February 13, I. C. T. Club at Hope Y. M. A.

Monday, February 16, Reform Club at Y. M. C. A.

Friday, February 20, Y. M. C. A. at I. C. T. Club.

Monday, February 23, Hope Y. M. A. at Reform Club.

Friday, February 27, Reform Club at I. C. T. Club.

Monday, March 2, Hope Y. M. A. at Y. M. C. A.

Friday, March 6, Hope Y. M. A. at I. C. T. Club.

Monday, March 9, Y. M. C. A. at Reform Club.

Friday, March 13, I. C. T. Club at Y. M. C. A.

Monday, March 16, Reform Club at Hope Y. M. A.

Friday, March 20, I. C. T. Club at Reform Club.

Monday, March 23, Y. M. C. A. at Hope Y. M. A.

TO BUILD CREMATORY

New York Concern is Considering Plans to Locate One in Plainfield.

Plans are now underway for the erection of a large crematory in North Plainfield. An option has been secured on a valuable piece of property and during the past two weeks representatives of certain stockholders in the Stephen Merritt Funeral and Undertaking Company, of New York, have been in this city and have looked over the ground.

It is understood that a $100,000 chapel and crematory will be erected upon the site and attractive grounds will be laid out around it.

After New Members.

The Woodmen of the World, an organization which has a flourishing lodge in this city, has been making special efforts of late to secure new members. A. C. Garvin, State manager of the movement, has been in this city for some time recruiting new members. A meeting will be held shortly, when twelve new members will be initiated into the order.

Thomas Bohle visited friends in New York, yesterday.

DIED

DUFFY—On Tuesday, Feb. 3, 1903, Savina, wife of Michael Duffy, aged 56 years.

GAND—In this city, Feb. 6, 1903, Mrs. Mary Gand.

RYNO—In Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 6, 1903, James N. Ryno, aged 63 years, 5 months and 27 days.

ROBINSON—In this city on Thursday, February 5, 1903, Eleanor Seeds Robinson, aged 79 years.

EICK—In this city, on Saturday, February 7, 1903, Garrit Eick, aged 76 years.

MEAD—In this city, on Sunday, February 8, 1903, Thomas H. Mead, aged 62 years.

PATTERSON—Adelia, widow of the late Joseph A. Patterson, at her residence Westfield avenue, Fanwood, N. J., Tuesday morning, aged 71 years.

McDONOUGH—In North Plainfield, Tuesday, February 10, James McDonough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McDonough, of South Plainfield; aged 5 years, 8 months and 20 days.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves to be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We do the same but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Geo. W. Bockefellow, Vice-Pres.
J. C. Pope, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, come to travel appointing agents, clerks for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses paid as advancement, old established house. Grand chance for farmers and or women to secure pleasant, permanent position. Liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD FEERS,
23 Church st., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Office Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange
Money to loan on Approved security

Members of Coroner's Jury Who Investigated The Westfield Wreck.

STORY OF THE DISASTER HAS BEEN TOLD; NOW FOR THE VERDICT OF CORONER'S JURY

Taking of Testimony Concluded at the Session of the Inquest, Which Was Held in This City Friday Afternoon.

JURY VISITED FIREMAN M'CARTHY'S BEDSIDE AND HEARD HIS STORY OF THE ACCIDENT.

Engineer Davis was to blame for running by signals. That is the view taken by Vice President and General Manager William G. Besler, of the Jersey Central Railroad, as evidenced by his testimony at the second session of the coroner's inquest held in the Council Chambers, Thursday afternoon. He couldn't see the signals on account of the steam. That is the reason Davis offered for the wreck as he lay in fearful agony at the scene of the disaster that fateful night as he was brought out by those who heard him and testified at the inquest yesterday. Such were the results of the second day's investigation.

The session produced more important evidence that did the first. Sixteen witnesses were called and all but two, who were detained at home by illness, told their stories. The railroad's story was heard and a full explanation given to show that every precaution was taken and that there was no mistake in orders or signals.

The rest of the witnesses brought out the sayings of the dying engineer as he lay on the bank after the wreck.

As a result of a suggestion of Foreman Fisk's, the Jersey Central was going to give the jury a practical illustration of just how the signals worked on the night of the wreck. Mr. Besler expressed himself as only too glad of the opportunity to reproduce all the conditions that confronted Engineer Davis that night. This demonstration took place Friday night.

An adjournment was taken until Friday afternoon when Coroner Bunting said that the jury would visit the bedside of Fireman McCarthy at Muhlenberg Hospital and hear his story. The regular session was set to resume at 2 o'clock.

As on the previous occasion, Foreman Fisk played a prominent part in the questioning of the witnesses and even Coroner Bunting had something to say when Mr. Besler went on the stand. A large crowd filled the space allotted to the visitors and listened to the proceedings with much interest.

After the Coroner and Prosecutor English had held a brief conference, the roll of the jurors was called and Mr. English announced that they would proceed with the investigation.

He asked the members of the jury to make arrangements to visit the bedside of Fireman McCarthy and hear his statement. McCarthy's condition was such, he said, that after that day he could be seen without serious results.

The first witness called was Mrs. Emily J. Glock, of Westfield. She was ill and therefore unable to be present.

Mrs. Emma Harkens, of Westfield, who played the part of a heroine at the wreck, was the second witness called. She said that the wreck occurred at 6:35 o'clock in the evening and she observed that the Easton local stopped near her house about five minutes. She saw the Philadelphia train approach, but had no idea there would be a collision. She declared that she did not hear any torpedo explode. After the accident Mrs. Harkens ran to the scene of the wreck and offered the use of her house as a temporary hospital. Fifteen injured passengers were taken there, and five of them died.

The witness said that the Philadelphia train gave no warning in advance, such as the blowing of a whistle.

John L. Darby was called but the certificate of Dr. Vail was presented stating that Darby was ill at his home and was unable to attend the inquest.

Charles Schultze, employed as station agent at Cranford, testified that when the Philadelphia train passed his depot, he noticed an unusual amount of steam escaping from the engine. He said that he saw a red lantern between track two and four, near the station, and after the train passed the telegraph operator removed it. As he did so he made some remark to him about the order board where signals are displayed and that he would have to catch him (meaning the engineer of the train) somewhere else.

Jonathan P. Glasser, of Elizabeth, a mason and builder had just passed under the arch of the Jersey Central at Elizabeth when the express went by. What attracted his attention was the cloud of steam that enveloped the locomotive and two cars. It so much impressed him that he commented on it when he reached home. In response to Foreman Fisk's questions, he said that the steam covered the engine.

John B. Eick, telegraph operator at Cranford, was the next witness called. He stated that about 6:25 the night of the wreck he received an order from the train despatcher. This order was to the effect that the Easton local was to run on the main west bound track as far as Dunellen ahead of the Philadelphia flyer. At Dunellen the express was to pass the other. He said, that as his custom, he placed a red lantern, between tracks two and four, about five or six minutes before the Philadelphia train came along. The engineer should have stopped his train but did not and failed to receive orders.

Eick said he noticed an unusual amount of steam coming from the locomotive but not enough to obscure the engineer's vision of signals. He never knew an engineer to run by such signals before. The fact that a freight train was stalled on track four, made it necessary to run the Easton local on track two. He did not receive any orders concerning the freight train. He never had occasion to flag that express before.

Mr. Eick said that as soon as the Philadelphia train passed, he notified the train despatcher at Jersey City, that it had gone by without stopping. In reply to a question the witness said he had no authority to notify Westfield station of the fact that the train had passed him. He believed that the night in question a light could be discerned a mile.

Wm. Varson, flagman at the Broad street crossing at Westfield, told of what he observed on the night of the accident. He saw the Easton local pass by and the Philadelphia express go through a few minutes later. After the local passed he placed his red lantern on track two. He thought it could have been seen a mile. He left it there until he saw the express approaching. He then swung the lantern across the track until the express came very near.

"Why did you get off the track?" asked the Prosecutor.

"I thought it was time to be getting out of the way," the witness replied. Then he told how he stepped one side and continued to lower his light. He did not hear any torpedoes. He thought the signal light at Westfield was all right as the other one was. He had stopped lots of trains with the red light.

"Did you ever have a train fail to stop for your light?" asked the Prosecutor.

"This morning," was the prompt reply, and he told of a west bound freight that had failed to stop. These were the only two instances he could remember.

There was no signals, whistle or bell, from the express. He could not see if there was any extra amount of steam. Wm. Pierson, Leo Ladd and a man named Kline were with him at the time.

Wm. D. Pierson, of Westfield, was summoned, but did not appear. Policeman John F. Knapp, of Westfield, was then called. At the time of the wreck, he was at Broad and Elm street, Westfield. He then went to the wreck where he saw Engineer Davis lying on the ground. "I asked him if he saw the signals and he said that he saw the red light, but expected it to turn white."

The witness said that while he was walking up the tracks toward the wreck, he noticed the signals were red and green.

Homer B. Smith, of No. 6 Prospect avenue, a passenger on the Easton local, who occupied a seat in the third car from the rear, was the next witness. When the train stopped as a result of a hot journal he got off for a few minutes. Regarding the conversation between the witness and engineer, the former said:

"I first saw Engineer Davis hanging out of his cab window. As I helped carry him to the bank he said that he could not see the signals on account of the steam."

S. Arthur Krom, of West Fourth street, a maker of machinery in Newark, was one of the passengers in the fifth car from the rear on the local. He told of the stopping of the train and how it started again. First it seemed as if the brakes were suddenly put on and then the car rocked. He left the car immediately and saw the wreckage afire. Then he saw an engine cab in the rear and a man hanging by his hands from the cab. The man dropped to the ground. When he reached him the latter had started to crawl across the track. Krom helped him and the man said very emphatically and distinctly, "I told him I could not see." He repeated it twice that Krom remembered and thought it was repeated the third time. Krom saw the engineer later when they placed him in the train but he said nothing.

In reply to Mr. Fisk's questions, Mr. Krom said that there was fire directly in front of the locomotive. Mr. Gavett's questions brought that he would not consider the repairs made to the steam chest, as told by the master mechanic, at the session the day before, proper ones and that any piece of machinery repaired in that fashion would in his opinion be dangerous, especially when subjected to such pressure.

Edward McEwen, the conductor of the Philadelphia train, was the next witness. He said that his train was three minutes late leaving Jersey City. The first stop was to be Elkins, nine miles out of Philadelphia. He said that his train had always run on track No. 2. Nothing was said to him the night of the wreck about running in any but the usual way. The emergency brakes on his train were not applied to his knowledge. Regarding his conversation with Engineer Davis, the witness said:

"I said 'Jimmie, how did this occur?' He said 'I didn't see them until I was into them.' 'How was that,' I asked. 'I couldn't see for the steam,' he replied."

The statement about the train leaving Jersey City eighteen minutes late, the witness said was a mistake.

"On the way to New York from Philadelphia early in the afternoon, the engine became hot and at Trenton Junction we took engine 27 from a milk train." The witness said that trainmen have the right to take an engine from a slow train if the locomotive of an express becomes disabled.

The witness said the other engineer observed that he "had a bum engine for a first-class train," but after reaching Jersey City Davis remarked that the engine had done pretty good work. No one had said anything about engine 27 being out of order. Davis was a relief engineer the day of the wreck, the conductor said.

Next was called Michael H. Meaney, of East Second street, train despatcher at Jersey City at the time of the wreck. He told of his duties which include the district between Jersey City and Somerville. He did the work alone except in case of doubt when he could call on the chief despatcher. He was on duty from 3:15 to 11:15 o'clock at night. He identified a sheet of orders presented by the Prosecutor, as the ones he issued that night. He telegraphed the order for train 13 to Elizabeth at 6:14. He sent the same order for train 621 to Cranford at 6:25. He sent the order to the express at Cranford in preference to Elizabeth as there is a sharp curve just before reaching Elizabeth and another train following might come along not expecting to find the express there, and have trouble in stopping. He received word from Cranford at 6:30, telling of train 621 running by the signal. It might have been delayed a moment. He called Westfield without the loss of a moment but by the time he got Westfield at 6:39½, the express was passing. He made the remark that train 621 had run by Cranford and he had failed to catch it at Westfield. His reason for sending the local on track two was that track four was occupied by a working train which was stalled. He had asked the Westfield operator where 621 was and the reply was "passing." If the reply has been "N. Y." he would have sent word to stop. While the railroad depended on the block signal system the orders were sent out as an extra precaution. These orders are not given out until the last moment so there shall be no opportunity to forget.

Foreman Chas. J. Fisk.

"Was there anything you could have done in the despatcher's office that would have prevented this accident?" asked Foreman Fisk.

"No. I did everything in my power," was the reply.

It was a rule of the company, Mr. Meaney explained, not to issue orders for a move at an unnecessary distance from it. No one except himself had a right to tell Engineer Davis that he had a clean track and he did not.

In reply to the Prosecutor's questions, Meaney said his was a busy position but he was not overworked.

The most important witness of the day was Wm. G. Besler, of this city, vice president and general manager of the Jersey Central Railroad. He first told of the electro-pneumatic block signals and how they are operated. Then he explained the location of the block signals in the neighborhood of the wreck. A large tracing of the railroad tracks near Westfield was used to explain the operation of the signals. Mr. Besler said that when he reached the ground, about an hour after the accident, the signals were in proper condition. There was a man on the passing east bound train who was in the signal department and he examined the signals at once. Mr. Besler promised to produce him as soon as possible.

Regarding the duty of an engineer to stop when the signal showed red, Mr. Besler said that he must know the signal was white berore passing, and that if he ran by, he would be dismissed. Other railroads, including the Pennsylvania, depended entirely on the block signals, Mr. Besler explained, but the Central used the orders as an extra precaution. Davis had been examined as to color blindness on February 2, 1902, and passed a test in an excellent manner.

"How do you account for it?" asked the Prosecutor.

"I don't account for it," replied the witness.

Foreman Fisk asked Mr. Besler if he would be willing to give the jury a practical demonstration with an engine and a train.

"I will gladly reproduce all the conditions," said Mr. Besler. "Except the crash" urged Juror Woodhull. Mr. Besler also gladly agreed to have engine 26, mate to engine 27, so the jury could look at it if the engine was anywhere so that it could be brought here. Mr. Besler said that he would give the practical demonstration Friday evening.

Then followed numerous questions from the Prosecutor, Foreman Fisk and Coroner Bunting regarding the rules governing the operation of the road. Mr. Besler declared that he believed the flagman of the Easton local did his duty. He did not think it necessary, under the conditions at the time, for the flagman to have placed torpedoes on the track.

"Who do you believe is to blame for this accident?" asked the Prosecutor.

"I believe that the engineer is the man who caused the accident," responded Mr. Besler. The Prosecutor asked if he thought if torpedoes had been placed on the track and they had exploded, if the wreck would have occurred. "That is simply a matter for conjecture," said Mr. Besler. Regarding the heating of the cars, Mr. Besler said that the two rear cars had stoves and the third car a Baker steam heater. Several names were called to Mr. Besler's attention but he did not remember them as ever having been in the employ of the company as engineers or ever having been discharged.

Wm. S. Armstrong, 564 Monroe avenue, Elizabeth, was the next witness.

He was an engineer on the New Jersey Central for seventeen years. He was crippled and has done nothing since. He said that he had seen steam escape to such extent that an engineer could see nothing. He testified that his vision on various runs had been obscured by escaping steam.

The witness said that if an engineer stopped on the road to repair his engine he would soon get a letter from headquarters. He said that an engineer should stop to repair a leaky injector. Some engines, Mr. Armstrong said, could be run five miles without attention but there are many things that would interfere with the proper working of an injector.

Geo. A. Smeltzer, of Philadelphia, who is roundhouse foreman for the Reading Company, at Third and Berks streets, was called to tell what he knew about engine 27, of the Philadelphia train. He related in detail the necessary repairs reported to him, and said that they were made accordingly. The witness had reported to him on January 7 the defect in the steam chest, and he followed the engine closely. In his opinion the injectors worked all right in the morning of the day she was wrecked.

And now for the verdict. While the coroner's jury, which is investigating the causes of the Westfield disaster, has not entirely concluded its labors, its session of Friday afternoon will probably conclude the taking of testimony. The afternoon did not bring forward any startling developments. Fireman McCarthy's statement was not as important as many people believed it would. The rear brakeman of the Easton local told his story which went to show that he had taken the needful precautions. Then Rev. Father Andrew M. Egan told of Engineer Davis' reply to the other's casual question of how the wreck occurred.

It had been expected that the taking of testimony might go over until Saturday but Prosecutor English lost no time and the team witnesses sworn during the afternoon were dispatched with much expedition. While the jury did not meet until 1:30 o'clock, it was 4:30 when Coroner Bunting announced the adjournment. There are several inspections which the jury desires to make, then there is the evidence to be reviewed and the report to be prepared. The adjournment was taken until Friday, February 13. If the jury desires to hear any more testimony it will be presented at that time, otherwise it is expected that the verdict will be announced.

Previous to the public session of the jury, the members met at the Smalley building at 1 o'clock and were taken to Muhlenberg Hospital to visit the bedside of Fireman Samuel McCarthy and listen to his statement.

They found the fireman with his head completely swathed in bandages, only his eyes being visible. His voice was low and the jurors, as they gathered around his white cot in the men's ward of the hospital, had to bend their heads to hear. Foreman Fisk asked the questions and the replies were taken down by the stenographers who accompanied the party. Owing to the lack of room, Phillip Kearny Mindil, of the New York World, was delegated by the newspaperman to represent all their interests at the bedside of the fireman.

What McCarthy said is given in full as follows:

Q. What is your name? A. Samuel McCarthy.

Q. What is your business? A. Fireman.

Q. Tell us slowly what you can about this accident? A. Well, we left Jersey City on time, as near as we can tell. On the left side the engine, the cylinder, some part which I could not exactly tell, was blowing steam which obstructed the view, that is, you understand, on the side where I was.

Q. On the left side? A. On the left side I was on. That was when we left Jersey City, when we pulled out of the Jersey City depot. As soon as we got going 10 or 15 miles an hour the steam cleared away on my side and then I had a full view, that is, of what was going on ahead.

Q. Then the steam cleared away on your side? A. The steam cleared on the left side, but where it went——

Q. Was the steam chest cracked on his side? A. I do not know whether it was cracked or the head leaking.

Q. On which side? A. I could not tell you that.

Q. Did the engineer say anything to you about the engine being out of order. A. Not that I know of.

Q. Did you know that the other train, No. 13, was on the track ahead? A. No sir. I was in the tank.

Q. Was the steam so thick you could not see them? A. I do not know. I do not know that anything obstructed his view on the right side, or not.

Q. You are sure of that, but on your side it cleared away? A. Yes sir. When we got up speed to about 15 miles an hour it cleared away; but when we just pulled out of the Elizabethport station it was like pulling out of Jersey City.

Q. Did you know whether Engineer Davis made any complains about his engine in Jersey City? A. Not that I know of, but I could not tell. I do not know that.

Q. Not that you know of? A. Not that I know of.

Q. Do you know what the engineer was doing just before the accident? A. No sir, I was in the tank. At Spring street I was up in the cab all the way from Jersey City coming in to Elisabethport, and we shut off there and I went out to cover the fire with coal; and when we got over the bay draw, that is, at the bay bridge, I got up in the cab again, and at Elizabethport I got out because the coal I had was not any too substantial, and the run was a hard run and I had to attend to my business; and at Spring street I was up in the cab again, I took the red lamp up and I said to the engineer, "If she holds up under steam I hope we'll get home in time to night." He says, "I hope so, myself." At Spring street, at the signals, he shut off, and he shut her at Roselle, and I was in the tank feeding the fire with a shovel full of coal once in a while, and he shut off, and I felt the brakes go on, and just about hitting at the same time.

Q. Did you hear any torpedoes on the track? A. No.

Q. Were there any torpedoes on the track? A. No.

Q.. When did the steam first begin to leak? After you left Jersey City? A. The steam was leaking when we got the engine at Trenton Junction.

Q. Who did you get the engine from? What was the man's name? A. The engineer's name?

Q. Yes. A. I do not know the man.

Q. Did the *engineer have any in-*structions from anybody in Jersey City, to try to get there on time? A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Nothing particular? A. Not to my knowledge of any kind. He was a man, if he got any instructions he made it known to me.

Q. So that you would know the same as he? A. Yes, so as I would know the same as he—any orders or messages.

Q. Was he a regular engineer. A. No sir. But I was with him for four weeks every day, and I had known him for a year—a little over a year.

Q. From what you know of him, was he a perfectly sober man.. A. He was perfectly sober. I have been out with him off duty, at gatherings, and I have never seen him touch a drop, never seen him taste it.

Q. Did you have any particular trouble in getting your speed up or getting steam up on this engine? A. Coming east, the engine steamed fine; that is, on the way east, and that is why I said to him, if she holds up we will get home in time tonight.

Q. The engine was in pretty good order then? A. The engine, you might say, was in pretty fair order.

Q. Did you have any talk with the engineer after the accident? A. After the accident?

Q. After the accident. A. Yes, not more than they had us in the same house.

Q. Did you have any particular trouble with the engine coming up in the morning? A. What do you mean, what trouble?

Q. From Trenton to Jersey City, on the run in, did you have any particular trouble with the engine? A. Nothing went wrong with our steam.

Q. Did you notice when you went through Cranford whether there was very much steam escaping from the engine? A. I could not tell; the same as I told you before, I was in the tank; I had my attention to the fire.

Q. Did the engineer say to you, he would have to run slow to see the signals? A. No.

Q. Did you have any trouble keeping the fire up, or keeping the steam up, in this engine? A. No. That is what made me say to him, If she holds up in steam we will get home in time. The engine was in very fair order.

Q. Did you say anything to the engineer after the accident? A. I asked him where he was hurt.

Q. He said nothing about the cause of the accident? A. No.

After the jurors had heard Mc Carthy's story, they returned to the Council Chambers where the session was resumed at 2:15 o'clock.

Harry A. O'Neil, of Brooklyn, a brakeman on the Easton local, testified that his train left Jersey City on time. When the train stopped to repair a hot journal he went back 600 or 700 yards from the rear of his train. He did not believe the stop consumed over a minute and a half. At a distance of about twenty-five yards he placed two torpedoes on the track. Just before getting on his train he notified the approaching Philadelphia express and he ran back with his red and white lanterns, waving them in the face of Engineer Davis. When the Philadelphia train passed him, O'Neil said that he was about fifty yards west of the Broad street crossing at Westfield, and when he last waived his lantern the flyer was about fifteen yards from him. The witness said it was a perfectly clear night. O'Neil said that he had been a passenger brakeman about one year and has been on the Easton local since December 17 last.

After the crash, the witness said he ran back to flag the Dunellen train which was then approaching. He heard the two explosions of torpedoes after the flyer passed him. He did not notice any unusual amount of steam from Engine 27.

To the flagman at the Broad street crossing the witness said:

"My God she's going to run into us."

Charles E. Chambers, the second witness, lives at Roselle. He is master mechanic for the New Jersey Central. He reached the wreck about three hours afterward. He noticed the peculiar condition of Engine 27. The front pony trucks were on the tracks. He noticed particularly that the throttle was wide open, which would give full head of steam. The reverse lever stood at the second notch forward. This showed that the lever was at the proper position when running full speed. The witness found that the emergency brakes had not been applied. In reply to a question, Mr. Chambers said the crash could not change the reverse lever or throttle. It would take the engineer about a minute and a half to apply his emergency brakes, the witness said.

Mr. Chambers explained the pur*pose of an injector, that of supplying* water to a boiler. He said that in reaching the injector it is not necessary for an engineer to take his eyes off the tracks. If it consumed two minutes to fix an injector a train could travel between two and three miles, fully the distance between Cranford and Westfield.

In the opinion of the witness the flames were started from the fire-box of the engine. Investigation has not shown that the gas tanks in the cars on the Easton local exploded, as was reported. Mr. Chamberlin rushed in reply to a question by Foreman Fisk of the jury that there were several foremen under him and they attend to general repairs on engines.

If an engineer could substantiate his claim, he would not be discharged for refusing to take out an engine, said Mr. Armstrong.

Safety is the first consideration and speed the second; under all circumstances, was Mr. Armstrong's reply to a question as to whether an engineer was supposed to make speed at all hazards. He said that it is not necessary for an engineer to take his eyes off of the tracks. The witness considered the style of Engine No. 27 the best for an engineer to watch his tracks and signals. It was shown that a fireman is also supposed to watch signals when possible.

Mr. Armstrong did not favor the two engineer plan; believing that the present system is the best.

A compressed air quadrant was produced by the witness; to show just how this piece of machinery works on an engine. It was shown by this the position of the quadrant when the witness saw it.

David Witherspoon, foreman of the round house at Jersey City, brought his "work" book to show to the jury. Nothing was added to it under date of January 27 about engine 27. All engines coming to Jersey City did not go to Communipaw avenue round house, some went to Fidler's. Engine 27 was brought to Communipaw avenue round house for forty-five minutes that day and Witherspoon met Davis and talked to him. Nothing was said about the engine. There was plenty of opportunity to make a complaint but none was made.

George W. Tinsman, an insurance agent of Elizabeth, once conductor and station master of the Jersey Central, was called to tell what railroad employes on train 13 should have done at the time of the wreck. He did not think it was a prudent thing for the engineer of train 13 to stop as he did with the express behind. He thought it would have been safe to come on as far as Plainfield before fixing the hot journal. He did not see in any of the testimony any carelessness that could have resulted in the wreck.

Bernard Munn, an engineer for thirty-one years on the New Jersey Central, testified as to having seen Engine 27 a week before the wreck, while running near Bound Brook. He saw the engine the day following the wreck at the Elizabethport shops. He did not notice the throttle or lever, specially.

The witness said that the speed of Engineer Davis's train calls for between 50 to 60 miles an hour. He explained the working of an injector which might be disabled by various causes. In trying to repair an injector the cab might be filled with steam, but the engineer could look out of the window and see signals. It might take from two to ten minutes to repair an injector, was the opinion of the witness.

Mr. Munn said that possibly Engineer Davis might have stood up to repair his injector, but this would not prevent him from watching the signals. In starting from a station steam naturally settles about the head of an engine. Afterward the steam drops down if the reather is heavy. The witness believed that the passenger cars on the Easton train were set on fire by the fire-box of engine 27, together with the oil from the head-light, which was scattered over the wreckage. Mr. Munn denied that he had ever been told to make time at all hazards. In his experience the block signals had never told a lie. He said that when an engine gets a red signal he must stop by all means. Asked as to whether he considered a train order necessary with the block signals, the witness said he did not. He said that being able to see three sets of signals, especially at night, an engineer would not be taking big risks in turning around for a second or so. He did not believe he would be excused for doing just what Engineer Davis did. Mr. Munn thought that it might be a relief to have a second engineer in the cab, but it would not lessen his responsibility.

"If an engine was not fit for service, I certainly would refuse to take her out, and believe the company would think more of me for it," said Mr. Munn. "If the engineer of the Easton local had proceeded with a hot-box on his tender, it might have wrecked his train. I believe it was best for him to stop where he did, instead of possibly wrecking his train at the Fanwood curve."

Pierre Garvin, of the law department of the Jersey Central, was sworn to identify and explain some pictures of the track and block signals in the neighborhood of the scene of the wreck. Arthur E. Owen, of the signal department of the Central, explained maps he had showing the block signals.

Some flashlight photographs of the wreck, taken by Frederick C. Berte, were offered in evidence.

Ellis L. Ayers, of Newark, assistant maintainer of signals for the New Jersey Central, was called, and testified that he traveled between Elizabeth and Plainfield on the afternoon of the wreck. He reached the scene of the wreck about 6:50 o'clock, the time it occurred. He grabbed his tool bag and jumped off of the Somerville local train on track three. Just west of the Broard street crossing, Westfield, the signals were set as danger. He noticed the signals west of Westfield station set clear at the top and caution at the lower arm. The green light indicates that the block ahead is obstructed. It was not two minutes after he got off his train when he noticed the signals and they were working correctly.

The witness said that there was no possibility of the signals being changed just after the wreck.

James Major, ticket agent and telegraph operator at Westfield, said that the Easton local passed Westfield station at 6:30 o'clock the night of the wreck, and the flyer passed at 6:40 o'clock. He said that the despatcher asked him about the flyer and he replied "passed."

Rev. Father Andrew M. Egan, pastor of St. Mary's R. C. church, this city went to the bedside of Engineer Davis once officially and once to learn of his condition. The second time, as a matter of curosity, he asked Davis how the accident occurred and Davis said that his engine leaked from Jersey City and he couldn't see the signals. The first time he gave the engineer the last sacrament. The Prosecutor brought out that Davis understood that he was about to die before the statement was made to Chief Kiely.

OFFICERS NAMED.

At Annual Meeting of Young Ladies' Mission Band of Trinity Church.

At the annual meeting of the Young Ladies' Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, held Friday afternoon, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. F. E. Woodruff; vice president, Mrs. Leonard Smith; recording secretary, Miss Abbie VanCleef; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. S. Cutter; treasurer, Miss Mabel Wilson. Reports of an encouraging nature were read by the standing committees.

¶ At the conclusion of business Rev. Cornelius Schenck addressed the members in which he bespoke another prosperous year.

Rushville, Ind.

Messrs. Ely Bros. :—I have been a great sufferer from catarrh and hay fever and tried many things, but found no permanent relief until I found it in Ely's Cream Balm about eight years ago, and we have been fast friends ever since. (Rev.) R. M. Bell.

Messrs. Ely Bros. :—Find enclosed 50 cents, for which please send me your Cream Balm. I find your remedy the quickest and most permanent cure for cold in the head, catarrh, etc. Yours truly, Dell M. Potter,

Gen. Mgr. Arizona Gold Mining Co

Driving Out the Enemy.

These are the days of colds, sharp and sudden, attacking throat and lungs, and leading to consequences one does not like to think about. Avoid further exposure and fight the enemy of health and comfort with Perry Davis' Painkiller—family stand-by for sixty years. It conquers a cold in a day. See that you get the right article. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., has returned from a visit with friends at Yonkers, N. Y.

Miss Annie Burke, of this city, has returned from a visit with her mother at High Bridge.

KODOL digests what you eat.'

KODOL cleanses, purifies, strengthens and sweetens the stomach.

KODOL cures indigestion, dyspepsia, and all stomach and bowel troubles.

KODOL accelerates the action of the gastric glands and gives tone to the digestive organs.

KODOL relieves an overworked stomach of all nervous strain, gives to the heart a full, free and untrammeled action, nourishes the nervous system and feeds the brain.

KODOL is the wonderful remedy that is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by giving to their bodies all of the nourishment that is contained in the food they eat.

Your Dealer Can Supply You.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

PREPARED ONLY BY

E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO

L. W. RANDOLPH.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 15.—Commence by Rev. S. R. Doyle.

Topic.—Lessons from Benhadad's defeat.—I Kings xx, 13-29. (Temperance meeting.)

"And Benhadad, the king of Syria, gathered all his host together, and there were thirty and two kings with him and horses and chariots, and he went up and besieged Samaria and warred against it." The cause of this war is unknown, except that it seems to have been for the purpose of humiliating King Ahab and the people of Israel. The Syrian king's demands upon the king of Israel were most humiliating and offensive, yet would have had to be complied with had not God interfered to save the nation. In his prudence 232 young men were enabled to bring about a panic among the soldiers of Benhadad that led to their utter rout and ruin.

One of the principal factors in this defeat was drunkenness. When Ahab's reply was sent to the Syrian king, he and his allies were drinking in the pavilions, and when later on the prophet led the young men against them they were still drinking. "And they went out at noon. But Benhadad was drinking himself drunk in the pavilions, he and his kings, the thirty and two kings that helped them." This excessive drinking had no doubt much to do with the panic that immediately seized the Syrian army and caused its defeat and destruction. Nor was this the first or last time that intemperance caused the defeat of armies. Belshazzar and Babylon went down to defeat in the midst of drunken revelings, and Alexander's military power was blighted by the terrible curse. Men able to lead armies and to conquer nations have themselves been overcome by the demon of strong drink.

Drunkenness always leads to defeat. "It is not for kings to drink wine" nor for generals nor for soldiers nor for any one who would creditably hold any position in life worth holding and who would perform successfully the duties of life. Drunkenness never won a battle. The Russian soldiers in the Crimean war were drugged with drink, but this only assured their defeat instead of saving them from it. Intoxicating drinks weaken the intellect, destroy the physical powers of a man and absolutely unfit him for the battle of life. Defeat will come to every man as surely as it did to Benhadad, who is accustomed to "drinking himself drunk."

Since intemperance has always led to individual and national disgrace and ruin, why will nations continue to make drunkenness possible, and why will men continue to form a habit that has proved so disastrous to thousands and tens of thousands? That these things are done after centuries of experience seems almost incredible. Yet it is sadly true. Public sentiment has not yet been educated to the point where it will make drunkenness impossible by law, and individual safety has not yet brought to the point where they are unwilling to risk all for the pleasures of intoxication. May God hasten the day when these conditions will prevail! To this end let us as Christians totally abstain ourselves, pray fervently for the overthrow of the rum traffic and do all in our power to reach and to reclaim those who have been led to form this terrible habit.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. xx, 13; Lev. x, 8, 9; Num. vi, 1-14; Prov. xx, 1; xxiii, 29-32; Hab. ii, 1-15; Luke i, 13-15; I Cor. iii, 16, 17; Gal. v, 19, 26.

Beer Meat.

John Willis Baer, till recently general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, is one of the most enthusiastic public speakers in the country. The following pithy paragraphs are all from a convention address delivered a few weeks ago:

Once an Endeavorer always an Endeavorer, if you please.

The numerical growth of Christian Endeavor proves to me beyond a doubt that God is in the movement.

Christian Endeavor is not man made. It is Spirit filled, and it is well to take as our motto Paul's words, "Remember Jesus Christ."

Christian Endeavor is a great international and interracial peace society.

The Christian Endeavor pledge is "the strenuous life," if you please.

If I had my way, there would be a junior society in every church that has a Y. P. S. C. E.

The days just ahead are to be the best days of Christian Endeavor.

Sparks From Dr. Clark's Anvil.

Christian Endeavor stands for a definite purpose and a direct aim.

Christian Endeavor is a united training school for Christian service.

We do not worship our pledge, but we simply say that this is a way that God has shown us whereby we can satisfy the longing of our hearts for better service.

Our covenant—a definite way of doing definite things at a particular time for Jesus' sake.

Every prayer meeting is a school of Christian service.

You, Christian Endeavorer, not only long for service, but you belong to Him who can give you power for service.

Quiz Box.

[Any question may be asked that pertains to any phase of Christian Endeavor work. Address Lock Box 674, Binghamton, N. Y.]

33. E. F. H., Maine.—You should insist on having your society make its contributions for missions through the mission boards of your own denomination.

34. K. Y. L., Michigan.—Fairs, bazaars and paid socials are not in keeping with the truest spirit of Christian Endeavor.

IN MEMORY OF J. EVERITT REIGHTON.

While friends were hovering 'round
The spirit took its flight
To dwell with God and angels,
To roam in realms of light.

To those who loved him dearly,
The memory of his life
Will be a guardian angel,
To lead them through the strife.

And then the meeting yonder
On the bank of the crystal stream,
They will clasp each other fondly,
And know life was but a dream.

A dream with a happy ending,
To awake in the Heavenly dawn,
And angels at the golden gate
To welcome the loved ones home.

—Emma J. Conover.

THEATRICAL.

Before "Mr. Bine Beard" was presented at the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York, the prediction was freely made by those who were familiar with it that it would prove a greater success than its predecessor of last season, "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast." This prophecy has already been fulfilled and "Mr. Bine Beard" is regarded today as the greatest success in spectacle this country has ever known. It will run for many months at the utmost capacity of the theatre.

Jerome Sykes, in his character of "John Doe" in Klaw & Erlanger's magnificent production of "The Billionaire," is in his second month at Daly's Theatre, New York, where he is playing to capacity audiences and turning people away at every performance. "The Billionaire" is the best satire ever presented on the American stage. Its original subject is a most entertainingly interesting way, and in its comic pictures of the foibles of theatre-goers eclipses even the work of the cleverest cartoonists. The comic theatre scene has created a genuine sensation. Mr. Sykes is surrounded by the ablest company of comedians seen on Broadway in years. Harry Macdonough as Baptiste, the broken-down tenor; May Robson, as Mrs. Peppercorn; Thomas C. Leary, as Mr. Peppercorn; Nellie Follis, as Fanny Doe; Ethel Marie Dore, as Rosalba Peppercorn have all made personal hits. As an entertainment intended for laughing purposes only "The Billionaire" more than fulfills its purpose.

Another big series of substantial entertainments will greet the patrons of Mr. Proctor's many theatres next week. The Stock Company at Proc*tor's Fifth Avenue Theatre will pres*ent the play that made Chauncey Olcott famous, "Garrett O'Magh," by Augustus Pitou. Diversity is a virtue to be prized in a vaudeville programme, and this is the main characteristic of the bill at Proctor's Twenty-third Street next week. The headlines will be Laura Biggar (Mrs. H. M. Bennett) and a strong supporting company in Winner and Vincent's one-act playlet, "A Thief in the Night." "His Father's Boy," by Sidney Rosenfield, will be the offering at Proctor's One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street house next week. At Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street a magnificent production will be made of Cecil Raleigh and Arthur Collins' famous Drury Lanes drama, "Hearts Are Trumps." Proctor's beautiful Theatre in military Park, Newark, will have next week one of Newark's favorite actresses, Beryl Hope and a company of favorites in a new vaudevillesketch. F. F. Proctor's $10,000 series of "Living Art Studies." Colibris' Midgets, tiny acrobatic song and dance comedians, the Six Blackbirds, colored comedians, Winona and Banks Winters, in clever impersonations; William Cahill Davis, the Irish monologist, and fifteen other star acts will complete the programme.

Cleaned Out Brook.

The heavy downpour of rain Wednesday evening caused Green brook to rise several inches in a very few minutes and for a time it looked as though there would be a deluge. The water rapidly receded, however, and it was at its normal level yesterday morning. The brook was flushed out and the debris which had accumulated on the banks was washed away.

A Weak Stomach

causes a weak body and invites disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures and strengthens the stomach, and wards off and overcomes disease. J. R. Taylor, a prominent merchant of Chrisman, Ill., says: "I could not eat because of a weak stomach. I lost all strength and run down in weight. All that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol, I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefited me, and after taking four bottles I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health." L. W. Randolph.

Mrs. Andrew Nolan, of East Front street, is improving from an attack of pneumonia.

Mother Gray's Sweet Powders

for children. Mother Gray, for years a nurse in the children's home in New York, treated children successfully with a powder, now prepared and placed in the drug stores, called Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for Children. Mother Gray's Powders are sweet, pleasant to take and never fail. A certain cure for Feverishness, Constipation, Worms, Sour Stomach and Stomach disorders and remove worms. At all druggists, or by mail for 25c. in stamps. Sample sent FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 15, "Special Days and Christ's Service"—Text, Mark x. 35-45; Matt. xvi. 24-26.

From whatever source it may arise, it is clear that there is in most men a craving for power, for position, for mastery in some way. It shows itself in innumerable ways. It may appear as inventive faculty, combining things in ways to reach desired ends. It may be in opening the resources of nature, exploring the unknown, or it may be in clearing wilderness and bringing it under cultivation. It may be in leading men in schools, in work, in parliaments or battle. The spirit of leadership, the thirst for dominion and control, is in the blood of the race.

In itself it is neither good nor bad. It is a power which may work harm or may be made strongly helpful. The Scriptures represent this as an endowment originally given to man to fit him for his place in God's world. And from it came the command of God to primitive man to have dominion over all worldly creaturehood. Man is to be master of the earth. But his mastery is to be as the representative of God and because he is the image of the Divine One.

If, now, the thirst for lordship breaks the bounds of his subjection and man undertakes to be for himself instead of for God, he at once becomes usurper and intolerable as tyrant over the world and rebel against God. His selfish ambition thwarts itself and sways the world against him on one side and God on the other. He has forfeited his place, lost his power and become ruined.

The work of Christ was to restore man to his true position in God's world. He did this by becoming Himself fully what in some degree every one should be. He received of the divine nature all fullness. He imparted of it to men as they would take and use. Active outpouring of goodness and blessedness is the secret of the divine relation to the world of creaturehood. It is self impartation. It is manifestation of quality and nature by imparting to others who can participate. It is sharing. The glory of love is its free outgiving. The glory of life is its free outgiving that they may be the best possible. The impulse is not so much the desire to please others. It may be needful to displease, to pain, to wound, to even anger them. It may be necessary to so treat them that they reckon you as an enemy, but the end to be secured is their betterment, their well being, which is more than making them feel pleasure.

Here lies one of life's hardest battlefields. We are sent to overcome the world and have been overcome ourselves by pride and false ambition.

Under Christ and in His power we can find our true place and true ambition to take this world in all its realms for God. We are to win it for God's kingdom. We must master self and then by the spirit of glad self devotion, sacrifice, service, ministry, self impartation, bring all men into divine fellowship.

When the Love of God Is Born.

The loneliness of life becomes permanently broken when the love of God is born in the soul. Then, and then alone in life's struggle the soul may be. The seething sea may be all around, the light of the stars be blotted out and the lights along the shore be dimmed, but loneliness is an impossibility. Loneliness is impossible so long as I think of and long for God and so long as God thinks of and longs for me. The former is the result of the latter, and the latter is the supreme fact of redemption.—Episcopal Recorder.

Patience.

The thought of peace and rest in heaven is so entrancing that the heart, weary of its disappointments and tribulations, looks forward with longing and joy to the time when it shall know its full meaning. But tribulation worketh patience, and we fail in working out God's design, the beautiful fruit of patience, when we expect that fruit before He has cultivated the plant.—Episcopal Recorder.

A Christian of the First Order.

For one to be a Christian it is only necessary that he be legal, but to be a Christian of the first order he must be mystical. Jesus still comes to us in our outer life, and blessed is the man who arises and follows Him whithersoever He goes. Jesus still comes to the door of the soul, and that man is most blessed who receives the Lord into his guest chamber.—Ian Maclaren.

A Misconception.

When church members excuse their neglect of what is plain Christian duty by saying that they are better Chris*tians even than many who attend* divine service more regularly and that mere church attendance should not be the gauge of a man's Christianity, it is evident that there is a total misconception as to what church membership implies.—Lutheran.

Perfect Love and Accord.

The experience of perfect love brings people together in perfect accord and unity as naturally and easily as drops of water are brought together.—American Friend.

The Happier Life.

Forget the ache your own heart holds
By easing other pains.
Forget your hungering for wealth
By seeking others' gain.
And make your every breath briefer seem
By brightening the years.
For tears dry quicker in the eyes
That look for others' tears.

Heartache fades quickest from the heart
That feels another's grief.
The road for wealth dies sooner if
We seek another's gain;
Life's ands run lightly if we fill
With kindness all the years,
And tears dry quickest in the eyes
That look for others' tears.

—Los Angeles Herald.

SPLIT OVER ALLOWING OTHERS TO USE GYM

Troubles Which Have Developed in Young Men's Association of Hope Chapel.

THREATEN TO GET OUT

MEMBERS OBJECT TO GYMNASIUM BEING DEVOTED TO OTHERS.

Nights on Which Members May Use Gymnasium Are Getting Fewer and Fewer—The Young Women Now Given a Night.

Difference of opinion among the members in regard to the admission of other organizations to its gymnasium may eventually lead to the withdrawal of a greater portion of the Hope Y. M. A. from the chapel which has been fostering it.

The trouble has arisen from the passing of a vote by a very close majority, which allows the Boys' Club, and the Young Women's Society, both of Hope chapel, the use of the gymnasium floor and apparatus one night a week. Heretofore the members of the Y. M. A. have been allowed all nights exclusively, which was the original intention when the building was erected.

The association is composed of young men who are employed entirely during the day and have no where else to go in the evening for innocent recreation. With the nights removed for meetings in the chapel and that of the two other organizations, the members feel that they are not receiving the benefits they pay for and have commenced action.

From the dues and money received from other sources, the Y. M. A. pays yearly to the trustees of the chapel $100 for the gymnasium's running expenses. In addition, it purchases all new apparatus and bears the cost of repairs and improvements. Through the influence of outsiders, a majority vote has been obtained whereby no tax is placed upon the others entering and many of the members regard it as unfair, even waving aside the loss of time for themselves.

The matter is now in the hands of a special committee which is considering removal to an independent clubhouse and uniting up of an organization on entirely individual lines. A building has already been inspected and an option secured tending toward a purchase. Decisive action is to be taken at the next regular meeting which will be in March.

FUNERAL OF MRS. VAN NEST.

Services Held at the Late Home at Alton, Wednesday, Feb. 4.

The funeral services of Mrs. William VanNest were held Wednesday, Feb. 4, from the late home at Alton and were very largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. J. A. Cuberley, pastor of the Baptist church, at South Plainfield, conducted the services and in the course of his remarks spoke of the lovely Christian character of the deceased. He also had words of deep sympathy for the bereaved family.

During the services Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Campbell, relatives, of New York, sang "Lean, Kindly Light," and "Abide With Me." There were many floral tributes, including a handsome pillow bearing the word "Mother." The interment took place in Hillside cemetery, Plainfield. The pall-bearers, all nephews of Mrs. VanNest, were George VanNest and Charles Conover, of this city; William and Fred Compton, of Metuchen.

DEATH OF THOS. LEE.

Old Resident of Willow Grove Died at Homestead Farm Feb. 6.

At his late home in Willow Grove, Thomas Lee, a life long resident of that place, passed away Feb. 4, after a lingering illness of rheumatism and complications.

Thomas Lee died on the old homestead farm, where he was born seventy-one years ago. He has always led a very active life. Three children survive him: Samuel Lee, Miss Emma Lee and Miss Georgette Lee.

The funeral services were held from his late residence in Willow Grove, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The interment was in Hillside cemetery.

The Very Last Pill.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers do not gripe nor weaken the system. They cure biliousness, jaundice, constipation and inactive livers, by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently, yet effectually, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach, liver and bowels that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely. These famous little pills exert a decided tonic effect upon the organs involved, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the trouble. L. W. Randolph.

BANQUET MARKS ITS FIFTEENTH BIRTHDAY

Women's Section of the Gesang and Turn Verein Celebrates the Event.

NEW OFFICERS THERE

SEVENTY-FIVE SAT DOWN TO THE FESTIVE BOARD.

Gift for Mrs. Christopher Keller, the Retiring Treasurer, Who Had Been at That Post for Fourteen Years—Guests Present.

The fifteenth anniversary of the women's section of the Gesang and Turn Verein, was held February 4, at Saengerbund Hall when there was a full representation of members present. A sumptuous repast was served at which covers were set for seventy-five.

After the banquet, Mrs. Christopher Keller, who has been treasurer for fourteen years, resigned her office and as a token of the appreciation of her services the section presented her with a solid mahogany rocker. It was a touching tribute extended to a faithful officer and she responded suitably to the occasion.

The banquet was taken as the occasion when the old officers step out of their chairs to make way for the new ones which are as follows: President, Mrs. William Beiter; vice president, Mrs. Andrew Schlick; secretary, Mrs. Charles Dressell; recording secretary, Mrs. August Melcher, and treasurer, Mrs. Mathias Menzenbach.

Every member who brought with him a guest also brought a present for him. These were opened after the officers took their places and much amusement was afforded when some of the boxes were opened.

The committee in charge was, Mrs. Christopher Keller, chairman; Mrs. Herman Klinsman, Mrs. August Melcher, Mrs. Andrew Schlick, Mrs. Matthias Menzenbach, Mrs. Charles Meyer and Mrs. William Beiter.

During the evening, Rudolph Spiegel, on behalf of the men's section of the Gesang and Turn Verein, made a few remarks in which he complimented the organization on arriving at its fifteenth anniversary and said that he hoped that it would survive another fifteen years.

The evening was spent after the dinner in informal bowling contests and other games until a late hour.

MEMORIAL MEETING.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards Was the Chief Speaker at Service in Memory of Miss Rachel Mair.

Under the auspices of the King's Foreign Mission Society, a service in memory of Miss Rachael G. Mair, who died while engaged in African mission work, was held in Warren chapel, last Thursday. It was directly in charge of Rev. J. O. McKelvey and the speaker was Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, former pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

Traversing a eulogistic train of thought he referred in many ways to Miss Mair's heroic devotion to her work and her untiring efforts in behalf of Warren chapel. He spoke also of the work being accomplished by the society connected with the chapel and urged that it be continued.

Before and after the service, two piano solos were rendered by Theodore Phillips.

ODD FELLOWS ASSOCIATION.

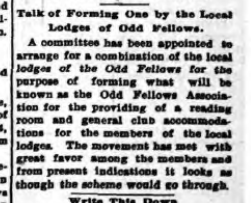
Talk of Forming One by the Local Lodges of Odd Fellows.

A committee has been appointed to arrange for a combination of the local lodges of the Odd Fellows for the purpose of forming what will be known as the Odd Fellows Association for the providing of a reading room and general club accommodations for the members of the local lodges. The movement has met with great favor among the members and from present indications it looks as though the scheme would go through.

Write This Down

in the book or memory: There is no such a thing as a harmless cough. Every cough is a warning of a confidence that goes from bad to worse unless it is remedied right away. Opinion aside, Dr. King's New Discovery, Allen's Lung Balsam cures the worst of colds. It clears the bronchial passages, so that the lungs get plenty of air. Why not get a bottle today?

Nasal CATARRH



In all its stages there should be cleanliness.

Ely's Cream Balm

cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It opens the nostrils, allays pain and inflammation, protects the membrane from additional colds, completely heals the sores and restores the senses of taste and smell. A thorough treatment will cure. Not a drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

WOULD WIDEN SOMERSET ST.

Borough Council Looked Over Plans for Widening Entire Length of the Street.

MORE STORM SEWERS

Lots of Discussion at Last Friday's Meeting of the Borough Council

—Estimates for Building the Extension of Storm Sewers—

Other Important Matters.

At the meeting of the Borough Council last Friday the most important business brought up for discussion was the further widening of Somerset street from Jackson avenue to Johnson's drive, and the building of a storm sewer in that part of North Plainfield not now provided with this improvement. Several owners were present and took part in the discussion.

In the discussion regarding the widening of Somerset street from Jackson avenue to Johnson's drive a large map was brought out by the engineer and it showed that it was planned to cut off five feet from the sidewalks along that thoroughfare except that part of Somerset street which runs along the brook where more than five feet will be cut off on the west side than on the east, because of the proximity of the brook on the eastern side of the street. Several property owners were present and stated their objections to the proposed continuance of the widening of the street.

The report submitted by the engineer provided for a sewer to dispose of the surface water which now drains through the south gutter of Greenbrook road and Somerset street to Stony brook. The larger area drains through Somerset street, and a large amount of the surface water also reaches Greenbrook road through Duer street and Grove street using the existing culvert under the south sidewalk of Greenrook road for conveying the water from Grove street to Stony brook.

The sewer will begin at the brook with a thirty-inch pipe continuing to Duer street where the size will be reduced to twenty-four inches. This will extend to and interesecting Somerset street and Summit avenue. At this point the sewer will divide. One eighteen-inch branch will extend up Somerset street to Linden avenue and the other continuing with a twenty-four-inch pipe along Summit avenue to Watchung avenue and up that thoroughfare with a twenty-inch pipe to Grandview avenue.

So little surface water flows to Greenbrook road from the north (the crown of Somerset street being about a block away) that no proposition was made by the engineer.

The following estimates were prepared by the engineer as a rough estimate. If the sewer proposed is adopted and installed the engineer recommended that the Council order the erection of a culvert in the North avenue at Watchung avenue to divert on Somerset street the water which now flows from Fairview avenue and Watchung avenue which is already overloaded with surface water.

The estimates prepared are as follows:

For the first section of the sewer from Greenbrook road to Somerset street, $8,722.50 and for the second section from Summit avenue to Watchung avenue for $1,762.50. The total cost will be $6,485.

Others matter were brought up for discussion that night although the matter of the fire house was not even broach. All the councilmen, excepting Mr. Clark, were present, including Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed. Mayor N. B. Smalley was in the chair.

It was reported that E. J. Smith had served his time as a fireman and was entitled to the benefits of an exempt fireman. It was referred to the fire, water and lamps committee who confirmed the report. Claims amounting to $3,135 were ordered paid. On motion of Councilman Arnold it was ordered that the bill of Assessor French be paid as he had prepared the duplicate tax book.

Mayor Smalley appointed J. O. Osgood to fill the vacancy on the Board of Health for a term of five years. Councilman Northrup read his report as chairman of the fire, water and lamps committee. He reported that the expense for street lighting with 338 lamps amounted to $436.58 and for the fire department incidental expenses and repairs $22.98, making a total of $459.56.

The report of Tax Collector and Treasurer George F. Brown submitted his report. Taxes, interest and sidewalks, $2,734.44; Board of Health, $45.15; special school taxes, $1,518.63; Plainfield Street Railroad Company, $300; Recorder's fines, $34; County Clerk, liquor licences, $665; New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, $41.80; property sold for taxes, $25. Balance on hand January 1, $11,751.81; total receipts, $17,015.83; disbursements, $11,400 24; balance on hand, $5,615.59.

Councilman Arnold reported as follows: Belmont avenue macadamizing and labor and stone, $102 75; clearing up snow, $18, making a total of $120.75.

On motion of Councilman Nichols it was decided to pay the Somerset street widening commission the sum of $75. The commission comprised B. A. Hegeman, Jr., W. E. Smith and Dr. J. H. Cooley. On motion of Mr. Nichols power was granted to the Mayor and Clerk to sign all papers to simplify the matter of arriving at a satisfactory conclusion regarding the apportionment of the franchise tax which was included in one bill by the State Assessor and sent to Borough Collector Brown.

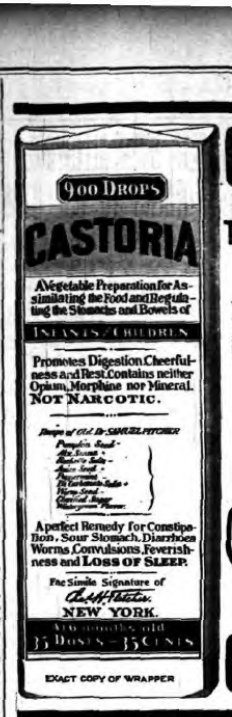
A motion was also made to issue a warrant to meet the bonds falling due in a few days of the Watchung water bonds for a $1,000.

DEATH OF J. M. RYNO.

Former Plainfielder Passed Away at Jersey City.

James N. Ryno, aged sixty-four years, died at his home, 106 Newark avenue, Jersey City, Friday, following a two weeks' illness with pneumonia. Mr. Ryno was a painter by trade and sixteen years ago he left Plainfield, having lived here all his life prior to that time. He was a member of Noah Dove Encampment, No. 38, I. O. O. F., Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., and an Exempt Fireman. The deceased leaves three sons.

The interment was made Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the North Plainfield cemetery, and at the grave an opportunity was given Plainfield friends to view the remains.



CUP FOR SMITH.

Ray Smith Won Hand-Ball Tournament at Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium.

The final game in the handball tournament at the Y. M. C. A. was played off last Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. Ray Smith and W. E. Neal played the last game and Smith won out. He is the winner of the handball cup and it will be presented to him at a social which will be given in the near future.

The complete result of the tournament is as follows:

Won.	Lost.
Ray Smith.	Denton.
Neal.	Sebring.
Collier.	Conant.
Scull.	Mundy.
Spicer.	George.
Koons.	Aalholm.
Second Section.
Neal.	Collier.
Neal.	Koons.
Smith.	Scull.
Third Section.
Smith	Neal.

DEATH OF MRS. ROBINSON.

Failed to Rally From Paralytic Stroke and Passed Away.

Following a comparatively brief illness, Mrs. Eleanor Seeds Robinson passed away very quietly at her home on East Second street, Thursday afternoon. Death followed the effects of a paralytic stroke.

Mrs. Robinson had long been a resident of this city coming here in 1860 from New York. She was one of the oldest charter members of the Congregational church and was dearly beloved by a large circle of friends.

She is survived by three sons, Samuel J. and William, of this city, and Robert, of New York, one daughter, Miss Mary E. Robinson and also one sister, Miss Seeds, also of this city. The funeral will be held from her late residence Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

BREAKING SIGNS.

Small Boys Damage Street Signs by Throwing Stones at Them.

A number of small boys in the borough as well as in the city have taken delight in throwing stones at the street signs. Many of the broken signs have come in that condition by small boys with rocks in their hands. The other morning a well known citizen who lives on Park avenue who was on his way to the depot in his carriage saw a youngster throwing stones at one of the signs. He stopped the carriage and severely rebuked the lad.

Organist Joy Resigns.

Herbert Hemingway Joy, who has been organist of the Crescent Avenue church for the past year, has been engaged to fill similar position at the Clinton Avenue Congregational church of Brooklyn. His successor has not yet been named.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.

The only positive cure for blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, cuts, burns, bruises, eczema and all abrasions of the skin. DeWitt's is the only Witch Hazel Salve that is made from the pure, unadulterated witch hazel—all others are counterfeits. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is made to cure—counterfeits are made to sell. L. W. Randolph.

One Minute Cough Cure gives relief in one minute, because it kills the microbe which tickles the mucous membrane, causing the cough, and at the same time clears the phlegm, draws out the inflammation and heals and soothes the affected parts. One Minute Cough Cure strengthens the lungs, wards off pneumonia and is a harmless and never failing cure in all curable cases of Coughs, Colds and Croup. One Minute Cough Cure is pleasant to take, harmless and good alike for young and old. L. W. Randolph.

JOE MEALEY'S RIDE.

Unique Bareback Gallop on an Enraged Deer.

Hair-Raising Experience of a California Mountaineer Who Mounted His Quarry a Few Minutes Too Soon.

Few more thrilling experiences can be imagined than that recently undergone by a young California mountaineer named Joseph Mealey.

"Some young fellows from Oakland," he says in the Philadelphia Press, "were up here looking for big game. They had the latest and best kinds of shooting material, new style rifles and pistols, and the like, but there wasn't a shotgun in the party.

"They were poor hunters and were so scared of shooting one another that they persisted in hunting in a bunch. I finally got disgusted with them and on the second morning after their arrival set out alone to bag a deer. I was up at daylight and set out over the mountains.

"I didn't see a sign of deer, although I trudged all over one side of the slope. The sun was up pretty high when I set my rifle against a big bowlder and jumped on to a rock to sit down a moment and smoke.

"While I was gazing lazily about me I heard the thud-thud-thud, and I knew a deer was jumping down the mountain. I slid off the bowlder quick, grabbed the rifle, and laid low. Again I heard the thud of the deer's jump, and, looking over the rock I saw a big buck trotting slowly across the small opening down the mountain.

"The deer was north of me and the breeze came from that direction, so I hurried straight down the mountain. While I was sneaking along I looked over a clump of brush, and there, out in plain view, stood the buck. He was a big one I tell you, and with his great antlers hanged if he didn't look big as an elk to me.

"I should judge he was about 200 yards from me. He was standing there tossing his head as though some sort of a fly was bothering him, and I decided to give it to him through the heart. I wasn't well acquainted with the rifle, but I aimed careful and let him have it.

IN PLAIN VIEW STOOD THE BUCK.

"When I reached him I took my hunting knife out of my belt to bleed him. Before this I stood looking down at him for a few seconds, for he was by far the biggest deer I ever saw—a six pronger.

"I had my foot on his hind quarters. Then I straddles him, holding his antlers to keep his head steady, and with my left hand started to cut his neck.

"No sooner did the knife prick his skin before that buck was on his feet. I was too scared to notice how it was done, but I know that his forelegs went out first and he was up quick as a flash.

"I already had a grip on his antlers with my right hand, and as I dropped my knife I grabbed them with my left. I was too paralyzed to think even, but I can tell you that he and I were off like the wind—with me hanging on for dear life.

"Over rocks, across dry ditches, and over the patches of buck brush that animal went as if he had never been hurt, and although I stayed with the wildest broncho Montana could produce, I never had such trouble as that.

"People have asked me many times if trotting and leaping were the only gaits of a deer. That particular buck deer seemed to have 'em all. No spurs were needed for that animal, I tell you.

"About this time the animal slowed to a trot, and he gave a bleat much as would a calf, then staggered and fell.

"I threw myself off his back before he commenced to reel, but I saw blood gushing out of his nose and mouth as he dropped. He was game, for he tried to get his feet again—then dropped over, dead.

"The distance from where the deer started after I first dropped him to where he dropped me was close on to a half mile."

Waltzing Mice of Japan.

The Japanese delight in animal freaks. They train dogs to perform various kinds of stunts, but their most amusing wonders are waltzing mice. The whirlings and twistings of these little animals are exceedingly ludicrous. The diminutive waltzers are also about half the size of the American mouse, and piebald in color.

Tea Sold in Pill Form.

Pills formed of tea are sold in some of the groceries. About 14 of them weigh an ounce, and a cb pill makes a generous cup of tea.

ENGLISH AT FOREIGN HOTELS.

Words Put Together in a Fashion That Is Something Fearful and Wonderful to Contemplate.

Many gems of the curious English of foreign hotel keepers have been given to the public. Among the best, says Stray Stories, is the tale of the host of a well-known establishment in Greece, who was wont to greet his guests in an effusive manner with: "What you prefare—a biftek or a chick-hen?"

Their astonishment at the mastery of the language was frequently deepened when, upon their return to the hotel a few hours later, they found nothing prepared. It was his only English sentence, and he did not understand a word of it.

This, however, is not quite equal to the placard in the possession of a naval officer just returned from Egypt. He procured it at a cafe chantant in Alexandria. It was printed in several languages, and this is the English part: "Every of the consummations of the coldness, one piastre besides. Every of the claim to be addressed directly of the direction. During of the repetitions the price of consummations to be the same that in every the other's coffee."

With the aid of the parallel passages in other languages the meaning is found as follows: "All iced drinks one piastre extra. All complaints should be made at the office. Notwithstanding the performances the prices will be the same as those of other cafes."

THE FINISH AT MONTE CARLO.

Those Who Lose Their All at the Gaming Tables Go Elsewhere with Their Misery.

One sees only the appearances of luxury and of gayety in this glittering community. Despair would make a blot upon it. Those who have lost their fortunes disappear like magic, and while the newspapers announce on their first page, Monsieur le Duc has left the azure coast and has returned to his sumptuous apartments," the poor devil goes to conceal his shame in some little shanty lost in the ocean of Parisian room, says Ellen Wesley. But all have not the courage to go away. Many stay. Of such not a word is heard. The cold, the rain, the fog, ruin, and death are and ought to be, according to the announcement of the company and the press, wholly unknown in this favored spot. Orange trees always in flower, palms trees always green, and the sky always blue, a continual fete, winners, fortunate gamblers, nobles, millionaires, counts, dukes, grand dukes, highness, and princes, princes, princes—that is what people want at Monte Carlo. A pistol shot is never heard, never wakes an echo, never causes a scandal. The walks where the cactuses stretch out in perspective toward the sea are always clean and well sanded. One never sees a drop of blood.

THE TURKISH POST OFFICE.

An Institution That Regards with Suspicion Anything of a Foreign Nature.

The Turk suspects everybody and everything, and no private act, no seclusion is safe from his intrusion. Every telegram sent from the public offices is at once reported to the authorities. No one can safely send a letter by the Turkish post unless he is willing to have it opened and read, and take the chances of having it confiscated if the censor finds anything that can be twisted into an insult to Mohammedanism, says Outing. As a result of this condition and the inability of foreigners residing in Turkey to communicate with any certainty with their friends, some of the great European nations have established post offices of their own in Turkish cities, in which they employ only Europeans, use their own stamps, and watch their mail bags until they pass beyond the prying eyes of the Turks. In Salonica there are no fewer than five post offices—British, Austrian, French, Servian and Turkish; in Constantinople, six. If one wishes to be sure of his mail, he must inquire at four of them at least; and if he really wants to have his letters reach their destination, he must send them respectively to some post office other than Turkish.

Not Well Posted.

Just how much the average Englishman knows about this country was illustrated in Washington a day or two ago. James Blackie, a traveler from London, asked the clerk in his hotel how far it was to Michigan. He wished to call on a friend there. The clerk inquired to what part of Michigan Mr. Blackie wished to go. The traveler did not know exactly, but said: "I can easily find out in what part of the city he lives when I get there. What city?" inquired the clerk. "Why, the city of Michigan, of course," said the intelligent Briton.

Swedish Courtesy.

When a train leaves a platform or a steamboat pier in Sweden, all the loiters on lift their hats to the departing passengers and bow to them, a compliment returned by the travelers. If you address the poorest person in the street you must lift your hat. A gentleman passing a lady on the street is noted immediately the same. To enter the shop or a bank with one's hat on is a terrible breach of good manners. If you enter or leave a coffee room you must bow to all the occupants.

Strength of the Saxon.

An average Britisher is as strong as two Hindus.

REGULAR ATTENDANCE.

Roll-of-Merit in Schools of Piscataway Township During Month of January.

The following is a list of the meritorious pupils who have been present in the Piscataway township schools every day during the school month ending January 23:

New Market—High School department—Lillian Bunting, Iva Dayton, Frank Smalley. Grammar department—Bertha Nelson, Maud Rupell, Emma Tappen, Lester Dutcher, Ethan Rogers, Chas. McDermott. Intermediate department — Hilda Johnson, Mabel Whitford, Barbara Bieler, Marguerite Coriell, Annie Wingess, Hannah Nelson, George Coriell, Lester Nelson, Raymond Whitford, Paul Whitford, Joseph Penrose, Frank Coriell, George Bieler, Emile Nelson, Russel Burdick, Earl Fulton. Primary department—Michael Kerwin. Walter Penrose, Carl Bieler.

South Plainfield—Grammar department—Marguerite McDonough, Mabel Arrowsmith, John McDonough, Joseph Miller, John Nelson, Grace Norman, Joseph Duffy, George Gage, Edward Horn, Willie Brown, Patrick McDonough, John Linnaberry. Intermediate department—Nellie Hogan, Myrtle Randolph, Delia Saverd, Nora McDonough, Theresa Mahoney, Lizzie Johnson, Andrew McDonough, Thomas Duffy, Lloyd Harris, Michael Saverd, Willis Bobl, Elmer Riddle, John Miller. Primary department—Dannie Sofield, Julia Richards, Joseph Harlow, Gladys Thorne, Eddie Norman, Tina Randolph, Isaac Randolph, Mary McDonough, Margaret Maguire, Nellie Riddle.

Pierre School, New Bound Brook—Grammar department—Samuel Johnson, Norman Harney, Joseph Morecraft, Charley Sebring, Ralph Parker, Andrew Harper, Clifford Giddes, Emma Conover, Lizzie Wells, Lillian Harris, Elsie McCullough, Annie Giddes, Hattie Smith, Minnie Naylor. Wanda Wade, Anna Willis, Anna McCullough, Freda Johnson. Intermediate department — Russel Perrine, Bennie Giles, Daniel Whitlock, Mervin LaRue, Albert Craig, Fred Holthouse, Bennie Harris, Archie LaRue, Walter Graners, Dorothy Barret, Nellie Giddes, Millie Morecraft, Elsworth Barret, Emil Vogel, George Craig, Theodore Mansen, LeRoy Veghte, Peter Hotaling, Johnnie Sebring, Arthur Wade. Lena Brugger, Grace Smith, Jessie Harper, Gussie Brugger, Anna Stout. Primary department—LeRoy LaRue, Percy Hendricks, Elmer McCullough, Wesley Barrett, Willie Vogel, Lucy Isham, Maria Gulick, Martha Frueler, Henrietta Terry, William Terry.

Union School—Merle Randolph, Iva Smith, Cora Smith, Sarah Dayton, John Schenck, Joseph Morris, Leslie Randolph, Elston Randolph, Ella Schenck, Anna Schenck.

Maple Grove—Mathilda Winkelbois, Emily Brentnall, Ruth Morris, Annie Winkelbois, Lizzie Norway, Charlie Norway, John McGovern, George Winkelbois.

Randolphville—Edith Giles, Myrta Dunn, May Schenck, Bessie Schenck, Jennie Schenck, Fred Fitz Randolph, Charles Morris, Richard Hammond, Andrew Reidy.

H. Cathers, Township Supervisor.

FUNERAL OF JOS. VAIL.

Services Held From Friends' Meeting House Yesterday Afternoon.

The funeral services of Joseph Vail, of North Branch, were held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday from the Friends' meeting house on Watchung avenue. During the services earnest remarks were made by W. D. Williams, a speaker for the Society of Friends. He spoke of the exemplary life of the departed and of his honest principles and sterling integrity.

The interemnt took place in the Friends' cemetery and the pall bearers, all relatives of the deceased, were William H. Vail, of North Branch; Charles E. Vail, of Plainfield; Randolph W. Vail and Fowler W. Vail, of Dunellen; James Vail and Albert Vail, the latter sons of Alfred Vail, of Duer street.

Mrs. Miller's Second Tea.

At the second tea given by Mrs. Isaac L. Miller and her daughter, Miss Miller, at their home on Watchung avenue, Saturday afternoon, they were assisted in receiving and entertaining the large number of guests by Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. John Gray Foster, Mrs. James DeGraff, Mrs. Hubbell, Mrs. Howard W. Beebe and Mrs. Samuel Kimball. Their aids in the library and dining room were the Misses Huntington, Fleming, Lapsley, Goddard and Anne Miller, of East Seventh street.

Criterion Dance.

The dance of the Criterion Club, which was postponed on account of the Westfield disaster will be held Monday evening, February 23. The same arrangements, originally made, will be carried out.

Postoffice Discontinued.

The postoffice at Roycefield, Somerset county, has been discontinued, and the mail for that place will be handled through the Somerville office.

FATHER AND DAUGHTER LAID SIDE BY SIDE

Double Funeral Held From Home of Samuel Boss on Craig Place Thursday.

BURIED AT HILLSIDE

REV. L. R. HOWARD OFFICIATED AT THE DOUBLE SERVICE.

He Was Assisted by Rev. Mr. Davis, of Lebanon—The Same Pall-Bearers for Both Caskets—Many Floral Tributes.

The funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Phillip Kirch and her father, Samuel Boss, which were held Thursday afternoon at their late residence, Craig place and Duer street, were very impressive and were largely attended by friends and relatives from this city and out of town. Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, conducted the services, assisted by Rev. Mr. Davis, pastor of the Reformed church at Lebanon.

The funeral was held at 3 o'clock. In the front parlor of the house lay the caskets of father and daughter. Flowers, a rich profusion of them, filled the room with their sweet odors. Among them were a set piece sent as a tribute from Warren Engine Company and another from the Knights of the Golden Eagle, of which the bereaved husband was a member. There were numerous bouquets of flowers from numerous friends of both the father and the daughter.

After the service the remains of the daughter were tenderly borne down the front steps of the house to the waiting hearse and as that moved on a second one drove up and the casket bearing the remains of the father was tenderly carried out of the house. The pall bearers were the same for each casket and were John C. Hayans, of Anandale; Rowland Randolph, of Newark; J. J. Stahl, George H. Fairchild, C. E. A. Heywood and John P. Powers. During the services Mr. Randolph sang "Lead Kindly Light" and "The Home Land."

It was a long line of carriages which followed the the two hearses to Hillside cemetery where the interment will take place today, where father and daughter will lie side by side.

PROPERTY CHANGES.

Made Through the Agency of Geo. F. Brown, of the Borough.

The following real estate transactions have been made through the real estate agency of George F. Brown, of Somerset street:

House and lot at the corner of Mercer avenue and Park place, formerly belonging to the Creedmore Mission, of New York, has been sold to George C. Worth, of this city.

House and lot on Wilson avenue, formerly owned by George P. Dupee, has been purchased by Edwin Driver, of Smalleytown.

Four lots formerly owned by Horton & Co., New York bankers, has been bought by John W. Codington, of this city. The lots are located on Harrison street.

Shake Off the Wintry Blasts.

The months of January and February are the most disagreeable to the northerner and delightful are they for the Florida tourist. The trip to Jacksonville is through a section as historic as it is picturesque, and the service to that point via the Royal Blue Line is the best. The New Jersey Central is going to run an excursion to Jacksonville on Tuesday, Febuary 10. Train leaves New York, Ft. Liberty street, at 8:30 a. m., arrive Washington at 2:10 p. m., same day; leave Washington at 3:16 p. m. February 11, and arrive Jacksonville at 12:45 noon February 12. The round trip rate from New York and vicinity is $50, and includes also sleeping car berths, meals en-route, transfer and hotel accommodations in Washington. The arrangements are such that the care and worry of the journey are in the hands of the railroad company, and the tourist has the entire time for enjoyment. The New Jersey Central has issued "A Little Y Book" on this Florida trip; if you want it send a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York. It's free for the asking.

c

Y. M. C. A. OFFICERS.

Elected at Meeting of the Newly-Elected Directors.

The first meeting of the newly elected directors of the Y. M. C. A. was held last Friday at the Y. M. C. A. parlors These were the officers elected for the ensuing year: President, Stephen Caboone; vice president, E. L. Bonney; secretary, Albert B. Beers; and treasurer, Curtis M. Thorpe.

Reports were read showing that the work was progressing favorably in all branches of the association.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1903. NO. 8.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in its Limitations as in its Authorities"—Madison

EFFORTS TO MODIFY ANCIENT SUNDAY LAW

Appeal Made by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis to Pennsylvania Legislative Committee.

AT A PUBLIC HEARING

ON A BILL GIVING GREATER FREEDOM ON SUNDAY.

He Spoke in Behalf of Seventh-Day Baptists and Pointed Out Dangers of Compulsory Idleness—Is Praised by Newspapers.

For several years past efforts have been made in the State of Pennsylvania to modify the ancient Sunday law passed in 1794, or have it repealed. The larger interests, such as railroads and similar forms of business, go unchallenged when they transgress the law but lesser interests, especialy in the larger cities and notably in the city of Philadelphia, are subject to much annoyance under the existing statute. An effort is now being made through what is known as the Berkhebach bill, to modify the old law. This seeks to legalize the sale of candy, cigars, soft drinks and such minor articles Sunday.

There was a hearing last week before the committee of the Senate of the Pennsylvania Legislature, for the purpose of discussing the question from the higher standpoint of religious liberty, and of Sunday legislation as a part of the State-church system, and among those present who took a prominent part in the hearing, was Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, of this city. There were large delegations present from all parts of the State, including Philadelphia, many opposing the bill under the general argument that the law of 1794 was necessary to the best interests of the State and of good order and morality, while others said that the passage of the bill was a necessity on the ground that the people demanded such minor forms of business.

Through the courtesy of Senator Orr, chairman of the committee having the bill in charge, Dr. Lewis was privileged to speak for a period of about thirty minutes. He announced himself as appearing in behalf of the Seventh-Day Baptists of Pennsylvania and the United States and as asking for the repeal of the law of 1794, because, in spite of repeated efforts to secure some recognition of the rights of conscience in behalf of the Sabbath-keeping Christians, of Jews and of all men. Pennsylvania had persistently refused such recognition, until the demand for the repeal of the ancient and oppressive law was the only remaining alternative.

Dr. Lewis urged the repeal in view of the fact that all Sunday legislation at the beginning was the direct product of the ancient pagan State-church system, and that throughout the history of the Christian church such legislation had fostered hollidayism, and that compulsory idleness on Sunday at the present time fosters the liquor traffic and encourages the worst forms of evil of which the friends of Sunday complain.

The remarks by Dr. Lewis were listened to with much eagerness and he was several times compelled to desist because of the applause, notably when he announced that the people whom he represented and the plea which he made was farthest away from any sympathy with saloons and Sunday rioting, or any other form of evil, and that his plea for the repeal of the ancient law was in favor of a better state of things by doing away with compulsory idleness. The deep interest which was awakened in the general question concerning Sunday, was shown when the speaker referred to the fact that he is the author of a book on "Swift Decadence of Sunday," a copy of which would be sent to any member of the Legislature who might desire it. At the close of the address Dr. Lewis was besieged by scores of men who commended the position taken and nearly half a hundred names were sent in from those who desire a copy of the book referred to.

In speaking of the meeting the Philadelphia Record paid a rich tribute to Dr. Lewis for his earnest words and the Philadelphia Ledger also supported Dr. Lewis in his stand. The Patriot, of Harrisburg, and the North American, of Philadelphia, contained warm words in support of the stand taken by the editor of the Sabbath-Recorder. It is generally believed that the hearing on the bill will have some effect.

UNION COUNTY'S DELEGATION

AT THE CONFERENCE OF SEVERAL WORKERS AT TRENTON TODAY.

Several Speakers From Elizabeth—Other Prominent Workers Are Expected.

Union county is to be well represented at the conference of social workers, which is to be held in the assembly room of the State House this afternoon and evening and Friday morning.

The afternoon is to be given to the general subjects: Wife desertion, placing of dependent children in homes rather than institutions, the need of separate places of detention of juveniles awaiting trial, truant schools, societies for the prevention of cruelty to children, needed amendments to the probation law and want of a woman's reformatory. The evening and morning sessions will be devoted to State supervision of penal and charitable institutions. From Plainfield a dozen delegates are announced, while from Rahway there will go several officers of the reformatory.

Elizabeth will present several speakers. Rev. J. R. Atkinson, of Trinity church, opens the conference with an address, "The Significance of the Conference." Former Governor Voorhees and Mrs. Williamson will speak at the general public session tomorrow evening; the former on "Society's Duty to the Weaker Members" and the latter on "Twenty-five Years' Progress in New Jersey Charities and Corrections." James Heg, president of the Automatic Heating Company and formerly superintendent of the Rahway Reformatory, will speak Friday morning in answer to the question "What Type of Supervision Does New Jersey Need?" Discussion on his paper will be led by William H. Allen, Ph.D., general secretary of the conference.

Among other prominent speakers will be Charlton T. Lewis, LL. D., of New York, prominent publicist and author, president of the New York Prison Association and intimately connected with many New Jersey charities, public and private; Rev. Henry Collins Minton, D. D. LL. D., who presided at the Philadelphia Presbyterian Revision Conference two years ago; Mrs. C. B. Alexander, Castle Point, Hoboken; Mrs. George W. Blackwell, President of the Political Study Club, Orange; County Judges Alfred F. Skinner, of Essex, and C. V. D. Joline, of Camden.

TEACHERS TO MEET.

Mid-Winter Meeting Will be Held at Somerville Saturday.

The mid-winter meeting of the Somerset County Teachers' Association will be held at Somerville in the public school building on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. The session will close at 12 o'clock. A programme of interest and help has been prepared as follows:

10:30. "What is being done in my school to increase the language power of my pupils," Principal S. C. Strong, Peapack; Miss Garetta Q. Genther, Belle Mead; Miss Mary G. Wilson, Franklin Park.

Discussion.

11:15. "Experience, the all around education," J. J. Savitz, A. M., Westfield.

12:00. "The feasibility and advisability of teaching drawing," Prof. S. I. Kreemer, High School, West Chester, Pa.

Change in Choir.

Mrs. Theodore Mantz, of Richmond terrace, is singing in the Congregational church choir since the departure of Miss Etta Barbers who recently resigned her position in that church to accept one in the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. Mantz is a talented soprano singer and has sung on several occasions in the Congregational church.

Slipped on the Steps.

While leaving Holy Trinity church, Sunday evening, William E. MacClymont, who is the organist and choirmaster at that place, slipped on some ice and struck the base of his spine. The injury was a painful one and it still gives Mr. MacClymont considerable trouble.

For a Local Armory.

Among the bills in the lower house of the State Legislature to be given preference in consideration is one offered by Assemblyman Newcorn, of this city. This bill provides for an appropriation for a company armory at Plainfield, if the county gives the site.

—Increase your business. Telephone service does it. The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company.

CHANGE IN OFFICERS.

L. W. Randolph Elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Association.

A meeting of the Local Druggist's Association was held Monday evening at the store of Peter Hodge at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Front street. Owing to the retirement of G. W. V. Moy from the druggist business his resignation was sent in to the association and was reluctantly accepted. L. W. Randolph was elected in his place as secretary and treasurer of the organization. That was the most important business which came up for discussion although several other matters were discussed which will be dealt with more fully at the next meeting which will be held on the second Tuesday in April.

DUNAVAN CASE DISMISSED.

Supreme Court Sustains Common Council—Blocks Further Action.

The case of Lewis K. Dunavan, complainant, against the treasurer of the City of Plainfield, defendant, was brought up before Judge VanSickel and Judge Garretson, of the Supreme Court, at Trenton, Tuesday, on a writ of certiorari. The decision in the case sustains the action of the Common Council in suspending Mr. Dunavan, without pay, and dismisses the case with costs.

Yesterday, the defendant through its attorney, Craig A. Marsh, counsel for the city, moved to dismiss the writ in this cause on the ground, among other grounds, that said writ was improvidently allowed and had not been prosecuted according to the rules and practice of the Supreme Court. The Court having heard Craig A. Marsh, attorney for the defendant, and Robert M. Clark, attorney for the prosecutor, and the latter making no opposition to said motion, and on good cause shown, the Court ordered the dismissal of said writ with costs.

IT HAS GROWN.

Runyon Vail Back to Plainfield After Thirty-Eight Years Absence.

Runyon Vail, who is now a member of the well-known firm of Vail & Vail, makers of washing machines, was in this city yesterday as the guest of Edward Vail, a member of the local fire department, stationed at the headquarters on East Second street.

Runyon Vail came from Green Valley, Ill., where he went when he was a boy thirty-eight years ago. When he left this city it was little more than a village and the trip was made in a covered wagon, and the party camped out along the ground as at that time there were no railroads. He was surprised to find the little village of Plainfield grown to such large proportions. This is the first time he has visited this city since he left it thirty-eight years ago.

WORKING FOR NEGROES.

Miss Moore Tells of Her Mission Work in the South.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, was addressed yesterday afternoon by Miss Joanna P. Moore, who for more than forty years has labored among the colored people of the south. Her earnestness of purpose, cheerfulness of temper and patient endeavors to lift a neglected race into a higher and better life have made Miss Moore a power in a large district south. The account of her methods of teaching and securing the co-operation of the people she aimed to help, was full of interest and instruction.

To Practice in Newark.

Lawyer Robert M. Clark has given up his office in the Marsh building and has opened an office in the Globe building, Newark, where he will continue the practice of law. Mr. Clark's office in this city will probably be taken by Justice vonMinden, of New Market.

Mrs. Anderson's Funeral.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. James Anderson, who died suddenly from apoplexy Monday evening, will be held from St. Mary's church, this morning at 9:15, when a requiem mass will be said. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Auction Sale.

Charles Hassell will have an auction sale of cows, farming utensils, etc., at his farm near South Plainfield, on Monday next. L. H. Tappen will be the auctioneer.

Dancing Class Reception.

The first reception of the Tuesday Night Dancing Class will be held in the Democratic Club rooms, 119 East Second street, Monday evening, February 23.

Freedom Castle's Anniversary.

The anniversary of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will be celebrated Tuesday evening, Feb. 24, in an appropriate manner.

NEW ATHLETIC CLUB FORMED

Alis Club, Outgrowth of Alis A. A., Prepares to Have Club House and Athletic Grounds.

ALSO A BASEBALL TEAM

Preliminary Meeting Was Held Monday Night—Another to Follow Soon When New Organization Will Take Permanent Shape—Other Interesting Details.

At a meeting of the Alis Athletic Association held at the home of Roy Phillips, of Madison avenue, Monday evening, the name of that well known athletic organization was changed to the Alis Club and an entirely new organization was perfected.

The meeting was more of a preliminary one and was held for the purpose of ascertaining the opinion of the members regarding the proposed changing of the association's name and departing from athletics to a combination of athletic and social features. This plan the members were highly in favor of and at once a committee was appointed to arrange matters toward this end. An informal discussion followed in which the members all took a lively interest. John G. McLaughlin was elected president pro tem and Chauncey H. Burt was elected temporary secretary.

Among other things which came up for discussion was the advisability of securing a club house convenient to a trolley line near the outskirts of the city. A favorable site was agreed upon and arrangements are now under way to secure an option on the place. There will be spacious grounds about the place and these will be used for the football and baseball games. The grounds will be enclosed with a high board fence and adjoining the house will be a large tennis court which will also be enclosed.

There are fifty charter members to the new organization and it is probable that there will be a large number of new members secured before spring. The club house will be furnished in a most complete manner. Part of the house will be furnished up as a gymnasium which will be large enough to play basket ball in. Another part of the house will be furnished as a meeting room for the members and in another part of the club house will be a pool and billiard parlor and reception room.

Heretofore the Alis Association has not had a baseball team in the field but the Alis Club, which has been augmented by several good local players, will make an application to the City League for membership and it admitted the members promise to put up one of the strongest baseball teams turned out in this city in many years. The club intends making this game an important part of the features of the coming season.

There has been talk for some time among the members of the old association of securing the Casino and using that for the club house but it has been definitely decided that the best course to pursue is to have another club house.

Another meeting of the club will be held Wednesday evening, February 25, when officers will be elected and the organization completed. Committees will report at that time and it will then be known whether the premises now in view can be secured. Another feature of the new organization will be the social side of the club. Heretofore little attention has been paid to that feature and with the organization of the new club and the securing of a club house the club promises to play an important part in the social whirl among the younger set.

Shot a Wild Cat.

Alfred I. Smalley, who recently left the borough with his family and went south for his health and for business reasons, writes to his friends in the borough that the hunting in the south is fine and that he recently shot a wild cat four feet long. He has also shot a number of foxes and small game. He is at East Arcadia, N. C.

New Signal Towers.

The new iron signal towers being erected along the New Jersey Central in this city are in position and the work of connecting them up and placing the signal boards on them will be pushed as rapidly as possible.

—Protect your home. Telephone service does it. The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company.

READY FOR BURIAL.

Remains of the One Unidentified Victim Placed in Casket.

The unidentified remains, which have been lying at the undertaking parlors of George C. Cole on West Second street since the wreck, have been prepared for burial and are now lying in a handsome casket. The few remaining articles of clothing, which were found on the body and which were not altogether consumed by the fire, which so horribly charred the remains of the victim, have been placed in the casket for identification purposes. No definite funeral arrangements have been made so far as it is thought that some one will appear who can positively identify the remains.

DEMOCRATIC BANQUET.

Democratic Club Plans for One for Jefferson Day.

A meeting of the Democratic Club was held in its headquarters on East Second street, Monday evening when important business was discussed. A committee, comprising: P. J. Reville, H. W. Marshall and Lewis Stover, was appointed to arrange for a banquet which will be held at the headquarters on Jefferson Day. Two sets of quoits have been purchased and a quoit pitching tournament is soon to be started.

J. J. Kane, Victor Troice and Harry Dilts comprise a committee on entertainment which was appointed at the last meeting and they were instructed to prepare some entertainment for the members once every month.

SUPPER BY MEN.

Brotherhood of First M. E. Church Plans for Friday Evening.

The Brotherhood of the First M. E. church is planning to hold a supper and entertainment in the church parlors Friday evening. The supper promises to be a novel one as the cooking and the waiting on the tables will be supervised and executed by the male members of the Brotherhood. The women of the church are invited to attend and the proceeds of the supper will be devoted to the various objects along the lines of work of the organization.

GOOD TALENT.

Will Take Part in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course Entertainment.

The Dunbar Handbell Ringers and Male Quartette Company will appear in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course, Monday evening, February 23. The company includes the handbell ringers with their magnificent peal of more than one hundred musical handbells, the Dunbar Male Quartette and Ralph Dunbar, 'cellist. The company will be assisted by Miss Evalina Benton, reader.

Piano Recital.

An event of more than unusual interest will be the piano recital to be given at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, by Miss Harriett Cady, who is well-known among music-lovers in this city. Miss Cady will be assisted by Raymond A. McGee, bass, of North Plainfield. The programme will be of exceptional merit, comprising classical selections from standard composers.

May Not Meet.

As Monday will be a holiday, it is doubtful whether the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will hold a meeting in the evening. There are a number of events scheduled for that night and the meeting may be postponed to a later date.

Photograph of Cadets.

An excellent photograph of Commandant James D. Macnab, Cadet Major Murphey, and the field and staff officers of the Plainfield High School Battalion has recently been taken and copies are now to be had of Quartermaster I. T. Koons.

Get After Them.

While there is a marked improvement in general regarding the cleaning of walks after a snow storm, the last storm shows that the city officials can with propriety get after some property owners.

Annual Musicale.

The fifth annual musicale under the auspices of the women of the Guild of the Church of the Heavenly Rest will be given in the parish house, Clinton avenue, Monday evening, February 23, at 8 o'clock.

Change of Date.

The Common Council will not meet until Tuesday evening, February 24, the preceding evening falling on a holiday. It was originally intended to meet Monday, but the date has been changed.

Second Reception.

The Nonpareil Social Club will give its second reception in Baumgarbud Hall, Tuesday evening, March 12.

ONE VIEW OF THE WRECK

ENGINEERING NEWS DRAWS CONCLUSIONS FROM IT.

The Last Issue of That Publication Sums Up the Testimony and Deductions.

The Engineering News, of which George H. Frost, of Watchung avenue, is the president, publishes an interesting article in its last issue by the way of comment concerning the recent railroad wreck at Westfield. This publication is an authority on civil, mechanical, mining and electrical engineering and what it has to say is of special importance. In part the article reads as follows:

"Sifting and analyzing all the testimony, probably what actually happened was this: The engine did blow steam from the front end sufficient to bother the engineer somewhat in reading the low pot-signals when running through the yards at Jersey City, and very likely an occasional puff would cloud the front windows of the cab, and make it difficult to see through them. The engineer did not see the train order signal pot out for him at the Cranford station, probably because he was not looking for it, it being unusual for a stop to be made by such a train for orders on a block-signaled road. He failed to make out the block-signal beyond Cranford when he passed it, and under the rules he ought to have at once checked the speed of his train, and kept a sharp lookout for the next signal, ready to come to a full stop before reaching it if it stood at danger. But on this long straight stretch of road the track is usually clear, and engineers are accustomed to make up time; an injector just then demanded attention, and the engineer got down in the cab to fix it. While so engaged he passed the home signal standing at danger and the flagman waving his red lantern at the crossing, and when he again looked ahead he was close on the rear of the standing train.

"The sum and substance of the cause of the disastrous Westfield collision, then, is disobedience to block signals by the engineer. The excuses for this disobedience are not important except as they shed light on the question, what can be done to make engineers implicitly obey signals, and never 'take chances' when a signal is not seen or is seen imperfectly. We see nothing better to be done than to continue the process of education and discipline—a progress which doubtless needs to be applied to many subordinate operating officials, and perhaps to not a few higher ones, as well as to the men who compose our engine crews."

HIGH SCORES.

Cranford Casino Captured Two Out of Three From the Roselle Casino.

Phenomenally high scores were rolled last evening by the bowling team of the Cranford Casino in the eleventh game in The Daily Press Bowling League last Tuesday against the Roselle Casino at Cranford. Cranford defeated the Roselle players by two games out of three in one of the most exciting series of the entire contest. Only once before has a score been rolled higher than that rolled last evening by the Cranfords, and that score was made by the Park team when they played with the Roselles in this city.

The teams and their individual scores were as follows:

CRANFORD CASINO.

	1st	2d	3d
Riffler	200	169	151
Greggett	179	134	208
Hummer	195	118	167
Littell	180	158	167
Sharp	200	190	164
	954	779	857

ROSELLE CASINO.

	1st	2d	3d
Howe	180	146	180
Kemp	156	160	146
Harris	140	—	—
Miller	151	146	179
Mulford	191	164	183
Westerberg	—	156	158
	818	782	845

Mr. Fisk in New York.

Immediately after the coroner's jury completed its work of investigating the causes for the wreck at Westfield, Charles J. Fisk, foreman of the jury, returned to his New York home. He will return to Plainfield in a few days to attend a meeting of the Board of Governors of the hospital.

New Passenger Coaches.

Additional new passenger coaches have recently been placed in the service by the New Jersey Central, replacing some of the old-style coaches.

—Fire department called by telephone. The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company.

NO IMMEDIATE HOPE OF TROLLEY EXTENSION

But Chandler Riker Says That Proposed South Plainfield Line is Feasible.

THE LINE MAY BE BUILT

VARIOUS QUESTIONS DISCUSSED BY BOARD OF TRADE.

Frank H. Smith Elected Secretary to Succeed Harry C. Runyon—Report of the "Repealer" Hearing—The Other Business.

Owing to the absence of several of its officers and the secretary, the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade, last Tuesday, was not as important as it otherwise would have been. The attendance of members was good and the enthusiasm exhibited of late was again in evidence.

The resignation of Secretary Harry C. Runyon, tendered at the previous meeting, was accepted and City Collector Frank H. Smith was elected to succeed him. The names of J. P. Homan, John Johnson, Fred Endress, Charles Jensen and Henry Hasrand were added to the membership list.

Speaking for the committee on trolley extensions and improvement of the service, Charles W. Runyon reported having a conference with Chandler Riker in which he stated his company, as well as others was awaiting developments in car manufacturing and equipment before making inroads in new territory. He expressed the opinion that the new route to South Plainfield, over the Maltby property, was feasible but would require much grading. He gave no hope of immediate action. In behalf of the business centre street lighting, Mr. Runyon reported progress.

President Woolston reported for the delegation sent to Trenton to appear against the "repealers" and told of its work. He concluded with a decided hope for favorable action and a greater Plainfield within the near future.

In regard to the question of keeping stores open evenings and abandoning the early closing movement, nothing was done beyond inducting the secretary to secure the views of the local merchants upon the subject.

A NEW LECTURE.

Animal Artist and Author Will Tell Something New.

Ernest Thompson Seton, the famous animal author and artist, will be heard in an absolutely new lecture entertainment entitled "The Indians as I Knew Them" next Monday afternoon, at the Casino. This will prove good news to the boys, as all boys like to play Indian. A big audience of Plainfield children will surely greet him on this occasion, for the little people have already become familiar with the native American Indian as Mr. Seton saw them through his publications. It will be hard to find a schoolboy who has not played Indian at some time in his career, and the opportunity for actual knowledge about the scenes they have played at will, without doubt, prove an irresistible attraction to the Plainfield boys. Mr. Seton's talk about the Indians is as fascinating to older people as to the children, and his illustrations taken from photographs of his own making of the scenes he has visited in acquiring his information about the American Indian have been highly praised as works of art.

Sale of seats for the Thompson Seton lectures is now in progress at Armstrong's pharmacy. The evening subject is "Animal Minds and Horns."

Death of Casimer Irving.

Casimer Irving, who is very well-known to many in North Plainfield and who formerly resided in that part of the town, but who was a resident of Iola, Kan., died there last week after a short illness. He was an uncle of Mayor and David Smalley, and when they were in the west a few weeks ago they visited at his home. He was a very prominent farmer. No details of the funeral arrangements have as yet been made.

Danced With Woodchoppers.

A large delegation of Plainfielders attended the dance which was held at Elizabeth, Monday evening. Some of those who went down left on the early train and expected to return on a special trolley car, but their plans were upset by the heavy fall of snow.

—The best of Rhode Island Greening and Baldwin apples, suitable for table or cooking are being disposed of by Neuman Brothers. Special prices.

LED A DOUBLE LIFE.

Col. Plant's Sudden Death Reveals Strange Doings.

Known as "Edmund Hall" in a Quiet English Village Where He Reared a Family — Two Plates on His Coffin.

A London cable to the New York Sun says that from the west of England there comes a strange story of the double life lived by a man without suspicion for more than 19 years, his neighbors, and even his own son, being ignorant of it till his sudden death revealed the truth.

Nineteen years ago there came to live in a house called the Old Grange, in the small Dorsetshire village of Oborne, Edmund Hall, an accountant by profession. He lived at Oborne with his wife and family for 19 years, during which period they gained the respect of the whole neighborhood.

Mr. Hall was a great bee fancier. On Monday, September 1, he drove with his little son to a neighboring farm in the village of Templecombe, where he took some hives of bees. Afterward he went to a farmhouse, and while taking tea with the wife and the farmer he suddenly fell dead of heart disease. No suspicions were aroused, although some surprise was expressed at the news that Mr. Hall would be buried on the following Saturday at Bristol, instead of in Oborne churchyard, where a son, 17½ years of age, who died in 1901, and a son 16 days old, who died in 1902, lie buried.

On Wednesday the Bristol newspapers announced the sudden death of Colonel Plant at the previous Monday at a small village near Templecombe of one of the most distinguished, best known and respected inhabitants of Bristol, Col. Edmund Carter Plant, C. B., who would be buried on Saturday in Bristol with full military honors. Some residents of Sherbourne, where Hall was well known, on seeing this noticed the strange coincidences of the date and the manner and cause of the two men's deaths. But the editor of the Sherbourne Post suspected something more. He made inquiries which convinced him as to the identity of Hall and Plant, but he was unable to prove his case. However, he did not lose sight of the body, which on Friday evening was taken to the station attended by a large number of sorrowing villagers, and was placed in the guard's van. The coffin plate was seen to be inscribed "Edmund Hall. Died September 9, 1902, aged 60 years."

CHANGED THE PLATES.

The Bristol undertaker entered the van with the coffin, but at the junction where the van was detached and coupled to another train this man changed to an ordinary carriage and when the train had arrived at Bristol the coffin plate was seen to be inscribed:

"Edmund Carter Plant, C. B., Colonel Bristol Engineers, died September 9, 1902, aged 60."

On Saturday the streets of Bristol were thronged with thousands of people anxious to see the funeral, which was the finest military spectacle the populace had seen since the late Queen Victoria visited the city. Those who Eight colonels acted as pallbearers. Thus this distinguished resident of Bristol was laid in the cemetery of the town beside his wife, who died in 1900, and to whom he was married in 1868.

Plant's career, from his boyhood, with the exception of the 19 years he lived at Oborne as Hall, is well known. He had lived at Bristol since 1861. According to "Who's Who, he was lieutenant colonel and colonel commanding of the Second Gloster volunteers, R. E. (the Bristol engineers). He passed through all the grades from sapper to colonel commanding.

No one can decide how the identity of their father revealed to their children at Oborne. "Mrs. Hall" knew, and but for the clumsy work of his legal advisers when they notified the newspapers of the colonel's death, the secret would never have been revealed. The mention of Templecombe gave the clew, however, and resulted in the exposure. The colonel's absence at Bristol or Oborne, "on business," never aroused the slightest suspicion.

The Wild Man of Borneo.

A professional "Wild Man of Borneo," named Darwin Bird, a negro, went to a hospital at Syracuse, N. Y., to have his horns removed. Under his scalp a silver plate had been ingeniously inserted, in which stood two standards. Into these standards, when he was on exhibition, Bird had screwed two goat's horns, and thousands of people have paid to see his horns and hear him talk.

CURIOUS GERMAN COLLIES.

New Breed of Dogs Whelped by Wolves That Are Superior for the Tending of Flocks.

German shepherds, having had difficulty in getting dogs that were not lazy and pampered, the German Collie club attempted to improve the breed. The best dogs in the country were collected and bred with wolves from the Ardennes, with the result that a stronger race of sheep dogs came into existence. Two specimens of these dogs have been brought to this country by Samuel W. Portyce, a St. Louis railroad man, who is a dog fancier. These dogs, says the New York Herald of recent date, are very much like the wolf in their appearance. They have the pointed ear, the keen eye and the restless ways of their wild ancestors. The elder of the two, Stella, is two years old and is of a tawny yellow color. Wolf is well-named, for he has all the characteristics of his namesake, a she wolf. He is nine months old. Both of the dogs have been trained to take care of sheep, and they can round up a flock in short order. Like the wolf, they refuse to sleep out in the daytime and never so happy as when circling around their charges at night.

Bringing of the specimens to this country was attended with difficulty. They were purchased from shepherds in the Ardennes Mountains, who were not inclined to part with them until a large sum had been offered, as they said that animals of any real value were scarce.

DESERT PLANT RESERVOIRS.

A Species of Cactus That Stores Up Water in a Stronghold Within Itself.

Many a traveler in desert lands, when in danger of dying from thirst, has been saved by the plant known as the water or flahhook cactus. During the moist season it stores up a large quantity of water for the subsequent dry one, when all the ground is parched with heat, and only channels filled with stones mark the course of former rivulets, says the Portland Telegram.

So well has this cactus provided for the safety of its precious liquid that it is no easy task to obtain it. The exterior skin is more impenetrable than the toughest leather, and, besides, it is protected with long wiry spines curved into hooks at the end, yet so strong and springy that if a large rock be thrown against them they remain uninjured. If the spines be burned off one may, by long and tedious effort, cut through the rind with a stout knife; otherwise nothing but an ax will enable him to get at the interior of this well-armored plant.

When the top is removed and a hollow made by scooping out some of the soft inner part, it immediately fills with water—cool and refreshing, though a blistering sun may have been beating upon the tough skin above it all day. The water when first obtained has a whitish or dusky tint, but when settled is as clear as crystal.

TATTOOING FOR HORSES.

Suggested as Better Than Branding as a Means of Identifying the Animals.

Owners of pure-bred registered animals are often bothered by the question of how best to mark them, to distinguish them in case they stray, and to establish their identity under any circumstances. The central experiment farm at Ottawa, Ont., suggests tattooing in place of the more usual branding. The branding iron not only frequently leaves an unsightly and disfiguring scar, but it fails to serve every purpose, since it indicates the owner rather than positively identifies the animal. The tag and button devices commonly used in the car are usually a source of annoyance, due to the aptitude they display for attaching themselves to everything they may be brought in contact with.

Various live stock associations, says the Springfield Republican, have devised at one time and another more or less ingenious, and less or more satisfactory methods to insure identification, but nearly all are open to the objection that they fail in a short time to serve the end in view.

Little German Bands.

Where do the "little German bands" come from? A writer in Blackwood's Magazine says: "Inhabitants of the north German state generally are of a roving disposition. Some are hawkers of Pirmasens, the brush dealers of Romberg and the showmen and peddlers of Karlsberg are to be met with all over the valley of the Rhine. But wherever they may be found in numbers and enterprise to the musikanten, of the Harts mountains, who have made the whole world their own. 'They are not so often seen on the continent as they formerly were, but they go to England, the Cape, Australia, the states, Canada, Brazil, Argentina, and one band has ventured as far as Chili. I have known of only two bands that did not come from this district. The one hailed from Paris, the other from Pforzheim, in Baden."

Honest New Zealanders.

The New Zealander is the universally honest. Nobody tries to steal from travelers. Hotel room doors are never locked; many have no locks. Hats, coats and valises are left around indiscriminately, and the owner always find their property where they put it. Neither does the waiter, nor the bell boy, nor the chambermaid hold up the traveler. They do everything asked of them, and do it cheerfully. As there are no indoor robbers, neither are there many highway robbers, and the percentage of murders is very small.

SOAP IN THE GINGERBREAD.

A Product of the Maine Forest Which Is Regarded by the Lumbermen as Very Good.

"Did ye ever eat hot gingerbread with soap in it?" asked Frank Brown, the old-time camp cook on the West Branch, who, according to the New York Sun, boasts that he has made more than 2,000 barrels of flour into cream of tartar bread in the course of 26 winters in the forest. "If ye never did ye'll, you don't know what's good.

"Why, a lumberman would no more think of eating gingerbread without soap into it than he would think of drinking new rum without molasses. They always go together—soap into the gingerbread and molasses into the rum, and both are just about as good as is made.

"My rule is to dissolve a hunk of hard soap as big as a hen's egg in a gallon of water, then pour in a gallon of molasses, a half pound of baking powder and stir in the flour until the dough will almost run. Then grease yer pans, slap in the mixture and chuck it into a red-hot oven.

"When it comes out all golden brown and full of sweet bubbles that smoke when you break them open—the man who won't eat such food isn't fit to live or die.

"You can't tell me that soap ginger-bread ain't fit to eat. I've eat it more than 25 years, and I'm jest as sound to-day as I was when I first tasted the food."

INCREASE IN SUICIDES.

Figures Collected by an Insurance Company Prove That Self-Murder Grows More Common.

In the Spectator, an insurance journal, the statistician of an insurance company gives an analysis of the suicide record for the year 1901. His figures are taken from 50 cities, and show an average slight increase over the ratio for the preceding decade of nearly one per cent., from 15.7 to 16.6 per 100,000 population. He estimates an approximate annual mortality by suicide of 10,000 in the country as a whole. The implied conclusion is that a further increase in the rate of suicidal tendency in the cities of this country may be expected during the next decade, and the suicide question, like action in fire insurance, is thus becoming more and more one of the most importance to life insurance companies.

He also gives another table showing the experience of one company for the last 35 years, dividing it into two periods, including males only, as the female suicide statistics are too insignificant to be tabulated. This shows a percentage of suicides in the total mortality of 2.4 in the later as compared with 1.9 in the earlier period. The age of suicide, it seems also to have lessened, as the suicides under 45 increased from 2.1 per cent. to 3.9 per cent in the later period, and there was an actual decrease of those in advanced life.

OUR SHOES IN MEXICO.

They Are Much Liked by the Natives, But the Prices Are Excessively High.

According to United States Consul Canada at Vera Cruz, trade conditions in that part of Mexico have undergone a great change within the past ten years, especially with respect to American shoes. In former years it was impossible to buy anything in Vera Cruz in the line of shoe leather except that of native stock and manufacture, and ready-made shoes for Americans were not to be had at all.

United States shoes have, however, within a very short time made a name for themselves, and, the consul says, were it not for the excessively high prices asked for them they would utterly drive all others out of the market. As it is, however, he adds, only the better classes can enjoy the luxury of our shoes, and the great mass of the people is debarred from that privilege. The principal reason for the high price of business is the high import duty and the fluctuations in the value of silver. The duty on the cheapest shoes is the same as on the finest productions.

GAVE A LARGE REWARD.

He Thought the Restorer and the Young Hero Who Received the Money.

"The following story will illustrate a number of things," said the Detroit ship owner who narrated it, "but chiefly will it show how the value of money varies with the supply.

"A boy was telling me of his prowess as a swimmer. He could dive, too.

"'Once,' said he, 'I dived down to the bottom of the river and pulled a little boy out.'

"'Bravo!' said I.

"'An' I tell you,' he continued, 'his pa was glad! He give me a dollar-an'-a-quarter.'

"Both the father and the hero live in a neighborhood the occupants of which are sometimes known as 'wharf rats'—the neighborhood or the docks. I have no doubt," concluded the ship owner, according to the Detroit Free Press, "that the dollar-and-a-quarter was as large to the man as to the boy."

Imprisoned for Yawning.

A Japanese M. P., Mr. Tanka by name, has been sentenced to 15 days' confinement and a fine of ten shillings for yawning in parliament. The crown prosecutor maintained that in an assembly where order has to be maintained, even an act of a physiological nature should be controlled. As the defendant, however, had yawned in order to annoy, he was guilty. The defense was even more punishable.

DECISION TO STAND.

Uncle Sam Will Abide by the Ruling of King Oscar.

History of Controversy Which Had Its Origin in Far-Off Samoa and Now Has Been Settled at Stockholm.

The ruling of King Oscar of Sweden and Norway, in the Samoan controversy, agreed to by the United States and Great Britain and in favor of Germany, is hailed with some surprise by many papers. The decision is staggering, to put it mildly," declares the Brooklyn Eagle; and the New York Tribune says it is "surprising and inexplicable." The decision holds that the landing of marines on April 1, 1899, at Apia was not justified, and that, in consequence, the governments of Great Britain and the United States must pay the complainants for their loss. How the division of payment between the United States and Great Britain will be made does not seem to be known in the state department, but it is believed that it may have to be arranged by a special agreement between the two countries. The origin of the controversy is told briefly in the following paragraph taken from the New York Tribune:

"The dispute now decided grew out of the concerted action of Rear Admiral Kautz, of the United States navy, and Capt. Sturdy, of the British navy, in leading a combined American and British force at Apia on April 1, 1899, for the purpose of making a reconnoissance and breaking up Mataafa's supporters, who were in rebellion against the recognized government. It was on this occasion that Philip Landsdale, the executive officer of the Philadelphia, Ensign J. R. Monaghan and two enlisted Americans, and Lieut. Freeman and two British sailors were killed. Surgeon Lung, now President Roosevelt's physician, was the medical officer of the landing party. The United States ship Badger was promptly sent to the scene, carrying an international commission composed of Bartlett Tripp, representing the United States; Baron von Sternberg, the German commissioner, and C. N. Elliott, the British commissioner. Claims amounting to nearly $30,000 were filed by German, French, British and American residents on account of damages caused by the landing party. As the chief result of the investigations of the commission, the tripartite agreement of 1889 was abrogated, the islands being divided between the United States and Germany, while Great Britain withdrew. A convention was signed at Washington on November 7, 1899, submitting the claims of Samoan residents to the king of Sweden and Norway for arbitration, the main questions being whether the military action of the United States and Great Britain had been warranted."

KING OSCAR OF SWEDEN.
(From a Recent Photograph, Taken While in Full Court Costume.)

"The sum is insignificant," remarks the New York Times, "but the position taken by the king of Sweden and the principles which appear to have guided his judgment would be of the more serious importance if they were to be considered as establishing a precedent." "The United States will take its own medicine, even though the flavor be unpleasant," comments the New York Tribune. It adds: "In the whole history of international arbitration the United States has fared no ill that it can easily afford to accept with good grace the minor defeat. There will be no begrudging Germany her victory, any more than there will be in Germany any doubt of the good faith of the United States."

When a Man Is Drunk.

An English magistrate has added another to the many judicial dicta on the subject of how to test whether a man is drunk or sober. "Were you drunk?" asked counsel of a witness in a case at Norwich. "Well, I knew what I was doing," replied the witness. "Ah," interrupted the recorder, "when a man is drunk and knows that he is drunk he is sober, but when he is drunk and does not know that he is drunk, then he is drunk, indeed."

Justice Married Himself.

Justice of the Peace Henry Bundy, of Jersey City, recently married Mrs. Mary Becker, and the ceremony was performed before a mirror. The bridegroom officiated as the justice, and, looking in the glass, asked the usual questions of his own reflection, and answered them himself. Then he pronounced the couple man and wife, pressed the bride twice, once for the justice, and once for the groom, and then started on his honeymoon trip.

MORTGAGE 100 YEARS OLD.

A Philadelphia Incumbrance That So One Has Ever Sought to Satisfy.

A sale of property at 213 Fitzwater street was recently made, and in going back over the old records it was discovered that a mortgage which antedated the administration of President Washington was still an incumbrance on the property, says a Philadelphia report. The paper was executed by James Clow and wife a consideration named was 233 1-3 Spanish milled dollars, a coin which was the standard of value during the revolutionary period. The value of the milled dollar exceeded by a few cents the value of the silver dollar now in use.

McCall transferred the mortgage in the year 1794 to John Houck, and it does not appear on the records again. The attorney for the petitioner has served notice of advertisement on Houck or his heirs to appear in the court of common pleas No. 1 on December 1, and show cause, if any exist, why the mortgage should not be satisfied by an order of the court. It is not probable that the heirs will appear, but the legal formula must be gone through with before the title may be perfected.

Even if any of Mr. Houck's heirs should appear in court it would be necessary if they designed making a valid claim for money due, to show that the debt had been recognized during the past 20 years. A payment of interest or part of the principal is the best evidence of such acknowledgment, but the record of any payment having been made for more than 100 years.

OLD PEOPLE WHO WORK.

World-Famed Celebrities Who Still Keep Busy Although Over the Fourscore.

It is needless to call upon history to prove the usefulness and richness that may attend the lives of those who have passed their three score years and ten, says Will Carleton's Magazine, Every Where. The venerable Gladstone did the thinking and much of the speaking for the government of one of the mightiest empires of the world, almost up to the day of his death. Pope Leo, at the age of 91, carries the burdens of a worldwide church, and Herbert Spencer at six score and eight feeds the news and literature of the world and recreates therefrom an immortal philosophy. In our own land the sturdy Senator Morrill and Evarts, the jurist, worked out their problems of life almost up to the very hour when they were called to higher fields of effort; and to-day ex-Senator Bradbury, of Maine, aged 95, and Senator Pettus, of Alabama, at 81, are busy with the affairs of the world.

The venerable David Wark, the "father of the Canadian senate," performs the duties of his high office at the remarkable age of 97, and Verdi still composed music at the age of 87. There are few truer or more persistently active minds in the world of finance than that of Russell Sage, who recently celebrated his eighty-seventh birthday, while King Christian of Denmark actively administers the affairs of state at the age of 85, and Julia Ward Howe, though 83, writes books that sell, and gives lectures that people are eager to hear.

OKLOHOMAS CUT THEIR HAIR.

Young Men of the Tribe Are Fast Discarding Many of Their Aboriginal Ways.

The blending of the customs of the red men and the palefaces is discussed in a report recently sent to Washington by Maj. George W. H. Stouch, United States army, the agent in charge of the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indian reservation in Oklahoma. As the views of an authority on the subject, the report, reviewed by the Washington Star, throws interesting sidelights on what is actually taking place in the amalgamation of the two races. Maj. Stouch says:

"Many of the older Indians adhere to their religious customs, yet they do not indulge in them to any alarming or detrimental extend. By moral suasion and friendly advice a number of the young Indians have been prevailed upon to discontinue the wearing of long hair.

"Much strenuous effort has been put forth to induce the old Indians, who have worn long hair all their days, to shear their locks, as to compel them to cut their hair would be very bad policy and would do more harm than good. The loss of their hair would make the old fellows weak, humiliated and cowed characters out of what are now strong and leading spirits."

She Fears Cats.

For 21 years Lizzie Cunningham, of New York, dislocates her jaw every time a cat approaches her. When she was 19 years old she was attacked by a cat, and since then every time she sees a cat running toward her she opens her mouth to scream and is unable to close it again.

Russian Aeroplanes.

Aeroplanes, known as "Flying Dragoons," are now in use in the Russian fleet. Several of these kites bound together support a car in the air. Considerable heights are thus reached, and the invention is admirably adapted for scouting.

English Women Artisans.

In Worcestershire, 400 women are engaged in making anchors, while 700 others make needles and fish gaff. Nearly all are either married women or widows.

BEAUTIFUL TROPICAL FISHES.

Many Fine Specimens Gathered in the Bermudas for the Aquariums of All Lands.

The collection of tropical fishes for various aquariums throughout the world, and especially for the American aquariums, is now a recognized industry in the Bermudas, says the Philadelphia Press.

It is carried on at all seasons, though for obvious reasons the fish are shipped north only in the summer months. As there are more than 150 varieties of fish in Bermudan waters, and every variety is found in abundance, it is not a difficult problem to secure good specimens. Only a few varieties reach this country, for the reason that tropical fish, as a rule, are unable to stand the trials of transportation. The ones on exhibition are the finest that can be caught.

The native fishermen go far and wide in search of specimens, for the aquarium will pay only for the best.

Possibly the most voracious fish they have to deal with are the groupers and morays. The groupers have peculiar habits. During the month of June, which is their spawning or "snapping" season, they gather at two spots on the south coast, known as "grouper grounds," and rarely are caught elsewhere.

Not many tropical fish are as ferocious as the moray, but most of the larger varieties are truly sporting fish.

WORKING IN THE DARK.

Discomforts of Mining Before the Invention of a Lamp Suitable for Underground Use.

The difficulties under which coal mining operations were carried on before the scientist Davy had invented his safety lamp must have been very great, says Pearson's. The only alternative the medieval miner had to pitch darkness was the phosphorescent gleam from dried fish. The miner's implements, originally of stone or hard oak, gradually improved; but he was forced to work in almost complete darkness until Sir Humphrey Davy by his remarkable invention enabled him to light his way through the tunnels he had excavated with comparative safety, says a mining journal.

Agricola, an author who wrote about the middle of the sixteenth century, has left an elaborate treatise on coal mining as it was practiced during the middle ages. From this we learn that the hornpin, which survives to the present day in some of the mining districts of Great Britain and northern Europe, was the engine chiefly employed both for lifting the coal and for getting rid of the water. This latter object was also sometimes effected by means of pumps turned by windmills or by tunnels driven with great labor to an outlet at a lower level.

AUTOCARS IN ENGLAND.

There Is a Strict Enforcement of the Law to Make Owners Regardful of Others.

In one respect, at least, the persecution of the automobilists is indirectly serving a useful purpose, reports London Truth. The majority of the victims belong to a class which has hitherto had little sympathy with the discontent of humbler folks at the quality of justices' justice. Now that the wealthy motorist is coming into personal contact with this kind of justice, he is beginning to revise his opinions. He sees that policemen are capable of making mistakes and even of deliberate misstatements, and that magistrates often exhibit the grossest incompetence and allow their judgments to be swayed by the most stupid prejudices.

It then occurs to the motorist that poachers and other delinquents may sometimes have equally good cause to complain of police evidence and magisterial bias, and so he comes finally to the conclusion that the administration of the law, by the Great Unwashed after all, not undeserving of the contumely that has so long been poured upon it.

LINES IN MAPLEWOOD.

The Only Way to Find the Bird's-Eye Is to Cut Into the Tree.

Nobody seems to know what cause it is which produces those delicate and beautiful lines in maple, known as bird's-eye. Some people think they come from the cutting off of little branches which shoot out over the trunk of the tree as soon as a clearing is made around it. Expert timbermen say that is not the case. The only way to tell a bird's-eye maple tree is to cut it. There are no outward signs by which one can judge. The Railroad Gazette tells a story of the late George M. Pullman. Many years ago he was offered a mahogany log for $3,000, to be cut into veneers. It was supposed to be a very fine log, but no one else could only be determined by cutting it. He declined the offer, but agreed to take the log cut into veneers for what it was worth. The owner had it sawed and was paid $7,000 for his veneers. Anyone who can discover the secret of determining the interior nature of wood from the outside will have a fortune.

Feast on Butterflies.

Millions of butterflies are eaten every year by the Australian aborigines. The insects congregate in vast quantities on the rocks of the Bugong mountains, and the natives secure them by kindling fires of damp wood, and thus suffocating them. Then they are gathered in baskets, baked, sifted to remove the wings, and finally pressed into cakes.

MOSBY WAS PLUCKY.

Guerrilla Leader Talks About Some of His War Doings.

Tells of Sending a Lock of His Hair to President Lincoln—Latter Enjoyed the Jest and Laughed About It.

John S. Mosby, well known as the commander of a guerrilla band in the service of the confederacy during the war of the states, and who is now a special employe of the department of the interior, showed a willingness to talk about his wartime experiences to a Washington Star reporter a day or two ago. The latter inquired into the truth of a story that he had entered Alexandria in disguise and had engaged in some daredevil trick.

"Oh, that story is all nonsense," said Col. Mosby. "I never went to a place in disguise in my life. These stories arose because of the rapid movements of my command. Why, there is an official telegram on file in the war department, stating that I was in Washington in conference with Wilkes Booth the night of the killing of President Lincoln. It is needless to say that the statement was known to be false by most of the federal generals.

"Yes, I frequently got close to Washington during the war. Many a time I would ride up to the hill up yonder across the Potomac and look down upon the city. I might have one or two men with me, and we would soon disappear. Just over on the Virginia side early one morning I met Mrs. Barlow on her way into Washington with a wagon full of vegetables. Her husband was a federal soldier and she was a northern woman. She had a pass to go in and out of Washington and drove into the city often from her farm. I used to go to her house often and get a good cup of coffee. Of course, she gave it to us, knowing that we rather had charge of things along on that side of the river. Well, on this particular morning Mrs. Barlow had a pair of scissors hanging from her apron. After I had talked with her awhile I said:

COL. JOHN S. MOSBY.
(Famed During the War as a Daredevil Guerilla Leader.)

"'Mrs. Barlow, lend me your scissors.'

"She handed them to me, and I reached up to my head, got hold of a bunch of hair, cut it off and said: 'Mrs. Barlow, please take this lock of my hair right in to Lincoln, and say to him that I am coming in to see him soon and will expect a lock of his hair in return.' She looked much puzzled, but she said she would do it.

"I found out afterward that she rode straight to the white house and gave the hair to the president personally, refusing to give it to anyone else. The president was amused and laughed heartily. No, I was not afraid to do this, because I knew that at no time the president could attempt to catch me I would be 30 miles away. President Lincoln never made an attempt to catch me, because he knew that I would be somewhere else when his men arrived. Many people took information of me into Washington for the purpose of trying to bring about my capture.

"I covered the entire south side of the Potomac for many miles each way, and the largest number of men I had in 1864, when Sheridan was in the Shenandoah valley, was five troops of cavalry, a total of 250 men. With that command we captured all the arms we needed, all the ammunition, food and clothing, and had a wagon train running to Lee's army frequently with supplies we had captured. No, I was never a general. I was a private in the First Virginia cavalry for the first two years after the war, and began raising my command after that time, beginning with one troop of cavalry. Each man was armed with two pistols and a saber. We had no carbines."

Some Long-Lived Popes.

But two popes have lived longer than the present occupant of the fisherman's throne. St. Agatho, who died at the age of 107 in 682, and Gregory IX., who died in 1241 at the age of 99 years. The list of those who have surpassed the reign of Leo XIII. is longer, and is headed by St. Peter, who reigned (33 to 68) 34 years 6 months and 17 days; Adrich I. (771-795) 24 years 10 months and 17 days; Alexander III. (1151-1181), 20 years 11 months and 22 days; and Pius IX. (1846-1878), 31 years 7 months and 22 days.

Difficult Reading Matter.

Of the 400 inscribed clay slabs found in the ruins of Babylon by the expedition sent out by the German Oriental society, but two have yet been deciphered, one explaining the Babylonian cuneiform characters and the other containing the litany chanted by the singers of the temple of Esagila on the return of the god Marduk to his sanctuary.

New Woman Happenings Here and There

MRS. ADA LANDON HAND has the distinction of being, I believe, the only woman leader and proprietor of a men's orchestra. She and her orchestra furnish music for balls, concerts and all kinds of entertainments in New York city and its vicinity. In her girlhood the lady was an accomplished pianist. Her strong point was and is her versatility. She can render a piano solo or a "coon song," accompany a prima donna in opera or play dance music with equal facility. Some years ago Mrs. Hand was left a widow with four little boys to support. Music was her first love, and to it she turned for a living. When she was only four years old, she had begun piano playing and did not leave it off when she was married. When widowed, therefore, she faced the future with her four boys around her and only her dauntless will and her knowledge of music between all of them and homelessness or dependence on charity. At first she taught piano music and played for evening entertainments wherever she could get engagements. She was also pianist for an orchestra. Then she determined to have an orchestra of her own. She was known and highly respected by members of the musical union. The system she devised is an elastic one. She obtains an engagement for an orchestra of a given number of players, from five to twenty-five, as is wanted. Then from other orchestras and from the musical union she engages here and there the desired quota, and thus the count is made up. She herself does not usually conduct the orchestra in person, because she is the pianist of the company. She has had a hard struggle, the hardest part of it against that prejudice which ever tries to stamp out women in a new field, but she is overcoming that. It is pleasant to record that here is one woman with practically perfect health, and that is an immeasurable help to her.

* *

Says the editor of the New York Evening Journal, "The man who is surly to his typewriter and indifferent to her feelings will be surly to his wife and indifferent to her feelings."

* *

For generations men and women artists have painted from the nude in the same classes in Paris, and nothing evil has been thought of it. Lately a private studio was opened in Berlin in which the same practice was inaugurated. The German police interfered and demanded either the closing of the studio or the separation of the art students along the sex line. The edict was obeyed for awhile. Then matters slid back as they had been, and the students painted in the same class. The preceptor was of the highest rank; the students were men and women without exception. The authorities must have been aware of the infraction of their order, the studio was not interfered with.

* *

I am sick of people who always know what other people ought to do.

* *

The greatest misfortune in life is to be born lackadaisical, so that one can never become enthusiastically interested in anything.

* *

Most of us are the result of our own and our parents' mistakes.

* *

The real lady never says behind your back what she would not say to your face.

* *

There is a Greek legend to the effect that once a man asked Jupiter to change him to a woman awhile so he could see how it would go. Jupiter allowed his request and changed him accordingly. After he had been a woman for a time Jupiter asked him how he liked it. He replied that he would like to be a woman always. Thus there is only one man on record who preferred to be a woman, and he, alas, is nothing but a myth!

* *

Not long ago the Women's Single Tax league of New York gave a banquet to Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox. It was a notable gathering of brainy women and men. One of the speakers was that brave and brilliant southern girl, Kate Gordon. In her speech at the banquet she said, "The new woman to me is progress personified." Just so. The time has come when to be called a new woman is an honor.

* *

The most ridiculous affair that has come under my ken recently is the marriage of a widow whose grown son "gave her away" at the wedding. She was rich, had reared that son and supported him all his life, yet he had to "give her away" when she married again.

* *

Charlotte Perkins Gilman says that only in the human species is the female inferior to the male, and this is woman's own fault for not cultivating her powers. Further, Mrs. Gilman says that a man can run, but that a "woman can only waggle a little way." Splendid! Say some more, Charlotte!

* *

Lately a woman made a large gift to a male students' college. A daily paper near by heralded the deed and published a fine picture—of the woman who gave the generous donation? No, indeed! An imposing halftone of the doctor of divinity who is president of the college. The woman herself was nowhere and nobody.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

NEW THINGS.

Wide Belts—Blue Serge Suits For Mornings.

Blue serge smartly trimmed with braid is much in request for morning wear, and little pouched vests embroidered and lavishly adorned with lace accompany these gowns, which are frequently made with that type of bolero which can be worn both open and closed.

Many of the blouse coats have short, square tails, and the revers turn back all around the neck and fronts of equal depth and have cuffs equally corresponding in style. The sack coat, reaching barely to the hips or quite level to the waist, is a favorite model, and the sleeves are all large and drawn into some species of wide cuff.

THE LATEST CHEMISE.

Belts are now of great importance, and there are wide ones for the fall, soft blouses of flannel crape or oriental silk and narrow ones excessively elongated in front to wear with the waists which have closely fitted backs and for the blouse coat, which is usually worn with a narrow waistband.

An up to date chemise is here shown. The fullness is held in as far down as the waist.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

ODDS AND ENDS.

The New Belts Have Artistic Buckles—Petticoats.

Many of the new wide belts have exquisite buckles set with stones or in the art nouveau style with just a few cabochons of turquoise or jade, and these buckles are arranged at the back and correspond with the chatelaine purse worn in front.

These accessories are very pretty on a tailor made suit and are most useful on black or gray gowns.

Petticoats grow more and more elaborate, and ivory wash silk plentifully adorned with soft washing lace is very modish with afternoon gowns, or pale colored silk forms the petticoat worn with tailor costumes.

FLORAL GARNITURES.

Petticoats of rich brocade are shown for evening wear and to use as tea gowns.

The latest boudoir shoes are of brocade with handsome buckles and very high heels.

The cut shows a floral garniture of chrysanthemums and maiden hair fern.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Bella's Ideal.

Ella—Is Bella a girl of high ideals?

Stella—I guess so; she's engaged to a six footer.

MIDWINTER MILLINERY.

Models Composed of Parma Violets. Pale Tinted Felts.

Delightful models are made up with parma violets and their leaves. Equally fetching combinations are of gray felt with cream tinted roses or of white felt trimmed with pink roses and a chine scarf. The fur and lace picture hats are quite irresistible.

There are a good many novelties in headgear at this time of the year. Even in this cold weather we are wearing crowns of reched tulle, and, while for some time fruits and nuts made of velvet have been the rage, women are now beginning to adopt vegetables, and radishes are not being discarded.

PRACTICAL SKIRT WAIST.

Hats, muffs and pelerines made for weddings and gay occasions are often made of satin and chiffon.

Blues and greens were always worn by young people, but now that white hair has become the fashion light blue can be worn with impunity by elderly women who have a touch of pink in their cheeks. Those whose figures are well developed should abstain from light shades altogether.

The picture shows a smart shirt waist which can be carried out either in silk or flannel.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FANCY DRESS.

Chic Effects In Brocades and Quaint Satins.

At this season of the year there are sure to be many fancy dress parties. Some of these take the form of small dances. Last year there was a craze for fancy dress dinners, and this gave greater scope, as far as dress was concerned.

Naturally there are many classical frocks and draperies which look charming at a dinner, but which are rather impractical for dancing.

Perhaps the prettiest costumes are those of the Louis period, for so many people look their best poudre. There is a decided fancy for brocades just now; consequently if you go to a fancy dress ball as a lady of the French court you will be able to use your brocade afterward.

A SMART FUR SET.

If a thick brocade is utilised, hardly any lining is needed, and it forms a very decided change from the limp fabrics which we are using at present and are likely to use for some time.

Old English and French brocades look extremely well in a brilliantly lighted hall, and with such a costume can be worn the coy single ringlet in the coiffure.

The cut shows a smart boa and muff of gray fox. The hat is of gray velvet and fur.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

POPULAR IN MEXICO.

Gen. Bernardo Reyes, Secretary of War of the Republic.

Should President Diaz Decline a Reelection He Would Be Chosen Chief Executive Almost Unanimously.

In two years the term of Porfirio Diaz as president will expire, and it is given out as an absolute certainty that he will then leave public life. Diaz is now past 70 years of age.

This announcement leads to the question: Who will succeed Diaz? There are numerous politicians who are eager to enter the race for the nomination. But the man who occupies the presidential chair will have to be a protege of the Diaz party, which is a powerful organization of reformers. The party has held absolute sway in Mexico since 1876, when Diaz squelched the last serious rebellion.

The knowing politicians have already picked out the man whom they say Diaz will support. He is Gen. Bernardo Reyes, the present secretary of war. In almost every respect Reyes is a second Diaz. He is a self-made man. He has shown himself to be dauntless in battle. He never forgives an enemy and never goes back on a friend. Reyes is strongly opposed to gambling in any form, or drinking. So is Diaz. Between them they have succeeded in checking, to a large extent, the gambling and drinking in the Mexican army.

Reyes has devoted his life to the interests of his country. Before he was 16 years old he ran away from home to fight the French when they invaded Mexico. He took part in all the succeeding struggles and was promoted to his present rank for bravery on the field.

Reyes is more popular in the state of Nuevo Leon than in any other part of Mexico. He has spent most of his life here and has helped this state in many ways. Reyes was born in Guadalajara, in the state of Jalisco, on August 20, 1850. His parents were the descendants of a distinguished Spanish family that settled in Jalisco during the eighteenth century.

GEN. BERNARDO REYES.
(Porfirio Diaz' Probable Successor as President of Mexico.)

When he was seven years old Bernardo was sent to one of the public schools in the city, and after he had acquired a knowledge of arithmetic, reading and writing he entered a higher institution of learning. As a scholar young Reyes was quiet, performed his work diligently and rose rapidly. Although a goodly lad, he never mixed up in the quarrels among his associates, and owing to this they soon began to look upon him as a coward.

One day a lad who had vanquished the best fighters in the school and, elated over his success, was seeking more trouble, approached young Reyes.

"You act so old and mannish that I would like to whip you," said the bully. Reyes wheeled about and faced him, but did not reply.

"I think the first thing I will do will be to kick you, and then, if you want to fight, we'll have it out, but I don't believe you've got any fight in you," he continued. Young Reyes didn't wait to be kicked. He first smashed the bully in the face, knocking him down; then he jumped upon him and began punching until he yelled for mercy.

The same policy has always been pursued by Reyes the man. If anyone tries to assail his methods he strikes back quick and hard.

Gen. Reyes gained his great popularity in the state of Nuevo Leon in an odd way. In 1885 a revolution over local elections broke out in the state and Diaz called upon him to stop the trouble. Reyes hastened to Monterey, silenced the disturbers within a few days, and then reported to Diaz. The president of the republic was so pleased over this that he appointed the general military governor of the state, a position he held until 1895.

During this time the people of Nuevo Leon had become so attached to Reyes that a delegation of prominent men begged him to run for office. He was made a citizen of the state and was elected governor by an overwhelming majority. He held this office until two years ago, when he was appointed secretary of war.

Bananas for the World.

Last year 60 ocean-going steamers were engaged exclusively in the banana trade.

King Edward's Daily Mail.

Three thousand newspapers and 1,000 letters are received by King Edward every day.

MODES FOR THE FAIR.

Something About the New Materials, Gowns and Waists.

Of all the old fashioned dress stuffs nothing is daintier or prettier than challie. The manufacturers have evidently thought so, for the stores are full of the material in over 400 different designs. Some of them have the satin stripe over the surface, the latter having the pattern of tiny bouquets or single flowers. Others have crossbars of the satin stripe in different colors over the design, and others, again, have simply the floral design without stripes, but instead delicate weaving, like lace. But, no matter what the design is or its complications, the soft and flexible quality of the challie remains. Perhaps the most attractive of all the designs is that in which the old pompadour figure is used. We see the challies in every shade and color of this season, some dark and some even with black groundwork. But the dainty and pretty flowers are perfect, each after its kind, looking like tiny roses or other blossoms. Among the designs brought out in the challies are, besides the floral patterns, Persians, dresdens and spanish on light or dark grounds. Some of the challies have a regular crape twist, which makes them hang like china crape. They are to be made into tea gowns as well as other house dresses, and it is even said that they will be among the best liked of summer frocks. Lace and ribbon are needed to make them all that one could wish.

PRETTY NEW WAISTS.

Speaking of tea gowns reminds me that there is a great revival in the popularity of these graceful if somewhat careless garments. I mean that the tea gowns are rather negligee, though they cost enough to be full dress, with diamonds thrown in. They are long and long and somehow create the idea that the wearer is making herself comfortable, and we all know that no woman has the right to do that "in company." Still, the tea gown is here and will stay.

*The tea gowns of this season are in*differently of surah, liberty, voile, crepe de chine, poplin, albatross cloth, cashmere, drap d'ete, panne, chiffon over silk, challie and india silk. Billows of lace are placed wherever the fertile mind of a dressmaker can imagine it, and there are insets, applications and more ways and kinds of lace trimmings than I can remember. All the skirts are made into such flutts of ruffles with ruches of chiffon on the edges that the bottom sets out in the most approved fashion. Ribbon is put on in many ways, even to being added in the form of "love knots" at one shoulder or another.

Most of the very fine tea gowns are of china crape in pink, blue or some of the delicate pastel shades which are back among this season's colors. Many have Irish crochet lace boleros, and others show deep sailor collars of fine mousseline with an overlay of rich lace. Others have deep yokes made of heavy renaissance lace, and, in fact, one can have anything one wants in the line of tea gowns. Only the long, loose shape is preserved.

Shirt waists and other separate waists are still with us and are likely to remain. Generally speaking, they do not vary much from those of last year. The principal thing to note about them is the exceedingly ugly and awkward sleeve. All the sleeves are built more or less on the same lines and are cumbersome and baggy at the bottom and made snug at the top. Most often this is done by having the top laid in tucks or folds. A few years ago we had the "leg o' mutton" sleeves, and they were very ugly, but they only interfered with the comfort of your neighbor, while these bother the wearer most miserably. They get into the soup and catch on everything and are not even pretty. Can any one account for the vagaries of women's fancies? I cannot.

Plaid silk is quite a fad for waists, and the woman whose wardrobe lacks a plaid silk shirt waist is indeed to be commiserated. All plaid silk or woolen waists require a little dark velvet as finish to tone down the warring colors.

A new and dainty evening corsage for a young lady is made to match the rest of the dress, although it is removable. It is made of white dotted silk mull over pale blue. There are flat bands of ribbon to match the under color and narrow ribbons of the same shade to define the bands. A half wreath of pink roses crosses the front. The whole design is very girlish.

A pretty liberty waist is laid in folds, and there is a sailor collar of Irish point on batiste. These collars are generally made removable, so that they can be worn with any dress. Boleros are made in the same way.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

FASHIONABLE COLORS.

Fancy Whites—Mulberry Red Is Much Worn In Paris.

White cloth and white crepe de chine edged with mink or chinchilla and worn with beautiful Italian lace make extremely becoming and exclusive house frocks, by which is meant a warm tone of ivory. Blue white is seldom becoming, although it suits a few, but at best it looks rather cold and comfortless.

Dull mulberry red will be worn a great deal for street wear later, especially in headgear. In Paris crimson tones have taken the place of sapphire blues and greens. Presently no doubt this mulberry shade will be ousted by purple and light gray, which two colors are always beloved by Parisians during the Lenten season.

ACCORDION PLAITED CHIFFON BLOUSE.

Gray is a very trying color and should be made up very softly, with perhaps a suggestion of a warmer tone. It should always be trimmed with lace.

The dainty evening blouse here shown is of accordion plaited chiffon over satin. The collarless neck is encircled by a yoke of lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

EVENING COLORS.

Smart Touches of Yellow—Prevalence of Spangles.

Evening dresses this year are exceptionally beautiful. There is a great feeling for orange the exact shade of the marigold, a flower that plays its part a good deal in the most dainty gowns for full dress.

The bouquets of yellow blossoms which are introduced accentuate hints of yellow in other parts of the gown. Many of the thin materials have a foundation of gold or silver cloth, and touches of flowers or of petals of some tone help to give that necessary importance to the hem of the skirt without which the gown is not a success.

GOWN OF PALE BLUE TAFFETA.

There is certainly no sign of our getting away from paillettes, but there is a great art and secret in the way in which they are disposed.

Beautiful dresses, princess style, are made like coats of mail, the sequins overlapping each other. In these coat of mail dresses above the hem there is generally a lace flounce handsomely paletted falling over a lot of frills.

A recent French creation in pale blue taffeta is here shown.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Where He Got His Accent.

"Hello, Mulcahey! Well, well! How are you?"

"Clever, old chap; quite clever. I'm jolly well glad to see you too. And how have you been?"

"Say, Tim, chop it! Where in blazes have you been; over in London for a year? Where did you get that accent, eh?"

"Oh, I haven't been away, you know. Have I an accent, really?"

"Oh, drop it, Tim. What are you doing?"

"I am demonstrator in an automobile establishment."

"O-o-o! I understand."—Motor World.

FOR PRESENT WEAR.

Dainty Hats—Shading and Walking Costumes.

Headgear is distinctly smart at the present moment. In fact, it has seldom known such variety. It does much to relieve the monotony of winter garb. White and pink camellias are still the rage for decorating fur and beaver hats, and these will continue the favorite form of millinery during the next few weeks.

Some of the leading French houses are turning their attention toward skating frocks. For this purpose and also that of walking suits white, black and sable colored sibeline skirts are most useful worn with jackets to match, or, better still, with a fur bolero of the same shade. Zibeline is almost as warm as fur and therefore makes an admirable material of which to make skirts to wear with fur coats.

EVENING COAT.

White zibeline is used for reception frocks and will do duty later on in the sunny south. It fulfills every requirement for a smart winter frock. It is suggestive of lightness combined with warmth. The rage for white is not abating in the least, and the best frocks are in white and gray.

The evening coat in the cut is of panne velvet, with a lining of white satin and rich applications of lace and chiffon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR EVENING WEAR.

Fluffy and Elaborate Skirts—Up to Date Trimmings.

Many elegant and costly ball gowns are made of fine silk net resembling tulle, and there are many frills run with drawn ribbon.

The frilly skirt is the chief favorite for dance gowns, and motifs of lace are also used to powder the skirt and to head the frillings. Stripes of lace and ribbon alternate with grouped tucks on some skirts and usually finish with tassels or bows falling loose over flounces of the same description.

Lace embroidery and ribbon, with the inevitable flowers, are the chief adornments of the evening toilet, but Parisians are again using fringe in small quantities, and applique motifs of lace and velvet are much in favor. The pointed train is no longer seen, but skirts are long all around, and often the entire back appears of one depth.

WAIST OF ORIENTAL SATIN.

Evening wraps are extremely smart, and the most elaborate are of satin or brocade lavishly appliqued with lace and trimmed with ruched plaitings of chiffon.

Frills of lace of the guipure type on net are very effective on coats of silk or satin, and the loose sack paletot form is much in demand.

The waist in the illustration is of oriental satin trimmed with heavy guipure lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY,

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. ... Proprietor

OUR STRANGER-DEAD.

"REQUIESCAT IN PACE."

How shall we bury our stranger-dead,
Left in our midst alone,
Shall we give none but official care,
A shroud, a grave and a stone?
Fathers and Mothers! somebody's child
Lies at our doors unclaim'd,
What shall we give as funeral rites
To one of a creed un-nam'd?
Somebody may be watching in vain!
Maybap an orphan is here!
Some mother's darling mutely appeals
To us from a lonely bier.
Citizens! here a brother lies low,
All will know justice is done,
But who will show acts of mercy sweet
To somebody's unclaim'd son?
"Brothers of Pity!" fall into line,
We must inter the stranger-at-gate!
Mothers! send tokens of human love
To add to the pomp of state.
Thus let us bury our stranger-dead
Left in our midst alone,
With all that is sacred and loving and kind,
More than a grave and a stone.

—H. M. K., Feb. 11, 1903.

THE RESPONSIBILITY.

After long and careful deliberation, six of Plainfield's worthy citizens have determined, as far as it lies within the human province to do so, who was to blame for the Westfield disaster at which twenty-three lives were lost and two score injured. There was no surprise in the announcement that the blame was primarily laid on Engineer James N. Davis. That was to be expected after the character of the services he had been heard. It was plainly stated by the jury, however, that there were certain mitigating circumstances in the case of the engineer which should be taken into consideration.

While there are some who will not be satisfied with the findings of the coroner's jury, it is probable that a majority of the world will decide that the inquest went to the bottom of the subject and has discovered the cause. There has been much sympathy expressed for the engineer. His guilt has been admitted and yet there were many who thought that it was an unfortunate combination of events that brought it about and absolved the engineer from the greater share of the blame. It was by incorporating that same thought in the verdict that the jury struck what might be termed the popular chord.

There are certain suggestions and recommendations that are made by the jury in its verdict that will be received with interest. Most important of them is the recommendation that a State railway commission be appointed. This subject has already been brought before the public but there was no strong public support for it. The findings of the jury may, however, put a different aspect on it.

Then there are other questions which are suggested by the jury with the desire that their answers be carefully considered. While the jury does not take upon itself the responsibility of saying these suggested reforms would prevent similar occurrences, it brings them forward for consideration and apparently with the hope that, with a State commission appointed, they will be investigated with great care and utilized if found expedient.

Reports from Trenton would indicate that the Legislature is going to attempt to prevent wrecks like the Westfield disaster by passing legislation without a previous investigation. The idea of two men in the cab has met with popular favor and of the bills providing for that, Senator Wakelee's, which provides for an engineer and two firemen, has received the most general approval. A hearing on this bill is set for Monday afternoon and unless there are decidedly new developments in the case, it seems quite probable that this bill will be passed by the Senate and quite possibly by the lower house.

Democracy invaded the Republican stronghold of Plainfield, the Third ward, the other evening and held a dance in the Casino, which has always been a gathering place for the Republican leaders. It remains to be seen how much that prestages the happenings of the future.

Decidedly satisfactory was the opening of the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League Friday night. There was a good game and the crowd that filled the visitors' gallery at Hope chapel was well pleased. There is prospect of much interest in the series of games just begun.

Matinee Entertainment.

A matinee entertainment will be given Washington's Birthday at 3:30 p. m. in Association Hall for the benefit of the Boys' Department. Vocal and instrumental solos and a chorus assisted by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra will be the feature.

Andrew Cox, of East Fourth street, has recovered from a recent illness.

LEAGUE GAME WON BY HOPE

First Contest of New Schedule of the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League.

I. C. T.'S GOOD SHOWING

Play Was Hard and Fast From the Beginning, and While Hope Y. M. A. Finally Won 31 to 9, It Was Close Enough to be Decidedly Exciting.

Fast play marked the opening game in the new schedule of the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League, played between the teams of the Hope Y. M. A. and the I. C. T. Club in the gymnasium at Hope chapel last Friday. While it was expected that the Hope boys would win the game, the visiting five made even a better showing than was expected and treated the audience which crowded the visitors' gallery to a game that was wildly exciting and close enough to be interesting. The final score was 31 to 9 in favor of the Hope boys.

While the I. C. T. Club team has played several practice games, this was really its initial appearance. At the start, however, it did not look as if the newcomers were novices. They started in at a pace that quite astonished their adversaries and managed to hold it until toward the close when the lack of training began to tell on Hope scored frequently. Even at that, the game was by no means a one-sided one.

For the first five minutes of play, Hope's famous team work did not appear. Then the home five steadied down and began to play. It was really creditable work on the part of the I. C. T. guards that prevented a big score. Blimm had discovered what no other guard had developed, a successful way to cope with Dilks' back throw. So well did he guard him Hope players that only twice was Dilks able to land the basket, and both were in the first half. The half ended with Hope in the lead 14 to 7.

There was a noticeable improvement on the part of the I. C. T. boys in the second half. For fully ten minutes the play was on even terms. Then Hope's superior physical condition began to tell and the remainder of the half saw the I. C. T. on the defensive. Even thus, the Hope boys had their troubles in scoring.

It was toward the close of the first half that the Hope boys were getting into the form for which they are noted. In the second half, part of the team showed up well, Whitley and McCombe, in particular, doing great work.

There was a tendency toward rough play at the very last but otherwise the game was a clean but very fast one. The smallness of the gymnasium made the play rougher than it would have otherwise been. The umpire was perfectly fair although a few judicious fouls would have come well in the last few minutes of the game. The work of the referee was particularly satisfactory.

The teams lined up as follows:

Hope Y. M. A.	I. C. T. Club
Dilks ..... right forward ..... Reynolds
Porter ..... left forward ..... Carson
Foster, Roseberry ..... centre ..... Sherwin
Whitley ..... right guard ..... Blimm
McCombe ..... left guard ..... Overbaugh

Score—Hope Y. M. A., 31; I. C. T. Club, 9. Goals from the field—Dilks (9), Porter (2), Foster (2), Whitley (4), McCombe (4), Reynolds, Sherwin (2), Carson (1). Goals from fouls—McCombe, Blimm. Fouls—Hope Y. M. A., 2; I. C. T. Club, 1. Referee—Frank McTague, of the Orient Club, Newark. Umpire—Charles Bopp, of the Orient Club, Newark. Timekeeper—Robert A. Meeker. Scorer—George R. Fleetbrook.

HUDSON OBJECTS.

Upper County Says Newcorn's Bill is Outrageous.

Assemblyman Newcorn's new bill providing that all building and loan associations shall make certain reports to the department of insurance and banking during the year, has aroused a storm of indignation in Hudson county, and those affected in that end of the State will send a big delegation to Trenton on Monday when a hearing on the bill be given. Some of the people in Jersey City have characterized the bill as outrageous. Others have said that the bill is all right and protects the investor.

For Her Friend.

Miss Ada VanHorne entertained a number of friends at her home on Grove street, Friday night, in honor of Miss Smack, of Long Branch, who is also a her guest for several days The evening was very pleasantly spent in playing games. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Profit at Fair.

The women of St. Peter's German Lutheran church believe that $150 will be the profit from the recent fair. The money will be used to liquidate the indebtedness on the church.

CORONER'S JURY COMPLETES INVESTIGATION INTO CAUSES OF THE WESTFIELD DISASTER

Final Session for Taking of Testimony, Held Friday Afternoon, Brought Out a Little Surprise—Testimony of Railroad Man.

BUT THERE WAS NOTHING TO AFFECT THE VERDICT WHICH WAS ANNOUNCED SATURDAY.

Now comes the verdict of the coroner's jury to complete the investigation made by the county authorities into the Westfield disaster of January 27, when twenty-three lives were blotted out and two score injured. That verdict was made public this afternoon when the jury assembled at the Council Chambers and presented its findings to Coroner Bunting. The last public session for the taking of testimony was held in the Council Chambers Friday afternoon.

While nothing of great importance was brought out at the hearing, Friday afternoon, there was a surprise in the testimony of Joseph D. James, road foreman on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, who happened to be a passenger on the Philadelphia express. He was positive that Engineer Davis applied the emergency brakes previous to the accident as Davis had said in his ante-mortem statement and believed that the shock of the collision could have changed the levers back again to a position of full speed. Other witnesses were produced to substantiate his story but none of them were absolutely certain that the brakes were applied although they believed they were. There were eight witnesses in all and it required only a little over an hour to hear their testimony.

It had been expected that no more witnesses would be examined but the Philadelphia trip had brought out several which the jurors were anxious to hear and so yesterday's session was arranged. All the jurors were on hand, so was Prosecutor N. C. J. English, County Physician F. W. Westcott, Chief Kiely and the little delegation from the railroad which included Lawyer Conover and an assistant and representatives of the claims department.

It was 2:15 o'clock when Coroner Bunting rapped for order and the visitors' seats were only partially filled. The usual quota of newspaper men was on hand and everyone was disappointed when it was discovered that the verdict would not be given out for publication until this evening. But now for the witnesses.

Chief of Police Kiely was the first witness sworn for the afternoon. He told of his investigation at Philadelphia in company with several of the jurors. He had examined the work back at the Ninth and Green streets round house and found several complaints made against engine No. 27, one of which was to the effect that there was a leak on the left side. Three days before the wreck occurred there was a complaint that the valve gland was loose on the right side and the steam packing blown out. This trouble, he had been informed, had been repaired and the workman who made the repairs had signed for it.

Joseph D. James, road foreman, for the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, and residing at Philadelphia, was the second witness of the afternoon. He boarded train 621 at Jersey City, occupying the first coach next to the engine. He observed nothing unusual until after Westfield was passed, when there was an application of the emergency brake. It pitched him forward, and a few seconds later he felt the concussion. There might have been a half dozen torpedoes, but he said he would not have heard them. It was the application of the brakes that attracted his attention. He thought the train must have traveled two or three hundred feet after the brakes were applied before the collision occurred.

After the collision he walked toward engine No. 27, and noticed she was blowing off steam. Mr. James then saw Engineer Davis and asked him if he was hurt much. The reply was: "Yes, I am dying." He assisted the engineer to a house nearby and gave what help he could. He gave Engineer Davis a small drink of whiskey. Davis positively did not make any statement to the witness, the latter testified. He was with the witness all except three minutes and during the time Davis made no statement. He said that someone approached Davis and asked him how it happened, and he, James, said:

"Don't, he is in no condition to talk."

The witness said that the throttle valve is very susceptible and might be moved by a heavy jar. In the opinion of Mr. James, Engineer Davis was doing all he possibly could to stop his train after passing Westfield. The only fire noticed by the witness was in front of the engine and he believed it was produced by the fire from the fire-door and the escaping gas.

The witness said the night was a trifle dense, but not so as to obscure the signals. So far as he noticed, the signals were all right.

Louis C. Reckless, baggage master on the Philadelphia express, told of his experiences that night. He was in the first car behind the engine and felt a slight jar to the train as if by the application of the emergency brakes just previous to the collision. He heard no torpedoes but the train was rounding a curve and he probably would not have caught the report. He went back to Westfield for another engine to get the cars back out of the way but when he secured one, the conductor and some of the other men had moved back the cars one at a time by hand. He had observed no extra amount of steam. He only noticed the train slow down at West Eighth street just previous to crossing the Newark Bay bridge. He remarked the excellent run the engine had made earlier in the day and it appeared to be in first class condition.

Charles W. Orner, rear brakeman on train 621, known as the Philadelphia flyer, testified that he was standing up in the rear car and when the emergency brakes were applied he was thrown down. He did not hear any torpedoes explode, although at times he had heard them go off when standing in the rear car. In explaining his duties, Orner said, that he was obliged to go back a sufficient distance to fully protect his train. It is a matter of law that a brakeman has to use his judgment. He believed that 800 or 1,000 yards a sufficient distance. In foggy weather a fusee is used as extra precaution this will show a red light for ten minutes.

The witness said that Engineer Davis had a good reputation and had been on the road ten years.

After the accident, Orner said he went back to protect his train. On his way he met the brakeman from the Easton local. It was a clear night and signals could be seen plainly.

The night of the wreck Orner said that he was standing at the rear door of the last car. He said his train left Jersey City three minutes late, in reply to a question by Foreman Fisk. The witness said he met O'Neil, the other brakeman, in front of the Westfield station, where a local train had stopped.

The next witness sworn was John Stauffer, Pullman conductor in charge of the two Pullman cars on the Philadelphia express. He was in the rear of the third car of the train when he was thrown forward by a sudden shock. He knew they were going through something or something was going through them. He was waiting for something, he did not know what.

"Not a pleasant sensation," remarked the Prosecutor.

Stauffer told how he looked over the passengers as soon as the accident happened and found they were all right and then responded to the call for liquor and cushions for the injured. He knew the rear brakeman went back at once because he asked, "Don't want another train to run into them."

Robert M. Wilkinson, passenger engineer on the Philadelphia and Reading Railway, of twenty-three years experience, told of his acquaintance with engine No. 27. He had run it on several occasions. Then he had run it the day before the wreck from Philadelphia to Bound Brook and back the next morning. It was in first class condition. There was no steam escaping from the cylinder or steam chest. The only repairs needed were two brake liners.

"She was in first class condition," he exclaimed, "and fit to run any train on the road." The engine was all right when he left, after that he could not tell what happened.

"Why did you examine it?" asked the Prosecutor.

"That's our business," promptly responded the engineer and he went on to explain that the engineer was always expected to look over the locomotive after coasiderable a run.

Foreman Fisk asked many questions to draw out what treatment an engineer received if he made many complaints or came in late often, but Engineer Wilkinson insisted that there was nothing to complain of in the company's treatment of its engineers. Wilkinson said that if an engineer could see the block signals he could see the red lantern on the ground.

Engineer Dolan, of Philadelphia, who was called as a witness, was reported by his physicians as being at home ill with the grip.

Dr. Fred E. Brister, medical examiner for the Philadelphia and Reading, testified that just a year ago Engineer Davis was examined by his assistant, Dr. F. L. Baker, for sight, etc. The last time Davis was reported ill was December 17, 1901, and he was in the best of condition after that time and if he had been ill, the witness said he would have heard of it.

Dr. Frederick L. Baker, Dr. Brister's assistant, was next called. He had examined Engineer Davis a year ago regarding sight and hearing. They were normal. There was a slight of color blindness. He told something of the methods of examining railroad men. He declared a man ought to see a red light four miles away.

Dr. Brister was recalled a moment and asked about Dolan. While no official report had been made to him regarding Dolan, he heard from reliable authority that Dolan was quite ill with the grip.

After the last witness had been excused, Prosecutor English had something to say. That, he remarked, completed the evidence which the State had been able to secure. Of those whose testimony had been desired, only one witness had failed to respond and the Prosecutor was hopeful that he would be able to produce that man's affidavit in time for the jury to consider before it brought in its verdict. The investigators had, he said, received the best possible treatment from the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad and the Jersey Central Railroad. Both companies had offered every possible courtesy to assist them. The case was then left with the jury.

Coroner Bunting wanted to know if every member of the jury was perfectly satisfied with the evidence and whether they desired any more. Foreman Fisk asked them separately and all expressed themselves as satisfied that the investigation had been as complete as possible. Then there was a consultation among the members of the jury, the Coroner and the Prosecutor as to the time of meeting for giving out the verdict. J. J. Kenney objected at first to a meeting Saturday afternoon but finally consented to take time enough to present the verdict Saturday. This was announced by Coroner Bunting and the session adjourned.

As the inquest was practically over, there was more of a formal leave taking than on previous occasions and the newspaper men gathered around Foreman Fisk to thank him for all the courtesies shown. There were also pleasant words passed between the county officials and the newspaper representatives.

Her Seventieth Birthday.

In honor of the seventieth anniversary of the birth of Mrs. Philpits, of the borough, a party was given at her home Friday night. A very pleasant time was spent in singing and playing games, after which refreshments were served. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dents, Mrs. A. Windham, the Misses Philpits, Miss Windham, Miss Dents, Oscar Philpit and Frank Dents.

One Was Fined.

The trial of Joseph Burns and a man named Taylor, who were arrested on Somerset street early Saturday morning for disturbing the peace, was held Saturday night. Recorder Dood reprimanded both men severely and fined Taylor $5.

W. M. Smith, of Elmwood place, has been visiting his sister at Orange for a time.

Miss Ross, of Woodhull & Martin's store, is enjoying her mid-winter vacation of one week.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER JAN. 12, 1903.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

7:26 a. m.—Fast line daily, with Pullman Vestibule Parlor Cars, for Pittsburg and Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

8:26 a. m.—Western Express daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

1:37 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, and Chicago, daily, for Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Shenandoah Valley Route, for Cleveland, except Saturday.

The Southern's Palm Limited—1:30 p.m. week-days.

The Atlantic Coast Line Florida Special—2:50 p. m. week days.

Washington Limited—3:37 p. m. daily.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1:00, 3:00, 6:07, 7:26, 8:26, 9:30, 11:00 a. m., 1:37, 3:37, 4:37, 5:37, 6:37, 7:37, 8:37, 10:07 p. m. On Sunday at 1:00, 3:00, 6:07, 7:26, 8:26, 9:30, 11:00 a. m., 1:37, 3:37, 4:37, 5:37, 6:37, 7:37, 8:37, 10:07 p. m.

For Newark and New York—2:03, 3:03, 4:03, 5:03, 6:03, 7:03, 7:27, 7:40, 7:57, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 a. m., 12:03, 12:40, 1:03, 1:40, 2:03, 2:40, 3:03, 3:40, 4:03, 4:40, 5:03, 5:40, 6:03, 6:40, 7:03, 7:40, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 p. m., 12:03 night. Sundays—2:03, 3:03, 4:03, 5:03, 6:03, 7:03, 7:27, 7:40, 7:57, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 a. m., 12:03, 12:40, 1:03, 1:40, 2:03, 2:40, 3:03, 3:40, 4:03, 4:40, 5:03, 5:40, 6:03, 6:40, 7:03, 7:40, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 p. m., 12:03 night.

For Philadelphia, Express, 2:03, 3:03, 4:03, 5:03, 6:03, 7:03, 7:27, 7:40, 7:57, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 a. m., 12:03, 12:40, 1:03, 1:40, 2:03, 2:40, 3:03, 3:40, 4:03, 4:40, 5:03, 5:40, 6:03, 6:40, 7:03, 7:40, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 p. m., 12:03 night. Sundays—2:03, 3:03, 4:03, 5:03, 6:03, 7:03, 7:27, 7:40, 7:57, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 a. m., 12:03, 12:40, 1:03, 1:40, 2:03, 2:40, 3:03, 3:40, 4:03, 4:40, 5:03, 5:40, 6:03, 6:40, 7:03, 7:40, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 p. m., 12:03 night.

For Atlantic City—8:45 a. m., 3:40 p.m. week-days. Sundays, 8:30 a. m., 3:40 p. m.

For Philadelphia and Boston—2:03, 3:03, 4:03, 5:03, 6:03, 7:03, 7:27, 7:40, 7:57, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 a. m., 12:03, 12:40, 1:03, 1:40, 2:03, 2:40, 3:03, 3:40, 4:03, 4:40, 5:03, 5:40, 6:03, 6:40, 7:03, 7:40, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 p. m., 12:03 night. Sundays—2:03, 3:03, 4:03, 5:03, 6:03, 7:03, 7:27, 7:40, 7:57, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 a. m., 12:03, 12:40, 1:03, 1:40, 2:03, 2:40, 3:03, 3:40, 4:03, 4:40, 5:03, 5:40, 6:03, 6:40, 7:03, 7:40, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 p. m., 12:03 night.

For Philadelphia, Broad Street Station—2:03, 3:03, 4:03, 5:03, 6:03, 7:03, 7:27, 7:40, 7:57, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 a. m., 12:03, 12:40, 1:03, 1:40, 2:03, 2:40, 3:03, 3:40, 4:03, 4:40, 5:03, 5:40, 6:03, 6:40, 7:03, 7:40, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 p. m., 12:03 night. Sundays—2:03, 3:03, 4:03, 5:03, 6:03, 7:03, 7:27, 7:40, 7:57, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 a. m., 12:03, 12:40, 1:03, 1:40, 2:03, 2:40, 3:03, 3:40, 4:03, 4:40, 5:03, 5:40, 6:03, 6:40, 7:03, 7:40, 8:03, 8:40, 9:03, 9:40, 10:03, 10:40, 11:03, 11:40 p. m., 12:03 night.

For Cape May—1:37 p.m. week-days.

For Rahway—1:00, 3:00, 6:07, 7:26, 8:26, 9:30, 11:00 a. m., 1:37, 3:37, 4:37, 5:37, 6:37, 7:37, 8:37, 10:07 p. m. Sundays—1:00, 3:00, 6:07, 7:26, 8:26, 9:30, 11:00 a. m., 1:37, 3:37, 4:37, 5:37, 6:37, 7:37, 8:37, 10:07 p. m.

For New Brunswick—1:00, 3:00, 6:07, 7:26, 8:26, 9:30, 11:00 a. m., 12:03, 1:37, 3:37, 4:37, 5:37, 6:37, 7:37, 8:37, 10:07, 11:07 p. m. Sundays—1:00, 3:00, 6:07, 7:26, 8:26, 9:30, 11:00 a. m., 12:03, 1:37, 3:37, 4:37, 5:37, 6:37, 7:37, 8:37, 10:07 p. m.

For Woodbridge—6:44, 8:40, 11:07 a. m., 12:16, 5:19 p. m. Sundays—8:15, 7:20, 9:54 p. m. and 12:39 night week-days. Sundays—10:38, 11:44 a.m., 7:51 and 10:15 p. m.

For Perth Amboy—6:44, 9:05, 11:07 a. m., 12:16, 5:19 p. m. Sundays—8:15, 7:20, 9:54 p. m., 12:39 night week-days. Sundays—10:38, 11:44 a.m., 7:51 and 10:15 p. m.

For East Millstone—1:00, 3:00, 6:07, 7:26, 8:26, 9:30, 11:00 a. m., 12:03, 3:07 and 5:30 p. m. week-days.

For Trenton—1:00, 3:00, 7:26, 8:26, 9:30, 9:37, 9:38, 10:45, 11:00 a. m., 12:03, 1:37, 3:37, 4:37, 5:37, 6:37, 7:37, 8:37, 10:07 p. m. Sundays—1:00, 3:00, 7:26, 8:26, 9:30, 9:37, 9:38, 10:45, 11:00 a. m., 12:03, 1:37, 3:37, 4:37, 5:37, 6:37, 7:37, 8:37, 10:07 p. m.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, 8:26 a. m. and 5:37 p. m. week-days. 8:37 p. m. Sundays.

For Flemington, 8:26 a. m. week-days.

For Princeton and Jamesburg, via Monmouth Junction—8:26, 11:50 a. m., 5:37 and 8:37 p. m. week-days. Sundays—8:37 p. m.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Points on New York & Long Branch Division, 8:26 a. m., 5:37 p. m. week-days. Sundays—10:38 a. m. and 8:37 p. m. Additional for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y., all through trains connect at Jersey City with boats of Pennsylvania Annex, affording direct transfer to and from Cortlandt and Desbrosses Street ferriage and journey across New York City.

Leave New York from Cortlandt and Desbrosses Street Station—6:20, 7:35, 8:10, 9:00, 10:00 a. m., 12:02, 1:00, 2:00, 3:00, 4:00, 5:00, 6:00, 7:00, 8:00, 9:00, 10:00, 11:35 p. m. and 12:10 night.

For tickets from Desbrosses and Cortlandt Streets consult local time-tables to be procured from ticket agents.

W. W. ATTERBURY, J. R. WOOD,
Gen'l Manager. Gen'l Pass. Agent.

Vegetable and Flower SEEDS

Reliable and Tested. Catalogue Mailed Free

WEBER & DON Seed Florists 114 CHAMBERS STREET NEW YORK

A. WOLFF.

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 261 West Front street, to South side of Bonnet street, first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

AGENTS WANTED.

LIFE OF T. DEWITT TALMAGE, by his son, REV. FRANK DEWITT TALMAGE and associate editors of Christian Herald. Only book endorsed by Talmage family. Enormous profit for agents who act quickly. Outfit ten cents. Write immediately. CLARK & CO., 205 S. Fourth Street, Phila., Pa. Mention this paper. 7 14

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 122, Dunellen, N. J., or at dress in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

To Visit Florida.

Kenneth Robbie, assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A. sailed Saturday afternoon for Jacksonville, Fla., having secured passage via Clyde Line steamer, Seminole, at the local office of the company, 197 North avenue.

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT Feb. 5, 1903

For New York—5.11, 7.25, 7.45, 8.40, 9.30, 9.45, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01 night. Sundays—5.11, 7.25, 7.45, 8.40, 9.30, 9.45, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01 night.

For Somerville—6.30, 7.30, 9.05, 9.30, 9.54, 11.00 a. m., 12.05, 2.35, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01 night. Sundays—9.05, 9.30, 9.54, 11.00 a. m., 12.05, 2.35, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01 night.

For Flemington—7.30, 11.00 a. m., 2.35, 5.30, 8.30 p. m. Sundays—8.30 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.11, 7.25, 9.05, 9.30, 9.54, 11.00 a. m., 2.35 p. m. Sundays—9.05, 9.30, 9.54 a. m., 2.35 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.30, 9.54 a. m., 2.35, 5.30 p. m. Sundays—9.54 a. m., 5.30 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—5.30, 9.54 a. m., 5.30 p. m. Sundays—9.54 a. m., 5.30 p. m.

For Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and principal intermediate stations, 11.30 a. m. daily, except Wednesday and Saturday nights.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—8.30 a. m. week-days. 11.30, 9.54, 4.17 p. m. Sundays—8.30 a. m.

For Atlantic City—8.45 a. m., 3.40 p.m.

For Philadelphia and Boston—2.03, 3.03, 4.03, 5.03, 6.03, 7.03, 7.27, 7.40, 7.57, 8.03, 8.40, 9.03, 9.40, 10.03, 10.40, 11.03, 11.40 a. m., 12.03, 12.40, 1.03, 1.40, 2.03, 2.40, 3.03, 3.40, 4.03, 4.40, 5.03, 5.40, 6.03, 6.40, 7.03, 7.40, 8.03, 8.40, 9.03, 9.40, 10.03, 10.40, 11.03, 11.40 p. m., 12.03 night. Sundays—2.03, 3.03, 4.03, 5.03, 6.03, 7.03, 7.27, 7.40, 7.57, 8.03, 8.40, 9.03, 9.40, 10.03, 10.40, 11.03, 11.40 a. m., 12.03, 12.40, 1.03, 1.40, 2.03, 2.40, 3.03, 3.40, 4.03, 4.40, 5.03, 5.40, 6.03, 6.40, 7.03, 7.40, 8.03, 8.40, 9.03, 9.40, 10.03, 10.40, 11.03, 11.40 p. m., 12.03 night.

For Philadelphia, Broad Street Station—2.03, 3.03, 4.03, 5.03, 6.03, 7.03, 7.27, 7.40, 7.57, 8.03, 8.40, 9.03, 9.40, 10.03, 10.40, 11.03, 11.40 a. m., 12.03, 12.40, 1.03, 1.40, 2.03, 2.40, 3.03, 3.40, 4.03, 4.40, 5.03, 5.40, 6.03, 6.40, 7.03, 7.40, 8.03, 8.40, 9.03, 9.40, 10.03, 10.40, 11.03, 11.40 p. m., 12.03 night. Sundays—2.03, 3.03, 4.03, 5.03, 6.03, 7.03, 7.27, 7.40, 7.57, 8.03, 8.40, 9.03, 9.40, 10.03, 10.40, 11.03, 11.40 a. m., 12.03, 12.40, 1.03, 1.40, 2.03, 2.40, 3.03, 3.40, 4.03, 4.40, 5.03, 5.40, 6.03, 6.40, 7.03, 7.40, 8.03, 8.40, 9.03, 9.40, 10.03, 10.40, 11.03, 11.40 p. m., 12.03 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—2.03, 3.03, 4.03, 5.03, 6.03, 7.03, 7.27, 7.40, 7.57, 8.03, 8.40, 9.03, 9.40, 10.03, 10.40, 11.03, 11.40 a. m., 12.03, 12.40, 1.03, 1.40, 2.03, 2.40, 3.03, 3.40, 4.03, 4.40, 5.03, 5.40, 6.03, 6.40, 7.03, 7.40, 8.03, 8.40, 9.03, 9.40, 10.03, 10.40, 11.03, 11.40 p. m., 12.03 night. Sundays—2.03, 3.03, 4.03, 5.03, 6.03, 7.03, 7.27, 7.40, 7.57, 8.03, 8.40, 9.03, 9.40, 10.03, 10.40, 11.03, 11.40 a. m., 12.03, 12.40, 1.03, 1.40, 2.03, 2.40, 3.03, 3.40, 4.03, 4.40, 5.03, 5.40, 6.03, 6.40, 7.03, 7.40, 8.03, 8.40, 9.03, 9.40, 10.03, 10.40, 11.03, 11.40 p. m., 12.03 night.

Chesapeake and Ohio Limited—1.30 p. m. week-days.

Chesapeake and Ohio Special—2.03 p. m. week-days.

Royal Blue—10.30 a. m. week-days.

Washington Express—3.03 p. m. week-days.

Atlantic Express—8.40 a. m., 4.03 p. m. week-days. Sundays, 8.40 a. m.

Through Cars for Washington, Chesapeake and Ohio Limited, Royal Blue and Washington Express.

Dining Cars on all Through Trains.

Parlor Cars on all Day Trains.

Sleeping Cars on Night Trains.

For Cape May—1.37 p. m. week-days.

For Sea Isle City, Ocean City and Somers Point—8.40 a. m. week-days.

For Cape May, Sea Isle City, Ocean City and Somers Point—8.40 a. m. week-days. Sundays, 8.40 a. m.

For Delaware Division points—8.40 a. m. week-days. Sundays, 8.40 a. m.

For Delaware River Shore Line points—8.40 a. m. week-days. Sundays, 8.40 a. m.

For Cape May, Sea Isle City, Ocean City, Somers Point, Delaware Division and Delaware River Shore Line points—1.30 p. m. week-days.

Parlor Cars on all Through Trains.

Dining Cars on Through Trains.

Sleeping Cars on Night Trains.

C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect November 16, 1902.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.,

Leave South Plainfield 10.12 a. m.

Daily except for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

Leave South Plainfield 6.40 p. m.

Daily, Solid Vestibule train for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations, except Rochester.

For time of local trains see pocket time-tables. Telephone No. 113-B

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.

CHARLES S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.

26 Cortlandt Street, New York.

FRANK ROWLET, City Ticket Agent,
218 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m.
On Sundays, 9 to 10 a. m. and 5 to 6 p. m.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7.30, 9.40, 11.20 a. m., 2.20, 5.05, 6.30 p.m.
Close—7.00 a. m., 12.00 m., 2.00, 5.00, 7.15 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND RARITAN.

Arrive—8.00 a. m., 2.15 and 5.00 p. m.
Close—7.00 a. m., 12.00 m., 2.00 and 7.15 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Close—1.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton

Close 12.30 p. m. and 7.00 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct.

Arrive—8.05 a. m., 2.05, 5.50 p. m.
Close—8.40 a. m., 12.00 m., 2.00 and 5.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—2.05, 5.40, 11.20 a. m., 2.20 and 7.05 p. m.
Close—7.00 a. m., 12.00 m., 2.00 and 7.00 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South close 12.00 and 7.00 p. m.

Through fast mail for West, close 1.00 and 5.05 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE & DALLIA, (Mt. Bethel)

Arrive—1.30 p. m. Close—9.00 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9.00 to 10.00 a. m.
Mail closes at 5.15 p. m.

E. R. BIRD, P. M.

NOTICE of Copyright Renewal, Class C. XXC. No. 5009. Library of Congress to wit: Be it remembered that on this 22nd day of January, 1903, Mrs. Mary Runyon Lowry, of Plainfield, New Jersey, has deposited in this office the titles of twenty-four musical compositions by Robert Lowry, viz: "All the way my Saviour leads me," "We will forever sing," "Low in the Comforter came," "Vivid, O Vivid," "Take up the Cross," "Where is my Wandering Boy Tonight," "Star of the Morning," "So near to the Kingdom," "Come Home, Come Home," "Down in my heart is born," "One more song for Jesus," "Good night," "Shall we gather at the River," "Where is my boy tonight," "Shall the Lord O my soul," "Our Children," "Praise the Lord," "Rest at last not to leave thee," "Twenty years ago," "Gone from my home," "Out of the depths," which were entered for fourteen years from April 27, 1903. "Still unto Thee," "Where is my wandering boy," "Twas in the beginning," "Rest at last not to leave thee," "Twenty years ago," "Gone from my home," "Out of the depths," which were entered for fourteen years from Nov. 19, 1902. The right whereof she claims as proprietor in conformity with the laws regulating the copyright of musical compositions. Office of the Register of Copyrights, Washington, D. C. Witness the seal of the Library of Congress, by Thorvald Solberg, Register of Copyrights. 2 14 4

SELF-MADE MAN.

From Telegraph Boy to Superintendent of Transportation

Oscar Stager the new superintendent of transportation of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, has worked up from a telegraph boy at a salary of $3 a week. From that he advanced to telegraph operator, then despatcher, manager of the Philadel

THE VERDICT!

Engineer Davis Blamed and Railroad Freed From Criminal Responsibility.

A FULL TEXT OF THE VERDICT IS HERE GIVEN

Coroner's Jury Recommends a State Railroad Commission and Suggests No Stoves, Electric Headlights, Two Men in a Cab, Stricter Observance of Cautionary Signals, and Adoption of Automatic Safety Devices.

State of New Jersey, } ss.
County of Union. }

An inquisition indented and taken at the City of Plainfield, in the county aforesaid, the third, fifth, sixth and thirteenth days of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and three, before me, P. DuBois Bunting, one of the Coroners of said county, upon the view of the body of John Currid, then and there lying dead, upon the oaths of Charles J. Fisk, William F. Arnold, Floyd T. Woodhull, James F. Buckle, John J. Kenney and Andrew J. Gavett, good and lawful men of the county aforesaid, who being duly sworn and charged to inquire on the part of the State of New Jersey, when, where, how and after what manner the said John Currid came to his death, do say upon their oaths aforesaid, that the said John Currid was killed by a railroad collision occurring on the Central Railroad of New Jersey near Westfield, in said Union county, on the twenty-seventh day of January, nineteen hundred and three; that at the time he was killed as aforesaid, he was a passenger on his way home from New York to Dunellen, in train number thirteen, which is known as the Easton Local Passenger train, and that this train was run into from the rear by train No. 621, which was the fast express train run by the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad over the tracks of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. The collision occurred at about 6:40 o'clock p. m.

From the evidence brought out at the inquest, we believe that this collision was caused by the failure of the engineer, James N. Davis, of engine No. 27, A. C. R. R., operated by the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, drawing train No. 621, to observe the following signals displayed to warn him of approaching danger:

First. The red lamp set on the ground at Cranford, which notified him to stop for orders.

Second. The distance or cautionary block-signal, a green light just west of the Westfield station, which gave warning that the block ahead was occupied.

Third. A red lantern swung back and forth across the track by the flagman at the Broad street crossing, Westfield, 874 feet from the last mentioned block-signal.

Fourth. A red lantern swung by the rear brakeman of train No. 13; (this man claims that he was within about thirty yards of the road crossing when the train No. 621 passed him,) and finally the home block-signal, showing red and green lights, which indicated that he must come to a full stop, as the track ahead was occupied. This signal is located 2,126 feet from the warning signal. Although, from the evidence, we cannot find that the Railroad Company, or any of the officials, can be held criminally responsible, there are certain mitigating circumstances in regard to the action of the engineer which should be taken into consideration. The said James N. Davis, who has since died from injuries received in this accident, was thirty-four years old, in the best of health, and was one of the most experienced and valued engineers on the road.

On the run from Philadelphia in the morning with train No. 614, his own engine, No. 321, became disabled and he was obliged to leave it at Trenton Junction and take engine No. 27 from a local milk train, to bring his train to Jersey City. Although this engine appears to have been in good condition on January 27, 1903, an examination of the work books of the Company shows that it was in the shop between January 7 and 17, 1903, for the repair of a crack in the steam chest and for various minor repairs.

That after leaving the shop the engine was reported for repairs to piston packing, etc., several times, and, although there is no report against the engine in regard to leaking steam after January 24, there is no doubt that there was an unusual amount of steam escaping from some part of the engine during the run from Jersey City to Westfield the night of the accident. This escaping steam, the engineer claims in his ante-mortem statement, obscured his vision so that he could not see the signals without shutting off steam. As the air was heavy, this steam settling around the engine, was probably the cause of his not seeing the train order signal at Cranford, consisting of a red lantern placed on the ground, thus failing to receive the warning from the train despatcher that train No. 13 was on the track ahead.

Engineer Davis states that, finding it necessary for him to get at the injector, he missed a signal. This was probably the cautionary signal before referred to just west of the Westfield station, and, as it has been shown by actual experiment that, at the rate of speed he was going at the time, it would only take forty seconds after passing Westfield to strike the rear of train No. 13.

The time table shows that, as a usual thing, he would have a clear track, with nothing ahead, from Cranford Junction to Plainfield, but, owing to a stalled train on track No. 4, the Easton train, No. 13, had been ordered to run ahead of No. 621 on track No. 2. Engineer Davis, failing to receive his order at Cranford, did not know that this train was ahead, and, unfortunately, train No. 13 had a hot journal on the tender which, in the judgment of the engineer, required his attention, and caused him to make an unusual stop a short distance west of Westfield station, where the accident happened.

We make this lengthy explanation to show that, although the engineer, James N. Davis, with his great responsibility in caring for the lives under his charge, failed in his duty in not keeping a lookout for the signals, the instances above narrated were against him; namely, the escaping steam, train No. 13 on an unusual track and an accident to No. 13 which caused it to make an unusual stop.

The fire which occurred immediately after the collision and added greatly to the horrors of the wreck, was probably caused by the explosion of the headlight and burning gases escaping from the tubes of engine when the smoke-box was broken in. However, there were two stoves in each of the two rear wrecked cars, which probably increased the rapidity of the conflagration.

Our investigation shows that this division of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, between Jersey City and Bound Brook, is equipped with the electric, pneumatic, automatic block system, which is operated automatically by the movement of trains over the track; the signals are placed on posts which display arms of the semaphore type by day and lights by night, and this system is said to be one of the best installed on any railroad.

The Central Railroad Company of New Jersey and the other large trunk lines have probably reached the limit in providing the best possible system for the running of trains by visual signals, but they have not yet succeeded in reaching a point to cover human fallibility at critical moments.

After a thorough examination, we believe the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, and the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, to be free from any criminal responsibility for the accident above referred to.

We have carfully considered measures that should be taken to guard against the repetition of accidents of this kind, and would suggest close study of the following questions:

Is the traffic of this railroad greater than can be safely handled, considering the very large amount of high speed service required; if so, what is the remedy?

Should not all stoves be prohibited, and all passenger cars be heated by steam from the locomotive?

Should not the headlights on engines be electric or something safer than a lamp containing a large quantity of oil, which, in cases of accident, is liable to cause fire?

Should railroads be required to provide another man in the cab, whose sole duty it would be to look out for signals?

Should not a stricter observance of the rules relating to signals be insisted upon by the railroad officials, this especially in regard to distance or green signals?

While there is no evidence before us that these signals are not regularly observed on the railroads concerned in this collision, there is a general feeling that a laxity prevails in this matter all over the country.

Should not the railroads adopt, in connection with their automatic visual signals, some one of the automatic safety devices that are now in the market, which actually shut off the steam, apply the brakes and stop the train if the track is blocked or out of order.

To arrive at a correct decision in these matters, which require a great deal of serious and expert study, we suggest that the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, now in session, pass a bill providing for a State Railroad Commission, to be appointed by the Governor, composed mainly of disinterested experts or practical railroad men, who shall investigate the above questions, and others of equal importance which may be brought to their attention.

This Commission should have the power to enforce such rulings and to require the adoption of such devices as will add to the safety and comfort of the large traveling public throughout this State.

We would call attention to the fact that statistics show that in Great Britain, where trains are run equally as fast and where the traffic is much more crowded, but where trains are operated strictly on the block system, not a single passenger lost his life during the year 1901, while in this country, where many roads are still without block signals, there were, during the three months ending October 1, 1902, 1,434 collisions, in which 148 persons were killed.

In witness whereof, as well the said Coroner as the said Jurors, have to this inquisition set their hands and seals on the day and year aforesaid, at the place aforesaid.

P. DuBois Bunting,
Coroner.
Charles J. Fisk,
William F. Arnold,
Floyd T. Woodhull,
James F. Buckle,
John J. Kenney,
Andrew J. Gavett,
Jurors.

TALKED WITHOUT PICTURES.

F. Henry Grant Gave His Lecture on "Korea" Saturday Night.

The lecture given by F. Henry Grant at the Crescent Avenue church, Saturday evening, under the auspices of the Boys' Mission Band, was fairly well attended. The subject was "Korea." Mr. Grant took these pictures two years ago while on a trip around the world with Robert E. Speer, and he expected to show them Saturday evening. The person who was to have operated the lantern did not arrive and instead Mr. Grant just gave the talk without the aid of the pictures.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

BADE THEM A FAREWELL

Rev. J. W. Richardson Spoke to Members of the Church and the Knights Templar.

MASONS THERE IN BODY

Farewell Sermon Preached at Park Avenue Baptist Church Last Sunday Previous to His Departure to Stamford, Conn.—Substance of His Sermon.

Rev. John Wilbur Richardson, who, during the past ten years has been the pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church and who recently resigned to accept the pastorate of the Baptist church at Stamford, Conn., preached his farewell sermon at the Park Avenue Baptist church last Sunday. The edifice was thronged with members of the church and congregation, while almost the entire membership of Trinity Commandery, No. 71, K. T., in which Mr. Richardson held the office of prelate, in dress uniform and Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., of which he was chaplain, occupied seats reserved for them.

The fact that the members of the Masonic Order attended in a body was a touching and impressive tribute to the retiring minister, who is so highly esteemed by all who know him. Mr. Richardson's sermon was a strong and able discourse and to the point. It was listened to with strict attention by everyone present, all feeling deeply the force of the words spoken.

The preacher took for his text II Cor. xii :11: "Finally, Brethren, farewell. Be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace." In part he spoke as follows:

"Brethren, whatever prosperity this church enjoys, is due to its unswerving loyalty to the Word of God. Pay no attention to what others may deem unpopular in your teaching. Modify none of your doctrines by public sentiment. Avoid interpretations of the Scriptures, so false and biased, that each reading only gives birth to newer doubts and questionings. But quarry the marble for your temple of faith, from the white peaks of Christ's words. Let the altar be erected on the merits of Christ's atonement. Let allegiance to Christ's commands be chiselled over the door. As a Baptist church, recognize no other authority in the universe, save Jesus Christ your great Head. A skeptic recently said, 'Is is a ludicrous thing in this age, to see men ride behind texts and cry, 'Thus saith the Lord.'' O modern shylocks teach you a lesson; take no man to be your pastor, who will not place himself behind Christ's words. The genuine, Christian minister must hide behind his text, that he may preach only Christ crucified to the people.

"Do not expect the church as an organization to do what belongs to each member to perform. It is ridiculous for a person to pray for the conversion of the heathen, and yet place a nickel on the plate when the missionary collection is taken. Is it superb folly to praise about the church going after the common people, yet turn the cold shoulder toward the stranger who enters the church-door. The piety of the individual; the measure of each member's fidelity to Christ; is what that member contributes towards the efficiency of the church, and its reputation in the community.

"With the wisest charity, tolerate liberty of opinion; respect each other's conclusions, cultivate the spirit of harmony. Each church, composed of people of so many temperaments, all things should be subordinated to the interests of Christ. Aim to live in peace, and give every man credit for his opinions. If one makes a mistake in judgment, for the sake of peace, let him be manly enough to confess it. He, who is too proud and obstinate to confess an error, or forsake a wrong policy, is a fool as well as a coward. Let peace become the guardian angel of the church."

In an apostrophe to Templarism, the speaker said: "We do honor the superb Christ, before whom we uncover our heads of reverent worship. It is true that some weak Peter may forget the chamber of reflection, and the mighty scene on Calvary. But thank God, there are thousands of true hearts, who preach the manhood of Jesus; the sanctity of the home; and hwo would draw the shining steel blade to defend innocent maidens, and protect helpless orphans. It seems to me, that the marvelous success of our matchless order; the superb momentum by which it carries Christian manhood higher, and nearer, the sublime ideal of the Christ-man. That the mighty force of its rich principles, which renders even the statesmanship of our McKinleys and Roosevelts more rugged and firm against quicksery and corruption. That the Glory, the crown, and the universal potent power of Templarism in the whole world, is because Christ's own hand honors those who would honor Him; and wield the kind of sword He brings. Great is the power of the Divine arm, back of the Knight Templar's sword."

Mr. Richardson then thanked the faithful church members who had supported his ministry. He paid an earnest tribute to the press of the city, stating that he had been greatly aided by the newspapers; and personally thanking the editors and staffs of The Daily Press and other newspapers for their uniform courtesy and helpfulness.

With a touching appeal to the unconverted, whom he urged for a "last time" to yield their lives to Christ, Mr. Richardson turned to the officers of the church and surrended his pastorate.

CONDEMNED CHEAP THEATRES

ROUNDLY DENOUNCED PICTURES ON LOCAL BILL BOARDS.

Strong Sermon by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck on Plainfield, Its Blessings and Its Dangers.

"The Visitations of God," was the subject of an excellent sermon delivered by Dr. Schenck Sunday morning in Trinity Reformed church, from the text, "Because thou knowest not the time of thy visitation," Luke xix, part of 44th verse. During the discourse he spoke of the steady growth of Plainfield and how God had truly blessed her in the past.

Plainfield's water supply, pure and faultless, made so by the natural filtration underlying Plainfield, was compared with that of Ithaca, where typhoid fever, brought about by impure water, was taking off young students by death. The preacher thanked God for the quality of the men who had served Plainfield as Mayors in the past and for the honorable record they had made. He said that all should be grateful to God for the clean record of the men who had served as Councilmen. No finger of dishonesty had ever been pointed to them while in office, or out of office.

Dr. Schenck spoke of the request made for granting a saloon license in the new western part of the city and said that it would be a great mistake. God has so abundantly prospered Plainfield and such an act would be an abomination in His sight, and Dr. Schenck lifted his voice against it. The very excellent system of public schools found favor with Dr. Schenck and he said that Plainfield should thank God for it and pray that it continue to be a glory to the city.

The cheap theatre was roundly condemned by Dr. Schenck, as a place where the morals of girls and boys were being undermined by performances that were not elevating and left their impress on the minds of the young. Dr. Schenck further commented on the style of pictures on the billboards on the streets of Plainfield and said that if the plays at the theatre were in keeping with the pictures displayed, Mayor Jenkins or some one in authority should see to it that the license of such places be revoked.

THREE-DAY TOUR TO WASHINGTON.

Under the Personally-Conducted System of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The next Pennsylvania Railroad personally-conducted tour to Washington leaves Thursday, February 26. Rate, covering railroad transportation for the round trip, hotel accommodations, and transfer of passenger and baggage, station to hotel in Washington, $14.50 from New York, $13 from Trenton and $11.50 from Philadelphia. These rates cover accommodations for two days at the Arlington, Normandie, Riggs, Shoreham, Cochran, Gordon, Barton, or Hamilton Hotels. For accommodations at Regent, Metropolitan, National, or Colonial Hotels, $2.50 less. Special side trip to Mt. Vernon.

All tickets good for ten days, with special hotel rates after expiration of hotel coupons.

For itineraries and full information apply to ticket agents; Tourist agent, 263 Fifth avenue, New York; Court street, Brooklyn; 789 Broad street, Newark, N. J.; or address Geo. W. Boyd, assistant general passenger agent, Broad street station, Philadelphia.

Fined For Actions on Trolley.

Harry Parker, who was arraigned Saturday afternoon before Justice Huff on two charges of assault and battery preferred by E. C. Martin and Jacob Krinev, was fined $10. The trouble occurred a week ago on a West Front street trolley car when the defendant was accused of smoking in the car in the presence of women.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Badway, of Clinton avenue, are entertaining friends from Hasbrouck Heights.

Miss Grace Emmons, of Jackson avenue, is the guest of friends for a few days in Brooklyn.

MRS. CHARLES POTTER WAS LAID AT REST

Funeral Services Were Held From West Seventh Street Home Sunday Afternoon.

INTERMENT AT HILLSIDE

REV. GEORGE B. SHAW AND REV. DR. A. H. LEWIS IN CHARGE.

Members of the Family Bore the Remains to Its Last Resting Place —Grand Floral Tributes—Many to Honor Her Memory.

Funeral services of Mrs. Charles Potter, who passed away Friday at her residence on West Seventh street, were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30. The services which were conducted by Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, assisted by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, who has known the family for many years and who was at one time Mrs. Potter's pastor.

The services were opened by Mr. Shaw with a prayer after which Dr. Lewis spoke of the life of the departed in a feeling manner. During the services a quartette comprising Sydney A. Titsworth, Miss Nancy Randolph, Miss Cornelia Miller and Elmer E. Runyon, rendered several selections accompanied on the organ by Arthur L. Titsworth.

There was a large gathering present at the house from the Potter Press Works, of which the late Charles Potter was the founder. There were also a large number of people present from New York, Wisconsin, Philadelphia, Rhode Island and New York City.

The remains were borne to the grave at Hillside cemetery by members of her family who acted as pall bearers: David E. Titsworth, J. M. Titsworth, Albert Hopper, of Chicago; Superintendent H. M. Maxon, of the city schools; Irving Maxon, of Westerley, R. I.; and William C. Hubbard.

The display of flowers at the home was grand. There were a large number of handsome set pieces, the tributes of a host of mourning friends and relatives.

ANNOUNCED ENGAGEMENT.

Was Given Out at Valentine Gathering at Home of Groom's Parents.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Frost, of Watchung avenue, entertained thirty young people at their home Saturday evening at a Valentine party, when the engagement of Miss Evelyn Lynas, daughter of T. R. Lynas, manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, of Chicago, to G. Harwood Frost, of London, Eng., was announced. Mr. Frost is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Frost and has been visiting his parents. He will sail for London next Saturday on the Lucania.

During the evening there was a progressive heart party, after which a collation was served. Later in the evening there was a programme of music. Miss Lynas is a most accomplished young woman and has travelled extensively through Europe.

Funeral of J. A. Demarest.

The funeral services of the late James Alfred Demarest were held Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock from the home in Vanderbilt avenue, Brooklyn, and Monday the remains were interred in Hillside cemetery, this city. The remains were accompanied to Plainfield by relatives and several friends.

DIED.

DEMAREST—At Brooklyn, N. Y., on Friday, Feb. 13, 1903, James Alfred Demarest, in his 81st year.

POTTER—Entered into rest on Friday, February 13, 1903, Sarah Wilcox, widow of Charles Potter, in her 75th year.

TINSMAN—At rest on Monday, Feb. 16, 1903, George Franklin, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Tinsman, aged 7 months and 13 days.

NELSON—At New Market, N. J., Feb. 15, 1903, John Nelson, aged 77 years, 1 month and 5 days.

BIRD—On Monday, Feb. 16, 1903, Florence L., wife of Lewis R. Bird, in her 23d year.

SPEWL—Suddenly, on Feb. 17, 1903, in New York city, Francis Newland, infant son of E. Albert and Annie Hasbrouck Spewl.

O'CONNOR—Suddenly, Monday, February 16, 1903, Anastasia, beloved child of William and Catherine O'Connor, at her parents' home, 324 Bank street, Newark, N. J.

ANDERSON—In this city, February 16, 1903, Rosanna R., wife of James Anderson, in her 58th year.

THE CLEANSING AND HEALING CURE FOR CATARRH is Ely's Cream Balm
Easy and pleasant to use. Contains no injurious drug.
It is quickly absorbed. Gives Relief at once.
It Opens and Cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Inflammation.
Heals and Protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Large Size, 50 cents, at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size 10 cents, by mail.
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York
CATARRH

COLD in HEAD

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
a new open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the toncorta line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work is given satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. BOOKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary
$900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work and office. After one month's instruction. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure permanent, profitable position. Liberal home and future. New, brilliant line. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church st., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Office Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange
Money to loan on Approved Security

CITY'S PLANT IS A SUCCESS

State Sewage Commission Refers in Annual Report to Its Successful Working.

HAD AN EXPERT HERE

Complete Text of Portion of the Board's Report Which Refers to Plainfield's Sewage Disposal System—It is a Decided Success.

There has been so much talk about the success of the Plainfield sewage disposal beds and their approval by the State Sewerage Commission that it is interesting to note just exactly what that board has to say about them. The annual report of the State Sewage Commission has just been issued and fills a pamphlet of fifty-one pages.

In the report is over a page devoted to the Plainfield system. This is given in full herewith. There is also a description of the Red Bank plant, which is similar to the Plainfield one and has been in successful operation for over a year. In the report of the secretary of the board is given the report of Thomas McClear, the expert chemist who made tests of the local plant for the State board. His report is of a technical nature and contains a number of tables showing the results of tests. It was after receiving and considering this report that the State Commission prepared its own report.

The portion of the report which refers to Plainfield is given as follows:

Plainfield Analysis.

"The extensive improvements effected at the instance of this Commission in the sewerage disposal works at Plainfield, as heavy cost to the city, have been successful in operation. The Commission caused chemical and bacteriological examinations to be made, which show remarkable efficiency for the septic tanks and single-contact beds installed. Eighty-seven per cent. of the bacteria were removed and the putrescible matter completely disappeared. There seems no reason why, with proper care, this system should not continue to operate with success. The results obtained confirm the experience in other places that, with a septic tank and single contact beds, properly constructed and operated, an effluent may be obtained which will be free from objection, if discharged into a stream of moderately-abundant flow. The use of the water of the stream for potable purposes cannot, however, be permitted with safety. Sand filtration might achieve this, but the use for drinking purposes of water once contaminated should be permitted only with great caution and reserve.

Not Unduly Expensive.

"The cost of the plant of the kind which is proved effective at Plainfield need not be prohibitory. The cost of the Plainfield plant was $38,-785.59, to which ten per cent. may be added for engineering, etc.

"This prifies about 650,000 gallons of sewage each day (separate system), that being the discharge from 1,575 house connections. The cost of operation appears to be slightly more than $100 a month, although this figure might be increased to remove sludge. The city owned the land upon which the works were constructed, and the sewers had been previously constructed to the works.

"As a fair example of what may be done for a city the size of Plainfield, the case is illustrative. To attempt to apply it to communities of greater size, with far heavier flow of sewage, with intercepting sewers to be built and land for disposal works to be purchased, might make the cost so high that other measures might have to be adopted.

"It is also true that had Plainfield originally provided more land for its works, at a greater distance from population, it would have been able to economize somewhat in its methods, and escape some opposition from communities. The failure to provide adequate space for the development of disposal plants is a common error, which sometimes proves disastrous and always costly in the end."

The Easy Pill.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers do not gripe nor weaken the system. They cure biliousness, jaundice, constipation and inactive livers, by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently, yet effectually, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach, liver and bowels that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely. These famous little pills exert a decided tonic effect upon the organs involved, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the trouble. L. W. Randolph.

A GOOD WOMAN GOES TO THE HOME ABOVE

Mrs. Charles Potter Passed Away at Her West Seventh St. Home Firday Morning.

BEAUTIFUL CHARACTER

MRS. POTTER IS SURVIVED BY THREE DAUGHTERS.

Was Actively Associated With Local Charitable Work As Long As Her Health Permitted—Member of Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

Mrs. Charles Potter, of 427 West Seventh street, entered the Home above, Friday morning, after a long illness but which grew suddenly worse a few days ago. She was born at Little York, Cortland county, N. Y., on February 25, 1825, and had, therefore, nearly reached her seventy-fifth birthday. She was married to the late Charles Potter, June 22, 1850. The following years were spent in Westerly, R. I., until 1870 when they became residents of Plainfield. Mrs. Potter leaves three daughters, Mrs. David E. Titsworth, Mrs. Albert R. Sheppard, of Chicago, who, fortunately, is visiting here at this time, and Mrs. William C. Titsworth. Her eldest daughter was Mrs. Joseph M. Titsworth, who passed to the Better Land in 1883, leaving two daughters, Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard and Miss Ethel Titsworth. Mrs. Potter's eldest sister was Mrs. Johnathan Maxson, of Westerly, R. I., the mother of Superintendent Maxson, of this city, with whom she is spending the winter. She also leaves two other sisters, Mrs. Henry Stillman and Mrs. Thomas Stillman, of Edgerton, Wisconsin. Her other sister, Mrs. L. C. Rogers, passed to the Home beyond, at Westerly, R. I., last August.

During the earlier years of her life here, Mrs. Potter was personally associated with the benevolent and charitable work of the city, but in later years, although prevented by ill health from taking active part she ever maintained a deep and helpful interest in them. She was a lifelong member of the Seventh-Day Baptist church in this city and elsewhere. No good cause, no appeal for sympathy or help within the range of her knowledge was ever passed by unheeded or unaided. While her home was her special kingdom, she ruled with equal grace and efficiency in every circle where mother-love, Christian woman-hood or nobility brought demands. The universal hospitality, kindness and helpfulness which abounded in her beautiful home, were equaled and transcended by the strength and sweetness of her character, the memory of which will always be a precious heritage to all who came within its circle, the influence of which cannot be told in words, and the tributes to which are larger in the hearts of those who knew and loved her than can be told.

The funeral services were held from her late residence, Sunday afternoon at 2:15.

TURKEY SUPPER.

Given for Benefit of Marconnier Chapel Thursday.

The turkey supper given Thursday at the home of Eugene VanCourt in Park avenue, No. 7 Tree, for the benefit of Marconnier chapel, was a complete success. There were sixteen people present from this city, and nearly eighty persons from Oak Tree and vicinity. In all about 100 suppers were served. The menu comprised a first-class turkey supper and concluded with ice cream. There was plenty of everything to eat and no one was allowed to go away hungry.

Those directly in charge of the supper were Mrs. Eugene VanCourt, Mrs. Freeman and Mrs. Reighton, and they were assisted by other women from Marconnier chapel. It is believed that the net profits from the supper will be between $40 and $50 and this will be placed in the chapel fund.

Time Clocks for Watchmen.

The New York Central Railroad's latest innovation is to place time clocks at frequent intervals along the line to make sure that track watchmen are performing their duties properly.

A Weak Stomach

causes a weak body and invites disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures and strengthens the stomach, and wards off and overcomes disease. J. B. Taylor, a prominent merchant of Christiansburg, Tex., says: "I could not eat because of a weak stomach. I lost all strength and run down in weight. All that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol, I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefitted me, and after taking four bottles I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health." L. W. Randolph.

AROUND THE CITY BY SMELL.

Odors Peculiar to Certain Sections Would Guide One Acquainted with New York.

"If you were to set me down in New York blindfolded I could give a pretty close guess as to my whereabouts by the smell of that particular locality," said a salesman in The Swamp, relates the New York Times. "If my nose seemed stuffed with hides and tallow I should know that I was in the immediate vicinity of Gold, Cliff or Frankfort street. A pronounced odor of spices would indicate Fulton street, in the neighborhood of the East river; but if tea and coffee predominated the chances would be strongly in favor of Front, Pearl or Water street. A saccharine quality in the air would suggest the sugar and molasses neighborhood of William, Wall or Front streets. Perfumes would place me at once on Leonard or Chambers, or possibly Grand street, while a strong odor of soap would let me know that Pearl or Murray street, or, perhaps, Greenwich or Hudson was not far off. If the atmosphere was fairly reeking with the smell of fish I could figure out that I had wound up somewhere near Fulton, William or Cliff street. Tobacco would give me a wide range, but I should probably be near Pearl, Pine or Broad street. The smell of hops would be a pretty indication of Whitehall street. West and South streets have their distinctive odors of shipping and seamen's supplies."

BEATS HEALTH FOODS.

Ozone in the Rocky Mountain Air Enables One to Go a Long Time Without Eating.

Edgar Wallace Conable, of Colorado Springs, has discovered that the ozone in the air of the Rocky mountains makes food practically unnecessary, and that a 15-day fast is beneficial to the body in every way, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. If this is true, it need but be a short time until Colorado may ship all her irrigated products to other markets and subsist upon Colorado ozone, of which there is an inexhaustible supply. One meal once in 15 days would be only a slight interruption in one's life work that would scarcely be noted at all, and would produce no more apparent effect than the usual frugal lunch counter collation in St. Louis. Many are somewhat accustomed to the ozone diet here already, and when in midsummer one may have observed a busy man regaling himself on a slice of watermelon and a glass of milk, it is apparent the ozone regimen was near. At first it may be necessary to take only a few crackers with your ozone; after that you can taper off on foodine, desiccated bran and other health foods, and then take up ozone altogether. It has often been said that in many cases nerve alone will keep a man alive. Ozone and nerve amount to the same thing.

ATMOSPHERIC CONUNDRUM.

A Question Often Asked by Observant Persons Elucidated by a Weather Expert.

Which is heavier, dry air or moist air? This is a question which occasionally agitates the minds of persons who get to thinking about the weather, and when such folks have considered it for a time and discussed it with their neighbors, they write to the newspapers for information, stating the New York Tribune.

Before consulting any authority, a wise man will reason in this fashion: The air absorbs the vapor from moist water dissolves sugar, and consequently there must be a gain in weight for the same volume. If he should write to Prof. Willis L. Moore, chief of the United States weather bureau in Washington, though, he would find that his own independent logic was fallacious. Prof. Moore says: "A cubic foot of dry air weighs more than a cubic foot of moist air at the same temperature and pressure. The addition of vapor to a cubic foot of dry air enlarges the volume of the mixture if the air is free to expand, as in the atmosphere, and as the vapor only weighs about two-thirds the density of dry air at the same temperature and pressure, the density of the mixture is less than that of dry air."

ALUMINUM-GOLD LATEST.

The Two Skillfully Combined Produce a Beautifully Ruby-Colored Metal.

New remarkable properties of aluminum are still being discovered. Its lightness, ductility and strength are well understood, but even these qualities are being constantly developed. Mixed with gold in a small quantity of gold a beautiful ruby-tinted metal is produced that can be used for decorative art. It is said that a comparatively thin sheet of the metal will turn a bullet.

Wire has been drawn from it as fine as and not much heavier than a fine silk fiber. In violins it produces a tone as fine as the most perfect Stradivarius. The racing shells made of it are constructed of sheets of only one-nineteenth of an inch in thickness that are as strong as an inch board and less liable to break. It does not tarnish and acids have no effect upon it, says Ores and Metals. Race horses are shod with it. Wounds are sewn up with the wire.

Eels Have Two Hearts.

The eel has two separate hearts. One beats to the other 100 times a minute.

LONG TROLLEY RIDES.

Trip of a New York Man from His City to Chicago Almost Altogether by the Electric Lines.

A glimpse of trolley car travel of the future is given in the recent experience of a New Yorker. He journeyed from New York to Chicago by trolley routes wherever it was available, and that means nearly the whole distance. He sums up a delightful experience by saying: "Steam for speed; trolley for a good ride." The cost of his journey was considerably greater, and much more time was required than would have been involved in a trip by steam railway. He was bent on pleasure, however, and he found the novelty most enjoyable.

The journey alluded to is of general interest as an indication of the amazing rate of expansion of trolley car service in the east. From New York to Buffalo the traveler found the trolley is available most of the distance, with gaps in process of rapid filling by lines under construction. He went clear across the state of Ohio, with the exception of one break of a few miles, by his favorite conveyance. The breaks in Indiana and northwestern Indiana were also few and short, and he notes that, generally speaking, the farther west he went the better service. The best stretch of electric railway in the whole distance, according to his report, was the 76 miles from Detroit to Jackson.

DUCK HUNTERS TANTALIZED.

Spot in Massachusetts Where the Fowl Swarm, Yet May Not Be Molested by Gunners.

Spot Pond, in the Middlesex Fells district, which lies between the towns of Melrose, Malden, Stoneham, Medford and Winchester, has become the focus of thousands of wild ducks, most of them of the black variety.

For the past five or six years, since the Metropolitan park commission has taken possession of the pond, no gunning has been allowed, says the Boston Journal. This the ducks quickly learned, and every year since they have been greatly augmented in numbers, until this year there is the largest number of ducks ever seen on the pond to be counted.

They sit out in the middle of the pond in several bunches extending from the Stoneham to the Medford shores. There are two islands in the vicinity on which they come each evening.

It is estimated there are over 3,000 ducks at the present time in the pond, and they are increasing daily, as the migration to the south takes place.

There were a large number of the ducks on the shores of the pond the other day with hungry eyes, watching the ducks for hours. The ducks seem to know they are safe from all danger and come quite near the shore and play with each other, and seem to have no fear.

A COLOMBIAN EXACTION.

One Item of Extortion Which Alone Surpasses Anything in "Gall" the World Over.

A significant story of the conditions prevailing in the part of South American republics recently in the periodical is told by Peter MacQueen, the Boston traveler, whose wanderings are as wide as the hemisphere, says the New York Tribune.

"I was getting ready to leave a small town in Colombia," said MacQueen, "when a very much uniformed official waited on me.

"'Senor,' said he, politely, 'I understand that you have decided to leave us to-morrow.'

"I admitted that my intention was such.

"'Senor,' he continued, deferentially, 'I have called to remind your excellency that there is as charge of ten dollars gold made for the privilege of leaving.'

"I looked at the man in utter amazement for a moment; then I inquired what reason was alleged for this piece of robbery.

"'Ah, senor, there is no reason.'

"As I was anxious to catch the boat I paid the ten dollars, but I own I was disturbed when I got back to New York to hear the New York police called 'The Finest.'"

THE CHANGED GRIZZLY.

Formerly Dreaded Animals Are No Longer Ferocious as They Comparative as They Once Were.

There are numerous reliable statements of grizzly bears having attacked men, but nowadays, says the "Grizzly Bear Lore," in Outing, the grizzly does not seek out his human victims, as there are credible statements that his forefathers used to do. Neither does he lie in wait, and, pouncing upon a traveler, tear him into bloody shreds in delighted fiendishness, as the old-time stories used to tell. The change in the grizzly's disposition is likened by veteran hunters to a change in the character of the white cousin of the grizzly, the polar bear of the arctics. When the stations for the Hudson Bay company were established the diaries of the men at them referred to the fright of attacks by polar bears. Many a navigator in the arctic seas has been clawed and chewed to death by polar bears. But for nearly a century the polar bear has not been considered as very fierce, and nowadays it is looked upon as a cowardly beast. Association with armed men has modified the polar bear's disposition.

Japan's Six Wooden Statue.

The largest wooden statue in the world to be seen in Tokio, Japan. It is 54 feet high and the head will hold 20 people.

LINEMAN SEVERELY SHOCKED

500 VOLTS OF DEADLY CURRENT SENT THROUGH JOHN SCHENCK'S BODY.

Hurled to the Street and Is Still in a Serious Condition—Happened This Noon.

John Schenck, aged twenty-six, who lives with his family at 40 Manning avenue, received a charge of about 500 volts of electricity through his body this noon while at work on some electric wires in front of Dr. J. B. Probasco's house on East Front street. He was rendered unconscious and after being twisted about the wire for several seconds, dropped to the road, twelve feet below.

The injured man was taken into Dr. Probasco's office and a hurry call was sent out for Dr. Norman Probasco. Dr. Buchanan also worked over the man.

The accident happened at 12:20 but half an hour after the man was still in an unconscious condition and it was stated that he would probably be removed to the hospital during the afternoon. There are no evidences of fractures but it is believed that he is hurt internally.

No one knows just how Schenck came in contact with the live wire but it is presumed that while at work he accidently closed a circuit with a guy wire of the trolley road and the iron post against which his ladder was leaning.

Y. M. C. A. RECEPTION.

Given to the Employes of the Pedrick & Ayer Company at Y. M. C. A. Thursday.

A reception was held Thursday at the Y. M. C. A. when the employes of the Pedrick & Ayer Company were entertained. The affair was a delightful one and the programme was enjoyed by all. The men were welcomed by the president of the association, Stephen Cahoone and the response was made by Charles C. Mauli, foreman of the Pedrick & Ayer Company.

Members of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra favored with several selections under the direction of the leader, M. A. Korff. Selections were also rendered on the xylophone, ocorevia, banjo and handbells by Joseph Loraine, of Hartford, Conn. He also favored with some humorous selections and vocal solos.

The reception committee comprised, J. W. Gavett, LeRoy H. Gates, M. C. VanArsdale, F. H. Martin, Clarence Vail, Charles F. Dayton, and T. H. Stafford. The women who assisted were: Mrs. J. A. Stafford, Mrs. LeRoy H. Gates and Mrs. Roger F. Murray.

CLAM CHOWDER SUPPER.

Formed Part of Social Evening Enjoyed by Wetumpkah Tribe.

Following a pow-wow in the tepee, Thursday, the members of Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, I. O. R. M. and many of its friends, enjoyed a smoker and clam chowder supper.

While the pipe of peace was being smoked, selections on the phonograph were given under the direction of M. Armstrong and speeches were made by C. R. Campbell, Adolph Haequer, Jerry Foss, R. B. Humphrey and Edward Eskerson. John Manley contributed several recitations.

The committee in charge consisted of M. Armstrong, William A. Westphal and R. E. Humphrey.

Extensive Addition.

Ground will be broken in a few days for an extensive addition to the house and store of William Debele, of Somerset street. The addition will 35x40 feet and will extend in the rear of the store. It will be two stories in height. About $1,000 will be spent on the improvement. The contract for the mason work has been granted to S. V. Snyder, and the carpenter will be A. J. Winckler.

Lots of Business.

Manager Charles H. Schermerhorn, of the Western Union telegraph office, has been very busy since the railroad wreck. Since that wreck about 60,000 words of press matter have been sent through this office. Most of the time several extra operators have been employed steadily.

Young Men's Supper.

The Young Men's Brotherhood of the First M. E. church will give a supper in Vincent chapel, Friday evening, February 27.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys and is wholesome. That's why I always use Lane's Herbs, and it prevented me from an awful spell of sick headache. 25c. at druggists.

"Lane's Family Medicine moves the bowels each day in order to be healthy. Made by LANE MEDICINE CO., San Francisco.

LANE'S FAMILY MEDICINE

All druggists sell Lane's Medicines, 25c. and 50c. Lane's Family Medicine moves the bowels each day in order to be healthy. Made by LANE MEDICINE CO., San Francisco.

PICTURED SEASONS IN SERIES OF TABLEAUX

Annual Social of Ladies' Aid Society of First M. E. Church Held Thursday.

WAS WELL ATTENDED

THEN THERE WAS A MUSICAL ROMANCE OF NOVEL CHARACTER.

The Guests Were Asked to Contribute According to Age in the Season of Year in Which They Were Born—Those Who Took Part.

The annual social and entertainment, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the First M. E. church, was given Thursday in Vincent chapel and attracted a large number of people. The affair consisted of four tableaux, representing spring, summer, autumn and winter, and the special feature was that after each tableaux, those who were born in the season represented, gave as many pennies as they were years old. In this way four collections were taken and a goodly sum realized. The chapel was appropriately decorated with American flags in recognition of the celebration of Lincoln's birthday.

The first tableaux, representing spring, presented a number of people out for a walk enjoying the balmy air. There were two nurse girls, Miss Helen Whitney and Miss Antionette Asholm, and the children were the Misses Margaret and Annie Robley and Archibald Smith, the Misses Jubilee Rowley, Mary Bingaman, Catherine Bingaman, Mildred Burnett and Edward Bingaman.

Summer was represented by a beautiful rose bower. Those taking part were Miss Lillian Snodgrass, Miss Nan Wilson and Harold Whitney. A picturesque golf scene represented autumn and the participants were playing golf. Those in the tableaux were Miss Carrie Mulford, Miss Lillian Snodgrass, Ralph Lane, Edward Wilson, while the caddy was George M. Rittenhouse, Jr.

The tableaux representing winter pictured the college girls at home. In this scene Miss Helen Wilson poured tea, while the others present were Miss Mary Robley, Miss Carrie Mulford, Miss Druscilla Smith, Miss Mary Smith, Miss Antionette Asholm and Miss Helen Whitney.

These tableaux were arranged and given under the supervision of Miss Bertha Hurst Whitney, assisted by Miss Stephen H. Tugwell and to them much credit is due.

In addition to the tableaux, there was given a unique musical romance, telling in song and instrumental music the happy story of a hero and heroine. Nelson A. Miller related the story minus certain important facts which were supplied by the names of songs. Mrs. Charles S. Lewis presided at the piano playing some of them while Mrs. Thomas MacDonald and Elmer D. Cutting sang others. There were twenty of these and the titles gave the complete story of the hero and heroine, who happened to be "Sweet Marie," and "Robin Adair." This portion of the entertainment was fully enjoyed and at the conclusion refreshments were served.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Mrs. Charles H. Lyman, Mrs. Nelson A. Miller, Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs. O. L. Jenkins, Mrs. Elwin Leland, Mrs. J. Hervey Doane, Mrs. Burnett, Mrs. Samuel Clark and Mrs. John Lewis.

LINCOLN AND GRANT.

Rev. W. S. Hubbell Related Remembrances of the Martyred Men.

Under the auspices of the Men's Club, Rev. W. S. Hubbell, of this city, gave an address in the Congregational church, Thursday, appropriate to the day. It consisted of personal reminiscences of Generals Grant and Lincoln, of whom he saw a great deal in an official way during the Civil War as he was a member of the Eighteenth Corps.

The two martyred presidents traits were pictured and lessons were drawn from their characters. The address proved very entertaining and was heard by a large audience.

During the evening a committee was in charge consisting of John D. Moon, Rev. C. L. Goodrich and H. C. Normer.

While There Is Life There Is Hope.

I was afflicted with catarrh; could neither taste nor smell and could hear but little. Ely's Cream Balm cured me.—Marcus G. Shantz, Rahway, N. J.

Cream Balm reached me safely and the effect is surprising. My son says the first application gave decided relief. Respectfully, Mrs. Franklin Freeman, Dover, N. H.

The Balm does not irritate or cause sneezing. Sold by druggists at 50 cts. or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., New York.

SOCIETY OUT AT COTILLION

A Patriotic Dance Was the Latest Effort of the Cotillion Club.

HELD AT THE CASINO

Decorations of the Casino Were of the National Colors, While the Figures and Favors of the Cotillion Were in Conformity With the Idea—The Guests.

American flags and tri-colored decorations were the attractive features of a patriotic cotillion given this (Feb. 21), by the Cotillion Club at the Casino, it being the third of a series of four dances which have been given this winter. Although the weather was not at all conducive to a large attendance the number of people present at last night's affair was very gratifying to the committee, and it proved to be one of the most successful dances given by that club this season.

In departing from the usual plan of decorating the assembly hall an innovation in the form of a patriotic cotillion in all spots, and the scheme was carried out admirably to the smallest detail. American flags were hung in tasty designs about the walls of the hall while the side lights as well as those which hung from the ceiling were hidden by tri-colored tissue paper. The same color effect was carried out in the front rooms of the Casino.

Heretofore the refreshment tables were carried out in the main dance hall by maids and men in waiting but last night tables were spread in the reception rooms of the hall where tri-colored candles with shades of the same color design formed the decorations.

The cotillion was led by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring and some of the figures were entirely new. After general dancing the guests were led to the reception rooms where they enjoyed the refreshments and the cotillion followed. There were five tables which were presided over respectively by F. W. Yates, E. T. Barrows, Thomas R. VanBoskerck, L. E. Waring and L. G. Timpson.

Mrs. William B. Lowe, Mrs. Howard Fleming, Mrs. Henry A. McGee and Mrs. Charles F. Abbott, received the guests and gave out the favors which consisted of miniature golf sticks, rifles, roses for the women and silk flags and cornicopias of candy.

The music was provided by Austin's orchestra, of Brooklyn, which was seated upon the stage behind a bank of potted plants and palms.

The novel ideas which were a feature of the cotillion were introduced by the committee which have made the cotillion were introduced by the committee which have made the cotillions held this winter such notable affairs. The committee comprises L. G. Timpson, F. W. Yates, E. T. Barrows and L. E. Waring.

Those present at last night's affair were: Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Timpson, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. VanBuren, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ring, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Guilford, Mr. and Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Day, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Waring, Mr. and Evarts Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Yates, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Drayton, Mr. and Mrs. Gilmore Drayton, Mr. and Mrs. Firnage, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mack, Mr. and Mrs. William Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. G. Herbert Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Blake, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McGee, Mrs. W. L. Saunder.

The Misses Fanny C. Cox, Lucy Otterson, Genevieve Lee, Helen Talmadge, May Evans, Florence Waring, Margaret Holly, Edna Strong, May Holly, Mary Anderson Reinhart, Caroline Randolph, Anna Davis, Maud VanBoskerck and Miss Webber.

Frank L. Schoonmaker, Harry L. McGee, George T. VanBoskerck, O. G. Waring, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, Dr. F. C. Ard, William Rushmore, A. Willis West, Charles Dupee, Laurens H. VanBuren, Howard Huntington, E. H. Hall, Mr. Walker, M. S. Ackerman and Harold Conger.

The out of town guests were: Miss Fox, of New York; Miss Mabel Wood, of Pittsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, of Fanwood; Miss Hoxie, of Paterson; Dr. and Mrs. William Lyle, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. William VanAntwerp, of New York; James Moore, of Pittsburg; Henry W. Lowe, of New York and William G. Blair, of New York.

Many Cases of Grip.

Nearly all of the local physicians report many cases of grip in the city. There is scarcely a family in the city or borough that has escaped the troublesome malady. In many cases the victims have been very ill requiring heroic treatment.

PARK CLUB TO BE ENLARGED

Present Quarters Are Inadequate to Meet the Demand of the Steady Growth.

MEMBER'S GENEROSITY

How Club Has Prospered Since Its Organization Eleven Years Ago —Plans for the Addition to the Clubhouse—Offer of a Member Made It Possible.

From an organization designed to meet the social wants of that colony of borough residents known as Washington Park, the Park Club has grown to become the representative social club of Greater Plainfield. With a membership of 130, filled to the limit by residents of both city and borough, the present well-equipped quarters on Washington avenue have been found inadequate and a movement is now well under way to enlarge the present clubhouse and supply the club with quarters equal to the demands upon them. The generosity of one member has materially assisted in securing this much needed addition. He has offered to meet half the expense provided the other members will donate the rest. As a result the officers of the club are rapidly securing subscriptions which will enable the club to build the addition without incurring a single penny of indebtedness.

Eleven years ago, the Washington Park Land Improvement Company built the cosy little club house and turned it over to the Park Club which was then organized. From the very start, the policy of opening the club to all members of the family was pursued and that has been continued ever since. While other clubs, which have appealed to the heads of the household only, have been organized and died, the Park Club has been steadily growing, demonstrating the wisdom of the policy which caters to the wives and children as well as the members themselves. As the demands for membership in the club grew, the membership limit was raised until it has now reached 130, which is really more than the present club house can accommodate. With the proposed improvements completed, however, the membership will be still further increased and some of those now on the waiting list added the membership of the club.

Even with the present arrangements, the Park Club has become the only permanent social organization that has much to offer its members in the way of attractions. There is the main hall, used for the delightful informal dances which follow each other in rapid succession. Then there are the formal club dances and an occasional progressive euchre party. A few "smokers" held each season have won a reputation for novelty and pleasure. Then the regular entertainment committee of the club is one of its most aggressive departments. Every winter sees a number of entertainments, each attracting an audience that crowds the little hall to the utmost capacity. Then there are the bowling matches and bowling, pool and billiard tournaments beside the regular run of play at these indoor games.

While interest in the indoor sports naturally takes a secondary place during summer months, the members of the Park Club still find plenty of enjoyment at the club. The opportunity to drop into the cool club house and enjoy a game of pool or billiards is often taken advantage of. The tennis courts were very popular last summer and the informal receptions, run in connection with the tennis tournaments, proved highly delightful social affairs. Then the Fourth of July celebration has become the principal Independence Day happening in the city.

Its central location, within a block of the trolley and almost on the line between city and borough, has made the club house a popular gathering place evenings for the members and their friends. While there are frequent special events, the regular attractions of the club are sufficient to make the time pass very pleasantly.

These plans for the enlargement of the club house naturally aroused more than the usual interest in the club. The addition has long been talked of but now that there is every indication that it will be complete before the end of the calendar year, the members are highly delighted. Many of the members have already subscribed according to their means and the others are being interviewed by the committee.

Regarding these changes, it is proposed to build an addition at the rear of the main hall which will considerably more than double the present size of it besides giving a women's dressing room and a kitchen. The basement will be enlarged on the same lines and more room given for the games, the present ones and several new ones which are to be introduced, besides making possible a sitting room where all may gather and watch the play without interfering with the players. With the enlarged hall it is planned to make the smoking features even more prominent than they are at present.

The member, whose generosity has made all this possible, has refused to allow his name to be made public but the club rings with words of praise for his kindness which has made this great improvement possible and thus enable Plainfield to boast of one of the finest clubs of all the suburban cities.

GUN CLUB MEMBERS SCORE

SHOOT AT GROUNDS OF INDEPENDENT GUN CLUB THURSDAY.

C. Steckle in the First-Class—The Scores Made by the Various Members.

An opportunity was given to those members of the Independent Gun Club Thursday afternoon to complete their unfinished scores at a qualifying shoot which was held at the Maple avenue grounds. The shooting was spirited and some fine scores were made by the contestants.

On the rifle range C. Steckle qualified in the first class. Those now in the second class are: George Kaeting, Henry Haurand, C. W. Kramer, John Wirth, Charles Jensen, Adolph Bohren, F. Doerflinger and Theodore Schaefer. The third class shooters are W. W. Mills, Rudolph Spetgel, Frank Keller, Fred Endress and L. VanDyke.

Those qualifying on the trap shooting contest are: C. M. Lockey, first class, 28 out of 36 birds, and Henry Haurand in the first class with 27 birds out of 36. Those in the second and third classes shot at 36 birds and their scores follow: William Parse, second., 22 birds; George Kaeting, second., 21 birds; W. W. Miller, second, 21; Charles Keller, second, 20 birds; L. VanDyke, second, 14; C. W. Kramer, second, 16 birds; Charles Schaefer, third, 12 birds.

Sweepstake matches were arranged on the grounds. Two purses were set up for the two highest scores. Henry Haurand and Al. Emmons, first money and VanDyke and William Krauser, Jr., second money.

These scores place the contestants in line for the final shoot of the year, which will be held on Washington's birthday at the home grounds.

FUNERAL OF T. R. MEAD.

Services Held From the Residence on East Fifth Street Feb. 11.

The funeral services of Thomas R. Mead were held Wednesday Feb. 11, at 2:30 o'clock from the late home in the fifth street house where a large number of relatives and friends gathered to honor the memory of one who was highly esteemed. There were many floral tributes from friends and relatives.

Rev. John W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, conducted the services, and spoke words of praise concerning the sincere and devoted Christian life of the departed. He referred to his long faithful service as an officer of the Baptist church as Sexton Psalms. He also spoke words of sympathy and comfort to the bereaved family.

The interment took place in the North Plainfield cemetery and the pall bearers, all close friends of Mr. Mead, were David Hand, LeRoy Treadwell, Fred Smith, Dr. F. W. Westcott, John Bornman and Alfred D. Beeken.

THOMPSON-SETON COMING.

Will Lecture Here Twice on Washington's Birthday.

Manager Mase Edwards has just closed negotiations for a strong attraction at the Casino, on Washington's birthday, in the person of Ernest Thompson-Seton, the friend of animals. A matinee will be given in the afternoon especially for the children when Mr. Thompson-Seton will speak on the subject "The Indians as I Knew Them." In the evening his subject will be "Animal Minds and Heroes Of." Both lectures will be fully illustrated.

Want Less Engines Disabled.

Superintendents of the New Jersey Division of the Lehigh Valley Railroad have urged freight engineers, many of whom are firemen recently promoted, to use every effort to make a creditable showing as to the number of engines disabled on account of knocking fires for trivial causes, such as injectors failing to work.

In Case of Accident.

Accidents will happen. Mother strains her back lifting a sofa. Father is hurt in the shop. Children are forever falling and bruising themselves. There is no preventing these things, but their worse consequences are averted with Perry Davis' Painkiller. No other remedy approaches it for the relief of sore strained muscles. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 23—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—An evening with home missions —Acts i, 6-8.

The general missionary command of Christ to His disciples was, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature," but just before His ascension He specialized the general worldwide mission by setting forth the order in which it was to be performed. And by Christ's suggested method mission work was to be begun at home. "Ye shall be witnesses unto Me both in Jerusalem and in all Judea and in Samaria and unto the uttermost part of the earth." First Jerusalem, the home city; then Judea, the home country; then Samaria, the first contiguous country, and thence the whole world. And the book of the Acts is the record of the preaching of the gospel (1) in Jerusalem, (2) in Judea, (3) in Samaria and (4) throughout the world.

Christ therefore laid special stress upon home missions. "Beginning at Jerusalem" the disciples were to evangelize the world. They were not, however, to stop at Jerusalem. Home mission work is not all. "There is enough to do at home" is no excuse for lack of interest in foreign missions. Samaria and the world need the gospel as well as Jerusalem and Judea, and they were included in Christ's instructions. But mission work is to begin at home, and the desire of every American Christian Endeavorer should be to win America for Christ.

The reasons for our include missions in every part of the United States. But some one may ask, Is not our nation Christianized? Yes and no. We can claim that we are a Christian nation and yet beneath our flag and in the shadow of our churches millions who need the gospel. In the great west there are many destitute and needy districts that can only have the gospel through the missionaries. In the south there are 8,000,000 of colored people and 10,000,000 of the mountain whites who need the labors of Christian missionaries. Then there are millions of un-Christian foreigners, 300,000 Mormons, 250,000 Indians, 300,000 Mexicans and the Alaskans and islanders. These are the exceptional populations of our country, the vast majority of whom are un-Christianized, and they call to us for the gospel.

With such a mission field at our very doors it need scarcely be argued that we are enthusiastically supporting home missions. Yet, let us ask, why? 1. Because of Christ's command. This of itself should be sufficient. American cities are our Jerusalem, and the American nation is our Judea. Christ has given us a work to do for Him, and He should be obeyed. 2. Patriotism should make us home missionaries. Our national interests demand that our nation be entirely Christianized. The race problem of the South, the Mormon and Indian problems, the problem of the foreigners in our land, will be best solved by the evangelization of the peoples. Nothing will so add to our national stability and so insure our future well being as the evangelization of the entire nation. 3. Worldwide evangelism should make us home missionaries. Our nation occupies a unique place in the world. God seems to have destined it to be the bearer of Christian truth to the fifth continent, where, as is true, the sooner America is evangelized the sooner the world will be evangelized.

But what can we do for home missions? 1. Pray for them. The power must come from God's spirit. 2. Study the field and its needs. Information arouses interest and zeal. 3. Advocate home missions. 4. Give liberally to their financial support. The gospel is free, but it costs money to send it to those who have it not.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. xxxiii, 10-22; cxxii, 6-9; cxxxvii, 5, 6; Prov. xiv, 34; Isa. iii, 7; Nah. i, 15; Matt. xxiii, 37; Luke xxiv, 45-48; Rom. ix, 1-5; x, 14, 15.

The Unity of Christian Endeavor.

It is my deliberate conviction that the thing about the whole Christian Endeavor movement that has made it so acceptable in all branches of evangelical Christendom and that accounts for its growth and important success is its evident and pervasive sanity. It is a reasonable, sensible, workable method of doing Christ's work in the church. This is why the church of Christ has taken Christian Endeavor to its bosom everywhere.—Rev. A. E. Francis, Pastor Clarendon Street Baptist Church, Boston.

Two Good Rules.

There are two good rules which ought to be written on every heart—never to believe anything bad about anybody unless you positively know it to be true, never to tell even that unless you feel that it is absolutely necessary and that God is listening while you tell it. —Dr. Henry Van Dyke.

Pledging and Paying.

"There is nothing in promise; it is all in fulfillment," once remarked President Roosevelt. It never costs to be the Christian Endeavorer. The only true Endeavorer is the one who lives up to his pledge.

Quiz Box.

[Any question may be asked that pertains to any phase of Christian Endeavor work. Address Lock Box 674, Binghamton, N. Y.]

37. B., Batavia, N. Y.—Questions needing a speedy reply will be answered by mail if return postage is inclosed.

38. L., Troy, N. Y.—The name of the new bulletin of the New York State union is Empire State Notes. It is issued quarterly at 10 cents per annum. A sample copy will be mailed if you address the publishers at 77 Le Roy street, Binghamton, N. Y.

BILLS BY SENATOR GROSS

UNION COUNTY'S SENATOR HAS INTRODUCED THREE IMPORTANT BILLS.

One of Them Provides for the Incorporation of Political Committees.

Three important measures have recently been introduced in the upper part of the Legislature by Senator Gross, the first of which is a bill, No. 116, which establishes the office of register of deeds and mortgages in counties, office to be an elective one, term five years, such office to be commissioned by the Governor and to receive the same fees and enjoy the same rights and privileges as in the case of the clerk of the court of common pleas and all laws and penalties relating to the latter shall govern the new office.

The second measure, bill No. 116, grants the consent of the State to the acquisition by condemnation, purchase or otherwise by the United States of certain land in Elizabeth, not exceeding two acres for a post-office.

The third measure, bill No. 117, is an act to incorporate political committees. It gives the organizations of political parties the right to become a body politic, capable of suing or being sued, such incorporations being permitted to make, adopt or use, from time to time, alter, amend or change such general form of a constitution and by-laws for their government, provided that such shall not be repugnant to the constitution or laws of the United States or New Jersey.

I. C. T. WON.

Victorious in Practice Game With the Reform Club Played Last Thursday.

To better their condition for the opening of the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League Thursday, the teams of the I. C. T. Club and the Reform Club played a practice game in Reform Hall last evening. They found the largest playing floor in the city and ample accommodations for the spectators. It was the first time these two teams had lined up against each other and for that reason attracted special attention.

Superior team work landed the I. C. T. Club in front at the start. More accurate goal throwing helped. The Reform Club scored chiefly on fouls. The I. C. T. Club boys were a little careless and the accurate throwing of Taylor enabled the Reform Club to keep up very well. At the end of the first half, the score was 14 to 7 in favor of the I. C. T. Club. The same club finally won by a score of 23 to 15.

The teams lined up as follows:

I. C. T. Club.		Reform Club.
Reynolds . . .	right forward .	O'Loughlin, capt
Calcea, capt . . .	left forward	Scott
Sherwin	centre	Higgins
Overtaugh . . .	right guard	Conway, Galbraith
Blimm	left guard	Taylor

Score—I. C. T. Club, 23; Reform Club, 15. Goals from the field—Reynolds (2), Calcea, Sherwin (2), Blimm, Scott (2), Taylor. Goals on fouls—Calcea (3), Taylor (9). Fouls—I. C. T. Club, 21; Reform Club, 7. Referee—Charles D Morse. Umpires—George Whitley and J. Fred Wharton. Scorer—George McCombe. Timekeeper—Wm. Porter.

Samuel Wallace, of Grove street, is much improved from a severe attack of the grip.

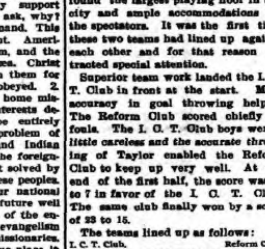
Miss Mabel Wilson, of High Bridge, is visiting Plainfield friends for a time.



L. W. RANDOLPH.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 23, "The Christian Man In Public Life"—Text, II Chron. xvii, 3, 4; xxix. 30-37; Neh. xiii, 3, 4.

It is easy in the world to live after the world's fashion. It is easy in private to follow your own. The hard thing in life is to so mingle with men as to have influence among them and still to keep virtue unsullied and the heart pure.

The Christian is not distinguished from other men by his opinions of any sort. He is Christian because, and only because, he recognizes and follows moral obligations as defined by Jesus Christ. He holds to truth. He cannot deny it. He will not compromise it. He must do right—right as he sees it at the time and under given circumstances, wherever it may lead and whatever the consequences. And this not obstinately, but masterfully, but with firmness and reasonably. Courteous to all men and tolerant of opinions differing from his own, he holds his own position none the less tenaciously and yields only to conviction of truth and right.

Whatever difficulties may lie in the way of a pure and devoted Christian life in private, that is a very simple matter compared to living a consistent, earnest Christian life in public. Difficulties multiply. The opinions and wishes and actions of other people must be considered and unavoidably affect us. We meet customs and traditions which have almost the force of law, but which are different from and in some cases contradictory to our previous notions and accustomed ways of life. Whether we ought to conform to, openly oppose or try to silently ignore these new conditions and requirements taxes the soul to decide.

Sometimes an old proverb or maxim learned in childhood has great influence—such as, "When you are in Rome, do as the Romans do"—or it may be a red light danger signal dashes up on the track ahead, and we remember, "My son, if sinners entice thee, consent thou not."

All the truth stored in the soul in private in communion with God and all the rules of life learned from His word and in practice become invaluable as aids in the wider experience of public life, whether in business, political, professional, industrial or social life, but all must be newly adjusted in application to new circumstances and unfamiliar requirements. The doings of others cannot be our guide without careful examination.

Good citizenship requires that we have opinions based on our own examination of the questions at issue, that we act as we believe to be right and not merely as one of a crowd. No coalition with party can obligate a person to do what is morally wrong for him to do as an individual or justify him in such action. Every one is held everywhere and at all times to tell the truth and do the right so far as he does know it. Officeholding can never make it right for a person to secure his individual gain by violation of his trust.

Fraud and deceit have been all too powerful in public affairs in times past. A large majority of the times is a demand for more rigid ideas of duty. Every Christian must be Christian in public as well as in private.

Earthly Trials.

The earthly trials that come to us are God's means of securing our heavenly joy. They lie upon the road we have to travel, and they help us forward. As means of sanctification they make us "meet for the inheritance." If Christ prepares mansions for His people, it is by preparing them for the mansions. The affliction is not merely light compared with the weight of glory, but it actually worketh that very glory and secures it. It holds a chief place among the "all things" that work together for good.—Sunday at Home.

Christ Near Us.

I cannot but think that the average Christian life of this day woefully fails in the simple, conscious realization of this great truth and that we are all far too little living in the calm, happy, strengthening assurance that we are never alone, but have Jesus Christ with each of us more closely, more truly, in a more available fashion and with more omnipotence of influence than they had who were nearest Him during the days that He lived upon earth. —Christian Endeavor World.

A Perfect Model.

It is a great thing for a painter or a sculptor to have a perfect model. God has presented to us a perfect model that we might fashion our lives after Him. It cannot be wrong, therefore, for men, with all their limitations, to endeavor to be like Him, and we are not forbidden to hope that through all the conditions of earthly life we may approach nearer and nearer to His adorable likeness. The very condition of seeing Him is to be like Him.—Independent.

Following Christ.

Following Christ brings some uphill climbs, but victory and holy joy await us at the top. Crosses then will turn into shining crowns. Coming to Christ must not end with the coming; it is those who follow Him leading and endure to the end who will be saved. "Abide in Me, and ye shall bear much fruit." And that is the one sure way to be delivered from the curse and infamy of a barren life.—Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D.

The Right Road.

For right is right, since God is God,
And right the day must win.
To doubt would be disloyalty;
To falter would be sin.
—Sarah Mor...ger.

ENTERTAINMENT AND DANCE

GIVEN BY THE YOUNG MEN'S DEMOCRATIC CLUB LAST THURSDAY.

Affair Proved Highly Successful, and Was Attended by Many Prominent Politicians.

The local Young Men's Democratic Club tried its hand at entertaining, last Thursday, by giving a diversified programme at the Casino. It was comprised of two parts, an entertainment and dance. Both were largely attended, not only by local friends of the organization, but by many prominent politicians of the county, including Peter Egenolf and Judge Mahon, of Elizabeth, and John Moody, of Cranford.

As rendered the programme consisted of piano solos by Miss Lamberding, of Rahway; songs by Robert Swart, of Elizabeth; a musical turn by the Ern brothers; songs and dances by George Carroll, of Elizabeth; and operatic selections by Miss Means, of his city. Every number was heartily encored and the programme was greatly lengthened through responses. Afterward the floor was cleared and dancing, with Harris's orchestra, of Elizabeth, accompanying, was taken up by the greater part of the audience. It was continued until an early hour this morning.

In honor of the occasion and the day, the Casino was decorated with patriotic colors making a very pretty effect. Taken as a whole the affair was a decided success and the committee was warmly complimented for its efforts.

Those who arranged and had charge during the evening were Frank Shatzle, A. J. Nolan, James J. Kane, P. J. Reville, C. A. Shannon, John Moran and J. F. Deitz.

WILL RUN FAST TRAINS.

Pennsylvania Finds Traffic Too Heavy to Reduce Service.

An impression has gained ground with the withdrawal of the twenty-hour trains of the Pennsylvania from New York to Chicago, that the company contemplates withdrawing other fast trains. This is a mistake. An official of the company says that the passenger traffic is so great at this time that the company could not under circumstances think well afford to reduce its service further. Many of the heaviest trains have to be run in sections, and cancellation of additional fast trains would simply mean the placing of more sections to other trains. The fastest long-distance train on the road is No. 11, the fast mail between New York and St. Louis. Officials say that this train will not be taken off.

HOSPITAL CAR.

Erie Railroad to Furnish Gratuitous Services for Employes.

A hospital car is now being built by the Erie Railroad at its car shops in Jersey City. It will be fitted with all modern conveniences. Competent surgeons are to be employed and on duty day and night. This is intended to furnish gratuitous service to all employes and will be sent after any injured person on the company's lines. The Erie will be the first road in New Jersey to give this service a trial.

BLACK DIAMOND CHANGES.

Lehigh Valley's Show Train Run Under New Schedule.

A circular has been issued by the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company stating that on and after February 9, 1903, the Black Diamond Express will be operated daily, leaving New York at 10:23 o'clock in the morning and arriving at Buffalo at 10 o'clock at night and arriving at Chicago at 12:25 o'clock the next day noon. The restrictions heretofore in effect as to transportation honored on this train will be abandoned, and all regular tickets will be honored. No extra fare will be charged, except from New York to Chicago.

ONE TO COLLECT.

Postmaster Bird Will Have One Carrier Simply to Collect Mail.

Postmaster E. H. Bird is making arrangements to have an extra regular man appointed whose duties it will be to make collections from the several mail boxes about the city. It has been shown that the time of the regular carriers is too much taken up in making collections and it is believed that if one man attends to the collections the work of delivering mail will be facilitated, thereby making it possible for everybody to get their mail on time.

R. A. McGee to Assist.

Miss Harriette Cady, who is well-known as a music-lover in Plainfield, will give a piano recital at the Waldorf-Astoria, Friday afternoon, February 27, at 3 o'clock, assisted by Raymond A. McGee, basso, of Washington Park. Mr. McGee will give five numbers from Gounod, Chopin and Ballard. The affair will be given under the patronage of a number of well-known New York society women.

DAILY PRESS' FIRST MANAGER PASSED AWAY

James Alfred Demarest, Well-Known Newspaperman, Died in Brooklyn, Yesterday.

STRICKEN BY APOPLEXY

WAS FIRST MANAGER AND CITY EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS.

Had Been Been Employed on The Weekly Constitutionalist—Left Here to Become U. S. Consul at Brockville, Canada.

James Alfred Demarest, for many years city editor and general manager of The Daily Press and at one time probably one of the best known newspaper men in New Jersey, died Friday afternoon at his home, 43a Vanderbilt avenue, Brooklyn. Mr. Demarest was in his fifty-first year, was stricken with apoplexy Monday in the office of the Brooklyn Times, where he was employed. He was removed at once to his home and grew steadily weaker.

Mr. Demarest was born in the old city of New York and received his early education in the public schools. He afterward entered the College of the City of New York, from which he was graduated with honors. Later he entered the newspaper field and while a young man secured a place in the office of The Weekly Constitutionalist, first as a reporter, later as a bookkeeper and became the first manager and city editor of The Daily Press. The latter position he held until July 1895, when Presidents Cleveland appointed him U. S. Consul to Brockville, Can. This position he held for four years, or until President McKinley was elected. Mr. Demarest was then retired from that position and he returned to New York to reengage in the newspaper business.

Mr. Demarest was a forceful character and a strong and able writer. At different times he engaged in politics, being a Democrat, and in many ways he assisted his party toward success. At the close of President Cleveland's first term, when Mr. Cleveland was going from Washington to his home in New York, he passed through Plainfield. At that time Mr. Demarest was the first one to announce Mr. Cleveland's candidacy for a second term. He had a large banner bearing that announcement displayed at the North Avenue station. Mr. Cleveland was in passing through the city and afterward he acknowledged it in a letter to Mr. Demarest. That letter was published in The Daily Press. Although Mr. Cleveland was not elected for the following term he was re-elected four years later and he did not forget to reward Mr. Demarest for his efforts in his behalf.

During his residence in Plainfield, Mr. Demarest assumed the management of Stillman Music Hall and it can be said that he was one of the most satisfactory managers of that hall. There were many excellent qualities in Mr. Demarest's character and he was always true to his friends. He exerted a strong influence in many directions and was instrumental in moulding public opinion in regard to various topics of importance. His persistent efforts in urging the building of a suitable Y. M. C. A. home and of Music Hall and his stirring articles urging the removal of the old freight house were signal victories.

Mr. Demarest leaves a wife and a son, Alfred, twelve years of age; also four sisters. Two of the latter are married, one being the wife of Rev. Charles Dann, formerly of Park avenue, but now of Freeport, Ill. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock from the late home, 43a Vanderbilt avenue, Brooklyn, and the interment will be in Hillside cemetery, this city, Monday.

TO IMPROVE PROPERTY.

Local Investment Company Purchases Ground of Barclay Estate.

The Stephen Vail property, corner of Central avenue and Fourth street, belonging to the Michael F. Barclay estate, has been purchased by the Mono Investing Company, comprising L. B. Woolston, J. C. Pope, J. A. Smith and G. W. V. Moy, stockholders. The property has a frontage of 179 feet on Fourth street and 120 feet on Central avenue. It is said that the property will be improved by the erection of new residences of approved modern style. The property transaction was made through the agency of Leitke & Laing, of Park avenue.

A Little Loss

of flesh and strength, little barking, obstinate cough and a little pain in the chest may not mean galloping consumption, but they are signs that prudence will not neglect. A few doses of Allen's Lung Balsam cause a free discharge of mucus and so loosens the cough. It heals the inflamed air passages and all its beneficent work is accomplished without a grain of opium.

TO IMPROVE ITS SERVICE

Mr. Huntington Says Central Will Continue to Make All Possible Improvements.

SEVERAL CONSIDERED

Automatic Device to Stop All Trains That Run Past Signals Is Under Consideration—No More Grade Crossings—What Mr. Besler Has to Say on the Verdict.

When General Superintendent Huntington, of the New Jersey Central, was shown the verdict of the Coroner's jury in the Westfield disaster, Saturday, he told a reporter that the railroad is now making all possible improvements, and would continue to do so. He explained that certain railroads in the west were experimenting with electricity for headlights, but that his road was experimenting with acetylene gas, and hoped it would prove a better substitute than electricity for the present old headlights. Mr. Huntington said that ninety-nine per cent. of the locomotives in the country were now using oil for headlights.

The block signal system used on the New Jersey Central, he declared, was the best known. At present an automatic device was being considered, which if successful would bring to a stop all trains that passed signals. In the future all crossings would be either depressed or elevated at streets. The principal improvement of this character would be at Elizabethport, where the trains of the Long Branch division cross at grade.

Vice President and General Manager W. G. Besler, who resides in Washington Park, was questioned last evening as to his opinion of the verdict. He said: "If the public is satisfied the railroad company is." Mr. Besler, as he has previously stated, said that all the evidence pointed to the fact that Engineer Davis had disregarded six distinct signals. The seeing of any one of them would have prevented the disaster. Mr. Besler seemed to be thoroughly satisfied with the verdict, believing that it was given according to the honest belief of men whose integrity has never been questioned.

ANOTHER WIN.

Plainfield Camera Club Defeats the Jersey City Club Whist Team.

The whist four of the Plainfield Camera Club, holders of the Metropolitan whist trophy, scored another win for this trophy Friday night when the Jersey City team was defeated. This makes the third win for the local team and too much praise cannot be given for the excellent work in keeping the trophy in Plainfield. The final score Friday night was 10 to 8 points in favor of the Camera Club. In the first round the visitors were the victors 3 to 5, while the in the second and third rounds, the local team were the winners 2 to 1 and 5 to 2.

The Camera Club team was composed of Arthur F. Freeman, Fred H. Freeman, Ralph T. Willis and W. J. R. Hegeman, Jr. Those representing the Jersey City Club team were C. T. Whitsier, D. Bowley, O. S. Mecabe and J. H. Burnstead, Jr. The Elizabeth Chess and Whist Club is next in line as challengers.

NEW LODGE.

Daniel Lodge, K. of P., Organized Among Local Colored Men.

Under the direction of James Scott, Daniel Lodge, No. 16, K. of P., was organized Thursday in Odd Fellows Hall on West Front street. The new lodge was set apart by Grand Chancellor Campbell, of Atlantic City, and Grand Deputy J. H. Mason, of Newark. The following officers were chosen: Chancellor commander, Chas. E. Jefferson; vice, W. W. Scott; keeper of record, Reuben Wray; master of exchequer, G. W. Alexander; master of finance, F. DeHart; prelate, C. M. Small; master-at-arms, Ostem Knight; inner guard, H. Thomas; outer guard, David Thompson; master of work, E. Cuff.

The new lodge starts with a membership of twenty-eight and meetings will be held twice a month.

One Minute Cough Cure gives relief in one minute, because it kills the microbe which tickles the mucous membrane, causing the cough, and at the same time clears the phlegm, draws out the inflammation and heals and soothes the affected parts. One Minute Cough Cure strengthens the lungs, wards off pneumonia and is a harmless and never failing cure in all curable cases of Coughs, Colds and Croup. One Minute Cough Cure is pleasant to take, harmless and good alike for young and old. L. W. Randolph.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

LITERARY.

Seven important men are discussed in the February number of The Cosmopolitan: "The Young Napoleon," by Field-marshal Viscount Wolseley; "Leo Tolstoy; an Interpretation Done in Little," by Elbert Hubbard; August Belmont, by R. H. Graves; Henry M. Whitney, by A. E. MacFarlane; "The Triumphal Tour of Adolf Lorenz," by John Brisben Walker; William Andrews Clark, by H. R. Knapp; and "President McKinley's Tours," by W. W. Price.

Shake Off the Wintry Blasts.

The months of January and February are the most disagreeable to the northerner and delightful are they for the Florida tourist. The trip to Jacksonville is through a section as historic as it is picturesque, and the service to that point via the Royal Blue Line is the best. The New Jersey Central is going to run an excursion to Jacksonville on Tuesday, March 10. Train leaves New York, foot Liberty street, at 8:30 a. m., arrive Washington at 2:10 p. m., same day; leave Washington at 7 p. m., March 11 and arrive Jacksonville at 1:20 p. m., March 12. The round trip rate from New York and vicinity is $20, and includes also sleeping car berths, meals en route, transfer and hotel accommodations in Washington on southward trip, passengers making their own arrangements for the northward return trip. The arrangements are such that the care and worry of the journey are in the hands of the railroad company, and the tourist has the entire time for enjoyment. The New Jersey Central has issued "A Little Yellow Book" on this Florida trip; if you want it send a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York. It's free for the asking. 2 18 6 eod c 3

UNITY TO CELEBRATE.

Passing of Twentieth Year as An Organization to be Fittingly Observed.

Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., is completing arrangements to celebrate on a large scale, the twentieth anniversary of its organization which falls on Thursday evening, February 26. Democratic headquarters on East Second street has been engaged for the occasion and Pythian lodges from this city, Bound Brook, Somerville and Elizabeth will be entertained. In addition Crescent Division, Uniformed Rank, of this city, will attend in a body.

Unity Lodge is one of the organizations which was burned out through the destruction of the Babcock building, last March, but none have made more rapid strides since. It has recovered entirely from the temporary set-back and the score year anniversary will be observed as fully as if nothing had occurred

To Move Out of Borough.

William L. Smalley & Company, the Somerset butchers, are about to close their store at the corner of Somerset and Race streets and move to their former store at Park avenue and East Fourth street. The change will not take place until April 1. It is understood that a number of other merchants in the borough are planning to make a similar move on or about the first of April.

THEATRICAL.

"The Sultan of Sulu," is in the middle of its second month at Wallack's and if anything Mr. Ade's witty musical satire is even more popular than it was at the start. It is only one of nine big musical shows now running on Broadway, yet the management announces that Wallack's broke the house record last Saturday night. It is a coincidence worthy of mention that last week another of Henry W. Savage's companies presenting George Ade's second operatic satire, "Peggy from Paris," at the Stadebaker theatre in Chicago broke the record for that house where "The Sultan of Sulu" had an initial run of three months, and still another of the companies "The Prince of Pilsen" broke the record of the Century theatre in St. Louis at the same time.

Having passed its 300th performance at the Casino, New York, "A Chinese Honeymoon" is still setting the pace for music-mad Broadway. Although twelve of the most popular New York theatres have musical comedies or comic operas as their attractions, and although "A Chinese Honeymoon" is "the daddy of them all" with respect to consecutive performances on Broadway it has lost none of its popularity or drawing power. The past week, the fortieth of its successive triumph at the Casino, excelled even the receipts record for the house established by this same company last Thanksgiving week.

The announcement of the return to the Grand Opera House, New York, of "A Desperate Chance," Theodore Kremer's greatest melo-drama, and one which has for its foundation the life-story of the famous Biddle Brothers, the Pennsylvania outlaws, will doubtless prove of more than passing interest to patrons of that house.

Washington in Winter.

Washington is a typical winter vacation resort and its bustle is purely social and political. There are gathered in the Capital representatives of every nation and country, and their comings and goings are of no little interest. Then the doings of the Senate and House are features which every tourist delights in following, and these features together with the visits to the numerous public buildings keep one busy all the while one is in Washington. The Royal Blue Line of which the New Jersey Central is the initial road is going to operate an excursion to Washington on February 19, and cost of tickets for the three days' excursion including all expenses is $12. Train *leaves New York at 1 p. m., and ar*rives Washington at 6:10 p. m. If you want to know about the trip drop a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York City, for tour book. Free for the asking.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.

The only positive cure for blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, cuts, burns, bruises, eczema and all abrasions of the skin. DeWitt's is the only Witch Hazel Salve that is made from the pure, unadulterated witch hazel—all others are counterfeits. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is made to cure—counterfeits are made to sell. L. W. Randolph.

COUGHS UP BRASS TACK.

After Eleven Years a Denver Boy Plays Havoc with a Costly Medical Diagnosis.

Cecil Hull a 13-year-old boy who is a pupil in a Denver high school, had been afflicted with bronchial trouble for 11 years. The other day he fell into a severe paroxysm of coughing lasting for three-quarters of an hour. Then he coughed up a membraneous substance which was found to contain a tack he had swallowed when four years old.

It was feared that he was developing tuberculosis, but all efforts to relieve him had proved unsuccessful. Now he is improving and is free from bronchial irritation. Physicians who had worked with the boy declare it to be one of the strangest cases in all their practice affirming it to be almost impossible for a tack to remain for that length of time in a person's throat.

THEN HE COUGHED UP.

The tack itself was a brass carpet tack about a half inch long. Cecil had swallowed it when he was four years old. Efforts were made at the time to remove it but without success. Later he began to complain of irritation, and then the chronic bronchial trouble developed and caused him suf*fering for years.* His parents naturally are rejoiced at the outcome.

"We feared the boy's health never would be good," said Mr. Hull. "It seemed that the older he grew the more frequent and more violent became the paroxysms of coughing. The strange thing in connection with his case is the fact that none of the physicians who examined him were able to give a reason for his affliction. They could not declare his lungs affected, and yet he had the cough which is considered a sure symptom. When he started to cough in the paroxysm which brought out the tack, I began to fear the end was coming right then, it was so severe. The outcome is most fortunate."

UNIQUE TOMBSTONE.

The Old Fireplace of the Maine Hunnewells Set Up in Cemetery Over Their Graves.

The most remarkable gravestone in all Maine, if, indeed, its like can be found anywhere, is in the Hunnewell family lot at Windham, where a great old-fashioned fireplace serves instead of marble or granite shaft.

The Hunnewells have for two and a half centuries been the foremost people in Windham, and many of the family lie buried in this cemetery. Recently Charles H. Hunnewell, the present head of the family, decided to erect a monument in the cemetery lot.

He decided that the old fireplace where his greatgrandparents did their cooking and toasted their toes would be more appropriate for the purpose than an ordinary monument. So he had the old fireplace taken from the farmhouse, with its hanging crane, andirons and other belongings, and set up in the graveyard in a framework of bricks taken from the old chimney—bricks that were brought from England in the early part of the seventeenth century.

HUNNEWELL'S MONUMENT.

Thus the fireplace stands, a conspicuous object among the white stones that surround it. The opening is filled in with a metal tablet, upon which is inscribed the record of the Hunnewell family for eight generations, or from 1654 to 1901—247 years.

In the space around the family rec*ord appear pictures of fowls, cows,* hogs and other live stock owned by the various generations of the Hunnewells, which were prizes at fairs. Seven hens, two hogs, four cows and six oxen appear in single pictures, while others are in a group. There is, in addition, a large picture, representing a farm scene in winter.

THE KING OF ...

Oriental Potentate, Who Will Visit Us Soon, Is a Truly Progressive Monarch.

Chulalongkorn I., king of Siam, has long been contemplating a visit to the United States. The crown prince is at present making a tour here, and his father has definitely announced his intention of coming over in January next.

His majesty Chulalongkorn—or we may be permitted to say his royal hairpin, as that is precisely what chu la long korn means—was born September 1, 1853, and at the age of 15 he succeeded to the throne upon the death of his father. Then, according to Si-

THE KING OF SIAM.
(Known in His Country as "His Royal Hairpin.")

amese custom, he went into novitiate for the priesthood for two days. In 1873 he was again crowned, and here, seated upon his magnificent throne, he received his courtiers from the time-honored custom of appearing in their sovereign's presence on hands and knees. This was the beginning of his doing away with many rigid and ridiculous court rules. Formerly the king was regarded as a sort of semi-divine being. He caused as no one else did and he used words which no one else was allowed to utter. King Chulalongkorn attires himself in ordinary dress and knows how to make himself generally agreeable. He is unusually studious and progressive, and has during his reign introduced a privy council, a cabinet, and a legislative council. There is a noticeable lack of dogmatism in all his decisions.

To insure the greatest degree of welfare for his people the king is continually sending his officials on investigating excursions, and if in the course of their travels they find any hints which may be of advantage to Siam, he heartily cooperates in any feasible project. Not only is he educating his sons abroad, but he is maintaining 90 other young men who are studying some one of the professions. He himself is an extensive traveler.

Siam, on account of its central position in relation to neighboring states, its influence over them and its maintenance of its own native government, has been called the "Heart of Further India." It invites foreign trade and would undoubtedly prove a good market for any American who might be enterprising enough to attempt a furtherance of commercial intercourse.

OLD FORT PUTNAM.

Ruins of Famous Revolutionary Fortification Still in Existence Near West Point.

When the revolution had become a foregone conclusion, the importance of fortifying the Hudson river at its narrow passes among the Highlands RUINS OF FORT PUTNAM.

(One of the Most Attractive Spots About West Point, N. Y.)

was suggested to the continental congress by the provincial assembly of New York, and on the 6th of October, 1775, the former directed the latter to proceed to make such fortifications as it should deem best. In pursuance of these directions, says the Four-Track News, a number of forts were erected at various points. In March following, it was determined to erect a strong fort at West Point, and under direction of Kosciusko, the famous Pole, Fort Clinton was built. To further defend Fort Clinton and command the river, a strong fort was erected on Mount Independence and called Fort Putnam in honor of Gen. Israel Putnam, commander of the post. After the revolution the old fort was almost destroyed by people in the neighborhood using the material for building purposes, but in 1824, the government bought the land on which it stood, and the picturesque ruins of the old fort remain to this day, as one of the most attractive spots about West Point.

Russia's Merchant Marine.

The Russian mercantile marine consists of 745 steamers and 2,293 sailing vessels.

"POLYS" BEATEN BY LOCAL Y. M. C. A. BOYS

Hot Basket Ball Game Finally Ended in Favor of Local Team by Six Points.

THE SCORE WAS 23 TO 17

TEAM FROM POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE, OF BROOKLYN, PLAYED HERE.

Game Played in Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium Was Fast from Start to Finish—Visitors Led at the Start, But the Home Team Made a Strong Fight and Won Out.

One of the best basket ball games witnessed in this city this winter was played Friday evening between the Y. M. C. A. team and a team from the Polytechnic Institute, of Brooklyn. The visitors have the reputation of being among the best in the Metropolitan district and it was naturally expected that they would give the local team all it wanted to do in holding them down. The game was played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and was very fast from start to finish. Two twenty minute halves were played with ten minutes intermission. The local team won the contest by a score of 23 to 17.

In the first half the two teams were very evenly matched during the early part of the contest, but toward the last the visitors showed considerable strength and walked away from their opponents with some ease. In this half the Y. M. C. A. team threw four goals from the field and one from foul, making a total of 9 points. The "Poly's" did a little better. They threw three goals from the field and four from foul, making a total of 10 points.

The local team made a grand fight in the second half and showed the visitors how to play the game. The score of their opponents was just dou*bled, the points being 14 to 7.* The local team threw six goals from the field and two from fouls, while the "Polys" threw three goals from the field and one from a foul. Unquestionably the home team played much the better game in the last half, although the work of the visitors was superb. They played a sharp game and their interference was a strong point. Too much credit cannot be given the visitors, however, for they put up a strong game throughout. The individual play was fine and at the same time the members of the team played well together. There was a marked improvement in their interference and general work.

The line-up was as follows:

Y. M. C. A.		"Poly's."
Denton	right forward	Mason
Bland	left forward	Weidmann
Scull	centre	Gluck
R. Neal	right guard	Benoit
Heinecke	left guard	St. John

Referee—C. R. A. Haywood. Timers—W. C. Smith and Bert Brokaw. Umpires—Robert M. Meeker and R. Doty. Scorer—John H. Doane.

MAY CLEAR UP MYSTERY

THE BUNCH OF KEYS AND NAME TAG REGARDED AS IMPORTANT CLUE.

Found Near Scene of Westfield Disaster, and Belonged, Perhaps, to Wreck Victim.

Officials in this city and of the New Jersey Central regard a letter received by Dr. F. W. Westcott from Assistant County Prosecutor English, extremely important in regard to learning the identity of the unclaimed wreck victim at Cole's undertaking parlors. As attempt is being made to follow up the clue revealed, and developments are anxiously awaited.

The letter is here given in full:

Elizabeth, Feb. 11, 1903.

Frank W. Westcott, M. D.

Dear Sir: A few days ago a man named Charles E. Mackintosh, of this city, called at my office and said that a few days after the Westfield disaster he found near the scene a ring of keys. The ring was marked "Gannett, Derby, N. H.," and also bore the inscription "B. of R. T.," which I think is an abbreviation of the name of a railroad employes' fraternal society. He gave the keys to a brakeman employed on a train which was stopping there at the time, and whose name he does not remember. I write thinking that possibly this information may be of some value to you.

Yours respectfully,
John K. English.

Death of Mrs. Bird.

Mrs. Florence Bird, wife of Lewis R. Bird, of Summit and Watchung avenues, who has been seriously ill for several weeks, died Monday a. m. about 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Bird was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rugg, of this city. She was a popular young woman in a large circle of friends and acquaintances. Mrs. Bird leaves a husband and an infant baby. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

MURDER OR ACCIDENT?

Lifeless Body of David S. Vail Found Beside the Railroad Tracks at the "Tanks."

LATE SUNDAY EVENING

Only Injury Was a Deep Cut Over the Eye—Question Whether He Met Death by Train or Was Assaulted and His Body Placed Near the Railroad Tracks.

The lifeless body of David S. Vail, who lived at 530 Park avenue, this city, was found on the tracks of the New Jersey Central, a few rods east of the Greenbrook tanks, shortly before 11 o'clock, Sunday night. Just how he met his death is a mystery as facts do not tend to show entirely that he was struck by a train. The body was in no way mangled, the only perceptible mark of any kind being a deep cut and abrasion just over the right eye. Railroad men say it does not resemble the blow given by an engine pilot, which invariable crushes the skull.

When discovered by Engineer Phillip Eder, of an east bound coal train, the body was still warm. In fact he was not positive the man was dead. The form was placed on the engine and taken to W. G. Runyon's undertaking parlors at Dunellen where identification was established by a bill head in the clothing. If struck by a train it was probably the west bound local that leaves Dunellen at 10:10 o'clock.

A theory has been advanced by competent persons that Vail was assaulted by tramps, which infest the vicinity, for the purpose of robbery or revenge. A blow may have been struck harder than was intended and when its result was discerned, if not already dead, he was placed alongside the tracks to give the impression he had been struck by a train.

Vail, who was a butcher's clerk in the employ of J. W. VanSickle, of North avenue, had been visiting friends in Lincoln during the afternoon. He was at Melvin Smalley's home at that place until late in the evening and where he went after that no one knows.

He was thirty years old and leaves a wife and two children. There are also several brothers living in this city and vicinity.

VALENTINE DINNER.

Given to Famous Illustrator and Wife at G. W. Edwards' Home.

A charming valentine dinner was given Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Chandler Chrysty, of New York, Mr. Chrysty is probably one of the best known illustrators in this country, and both he and his wife are prominent in New York society.

The decorations consisted of a profusion of carnations, lilies of the valley, together with hearts and darts, carrying out the idea of St. Valentine's Day. The affair was a great success and all enjoyed the delightful dinner. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Chandler Chrysty, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. George P. Mellick, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. James H. Blake.

MISS LEWIS' WEDDING.

Quiet Ceremony to be Followed by Reception at Trueil Court.

Invitations have been issued by Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Abram Herbert Lewis, of West Seventh street, to the wedding reception of their daughter, Eva Minnette, to Bennett William Spencer, of Milwaukee, Tuesday afternoon, February 24, from 4 until 6 o'clock at Trueil Court. The wedding, which will be attended only by the immediate family, will first be held at the home of the bride's parents on West Seventh street. The bride and groom will be "at home" in Milwaukee, Wis.

SMITH RELEASED.

Placed in Custody of the Probation Officer After Forty-Two Days.

Jesse R. Smith, the man arrested on a charge of breaking into the Netherwood station, was released Friday from the County Jail, in the custody of the County Probation officer. He had been confined forty-two days. In a short time Smith expects to leave Plainfield, and reside elsewhere.

Chimney Fire.

A still alarm of fire rang into the fire headquarters Saturday evening at 5:30 for a chimney fire at the home of Howard Fleming, of 1012 Park avenue. Chief Doane, the chemical engine and No. 1 hose wagon responded and extinguished the blaze in a few minutes with the extinguisher before any damage was done.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1903. NO. 9.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

GALBRAITH WAS TURNED DOWN; LICENSE FOR TURNER AFTER FIGHT

Decidedly Sensational Features Developed When Common Council Came to Act on the License Applications.

FOUGHT IN CAUCUS FOR TWO HOURS

THEN THE FIGHT WAS CARRIED TO THE FLOOR OF THE COUNCIL, WHERE MANY EXCITING THINGS WERE SAID.

The Council Was Unanimous in Refusing Galbraith's Application—Galbraith Was Active Worker for Senator Kean Against Fowler in Last Campaign—Question of Legality of Turner's Application Was Raised—Was Strongly Opposed by Councilman Tyler.

The question of granting the various liquor applications assumed grave proportions at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last Tuesday, that being the principal business under consideration. It was predicted that there would be a lively time before the applications were granted, but even the most pessimistic did not anticipate the trouble that was in store.

All of the members were present except Mr. vanHerwerden, and it was nearly 8:30 o'clock when President Beckle called the meeting to order, the time previous to that being taken up in conferring with legal representatives of the applicants for license. Soon after the members convened, Mr. Murphy asked for the privilege of reconsidering the resolution adopted at the last meeting fixing the salary of Corporation Counsel Marsh. That resolution provided for a salary of $1,200, but did not make provision for extra services.

After the reconsidering of the resolution, Mr. Murphy offered another one fixing the salary at $3,000, the same as last year, and including all services for the year, comprising also the work of attending to the suit of the American Sewage Disposal Company, of Boston, against the city, now in litigation, and services for the Board of Health. The new resolution was adopted.

Immediately following the transaction of this business, the real trouble began. It was moved that a recess of twenty minutes be taken. No one would have objected to that in the least, but the fact that the members remained in the committee room for nearly two hours, gave cause for serious apprehension on the part of the friends of the hotel and saloonkeepers, as well as the proprietors themselves, who were represented by someone.

As the Councilmen continued in secret session various reports were in circulation, some even going so far as to intimate that a combination of certain circumstances might tend to close every saloon and hotel bar in the city for at least a month. It was soon evident that the disturbing factor was the application of E. P. Turner, of the Eastern Bottling Company, for a saloon license in West Third street, opposite the saloon now conducted by Daniel Galbraith. Mr. Turner had one application in for a wholesale license for the association he represents, and the application for a saloon was a new one.

It was subsequently learned through statements made by the chairman of the license committee, Mr. Tyler, and others, that originally Mr. Shay, who is a driver for the Eastern Bottling Company, had made application for this saloon license, but the fact that he had never taken out his naturalization papers was reported and to save the application Mr. Turner took hold of the matter and substituted his name for that of Shay. It was even hinted in open Council that Mr. Shay had made the transfer for a consideration. These facts had a tendency to make a division of opinion among the members as to whether Mr. Turner should have the license. Then it was stated that some of those who had signed the application of Mr. Shay, notably Thomas Lyon, had requested through an affadavit to have his name withdrawn, claiming that the application had been changed and that he did not intend signing for Mr. Turner.

Here is where Mr. Tyler, in the name of honor and justice, pleaded most earnestly that the application be denied.

In addition to this the chairman of the license committee had in his possession two petitions, one from thirty residents of the Fourth ward asking that the application be granted, and another from a less number of citizens that it be refused. Still another statement was in Mr. Tyler's possession showing that Thomas Lyon desired Mr. Turner to have a saloon license. The objection to this statement was that it was not written by Mr. Lyon, but by some one else, and was not made under oath. Mr. Murphy asserted that the statement was made in his presence in his office and he would vouch for the truth of it.

All of these facts were threshed out in the committee room during the two hours' recess and finally, the members not being able to agree on a concerted action, they returned to open Council, where later in the evening there was a free expression of opinion, much to the amusement of the large crowd in the lobby. At times, when Mr. Tyler became very earnest in his arguments in support of his position several persons representing the Monroe Avenue church, applauded his remarks.

In voting on the various applications Councilmen Buckle, Daniel, Tolles, Gloak, Randolph, Lee, Murphy and Tyler voted for all the licenses, with the exception of the application of E. P. Turner for a saloon, the Eastern Bottling Association for a wholesale license, Morris Snyder for a wholesale license on North avenue and Daniel Galbraith. In the first exception, Councilmen Tyler, Garrigues and Pray voted in the negative and in the second exception all the members voted in favor of withdrawing the application and in the case of Mr. Galbraith the application was denied by a unanimous vote. Mr. Garrigues and Mr. Pray voted against all saloon license applications, casting their vote only for the applications for inns and taverns.

The successful applicants are as follows: Frank Linke, wholesale, 227 West Front street; Christian Klockner, saloon, corner Front and Somerset streets; A. D. Findlay, inn and tavern, 123 East Second street; John Rafferty, saloon, 213 Park avenue; Charles Schantz, saloon, 216 Park avenue; J. A. Staats, inn and tavern, 107-109-111 North avenue; Henry Windham, inn and tavern, 143-144 East Front street; Henry Haurand, inn and tavern, 117 East Front street; Michael F. Watson, inn and tavern, 211 Grant avenue; Bernard Clark, inn and tavern, 456 West Third street; Jacob Bitzan, inn and tavern, 27-29 Somerset street; A. B. Rosell, inn and tavern, Park avenue and East Second street; Eastern Bottling Company, wholesale, West Second street and Central avenue; E. P. Turner, saloon, 542 544 West Third street.

When Mr. Turner's application was read by the clerk, Mr. Tyler moved that the same be not granted, whereupon Mr. Murphy moved that it be granted. This led Mr. Tyler to make some remarks, in which he reviewed the question relative to Thomas Lyon signing the application for Mr. Shay, but not Mr. Turner. He said that the Council could not afford to wink at evasions of the law and if the application was granted it would be on a forged application. He considered two saloons in the vicinity of Liberty and West Third streets sufficient and a third one would be a curse to the families in that section. Mr. Tyler said that the idea of the Council had been to concentrate the saloons in the business district and he did not believe that this rule should be broken. Lots of good would result in refusing the license, while much harm would come if it was granted. Mr. Tyler appealed strongly to his colleagues not to vote for the application and urged as one important reason that there were not ten signatures to it.

At this time Mr. Lee asked Mr. Tyler to read the statement made by Thomas Lyon urging that the application be granted, and to this Mr. Tyler replied that the statement referred to was not made under oath, while the affadavit asking for the privilege of withdrawing Mr. Lyon's name was. The second statement finally was read. This was made on Monday last and expressed the wish of Mr. Lyon that his name should not be withdrawn. Mr. Tyler then emphasized the fact that the statement was written by another person besides Mr. Lyon and was not under oath.

Mr. Garrigues took a part in the discussion and stated that while he was generally opposed to licenses he strongly opposed the particular one under consideration for reasons mentioned by Mr. Tyler. He said that he had been credibly informed that the transfer of the application was made to Mr. Turner for a consideration.

Mr. Murphy supported the application and said that the people of the Fourth ward had decided that they wanted a saloon ran in a right way by a good party and he urged the granting of the application.

Mr. Tyler added that the second statement made by Mr. Lyon did not contradict the affadavit made by him and he knew of his own knowledge that the facts in the affadavit were true. He expressed the hope that the Councilmen would not allow themselves to be used as a cat's paw and that they would continue to represent the people in an honorable and fair manner.

Mr. Lee caused some excitement when he stated that the applications were printed in the official papers of the city for two weeks and that any person having knowledge of anything wrong had plenty of time to state his objections.

"Do you know why these people did not object before?" replied Mr. Tyler.

"I only know what you told me in the committee room," was Mr. Lee's answer.

Mr. Tyler plied his same question several times to Mr. Lee, intimating that there were suspicious reasons why objection was not made before the time of the meeting.

Mr. Randolph made a few remarks in support of his position in favoring the application. He said that until a man was proven guilty he should not be declared so. He could see no wrong-doing in granting the application and would vote for the application.

Mr. Tyler gave a sharp reply by saying that it is the duty of the Council as well as the license committee to ascertain any reasons why a license application should not be granted and be considered it Mr. Randolph's duty, according to his oath of office, to vote against the application and give the people the benefit of the doubt, inasmuch as he did not know of his own personal knowledge that the facts in the case were not true.

After a few remarks by Mr. Daniel against the application, Mr. Murphy moved that the license be granted. Councilmen Gloak, Lee, Murphy, Randolph, Tolles and Beckle voted for it, while Councilmen Daniel, Garrigues, Pray and Tyler voted in the negative.

In denying the application of Daniel Galbraith, it was generally considered a return compliment by the lobby. It will be remembered that at the last election Mr. Galbraith worked openly for the success of Senator Kean as against the interest of Congressman Fowler and it was generally believed that the politicians were simply paying their former worker for his action. Some interest was shown in the matter by the presence of Robert Rushmore in the lobby. He is known as a warm supporter of Senator Kean and during the long recess he had a lengthy conference with Mr. Galbraith, as did also several other prominent people who were interested in his case.

—Home and office in touch. Telephone service. The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company.

—Rockdale print and creamery butter gains in popular favor every day. Why? Because it has a quality second to none. Neuman Brothers.

RECEPTION TO FRIENDS AFTER QUIET WEDDING

The Marriage of Miss Eva M. Lewis, of Plainfield, and B. W. Spencer, of Milwaukee.

MARRIED AT HER HOME

RECEPTION, WHICH FOLLOWED, WAS HELD AT TRUELL COURT.

Ceremony Performed by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, Father of the Bride—Those Who Received at Reception—Will Reside in Milwaukee.

The marriage of Miss Eva Minnette Lewis, daughter of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Lewis, and Bennett William Spencer, of Milwaukee, Wis., was celebrated very quietly Tuesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, 638 West Seventh street. The ceremony was witnessed only by the immediate members of the families. There were present the parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. William Spencer and Mr. and Mrs. Mark W. Shaw, of Evanston, Ill.; Mrs. B. F. Langworthy, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kimball and daughter, of this city. The bride's mother, although an invalid, was present.

The ceremony, which took place in the library of the home, was performed by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, father of the bride. The bride's gown was of white silk mull and she carried white English violets. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party went to Truell Court, where a reception was held from 4 to 6 o'clock. Those invited to the reception comprised a great many close friends of the bride and groom in and out of the city, also many relatives.

The bride and groom were assisted in receiving by the groom's parents, the bride's father, Mrs. B. F. Langworthy and Mrs. J. R. Truell. The drawing room, where the bridal party received, as well as the dining room, was in green and white. In the dining room Mrs. J. E. Kimball and Mrs. Mark W. Shaw were assisted in pouring by Ms. Robert T. Johnston and Mrs. J. I. Taylor, of Plainfield, and Mrs. C. B. Williams, of Jersey City. The young women who served were Miss Adeline Lyon, of Jersey City; Miss Bessie Baldwin, of Brooklyn; Miss Evaline DuBois Benton and Miss Bessy Fitz Randolph, of Plainfield.

The bride received many handsome and costly presents from relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer left that evening on a wedding trip, after which they will take up their residence in Milwaukee, where the groom is engaged in business. The couple has arranged to hold several "at homes" upon their return to Milwaukee.

MRS. McGEE'S TEA.

Third of a Series Given by Mrs. H. A. McGee at Her Home on Orchard Avenue.

The third and last of the teas given Tuesday afternoons at the home of Mrs. Henry A. McGee, of Orchard avenue, was held Tuesday afternoon between the hours of 3 and 7 o'clock. The house was tastefully decorated with orchids, giving an attractive color effect of white and yellow.

Mrs. McGee was assisted in receiving by Mrs. James R. Joy and Mrs. Townsend Rushmore. In the dining room were Miss Helen Eghmil, Miss May Waring, Miss Sadie Mae Howell and Miss Elsie Horne. Mrs. Samuel Townsend and Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., poured tea.

After the tea a dinner was prepared for ten which comprised the receiving party. This was a delightful part of the afternoon's event.

Holiday Social.

A social was held Monday afternoon and evening in the rooms of the Plymouth Brethren on East Front street. During the afternoon games were played and in the evening magic lantern views and games formed the means of passing a very pleasant evening. Refreshments were served and a most delightful time was spent.

Date for Social.

The social committee of the Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, of which Miss Nettie Kreitling is the chairman, has decided to hold a social on Tuesday evening, March 3. This will be held under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society and is the one postponed from January.

—Telephone service in store cheap enough for anyone. The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company.

JUDGMENT FROM JUNIORS

SUPREME COURT AFFIRMS JUDGMENT FOR WM. VAN ALSTYNE.

Suit Brought to Recover Death Benefits From Lodge of Which His Son Was a Member.

In the Supreme Court at Trenton, Tuesday, Chief Justice Gummere handed down a decision affirming the judgment obtained about a year ago by William VanAlstyne against Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M.

The judgment was taken to the Supreme Court on a writ of error by the defendant council and was argued at the last term. The action was originally brought in the Union County Circuit Court to recover death benefits claimed by the plaintiff to be due him by reason of the death of his son, Harry VanAlstyne, who at the time of his death was a member of the defendant council. The council refused to pay on the ground that his member was in arrears for dues and assessments at the time of his death.

Mr. VanAlstyne was represented by G. W. V. Moy, of this city, and Franklin Council by Fergus A. Dennis, of Princeton, and James Buchanan, of Trenton.

In connection with this it should be stated that while the action was against Franklin Council the whole State council was in fact a defendant. According to the interpretation of the by-laws the part referring to death benefits and claims was violated. For the purpose of testing these laws and proving their validity the State Council became co-defendant with the local council. This latest decision will probably end the case.

MEMORIAL TO MANAGER.

Presented to John D. Bailey on His Departure From Management of Park Avenue Hotel.

As a mark of appreciation of the services of John D. Bailey, who had retired from the managership of the Park Avenue Hotel, a memorial has been signed by guests and sent to him. The testimonial is as follows:

"The undersigned, guests of the Park Avenue Hotel, had intended on your departure April 1, to present to you a memorial of appreciation of your uniform courtesy and generous hospitality during their stay at the hotel under your management, and at the same time wishing you God-speed and good-luck.

"The unexpected change of events leaves us but small opportunity in which we may but hastily and imperfectly express to you the very high esteem in which we hold yourself and your family.

"We wish to thank you most sincerely for the many favors that have been showered upon us, prompted always by those feelings of courteous regard for your guests that will make us ever think of you as an ideal host.

"We also wish most heartily to commend you for the success you have made here, and we know that those generous impulses and sterling qualities that you have exhibited to us will be sure to carry you to the larger measure of success in the future that you so richly merit."

FIFTH MUSICALE.

Given Under the Auspices of the Ladies' Guild of the Church of the Heavenly Rest.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of the Church of the Heavenly Rest a delightful musicale was held there last Tuesday. Two attendants were large and all those who took part were received in a flattering manner. It was the fifth annual musicale and was a great success.

The parish house was filled early and all during the evening the audience evinced their appreciation of the music rendered by loud applause, in which they frequently encored those who took part.

Miss Maria Soudant rendered piano solos, while Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross favored with several contralso solos, accompanied by Miss May Grant. Clarinet solos were rendered by Otis Ballard and during the evening selected recitations were given by Mrs. Charles Haseltine.

Spelling Test.

A spelling test was held Tuesday morning at the North Plainfield High School by the superintendent, Homer J. Wightman. The results of the test will not be known for several days until all the papers have been corrected.

Miss May Davis, of Newark, has been visiting Plainfield friends for a few days.

John Quick, of North Branch, is visiting relatives in Plainfield for several days.

FREEDOM CASTLE HAS A BIRTHDAY PARTY

Celebrates Its Second Anniversary by Entertaining Its Many Friends.

HELD TUESDAY EVENING

HAS BEEN GROWING STEADILY AT A PLEASING RATE.

Knights of the Golden Eagle Spent a Pleasant Evening—Supreme Vice Chief Ruff, of Manasquan, Was Present—The Committee.

After two years of existence during which its membership and financial strength had advanced at a pleasing rate, Freedom Castle, No. 5, Knights of the Golden Eagle, celebrated its second anniversary last Tuesday in the rooms on Park avenue. Over a hundred were entertained with an elaborate musical programme and a sumptuous repast.

Piano solos were rendered by Mrs. C. M. Nagle, and a recitation was given by Miss Levens. The Knights' quartette rendered several vocal selections. Those composing the quartette were L. C. Hummer, H. J. Martin, Bert Tallamy and Louis Tallamy. Trombone solos were rendered by C. K. Schupp and a bass solo was given by Bert Tallamy.

A few remarks were made by Grand Sir Herald J. Harvey Buchanan, who explained the purpose for which the lodge was organized and its wonderful growth from forty-four charter members two years ago to 150. Supreme Vice Chief William H. Ruff, of Manasquan, addressed a few words of congratulation.

Refreshments were served after which dancing was enjoyed, the music for which was provided by Carpenter's orchestra. Later in the evening musical talent from out of town entertained.

The committee which had the affair in charge comprised: H. J. Martin, chairman; R. V. Kenny, Dr. C. M. Lackey, A. R. Vail and A. C. Hoagland.

AFTERMATH OF RAID.

Two Men Arrested in Borough Were Fined and Given Imprisonment.

Recorder Doud had a busy session of the borough court last night when the prisoners who were arrested in the disorderly house raid on Race street Monday night were arraigned for a hearing. Maggie Belle Jackson and her mother, Mrs. Jackson, were released with a severe reprimand by the Recorder, while "Al" Sanderson and "Kid" Carter were fined $30 each and sentenced to seven days in jail at Somerville. Eva Carter, who was also arrested in the raid, was fined $5 or seven days in jail. The fine was paid.

Frank White was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct and was fined $3, which was paid.

Speeding at Somerville.

Somerville, Feb. 25—Horsemen from Flemington, Plainfield, Middlebush, Three Bridges, Raritan, East Millstone and other places had their fastest trotters out on the speedway here Saturday afternoon and some exciting brushes were the result. Four or five hundred people watched the races. A. S. Case, of Three Bridges, with a little black pacer, was master of the speedway, winning nearly all the heats.

On Skating Committee.

At the annual meeting of the Amateur Skating Association of the United States held in New York on Friday officers and committees for the ensuing year were elected. John Doughty, of Plainfield, was elected on the skating committee. Among the clubs making application for membership were the Plainfield and Somerville Clubs from New Jersey.

Took Part in Musical Programme.

Miss Rosabella H. Schroeder, of New York, formerly of West Seventh street, took part as soprano vocalist in the programme given in "at home" of music at the residence of Hon. and Mrs. Theodore Sutro, of 350 West One Hundred and Second street, New York, Saturday afternoon.

Woman's Exchange Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Exchange for Women's Work is to be held in the Guild room of Grace church, Tuesday morning, March 3, at 10:30. All interested are invited to attend.

—Telephone service now cheap enough for anyone. The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company.

LEE IS AFTER TROLLEY CO.

Introduces Measure in Council to Revoke Franchise If Service Doesn't Improve.

NO 'PHONE COMPANY

Asks City for a Franchise—Councilman Lee Finally Consents to Hold His Drastic Resolution for a Time—Other Business at Common Council Meeting.

Not willing that the discussion of the license applications should be the only important matter before the Common Council, Robert L. Lee gave his colleagues a genuine surprise at the adjourned meeting of the Council last Tuesday, when he offered a drastic measure in the form of a resolution calling for the immediate improvement of the local trolley service or the revocation of the franchise. This has been a hobby with Mr. Lee and his patience is about exhausted. For this reason he decided that his ideas should take definite form for the purpose of accomplishing the desired result.

The wretched condition of the trolley cars, together with the general debility of the rolling stock, is responsible for Mr. Lee's action. His resolution cited the fact that a year ago a conference with the officials of the trolley company was held and at that time the officials promised that $250,000 would be expended during the coming year on the general improvement of the system, and that in this, as in many other respects, all promises had not been kept. In view of this, Mr. Lee's resolution called for the immediate repair of all trolley cars in this city, new carpets on the seats, and that all guard wires be repaired. Failure on the part of the company to comply with these stipulations within sixty days, would mean that steps would be taken to have the franchise of the company revoked. This was the gist of Mr. Lee's resolution, and it further provided that City Clerk MacMurray should deliver a copy of the resolution in person to the vice president or general manager of the trolley company.

After the reading of the resolution, Mr. Gloak jumped up and spoke a few earnest words in support of the resolution. He said that the trolley company could not fool the people any more.

Mr. Pray took exception to Mr. Lee's resolution on the ground that it lacked temperance and dignity. He approved the sentiment, but not the form. He believed that when the Council took action in the matter the position should be well defined so that the official body would not have to take anything back.

Mr. Tolles expressed the opinion that the resolution was too rank and severe. He attended the conference with the trolley officials and he said that some improvements have been made. He thought the cars in Plainfield compared favorably with those to be found in other cities.

Mr. Beckle asked Mr. Tyler to take the chair, while he could speak a few words on the matter. He argued that better judgment should prevail, that all such matters should be thoughtfully considered in the committee room. He did not believe anything would be gained by such hasty and severe action.

In response to suggestions, Mr. Lee at this time refused to withdraw his resolution and he urged a vote. Mr. Tyler suggested that a recess for five minutes be taken. This took the form of a motion, but a tie vote resulted and the recess was not taken. Then Mr. Lee called again for a vote on his resolution.

Mr. Daniel said by way of explanation that he thought the matter was one for consideration by the corporation counsel as to the legal side of the question. He urged deliberate action.

In reply to Mr. Daniel's remarks, Mr. Lee said that a year ago Mr. Marsh drafted a resolution more severe than his present one, and that resolution only gave the trolley company thirty days to come to time.

Finally, Mr. Lee argued to refer his resolution to the street committee, provided it would be brought up at the regular March meeting for definite action. Mr. Lee was thoroughly in earnest as to his purpose, claiming that the trolley company had not done one single thing they promised a year ago to do.

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 5.)

FROM THE ENGINEERS AFTER THE DISASTER

What They Had to Say to Vice President Besler and the Superintendent.

A TOUCHING INCIDENT

HOW THE EMPLOYES OF THE JERSEY CENTRAL RAILROAD FEEL.

Conference Was Postponed and the Officials and Committee of Engineers Joined in the Common Sorrow With the Community.

The Railroad Employe, one of the best journals published in the interest of railroad men, contains an article in its last issue which will be read with no little feeling by persons associated with railroads and those who are not. It refers to a recent meeting of a committee from the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers on the New Jersey Central and Superintendent Huntington, relative to asking for an adjustment of the wage scale. The article is as follows:

"The day following the recent wreck on the New Jersey Central at Westfield, General Superintendent Huntington and Vice President Besler were in conference in Mr. Huntington's office at Jersey City, when Mr. Huntington's clerk announced that the general committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers were outside and desired to see him, as Mr. Huntington inferred, in reference to the matter of a new wage schedule, upon which he had an appointment with the committee on this particular day, and which he had intended to postpone on account of the additional work involved upon him incident to the Westfield calamity.

"Mr. Huntington passed to the room adjoining his private office, where the committee was assembled, and before he could get a chance to suggest a postponement, the chairman of the committee stepped forward, and laying his hand on the general superintendent's shoulder, said: 'Mr. Huntington, we have called today, not to keep our appointment, but to postpone it to any date that will suit your convenience, and right here we want you to understand that we all feel as badly as you do over this terrible accident, and we desire you and your associates to feel that we, as the committee representing the engineers of your system, appreciate your feelings and that your sorrow is ours also.'

"Another member of the committee, an old and tried veteran of the service, who had just arrived on his run at Jersey City, walked over to where Mr. Huntington was standing, and while the tears coursing down his cheeks, grasped the general superintendent's hand in both his own grimy ones, and blurted out: 'I want to add my endorsement to what our chairman has just said, and I want you and Mr. Besler to understand that while my hands may be black from the smoke and dirt of my engine, and my clothes soiled and greasy, my heart is white, and I appreciate the treatment you people have given me and my associates since you have been our officials, and I say right here that it don't make any difference whether this committee meets with you on the matter of wages next week, next month or next year, or whether we ever meet. We leave all that to you. We have called to assure you that your trouble is our trouble and that the engineers and every other employe of New Jersey Central Company feels for you and the present management and that we are with you to a man.'

"In the meantime Vice President Besler had entered the room and overheard the conversation, and as the engineer concluded every person present suppressed a sob, and silence, more eloquent than words, reigned supreme as the committee with bowed heads and sorrowful countenances took their departure."

More New 'Phones.

There is a steady increase in the business of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company and new 'Phones are being put in constantly. The business at the local office is also increasing, a night force almost as large as the day force being required to handle the business.

The Easy Pill.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers do not gripe nor weaken the system. They cure biliousness, jaundice, constipation and inactive livers, by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently, yet effectually, and giving each tone and strength to the glands of the stomach, liver and bowels that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely. These famous little pills exert a decided tonic effect upon the organs involved, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the trouble. L. W. Randolph.

OBSERVED TWO BIRTHDAYS

PATRIOTIC EXERCISES IN BOROUGH SCHOOLS FRIDAY.

Held in the High School at Noon—Primary Department in the Afternoon.

Patriotic exercises were held in the North Plainfield High School Friday morning and afternoon in honor of Lincoln's and Washington's Birthdays. The exercises were arranged by some of the teachers and were very cleverly rendered by the pupils:

The exercises in the High School were held Friday at 12 o'clock and those who took part were: The Misses Edith Griscom, Grace Miller and Marion Overton; Arthur Hamble, Carl Steiert, Clarence Hand, Jed Smalley and others.

The exercises in the primary department were held last Friday at 2 o'clock and those who took part were Bernice McClintock, Eddie Schorb, Flora Krause, Belle Tunison, Ellen Doughty, Alberta Daly, Bessie Conger, Ralph Martin, Raymond Kline, Walter Walker, Chauncey Stewart, Eddie Allen, Howard Debele, Hattie Nienhuis, Agnes Mantz, Gertrude King, Annie Decamp, Joe Kiederling and Judson Smalley.

A CLUB HOUSE FOR ELKS

NEW BRUNSWICK LODGE PLANS TO HAVE ONE.

The Present Quarters Are Not Large Enough—Talk of Buying the Library Property.

Local members of the Lodge of Elks at New Brunswick will be interested in the movement now on foot to secure a club house of their own. This decision was arrived at at a meeting of the committee of fifteen which was held at the home of Edward Radel in New Brunswick Tuesday evening. Although there were various plans discussed no definite action was taken in the matter.

It was the consensus of opinion among the members of the lodge that a club house should be secured, whether to build or rent one is yet to be decided. The committee seems in favor of buying a house. If such a course is followed the house will be fitted up with a bowling alley, billiard room, reception rooms, baths and, in fact, with everything which is to be found in an up-to-date club house.

The committee in charge of the matter consists of the past exalted rulers, chair officers and a few others. As the site and building now occupied by the Free Public Library of that city is for sale, it was decided to put in a bid for the property. This property is situated at the corner of George and Paterson streets and is an ideal location for such a club house. The lodge now meets on the top floor of the Tapkin building at the corner of Neilson and Church streets. They have richly furnished the rooms and they have one of the handsomest club rooms in this section of the State. Their present quarters are too small at present and it is necessary to secure larger rooms

COURT SCHEDULE.

Announcement of Dates for Sittings of Justices in State Courts.

In the recent announcement of State Court sittings and the assignments of justices, it is learned that in the fifth district Justice Garretson will preside at Somerville, April 3, September 4 and December 4, while in the ninth district, which includes Union county, Justice VanSyckel will preside at Elizabeth, May 1 and October 1. The Chancery Court will sit May 3 and October 2; Supreme Court, June 1 and November 1; Court of Errors March 1, June 3 and November 3; Prerogative Court, May 3, October 2 and February 1; Court of Pardons, March 2, June 3 and November 3.

A Weak Stomach

causes a weak body and invites disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures and strengthens the stomach, and wards off and overcomes disease. J. B. Taylor, a prominent merchant of Chriesman, Tex., says: "I could not eat because of a weak stomach. I lost all strength and ran down in weight. All that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol, I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefited me, and after taking four bottles I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health." L. W. Randolph.

Sale at Stock Farm.

The personal property of the Plainview Stock Farm, owned by Mrs. Charlotte E. Wright, will be sold March 3 by Auctioneer William N. Pangborn. Mrs. Wright is selling out because she desires to retire from the business.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bushnell, of Central avenue, returned home yesterday after an extended absence.

CAUSED A SENSATION.

Little Girl, in Sound Sleep, Walks the Street of Cincinnati, Late in the Evening.

The sight of a nine-year-old girl in a trailing nightgown walking on Seventh street toward Vine, at Cincinnati, the other evening caused several people in the vicinity of Wagner's drug store to think that they had seen a ghost—for ghost-like the little one looked as she moved along, her eyes wide open, but with a vacant stare in them.

Pedestrians passed her by, some of them stopping to turn around and cast a glance of curiosity at the strange little visitor. The weather being warm, the little one did not suffer from cold, and so she kept her way from Race to Vine. Seventh street until a lady, seeing more in the weird face than other casual passers-by, rushed across the sidewalk and swooped the child up into her arms.

HER EYES WIDE OPEN.

It was Mrs. Kilsch, of McMicken avenue, that caught the child, and before the astonished people could understand what was being done, was kissing her, comforting her and telling her not to be scared.

Mrs. Kilsch had detected that the child was walking the streets in her sleep, and had been fast asleep when she saw her. With the instincts of a mother she knew what terrors might seize the little one when awakened in such singular surroundings as a street full of people, all open-eyed with wonderment, and forestalled the reaction by grabbing her as she toddled over to her bosom.

The child was little Alma Rockwell, daughter of Lieut. Ed. Rockwell, of the Fifth district station. For several nights she had been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Egan, at 12 East Eleventh street, and one evening her aunt went out after the little one had been put to bed. Mrs. Egan had locked the door inside with a snap-lock, and the child had found the lock back and walked through the door into the hallway on the second floor in her nightclothes, and while still fast asleep had come down the stairs and was near the drug store before intercepted.

BOGUS BEGGAR UNDONE.

Man with Bandaged Arm Makes an Error in Court and It Costs Him Ten Dollars.

It was a pitiful look for sympathy which Fred Teppan gave Justice Sabich when he appeared in the Maxwell street police court at Chicago. The previous day his arm was wrapped in bandages and it hung in a sling. He had been arrested by Detectives Thieme and Keefe on suspicion of imposing on the generosity of Chicago citizens.

BEGAN TO FOUND THE DESK.

"I have reasons to believe that the man's arm is not fractured in two places as he claims," said Detective Thieme.

"And I say it is," declared Teppan.

Justice Sabath questioned the man closely, and while Teppan was busy talking to his honor Attorney Epstein managed to untie Teppan's bandages without the prisoner's knowledge. Soon the bandages were removed and the sling untied. The arm fell apparently helpless to Teppan's side. It seemed red and discolored, and apparently it had been injured.

Teppan would have been discharged, but he became excited while pleading his case, and, forgetting the two fractures in his arm, he began to pound the desk with the "helpless" hand. Then he discovered his mistake and declared he had nothing further to say.

The prisoner had tied the arm so securely that the blood had stopped. He had also used chemicals to aid him in the deception. A fine of ten dollars and costs was imposed.

PLAYS WITH SNAKES.

Two-Year-Old Denver Boy Takes Pleasure and Delight in Handling Reptile Pets.

Probably the smallest snake charmer in this country, at least, is "Brother" Latham, the two-year-old son of Albert Latham, of Denver. Where the baby gets his inclination and his bravery is not known, but he gets his opportunities because his uncle, Harry Davis, is a well-known snake fancier.

The baby enjoys nothing more than to play with some of the harmless snakes which his uncle will allow him to handle. The uncle's favorite reptile is the rattlesnake—probably because there is an element of danger in handling them.

NOT IN THE LEAST AFRAID.

This fancy has cost Mr. Davis seven bites already, but each time he has wrapped his arm tightly to shut off circulation and has sucked the poison from the wound, feeling no ill effects.

There will be no more rattlesnake bites inflicted by his collection of snakes for the present, at least, as the last of his favorites was killed recently in an encounter with a bull snake. He himself saw the fight, but he allowed it to proceed too far to save the rattler after it was in the coils of its antagonist.

When Mr. Davis observed the conflict the rattler was coiled ready to strike, and both snakes were flashing out their tongues at each other. The bull kept well out of range, and simply circled around the rattler, seeming to watch for an opening. This circling at last finally frightened the rattler, and it uncoiled and endeavored to glide away. That was the bull's opportunity, and before the rattler could coil again it had been seized just back of the neck, and was in the folds of the bull.

Mr. Davis ran to the rescue of his favorite, but before he could be of service the bull straightened out its coils, and he could feel the bones of the rattler crack as they pulled out of place.

BUZZARD FLEW AWAY.

And with Him Went Game Rooster That Was Tied to His Feet for a Hot Fight.

Jack Wills, of Winchester, Ky., former representative in the legislature, enjoys the reputation of being a practical joker of no mean capacity. His brother-in-law, George Ballard, a prominent breeder of fine horses and owner of Pinehem Wilkes, a noted pacer, has on his place a pen of highly bred game chickens.

While George was showing Jack his favorite rooster and expatiating on his great prowess Jack pretended to regard the bird as a very ordinary chicken and said he could whip him with a buzzard.

ILL-MATED PAIR FADED AWAY.

A bet argument ensued resulting in a match being arranged for between the rooster and a buzzard, which Jack agreed to produce. Jack had a trap set, and in a short time his uncommon warrior, a very large buzzard, was brought to bait.

According to the terms of the contest the rooster was duly equipped with gaffs, and the two birds were linked together by the feet with a yard or so of stout cord intervening to give room for action, as Jack explained.

As the rooster braced himself for the onslaught the buzzard regarded him with stolid indifference, and at the first pass lifted his wings and sailed away, with the rooster squawking in its wake. George ran for a gun, but before he could get back with it the buzzard and the rooster were high in the air and were out of reach of his fowling piece. The distressing cries of the unfortunate rooster grew fainter and fainter, until finally they were heard no more, and the ill-mated pair faded away in the ether blue. Nothing has since been heard of the birds, and while Jack is telling the story with much gusto George is mourning the loss of his best gamecock.

ABOUT MEN AND WOMEN.

Both Have Their Failings, But, According to This Writer, Men Are at a Disadvantage.

Women were put here to make the world look pretty, though the fashion papers have never guessed this, says a facetious writer.

They are fond of dressing, except at dances and dinner parties. A great traveler once met a lady friend, whom he had not seen for many years at a dance. "Why, how you have altered," said the lady. "I declare I should not have known you from Adam." "Nor I you," retorted the man, "from Eve." Another hobby is talking. They are quite as garrulous when sober as men are when in their cups, and their conversation is often just as well worth hearing.

As a rule, they have more heart than head. This is apt to render them thoughtless. A woman will walk to the edge of a kerb, then turn sharply round without looking to see whether there is anyone immediately behind her, and as a consequence, gouge your eye out with the end of her sunshade. Sometimes she will beg your pardon, but I have known one to tilt up the eye of the ferrule into the gutter and sail serenely on without saying a word.

Men are what women marry. They drink and smoke and swear, and have ever so many pockets, but won't go to church. Perhaps if they wore bonnets they might. They are more logical than women, and also more zoological. Both men and women have sprung from monkeys, but the women certainly sprang farther than the men.

VERY STRONG TOBACCO.

Perique, Grown in the South and Put Up in Ropes, Is Too Powerful for Most Smokers.

In many of the tobacconists' shops perique tobacco, chopped into granulated form, is displayed for use by pipe smokers. This is the same perique that has been grown by Frenchmen and Spaniards in Louisiana since before our revolutionary war, says the New York Herald. It is a jet black, intensely strong tobacco, famous for its flavor and its ability to wreck the nerves.

It is grown and made in St. James' parish, Louisiana, and the crop only amounts to about 100,000 pounds a year.

The makers follow the primitive processes which were in use 150 years ago. The stems are taken from the leaves and the latter put into a box, under a heavy gradual pressure. This causes a juice to exude, which, even through the wood of the boxes. A gradual process of fermentation and curing takes place.

At the end of three months the tobacco is rolled into "carrots" and wrapped in cloth and tightly bound with ropes. It is left in that way for a year before it is ready for market.

The flavor of perique is considered delicious by all pipe smokers, but is too strong. The tendency of smokers is constantly toward lighter and lighter tobacco, and perique is now used almost solely for mixing with very mild tobaccos to flavor it.

A NINETY-YEAR-OLD BABY.

Giant Tortoise in the New York Zoo That Is One of the Few Relics of the Pliocene Age.

All things considered, the biggest baby among all the wild animals owned by the New York Zoological society is an infant that is not an animal at all, but a reptile—one of the herd of testudo, or giant tortoises, native to the Galapagos islands, says Woman's Home Companion. With his four companions he forms one of the few relics we have left to us of the life of the Pliocene age; these tortoises are the sole survivors of the gigantic reptiles. The young testudo is the smallest in the herd; he weighs only 66 pounds. His exact age is not positively known, but it is variously estimated that he must have seen from 80 to 100 years. That seems rather old for a baby, but he is a child in arms compared with his relative—a testudo vicina—who carries on her broad back (it is four feet three inches by four feet seven and one-half inches) the weight of nearly two centuries, and who tips the scale at 325 pounds.

Americans In Canada.

A newspaper correspondent who says that he has visited the changes in the population of Canada for 50 years denies that there has been a very large immigration from the United States to the western provinces, and makes the additional charge that the Canadian census is regularly padded. He says that the reports claimed an increase of 1,000,000 all of foreign birth between 1881 and 1891, while the statistics of immigration showed that but 38,000 persons of foreign birth had entered Canada during that period. He does not believe that more than 20,000 of the Americans have settled in western Canada.

The Youngest Gartered Duke.

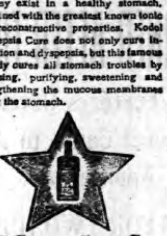
Not for a century has the Garter been bestowed upon so young a man as the duke of Marlborough, Consuelo Vanderbilt's husband. Four of his seven predecessors in the dukedom got the Garter, as did six of the seven dukes of Rutland, six of the 11 dukes of Bedford, four of the ten dukes of Leeds, and all of the eight dukes of Devonshire.

De Wet's Kinsmen.

Gen. De Wet, the Boer leader, contends that the name of De Witt or De Witt, so common in this country, originally was the same as his. Therefore he claims to have many distant kinsmen in the United States.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.



Kodol

DIGESTS WHAT YOU EAT

Gives Health to the Sick and Strength to the Weak.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

Prepared by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

L. W. RANDOLPH.

PYTHIANS AT GRAND LODGE

PLAINFIELD'S DELEGATION RETURNS FROM SESSION AT TRENTON.

Past Chancellor Chas. McGinley Appointed District Deputy for This District.

City Judge William N. Runyon, Joseph O. Bilhum, A. D. Pope, Charles McGinley, Jeremiah VanWinkle and Joseph Sheppard returned home from Trenton, last night, after a two days' attendance at the thirty-sixth annual convention of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias. They were greatly pleased with the session with the exception of the defeat of their candidate for grand outer guard, Past Chancellor Savidge, of Harrison. A spirited election resulted in the honor being conferred upon John Klemmer, of Paterson.

Past Chancellor Charles McGinley, of this city, was appointed district deputy of district No. 47, succeeding Jeremiah VanWinkle, of Unity Lodge. Asa D. Pope, of Perseverance Lodge, was made a member of the committee on law and supervision. The proposition to appoint a committee on an annual field day was favorably considered and $200 was appointed for the purpose.

The session yesterday afternoon was devoted to special exercises in honor of the thirty-ninth anniversary of the order. Among the most enjoyed numbers of the programme was a solo by City Judge William N. Runyon.

WANTS RECEIVER.

Frank Lake Asks That One Be Appointed for Eastern Bottling Co.

Through his attorney, Craig A. Marsh, Frank Lake, of this city, made application, Thursday, to Chancellor Magie at Trenton, for a receiver for the Eastern Bottling Company. The applicant is the sole local member of the firm, with others being employes or representatives of the Ballentine Brewing Company, of Newark. The petition will be given a hearing at the State House in Trenton on March 3.

A New Fountain.

Dudley S. Miller, the Park avenue druggist, has placed an order for a handsome new soda water fountain. It will be much larger than the one now in use and will be made mostly of Mexican onyx. In every respect it will be of the latest pattern and adapted to the increasing soda water business at this attractive pharmacy.

Many Want to Play.

At a meeting of the North Plainfield High School Athletic Association, held recently, William Nischwitz was elected captain of the baseball nine. There are forty-six candidates for enlistment on the nine this season and from this number the management hope to pick a strong team.

To New Home.

Mrs. Sophia Denckla and family will remove to the home of Mrs. J. Beckman, of Fairview avenue, in the course of a week or two. The house formerly owned by Mrs. Denckla, which is believed to be the oldest on East Second street, was sold the first part of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Matthews, of Grove street, have returned home after spending ten days in New York.

J. Beckman, of Fairview avenue, has gone to New York on business and will be gone for a week or ten days.

AUTO MEASURE THAT SUITS BOTH SIDES

Assemblyman Scovel Has a Compromise Bill for the Control of Autos.

INTRODUCED LAST WEEK

NEW MEASURE APPROVED BY AUTOMOBILE CLUB OF NEW JERSEY.

Provides for Careful Registry of Machines, But Eliminates Examination and License Features—The Other Provisions.

A compromise bill for restricting and regulating the speed of automobiles has been agreed upon and has been introduced last week by Assemblyman Scovel, of Camden, as a substitute for his measure now in the possession of the House committee on municipal corporations.

The bill was drafted and approved by the Automobile Club of New Jersey. The new bill defines and designates all motor vehicles, excepting trolley and steam cars and bicycles, as carriages within the meaning of the law, and gives them all the road and highway rights of other carriages, excepting as otherwise restricted by the measure.

This clause would allow of the running of autos in the Essex county public parks, where they are now excluded by the park commissioners. No automobiles are to be allowed on speedways.

The original bill required all automobiles to pay a State license fee of $5 a year, and to pass an examination showing their efficiency in controlling the machines, before a State board, as a preliminary to the granting of licenses.

In the new bill no provision is made for any examination or license, the owner of an auto being required simply to file with the Secretary of State a written statement containing his name and address, with a description of the machine, and to pay a registration fee of $1.

A numbered certificate is to be issued to the owner, and a record is to be made in the office of the secretary of State, giving the name and address of the owner, his certificate number and the description of the machine.

The certificate number of the owner is at all times to be conspicuously displayed upon the side or back of the machine in letters at least three inches high.

A speed of ten miles an hour is to be allowed in sections where the houses are less than 100 feet apart, and twenty an hour where the houses are less closely built. In the original bill it was proposed to restrict the speed on all streets and highways to fifteen miles an hour. No limitation is to be placed upon speed in the case of surgeons or physicians answering professional calls.

Every auto is to carry two white lights in front and a red light behind at night, and is to be equipped with proper brakes and horn, bell or other danger signal. Upon signal from any driver of a restive horse or horses, every autoist is to stop his vehicle and remain stationary so long as may be necessary for the animal or animals to pass.

The bill provides a $50 fine for the violation of any of its sections, to be imposed by any justice of the peace, recorder or police magistrate. In default of the payment of fines, the convicted auto driver may be committed to jail. An appeal to the Court of Common Pleas is to be allowed to persons convicted under the act. All money collected from fines is to go to the support of the poor.

Rutgers Glee Club Coming.

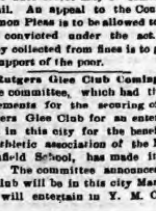
The committee, which had the arrangements for the securing of the Rutgers Glee Club for an entertainment in this city for the benefit of the athletic association of the North Plainfield School, has made its report. The committee announces that the club will be in this city March 28 and will entertain in Y. M. C. A. Hall.

William Pangborn, of Chatham street, has about recovered from his severe illness and is gradually gaining strength.

Daniel DeHart, janitor of the Taylor building, corner of Park and North avenues, is detained at home with a severe attack of the croup.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages there should be used Ely's Cream Balm. Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membranes. It relieves at once. It opens and cleanses the nasal passages, allays pain and inflammation, protects the membrane from additional colds, completely heals the sores and restores the senses of taste and smell. A few applications will relieve. A thorough treatment will cure. Sold by druggists or by mail. Price 50 cents including a blower. Send for circular. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.



CONSOLIDATION COMING SOONER OR LATER

Elizabeth Journal Cleverly Sums Up the Greater Plainfield Question.

IT TELLS THE TRUTH

DISCORD IS BOUND TO CONTINUE UNTIL THE CHANGE IS MADE.

Unique Situation of Plainfield and North Plainfield is Clearly Explained — The Trouble Between North Plainfield and Somerville.

A great deal has been said about the Greater Plainfield question but the situation has not been presented in a fairer or more truthful way than in an editorial, with the caption "Consolidation, Sooner or Later," recently published by the Elizabeth Journal. It summarized the problem completely and presents the facts for the benefit of the outside public just as they are with all personalities eliminated. The editorial, which is well worth careful consideration by everyone, is as follows:

"The subject of the repealing of the Greater Plainfield bill is one which requires and deserves more careful and thorough consideration than it seems to be receiving. It should first be stripped of all extraneous matters, such as personalities and charges and counter-charges of secret motives of local leaders, and then examined with a view-point to ascertain the cause which underlie the movement and create discord. When these causes of discord are determined then they should be removed, for until this is done the irritation will never be allayed.

"It is confidently asserted that the real source of trouble is two fold. First, the line between Union and Somerset counties divides a municipality which in everything but government is really one—and which, beyond doubt, should in fact and in law be one—into two parts, and thus the material welfare and advancement of both are injured and retarded. This is so absolutely true that no disinterested stranger can visit this community without being struck by the absurdity of the dual governments, and suggesting they should unite.

"This cause, therefore, being always apparent and constantly thrusting itself into notice will continue to assert itself and breed trouble, until it is removed. It appeals to the citizens of both Plainfield and North Plainfield, and in repealing the laws under consideration the Legislature would be going directly against the wishes of the people of Plainfield, as expressed by the unanimous resolution of its Common Council, to say nothing of the unanimous protest of the boards of trade of both places.

"The other underlying source of trouble, and the one which up to this time has caused bitterness, is the political jealousy existing between North Plainfield and Somerville. The latter being the county seat, centrally located and always, until within the past ten years, the largest town in the county, dominated the county in political matters. It nominated county candidates, controlled the Board of Freeholders, decided how the county money should be spent, and considered itself entitled to dictate.

"North Plainfield, growing up by the overflow from Plainfield into Somerset county, about ten years ago reached Somerville's size, and naturally began to demand recognition. Located in the extreme corner of Somerset, and being really part and parcel of Plainfield, its interests and those of Somerville radically differed. The jealousy and strife which followed were inevitable. North Plainfield demanded recognition as the largest town in the county. Somerville naturally resisted the loss of its long-held power. Factional differences tore the Republican party and increased the desire of North Plainfield to unite with Plainfield. These differences will continue to exist so long as the two towns remain in the same county.

"They are inevitable, and the way to remove the source of trouble is to remove the county line. That barrier once removed, the two Palinfields will unite just as certainly as if one removes the dam the water will flow out of the mill pond. Until that line is changed the trouble will never cease. Political leaders should look this situation in the face and not be misled into prolonging the struggle. The people of Plainfield are waking up, and demanding that the repealer bill now before the Legislature be killed. Plainfield's Republican majority is too important to be trifled with. Plainfield's voters are the friends and intimate associates of those of North Plainfield, and contagious diseases spread rapidly. The merits of the case are all with the advocates of Greater Plainfield. Is it not then clear that the Legislature should not deprive these people of their vested rights, but rather assist them to remove the line which not only breeds discord, but hampers their material welfare."

TOURS TO LOS ANGELES

ON ACCOUNT OF THE PRESBYTERIAN GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

Under the Personality - Conducted System of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

For the Presbyterian General Assembly at Los Angeles, Cal., May 19 to June 1, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has arranged three trans continental tours at extraordinary low rates. Special trains of high-grade Pullman equipment will be run on desirable schedules. A tourist agent, chaperon, official stenographer, and special baggage master will accompany each train to promote the comfort and pleasure of the tourists. All Sunday travel will be avoided. The Pennsylvania Railroad is the only railroad that will run tours to Los Angeles on this occasion under its own personally-conducted system.

No. 1. Assembly Tour.

Special train of baggage, Pullman dining and drawing-room sleeping cars will leave New York May 18, going via Chicago, Denver, and the Royal Gorge, stopping at Colorado Springs, Salt Lake City, and San Francisco, arriving Los Angeles May 30; leaving Los Angeles, returning, June 1, via the Santa Fe Route and Chicago; arriving New York June 8. Round trip rate, including transportation, Pullman accommodations, and meals on special train, $134 50 from New York, $132 75 from Philadelphia, $128.75 from Baltimore and Washington, $120 from Pittsburg, and proportionate rates from other points.

Tickets for this tour, covering all features until arrival at Los Angeles, with transportation sufficient for going independently on regular trains via going route, New Orleans, or Ogden and St. Louis, and good to stop off at authorized western points, will be sold at rate of $109.50 from New York, $107 75 from Philadelphia, $104 75 from Baltimore and Washington, $98 from Pittsburg; returning via Portland, $11 more.

No. 2. Yellowstone Park Tour.

Special train of baggage, Pullman dining, drawing room sleeping, and observation cars will leave New York May 12, going via Chicago, Denver, Colorado Springs, and Salt Lake City, with stops en route, arriving Los Angeles May 30; returning, leaves Los Angeles June 1, via Santa Barbara, San Jose, San Francisco, Seattle, and St Paul, with stops en route and a complete tour of Yellowstone Park; arriving New York June 23. Rate, including all necessary expenses except hotel accommodations in Los Angeles and San Francisco, $353 from New York, $351.25 from Philadelphia, $349 25 from Baltimore and Washington, $344, from Pittsburg, and proportionate rates from other points.

No. 3. Home Mission Tour.

Special train of baggage, Pullman dining and drawing room sleeping cars will leave New York May 13, going via Chicago and Santa Fe Route, Grand Canon of Arizona, and Riverside, arriving Los Angeles May 20, leaving Los Angeles, returning, June 1 via Santa Barbara, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Royal Gorge and Denver, arriving New York June 11. Rate, including all necessary expenses except hotel accommodations in Los Angeles and San Francisco, $159 from New York, $156 75 from Philadelphia, $152.75 from Baltimore and Washington, $144.50 from Pittsburg, and proportionate rates from other points.

Tickets for this tour, covering all features until arrival at Los Angeles and transportation only returning independently via direct routes with authorized stop overs, will be sold at rate $121 from New York, $118 50 from Philadelphia, $116 from Baltimore and Washington, $110 from Pittsburg; returning via Portland, $11 more.

The tours outlined above have the indorsement of the officers of the Presbyterian General Assembly, and are designed to meet the requirements of those attending the General Assembly as well as those desiring to visit the Pacific coast at a minimum expense.

Detailed itinerary is now in course of preparation. Apply to Geo. W. Boyd, assistant general passenger agent, Broad Street station, Philadelphia.

One Minute Cough Cure gives relief in one minute, because it kills the microbe which tickles the mucous membrane, causing the cough, and at the same time clears the phlegm, draws out the inflammation and heals and soothes the affected parts. One Minute Cough Cure strengthens the lungs, wards off pneumonia and is a harmless and never failing cure in all curable cases of Coughs, Colds and Croup. One Minute Cough Cure is pleasant to take, harmless and good alike for young and old. L. W. Randolph.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning March 31.—Consecrated by Prayer. Ex. 3:1-12.

Topic.—Lessons from the sermon on the mount: What Christ teaches about blessedness.—Matt. v, 1-12.

Christ's sermon on the mount, which is to form the subject of our study for four successive evenings, was delivered, according to tradition, on the horns of Hattin, which lies on the south of the Galilean sea, on the way to Nazareth. After spending the night previous in prayer Jesus chose the twelve apostles and then delivered this address. It is "the Magna Charta of Christ's kingdom. His inaugural address, the sublimest code of morals ever proclaimed on earth, the 'perfect law of liberty.'" It embraces the fifth, sixth and seventh chapters of Matthew and treats of a number of important subjects pertaining to Christ's kingdom, which He was about to set up on earth. We will study what Christ here teaches (1) concerning "blessedness," (2) "heart righteousness," (3) trust and (4) about judging others. Blessedness is therefore our present subject.

What, then, does Christ teach about blessedness?

1. Christ teaches that blessedness is more than happiness. Happiness may be obtained from earthly things, but this part of the sermon on the mount teaches very clearly that blessedness comes from God. It is repeatedly emphasized that blessedness is not the fruit of any earthly relation, but the result of special relationships to God, desires for God and the possession of God given attributes. Searchers after blessedness should bear this in mind. The best happiness in life is not to be found apart from God, but only in God. "Thou hast made us for Thyself, and the heart is restless till it rest in Thee."

2. Christ teaches that blessedness is the result of character. It is not bestowed arbitrarily. A reason follows each beatitude. One instance is the poverty of spirit, in another spiritual mourning and then meekness, hunger and thirst after righteousness, mercy, purity, peace and faithfulness amid persecution. Those who possess these characteristics cannot but be blessed, for blessedness is the fruit of their possession. It is not simply a reward for such a character, but the direct fruit of it. We cannot possess the one without the other. Given the character, the blessedness will necessarily follow. And our tendency is to follow other beacon lights in our search for happiness.

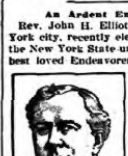
3. Christ taught that blessedness entitles to membership in the kingdom of God. Of the blessed it is said, "Theirs is the kingdom of heaven." They are the objects of God's benediction upon earth and will be members of His kingdom in heaven. The results of a character that produces blessedness cease not with time, but extend into eternity. If we are wise, therefore, we will covet earnestly and seek after the best gifts—not the temporary, transitory happiness of this life, which perisheth with the using, but the deep, abiding happiness that comes from a life of faith in God through Jesus Christ and the possession of those Christlike attributes of character, for Christ not only taught the beatitudes, but lived them.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. xli, 1-4; Ps. i, 1-6; lxv, 4; lxxxiv, 4-7; cxii, 1; Matt. xxv, 31-40; Luke vi, 20-23; xii, 37; Rom. iv, 1-10; Jas. i, 12.

An Ardent Endeavorer.

Rev. John H. Elliott, D. D., of New York city, recently elected president of the New York State union, is one of the best loved Endeavorers in the Empire



REV. JOHN H. ELLIOTT.

State. For a long time he was a Y. M. C. A. secretary he was successful in several fields, his most conspicuous work being his last, in Minneapolis, Minn., where, chiefly through his splendid pluck and push, funds were secured for the present magnificent Y. M. C. A. building. Later, entering upon evangelistic work, he was associated with Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, D. D., and, having labored in many cities, he is well known to Christian Endeavorers all over the land. Dr. Chapman has said of him, "His familiarity with the Bible, his understanding of men and his acquaintance with the best methods of work in evangelistic meetings all make him a strong leader." Mr. Elliott is a man of abounding physical vigor, great intellectual versatility, warm sympathy with all, especially young people, and with the most earnest consecration, ready always and everywhere for service.

Quiz Box.

[Any question may be asked that pertains to any phase of Christian Endeavor work. Address Lock Box 674, Binghamton, N. Y.]

Q. K., Albany, N. Y.—The superintendents of the various departments of the New York State union, with their addresses, are as follows: Missionary, Thomas McE. Vickers, 12 Westlake avenue, Auburn; Bible study, Herbert E. Bartlett, M. D., Clifton Springs; evangelistic, Rev. F. B. Jacobs, 113 Fulton street, New York; correspondence, C. R. Van Ruskirk, 108 Van Sicien avenue, Brooklyn; prison work, W. A. Horn, Lockport; Christian citizenship, J. Talmadge, Jr., 35 Tweddle building, Albany; press, John R. Clements, Binghamton.

40. D., Scranton, Pa.—The New York state Endeavorers observe the second Sunday in December each year as "prison work day" and gather an offering in their meetings for efforts among the prisoners.

THEATRICAL.

The company appearing in John C. Fisher's and Thomas W. Ryley's revival of "Florodora" at the Academy of Music, New York, is practically the same that appeared in the original production at the Casino over two seasons ago. Robert E. Graham as "Giffkin the millionaire;" Grace Dudley as "Lady Holyrood;" Helen Redmond as "Dolores;" Donald Brian as "Donegal;" Edna Hunter as "Angela;" W. T. Carlton as "Abercoed" and Philip H. Ryley as "Tweedlepunch" were all in the original production. As tuneful as ever, with new costumes and with new scenic equipment built especially for this revival, "Florodora" at the Academy has been successful beyond the fondest expectations of its owners and managers.

Wallack's Theatre, New York, has introduced a new policy for the accommodation of out-of-town patrons. Good's "Sultan of Sulu" has become such an enormous success that hundreds are being turned away nightly. Frequently large parties from nearby cities arrive at Wallack's only to find all seats sold and their evening spoiled by not being able to witness their favorite entertainment. Accordingly, the management at Wallack's has decided to inaugurate a mid-week suburban matinee on Wednesday afternoons, at which a large block of orchestra seats in the choicer part of the house will be set aside and reserved exclusively for out of town theatre-goers. The management has also opened a mail order department at the box office and requests for seats containing remittances will receive prompt attention, reservations being made four weeks in advance.

"I am Yours, Sweetheart, Forever," is the title of the new song which the popular baritone of the Casino, New York, Van Rensselaer Wheeler, is now singing in "A Chinese Honeymoon." Unlike most songs with such a sentimental title it is a poetical gem and redundant with catchy melody. It has been a hit from the first with the critical Casino audiences, and sung in Mr. Wheeler's manly way it is destined to live long in popularity.

The management of the Grand Opera House, New York City, ever on the alert to furnish something novel for its patrons, feels that it has hit the "right eye" in announcing for presentation there next week a Weberfield show. Not the original company, of course, but one which is in all respects worthy of taking up where the Broadway constellation of dramatic stars have left off. The selection of the most successful of the productions ever put on at the Broadway house is also commendable. "Fiddle-Dee-Dee," it will be remembered, enjoyed the longest run of any of the offerings of Weber & Fields.

NO EMPLOYES' PASSES.

Lehigh Valley Discontinue Them to Persuade Employes to Live at Railroad Centres.

According to a recent order issued by the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company the privilege of quarterly passes to employes in all branches of the service and permitting them to live at such places as suit their convenience, is discontinued. In a few instances employes will reach their places of duty by purchasing commutation tickets, but it is said that the company will discourage that practice, as the object is to get the men centralized at the several terminals.

The chief reason for this is to free the few passenger trains from a congesting and overcrowding of deadheads, as well as to meet the views of merchants and business men of the town where terminals are located, who complain that they are getting practically no benefit from locating at a seemingly large railroad centre.

Shake Off the Wintry Blasts.

The months of January and February are the most disagreeable to the northerner and delightful are they for the Florida tourist. The trip to Jacksonville is through a section as historic as it is picturesque, and the service to that point via the Royal Blue Line is the best The New Jersey Central is going to run an excursion to Jacksonville on Tuesday, March 10. Train leaves New York, foot Liberty street, at 8:30 a. m., arrive Washington at 3:10 p. m., same day; leave Washington at 7 p. m., March 11 and arrive Jacksonville at 1:20 p. m., March 12. The round trip rate from New York and vicinity is $50, and includes also sleeping car berths, meals en route, transfer and hotel accommodations in Washington on southward trip, passengers making their own arrangements for the northward return trip. The arrangements are such that the care and worry of the journey are in the hands of the railroad company, and the tourist has the entire time for enjoyment. The New Jersey Central has issued "A Little Yellow Book" on this Florida trip; if you want it send a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York. It's free for the asking. 2 18 6 nd c 3

Love's Secret.

William O. Smith, of Grandview avenue, who recently sustained a severe injury to his shoulder, is convalescing and is able to be out again.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning March 5, "Total Abstinence the Only Safe Rule"—Test, Dan. 1, 8-15; 1 Thess. v, 22; 1 Pet. ii, 11.

"Prove thy servants, I beseech thee." After all argument the debate must be finally decided by an appeal to the practical results in the case. Suppose it is proved scientifically after the most careful tests in a chloralmeter or other tool dulls in the human system give a certain degree of heat and nourishment. That is a valuable thing to know and may possibly, will probably, be used beneficially in the cases to which it has proper application. That it may say bearing on the question of alcoholic stimulants as a habitual drink no one believes who has an adequate understanding of the matter.

The practical issue in the drink question is whether alcoholic drinks benefit or injure a person. All will say very decidedly and are impatient of debate, believing nothing can be said favorable to the other side. But an immense multitude still continues to use such liquors, and many declare that use to be of benefit to them.

No one defends drunkenness at the present time. Well, that is an advance surely, for the time is not long past when drunkenness was expected of gentlemen, if indeed it was not a mark of distinction! But will anyone say that any one who cannot avoid drunkenness should not indulge in intoxicating drinks. Drunkards ought not to drink. All will agree to that except drunkards probably, and they, of course, are not competent to form an opinion on the subject. But what of those who use such drinks moderately?

"Good fellowship" has much to do with social drinking in saloons and clubs, but the great majority who drink do so because they like to do so. The taste is acquired and the effect is desired. Large numbers depend as much upon liquors of some kind with meals as other people do on coffee and tea and see no more harm in using one than the other, but the most of these have never put the matter to a practical test. Some workingmen think they cannot work without liquors. Many employers think they cannot get labor ers unless they permit them to drink.

To prove that the intoxicants for a frequent drink the plan of Daniel is to be commended. Put the matter to the test of experiment for a sufficient length of time to reach a fair conclusion. We have no doubt that when the experiment is fairly tried it will be found that in every particular total abstinence gives better results than any degree of use of intoxicating beverages can give.

First.—So far as physical health is concerned, total abstinence is best and gives most chance of recovery in sickness.

Second.—In all mental effort best results come from abstinence.

Third.—In all manual labor, athletic training and hard work abstinence is far the best.

Fourth.—In home life, personal enjoyment, moral elevation, spiritual culture, abstinence is indispensable.

Fifth.—In all cases of responsibility, danger and needing skill abstinence is essential.

Sixth.—In the interest of economy and well being abstinence is needed.

Don't Worry.

In accomplishing your day's work you have simply to take one step at a time. To take that step wisely is all that you need think about. If I am climbing a mountain, the top may make me dizzy; to look far up may make me tired and discouraged. Take no anxious thought for the morrow. Sufficient for the day — yes, and for each hour in the day—is the toil or the trial thereof. There is not a child of God in this world who is strong enough to stand the strain of today's duties and all the load of tomorrow's anxieties piled upon the top of them. Paul himself would have broken down if he had attempted the experiment. We have a perfect right to ask our Heavenly Father for strength equal to the day, but we have no right to ask Him for one extra ounce of strength for anything beyond it. When the morrow comes, grace will come with it sufficient for its tasks or for its troubles.—Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D.

Obliging Others.

A man was once asked why he took so much pains to oblige others in trifles. His answer was, in substance: "I have neither the wealth nor the intellect nor the learning nor the position to do big things for God or man, and so I take delight in doing any little thing to promote another's interest or enjoyment. In this way I may add to the sum of human happiness and also recommend my Saviour to the attention of those who know Him not."—Christian Intelligencer.

The Sure Reliance.

The branch must abide in the vine, the oak in the soil, the child in its parents, the president in the arms of his nation, the believer in Christ. To abide in Christ is to rest one's hope in infinite strength and to draw one's life out of infinite goodness and love. Christ is the perfection, the teacher and the example of all goodness, the source and giver of eternal life, the power of God unto salvation.—Independent.

Wrong Paths.

Wrong paths in life are trodden because God is not asked to direct the way. No one will ever go astray in life's journey who looks to God for guidance.—Philadelphia Methodist.

Love's Secret.

Love's secret is to be always doing things for God and not to mind because they are such very little ones.—Irish American.

THE AUTO CASE CONTINUED

UNGER-FANWOOD TOWNSHIP MATTER PUT OFF UNTIL JUNE.

Plaintiff's Counsel Maintains That the Speed Ordinance is Unconstitutional.

A trial which is being watched with great interest by automobilists in this city and throughout the State, was brought up in the Supreme Court at Trenton, Tuesday Feb. 18. The case is one between Herman Unger, of Newark, and the township of Fanwood. It is the result of Mr. Unger being arrested for speeding his machine through that township and having contested its ordinance governing the speeding of automobiles. The clause says that a man may be sentenced by a justice of the peace to not more than three months in jail or fined for its violation.

Mr. Unger has been making a test case of this matter and is represented by Reed & Coddington, while counsel for the township is Codington & Swackhamer.

Reed & Coddington affirm that the ordinance is unconstitutional on the ground that it deprives a man of a trial by jury. It is claimed that the ordinance is void because it was made on a law which also is void. The case has been held over until the June term when it will be brought up again.

ATHLETIC TRAINING.

General Gilmore Directs Regimental Commander to Install Such a System.

The establishment of a department for athletic training in the National Guard is the latest advancement suggested for the betterment of citizen soldiery.

Brigadier-General Gillmore has directed the Third Regiment in Camden to obtain the services of an instructor. This order will likewise be made for the Second Regiment as soon as the Trenton Armory is completed.

Healthy exercise, the general says, is absolutely necessary to the proper physical development of a soldier.

He has long entertained the notion of providing an athletic course both for the officers and men, and now that it is learned that New York and Philadelphia maintain such departments without extra expense either to the guardsmen or to the State, there is to be no delay about the installation of the system.

VALUABLE PROPERTY.

Purchased in New Brunswick by Wm. R. Codington and L. L. Manning, of This City.

William R. Codington and L. L. Manning, of this city, have purchased a valuable piece of property in New Brunswick at the corner of Albany and Neilson streets. The property was purchased from George W. Mellar. About a year ago the place was partially destroyed by fire. Since then nothing has been done with the place and it has been the abode of tramps. The deed for the property will be passed this week.

L. L. Manning, who is the senior partner of the marble works of that name in this city, was in New Brunswick yesterday and stated that he intends to remodel the old building and make of it a store and apartment house. It has been stated that the new store will be occupied by Plainfield men, when it is completed.

Mr. Manning said that he and Mr. Codington had bought the property for speculation but would not state what the purchase price was. The property has changed hands at different times been mentioned as a theatre site but Mr. Manning says that they do not expect to erect a theatre there.

Retired Surgeons.

The New Jersey Central proposes to minimize the loss of life and injuries in accident by employing a number of surgeons who will reside along the line, and who may be reached at once if desired. Each physician will have charge of a section. The station masters will be kept posted as to the whereabouts of the physicians. These surgeons will also respond to calls where passengers are taken ill and attend employes.

Plainfielder is Postmaster.

Word has been received from George M. Parks, who formerly resided on Deer street, but who is now located at Emerson, Georgia. Mr. Parks left this city fifteen years ago and has recently been appointed postmaster at Emerson which is a thriving little town. Mr. Parks was very well known in this city as well as in the borough. His father was the foreman who had charge of the erection of the Pond Tool Works buildings.

Use Allen's Foot-Ease.

A second trial will convince you. Your feet feel swollen, nervous and damp, and are tired easily. If you have aching feet, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It cures sweating, hot, tired, aching, swollen feet. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and gives rest and comfort to the feet. We have over 30,000 testimonials. Sold by all druggists and shoe dealers or Don't accept any substitute. Trial package FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

WHIST TROPHY STILL STAYS IN PLAINFIELD

Plainfield Camera Club Defeats Elizabeth Chess and Whist Club.

MAKES FOURTH VICTORY

NEXT CHALLENGERS ARE FROM COSMOPOLITAN WHIST CLUB, NEW YORK.

Camera Club Team Has Now Held Metropolitan Trophy Four Successive Matches—Last Thursday's Match Was Won 8 to 7.

The whist four from the Plainfield Camera Club scored its fourth consecutive victory for the Metropolitan whist trophy, last Thursday, when it defeated the team from the Elizabeth Chess and Whist Club. It was a great victory, the game being won by a score of 8 to 7. The next challenger for the trophy is the Cosmopolitan Whist Club, of New York, and a team from that club will visit Plainfield some time next week and make a determined effort to take the trophy home.

The Camera Club team is making a record of which any club might feel proud and has thus far defeated some of the best teams in the Metropolitan district. The first victory was in the game against the Brooklyn Whist Club, when the team from across the bridge was defeated by eleven tricks. After this game the trophy was brought to Plainfield and it has been here ever since. The next challenge was the team from the Newark Bay Boat Club and the home team defeated the visitors by eight tricks. The third game resulted in a defeat of the Jersey City Whist Club team by two tricks and the fourth game, last evening, brought victory again to the local team. The Cosmopolitan Whist Club team has the reputation of being one of the best in the country, but the Camera Club team believes that it can give the New Yorkers a good run for the trophy. These two teams have played before when the Cosmopolitan Club team won by the narrow margin of one trick. At that time the local team was short one of its regular men.

The representatives of the Elizabeth Chess and Whist Club playing here last evening were J. H. Martinson, A. P. Roberts, Mahlon Morey and W. M. Laing. The Camera Club team consisted of A. P. Freeman, F. H. Freeman, Ralph T. Willis and W. J. R. Hegeman, Jr.

In the first round the home team scored four points and the visitors drew a blank. In the second round the visitors scored four points and the local team two points. In the third round the Elizabeth team scored three points, while the Camera Club team made two points, making a total of eight points for the home team and seven for the visitors.

EXHIBIT FOR ARCHITECTS.

Drawings Will be Shown at Newark From March 27 to April 4.

An exhibition that it is expected will prove of great interest to architects of this and adjacent cities will be given in the Free Public Library, Newark, beginning March 27, and concluding on April 4, under the auspices of the New Jersey Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

The display will embrace drawing in plain, elevation, section, perspective and detail, as well as drawing of decorative works and models or photographs of executed or proposed work. All members of the profession in this State are free to send exhibits, Hugh Roberts, of Exchange place, Jersey City, being secretary of the exhibition committee.

To add interest to the event, a competition has been arranged, in which all architectural students or assistants to architects, who are residents of this State, can compete by submitting plans for a doorway to a private residence. There will be a prize of $20 for the first plan chosen, with prizes of $10 and $5 for the second and third selections.

Miss Grace Emmons, of Jackson avenue, has returned from a visit with her sister in Brooklyn.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

LANE'S FAMILY MEDICINE

All druggists or by mail 25 cts. and $1.00. Buy it to-day. Lane's Family Medicine moves the bowels each day. For a healthy complexion and clear head it is necessary. Address, Box 275a, Le Roy, N. Y.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

... Proprietor

TROLLEY PROGRESS.

Hardly a week passes that we do not hear of some new move on the part of the trolley companies, whose lines gridiron this part of the State. Now it is said that the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company is aiming to build a line from Bonhamtown on its Metuchen spur and continue it to Perth Amboy. Already there is a trolley line between Perth Amboy and Metuchen owned by the Raritan Traction Company but this new extension would make direct connection between the county seat of Middlesex and the most important city in that county.

There is a special import to this proposed spur of the Middlesex and Somerset line which may not be recognized at first sight. Already the cars of that company run to South River and to South Amboy, which is just across the Raritan from the larger Perth Amboy. There is a bridge soon to be built over the Raritan at that point and while the right of way to it has been granted to the Raritan Traction Company by the Perth Amboy Council, there is reason to believe that the Freeholders are preparing to undo the work of the Council. If the Middlesex and Somerset Company extended to both Perth and South Amboy, a completion of the belt line by a track across the bridge would give that company an advantage which it would be hard to equal.

It would seem likely, therefore, that the company which makes its headquarters in New Brunswick is following out some carefully laid scheme and that it will not be very long before it furnishes the people of this part of New Jersey with something of a surprise. Having accomplished that end, it is hard to think that Mr. Radel and his backers will be content to rest idle and it may be that the Metuchen line will be extended this way. This line between Metuchen and Plainfield is something which has long been expected and much desired. At present, Plainfield and Metuchen are connected entirely as are the Amboys by the Raritan but a connecting trolley link between the places in both cases would be of great value to all concerned.

THE EXTRA MAN.

According to the popular view, one of the most important improvements that the railroads of New Jersey could make would be to place an extra man in the cab. That the engineers themselves would be glad of the change was taken for granted. It was admitted that the railroads might object to the change, however. This same question is now being considered by the New York Legislature before which a bill is now placed providing for the third man in the cab. At a hearing on this same bill, some interesting and rather significant facts were brought out by various engineers who were called on the stand.

Of the expert engineemen placed on the stand, there was not a single one who even showed a disposition to favor the extra man in the cab. To a man they declared that as far as they were personally concerned, they would be much opposed to any legislative action which would provide for an assistant engineer or extra fireman on engines of the modern type. Furthermore their opinion was expressed that such action would not prevent any accidents but would rather work to the detriment of the system by reducing the individual responsibility and increasing the chances of diverting the attention of the engine driver from the duty before him.

All this simply goes to prove that there is no easy method of solution of the question which is constantly before all railroads in the country, how to increase their efficiency and decrease the chance of accidents. At first sight it may seem very easy to answer the question but a careful probing into details brings out the truth that it is a very complex problem, of many of the details of which the public at large is entirely ignorant. It was with a view to get at these true facts and act according to them that the coroner's inquest recommended a State railroad commission and that new Assemblyman Newcomb has given its recommendations form in the shape of a bill introduced into the lower house of the State Legislature.

When the New York Tribune made an informal canvass on the proposition of the State railroad commission, it was shown that there was no overwhelming desire to formulate one on the part of the legislators. Public opinion and the newspapers have it within their province, however, to make a demand that will be listened to and heeded by the politicians.

A LEADING ISSUE.

There has probably been no administration in North Plainfield that has been subjected to such careful scrutiny and criticism as the present one. With Mayor N. B Smalley as the active leader of the faction in the recent annexation fight, it was but natural that his opponents should watch his every act with the hope of discovering something from which to make campaign material. That he has brought the borough through this eventful period in its career and, with the assistance of the Borough Council, completed the municipal year so successfully, speaks particularly well for the Chief Executive. And it is this record made under such unusual circumstances which will probably figure as the chief issue in the municipal election which is to be held in North Plainfield next month.

While there will be some people who will be influenced by the annexation fight, it looks now as if the record made by the present administration was going to be a very important feature of the fight. It certainly should be. However the Mayor and the members of the Borough Council have felt on the greater city question, they have relaxed no effort to give the borough the best possible government. Some idea of what they have done may be obtained from the reports which were presented at last evening's meeting of the Borough Council. It must be said that they have done well.

While there have been some changes in the personnel of the Borough Council, the present administration has practically been in power for the past four years. During that time Mayor Smalley may be said to have dominated it. While there was no disposition on the part of the Mayor to interfere with the rights of the others, his direct aggressive policy has appealed to the men in the Borough Council and his ideas have very generally been carried into practice with success. So it is that several of the borough's chief improvements are directly traceable to Mayor Smalley.

There seems to be no doubt that Mayor Smalley will be renominated by the borough Republicans. Even many of those who opposed him in the annexation fight are just as anxious now that he shall remain at the head of borough affairs. Thus is given political evidence that the chief issue of the coming election is going to be the past record of the present administration. However he may think on certain important questions, no one can truthfully say that Mayor Smalley has failed to attend to his duties and has worked as all times for what he believed were the best interests of the borough. And the way he has governed is going to settle whether or not he will be returned to that office. His position on the greater city or annexation questions is going to cut little figure, despite the efforts of his opponents to turn the fight in that direction.

SMALLEY WILL BE NOMINATED

No Question Now As to Renomination of Present Mayor by Borough Republicans.

ISSUES HAVE CHANGED

Friends of Mayor Smalley, For and Against Annexation, Demand His Nomination—"Antis" May Have a Candidate on the Democratic Ticket—The Situation.

Here is the borough election only a trifle more than two weeks off and not a candidate named by either side. There is plenty of talk, has been for over a month, but neither side has seemed over-anxious to take the initiative. A month ago it was quite evident that Mayor N. B. Smalley would be a candidate for re-election, now it is positive that he will be chosen. From the way in which events are shaping themselves it is not out of the way to predict that he will receive the nomination from the Republicans with practically no opposition at the hands of his enemies in his own party

Although nothing has been done in the past month to formally select a candidate, the borough of North Plainfield has been a busy place. When the election of a mayor to succeed Mr. Smalley was first talked of this winter, the general idea seemed that the lines would be drawn similarly to those of the special election on annexation. The possibility of the "antis" securing a majority at the Republican primary was even discussed and it was said that, in that event, there might be an independent ticket. There have been changes, however, since that time and no independent ticket is thought of now. It seems generally conceded that the Republicans of the borough will demand the renomination of Mayor Smalley.

The cause of all this is that while there are a number of Republicans in the borough who did not agree with Mayor Smalley on the annexation question, they are still of the opinion that he is the best man for the place and that he should be returned in order to carry to a successful culmination the plans he has already started. Although he may differ with them on the one question, they believe that he has the interests of the borough at heart and that he will administer its affairs for its best interests, no matter the fate of the greater city scheme. Then there are a number who have changed their minds regarding the annexation question and have come over to take the Mayor's view of the situation. All these things have combined to bring about this change.

With this change in feeling it is natural that the issues should change as well. Annexation is not going to be the preeminent feature. The fight will rather hinge on the personality of Mayor Smalley and the record he has made during the four years he has been Chief Executive of the borough. Of course, there is no doubt that the bitterness engendered in the annexation campaign will come to the fore in some cases. But there were many who opposed Mayor Smalley in that fight from honest conviction and without hard feeling. They are now perfectly willing to line up for him on this occasion as they have done so many times before.

There will be a Democratic candidate for mayor. From present appearances the choice rests with two men although a "dark horse" is always a possibility. Early in the winter, the name of David J. Carney was mentioned for the place. He has been talked of since that time and it was generally understood that he would accept the nomination if tendered to him. While there would be little chance of election against Mayor Smalley with only two men in the race, the nomination would give him considerable political prestige in the county.

Since it has been realized that the lines drawn in the annexation fight would not split the Republican party asunder itself and give the "antis" a fair chance at capturing the primary, some of the "anti" Democrats have felt that their party should nominate a man particularly identified with the opposition to the greater city scheme with a view of rallying to their standard those Republicans who would be willing to oppose Mayor Smalley on annexation lines. For these borroughites, Former Mayor John H. Van Winkle, Sr., was considered an ideal candidate. He was the first mayor of the borough, a property owner and a man whose integrity is known throughout the borough. Mr. Van-Winkle has never been after the nomination but some of his friends believe that he can be persuaded to accept it if he sees that there is a united demand from the combined Democratic and "anti" forces.

SERVED HIS COUNTRY TWICE

SAMUEL WILSON, COLORED VETERAN, DIED AT HIS HOME.

Was One of Plainfield's Best Known Colored Men—Funeral Held From the Calvary Baptist Church.

Samuel Wilson, one of Plainfield's oldest and best known colored residents, died at his home on West Third street, Saturday morning. He had been ill for several weeks with a complication of troubles.

Wilson was born in Virginia in 1830 and although but a boy, took part in the Mexican War and also served the entire four years of the War of the Rebellion. He came to this city soon after the latter was over and lived here since. For many years he was employed by Ivins & Company. He leaves three nieces and two nephews in Washington, D. C.

The funeral services were held Monday from the Calvary Baptist church, of which he was head deacon. They were in charge of Rev. Scott Wallace, assisted by Rev. Messrs. Crutch and Tilson. The church was filled to the doors and the floral tributes were especially numerous. Samuel Codwell, James H. Brooks and George H. Jones acted as honorary pall bearers while the casket was borne by Scipio Willington, John Scott, Harrison Branch, Spencer Conway, Patrick Reed and Hamilton Tabasco. Interment was made at Washington, D. C., Tuesday.

FORTY CLAIMS SETTLED.

There Are Still Nearly Sixty Claims Against the Railroad Company.

Thus far John K. Large, claims agent for the New Jersey Central Railroad, has effected a settlement with the forty persons who were injured in the railroad wreck at Westfield and one death claim has been paid. There are still nearly sixty claims to be settled and Mr. Large believes that most of them will be adjusted inside of two weeks. Most of the claims settled are minor ones.

Otto Musch, of Watchung avenue, who has been ill for the past two weeks, is now able to be out again.

NEVER RECOVERED FROM SHOCK OF DISASTER

Miss Julia Simonson, Sister of One of the Injured, Died at Her Home Friday Night.

HAD HEART TROUBLE

SHOCK OF ACCIDENT AND HER SISTER'S INJURY AGGREVATED THE TROUBLE.

Young Woman, of Borough, Passed Away Last Evening—Was Active Worker in Holy Cross Church—Leaves Sisters and Brothers.

Miss Julia A. Simonson, sister of Miss Evelyn Simonson, who was seriously injured in the wreck at Westfield on January 27, died at the home of her parents at 151 Duer street, Friday night at 8:45. Death was caused by heart trouble aggravated by the terrible railroad catastrophe and the shock sustained when her sister was brought home injured.

Miss Simonson was the eldest daughter of Mrs. C. A. Simonson. She was formerly employed in a large banking concern in New York but on account of her illness she was obliged to resign her position recently. While in good health Miss Simonson was actively interested in the work of the young people at The Church of the Holy Cross, of which she was a member.

She is survived by her mother, two sisters and two brothers, who are: Evelyn, who received severe injuries in the wreck and who is still confined at her home; Lgara, Cornelius E., and John Simonson. She was twenty-five years of age and was very well-known in this city as well as in Staten Island where she formerly lived with her parents.

The funeral was held Monday evening at 8 o'clock and was private. The interment was in Fairview cemetery, West Brighton, S. I., Tuesday morning.

GREAT COUNCIL AT TRENTON

THE RED MEN ASSEMBLED IN ANNUAL SESSION MONDAY..

Plainfield Represented by Delegates and Other Chiefs of Prominence.

The annual session of the Great Council, Independent Order of Red Men, was held in the Trenton Y. M. C. A. building, Monday. The delegates from this city were Harry Coddington, of Wetumpkah Tribe, and Peter Sheridan, of Miantonomo. Past Great Sachem William Newcorn, Past Sachem William Westphal and many others were also in attendance.

The reports made show the order to have made rapid strides within the past year. The total membership in the State is now 21,662, of whom 279 are in Plainfield. The total increase for the year was 1,705. The total receipts for the twelve months were $308,292 from which was paid out $59,287 for funeral benefits and $23,000 in death claims. For other purposes $95,273 were expended. The combined wealth of the order is now $377,940, an increase for the year of $33,500.

DEATH OF MISS LAING.

Passed Away After a Three Days' Illness With Pneumonia.

After an illness of but three days from pneumonia, Miss Mary Laing died at her home on East Fifth street, Sunday afternoon. She had not been feeling well for several weeks previous but her death was unexpected.

Miss Laing was forty-five years old and had been a resident of this city nearly all her life. She leaves two sisters, Mrs. O. N. Ulrick, of East Fifth street, Mrs. Sease, of Elm place, and one brother, Voorhees Laing, of East Front street. Another sister, Mrs. J. P. Homan, died a few months ago.

The funeral was held from Mrs. Ulrick's home, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment was in the North Plainfield cemetery.

DEATH OF MRS. SMITH.

Former Plainfield Woman Passed Away at Somerville.

The death of Mrs. George Smith, a former Plainfield resident, occurred at her home in Somerville, early Saturday morning. She was the daughter of the late Frederick VanLiew, of East Seventh street, and was twenty-five years of age. She leaves a daughter and one brother, Fred VanLiew, formerly of this city but now of Philadelphia.

The funeral services were held from her late home on High street, Monday afternoon. Interment was at Somerville.

Miss Ella Feimley, of Round Valley, Hunterdon county, has been spending a few days with Plainfield friends.

OLD RESIDENCE MAKES BIG FIRE

A Defective Chimney Starts a Blaze That Causes $6,000 Damage Before Put Out.

FOUR PEOPLE ESCAPE

Netherwood Home of E. B. Potts, on East Seventh Street, Caught Fire Late Friday Afternoon—Roof All Ablaze When Discovered—The House Gutted.

More than the usual number of thrilling incidents attended a fire which broke out at 4:45, Friday afternoon, and practically destroyed the large two story and attic dwelling on East Seventh street, owned by Mrs. H. A. Losier and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Potts. It was only after great difficulty and by doubling teams that the department apparatus made its way through the snow to the scene and while fighting the conflagration several firemen, including Chief Doane, narrowly escaped with their lives through a falling chimney. Three hours were required to conquer the flames and by that time the damage had reached $6,000, one-half of which is on the furniture of the family.

The blaze evidently originated from a defective chimney, which ignited the dry timbers in the attic. It had been burning for a long period despite the fact that plumbers were working on the second floor and was discovered from the outside just as they were leaving. The alarm was sent in from box No. 35 by Peter Urdal.

When the department arrived after an unusually hard run, the road being up-hill and the streets filled with snow, the entire upper part of the building was in flames. The chemical did effective service and two lines of hose, one with the steamer attached, threw water into the building.

Driver Fred Breem and Caliman James McLean had speeded to the second story with the chemical stream when Chief Doane noticed a chimney which seemed likely to fall in that direction. He hurried to the second floor and warned the men of their danger. He ordered them to the head of the stairs when he thought they would be safe. Descending again, the Chief met Assistant Chief Jennings in the hall and directed him to take command of the efforts being made in the rear of the house. The two men had just passed out, one at the front door and the other at the rear, when the chimney fell and carried down with it the entire second floor hall.

Chief Doane had supposed that the beams in the hall ran cross wise and that the two firemen would be safe if they stood beyond the range of the chimney. It so happened, however, that the beams ran the length of the hall and the falling chimney carried the entire hall down with it. Just after Chief Doane had left the men on the upper floor, they noticed a light in a side room and stepped in there. No sooner were they inside the door than the chimney came down. The hose was dragged from their grasp. They made their exit by a window and a ladder.

The fire supposed of course that Chief Doane had been buried beneath the ruins while he thought that his orders had sent the men to their death. There was a scurrying on the part of the survivors to dig out the supposed victims. It was a joyful surprise to all concerned when they met face to face while looking for assistance to dig each other out of the debris.

Several of the other department members had narrow escapes while at the fire escaped without cuts and bruises from falling bricks. It was shortly after 8 o'clock before Chief Doane sounded the reall.

Mr. and Mrs. Potts were in New York at the time but on learning of the fire by telephone hurried to this city. They have been married but a short time and all their furniture was valuable wedding presents. But little was saved, the articles that were taken out being the property of Mrs. Losier, who is now in Phoenix, Ariz. Mr. Potts places his loss at $3,000 on which there is $2,000 insurance. This does not include considerable jewelry which has not yet been located.

The loss on the building is at least $3,000 and may be more. It is partially covered by insurance. It was known as the Meeker property and was about 150 years old.

The condition of Mrs. Samuel Dreier, of West Front street, remains about the same. She is still kept in her room.

Miss Ada Nash, of Prospect avenue has about recovered from a severe illness, and she hopes to be able to leave her home within a few days.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER JAN. 15, 1905.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

For Rahway, Perth Amboy, South Amboy, Monmouth Beach and Long Branch, 7.38, 9.38 a. m., 1.38, 4.38 p. m.

For Rahway, Perth Amboy, South Amboy, Monmouth Beach and Long Branch, 7.38, 9.38 a. m., 1.38, 4.38 p. m.

For Bound Brook, Somerville, Manville, Dunellen, Plainfield, North Plainfield, Bridgewater, Dunellen, Finderne, Somerville, Bound Brook

BADE FAREWELL TO HIS PRESENT CHARGE

Rev. O. G. Norseen Preached Farewell Sermon at Swedish Church Sunday Night.

A LARGE CONGREGATION

HE GOES TO WORCESTER, MASS., AS AN ASSISTANT PASTOR.

His Place As Pastor of Swedish Pilgrim Church Will be Filled by Rev. L. T. Lindholm, of North Easton, Pa., Next Sunday.

Rev. O. G. Norseen preached his farewell sermon to his congregation Sunday evening at the Swedish Pilgrim church. There was a large attendance.

Rev. Mr. Norseen took as his text "Rejoice that your name is written in Heaven," and from these words he shaped a sermon which was full of wholesome advice to the members of the newly-organized church. He advised the membe s to pray for each other and to help bear each other's burdens. By following this advice the pastor said that there would be no internal trouble in the church.

Incidently he touched upon the growth of the church during the first year of its existance, which is just closing. He showed that from the twenty three charter members the membership has grown to forty and a church has been built.

Rev. Mr. Norseen goes to Worcester, Mass., where he will be assistant rector to Rev. J. A. Hultman. His successor will be Rev. L. T. Lindholm, of North Easton, Pa., and he will preach his opening sermon Sunday morning.

The music at Sunday evening's service was especially fine. The church orchestra rendered several selections on stringed instruments and those who thus took part in the services were: Rev. O. G. Norseen, Miss Hulda Peterson, Christina Olsson, guitars; J. Tingloff, violin; Miss Anna Lindmark and Miss Judith Johnson, mandolins.

HOTEL CHANGE.

John D. Bailey Retires From Management of Park Avenue Hotel—Trouble Came to Head Saturday.

John D. Bailey has given up the management of the Park Avenue Hotel. For some time his management has not been satisfactory to the Park Avenue Corporation, of which Augustus J. Brunson is the president and owner of a controlling interest. According to contract, Mr. Bailey had been notified that his services as manager would cease April 1. One of the chief causes of the trouble was said to be the failure to furnish the monthly statements of the business.

The trouble came to a head Saturday morning when Mr. Brunson was refused the combination of the safe by William H. Bailey, the cashier and a brother of Manager Bailey. Mr. Brunson discharged Wm. H. Bailey but the latter refused to go, claiming that he was hired by, and was responsible to his brother only. When Mr. Brunson attempted to take possession of the office, he says that the cashier assulted him without provocation. Mr. Bailey claims that Mr. Brunson had no right to take possession, while Mr. Brunson says that both Mr. Bailey and his brother, the manager, were salaried employes subject to discharge for any good cause.

A new manager will be installed in a few days and in the mean time the hotel is running as usual in charge of Mr. Brunson.

HORSE KICKED HIM.

Wm. Kennedy Laid Up by Sudden Encounter With Horse's Heels.

William Kennedy is confined to his house on Harrison street with injuries of a severe nature received from a fractious horse. He was putting the animal in its stable back of the Crescent Hotel, last Thursday night, when it suddenly threw its heels up and kicked him in the forehead. He was rendered unconscious and a gash three inches long was inflicted. He was attended by Dr. Dundon and afterward removed to his home in a cab.

Kept Conductor Busy.

The conductor of car No. 43, of the Netherwood-Dunellen line, had troubles of his own, Saturday, in preventing it from being consumed by fire. A defective stove pipe persisted in falling to the floor, each time setting the woodwork afire and threatening the entire conveyance. The blaze was checked and by dint of hard work between fare collecting the car was gotten where it could be repaired.

Quarantine Raised.

The quarantine has been raised at Battle Row, where several suspected cases of contagious disease were discovered by the Board of Health. It is now believed that the danger point is passed.

WHERE WAS WILL SIGNED?

CORIELL WILL CASE BRINGS OUT SOME CONTRADICTORY TESTIMONY.

Some Saw It Signed in Wagon and Others Swear 'Twas Signed in Vail's Office.

Somerville, Feb. 24—Nearly all of Friday in the Orphans' Court here Judge Schenck was busy taking testimony in the celebrated Isaiah Coriell will case and when an adjournment was taken it was decided to hear the arguments of counsel in the matter Friday morning next at 10:30 o'clock. Coriell was an eccentric farmer who lived in Warren township and before he died he made a will leaving all his property to his nieces and nephews living at the time of his death. The grand nieces and nephews objected to this and filed a caveat against the will. As there are many on both sides, proponents and caveators, the array of legal talent is an elaborate one. A list of counsel, some ten or dozen of the most noted lawyers of Somerville and Plainfield, has been published in The Daily Press.

The proponents claim that the will was duly executed in the office of J. T. Vail at Plainfield. It was drawn in the offices of Charles J. McNabb on the second floor and as Mr. Coriell did not feel able to go upstairs to sign it, it was brought to an office on the first floor. The caveators claim that the will was signed by Mr. Coriell as he sat in his wagon on Somerset street, North Plainfield, as he was feeling too feeble that day to get out and go in the offices.

The two star witnesses Friday for the different sides were John Wendell, a farmer of Warren township, and Charles VanWinkle, a twelve-year-old boy. Wendell testified that he saw Mr. Coriell sign a paper while sitting in the wagon.

The youth, who had accompanied Mr. Coriell on his trip to Plainfield on this day in question, told a very straightforward tale. He declared that Mr. Coriell did not do any writing while in the vehicle, but that they went into the office and he saw his "uncle," as he always called Mr. Coriell, sign the will there. This was on July 19 last.

A number of other witnesses testified, corroborating the testimony of either Wendell or young VanWinkle.

FOR THE BOYS.

Patriotic Programme Given at Y. M. C. A. Monday Afternoon.

An entertainment for the benefit of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., was given in the association hall Monday afternoon. Martin A. Korff was in charge of the affair and under his direction the association orchestra rendered a number of patriotic selections.

There was a soprano solo by Miss Cornelia Miller and a duet by Miss Miller and Miss Beatrice Miner, contralto, and a contralto solo by Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross. The programme included the trombone solos by Kenneth Shupp, clarinet solos by Otis Ballard, baritone solos by George Cathers, and the singing of patriotic airs by a chorus of young women. The programme was concluded with singing by the chorus "Home Sweet Home," and Emmetts Lullaby simultaneously.

QUIET WEDDING.

Miss Mary Tripney and Ferdinand Dencklau Were Married at Home of Rev. L. R. Howard.

In a very quiet manner, Ferdinand Dencklau, of East Second street, and Miss Mary Tripney, sister of Mrs. Walter Bradford, of West Third street, were married Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. R. Howard at his home on West Fifth street. There were no attendants.

The young couple afterward left for a wedding trip of a few days after which they will reside until spring with Mrs. Bradford. The groom is an employe of the New Jersey Central.

GREAT TASK.

Will Require Skin From a Hundred Men to Supply Necessary Amount.

The work of skin-grafting in the case of Wilson Fredericks, who is at Muhlenberg Hospital, continues with considerable success. Last Saturday evening one man, a resident of this city, furnished twenty-two inches of skin to Mr. Ross. Mr. Fredericks' body. This is the largest amount yet taken from any one person. It is believed that it will require at least one hundred men to complete the delicate task.

Attended Mr. Taylor's Funeral.

Nearly all of the officials of the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works, as well as those from the Taylor Iron and Steel Works, of High Bridge, attended the funeral services of the late W. J. Taylor held at Bound Brook Friday afternoon. Mr. Taylor was one of the active members of the Taylor Iron and Steel Works and he was highly esteemed by all who knew him.

GAY THRONG GATHERS AT MASQUERADE BALL

Annual Event of Gesang and Turn Verein Sees Another Great Success.

A LARGE CROWD THERE

GRAND MARCH LED BY THE COMMITTEE IN COSTUME.

Two Hundred Took Part in the Grand March—Some of the Conspicuous Costumes Seen on the Ballroom Floor.

Resplendant with gay costumes and colored lights, and the very walls ringing with gay music and peals of merry laughter Saengerbund Hall presented an animated picture last Monday when the Gesang and Turn Verein held its fifteenth annual masquerade ball.

The grand march started at 10:30 with no less than two hundred people in line. C. F. Meyer, Sr., led the march. The music for the dancing and for the grand march was provided by Prof. Suhr's full orchestra. He introduced several musical novelties into the different airs. One of these was the Thunder and Lightning lancives. The lights were dimmed and while flashlight powder flashed forth artificial thunder was produced with realistic effect.

Some of the most conspicuous costumes upon the floor were as follows: Miss Lillie Toip, Evangeline; Miss Beatrice Raymond, Folly; Miss Clara Webber, ping - pong; Miss Evera Hensler, red domino; Miss Jennie Jacobs, Mother Hubbard; Misses Jennie Devine, Bertha Bremmer and Nettie Diem as "Three Little Girls in Blue;" Miss Ella Daly, card costume; Miss Anna Maloney as "Day;" Mrs. Charles Meyers, of Scotch Plains, "Night;" Mrs. John Wirth, female student; and Miss May Wigman as Columbia.

Some of the costumes worn by the men were very clever: John LeMaire, clown; E. B. Mehlenbach, of Somerville, Parisian peasant; Fred Kroulter, jester; Oscar Schwarb, Indian; Bert Firstbrook, sailor; James Keasley, sailor; Thomas O'Keefe, Philippino; George Schlick, school boy; Charles Paver, German soldier; George Herring, clown, and Harry Harris, of Newark, as a clown.

The committee were all attired in Hohenzollern costumes with hat plumes. They headed the march. The committee comprised: Prince Carnival, A. Barre; floor manager, C. F. Meyer, Sr.; assisted by John Wirth, C. F. Meyer, Jr., John Retzer, P. Blaicke, F. Wurster and A. Wolf.

There were four women who assisted with the refreshments. They were: Mrs. Mathias Mennebach, Mrs. John Retzer, Mrs. Carl Felber and Mrs. Henry Hamrand.

NEW BRUNSWICK DAY HERE

BRUNSWICK'S Y. M. C. A. ENTERTAINED BY LOCAL MEMBERSHIP.

A Short Address, Two Basket Ball Games and a Lunch Were the Chief Events.

Saturday was "New Brunswick day" at the Young Men's Christian Association when about twenty boys accompanied by General Secretary F. R. Backalew and Physical Director George R. Borden came to this city by trolley and were royally entertained until late in the afternoon.

Shortly after they arrived at 10 o'clock an address was made by Mr. Backalew in which he gave them a talk on the "Butterfly," making of the topic a spiritual application. Two basket ball games followed when the boys were divided. In the first game New Brunswick won, the score being 7 to 1. In the second game, which was played by the older members of the two Y. M. C. A.'s, the visitors suffered defeat, the score being: New Brunswick, 3; Plainfield, 21.

A refreshing swim in the pool followed the basket ball games after which luncheon was served. The visitors brought their lunch but hot coffee was served here by the local lads. The visitors departed about 4 o'clock after they had enjoyed the privileges of the Y. M. C. A. here during the afternoon.

REALTY TRANSFERS.

Recorded at Office of County Clerk at Somerville.

The following transfers of real estate were recorded in the county clerk's office, Somerville, between January 13 and 21:

Samuel A. Wallace et ux to George Kirch, $1; Fanny O. Horn to Elizabeth H. Horn; Frank H. Coward to Edmund Rushmore, $5,500; G. Adele Fanning to Elizabeth K. Blatz, $1,400; William H. Bohl et ux to Henry Leahy, $1.

LEE IS AFTER TROLLEY CO.

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

In the regular order of business transacted at the meeting, there were several petitions remonstrating against the granting of liquor licenses were received. Such petitions were received from William Hewson, Mrs. Elizabeth Brant, Miss J. H. Pettinger, Mrs. G. W. F. Randolph and Y. M. C. A., through its president, Stephen Oshoose. They were all referred to the license committee.

W. J. Dodd, of East Fifth street, protested against the payment of a dog tax on three puppies, claiming that such small dogs should not be assessed. The matter was referred.

Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, in a communication, reported on a *settlement and division of the fran*chise tax received from the Plainfield Water Supply Company, through the State Board of Taxation. According to this settlement, Plainfield receives $835.39, North Plainfield $342.11 and North Plainfield township $36.92, of the total amount of $1,112.72. Mr. Daniel offered a resolution confirming the action of Mr. Marsh in the settlement.

The Central New Jersey Telephone Company, through its attorney, Wm. N. Runyon, asked the Council for a franchise to install its system in Plainfield, and also submitted a copy of an ordinance regarding the same. A hearing was asked for at the convenience of the Council, and will probably be granted in the near future. This is the telephone company's endeavoring to establish its system throughout New Jersey. The company was incorporated a couple of weeks ago.

After Mr. Tolles offered a resolution authorizing the street and sewer committee to advertise for open bids for culverts and crosswalks, the Council adjourned somewhere about midnight.

SMALLEY AGAINST CARNEY

THAT'S THE WAY IT IS LIKELY TO BE IN COMING CAMPAIGN.

Borough Republicans Have Called Their Primary for Friday Evening.

With the election less than two weeks away, politics is the chief topic of conversation in the borough these days. The Republicans have called their primary for Friday evening and there is every reason to believe that Mayor Smalley will be renominated.

At present, there is no sign of any opposition at the primary.

Former Mayor John H. Van Winkle has made a positive statement to a friend that he will not accept the Democratic nomination for mayor this year. David J. Carney is now the only avowed candidate for the nomination and, unless some "dark horse" suddenly turns up, it looks as if he would be nominated by the Democrats.

WEDDED HERE.

Miss Beulah Waters Became Wife of John Raleigh, of Westerley, R. I., at Quiet Ceremony Yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Erwin Waters, of East Third street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Beulah May, to John Raleigh, of Westerley, R. I. The ceremony was performed, Friday morning, at the home of Rev. L. R. Howard, of West Fifth street. The only attendants were Mrs. Howard and Miss Gussie Klinsman, a friend of the bride.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh left for Westerley where they will make their home. The groom has been an employe of the Scott Paper Works and prominent in local athletics.

Another Class Necessary.

*Owing to the overcrowded condi*tion of the new public school at East Bound Brook it has been found necessary to establish a new class. Miss Beada Tappan, of Piscataway, has been engaged as the teacher for the new class. This school was only recently started by the consolidation of several others in New Jersey.

Class Sleigh Ride.

The graduating class at the Whittier School enjoyed a sleighride, Saturday night. There were nearly thirty young people in the party. The trip was to Fanwood and return.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

TO MISSION STATIONS ON AN AIR SHIP

Altogether Novel Trip Arranged by Endeavorers of Trinity Reformed Church.

MADE NUMEROUS STOPS

WENT TO PACIFIC COAST AND BACK IN ONE EVENING.

Met at Stations by Distinguished Personages Who Told of Their Work and What They Had Accomplished There.

A trip which would have opened the eyes of the author of "Around the World in Eighty Days" was enjoyed Monday by the members of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church. A tour was made of the various towns and cities where Endeavor churches had been established, in the airship "Imagination."

The airship started on its journey with Miss Lillian A. Force at the helm. The first stop was made at Hudson, N. Y., where the third Christian Endeavor church is located. At this town A. L. Force, representing Rev. Charles Park, welcomed the voyagers and introduced Miss Clapper, president of the Senior Society, represented by Miss Jennie Wyman, who told of their work. Miss Pulis, impersonated by Miss Katherine Bodine, told of the junior department.

New Zealand, Mich., was the next stop. Rev. DeLong, represented by William F. Oliver as pastor of the C. E. church, told of the work there. Mr. DePree, represented by Charles M. Doliver, related the story of the Endeavor Society and Mrs. Pruim, through Miss Randall, told of the juniors and their work.

Leoto, Miss., was sighted and H. F. Seader, as Rev. Mr. Prinzpol, pastor of the C. E. church there, welcomed the visitors and told of the wonderful progress made.

From Leota the airship was pointed towards Colony, Oklahoma, where Mr. S. Crouse, as Rev. Mr. Wright welcomed the visitors. Together with Miss N. Krietling as Mrs. Wright, Mrs. H. S. Potter, as Mrs. Page, and Miss May Randolph as Miss Jensen, the story of the work among the Indians was told.

Fort Sill was the next stop and there Miss Adkinson, through Miss S. Searing, told how successful had been the work of converting the Indians. Miss McMillan, represented by Miss A. Pugh, Miss Ewing, represented by Mrs. Trembath and Mrs. Hawkins, impersonated by Miss J. Hockridge, told of the accomplishments of the church there.

Rev. Ties Mulder, represented by Chas. Zimmer and Mrs. Mulder, represented by Mrs. H. S. Crawford, of Liberty, Oklahoma, to welcome the voyagers when they arrived. Both told of some of the difficulties under which the work was carried on there.

A brief stop was made at San Francisco and from there the airship sailed to Yokama, Washington, where Rev. S. J. Harmsburg, represented by Clarence Rittenhouse, told of the work there. The return trip was made as the crow flies, to New York, where Chauncey F. Colthar as Rev. A. Dewitt Mason, president of the Christian Endeavor Mission League told of the work done by the League in establishing churches throughout the country. Rev. Cornelius Schenck led in a closing prayer after the secretary read the roll call.

Those who had the affair in charge were: Miss Lillian A. Force, Miss Helen H. Bogart, Miss C. J. Smalley, Miss Jessie Hockridge, Samuel Crouse and William F. Oliver. These formed the missionary committee and they were assisted by the temperance committee: H. F. Seader, H. E. Gayle, Charles Zimmer, Frances Bach and William LeTourette.

THEATRICAL.

As the Central Theatre this week the American Beauties Company is playing to crowded houses at each performance. The entire company is giving satisfaction. Among those especially good is the Jolly Wild Company in its musical sketches. Miss May Yale is pleasing all her hearers with her songs. Gregory & Darrell, the greatest foot balancers ever seen in the city. Little Margaret Gregory, the six-year-old contortionist, is a wonder. The company will remain the balance of this week.

Funeral of Unknown Victim.

Funeral services over the remains of the unidentified Westfield wreck victim will be held from George Cole's undertaking parlors, Friday afternoon at 3:30. Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., will be in charge and interment will be at Hillside. All interested are invited to attend.

Philip Leichtenritt, of West Front street, spent Sunday and Washington's Birthday with friends in New York.

WANT WOMAN AS INSPECTOR

LABOR ORGANIZATIONS ARE AGITATING APPOINTMENT OF ONE.

A Pressure Is Being Brought to Bear on the Governor to Appoint One.

The present agitation for a woman factory inspector in New Jersey is not coming so much from the clubs and women's societies of the State as from the labor organizations.

About two years ago a petition was sent to the Governor by the women's clubs, setting forth the need of such an officer and urging an appointment, but no result followed. Last year, however, the New Jersey Legislature enacted a law empowering Governor Murphy to make the appointment, but, so far, nothing has been done. The trade unions, notably the United Silk Workers' Association, are now agitating the matter, and that organization has issued two circulars, one addressed to the Senators and Assemblymen and one to "All Trade Unions," urging the appointment and recommending Mrs. J. P. McDonnell, wife of the editor of The National Labor Standard, of Paterson. An appeal will also be sent to the Governor.

Mrs. McDonnell appears to be a favorite candidate for the place. The Passaic Daily Herald says: "She is, perhaps, the woman, both by nature and training, best suited for the position. . . . She has had business experience enough not to be fanatical in the matter, and would use conscientious discretion in all cases."

In the appeal to the trade unions from the headquarters at Paterson of the United Silk Workers the following paragraph occurs: "It is asked by the female and male wage-workers of New Jersey, and is required on moral, mental and physical grounds. Its necessity is apparent to all, especially to those who work in factories and shops where women and girls are employed."

The appeal to the Legislature says: "We desire to say that if the Governor thoroughly understood the situation that exists, he would, we believe, not only make the appointment promptly, but also recommend the passage of a law providing for the appointment of several female factories inspectors."

The clubs are making no movement at present to urge the matter, although Mrs. McDonnell could undoubtedly obtain considerable support among them. Among other names mentioned for the place is that of Miss Mary Philbrook, attorney for the Legal Aid Association.

While no action has been taken, Governor Murphy is probably giving the question consideration.

FOUR SURVIVORS.

Who Went to Original Ceremony, Turned Out for Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding at their home on New street, Monday evening. There were a large number of people present from Brooklyn, New Market South Plainfield and other places. A number of very handsome presents were received by the aged couple including $75 in gold.

Among the company who assisted the aged couple in celebrating their anniversary were four of the nine people still living who were present at the wedding ceremony fifty years ago.

Returned to Work.

The men employed in rebuilding the Babcock building returned to work Tuesday, after an enforced idleness of over a week on account of the cold. It was expected that the roof would be completed before this, but the weather has interfered.

Resigned From Committee.

John McLaughlin, of the borough, has resigned as a member of the Somerset County Republican executive committee. No reason is given by himself or friends for the move.

Change in Choir.

At the services in Trinity Reformed church, Sunday, Fred S. Custer accepted Joseph C. Martin's place in the choir on the bass. His singing was effective and greatly appreciated.

Setting a Prisoner Free.

A man with rheumatism is a prisoner. His letters are the iron bars galling because they are invisible. To him Perry Davis' Painkiller comes as a liberator. Rubbed well into the swollen, stiffened joints it not merely drives away the pain, it makes the muscles pliable so that the prisoner becomes a free man. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis. 25 and 50 cts.

DIED.

SHAEFFER—In North Plainfield, Wednesday, Feb 18, 1903, Annie E., wife of Frank E Shaeffer, aged 27 years, 6 months, 3 days.

MEYER—In this city, on Monday, Feb. 23, 1903, Josephine E., daughter of George W. and Adolfina Meyer, aged 11 years, 6 months, 26 days.

LAING—Sunday, February 22, 1903, Mary A., daughter of the late John L. Laing.

FINNERAN—On Tuesday, Feb. 24, 1903, Lawrence T., infant son of Thomas and Ellen Finneran.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Man and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary and expenses, or extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man of women to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal to right parties. Enclose 2c. stamp. Brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. B. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park Avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security

FRU BJORNSON.

The Beautiful, Gifted Wife of Norway's Most Distinguished Author.

The greatest man Norway has produced since old viking days is perhaps Bjornstjerne Bjornson. He is so great that in spite of his name we in America are familiar with his fame. A hundred times more people know of his writings than know how to pronounce his distinguished name. He is the most versatile literary man of his time in any language.

Well, it is gradually coming to be known that he does it through the aid of a wife as capable in her way as he is in his. Fru Karoline Reimers Bjornson is her husband's secretary and counselor. In both the mechanical and intellectual departments of his tasks she is at his side, sweet, wise and strong. If there ever was the perfect woman, nobly planned, it is Fru Bjornson.

A photograph of the husband and wife made about the time of the celebration of Bjornson's seventieth birthday gives the impression that they must be the handsomest elderly married couple in all Europe. It shows that men and women who live the right lives, serene, loving, kindly and strong, need not fail to pieces even as they approach seventy. Fru Bjornson has rather large features, as befits a large woman mentally and physically, but they are classic and beautiful. Her hair, now snow white, is abundant and fluffy, softening a royal forehead. It is doubtful if the famous author and his wife were so handsome in their youth. They look like a married pair whom the gods love so well that time is not permitted to touch them except to beautify.

Notable in Bjornson's writings is the wholesome, happifying tone. They are not painful, morbid pictures of miserable men and women, like so many of Ibsen's and Tolstoi's. It is a good world, preaches Bjornson, a bright, loving world, if we only take it in the right way, which is the way he himself takes it. The women of Scandinavia adore Bjornson. He holds them up to be honored and respected. He paints men such as women love and women such as men love in a wholesome, natural way. At the author's seventieth birthday celebration the women vied with men doing him honor. It was because he had honored them so in his books.

"Every man judges the whole feminine sex by his own wife and mother. It is easy to divine whence Bjornson obtained his exalted ideas of women and his tenderness toward them. He sees the whole sex in beautiful, noble Karoline Reimers. What she has been to him he naturally thinks other wives must be to other husbands. If Ibsen had been so fortunate in marriage as his literary compatriot, his stories and dramas must have taken a different tone.

Fru Bjornson is manifest especially in the couple's country home at Aulestad. She was married in 1858 to Bjornson, but not until recent years has the Aulestad home been completed. Like the married life of the pair who live there, it is as nearly perfect as anything can be in this existence. The farm is a large one and one of the best cultivated in Norway. The house is very large and luxuriously furnished and full of admirable art pieces. There is a group of buildings occupied by the farm workers. The landscape is magnificent. Standing on the veranda of Aulestad one gets a glimpse of mountain, valley, sky and water. Through the valley below where the house is built flows the river Gausa. The view shows nature in her most picturesque dress—nature mingling at the same time with man's conquest over nature. Through the lands of the Bjornsons runs a tumbling brook, supplying a water power. The water power is captured and turned into electricity to illuminate not only the house, but also the stables and outbuildings.

FRU BJORNSTJERNE BJORNSON AND HER HOME.

Fru Bjornson is always close to her husband, which is as it should be her or in any wife so long as she does not bore the husband. In beautiful Aulestad the housekeeping, whether for two or for twenty—the Bjornsons are noted for their hospitality—is perfectly ordered and moves without a jar. The pair always spend the summers there. In the winter Bjornson travels in some European country—Italy, France, Germany or England—or settles down in some artistic and literary capital. Then again the beautiful, gentle, wise wife is always with him. They have several children now grown. One daughter, Bergliot, is married to the only son of Ibsen, Dr. Sigurd Ibsen, Norwegian minister of state at Stockholm.

In times like these a married life such as the Bjornsons' is like a spice did flower blooming upon a rock in a stormy sea.

SUSAN PEPPER.

THE NEW UNDERWEAR.

Corsets For Stout People—Full Corset Covers.

The corset should be tolerably high in the back, but slope off gradually until it is quite low in the front.

The front should be straight. This type of a corset if properly arranged draws in below the waist and sets out at the top, and, although the actual measurement of the waist is increased, yet the figure looks smaller and the back and sides of the corset fit as closely as ever.

DANCING GOWN OF WHITE CREPE DE CHINE.

The new corset covers generally all show a very full blouse in front.

Petticoats of heavy black moire wear well and are serviceable for cool weather. They are fitted bell shape, with no extra fullness.

The newest stockings match the gowns with which they are worn and are very much embroidered.

The picture shows a dancing gown of white crepe de chine. It has the latest thing in skirts, wide folds from waist to hem, headed by fagoting.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

EVENING DRESSES.

Sequined Effects Popular—The Wide Neckbands.

Sequined gowns are quite popular this winter. One gown of white net had exquisite designs in mauve sequins and steel beads. Another, seen at the same dressmaker's, was in black and steel with incrustations of Paris lace and beautiful tiger lilies in black and white velvet.

The new veilings of white lisse with velvet patches are charming worn with black velvet toques having a drooping feather in white or black and white and a wisp of lace at the back caught with a pretty ornament in paste or steel.

GOWN OF BLACK CHANTILLY LACE.

The wide bertha and the fichu are in the height of style, but they are so arranged that they give a square appearance to the shoulders instead of the slope which, so alluring where it suits, makes some women appear so terribly dowdy.

The evening dress shown is of black chantilly lace over white chiffon and silk.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

How to Relieve Toothache.

Equal parts of salt and alum or even salt alone placed on a piece of cotton wool and put in the aching tooth will often give relief when other means have failed.

THE SELFISH CHILD.

Weak and Self Sacrificing Parents Are Responsible For Him.

The selfish child is the result of the unselfish parent.

There isn't the slightest doubt of that. But I wonder if a woman realizes the harm she is doing when she sacrifices her life for her children. I don't take into consideration the fact that in nine cases out of ten she doesn't get any thanks, although that is bad enough. The serious thing is that she is doing the worst harm to the child that she possibly can, that is, instead of saving the child pain and trouble, as she fondly imagines, she is making it for him just about as fast as she possibly can.

HE GRABS EVERYTHING IN SIGHT.

When you pick up things after your children and wait on them and generally dance attendance, you are making useless, helpless men and women of them, and heaven pity you when they suddenly awake to a realization of it and bless (?) you because you brought it on them!

When little Johnny, the pet of the nursery, grabs all the toys in sight, screaming with rage at any attempt to take them from him, and you reprove your other children when they use salutary force to make him realize their own rights; when you make them give in to little brother because he is the youngest, you are simply making a hateful, selfish man out of little Johnny, a man who, thanks to your weakness, will have few friends and lead a lonely, narrow life, miserable himself and making all those around him wretched. And it doesn't make the child any happier—this continual coddling and giving in to him, even leaving out the serious question of his future. The more you give him, the more he wants, until the limit is reached, when you have given him his share and yours, too, and then he turns from you carelessly and indifferently or else with bitterness in his heart that he cannot get more.

Think of the emptiness of life to the selfish child; of all the joy and the beauty and the large heartedness that he misses! It is no wonder that the foolish mother is punished when the child grows up to the realization of her folly.

HELEN CLIFTON.

THE DEEP WINDOW.

An Artistic Way of Treating a Square Room.

The deep window adds much to the comfort of an unattractive square room. It affords an opportunity for cozy corners and confidential conversations.

In the picture there is a section of a library, showing the walls of paneled oak bisected by two deep, square bay windows. One is finished after the manner of a room, with a table, books and a settle pulled half away out into the room. The other is entirely fitted with a cushioned seat having two pillows.

IN A LIBRARY.

Long, heavy portieres on sliding rings can shut off these recesses entirely, if it is so desired.

The color scheme of the room itself is dull red and green, with the woodwork of Flemish oak.

R. DE LA BAUME.

Fashion Notes.

That all lace dresses are to be among the best of the new things is made sure by the importation of thousands of all over lace dress patterns and also any amount of frontings, vestings, etc. Some of the all over designs have the ground white or black and the design worked over the surface. Heavy laces for gowns are also offered in the shapes which will be required to fashion the gown. A rich Irish point gown has two skirts, one reaching to the knees and the other to the feet. These parts are specially shaped and finished for the purpose. Other pieces are furnished for waist and sleeves. A nice silk skirt with the regulation ruffles at the bottom is needed to show them off.

The cotton dress goods look like gardens of flowers, they are so very bright and pretty. All the colors are good, and some of them are exquisite, the designs being neat and fine rather than saucy.

COFFEE COATS.

Dainty Little Models Made of Brocade and Lace.

The shorter and more frivolous type of tea jacket is now known as a coffee coat, and here the actual coat is quite short in empire form and is completed by pliss frills of chiffon or full flounces of lace.

The coffee coat of lace or net is invariably adorned with insertions of incrustations of lace. Sequined passementerie is much used on black lace or net.

Very dainty coffee coats can be made from short lengths of pompadour or brocaded silk and tinted lace. The neck is left open in a small V, and a collar of lace or a fichu arrangement of chiffon and lace encircles the opening. The close fitting top portion of the sleeve is very short and completed by a deep frill of lace or a full Turkish sleeve of plisse net is attached to the silk upper part.

COFFEE JACKET OF ECRU LACE.

These little coats are generally worn over a plain slip or blouse, and much variation can be arranged by the aid of colored slips, removable chemisettes and smart choux of crape or chiffon.

The furore for black and white has by no means departed, and some of the smartest demitoilet blouses are of black lace net or chiffon elaborately trimmed with fiselle lace.

The cut shows a coffee jacket of ecru lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE TREND OF FASHION.

What Is and What Will Be Worn During a Coming Season.

Brocades today are really lovely. They are mostly copied from old French patterns.

Satins are much used for evening gowns, particularly of a rather thick make with a soft finish. Fancy gauzes, too, always make charming and inexpensive frocks. No matter how small a remnant may be, provided it is good,

GOWN OF YELLOW CHIFFON.

it will never come amiss. Lace will be used more than ever, especially on headgear.

Furs will later on give place to wide stoles of marabou and feather trimming of every kind.

Tassels and fringes as trimmings cannot be surpassed, and they lend an air of softness to the most severe costume.

Bodices are becoming more trimmed than ever, but a distinct effect in outline is aimed at. A very wide effect should be given across the shoulders. Skirts are becoming fuller, and so are sleeves.

The little accessories of dress, berthas, fichus and rosettes are responsible for the success of more than one gown.

The picture shows a gown of yellow chiffon, outlined here and there by thin lines of sable.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Nothing In It.

Farmer Barnes—Yes. She'd run like thunder every time she see a railroad train. No use ever expecting to collect damages on that kind of a critter—Puck.

Work of the Lette Verein In Germany

In the year 1865 Adolph Lette, a Prussian statesman, read before a Berlin workingmen's society a paper calling attention to the lamentable situation in which German women and girls compelled to earn their own living found themselves.

Herr Lette prepared his address with German thoroughness and delivered it with the eloquence of a man who knew he was right and was in earnest. It attracted wide attention. It found an echo in the heart of an Englishwoman whom fate had called to high station in Germany, and she was Queen Victoria's daughter, her royal highness Crown Princess Victoria, afterward Empress Frederick.

Out of Herr Lette's paper grew a movement for ameliorating the condition of German workingwomen. Crown Princess Victoria, with the Englishwoman's fearlessness and independence, threw herself enthusiastically into the movement. She became patroness of the new enterprise which had for its object the training of German girls to earn their own living in the ranks of skilled labor. In 1866 was organized in Berlin the Union For the Industrial Training and Advancement of the Female Sex. Thus thirty-six years ago was founded the first technical training school for girls. It had a statesman and a princess royal for sponsors, and that gave it a noble send-off. The wave of trades schools for girls is now on in the United States. The Berlin girls' technical school, called the Lette verein, stands already as the model for such establishments in all countries. Lette is the name of the German school's founder. Verein means union, and it is pronounced fe-rine, accent on the last syllable, with the "i" long. The Lette was not added to the name of the union till after the death of its modest founder.

COOKING SCHOOL.

To begin, there were plenty of pupils for the new institution, but no house to put them into. Those that came first were actually accommodated in private schools, where the verein paid their expenses. Instruction in the verein itself has always been entirely free. That instruction includes common grammar and ordinary high school courses as well as the industrial training.

In spite of having nowhere to house his pupils, Herr Lette kept at his work till he did get a home. By 1867 a school of drawing, technical and otherwise, was opened, and so thorough was it that a year later three of its pupils successfully passed their examinations before the Royal Art academy. Next an employment agency was added to the departments of the institution, also, under the special auspices of the crown princess, a home for girl pupils. At this stage unfortunately the illustrious philanthropist Lette, who had been the head and front of the organization and its president from the beginning, passed out of life. This was in 1868. So thoroughly had he imbued the whole body of workers and managers with his spirit, however, that the enterprise continued as he had planned it. His daughter, Frau Anna Schepeler-Lette, was elected president in his place, and like him she served as such till her death.

The technical school for women grew space, grew marvelously and extended its sphere year by year. At length, under the management of the Lette verein, there were a commercial school, a school of drawing and a trades school, in which all the branches of manual industry commonly pursued by women were taught, such as cooking, housekeeping, washing and ironing. There was also a school of art embroidery and art hand work. Besides these, there were the girls' home, the employment agency and a department for the distribution of money to deserving women temporarily in need of help. Now also other branches have been added, and bookbinders, typesetters and office clerks are perfectly trained for their work. Since 1884 an excellent restaurant has been conducted in this model female industrial school. There is, now, a class for learning photography. In the whole school there are 2,000 pupils.

At last the establishment entirely outgrew its quarters. Then a magnificent new building was erected and opened Oct. 1, 1890, with its gardens and grounds about it constitutes one of the show places of Berlin. Emperor William himself gave $75,000 toward the new home of the Lette verein.

MARY EIGHTH DAY.

WHAT IS WORN.

Popular Short Sack Coats—Stoles of Feathers.

The short sack coat is extremely popular. It is shown with a very deep collar partially overlaid and with the fronts faced to correspond. Much strapping of the material and slight touches of velvet are salient features of this little coat.

It is quite fashionable to have the coat or blouse without a neckband or high collar and to wear a chemisette, but with the flat stole this is totally inadequate in this weather. Indeed, worn fashionably on a cold day the stole has quite an unsuitable effect.

SKIRT OF FIGURED NET.

The stoles will be pretty in feathers for spring wear with gowns of light cloth or frieze and are already shown in marabou with large flat muffs to match.

The picture shows a dainty skirt of figured net with many ruffles and a crosswise effect in ribbon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SMART COSTUMES.

Models For the Sunny South—Fancy Boas.

Many toilets are being designed for the sunny south, and light, delicate colorings undoubtedly predominate.

The very light silhelines are extremely smart and are so soft and supple that a trimming of Irish lace is by no means out of place, and both chiffon and embroidered galloons are used on this fabric.

The coat and skirt costume is invaluable for cool days, and many toilets with a bolero or blouse coat are shown in cream or ivory white, the softly colored vest a mass of lace and the revers and facings finished with tiny gold cord or touches of embroidered galloon bordered with narrow strappings of the cloth.

SQUIRREL LINED COAT.

The smart afternoon or evening gown is worn with the large, flat stole and muff of soft feathers, the lighter type of furs or the elaborate arrangement of velvet lace and chiffon decorated with tasseled greiots and loveby flowers, which are so eminently desirable for bright spring weather.

The picture shows a coat of fawn cloth lined with squirrel.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

At the Automobile Show.

Mrs. Chatterton—Well, I have got to go back to horses and a coachman.

Mrs. Perfume—Indeed?

Mrs. Chatterton—Yes. Our chauffeur is so high toned he won't associate with our cook.—New York Times.

DROOPING EFFECTS.

All the Lines In Dress Give That Effect.

The present fashions all tend to give a drooping effect. Blouses, bodices and tea jackets have deep frills from the bust, and corsets are made so low in front that they only affect the waist and do not raise the figure at all.

Deep godet berthas worn quite off the shoulders give a gradual slope, and the sleeves add to this effect, as all the fullness commences at the elbow or just above it.

MINK STOLE.

Another mode which accentuates this downward fashion is the wide, flat stole which is worn off the shoulders and is accompanied by the large granny muff of bygone days.

Hats are even flatter than ever, and their lace brims and draperies are certainly suggestive of the old pictures.

The deep berthas and long frills on the fronts of bodices are very becoming to some figures.

Tight lacing is undoubtedly less in favor than formerly, and the figure is altogether more natural and the waist larger in consequence. The present mode really favors the woman with too ample a figure, if she will only consent to more freedom at the waist. Tight lacing raises the bust and gives an unsightly increase below as well as above the waist.

In the picture is shown a wide scarf of mink banded with embroidered velvet stripes.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DAINTY NOVELTIES.

Fringes of Silk Beads and Sequins. Skirts Fuller.

The most noticeable novelties in evening gowns are the lovely fringes of silk beads and sequins which droop gracefully from the decolletage. Plisse frills and lace flounces are used in the same fashion.

Black evening toilets still glitter with steel or silver cup sequins and black paillettes. It is quite impossible to have too many frills below the knees.

FLANNEL BLOUSE.

Skirts are much fuller, but the width is more actually due to the trimmings, as the sheathlike effect is still preserved around the hips.

The newest veilings are of lisse, with large spots widely scattered, and black spots on a white ground form quite the most chic veils of the moment.

Originally introduced for motoring, this lisse has been found so protecting and becoming that it has quickly been adopted by smart women.

The blouse shown is of flannel trimmed with oriental embroidery.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Fashionable Fringes.

Fringes in chenille and jet are very fashionable, and it is possible to obtain them in all widths and lengths and a great many soft jeweled roses and other flowers made in chiffon intended to be applied in relief, with the accompanying leaves and satin and chiffon forming a galloon. These are sometimes made of white satin and chenille interblended with cloth of pink chiffon, with green satin leaves outlined with gold or silvered and silver, and they are extensively used on evening dresses.

The Next Census.

"In 1910, seven ohe nought census is taken, I expect the population of the United States will reach the one hundredth million mark," said William R. Merriam, director of the census bureau. "This will include our new possessions, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines, but it will demonstrate in no uncertain terms what a world power this country has become. There will be some changes. We can see now where improvements can be made in the methods used. One thing that I will ever have in mind, however, is to cut down the expense of taking the census. The last one cost this country $12,000,000, an enormous sum. I know of several ways whereby this amount can be reduced, and that will be my purpose."—Washington Star.

Giant Trees Near London.

There are still to be found, even within the bounds of Bow Bells, some trees of remarkable enough both for height and girth to deserve a visit. Churchyards are good places to look for large trees besides the funeral yew. The ivy is not, strictly speaking, a tree, but it is hard to apply any other designation to the venerable plant whose foliage mantles Old Chingford church. Its trunk has become veritable timber, and it can scarcely be younger than the fabric to which it clings. If we go further afield numerous instances may be recalled of giant trees—gigantic, that is to say, for these temperate regions. It is to be feared that they are doomed to perish when they grow in the outskirts of large towns.—London Globe.

Toilet of a Lady Ant.

A naturalist has been making observations on the toilets of certain ants, and has discovered each insect goes through most elaborate ablutions. They are not only performed by herself, but by another, who acts for the time as lady's maid. The assistant starts by washing the face of her companion, and then goes over the whole body. The attitude of the ant that is being washed is one of intense satisfaction. She lies down with all her limbs stretched loosely out; she rolls over on her side, even her back, a perfect picture of ease. The pleasure the little insect evinces being thus combed and sponged is really enjoyable to the observer.—London Express.

Taught Habits of Frugality.

One of the peculiarities about the military service in Germany is the paternal interest that the officers are required to take in the frugality of the men. The pay of the soldier is only six cents a day, but the army regulations guard it jealously. Each man is expected to keep his money in a little bag suspended from a string around his neck, and any officer during inspection may demand to have the bags opened and their contents shown. If it be found that a soldier is spending his pay too freely he is reprimanded and punished. He is compelled to make his pay cover his expenses.—Chicago Chronicle.

With Cats.

"Your trouble probably arose from some forgotten contusion, whereby an irritation was caused which communicated itself to the—"

"Oh, cut all that out!" interrupted the other, impatiently.

"But I was going to explain," said the surgeon, "what caused the cancerous growth—"

"Cut that out, too, doctor!" ex claimed the patient.—Chicago Tribune.

White House Visitors Counted.

Every stranger who enters the white house at Washington is counted by an automatic register. The instrument is held in the hand of one of the watchmen stationed at the door and for every visitor he pushes the button. Congressmen, senators, members of the cabinet and newspaper men are not counted.—Washington Star.

Force of Habit.

Perique—Now that Dr. Doser has an automobile he is better prepared to answer hurry calls.

Enfield—It does not seem to have made much difference in him. He still claims that if he had reached you a minute later it would have been too late!"—Puck.

An Even Break.

"Don't you find it expensive running to doctors so often?" asked Wellum to Sickum.

"Oh, no," replied Sickum. "You see, he always puts me on a diet, and I save enough on my meat and grocery bills to more than pay his."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Hard Lines.

Plunkett — How are you getting along, neighbor?

Throckmorton—Poorly. The necessities of life are so high, by George, that we can't afford to live on anything but luxuries these days. — Chicago Tribune.

Retort Courteous.

Parson.—Why don't you join church? Growell—I would but for one thing. "And what is that, say?"

"It is full of hypocrites."

"Oh, no, it isn't. There's always room for one more."—Chicago News.

One Comfort, Anyhow.

"If there are two things I hate they are cats and alarm clocks. "

"Sure; but it's a nice combination if you can manage to hit the one with the other."—Baltimore News.

Facts in the Case.

Stranger—Is your village lighted by electricity.

Native—Yes, when there happens to be a thunderstorm.—Chicago Daily News.

PAID FOR HIS MEAL.

Senator Hoar Is Averse to Deadheading His Way Through This Strenuous World.

An elderly and dignified man appeared one morning recently in the office of a railway passenger agent in the city of Boston, according to the Brooklyn Eagle. The official he wanted to see was out.

"Perhaps," suggested the visitor to the lordly office boy, "you can direct me—"

"No," replied the magnate thus addressed, "I kin do nothin'. No one here gives passes 'cept the boss. You'll have to wait until he comes in."

At this juncture one of the clerks

SENATOR G. F. HOAR.
(One of the Grand Old Men of the Country We All Love.)

recognized the caller as Senator Hoar and offered his services.

"I wish to ascertain," said the senator, "to whom I owe the price of a meal for which I forgot to pay yesterday when I left the dining car at Worcester. Some one had to pay for what I ate and I want to reimburse him."

"Oh, that's all right, Mr. Hoar," returned the clerk. "I guess we need not bother about the matter."

"No, it isn't all right and we will bother about it," replied the senator. And he made the clerk search the office records, with the result that the name of the waiter responsible for the collection of the check was duly ascertained. Then, with as much evident satisfaction as though he had succeeded in getting an important bill through congress, the senator paid the clerk $1.50, to be credited to the waiter.

GRAND ARMY INAUGURAL.

Commander in Chief Thomas J. Stewart Asks the Cooperation of All Comrades.

Thomas J. Stewart, who was elected commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic at the national encampment of that organization recently held at Washington, D. C., has issued a general order announcing that he has formally assumed the duties of his new office. In his inaugural address to members of the veteran organization he says:

"The active aid and cooperation of every comrade in the organization is invoked to the end that the Grand Army of the Republic shall continue to encourage patriotism and love of country, shall keep alive and strong the fraternal ties of comradeship and thus by individual earnestness and activity be a power for good in the land and be helpful to those of our comrades who may need and are entitled to our aid and encouragement."

GEN. THOMAS J. STEWART.
(Commander in Chief Grand Army of the Republic.)

Commander Stewart announces the following appointments to his staff:

Adjutant general—John W. Schall, post No. 11, department of Pennsylvania.

Quartermaster general — Charles Burrows, post No. 28, department of New Jersey.

Assistant adjutant general—J. Henry Holcombe, post No. 51, department of Pennsylvania.

Commander Stewart has designated Independence hall, Philadelphia, as his headquarters.

First Aid to the Injured.

Novel first-aid-to-the-injured boxes are to be scattered in the streets of Paris. Outwardly the apparatus resembles a lamp-post letter box, and it contains a small medicine-chest, a folding stretcher and a telephone for signaling the nearest ambulance station. Access to the box is gained by breaking a glass panel.

Space Cleared by Racers.

A race horse galloping at full speed clears from 20 to 24 feet at every bound.

Record Aurora Borealis.

The record aurora borealis lasted for a week in August, 1859.

Revival of a Fifteenth Century Morality Play

"Everyman," a Curious Relic of the Days of Henry VIII., Now Being Presented in This Country.

BACK in the reign of Henry the Eighth the stage really was made use of to inculcate lessons of morality. Whether or not men's hearts were more wicked than to-day it is hard to say, but surely the wickedness at that time, when the king was able to make way with spouse after spouse, by murder if it seemed to him best, was somewhat more flagrant. And those grim morality plays were written and played to people that were supposed to need sharp reminders of life's short day, rather than consolation and comfort.

As we enter the theatre, we see an interior very unlike the usual playhouse interior. The curtain is raised from the beginning, the scene left unchanged. There is no orchestra, but the solemn music of viols and organ greets our ears. Before us on the stage is shown the chancel of a cathedral, and for the most part the people in the audience comport themselves as though indeed they were in holy church. The eyes light first on lilies, gleaming pure and white, and then beyond the flowers, on a raised platform at the center of the back of the stage, an open grave is visible.

As the music dies away, a tall form in a black cassock mounts a flight of steps which extend out into the auditorium; Messenger, who is to tell us the nature of the play that is now to be presented, and who bids us take careful heed of the lesson its purpose is to convey. Most impressively he speaks:

MISS EDITH WYNNE MATTHISON IN "EVERYMAN"

I pray you all give your audyence,
And hear this matter with reverence,
By a fygure a morall play:
The somonynge of Everyman, called it is,
That of our lyves and endynge shewes,

How transytory we be all daye:

As he ceases, the scene before us is suddenly lightened, and we hear a Voice speaking, inexpressibly sad and solemn. It is the voice of God, calling His Mighty Messenger Death to appear and summon Everyman to give his account, make his reckoning.

Into view glides, or shuffles, a grisly figure, clad in grisly gray, the design of a skull painted upon his face. In even, relentless tones It, Dethe, promises to seek out Everyman.

In contrast to the dreadful form, now appears, heralded by the gay refrain of a drinking song, a beautiful, blooming youth, decked out in all the pride and pomp of life, a musical instrument in his hand, from which he lightly, carelessly, gayly, brings forth melody. Death speaks to him, and this blooming youngster laughs and heeds not, but would pass on. Again death calls, and the youth listens now. He is told that this day God will ask of him his reckoning. A chill creeps over Everyman: he begs for a little more time, a little period in which to set right his Book of Reckoning; but Death affirms there is to be no delay, advises that with all haste he make ready. Death then withdraws, advising Everyman to seek out his friends and see what help they will now prove to him.

The stricken Everyman sinks upon the steps of a raised platform (that on which yawns the open grave), and mourns his sudden fate. Presently, however, hope springs up, and he beholds him of calling for help. To whom shall he turn? Why, to Good Fellowship, of course, and so he asks for him. In comes sprightly, bright-garbed Good Fellowship, who swears he is the most faithful friend Everyman has, and vows he will follow wherever the former may lead. Poor Everyman tells of the long Journey he is to take from which there is no return, and begs that his friend accompany him on his lonely way. But not so, Good Fellowship has no appetite for such a pilgrimage, and, with light, laughing words on his lips, forsakes the one he has just sworn to follow even to the grave itself.

Hapless Everyman next calls for Kindred and Cousin, and in come, with all speed in response to the command of the rich and prosperous relative, a young woman and an old man. They, too, make protestations, but when they learn of Everyman's sore need they run with much haste from such trouble as his. Then Everyman thinks of Riches, the one he has loved best of all all his life; surely he will stay by him. But Riches is too busy counting his gold, too absorbed in his glittering treasures, to give heed to Everyman's agonized pleading. And he not only refuses to give him aid, but he mocks him, laughs at him, and tells how the love of Riches only belves a man on his way to Hell. He bids Everyman get started, assures the wretched, desolate creature that Riches is very busy, now will have some new one to serve.

There seems only one friend left, and to her he turns, to his Good Deedes. A curtain at the side of the stage is withdrawn, disclosing a wan-faced woman, lying on a bed, too weak to rise. In a very faint voice she tells Everyman one would aid him if she could, but that she can hardly stand, so bound is she by Everyman's sins. He cries his sad need of her, and she promises to come to his help and to bring with her her sister Knowledge, both of whom will support and strengthen him on his way.

The sisters enter; Knowledge is strong, and shining with precious jewels, Good Deedes symbolic of spiritual victory. They counsel Everyman, bid him seek out Confession and obey what the holy man commands. A priest now appears, and before him Everyman kneels and confesses his many sins, his few good deeds. The priest shows him a scourge, and tells him when with that he has made penance his troubles shall have lessened. The youth joyfully accepts Confession's teaching, and vows he will gladly strike out the lusts of the flesh with the rod before him.

Everyman's flesh is tender, his life has not had in it much of pain, and he shrinks as Knowledge comes to direct him of his soft apparel and make him ready for the cruel scourage. But Good Deedes and knowledge both sustain him, and he takes the scourage in his naked hand.

They wrap him in the cloak of Sorrow, and he retires from view to partake of the last sacrament. He returns, robed in a white garment, ready for the grave. For the continuance of his journey, he desires other of his five companions to stand by his side come Beauty, Strength, Discretion, and the Five Wits. They promise to be with him to the last, and, kissing each one, he thanks them for their aid. But at the very last, none is able to abide by him save only Knowledge and Good Deedes, who support his failing strength until he sinks from our sight into the grave.

It would, indeed, be a most depressing spectacle if this were the end of it all, but it is not. Though Everyman is saddened by the desertion of so many of his friends of earth, though his body is so weak it cannot can finish its pilgrimage, yet his soul triumphs at the last, and he sinks from sight, his face lightened with a great peace and glory.

THE ASTROLOGER.

NEW TIPPLE FOR WOMEN.

Cordial Flavored with Roses That Tastes Like the Odor of the Flowers.

Many women at the east have taken of late to a new tipple imported from Holland and called oil of roses, reports an eastern exchange. It is a cordial in name only. It is none of the sticky, syrupy components of the other insipid cordials, but has a peculiar, almost biting taste that appeals to the feminine palate. This cordial is flavored with bride roses and is the invention of a firm in Amsterdam that was organized in 1575. A bushel of selected roses are crushed into a press and the essence is extracted by a complicated system. This distillation is enlivened with alcohol and other spirits, but naturally the flavor of roses is responsible for the increasing popularity of the drink. The cordial tastes like a rose smells. The color is pale pink and as the distillation of "huile de roses" requires an enormous amount of roses and great care, this is the most expensive cordial on the market. A mere tablespoonful is 25 cents. The firm in Amsterdam exports this liquor in genuine Delft jugs that the purchaser retains, and the average woman derives much pleasure taking home the tiny jug in which she has quaffed the delightful cordial.

It may be said of this new tipple, however, that it induces inebriety just as quickly as a whisky toddy, cocktail or "sour," and the resultant headaches are just as distressing.

HARD ON THE CONDUCTORS.

When the Times Are Good, Passengers on Street Cars Hand Them Lots of Bills.

The only persons in town who have a grudge against prosperity are street car conductors. When times are prosperous conditions is explained in this way: Good times bring bills, bills mean the handling of much change, and change means woes innumerable on the part of the harassed conductors, says the New York Times.

"I can't remember the time when we fellows have been called upon to change as many bills as we have handled in the past six months," said one of these public servants one day last week. "Of course there are a few hard-and-fast rules to go by in any business, but in general you can tell a man's financial condition by the size of the coin with which he habitually pays car fare. Reckoning from that standpoint, the times that are hard on the general public are clover for the conductor. All he has to do then is to go around and gather in the five-cent pieces, and as a consequence our mental condition is such that we appear exempt from care. But let a wave of prosperity strike the country and the passengers take a Sendish delight in pestering us with one and two-dollar bills. Two-dollar bills are the favorite straw currency these days, and to meet all the demands made upon my pocket I have to start out from the barns with about one-third my own weight in small change.

WHEN PRETTY FEET SUFFER.

Those Who Have to Stand All Day Fare Worse Than Those Who Can Walk About.

It is a pity that certain employments deprive many women of their innumerable right to pretty feet. New York doctors protest that they do not find the situation among shop girls quite so deplorable here as it is reported by a St. Louis specialist, but they admit that standing for hours at a stret h certainly does have a tendency to produce flatfootedness, states an exchange of that city.

"By this I do not mean that you will not find hundreds of pairs of pretty feet among shop employes," explained one doctor. "Some of the prettiest feet in New York are this moment hidden by the charms of the counters of our big stores, but some of the ugliest ones are concealing their deformities in the same place.

"Most people who are on their feet all day are cursed to have trouble over the shape and size of their extremities. Those who stand fare worse than those who walk about, for the movement and circulation tend to prevent the flatness which so many clerks complain of. For that reason, the waitress, for example, will find that her feet retain more of their natural virtues and acquire fewer vices than the shop girl's."

Stores That Never See Daylight.

Down in many of the great coal mines of Pennsylvania are telephones, and private bathrooms, blacksmiths' shops and various other institutions that the surface worker would never think of as connected with caverns 500 or more feet away from daylight. In most of the coal mining country work in the mines was given in five days last week. One of the views contained a miner holding the receiver of a 'phone in a subterranean pay station. An attempt is made in the large mines to prevent everything coming out to prevent employes from going to the surface during working hours.

Home of the Chinchilla.

The chinchilla, the little animal the size of a squirrel, is met with only in the Andes of Bolivia, Ecuador, Peru and northern Chili, and is never found south of latitude 30 degrees south. The Indians are eager trappers and hunters of it for its fine fur. The skins are well seasoned with salt and made up into small packages for dispatch to the towns, whence they are shipped abroad.

Lives Lost by Earthquakes.

More than a million lives have been lost by earthquakes in the last century.

MAN WHO DARED NOT SMILE.

United States Citizen Was Forced to Frown at Funny Stories to Save His Life.

A naturalized citizen of the United States, D. Asadourian, an Armenian, who is in business in Cleveland, was locked up in Constantinople, Turkey, charged with conspiracy. Through the offices of some Turkish business men he was released under $5,000 bonds, effective during his stay of 30 days. He has just returned to his home here, reports a Cleveland exchange. Concerning his experience he said:

"I went there on business. As soon as my presence became known the officers came for me. They questioned me, asking if I spoke the Armenian language. This I denied, because had I admitted it I am sure that I would never have seen Europe again. The Turks fear American Armenians. They think that in America the people have an advanced knowledge of high explosives, which might be used to blow up the sultan. They suspected me of being in sympathy with the Armenians. After putting me in prison they had some men come into my cell and tell funny stories in the Armenian language. They wanted me to betray my knowledge of it by laughing. But I didn't laugh, for had I smiled I would not be here now to tell the tale. The stories were very funny, but I managed to keep a sober countenance in spite of my wish to laugh."

IN MODERN LONDON.

Many Quaint Customs Are Still in Vogue, But This One Is the Most Curious.

A host of quaint old customs, says the London Daily Mail, linger round and about the famous "King's Guard" at St. James palace, but perhaps none is more curious than that which decrees that his majesty's health shall not be drunk at dinner, except when the Scots guards are on guard. The omission, when one reflects that this one toast, even when no others are drunk, is invariably honored every evening at every regimental mess and guardroom dinner throughout the British empire, is sufficiently striking.

The explanation lies in the fact that the regiment from across the border was at one time suspected of a leaning toward Jacobitism, and so the officers were specially ordered to drink his majesty's health after dinner, those of other corps being forbidden to do so in order to make the enforced loyalty of the Scotsmen stand out in clearer relief.

It was also ordered that they should not be allowed to use finger glasses after dinner, lest they should drink to "the king over the water," and finger glasses are, in consequence, tabooed there on these occasions to this day.

SALARIES OF ACTORS.

Are Absurdly Exaggerated in the Public Mind and Actors Keep Up the Deceit.

Salaries of actors vary from almost nothing to $500 a week, with a few exceptions that go above that, writes F. E. Fyles, in Leslie's Monthly. I doubt though that any supporting actor outside of Weber & Fields' company gets more than $500. Those that go above are stars, many of whom receive a fixed salary and a percentage on the profits. A female star who crowded a New York theater the season before last for six months received only $150, while her leading man received $250. But a star is a risky venture for her manager, who lifted her from a minor position to stardom, and a failure would have cost him much. Many stars are their own managers, and engage a business man to direct their affairs for a salary, as they would a supporting actor. The gains of actors are absurdly exaggerated in the public mind, and even among themselves they are content to keep up the deceit. A reason that so many English actors are imported is that players of the first class in London receive a third less than equally talented and well-known Americans.

Borgia's Later Years.

In the National library of Florence an Italian historian has found a document, which contains many interesting and hitherto unknown facts in regard to the latter years of the famous Lucrezia Borgia. According to it she took the veil and joined the congregation of the Brothers and Sisters of Penitence, which is better known under the name of "Tertiaries of the Order of St. Francis." She received the veil from the vicar general, Ludovico de la Torre, and Giovanni Gonzaga was her confessor during the last ten years of her life she wore a penitential shirt. She died in 1518 and was buried in the robes of her order.

Anger Cures Deafness.

Here is a novel cure for deafness. According to several Dutch papers a deaf woman, who resides at Kromenie, had a quarrel a few weeks ago with some of her neighbors and as a result got into a violent passion. As she is 70 years old, her friends feared that this sudden and terrible outburst of anger would injure her, but instead it completely cured here of her deafness.

In Memory of Victoria.

It has been decided to found an eye hospital and an asylum for the blind as Ceylon's memorial to the late Queen Victoria.

Russia Timber for South Africa.

Timber is being exported from Russia to South Africa to be used in rebuilding farms destroyed during the war.

CALIFORNIA'S NEW PRUNES.

Some of Their Characteristics as Described by the Late Senator McMillan.

The recent seismic disturbances in California gave the late Senator McMillan an opportunity to tell a story about the boasting proclivities of the people of that state when referring to their fruit production, says a western exchange. The senator was fond of a good story or joke and told one with a great deal of humor and skill. While a party of friends were discussing the earthquake shocks in the golden gate state, the senator said: "They are very enterprising out there. I've not the slightest doubt, for instance, but that they'll take a very practical advantage of these seismic disturbances. They'll probably put an earthquake prune on the market, as prunes are shown in every grocery window just now. It will appear, I suppose, as soon as ever they can print the labels. They will describe it, at any rate you may be sure, in the most modern style. They'll say that the skin has been made tender by the sudden jar, that the juices have been wonderfully blended by the vigorous shake and that the stones have been loosened by the sudden shock. When those prunes are stewed they ought to rumble like the ominous sound of an approaching earthquake, and when you put one into your mouth you ought to experience a quick, little electric thrill. As for their effect upon the barometer, if that is brought near any of them, it will certainly fall to the notch opposite which are inscribed those dreadful words, 'Sudden disaster.'"

SUPPOSED RELIC OF ALLOUEZ.

Bronze Sun-Dial and Compass Found on Green Bay Shore of Historic Value.

In January of this year two hunters found upon the site of an old indian village on the southeast shore of Green Bay, Wis., just above Point Sable, a combined sun dial and compass of bronze, evidently of great age.

Mr. Reuben G. Thwaites, in his recent volume on Father Marquette, thinks that this instrument may have belonged to Father Claude Jean Allouez or some of his assistants at the Green Bay mission. This was the second Jesuit mission. The first was at Lapointe on Lake Superior, where Marquette went in the autumn of 1669 to succeed Allouez.

